"No person shall in any manner whatever scare, impede, or obstruct the free passage of salmon or trout during the weekly close season"—Penalty, forfeiture of fish and net or instrument, and fine not less than £2, and not exceeding £10. "But this section shall not apply to any person who takes fish legally by the single rod and line during the weekly close season" (Salmon Fishery (Ir.) Act, 1863. s. 25).

Using a boat for capture of salmon or trout during weekly or annual close season (see Salmon Fishery (Ir.) Act, 1863, s. 18, noted, p. 449, ante).

Fixing nets to stakes, etc., during annual or weekly close season: see Fisheries (Ir.) Act, 1842, s. 66; Salmon Fisheries (Ir.) Act, 1863, s. 20, noted, p. 449, ante.

Export of unclean or unseasonable salmon.

"No unclean or unseasonable salmon, and no salmon caught during the time at which the sale of salmon is prohibited in the district where it is caught, shall be exported or entered for exportation from any part of the United Kingdom to parts beyond seas"—Penalty, forfeiture of fish, and fine not exceeding £5 in respect of each salmon (Salmon Acts Amendment Act, 1863, s. 3). The burthen of proving that any salmon entered for exportation . . . between the 3rd September and 30th April is not so entered in contravention of the Act, shall lie on the person entering the same for exportation (ib.; Salmon Acts Amendment Act, 1870, s. 3). No part of the United Kingdom shall be deemed beyond seas (Salmon Acts Amendment Act, 1863, s. 2).

Nets: illegal times for setting.

"No person shall, at any time between sunrise and sunset,<sup>1</sup> set either in the sea or within the tideway in any estuary any sea-net for the catching of herrings, or any trammel-nets, or leave any drag or other net in the water between sunrise and sunset, except stake or fixed nets for the catching of salmon, as is hereinafter provided,<sup>2</sup> and save also seines or drift-nets for pilchards or fish other than herrings" and save "seine nets for the taking of herrings"—Penalty, forfeiture of net, and fine not exceeding £10 (Fisheries (Ir.) Act, 1842; s. 7; Fisheries (Ir.) Act, 1844, s. 7).

"Every person offending by not . . . hauling up and removing such net<sup>3</sup> before sunrise," unless prevented by stress of weather—Penalty, forfeiture of net, and fine not exceeding £5 (Fisheries (Ir.) Act, 1842, s. 8).

"It shall not be lawful for any person to use any net, except a landing-net, for the capture of salmon or trout in the fresh-water portion of any river, . . . between 8 p.m. and 6 a.m., except so far as the same may have heretofore been used within the limits of a several fishery next above the tidal flow, and held under grant or charter, or by immemorial usage"—Penalty, not exceeding £10, and forfeiture of boats and gear used (Salmon Fishery (Ir.) Act, 1863, s. 24).

Offences as to boats.

Using boat without permission.

"If any person or persons shall remove, take, use, or employ any cot, barge, boat, or vessel without permission of the owner thereof, such person so offending shall for every such offence forfeit and be liable to pay a sum not exceeding the sum of £2" (Fisheries (Ir.) Act, 1842, s. 72).

The boat must be taken out of the possession of the owner (R. (Moriarty) v. Kerry JJ., (1883) 12 L.R.I. 384).

Name on boat.

"Every boat, cot, or curragh shall have upon some conspicuous place thereof the name of the owner, or of one of the owners where more than one, and of his place of residence, painted in clear legible characters or letters of not less than two inches in length"—Penalty for default, fine not exceeding £2 (Fisheries (Ir.) Act, 1842, s. 81). Offences as to boats.

<sup>1</sup> That is, of course, local sunrise and sunset; see Gordon v. Cann, (1899), 15 T.L.R. 165.

<sup>2</sup> That is, fixed nets for which certificates have been obtained; see p. 442.

<sup>3</sup> That is to say, the nets prohibited by s. 7.

"Any person who shall find or pick up at sea any fishing-boat, rigging, gear, or other appurtenance of fishing-boats, or any net, buoy, float, or fishing implement whatsoever, shall as soon as possible deliver up same to the officer in command of the nearest coast-guard station, and such officer shall be considered as the agent of the receiver of wreck, and shall place the same in the custody of the receiver; and any person wilfully acting in contravention of this section shall, upon conviction thereof before any justice or justices sitting in petty sessions, be liable to a penalty not exceeding £10" (Fisheries (Ir.) Act, 1869, s. 11). Recovery of fishing boats and gear picked up at sea.

No person shall throw out or unlade from any vessel the ballast thereof within any estuary, harbour, or place, unless permitted by the Department of Agriculture or the local regulations of such harbour or place—Penalty, not exceeding £10 (Fisheries (Ir.) Act, 1842, s. 14). Discharging ballast in harbour, &c.

"If any person shall resist or obstruct any persons lawfully engaged in fishing, or in proceeding to fish, or in returning from fishing as aforesaid, or shall wilfully and maliciously place any net or other engines, with the intent and design to prevent fish from entering the nets of other persons set or placed in a legal manner according to the provisions of this Act"—Penalty, not exceeding £5 and forfeiture of net or engine (Fisheries (Ir.) Act, 1842, s. 28). Obstructing, &c., fishermen and bailiffs.

"If any person shall resist or forcibly obstruct any fisherman or person employed by him in entering upon and using in the manner and for the purposes aforesaid the said beaches, strands, wastes, and other lands, save gardens and lands with a growing crop as aforesaid"—Penalty, fine not exceeding £5 (Fisheries (Ir.) Act, 1842, s. 5).

The preceding sections (3 and 4) authorize fishermen to enter on beaches, strands, or wastes on or adjoining the sea-shore for the purposes of sea-fishing, drawing up and spreading their nets, and landing their fish, and to enter on lands near a fishing place (except any enclosed garden or any tillage land with a growing crop thereon) for the purpose of watching sea fish and directing sea-fishermen.

The above does not apply to salmon, as these are not sea fish (R. (Gallagher) v. Mayo JJ., (1887) 20 L.R.I. 69).

Persons to the number of three or more together impeding or obstructing by violence, intimidation, or menace, persons lawfully fishing may be apprehended by water bailiffs, etc.—Penalty, not exceeding £20 (Fisheries (Ir.) Act, 1842, s. 88).

"If any person shall assault, resist, or obstruct any of the" inspectors of fisheries<sup>1</sup> "or any person acting by their authority, or any officer of his Majesty's navy or coast-guard, or any person acting under him or them, or any water bailiff, in the execution of any of the powers conferred on him or them by this Act, or by any rule, order, or bye-law to be made in pursuance of this Act as aforesaid"—Penalty, not exceeding £10 (Fisheries (Ir.) Act, 1842, s. 90).

"It shall be lawful for all officers and men of the constabulary and for all persons empowered to enforce the provisions of the Salmon Fishery Acts, to open and examine all baskets and boxes and other packages containing fish, whether at railway stations, docks, or quays, markets, stores, fishing places, or any other places whatsoever, for the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this Act and of the said Acts . . ." (Pollen Fisheries (Ir.) Act, 1891, s. 5). Search by constabulary, water-bailiffs,

It is suggested in Conner and Farran's "Fishery Laws" (at p. 305), on the authority of Marks v. Frogley, (1896) 1 Q.B. 888, that this section <sup>1</sup> See foot-note, p. 441.

Search by constabulary.
water-bailiffs.

gives a right to open a package "reasonably believed to contain fish," but in fact not containing fish. In England, where the right is given by the Salmon Fishery Act, 1873 (36 & 37 Vict. c. 71), s. 36, to search and examine all nets, baskets, bags, and other instruments used in fishing, it was held that the pocket of a man's coat, which the justices found was frequently used for the purpose of carrying fish, was a bag or other instrument within the section (Taylor v. Pritchard, (1910) 2 K.B. 320).

"All officers and men of the constabulary and any inspectors, water bailiffs, or other officers appointed under the said Acts, acting within the limits of his district, may do all or any of the following things in addition to all other powers or duties conferred on him by the said Acts or this Act (that is to say):—(1) stop and search on any river, lake, or estuary, or part of the sea coast, any boat, barge, corach, or other vessel used in fishing, or which there is reasonable cause to suspect contains any pollen, and seize any fish, instrument of fishing or other articles forfeited in pursuance of the said Acts or this Act; and any person refusing to allow any such boat, barge, corach, or other vessel to be stopped and searched, or resisting or obstructing any such officer or man of the constabulary, or any such inspector, water bailiff, or other officer in any such search, shall, for every such offence, be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 and not less than £2; (2) search and examine all nets, baskets, bags, hampers, boxes, or other instruments used in fishing or in carrying fish by persons whom there is reasonable cause to suspect of having possession of fish illegally caught; seize all fish and other articles forfeited in pursuance of the said Acts or this Act. Any person refusing to allow any nets, baskets, bags, hampers, boxes, or other instruments used in fishing or in carrying fish to be searched or examined, or resisting or obstructing any such officer or man of the constabulary or any such inspector, water bailiff, or other officer in any such search or examination, shall for every such offence be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 and not less than £2" (Pollen Fisheries (Ir.) Act, 1891, s. 6; see Taylor v. Pritchard, supra).

Forfeiture of illegal nets,
&c.

"In case any officer or person hereby authorized and empowered to seize illegal nets or engines, or nets or engines of a legal form and size when used contrary to the provisions of this Act, or any of the bye-laws to be made in pursuance hereof, shall seize the same, it shall and may be lawful for him to retain the same in his custody until the next sitting of the petty sessions court, or any adjournment thereof, in the district where the same shall be seized, and at such petty sessions court it shall and may be lawful for the justices to order and direct the same to be forfeited, and in case the same shall be such as cannot be legally used under the provisions of this Act, to order the same to be destroyed, and in case the same shall be such as may be legally used according to the provisions of this Act, that then and in such case it shall be lawful for such justices to order the same to be sold, and the money arising therefrom to be applied in the same manner as the penalties thereby imposed for violation of the provisions of this Act are hereby directed to be applied" (Fisheries (Ir.) Act, 1842, s. 103).

The words "next sitting" mean the next sitting at which it is reasonably practicable to make the application (R. (Mackey) v. Limerick J.J., (1898) 2 I.R. 135).

Trawling.

"Every person who shall use any trawl or trammel net at any season or any place, either in the sea or within the tide-way in any estuary, when or where the use of the same shall have been prohibited by any bye-law"—Penalty, not exceeding £20 and forfeiture of net (Fisheries (Ir.) Act, 1842, s. 9).

"Trawl" includes an otter trawl (Colbeck v. Ashford, (1898) 62 J.P. 214).

Section 91 of this statute empowers the Commissioners (now the Department of Agriculture) to make bye-laws for the protection and improvement of fisheries, and, inter alia, regulating the manner at and in which any trammel, trawl, or other net or nets, engine or engines shall be used. Upon petition by two-thirds of the registered owners of fishing boats in a district, the Department are empowered by the Fishery (Ireland) Act, 1888 (51 & 52 Vict. c. 30, s. 1), to altogether prohibit trawling within the limits mentioned in such petition, or any limits of less extent.

“The Inspectors of Irish Fisheries” (now the Department of Agriculture, 62 & 63 Vict. c. 50, s. 2 (11)) “may from time to time make, alter, and revoke bye-laws in the manner and under the regulations in the Fisheries Act, 1842, mentioned, prohibiting the use in or from any steamer or steamship, or vessel propelled by steam,<sup>1</sup> of the method of fishing known as beam trawling or other trawling within three miles of low-water mark of the coast of Ireland, or within the waters of any other defined areas specified in any such bye-laws, and subject to any conditions or regulations contained in such bye-laws” (Steam Trawling (Ir.) Act, 1889, s. 3(1)).

A bye-law made under this section prohibiting steam trawling within an area extending more than three miles seaward of low-water mark is not ultra vires, at least as regards British subjects (R. (Coleman) v. Pettit, (1902) 2 I.R. 1).

“(1) Every person who uses any trawl net or any method of fishing in contravention of any bye-law of the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction for Ireland (in this Act referred to as the Department) made in pursuance of section 3 of the Steam Trawling (Ireland) Act, 1889 (in this Act referred to as the principal Act), shall be liable on conviction under the Summary Jurisdiction Acts to a fine not exceeding one hundred pounds, and every net used or attempted to be used in contravention of any such bye-law, and every rope, warp, tackle, beam, pole, iron, and other thing fastened to, or used with, any such net, shall be forfeited, and may be seized by any duly authorized officer of the Department, or any officer appointed by the Department for the purposes of the Fisheries (Ireland) Act, 1842, and shall, when seized, be dealt with, subject to the provisions of this Act, in the manner provided by section one hundred and three of the said Act of 1842, and for the purpose of such seizure any such officer may go on board any vessel propelled by steam<sup>1</sup> employed in fishing. (2) If the person to whom a summons under the principal Act is directed cannot be conveniently met with, it shall be deemed sufficient service of such summons upon him if a copy thereof is left for him at the usual place of abode or place of business, the same being within the United Kingdom, of the owner of the vessel on which such person was when the offence was committed. (3) The court before whom a person is convicted under this Act may by the order provide that, if the fine imposed upon him is not paid within eight days after the conviction, one-half thereof shall be paid by, and may be recovered under the Summary Jurisdiction Acts from such owner as aforesaid; and that in default of payment by the person convicted of the remainder of the said fine within a further period of eight days, the same may be recovered from him under the said Acts: provided that any sum paid by the owner under this enactment may be recovered by him as a debt from the person convicted. (4) Every sum of money levied as a fine or arising from the sale of anything ordered to be sold in pursuance of the principal Act as amended by this Act, shall be paid to the Department, and shall be applied for the purposes of sea fisheries as defined by the Agriculture and

<sup>1</sup> This, it will be noted, does not, it would seem, include a vessel propelled by internal combustion engines; see, however, Herbert v. Leigh Mills Co., (1889) 53 J.P. 679.

Technical Instruction (Ireland) Act, 1899. (5) Section eighty-nine (which relates to the powers of officers), and section ninety-six (which relates to the jurisdiction of magistrates of maritime counties) of the Fisheries (Ireland) Act, 1842, shall apply with the necessary modifications for the purposes of the principal Act as amended by this Act" (Fisheries (Ir.) Act, 1901, s. 1).

Landing and selling fish taken by illegal trawling
prohibited

"It shall not be lawful to land or sell in the United Kingdom any fish caught by the methods of fishing known as beam trawling, and other trawling within prohibited areas as defined in this Act; and fish so caught shall be added to the table of prohibitions and restrictions contained in s. 42 of the Customs Consolidation Act, 1876, and upon being brought to land in the United Kingdom shall be dealt with as goods imported and brought into the United Kingdom contrary to the said prohibitions and restrictions" (Trawling in Prohibited Areas Act, 1909, s. 1).

"If a trawling or other vessel shall have been employed (a) in fishing by the methods and within the areas aforesaid; or (b) in taking on board fish caught by the methods and within the areas aforesaid, within two months prior to the landing or selling, or attempt to land or sell, fish therefrom in the United Kingdom, any fish on board such trawling or other vessel shall for the purposes of this Act be presumed to have been caught by the methods and within the areas aforesaid" (s. 2).

"Prohibited area" means any waters within which trawling from any vessel propelled by steam is prohibited by any bye-law made under s. 3 of the Steam Trawling (Ir.) Act, 1889, "but does not include any such waters within three miles from low-water mark of any part of the coast of Ireland, unless such water form part of an area which, as defined for the purposes of the bye-law, extends more than three miles from low-water mark as aforesaid" (s. 5 (2)).

"References to the methods of fishing known as beam trawling and other trawling shall, as regards any prohibited area of the sea adjoining Ireland, be construed as references to any method of fishing prohibited by the bye-law relating to the area; provided that nothing in this Act shall operate to prohibit the landing or selling of fish caught in any such area by the use of any such method in or from any vessel other than a vessel propelled by steam" (s. 6 (d)).

Oysters.

Close season.

"It shall not be lawful for any person between the first day of May and the first day of September in any year to dredge for, take, catch, or destroy any oyster or oyster brood, save and except where the season for taking the same shall be changed by the commissioners<sup>1</sup> according to the provisions hereinafter contained" (Fisheries (Ir.) Act, 1842, s. 32).

"If any person shall dredge for, take, catch, or destroy, have in his possession, sell, or buy, any oyster or oyster brood within the period prohibited by this Act, or within the period to be prohibited by the said commissioners<sup>2</sup> in pursuance of this Act, such person shall forfeit such oysters, and forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding five pounds for each offence; provided that nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent the proprietor of any oyster bed, or any person deriving under him, from removing or laying down oyster brood during such close season" (Fisheries (Ir.) Act, 1842, s. 36).

The Act does not apply to the proprietor of an oyster bed removing oysters from a natural public bed to an artificial bed during period allowed by inspectors (8 & 9 Vict. c. 108, s. 19), or to dredging for, taking, or having in possession foreign oysters during period allowed by inspectors (47 & 48 Vict. c. 48, s. 14), or to grantees of an order under 47 & 48 Vict. c. 48, s. 11, if they do not sell oysters during the close season.

<sup>1</sup> That is to say, they "shall be forfeited, and may be destroyed or otherwise disposed of as the Commissioners of Customs may direct" (Customs Consolidation Act, 1876, s. 42). They may be seized by any member of the R.I.C. as well as by a customs officer (Illicit Distillation (Ir.) Act, 1857, ss. 5, 8) (Trawling in Prohibited Areas Act, 1909).

<sup>2</sup> Now the inspectors of fisheries; see p. 441, n.

"It shall not be lawful for any person other than the licensees or their assigns, their agents, servants, and workmen, within the limits of any oyster bed or laying, knowingly to do any of the following things:—to use any implement of fishing, except a line and hook or a net adapted solely for catching floating fish, and so used as not to disturb or injure in any manner any oyster bed or oysters, or the oyster fishery; to dredge for any ballast or other substance except under a lawful authority for improving the navigation; to deposit any ballast, rubbish, or other substance; to place any implement, apparatus, or thing in the opinion of the commissioners' prejudicial, or likely to be prejudicial, to any oyster bed or oysters, or brood or spawn thereof, or to the oyster fishery, except for a lawful purpose of navigation or anchorage<sup>2</sup>; to disturb or injure in any manner, except as last aforesaid, any oyster bed or oysters, or brood or spawn thereof, or the oyster fishery; to interfere with or take away any of the oysters from such bed without the consent of the licensees or owners or occupiers of such bed"—Penalty, first offence not exceeding £2, second offence £5, subsequent offence £10, with full compensation to licensees for all damage (Oyster Beds (Ir.) Act, 1866, s. 2).

Under 8 & 9 Vict. c. 108, s. 20, the Inspectors of Fisheries have power to make bye-laws for the protection of oyster fisheries. A list of these will be found in Conner and Farran's "Fishery Laws," 2nd ed., Appx. B.

Breach of regulations made under 47 & 48 Vict. c. 48 (by which oyster fisheries may be established) or trespass on beds licensed under that Act—Penalty, fine not exceeding £20 and forfeiture of oysters (Oyster Cultivation (Ir.) Act, 1884, s. 13).

As to larceny of oysters or oyster brood, see CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES, "LARCENY."

The Oyster Cultivation Act, 1884, applies "to mussels, and to mussel beds and fisheries in the same way as it applies to oysters, and to oyster beds and fisheries" (Oyster Cultivation (Ir.) Act, 1884, s. 19).

"The Inspectors of Irish Fisheries are hereby empowered from time to time to make, alter and revoke bye-laws, rules, orders or regulations, in the manner and under the regulations set forth in the Fisheries (Ir.) Act, 1842, dealing with the mussel, periwinkle, and cockle fisheries of Ireland, and all the provisions relating to bye-laws, rules, orders and regulations, . . . and to the enforcing of the same, contained in the said Act shall apply to bye-laws, rules, orders, and regulations made, altered, or revoked under the provisions of this Act" (Mussels, Periwinkles, and Cockles (Ir.) Act, 1898, s. 2).

AS TO CRABS AND LOBSTERS, see under that head, p. 414.

Crabs and Lobsters.

<sup>1</sup> Now the inspectors of fisheries; see p. 441, n.

<sup>2</sup> As to the meaning of this exception, see the following cases:—Mayor of Colchester v. Brooke, (1845) 7 Q.B. 339; The Swift, (1901) P. 168; Petrie v. S. S. Rostrevor, (1898) 2 I.R. 556.

Injuring
oyster-beds.

Larceny of oysters.

Mussels, periwinkles,
and cockles.

FOOD AND DRUGS.

	PAGE		PAGE
Statutes, . . . . .	456	Procedure under Acts of 1875 and 1879:
Mixing injurious ingredients with		Application of Petty Sessions Act, . . . . .	468
food or drugs, . . . . .	457	Analyst's certificate necessary, . . . . .	468
Sale of food or drug not of nature, sub-		Penalties, . . . . .	469
stance, and quality demanded, . . . . .	457-460	Time limit, . . . . .	469
Offences generally, p. 457; stan-		Contents of summons, . . . . .	469
dard for spirits, p. 458; pur-		Evidence, . . . . .	469
chase for analysis, p. 458; de-		Analysis by direction of justices, . . . . .	470
ficiency in any respect, p. 458 :		Application of penalties, . . . . .	470 nature, quality, and substance		Appeal to quarter sessions, . . . . .	470 demand, p. 458; "prejudice		Margarine and margarine cheese—of the purchaser," p. 459;		Penalties for offences, . . . . .	471 guilty knowledge not essential,		Margarine to be sold as such, . . . . .	471
p. 459; master's responsibility		Dealing, &c., in margarine and for acts of servant, p. 459;		margarine cheese contrary to defect not arising from adul-		Acts, . . . . .	471
teration, p. 460; adulteration		Packages to be marked, . . . . .	471 unavoidable, p. 460, . . . . .		Misdescribing margarine in Sale of compound article of food or		wrapper, . . . . .	472
drug not of ingredients demanded, . . . . .	460	Branding margarine cheese, . . . . .	472
Abstraction of part of article of food, . . . . .	461	Consignment of margarine, . . . . .	472
Analysis—		Registration of manufactory, . . . . .	472
(1) at instance of private purchaser, . . . . .	462	Restriction on amount of butter
(2) at instance of public officer, . . . . .	462	fat in margarine, . . . . .	473
Purchasing samples for analysis, . . . . .	462	Taking samples, . . . . .	473
Refusal to sell to officer, . . . . .	463	Procedure under Marg. Act, 1887, . . . . .	473
Defence of purchase with warranty, . . . . .		Acts done by servant, . . . . .	473
What is a warranty, . . . . .	464	Presumption against vendor, . . . . .	474
Warranty as to future deliveries, . . . . .	464	Division of samples taken in delivery
"Without accepting any respon-		or transit, . . . . .	474
sibility after delivery," . . . . .	465	Condensed separated or skimmed milk, . . . . .	474
Notice of intention to rely on		Imported impoverished articles to be warranty, . . . . .	465	marked, . . . . .	474
Forging certificate or warranty, . . . . .	466	Regulations as to preservatives, . . . . .	476
Wilfully misapplying certificate of		Moisture in butter or margarine in warranty, . . . . .	466	factory, . . . . .	476
False label, . . . . .	466	Moisture in milk-blended butter, . . . . .	476
Giving false warranty, . . . . .	466	Sale of milk-blended butter, . . . . .	476
Taking samples in course of delivery—		Butter and margarine factories:
(1) Milk, . . . . .	467	Registers to be kept, . . . . .	477
(2) Other articles of food, . . . . .	468	Premises to be used as butter
Name and address of person selling		factories, . . . . .	477
milk or cream in public place, . . . . .	468	Inspection, . . . . .	477
Obstruction of officer in discharge of		Adulterants in butter factory, . . . . .	478 duty, . . . . .	468	Regulations by "Department" as to Seizure of unwholesome food, . . . . .	468	standards, . . . . .	478
		Power of L. G. B. and "Department" to take samples, . . . . .	478
		Procedure and penalties under Acts of
		1899 and 1907, . . . . .	478

Statutes.

The principal statutes relating to the adulteration of food and drugs are:—the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875, 38 & 39 Vict. c. 63; the Sale of Food and Drugs Act Amendment Act, 1879, 42 & 43 Vict. c. 30; the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, 62 & 63 Vict. c. 51; the Margarine Act, 1887, 50 & 51 Vict. c. 29; and the Butter and Margarine Act, 1907, 7 Ed. 7, c. 21; all of which Acts are, by s. 14 of the Act of 1907, collectively entitled the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts. There are also special provisions in various statutes as to the sale of specific articles, e.g., the Bread Acts, 1822 and 1836, which will be found under appropriate headings, e.g., "BREAD," etc.

The Acts of 1899 and 1907 are to be read as one (Act of 1907, s. 14 (1)). The Act of 1907, by s. 11 (2), enacts that s. 5 (see p. 473), s. 11 (see p. 473), and s. 12 (see p. 473) of the Margarine Act, 1887, shall apply to proceedings under the Act of 1907, with the substitution of references to the Act of 1907 for references to the Margarine Act, 1887. Section 12 of the Margarine Act, 1887, enacts that all proceedings under that Act shall, save as expressly varied thereby, "be the same as prescribed by ss. 12 to 28 inclusive" of the Act of 1875, and that all officers employed under the Act of 1875 are empowered and required to carry out the provisions of the Margarine Act, 1887.

"No person shall mix, colour, stain or powder, or order or permit any other person to mix, colour, stain or powder, any article of food<sup>1</sup> with any ingredient or material so as to render the article injurious to health, with intent that the same may be sold in that state, and no person shall sell any such article so mixed, coloured, stained or powdered"—Penalty, first offence, not exceeding, £50; every offence after conviction for first offence, misdemeanour, punishable by imprisonment, with hard labour, not exceeding six months (Act of 1875, s. 3).

Mixing injurious ingredients

(1) with food.

The article of food must, as the result of the addition, be injurious to health, and it is not sufficient that the added article is by itself injurious (Hull v. Horsnell, (1904) 20 Cox 759).

It is an offence if the article of food is injurious to the health of a delicate person (Cullen v. M'Nair, (1908) 24 T. L. R. 692).

"No person shall, except for the purpose of compounding as hereinafter described, mix, colour, stain or powder, or order or permit any other person to mix, colour, stain or powder, any drug with any ingredient or material so as to affect injuriously the quality or potency of such drug, with intent that the same may be sold in that state, and no person shall sell any such drug so mixed, coloured, stained or powdered"—Penalty as in s. 3 (Act of 1875, s. 4). "The term 'drug' shall include medicine for internal or external use" (s. 2).

(2) with drugs.

The complainant purchased linseed meal, stating that he was doing so for the purpose of having it analysed. A notice in the shop stated that linseed was sold as cattle food. Held, that as complainant had not purchased the linseed as a medicine or drug, no offence was committed under s. 4 by reason of the adulteration of the meal (Conroy v. M'Cann, (1896) 2 I. W. L. R. 217).

It seems doubtful as to whether a limited company can be prosecuted under sections 3 and 4 (Pearks v. Ward, (1902) 2 K. B. 1, 8).

"Provided that no person shall be liable to be convicted under either of the two last foregoing sections of this Act in respect of the sale of any article of food, or of any drug, if he shows to the satisfaction of the justice or court before whom he is charged that he did not know of the article of food or drug sold by him being so mixed, coloured, stained or powdered, . . . and that he could not with reasonable diligence have obtained that knowledge" (Act of 1875, s. 5).

Absence of guilty knowledge.

"No person shall sell to the prejudice of the purchaser any article of food or any drug which is not of the nature, substance, and quality of the article demanded by such purchaser under a penalty not exceeding £20 :<sup>2</sup> Provided, that an offence shall not be deemed to be committed under this section . . . (1) where any matter or ingredient not injurious to health has been added to the food or drug because the same is required for the production or preparation thereof as an article of commerce, in a state fit for carriage or consumption, and not fraudulently to increase the bulk, weight, or measure of the food or drug, or conceal the inferior quality

Sale of food or drug not of nature, substance, and quality demanded.
Offences,
generally.

<sup>1</sup> "Food shall include every article used for food or drink by man, other than drugs or water, and any article which ordinarily enters into or is used in the composition or preparation of human food, and shall also include flavouring matter and condiments" (Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, s. 26). Chewing-gum, which is not intended to be swallowed, is not within the definition (Bennett v. Tyler, (1900) 19 Cox. 434).

<sup>2</sup> As to penalties for subsequent offences (see s. 17 of the Act of 1899, p. 469).

Sale of food or drug not of nature, substance, and quality demanded.

thereof; (2) where the drug or food is a proprietary medicine, or is the subject of a patent in force, and is supplied in the state required by the specification of the patent; (3) where the food or drug is compounded as in this Act mentioned; (4) where the food or drug is unavoidably mixed with some extraneous matter in the process of collection or preparation"—(Act of 1875, s. 6).

Standard for spirits.

It is a good defence to a prosecution under the section for adulterating spirits with water that such adulteration has not reduced the spirit more than twenty-five degrees under proof for brandy, whiskey, or rum, or thirty-five degrees under proof for gin (Act of 1879, s. 6).

Purchase for analysis.
Deficiency in any respect.

It is no defence to a prosecution under s. 6 of the Act of 1875 that the purchase was made only for the purpose of analysis, nor that the article, though defective in nature, or in substance, or in quality, was not defective in all three respects (Act of 1879, s. 2).

Whether an article is of the nature, substance, and quality demanded is one of fact for the justices.

Nature, quality, and substance demanded.
(1) no standard.

Where no standard is set up by statute or by any recognized authority, justices must form the best judgment they can, having regard to the evidence adduced before them as to the nature, substance, and quality of the article demanded. Thus, where a customer asked for brandy, but got instead an article composed of 35 per cent. of what is usually known as brandy<sup>1</sup> and 65 per cent. of other spirit, it was held that the justices were justified in convicting (Wilson v. M'Phee, (1903) 68 J.P. 175). So, too, a vendor does not fulfil an order for "lard" by supplying 85 per cent. of lard and 15 per cent. of water (Rook v. Hopley, (1878) 3 Ex. D. 209). See also cases noted (p. 460, infra) under DEFECT NOT ARISING FROM ADULTERATION.

In arriving at their conclusion, the justices are entitled to take into consideration the usages and understanding of commerce in relation to the article in question. Thus, in Smith v. Wisden, (1901) 85 L.T. 760, it was held that the selling of marmalade containing 13 per cent. of glucose instead of cane or beet sugar was not an offence, evidence being given that glucose was used by many manufacturers of marmalade. Similarly, justices were held entitled to find that the sale of a particular kind of tapioca as "sago" was lawful, it having been proved that such tapioca was known to the trade and the public as "sago" (Sandys v. Rhode, (1903) 67 J.P. 352).

(2) Statutory standards.
Spirits, butter, and margarine.

If the statute fixes a standard, regard must, of course, be had to the words of the statute. Thus, s. 6 of the Act of 1879, supra, fixes the standard for spirits; and s. 4 of the Butter and Margarine Act, 1907, prescribes the limit of moisture in butter and margarine in factories. Moreover, the Department of Agriculture have made the following regulations under the powers vested in them by ss. 4 and 24 of the Act of 1899 and s. 6 of the Butter and Margarine Act, 1907.<sup>2</sup> These regulations do not absolutely fix a standard of genuineness, but shift the burden of proof to the defendant:—(1) Where a sample of milk (not being sold as skimmed or separated or condensed milk) contains less than 3 per cent. of milk fat, it shall be presumed for the purposes of the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts, until the contrary is proved, that the milk is not genuine by reason of the abstraction therefrom of milk fat or the addition thereto of water (2) Where a sample of milk (not being sold as skimmed or separated or condensed milk) contains less than 8·5 per cent. of milk solids other than milk fat, it shall be presumed for the purposes of the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts, until the contrary is proved, that the milk is not genuine by reason of the abstraction of milk solids other than milk fat or the addition thereto of water. (3) Where a sample of skimmed or separated milk (not being condensed milk) contains less than 9 per cent. of milk solids, it shall be presumed for the purposes of the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts, until the contrary is proved, that the milk is not genuine by reason of the abstraction therefrom of milk solids other than milk fat or the addition thereto of water. (4) Where the proportion of water in a sample of butter exceeds 16 per cent., it shall be presumed for the purposes of the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts, unless the contrary is proved, that the butter is not genuine by reason of the excessive amount of water therein.

Milk.

<sup>1</sup> Brandy has been defined by a London metropolitan police magistrate as an alcoholic liquor the spirit of which is obtained by the distillation of wine from grapes (see 48 S.J. 518).

<sup>2</sup> Noted p. 478, post.

Sale of food or drug not of nature, substance, and quality demanded.

Skimmed or separated milk.

With regard to drugs, where the British Pharmacopœia has fixed a standard of the composition, that standard is prima facie the one to be followed (Dickins v. Randerson, (1901) 1 K.B. 437); and though evidence should be admitted which tends to show that there is a different commercial standard, such evidence would have to be strong to displace the standard of the British Pharmacopœia (Boots v. Cowling, (1903) 19 T.L.R. 370).

Drugs.

Where the vendor, before the sale is completed, makes the purchaser aware that the article is not what he originally demanded, the sale is not to the prejudice of the purchaser (Sandys v. Small, (1878) 3 Q.B.D. 449; Higgins v. Hall, (1886) 51 J.P. 293 (coffee and chicory); Gage v. Elsey, (1883) 10 Q.B.D. 518 (gin sold more than thirty-five degrees under proof where there was a notice exhibited that all spirits were sold as diluted spirits, and that no alcoholic strength was guaranteed). But it was held that an offence under s. 6 was committed where rum more than twenty-five degrees under proof was sold by a publican exhibiting the following notice:—"All spirits . . . are of the same quality and strength as heretofore, but in order to comply with the Food and Drugs Act will not be of any guaranteed strength" (Dawes v. Wilkinson, (1907) 1 K.B. 278). The notice in fact must be clear and unmistakable (ib.; Collett v. Walker, (1895) 59 J.P. 600; Star Tea Company v. Neale, (1909) 78 J.P. 511; Souter v. McLean, (1903) 41 Sc. L.R. 192; Wilson v. M'Phee, (1903) 68 J.P. 175). The knowledge of the purchaser that the article purchased was not of the nature, substance, and quality demanded by him must be derived from information given by the vendor, and the fact that the purchaser had acquired such knowledge otherwise is no defence (Pearks v. Ward, (1902) 2 K.B. 1: see, however, contra, Morris v. Johnson, (1890) 54 J.P. 612.) Where the vendor told the purchaser that some cans contained new milk, but when the purchaser asked for same the vendor said it was old milk, the justices were held to be right in not convicting (Kirk v. Coates, (1885) 16 Q.B.D. 49). Even though the purchaser cannot but be aware from the price charged (as where milk was sold as new milk at 1d. a pint<sup>1</sup>) that he is getting an inferior article, the vendor has committed an offence (Heywood v. Whitehead, (1898) 18 Cox, 615).

Prejudice of the purchaser.

It is no defence to show that the vendor was not aware of the composition of the article unless he brings himself within s. 25, post, pp. 463, 464 (Betts v. Armstead, (1888) 20 Q.B.D. 771).

Guilty knowledge not essential.

A master is responsible for the acts of his servants, even though unauthorized or acting in disobedience to orders (Brown v. Foot, (1892) 17 Cox, 509; contra, Kearley v. Tonge, (1891) 17 Cox, 328), and has even been held responsible for the acts of a stranger, as where milk was watered in a railway truck on a journey to London by a stranger unknown to the vendor (Parker v. Alder, (1899) 1 Q.B. 20). A servant can also be convicted if he actually makes the sale (Hotchin v. Hindmarsh, (1891) 2 Q.B. 181). The respondent, a grocer, while his Master's responsibility for acts of servant.

<sup>1</sup> This case was obviously decided with regard to a place where the ordinary price was more than a penny a pint.

Sale of food or drug not of nature, substance, and quality demanded.

assistant was out of the shop, had made up for his own use a half pound packet consisting of a mixture of butter and margarine. This packet was inadvertently left upon the counter while the respondent went to attend to a customer in another part of the shop, but it was not placed there for the purpose of sale. The respondent's assistant then came in, and immediately afterwards a man came in and asked for half a pound of salt butter, and was served by the assistant with the same half pound of mixed butter and margarine. The assistant, seeing the half pound packet lying on the counter ready made, thought that it was there for the purpose of sale, but in selling it he was acting without the authority and contrary to the express instructions of the respondent, that he was to sell butter always from the bulk and not in ready-made packages. Held, that the respondent was liable for the act of his servant, and that he should have been convicted under s. 6 (Houghton v. Mundy, (1910) 103 L.T. 60; cf. Keenan v. Costelloe, (1910) 44 I.L.T.R. 218). As to other cases on the liability of a master for the acts of his servant see MASTER AND SERVANT, chapter xxiv.

Defect not arising from adulteration.

An article may, as the result of improper treatment, not be of the nature, substance, and quality demanded, even though there has, in fact, been no adulteration. Questions on this frequently arise as to milk, where there has been no adulteration. In Smithies v. Bridge, (1902) 2 K.B. 13, the purchaser was supplied with milk as taken direct from the cow, but, in consequence of the length of time which had elapsed since the cow was last milked (sixteen hours), the milk supplied was deficient in fat to an extent of 30 per cent., the remainder of the fat having been absorbed by the cow during the unduly long interval between the milkings. Held, that the vendor was rightly convicted. In Wolfenden v. McCulloch, (1905) 20 Cox, 864, the appellant sold milk which, on examination, was proved to contain 2.81 per cent. of milk fat.<sup>1</sup> There had been no adulteration, but the deficiency of fat was due to the cows not having been milked for fourteen hours, being the time usual in the district. The justices thought they were obliged by the decision in Smithies v. Bridge, supra, to convict. Held, that the justices were wrong; that in each case it was a question of fact for the justices to determine whether the milk was of the nature, substance, and quality demanded; and that, unless the quantity of fat which was absent was so large as to point to an abnormal state of things, there was no evidence to warrant a conviction. In the latter case Lord Alverstone, L.C.J., repeated the test laid down by him in Smithies v. Bridge: "If, however, the article produced, although produced by the cow, is the result of an abnormal condition of things, arising either from disease or from unusual treatment of the cow, I think that that does amount to evidence on which the magistrates can find that the article is not of the nature, substance, and quality of the article demanded." Where milk has been added to butter it is an offence (Pearks v. Knight, (1901) 2 K.B. 825).

Adulteration unavoidable.

As regards defences under s. 6 (4), whether the extraneous matter was unavoidably mixed, seems a question of fact for the justices; and the Scotch courts refused to interfere with a finding excusing a defendant for adding 30 per cent. of water to buttermilk (Warnock v. Johnstone, (1881) 4 Coup. 509; see also Belfast Guardians v. McIlroy (1903) 3 N.I.J.R. 17); and a finding the other way (where the percentage was 34.9) was also upheld (Reynolds v. McBride, (1904) 4 N.I.J.R. 238).

Sale of compound article of food or drug not of ingredients demanded.

"No person shall sell any compound article of food or compounded drug which is not composed of ingredients in accordance with the demand of the purchaser"—Penalty, not exceeding £20 (Act of 1875, s. 7); as to penalties for offences subsequent to a first offence (see s. 17 of the

<sup>1</sup> The standard is three per cent. See p. 458.

Act of 1899, p. 469).—"Provided that no person shall be guilty of any such offence as aforesaid in respect of the sale of an article of food or a drug mixed with any matter or ingredient not injurious to health and not intended fraudulently to increase its bulk, weight, or measure, or conceal its inferior quality, if at the time of delivering such article or drug he shall supply to the person receiving the same a notice by a label distinctly and legibly written or printed on or with the article or drug to the effect that the same is mixed" (Act of 1875, s. 8).

Sale of compound article of food or drug not of ingredients demanded.

It is a question of fact whether the mixture was made for a fraudulent purpose. Where a mixture of coffee and chicory labelled as such was sold for the price of pure coffee, and contained sixty per cent. of chicory, and the justices found that the mixture was for a fraudulent purpose, the conviction was upheld (Liddiard v. Reece, (1880) 44 J.P. 233); but where "French coffee" was asked for and supplied, containing sixty per cent. of chicory, with a label stating it was a mixture, it was held that the justices should not have convicted, there being no evidence of fraud (Otter v. Edgley, (1883) 57 J.P. 457; see also Hayes v. Rule, (1902) 18 T.L.R. 535 (butter), Horder v. Meddings, (1880) 44 J.P. 234 (coffee), Jones v. Jones, (1894) 10 T.L.R. 300 (cocoa), Jones v. Davies, (1893) 69 L.T. 497 (condensed milk)).

In Jones v. Jones, supra, where a tin of cocoa, on which was pasted the label, was wrapped up in a sheet of paper before delivering, it was held that there was sufficient notice of the contents. In Pearks and others v. Houghton, (1902) 1 K.B. 889, however, where butter containing an excess of moisture was enclosed in a wrapper stating that the butter was blended with milk and retained 20 per cent. of moisture, that wrapper being in turn enclosed in a second wrapper without any reference to its contents, the King's Bench held that the label was no defence. Lord Alverstone, C.J., stated: "In my opinion the delivery of the article with a notice printed on an inner label, covered with an opaque wrapper, would not be sufficient. Jones v. Jones is not a sufficient authority on the facts of the present case. There the article sold was a tin of cocoa, and it was assumed to be a matter of common knowledge that tins had labels on them, and, therefore, the fact that they were wrapped up when delivered to the purchaser could not prevent the label having the effect of a notice to the purchaser. The question of the sufficiency of the notice is one to be decided on the particular facts of each case; but I doubt whether a purchaser of a pound of butter, on being handed such a packet, could be taken to have notice that there was another label inside the outside wrapper."

By section 12 of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, the label referred to in the above section "shall not be deemed to be distinctly and legibly written or printed within the meaning of the section, unless it is so written or printed that the notice of mixture given by the label is not obscured by other matter on the label. Provided that nothing in this enactment shall hinder or affect the use of any registered trade-mark, or of any label which has been continuously in use for at least seven years before" 1st January, 1900.

"No person shall, with the intent that the same may be sold in its altered state without notice, abstract from an article of food any part of it so as to affect injuriously its quality, substance, or nature, and no person shall sell any article so altered without making disclosure of the alteration"—Penalty, first offence, not exceeding £20 (Act of 1875, s. 9); for subsequent offences, see s. 17 of 1899 (post, p. 469).

Abstraction of part of article of food.

Ignorance by the seller of the abstraction is no defence to the latter part of the section (Pain v. Boughtwood, (1890) 24 Q.B.D. 353); Dyke v. Gower, (1892) 1 Q.B. 220). Where milk for sale was taken out of a

Abstraction of part of article of food.

large vessel by a small measure, and, owing to the fact that the cream was continually rising to the surface from which the milk was taken, the milk supplied to the last customers showed a deficiency of 33 per cent. in fats, it was held that an offence was committed under this section (Dyke v. Gower, (1892) 1 Q.B. 220). Where a police-officer procured a sample from each of five cans forming a consignment in course of delivery to a workhouse, each of which proved deficient in cream: Held, that the procuring of each sample was a separate transaction, that an offence was committed under s. 9, supra, in respect of each can, and that five convictions obtained against the appellant were right (Fecitt v. Walsh, (1891) 2 Q.B. 304). The Scotch Court refused to follow this case in Telford v. Fyfe, (1908) Sess. Ca. (J.) 83, which case is fully noted, p. 106, ante.

Analysis at
instance of private purchaser.

"Any purchaser of an article of food or of a drug in any place being a district, county, city, or borough where there is any analyst appointed . . . shall be entitled, on payment to such analyst of a sum not exceeding ten shillings and sixpence, or if there be no such analyst then acting for such place, to the analyst of another place, of such sum as may be agreed upon between such person and the analyst, to have such article analysed by such analyst, and to receive from him a certificate of the result of his analysis" (Act of 1875, s. 12).

Analysis at
instance of public officer.

"(1) Any medical officer of health, inspector of nuisances, or inspector of weights and measures, or any inspector of a market, or any police constable under the direction and at the cost of the local authority appointing such officer, inspector, or constable, or charged with the execution of this Act, may procure any sample of food or drugs, and if he suspect the same to have been sold to him contrary to any provision of this Act" (i.e., Sale of Food and Drugs Acts), "shall submit the same to be analysed by the analyst of the district or place for which he acts, or if there be no such analyst then acting for such place to the analyst of another place; and such analyst shall, upon receiving payment as is provided in the last section, with all convenient speed, analyse the same and give a certificate to such officer wherein he shall specify the result of the analysis" (Act of 1875, s. 13).

Though the local authority can appoint only the persons specified to procure samples, such person need not make the purchase himself, but may depute some one else to do so (Horder v. Scott, (1880) 5 Q. B. D. 552; Smith v. Stace, (1881) 45 J. P. 141). Once an inspector has been appointed he can act generally at his own discretion (Connor v. Butler, (1902) 2 I. R. 569). It is not necessary for him to prove his authority (Hale v. Cole, (1891) 55 J. P. 376). Where an official purchases for analysis it has been held that the analysis must be made under the next section before a prosecution can be instituted, even though the vendor admits at the time of the purchase that he is in fault (Smart v. Watts, (1895) 1 Q. B. 219).

Purchasing
samples for analysis.

"The person purchasing any article with the intention of submitting the same to analysis shall, after the purchase shall have been completed, forthwith notify to the seller or his agent selling the article his intention to have the same analysed by the public analyst, and shall divide the article into three parts, to be then and there separated, and each part to be marked and sealed or fastened up in such manner as its nature will permit, and shall, if required to do so, deliver one of the parts to the seller or his agent. He shall afterwards retain one of the said parts for future comparison, and submit the third part, if he deems it right to have the article analysed, to the analyst" (Act of 1875, s. 14).

This section does not apply to a private person purchasing for consumption, even though he subsequently obtains an analysis (Enniskillen Guardians v. Hilliard, 1884) 14 L. R. I. 214; Buckler v. Wilson, (1896) 1 Q. B. 83). Purchasing samples for analysis.

The person purchasing for analysis must strictly comply with the provisions of the section. Where the inspector remained outside and within two minutes after the purchase came in and complied with the requirements of the section, it was held that he acted "forthwith" (Smith v. Stace, (1881) 45 J. P. 141; Somerset v. Miller, (1890) 54 J. P. 614); but two days after is not "forthwith" (Parsons v. Birmingham Dairy Co., (1882) 9 Q. B. D. 172).

The purchaser must make the vendor aware that he is purchasing for an official analysis, but whether he uses the words public analyst, or county analyst, or similar words with the same import, is immaterial (Wheeler v. Webb, (1887) 51 J. P. 661). The fact that a wrong date is marked on the sample will not render the taking of the sample nugatory (Howe v. Knowles, (1909) S. C. (Just. Cas.) 61). A railway porter at the station to which milk is consigned is not the agent within this section (Rouch v. Hall, (1880) 6 Q. B. D. 17). Each part must be sufficient for analysis (Lowery v. Hallard, (1906) 1 K. B. 398). The three parts must be taken from the same sample (Mason v. Cowdary, (1900) 2 Q. B. 419); but the mixing together of several small packages of the same article, purchased at the same time, before taking the samples for analysis, does not render the analysis bad (Smith v. Savage, (1905) 2 K. B. 88—a case where the purchaser mixed together four penny packets of cream of tartar).

If the analyst does not reside within two miles of the person requiring the analysis, the article may be sent by registered parcel, and the charges are to be deemed part of the expenses of the prosecution (Act of 1875, s. 16).

"If any such officer, inspector, or constable as above described, shall apply to purchase any article of food or any drug exposed for sale or on sale by retail on any premises or in any shop or stores, and shall tender the price for the quantity which he shall require for the purpose of analysis, not being more than shall be reasonably requisite, and the person exposing the same for sale shall refuse to sell the same to such officer, inspector, or constable, such person shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £10" (Act of 1875, s. 17). Any street or open place of public resort shall be held to come within the above section (Act of 1879, s. 5). "Notwithstanding anything in s. 17 of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875, where any article of food or drug is exposed for sale in an unopened tin or packet duly labelled, no person shall be required to sell it except in the unopened tin or packet in which it is contained" (Act of 1899, s. 18). Refusal to sell to officer.

Any person may prosecute under section 17 as a common informer (Connor v. Butler, (1902) 2 I. R. 569). The section does not apply to private persons purchasing for analysis. Section 14, p. 462, ante, does not apply to prosecutions under this section (Clarkin v. McCartan, (1888) 22 I. L. T. R. 95). The inspector has a right to be supplied out of the same vessel as other purchasers (Payne v. Hack, (1894) 58 J. P. 165). The inspector is not bound to produce his authority till it is demanded (ib.).

The section applies to articles of sale exposed for sale by wholesale (McHugh v. McGrath, (1894) 2 I. R. 78). As to obstruction, bribery, etc., of an official acting under this section, see s. 16 of the Act of 1899, p. 468.

"If the defendant in any prosecution under this Act prove to the satisfaction of the justices or court that he had purchased the article in question as the same in nature, substance, and quality as that demanded of him by the prosecutor, and with a written warranty to that effect, that he had no reason to believe at the time when he sold it that the article Defence of purchase with warranty.

Defence of purchase with warranty.

was otherwise, and that he sold it in the same state as when he purchased it, he shall be discharged from the prosecution, but shall be liable to pay the costs incurred by the prosecutor unless he shall have given due notice to him that he will rely on the above defence" (Act of 1875, s. 25). See s. 20 of the Act of 1899, infra, pp. 465, 466.

What amounts to a warranty.

An invoice which contains a mere description of the goods sold is not a "written warranty" within the section (Book v. Hopley, (1878) 3 Ex. D. 209, in which case the defendant, charged with selling adulterated lard, unsuccessfully relied on an invoice describing the article as "lard"). But the document need not state upon the face of it that it is a warranty, and it is enough if its language imports a warranty, and shows an intention on the part of the vendor to warrant (Laidlaw v. Wilson, (1894) 1 Q. B. 74, where a contract for the sale of "Kilvert's Pure Lard" was held to be a written warranty). There must be some express individual representation from the seller to the buyer, forming part of the contract (per Wright, J., in Iorns v. Van Tromp, (1895) 18 Cox 182). Therefore an invoice or a label, or an invoice and label, as an incident of delivery, and not connected with any antecedent warranty, affords no defence (ib.; Elder v. Smithson, (1893) 57 J. P. 809). In Iorns v. Van Tromp the appellant had purchased ginger, and had received an invoice describing the article as "ground ginger," and each of the canisters delivered to him by his vendor had affixed on the outside a label upon which were printed the words "warranted genuine pure ground ginger." Held that the magistrate was right in declining to look at the invoice, as it formed no part of the contract; that there was no written warranty, and the label would not import one. A guarantee contained in an invoice which is given at the time of the sale, and which in effect forms the contract, will, however, afford a defence (Hawkins v. Williams, (1895) 59 J. P. 533). And where there is a previous general written contract, the label may be looked at for the purpose of showing that the specific delivery is under that contract (Iorns v. Van Tromp, supra, per Cave J.), which principle was applied in Farmers and Cleveland Dairies Co., Ltd. v. Stevenson, (1891) 63 L. T. 776, where there was a contract to supply daily "genuine good new milk," and each churn bore a label bearing the same words.

Warranty as to future
deliveries

The warranty must be a warranty in respect of the delivery in question; and therefore, a written contract merely for a future supply of a pure and unadulterated article is generally not sufficient (Harris v. May, (1883) 12 Q. B. D. 97; but see Elliott v. Pilcher, (1901) 2 K. B. 817). Therefore, in the following circumstances it was held that there was no warranty:—a written contract to supply "new and pure milk each and every day for six months" (Harris v. May, supra); a written agreement to sell 1,000 gallons of milk weekly, "the milk to be pure new milk" (Robertson v. Harris, (1900) 2 Q. B. 117); a contract to supply milk, with a guarantee "that the milk supplied by me to Mr. S. is perfectly pure" (Watts v. Stevens, (1906) 1 K. B. 323).

But the section will be complied with if it can be shown by some evidence in writing that the particular consignment was purchased under an antecedent general contract to supply an unadulterated article (Robertson v. Harris, supra; Watts v. Stevens, supra). Thus, a label (Farmers & Cleveland Dairies Co., Ltd. v. Stevenson, supra), or an invoice (Laidlaw v. Wilson, supra), may amount to written evidence connecting the particular consignment with the general warranty.

Moreover, a general warranty as to future deliveries may be so framed as necessarily to extend to every delivery. Thus, the appellant agreed to purchase from a company "the whole of the milk required for his dairy" for twelve months from 1st October, 1905, and the contract contained a warranty that all milk to be delivered to the appellant by the company should be pure. In June, 1906, milk was delivered to the appellant by the company under the contract, accompanied by a delivery note, which showed that the milk came from the company, but which did not in terms refer to the contract. Held, that as the warranty was by the contract expressly applied to all milk sold by the company to the appellant during the specified period, the contract itself was sufficient evidence in writing to connect the particular consignment of milk with the warranty, and that the requirement of s. 25 had been satisfied (Evans v. Weatheritt, (1907) 2 K.B. 80). The decision in this case in no way turned upon the delivery note, and the case was distinguished from Watts v. Stevens, supra, on the ground that there was nothing on the face of the letter of guarantee in Watts v. Stevens to show that the warranty applied to more than one consignment of milk;<sup>1</sup> whereas in Evans v. Weatheritt the warranty extended to the whole of the milk required for defendant's dairy, and in the absence of any evidence of breach of contract by the vendor, the milk in question was necessarily covered by the warranty. In Draper v. Newnham, (1910) 74 J.P. 124, the respondent proved that the milk in question had been supplied to him by a farmer who had for several years under a verbal contract supplied him with all the milk required by him, and that in September, 1908, the farmer had given him the following written warranty:—"I hereby guarantee and warranty that all milk supplied by me to you is of the nature, quality, and substance demanded by law, and I give this warranty for the purposes of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899." The justices found that this document was intended by both parties to cover the delivery in question, and that it did cover such delivery. Held, that the written document could fairly be construed as "I guarantee and warrant from this date that as long as I supply you with milk, that milk shall be within this warranty"; that, therefore, the case came within the principle of Evans v. Weatheritt, supra, and that the warranty was a sufficient compliance with the section.

Defence of purchase with warranty.

If, too, a written warranty is given in pursuance of a previous verbal contract to give such written warranty, the section will be complied with (Bacon v. Callow Park Dairy Co., (1902) 18 T.L.R. 573). In that case the original contract was a verbal contract that pure milk should be supplied, and that a written guarantee should be given with each churn, and it was held that the words "warranted pure," stamped on the churn, amounted to a written warranty within the section.

A written warranty may be available as a defence, though it contains a term "without accepting any responsibility after delivery" (Wilson v. Playle, (1903) 88 L.T. 554: Evans v. Weatheritt, supra).

"Without accepting any responsibility after delivery."

"(1) A warranty or invoice shall not be available as a defence to any proceeding under the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts, unless the defendant has, within seven days after service of the summons, sent to the purchaser a copy of such warranty or invoice with a written notice stating that he intends to rely on the warranty or invoice, and specifying the name and address of the person from whom he received it, and has also sent a like notice of his intention to such person. (2) The person by whom such warranty or invoice is alleged to have been given shall be entitled to appear at the hearing and to give evidence, and the court may, if it thinks fit, adjourn the hearing to enable him to do so. (3) A warranty or invoice given by a person resident outside the United Kingdom shall not be available as a defence to any proceeding under the Sale of Food

Notice of intention to rely on warranty.

<sup>1</sup> "In Watts v. Stevens, the view I took was that the document . . . was a document which was open to the construction that it might apply to milk to be supplied on that particular day only, and did not of necessity apply to all milk that would be supplied": per Lord Alverstone, C.J., in Draper v. Newnham, (1910) 74 J.P. 124.

Defence of purchase with warranty.

and Drugs Acts unless the defendant proves that he has taken reasonable steps to ascertain and did in fact believe in the accuracy of the statement contained in the warranty or invoice. (4) Where the defendant is a servant of the person who purchased the article under a warranty or invoice he shall, subject to the provisions of this section, be entitled to rely on section 25 of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875,<sup>1</sup> and section 7 of the Margarine Act, 1887,<sup>2</sup> in the same way as his employer or master would have been entitled to do if he had been the defendant, provided that the servant further proves that he had no reason to believe that the article was otherwise than that demanded by the prosecutor. (5) Where the defendant in a prosecution under the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts has been discharged under the provisions of section 25 of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875, as amended by this Act, any proceedings under the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts for giving the warranty relied on by the defendant in such prosecution may be taken as well before a court having jurisdiction in the place where the article of food or drug to which the warranty relates was purchased for analysis as before a court having jurisdiction in the place where the warranty was given" (Act of 1899, s. 20).

The terms of the warranty must be distinctly set out, though not necessarily verbatim (Irving v. Callow Park Dairy Co., Ltd., (1902) 87 L.T. 70; Farthing v. Parkinson, (1904) 20 Cox 661). Sub-sect. 5 applies only if the warranty was given to the person from whom the article in question was purchased for analysis (Manners v. Tyler, (1902) 1 K.B. 901).

Forging certificate or warranty.

"Any person who shall forge, or shall utter, knowing it to be forged for the purposes of this Act, any certificate, or any writing purporting to contain a warranty, shall be guilty of a misdemeanour, and be punishable on conviction by imprisonment for a term of not exceeding two years, with hard labour. Every person who shall wilfully apply to an article of food, or a drug, in any proceedings under this Act, a certificate or warranty given in relation to any other article or drug shall be guilty of an offence under this Act, and be liable to a penalty not exceeding £20. . . . and every person who shall wilfully give a label with any article sold by him which shall falsely describe the article sold shall be guilty of an offence under this Act, and be liable to a penalty not exceeding £20" (Act of 1875, s. 27). As to penalties for offences subsequent to a first offence, see s. 17 of the Act of 1899, p. 469.

Wilful misapplication of warranty.*False label.*Giving false warranty.

"(6) Every person who, in respect of an article of food or drug sold by him as principal or agent, gives to the purchaser a false warranty in writing, shall be liable on summary conviction for the first offence to a fine not exceeding £20, for the second offence to a fine not exceeding £50, and for any subsequent offence to a fine not exceeding £100, unless he proves to the satisfaction of the court that when he gave the warranty he had reason to believe that the statements or descriptions contained therein were true"<sup>3</sup> (Act of 1899, s. 20 (6)).

The analyst's certificate,<sup>4</sup> given under sect. 21 of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875, is not evidence in a prosecution for giving a false warranty (R. v. Smith, (1896) 1 Q.B. 596; Tyler v. Kingham, 1900)

<sup>1</sup> Supra.<sup>2</sup> See infra, p. 471.<sup>3</sup> As to imprisonment for any offence subsequent to the first, see s. 19 of the Act of 1899, p. 462.<sup>4</sup> The following is the form of certificate set out in the schedule in the Act of 1875:—

To (a)

I, the undersigned, public analyst for the received on the day of 19, from for analysis (which then weighed (

, do hereby certify that I
(b) a sample of (c)), and have analysed

2 Q.B. 413). Prosecutions under this section must be instituted within six months (Whitaker v. Pomfret Bros., (1902) 1 K.B. 661). As to a comparison between the evidence necessary to support a conviction under this sub-section and under section 6 of Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875, see Oatley v. Lemon, (1905) 20 Cox, 791.

"Any medical officer of health, inspector of nuisances, or inspector of weights and measures, or any inspector of a market, or any police constable under the direction and at the cost of the local authority appointing such officer, inspector, or constable, or charged with the execution of this Act, may procure at the place of delivery any sample of any milk in course of delivery to the purchaser or consignee in pursuance of any contract for the sale to such purchaser or consignee of such milk, and such officer, inspector, or constable, if he suspect the same to have been sold contrary to any of the provisions of the principal Act,<sup>1</sup> shall submit the same to be analysed, and the same shall be analysed and proceedings shall be taken and penalties" awarded as under section 13 of the principal Act (Act of 1879, s. 3). A portion of the sample is to be sent to the consignor if his name and address appear on the can or package (Act of 1899, s. 10, noted, post, p. 474).

Taking
samples in course of delivery
(1) Milk.

"The seller or consignor, or any person or persons entrusted by him for the time being with the charge of such milk, if he shall refuse to allow such officer, inspector, or constable to take the quantity which" he may require for the purpose of analysis shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £10 (Act of 1879, s. 4).

An inspector can act only in his own district (M<sup>r</sup>. Nair v. Cove, (1903) 1 K.B. 24), but can take samples by deputy (Tyler v. Dairy Supply Co., (1908) 94 L.T. 867). The words "in pursuance of any contract" apply to the case of a milkman hawking milk round who was asked for a sample while pouring the milk into a customer's jug (Phelan v. Rorke, (1883) 17 I.L.T. & S.J. 649). Where a contract provided for a sale of milk to be delivered at London or such other station as the purchasers might appoint, the carriage to be paid by the purchasers, and the purchasers subsequently named Hull as the station for delivery, it was held that, notwithstanding the provision for payment of the carriage by the purchasers, Hull was the place of delivery within the section (Filshie v. Erington, (1892) 2 Q.B. 200). It is not necessary to comply with s. 14 of the Act of 1875 (supra, p. 462) when procuring a sample under this section (Rouch v. Hall, (1880) 6 Q.B.D. 17). As to proceeding in respect of several cans of milk forming the same, and declare the result of my analysis to be as follows:—I am of opinion that the same is a sample of genuine or,

I am of opinion that the said sample contained the parts as under, or the percentages of foreign ingredients as under:—

Observations (d)

As witness my hand this day of

H. B.

at

(a) Here insert the name of the person submitting the article for analysis.

(b) Here insert the name of the person delivering the sample.

(c) When the article cannot be conveniently weighed, this passage may be erased, or the blank may be left unfilled.

(d) Here the analyst may insert at his discretion his opinion as to whether the mixture (if any) was for the purpose of rendering the article portable or palatable, or of preserving it, or of improving the appearance, or was unavoidable, and may state whether in excess of what is ordinary or otherwise, and whether the ingredients or materials mixed are or are not injurious to health. In the case of a certificate regarding milk, butter, or any article liable to decomposition the analyst shall specially report whether any change had taken place in the constitution of the article that would interfere with the analysis.

<sup>1</sup> i.e. The Act of 1875. (Act of 1879, Preamble.)

Taking samples in course of delivery.

(2) Other articles of food.

Name and address of person selling milk or cream in a public place.

Obstruction of officer in discharge of his duties.

Procedure and penalties under Acts of 1875 & 1879.

Application of P. S. Act.

Analyst's certificate necessary.

part of the same consignment, see Fecitt v. Walsh, (1891) 2 Q.B. 304; Telford v. Fyfe, (1908) Sess. Ca. (J.), 83, noted p. 106, ante.

"The provisions of ss. 3 and 4 of the Sale of Food and Drugs Amendment Act, 1879 (relating to the taking of samples of milk in the course of delivery) shall apply to every other article of food: Provided that no samples shall be taken under this section except upon the request or with the consent of the purchaser or consignee" (Act of 1899, s. 14).

"Every person who, himself or by his servant, in any highway or place of public resort, sells milk or cream from a vehicle or from a can or other receptacle shall have conspicuously inscribed on the vehicle or receptacle his name and address, and in default shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £2" (Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, s. 9). It is not enough to have the name and address on the cart where the milk is sold from a can which is carried about by hand (Crabtree v. Skelton, (1901) 70 L.J.K.B. 560).

"Any person who wilfully obstructs or impedes any inspector or other officer in the course of his duties under the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts, or by any gratuity, bribe, promise, or other inducement prevents or attempts to prevent the due execution by such inspector or officer of his duty under those Acts, shall be liable, on summary conviction, for the first offence to a fine not exceeding £20, for the second offence to a fine not exceeding £50, and for any subsequent offence to a fine not exceeding £100" (Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, s. 16). In Taylor v. Nixon, (1910) 2 I.R. 94, it was held that a married woman, the owner of a public-house, is not responsible under this section for the acts of her husband who was employed by her to manage the business during her absence.

As to seizure and destruction of unwholesome food, see PUBLIC HEALTH. The Act of 1879 is merely emendatory of the Act of 1875, and the two Acts are consequently to be read as one.

"When the analyst, having analysed any article, shall have given his certificate of the result, from which it may appear that an offence against some one of the provisions of this Act has been committed, the person causing the analysis to be made may take proceedings for the recovery of the penalty herein imposed for such offence before any justices in petty sessions assembled having jurisdiction in the place where the article or drug sold was actually delivered to the purchaser, in a summary manner," the proceedings to be taken in Dublin, according to the Dublin Police Acts; elsewhere in Ireland, before a justice or justices at petty sessions according to the Petty Sessions (Ir.) Act, 1851, and any Act amending the same. Every penalty may be reduced or mitigated according to the judgment of the justices (Act of 1875, s. 20). Nothing in the Act shall take away the power of proceeding by indictment (s. 28).

The analyst's certificate is a sine qua non in any prosecution, whether a public one or by a private prosecutor (R. v. Smith, (1896) 1 Q.B. 596; R. (Barry) v. Mahony, (1909) 2 I.R. 490, 43 I.L.T.R. 263), in which latter case the Irish King's Bench Division refused to follow Buckler v. Wilson, (1896) 1 Q.B. 83.

A copy of the certificate must be served with the summons (Act of 1899, s. 19). Where a limited company is prosecuted, the summons must be served as directed by the Companies Acts, 1908, that is at the registered office of the company (Pearks & others v. Richardson, (1902) 1 K.B. 91, see also p. 48). The local inspector may himself institute proceedings though the L.G.B., or the Department of Agriculture may procure the samples and cause the analysis to be made (Connor v. Butler, (1902) 2 I.R. 369). As to contents of summons see Act of 1899, s. 19 (2), infra.

<sup>1</sup> As to imprisonment for any offence subsequent to a first offence, see s. 17 of the Act of 1899, p. 469.

Procedure and penalties under Acts of 1875 & 1879.
Penalties.

“(1) Where under any provision of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875, a person guilty of an offence is liable to a fine which may extend to £20 as a maximum, he shall be liable for a second offence under the same provision to a fine not exceeding £50, and for any subsequent offence to a fine not exceeding £100. (2) Where under any provision of the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts,<sup>1</sup> a person guilty of an offence is liable to a fine exceeding £50, and the offence in the opinion of the court was committed by the personal act, default, or culpable negligence of the person accused, that person shall be liable (if the court is of opinion that a fine will not meet the circumstances of the case) to imprisonment with or without hard labour for a period not exceeding three months” (Act of 1899, s. 17). See also Act of 1875, s. 20, noted supra, p. 468, as to power to mitigate penalties.

“(1) When any article of food or drug has been purchased from any person for test purposes, any prosecution under the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts in respect of the sale thereof, notwithstanding anything contained in s. 20 of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875, shall not be instituted after the expiration of 28 days from the time of the purchase. (2) In any prosecution under the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts the summons shall state particulars of the offence or offences alleged, and also the name of the prosecutor, and shall not be made returnable in less time than 14 days from the day on which it is served, and there must be served therewith a copy of any analyst's certificate obtained on behalf of the prosecutor” (Act of 1899, s. 19).

Time limit.

Contents of summons.

The words “in respect of the sale” include exposure for sale (R. (Gieraghty) v. Dublin J.J., (1901) 35 I.L.T.R. 136, I.N.I.J.R. 172). The laying of the information is the institution of proceedings (Beardsley v. Giddings, (1904) 1 K.B. 847). It has been held in a Scotch case (Frer v. Morris, (1897) 34 Sc.L.R. 527) that the day on which the purchase is made is to be excluded from the 28 days, but the contrary was decided in England under similar words in 12 & 13 Vict. c. 92 (Radcliffe v. Bartholemew, (1892) 1 Q.B. 161). Sub-section (2) does not apply to prosecutions for giving a false warranty (Cook v. White, (1896) 1 Q.B. 284). “Fourteen days” in that sub-section means clear days (McQueen v. Jackson, (1903) 2 K.B. 163). An information was laid and a summons issued thereon within the 28 days, but the summons not having been served within the time prescribed by s. 19 (2), it was allowed to drop, and, after the expiration of the 28 days, a fresh summons was applied for on the same information and issued. Held, that there having been no adjudication on the merits of the first summons, a second summons could be issued on the information, and that it was immaterial that the second summons was issued after the expiration of the 28 days, the information, which was the institution of the prosecution, having been laid within that time (Brooks v. Bagshaw, (1904) 2 K.B. 798).

“At the hearing of the information in such proceeding, the production of the certificate of the analyst shall be sufficient evidence of the facts therein stated, unless the defendant shall require that the analyst shall be called as a witness, and the parts of the articles retained by the person who purchased the article shall be produced; and the defendant may, if he think fit, tender himself and his wife to be examined on his behalf, and he or she shall, if he so desire, be examined accordingly” (Act of 1875, s. 21). The burthen of proof of an exception or provision is cast upon the defendant (s. 24).

Evidence.

“(1) At the hearing of the information in any proceeding under the

<sup>1</sup> For meaning of which see p. 456.

Procedure and penalties under Acts of 1875 and 1879.

Sale of Food and Drugs Acts, the production by the defendant of a certificate of analysis by a public analyst in the form prescribed in s. 18 of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875, shall be sufficient evidence of the facts therein stated, unless the prosecutor requires that the analyst be called as a witness. (2) A copy of every such certificate shall be sent to the prosecutor at least three clear days before the return day, and if it be not so sent, the court may, if it thinks fit, adjourn the hearing on such terms as may seem proper" (Act of 1899, s. 22).

The defendant after having established as a defence under s. 25 of the Act of 1875, that he bought the article with a written warranty and sold it in the same state as purchased, it was held that the analyst's certificate was not admissible in evidence in subsequent proceedings against the defendant's vendor (Tyler v. Kingham, (1900) 2 Q.B. 413). "The analyst's duty is merely to analyze and report the result of the analysis, and he has no right, as I think, to report extraneous facts unconnected with the analysis; and if he does so, his certificate would, in my judgment, be inadmissible as evidence of such facts" (per Hawkins, J., in R. v. Smith, (1896) 1 Q.B. 596, at p. 603). The analyst's certificate is not conclusive, and may be repelled by rebutting evidence, e.g., in a prosecution for selling watered milk, by evidence that the milk was sold as it came from the cow (Hewitt v. Taylor, (1896) 1 Q.B. 287), but the justices are bound to act on the analyst's certificate in the absence of any evidence to displace it (Elder v. Dryden, (1908) 99 L.T. 20).

Analysis by direction of justices.

Either party has a right to require the justices, or the court on appeal, to send the article for analysis to Somerset House; or the justices may, without any such request, send it of their own motion (Act of 1899, s. 21; Act of 1875, s. 22). Somerset House shall send a certificate of the result to the justices; the expense of such analysis shall be paid by the complainant or the defendant as the order may direct (Act of 1875, s. 22). The Somerset House certificate has been held by the Scotch courts not to be absolutely conclusive (Fyfe v. Hamilton, (1894) 1 Adam, 484; Todd v. Cochrane, (1901) 38 Sc. L. R. 801). It has been held that if the justices are requested to send the samples to Somerset House, the omission to do so is fatal to a conviction, even if it is impossible owing to the loss of the sample (Hutchison v. Stevenson, (1902) 39 Sc. L. R. 789).

Application of penalties.

In the case of a prosecution by an officer, inspector, or constable of the authority who shall have appointed an analyst, or agreed to the acting of an analyst, within their district, the penalties are to be paid to such officer, etc., and to be by him paid to the authority for whom he acts and to be applied towards the expenses of executing the Act; in other cases the penalty is applicable as directed by the Fines (Ir.) Act, 1851 (Act of 1875, s. 26).

Appeal to quarter sessions.

An appeal is given by section 23 of the Act of 1875 to a person convicted of any offence, irrespective of the amount of the penalty. The appeal is to the next quarter sessions for the division, or to the Recorder of Dublin or of any corporate or borough town in respect of a conviction by justices of such corporate or borough town; if the quarter sessions are held within ten days, the appellant, at his option, may appeal to the next quarter sessions but one; the appeal is to be made in the form and manner and with such notices as prescribed by the Petty Sessions Act, and all the provisions of that Act as to making appeals<sup>1</sup> and executing orders on appeal are made applicable.

Margarine and Margarine cheese, "Margarine."

"The expression 'margarine' shall mean any article of food, whether mixed with butter or not, which resembles butter, and is not milk-blended butter" (Butter and Margarine Act, 1907, s. 13). "The expression

<sup>1</sup> It is submitted that this does not limit the jurisdiction to cases where the penalty imposed exceeds 20s.

'margarine cheese' means any substance, whether compound or otherwise, which is prepared in imitation of cheese, and which contains fat not derived from milk" (Act of 1899, s. 25). "The word 'butter' shall mean the substance usually known as butter, made exclusively from milk or cream, or both, with or without salt or other preservative, and with or without the addition of colouring matter" (Margarine Act, 1887, s. 3). "The expression 'cheese' means the substance usually known as cheese, containing no fat derived otherwise than from milk" (Act of 1899, s. 25). "Milk-blended butter" means "any mixture produced by mixing or blending butter with milk or cream other than condensed milk or cream" (Act of 1907, s. 1 (b)).

Margarine and Margarine cheese.
 "Margarine cheese."
 "Butter."
 "Cheese."
 "Milk-blended butter."

"Every person dealing in margarine [or "margarine cheese"<sup>1</sup>], whether wholesale or retail, whether a manufacturer, importer, or as consignor or consignee, or as commission agent or otherwise, who is found guilty of an offence against this Act"—Penalty, first offence, fine not exceeding £20; second offence, not exceeding £50; third and subsequent offences, not exceeding £100<sup>2</sup> (Margarine Act, 1887, s. 4).

Penalties for offences against Margarine Act, 1897.

Margarine shall not be sold "except under the name of margarine, and under the conditions set forth in this Act" (Margarine Act, 1887, s. 3).

Margarine to be sold as such only.

"Every person dealing with, selling, or exposing, or offering for sale, or having in his possession for the purpose of sale any quantity of margarine [or "margarine cheese"<sup>1</sup>] contrary to the provisions of the Act shall be liable to conviction for an offence against this Act, unless he shows to the satisfaction of the court before whom he is charged that he purchased the article in question as butter [or cheese<sup>1</sup>], and with a written warranty or invoice to that effect, that he had no reason to believe at the time when he sold it that the article was other than butter [or cheese<sup>1</sup>], and that he sold it in the same state as when he purchased it, and in such case he shall be discharged from the prosecution, but shall be liable to pay the costs incurred by the prosecutor unless he shall have given due notice to him that he will rely upon the above defence" (s. 7; see also Act of 1899, s. 20, p. 465).

Dealing, &c., in margarine or margarine cheese contrary to Act.

"Every person dealing in margarine [or margarine cheese<sup>1</sup>] in the manner described in the preceding section<sup>3</sup> shall conform to the following regulations: Every package, whether open or closed and containing margarine, shall be branded or durably marked 'Margarine' [or 'margarine cheese'<sup>1</sup>] on the top, bottom, and sides in printed capital letters, not less than  $\frac{3}{4}$  of an inch square, and if such margarine [or 'margarine cheese'<sup>1</sup>] be exposed for sale by retail there shall be attached to each parcel thereof so exposed, and in such manner as to be clearly visible to the purchaser, a label marked in printed capital letters not less than  $1\frac{1}{2}$  ins. square 'Margarine' [or 'margarine cheese'<sup>1</sup>]; and every person selling margarine [or margarine cheese<sup>1</sup>] by retail save in a package duly branded or durably marked as aforesaid shall in every case deliver the same to the purchaser<sup>4</sup> in a paper wrapper on which shall be printed in capital block letters no less than half an inch long<sup>5</sup> and distinctly legible, 'Margarine' or 'margarine cheese'<sup>1</sup>, and no other printed matter shall appear on the wrapper"<sup>6</sup> (Margarine Act, 1887, s. 6; Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, s. 6).

Package to be marked.

<sup>1</sup> Words in brackets inserted by s. 5 of the Act of 1899.

<sup>2</sup> As to imprisonment for any offence subsequent to a first offence, see s. 17 of the Act of 1899, p. 469.

<sup>3</sup> That is, "whether wholesale or retail, whether a manufacturer, importer, or as consignor or consignee, or as commission agent or otherwise" (s. 4).

<sup>4</sup> The words "or with" which here occurred in the section were repealed by the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, s. 6.

<sup>5</sup> "Half an inch long" substituted for quarter of an inch square (s. 6 of the Act of 1899).

<sup>6</sup> The words in italics added by Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, s. 6.

Margarine
and Margarine
cheese.

"Where under this Act or the Margarine Act, 1887, it is required that any package containing margarine or margarine cheese shall be branded or marked, the brand or mark shall be on the package itself and not solely on a label, ticket, or other thing attached thereto" (Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, s. 6 (1)).

An open tub kept in a shop in the sight of purchasers is a package within the section (M'Nair v. Horan, (1904) 20 Cox 729, Maguire v. Porter, (1905) 2 I.R. 147). Where a tub is kept behind a screen out of sight of customers, it is not exposed within the section (Crane v. Lawrence, (1890) 25 Q.B.D. 152), but where packages of made up margarine are kept on shelves so as to be visible to purchasers they are exposed (Wheat v. Brown, (1892) 1 Q.B. 418). Selling slices of bread spread with margarine is not within the section (Moore v. Pearce, (1895) 2 Q.B. 657).

Misdescribing margarine in wrapper.

"If in any wrapper enclosing margarine, or on any package containing margarine, or on any label attached to a parcel of margarine, or in any advertisement or invoice of margarine a person dealing in margarine describes it by any name other than either 'margarine,' or a name combining the word 'margarine' with a fancy or other descriptive name approved by the Department of Agriculture,<sup>1</sup> and printed in type not larger than and in the same colour as the word 'margarine,' he shall be guilty of an offence under this Act" (Butter and Margarine Act, 1907, s. 8). For penalties see s. 11 of the Act, noted p. 478, post.

The defendant sold a half pound of Kurmo (a kind of margarine) in a paper wrapper on which the words "Kurmo Margarine" were printed. The word Kurmo was a duly approved fancy or descriptive name. Held, that the above section had not impliedly repealed section 6 of the Act of 1899, and that the word "margarine" and no other printed matter should appear "on" the wrapper (Williams v. Baker, (1910) W.N. 280).

Branding
margarine
cheese.

"The provisions of the Margarine Act, 1887, as amended by this Act, shall extend to margarine cheese, and shall apply accordingly, with the substitution of 'margarine cheese,' and 'cheese' for 'margarine' and 'butter,' and provided that all margarine cheese, sold or dealt in otherwise than by retail, shall either be enclosed in packages marked in accordance with the Margarine Act, 1887, as amended by this Act, or be itself conspicuously branded with the words 'margarine cheese'" (Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, s. 5).

Consignment of margarine.

"All margarine<sup>2</sup> imported into the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and all margarine,<sup>2</sup> whether imported or manufactured within the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, shall, whenever forwarded by any public conveyance, be duly consigned as margarine,<sup>2</sup> and it shall be lawful for any officer of H.M. Customs or Inland Revenue, or any medical officer of health, inspector of nuisances, [inspector of weights and measures<sup>3</sup>] or police constable, authorized under s. 13 of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875, to procure samples for analysis, if he shall have reason to believe that the provisions of this Act are infringed on<sup>4</sup> this behalf, to examine and take samples from any package, and ascertain, if necessary by submitting the same to be analysed, whether an offence against this Act has been committed"<sup>5</sup> (Margarine Act, 1887, s. 8).

Registration of manufactory.

"Every manufactory of margarine<sup>2</sup> within the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland shall be registered by the owner or occupier thereof with the local authority<sup>6</sup> from time to time in such manner as the

<sup>1</sup> See Act of 1899, s. 24, and Act of 1907, s. 14.

<sup>2</sup> Or margarine cheese (Act of 1899, s. 5).

<sup>3</sup> By s. 12 of the Butter and Margarine Act, 1907, it is provided that this section shall have effect as if the words in brackets were inserted after the word "nuisances."

<sup>4</sup> Sic.

<sup>5</sup> As to the penalties see s. 4, p. 471, supra.

<sup>6</sup> "Local authority" means any local authority authorized to appoint a public analyst under the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875 (Margarine Act, 1887, s. 13). See Act of 1875, s. 13, noted p. 462, ante.

Local Government Board . . . of Ireland . . . may direct, and every such owner or occupier carrying on such manufacture in a manufactory not duly registered, shall be guilty of an offence under this Act" (Margarine Act, 1887, s. 9). These provisions are extended to any premises wherein the business of a wholesale dealer in margarine or margarine cheese is carried on (Sale of F. and D. Act, 1899, s. 7 (4)), and are also extended to certain butter factories by s. 1 (1) of the Butter and Margarine Act, 1907, namely "(a) butter factories, that is to say, any premises on which by way of trade butter is blended, reworked, or subjected to any other treatment, but not so as to cease to be butter; and (b) any premises on which there is manufactured any milk-blended butter (that is to say, any mixture produced by mixing or blending butter with milk or cream other than condensed milk or cream) or on which there is carried on the business of a wholesale dealer in milk-blended butter" (Butter and Margarine Act, 1907, s. 1 (1)). As to notifying registration, &c., see SALE OF FOOD AND DRUGS ACT, 1899, s. 7, noted, post, p. 477.

Margarine and Margarine cheese.

"It shall be unlawful to manufacture, sell, expose for sale, or import any margarine, the fat of which contains more than 10 per cent. of butter-fat, and every person who manufactures, sells, exposes for sale, or imports any margarine which contains more than that percentage shall be guilty of an offence under the Margarine Act, 1887,<sup>1</sup> and any defence which would be a defence under s. 7 of that Act<sup>2</sup> shall be a defence under this section, and the provisions of the former section shall apply accordingly" (Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, s. 8). A mixture of butter and fresh milk is not margarine within the section (Bayley v. Pearks, (1902) 87 L.T. 67). But it is milk-blended butter; as to which see the definition thereof at p. 471, and s. 9 of the Act of 1907, p. 476.

Restriction on amount of butter-fat in margarine.

"Any officer authorized to take samples under the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875, may, without going through the form of purchase provided by that Act, but otherwise acting in all respects in accordance with the provisions of the said Act as to dealing with samples, take for the purposes of analysis samples of any butter, or substances purporting to be butter,<sup>3</sup> which are exposed for sale, and are not marked Margarine<sup>4</sup> as provided by this Act; and any such substance not being so marked shall be presumed to be exposed for sale as butter"<sup>5</sup> (Margarine Act, 1887, s. 10.)

Taking samples.

All proceedings under the Margarine Act, 1887, shall, save as expressly varied, be taken as prescribed by ss. 12-28 inclusive of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act of 1875, and all officers employed under the Act of 1875 are empowered to carry out the provisions of the Act (Margarine Act, 1887, s. 12). Reference should therefore be made to PROCEDURE UNDER ACTS OF 1875 & 1879, p. 468, et seq.

Procedure under Margarine Act, 1887.

Any part of the penalty recovered under the Act of 1887 may, if the court so direct, be paid to the person who proceeds for the same, to reimburse him for the legal costs of obtaining the analysis and any other reasonable expenses to which the Court shall consider him entitled (Margarine Act, 1887, s. 11). Section 11 only applies to prosecutions by private persons (R. v. Titterton, (1895) 2 Q.B. 61).

"Where an employer is charged with an offence against this Act he shall be entitled, upon information duly laid by him, to have any other person whom he charges as the actual offender brought before the court at the time appointed for hearing the charge, and if, after the commission of the offence has been proved, the employer proves to the satisfaction of

Acts done by servant, &c.

<sup>1</sup> As to the penalties for such offence, see s. 4 of the Act of 1887, p. 471, and s. 17 of the Act of 1889, p. 469.

<sup>2</sup> For which see p. 474.

<sup>4</sup> Or margarine cheese (Act of 1899, s. 5).

<sup>3</sup> Or cheese (Act of 1899, s. 5).

<sup>5</sup> Or cheese (Act of 1899, s. 6).

Margarine and Margarine cheese.

the court that he had used due diligence to enforce the execution of this Act, and that the said other person had committed the offence in question, without his knowledge, consent, or connivance, the said other person shall be summarily convicted of such offence, and the employer shall be exempt from any penalty" (Margarine Act, 1887, s. 5).

Presumption against vendor.

"Every person dealing with, selling, or exposing or offering for sale, or having in his possession for the purpose of sale any quantity of margarine<sup>1</sup> contrary to the provisions of this Act, shall be liable to conviction . . . unless he shows to the satisfaction of the court . . . that he purchased the article in question as butter<sup>2</sup> and with a written warranty or invoice to that effect, that he had no reason to believe at the time when he sold it that the article was other than butter,<sup>2</sup> and that he sold it in the same state as when he purchased it, and in such case he shall be discharged from the prosecution, but shall be liable to pay the costs incurred by the prosecutor unless he shall have given due notice to him that he will rely upon the above defence" (Margarine Act, 1887, s. 7).

Division of samples taken in course of delivery or transit.

"In the case of a sample taken of milk in course of delivery, or of margarine or margarine cheese forwarded by a public conveyance, the person taking the sample shall forward by registered parcel or otherwise a portion of the sample marked and sealed or fastened up, to the consignor if his name and address appear on the can or package containing the article sampled" (Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, s. 10).

Provisions as to condensed, separated, or skimmed milk.

"Every tin or other receptacle containing condensed separated or skimmed milk must bear a label clearly visible to the purchaser, on which the words 'Machine-skimmed Milk' or 'Skimmed Milk,' as the case may require, are printed in large and legible type, and if any person sells or exposes or offers for sale condensed separated or skimmed milk in contravention of this section, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £10" (Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, s. 11). It has been said that the section applies only to condensed milk (French v. Card, (1909) 101 L.T. 428).

Imported impoverished articles to be marked.

"(1) If there is imported into the United Kingdom any of the following articles, namely:—(a) margarine or margarine cheese except in packages conspicuously marked 'Margarine' or 'Margarine Cheese,' as the case may require; or (b) adulterated or impoverished milk or cream, except in packages or cans conspicuously marked with a name or description indicating that the milk or cream has been so treated; or (c) condensed separated or skimmed milk, except in tins or other receptacles which bear a label whereon the words 'Machine-skimmed Milk' or 'Skimmed Milk,' as the case may require, are printed in large and legible type; or (d) any adulterated or impoverished article of food to which Her Majesty may by Order in Council direct that this section shall be applied, unless the same be imported in packages or receptacles conspicuously marked with a name or description indicating that the article has been so treated, the importer<sup>3</sup> shall be liable on summary conviction for the first offence to a fine not exceeding £20, for the second offence to a fine not exceeding £50, and for any subsequent offence to a fine not exceeding £100"<sup>4</sup> (Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, s. 1). This section is extended to the following articles by the Butter and Margarine Act, 1907, s. 5:—(e) "Butter containing more than sixteen per cent. of water; (f) margarine

<sup>1</sup> Or margarine cheese (Act of 1889, s. 5).

<sup>2</sup> Or cheese (Act of 1889, s. 5).

<sup>3</sup> "The word 'importer' shall include any person who, whether as owner, consignor, or consignee, agent, or broker is in possession of, or in anywise entitled to the custody or control of the article" (s. 1 (2)).

<sup>4</sup> As to imprisonment for any offence subsequent to a first offence, see s. 17, p. 469. As to alternative to the above-mentioned penalty, see s. 5 (2) of the Act of 1907, p. 475, infra.

containing more than sixteen per cent. of water, or more than ten per cent. of butter fat; (g) milk-blended butter containing more than twenty-four per cent. of water; (h) milk-blended butter, except in packages conspicuously marked with such name as may be approved by the Department of Agriculture<sup>1</sup> for that purpose; (i) butter, margarine, or milk-blended butter which contains a preservative prohibited by any regulation made under this Act, or an amount of a preservative in excess of the limit allowed by any such regulation" (Butter and Margarine Act, 1907, s. 5 (1)).

"Prosecutions for offences under this section shall be undertaken by the Commissioners of Customs; subject to the provisions of this Act, this section shall have effect as if it were part of the Customs Consolidation Act, 1876" (Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, s. 1 (2)). "The maximum fine for an offence under the said section one<sup>2</sup> as amended by this section,<sup>3</sup> shall, where the article in respect of which the offence was committed is butter, margarine, margarine cheese, or milk-blended butter, be either such as is provided in the said section one, or, at the election of the Commissioners of Customs, a fine equal to the value of the goods imported bearing the same mark or description, to be estimated and taken according to the rate and price for which goods of the like kind, but of the best quality, were sold at or about the time of the importation" (Butter and Margarine Act, 1907, s. 5 (2)).

"(4) Where the Commissioners of Customs take a sample of any consignment . . . they shall divide it into not less than three parts, and send one part to the importer and one part to the principal chemist of the Government laboratories, and retain one part. (5) In any proceeding under this section, the certificate of the principal chemist of the result of the analysis shall be sufficient evidence of the facts therein stated, unless the defendant require that the person who made the analysis be called as a witness. (7) For the purposes of this section an article of food shall be deemed to be adulterated or impoverished if it has been mixed with any other substance, or if any part of it has been abstracted so as in either case to affect injuriously its quality, substance, or nature: Provided that an article of food shall not be deemed to be adulterated by reason only of the addition of any preservative or colouring matter of such a nature and in such quantity as not to render the article injurious to health" (Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, s. 1).

(3) "The certificate of the principal chemist of the Government laboratories, or, if the person who made the analysis be called as a witness, the evidence of that person, that an imported substance is margarine or milk-blended butter shall raise a presumption, until the contrary is proved, that the substance is margarine or milk-blended butter, and the defendant shall not be entitled to require the person who made the analysis to be called as a witness, unless he shall, at least three clear days before the return day, give notice to the prosecutor that he requires his attendance, and deposit with the prosecutor a sum sufficient to cover the reasonable costs and expenses of his attendance, which costs and expenses shall be paid by the defendant in the event of his conviction. (4) Where a sample, taken under the said section one<sup>4</sup> as amended by this section, is certified by the principal chemist to be margarine or milk-blended butter, the Commissioner of Customs shall, upon receiving the certificate, forthwith notify the importer thereof" (Butter and Margarine Act, 1907, s. 5).

Imported impoverished articles to be marked.

Proceedings and penalties.

Taking samples.

Certificate of analysis.

What is "adulterated or impoverished"?

Requiring attendance of analyst.

<sup>1</sup> See s. 14 and Act of 1899, s. 24.

<sup>2</sup> Of the Act of 1899, supra, p. 474.

<sup>3</sup> In sub-section 1, supra.

<sup>4</sup> Of the Act of 1899.

Regulations
as to preservatives.

“(1) The Local Government Board<sup>1</sup> may, after such inquiry as they deem necessary, make regulations for prohibiting the use as a preservative of any substance specified in such regulations in the manufacture or preparation for sale of butter, margarine, or milk-blended butter, or for limiting the extent to which either generally or as regards any particular substance or substances, preservatives may be used in the manufacture or preparation for sale of butter, margarine, or milk-blended butter.<sup>2</sup> (2) Any regulations . . . shall be notified in the . . . Dublin Gazette, and shall also be made known in such other manner as the Local Government Board may direct. (3) Any person who manufactures, sells, or exposes or offers for sale, or has in his possession for the purpose of sale, any butter, margarine, or milk-blended butter which contains a preservative prohibited by a regulation under this section or an amount of a preservative in excess of the limit allowed by any such regulation, shall be guilty of an offence under this Act” (Butter and Margarine Act, 1907, s. 7). For penalties see s. 11, p 478, post.

Moisture in butter or in margarine in factory or for sale.

(1) “If any butter which, when prepared for sale or consignment, contains more than sixteen per cent. of water is in any butter factory, or if any margarine<sup>3</sup> which, when prepared for sale or consignment, contains more than sixteen per cent. of water is in any margarine factory, or if any such butter or margarine is consigned from a butter factory or margarine factory, the occupier of the factory or consignor, as the case may be, shall (whether the excess of moisture is due to adulteration or not) be guilty of an offence under this Act, unless the occupier or consignor proves to the satisfaction of the court that the butter or margarine was not made, blended, reworked, or treated in the factory. (2) Any person who manufactures, sells, or exposes or offers for sale, or has in his possession for the purpose of sale, any milk-blended butter which contains more than twenty-four per cent. of water, shall be guilty of an offence under this Act” (Butter and Margarine Act, 1907, s. 4). For penalties see s. 11, 478, post.

Moisture in milk-blended
butter.

See further, as to weighing butter, and mixing with excessive salt, under BUTTER, p. 391.

Sale of milk-blended
butter.

“(1) Milk-blended butter shall be dealt with under such name or names as may be approved by the Department of Agriculture,<sup>4</sup> and under the conditions applicable to the sale or description of margarine, with the substitution of an approved name for the word “margarine,” and with this modification, that in any case where in order to comply with those conditions the article is delivered to the purchaser in a wrapper, there shall, in addition to the approved name, be printed on the wrapper, in such manner as the Department approve, such description of the article, setting out the percentage of moisture or water contained therein, as may be approved by the Department. (2) Milk-blended butter, whenever forwarded by any public conveyance, shall be duly consigned under the name which as respects the article consigned has been approved by the Department under this section; subject to this modification, s. 8 of the Margarine Act, 1887, shall apply to milk-blended butter in like manner as it applies to margarine. (3) If any person deals with, sells, or exposes or offers for sale, or has in his possession for the purpose of sale, or describes any milk-blended butter contrary to the provisions of this section, he shall be guilty of an offence under this Act, but any defence which would be a defence under s. 7 of the Margarine Act, 1887,<sup>5</sup> as

<sup>1</sup> For Ireland (Act of 1907, s. 14; Act of 1899, s. 24).

<sup>2</sup> No such regulations have been made to date (December 31st, 1910).

<sup>3</sup> Defined as “any article of food, whether mixed with butter or not, which resembles butter and which is not milk-blended butter” (s. 13).

<sup>4</sup> Act of 1907, s. 14; Act of 1899, s. 24.

<sup>5</sup> See p. 474, supra.

respects margarine, shall be a defence under this section as respects milk-blended butter" (Butter and Margarine Act, 1907, s. 9).

"(1) Every occupier of a manufactory of margarine or margarine cheese, and every wholesale dealer in such substances, shall keep a register showing the quantity and destination of each consignment of such substances sent out from his manufactory or place of business, and this register shall be open to the inspection of any officer of the Department of Agriculture<sup>1</sup> . . . (3) If any such occupier or dealer (a) fails to keep such a register, or (b) refuses to produce the register when required to do so by an officer of the Department of Agriculture, or (c) fails to keep the register posted up to date, or (d) wilfully makes any entry in the register which is false in any particular, or (e) fraudulently omits to enter any particular which ought to be entered in the register, he shall be liable on summary conviction for the first offence to a fine not exceeding £10, and for any subsequent offence to a fine not exceeding £50.<sup>2</sup> (4) The provisions of s. 9 of the Margarine Act, 1887, relating to registration of manufactories,<sup>3</sup> shall extend to any premises wherein the business of a wholesale dealer in margarine or margarine cheese is carried on. (5) The registration of a manufactory or other premises shall be forthwith notified by the local authority to the Department of Agriculture"<sup>1</sup> (Sale of Food and Drugs Act of 1899, s. 7).

Butter and margarine
factories.
Registers.

"The provisions of section 7 of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, relating to registers of consignments of margarine, shall, with the necessary adaptations, apply to consignments of milk-blended butter" (Butter and Margarine Act, 1907, s. 1 (2)).

"Premises shall not be used as a butter factory if they form part of or communicate, otherwise than by a public street or road, with any other premises which are required to be registered under the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts, or under paragraph (b) of this section,<sup>4</sup> and if any premises are so used, the occupier thereof shall be guilty of an offence under this Act, and the local authority shall remove from the register of butter factories kept by them any premises used as a butter factory contrary to this provision: Provided that this sub section shall not apply to premises which on the 1st day of January, 1907, were being used as a butter factory and formed part of or communicated with premises which were then registered under the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts, if and so long as the Department of Agriculture so direct" (Butter and Margarine Act, 1907, s. 1 (3)).

Premises that may be used as butter
factories.

"(1) Any officer of the Department of Agriculture<sup>1</sup> or of the Local Government Board shall have power to enter at all reasonable times any premises registered under the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts or this Act, and to inspect any process of manufacture, blending, reworking, or treatment used therein, and to take samples for analysis of any butter, margarine, margarine cheese, milk-blended butter, or of any article capable of being used in the manufacture, treatment, or adulteration of any such article as aforesaid. (2) An officer of a local authority who is authorized to procure samples under the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts shall, if specially authorized in that behalf by the local authority, have the like powers of entry, inspection, and sampling as regards any premises registered with the authority as a butter factory. (3) If the Department of Agriculture<sup>1</sup> "have reason to believe (a) that on any unregistered premises there is carried on any process of manufacture, blending, reworking, or treatment or any wholesale dealing

Inspection.

<sup>1</sup> See s. 24 of the Act of 1899, and s. 14 of the Act of 1907.

<sup>2</sup> As to imprisonment for any offence subsequent to a first offence see Act of 1899, s. 17, p. 469.

<sup>3</sup> See p. 472 under Registration of Manufactory.

<sup>4</sup> See p. 473.

Butter and
margarine
factories.

which under the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts or this Act cannot be carried on except on registered premises; or (b) that on any premises butter is by way of trade either made or stored, and that for the purposes of those Acts inspection is desirable, the Department<sup>1</sup> may specially authorize any officer of the Department<sup>1</sup> to enter the premises, and in such case the officer shall have the like powers of entry, inspection, and sampling as if the premises were registered. (4) Where under this section a special authority is required, an officer of the Department<sup>1</sup> or of a local authority shall not be entitled to exercise any of his powers under this section unless, if so requested by or on behalf of the occupier of the premises to be entered, he produces his authority" (Butter and Margarine Act, 1907, s. 2). As to penalties for obstructing officer, see Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, s. 16.

Adulterants in butter
factories.

"If any substance intended to be used for the adulteration of butter is found in any butter factory, the occupier of the factory shall be guilty of an offence under this Act, and if any oil or fat capable of being so used is found, it shall be deemed to be intended to be so used unless the contrary is proved" (Butter and Margarine Act, 1907, s. 3). As to penalties see s. 11 of Act of 1907, post.

Regulations
by Department as to standard.

"The Department of Agriculture<sup>1</sup> may, after such inquiry as they deem necessary, make regulations for determining what deficiency in any of the normal constituents of genuine milk, cream, butter, or cheese, or what addition of extraneous matter or proportion of water in any sample of milk (including condensed milk), cream, butter, or cheese, shall for the purpose of the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts raise a presumption, until the contrary is proved, that the milk, cream, butter, or cheese is not genuine or is injurious to health, and an analyst shall have regard to such regulations certifying the result of an analysis under those Acts" (Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, s. 4). This power is extended to making regulations as to the proportion of any milk solid, other than milk fat, in any sample of butter or milk-blended butter (Butter and Margarine Act, 1907, s. 6).

Powers of
L. G. B. and Department to take samples.

Sections 2 and 3 of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, empower the L.G.B. or the Department of Agriculture (see s. 24 of the Act) to authorize their officer to take samples; and also, when the local authority is in default, to act for the purposes of the Sale of Food and Drugs Acts.

The Acts of 1899 and 1907 are to be read as one (Act of 1907, s. 14 (1)).

Procedure and penalties under the Acts of 1899
and 1907.

"(1) Any person guilty of an offence under this Act shall be liable, on conviction under the Summary Jurisdiction Acts, for a first offence, to a fine not exceeding £20; and for a second offence, to a fine not exceeding £50; and for a third, or any subsequent offence, to a fine not exceeding £100, and in cases where imprisonment can be inflicted under sec. 17 of the Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1899, to such imprisonment as is by that section authorized. (2) Section 5 of the Margarine Act, 1887 (which exempts employers from liability in certain cases), section 11 of the same Act (which relates to the appropriation of penalties), and section 12 of the same Act (which relates to proceedings under that Act), shall apply to proceedings under this Act, with the substitution of references to this Act for references to the Margarine Act, 1887" (Butter and Margarine Act, 1907, s. 11). Reference should therefore be made to PROCEDURE UNDER THE MARGARINE ACT, 1887, p. 473.

<sup>1</sup> See s. 24 of the Act of 1899, and s. 14 of the Act of 1907.

FRIENDLY SOCIETIES.

	PAGE		PAGE
Circulating false rules, . . . .	479	Offences by society to be offences by
False declarations, . . . .	479	officers, . . . .	480
Fraud as to property of society, . .	479	Continuing offences, . . . .	480
Who may prosecute for above of-		Fine for offences not specially pro-
fences, . . . .	479	vided for, . . . .	481
Falsification of accounts, &c., . .	480	Procedure, . . . .	481
Unlawful amalgamation or transfer, .	480	Appeal, . . . .	481
Other offences, . . . .	480	Civil matters, . . . .	481

“(1) If any person, with intent to mislead or defraud, gives to any other person a copy of any rules, laws, regulations, or other documents, other than the rules of a registered society or branch, on the pretence that they are the existing rules of that society or branch, or that there are no other rules of the society or branch, or gives to any person a copy of any rules on the pretence that those rules are the rules of a registered society or branch when the society or branch is not registered, the person so offending shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.<sup>1</sup> (2) If any person knowingly makes a false or fraudulent statement in any statutory declaration required by this Act, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanour.<sup>1</sup> (3) If any person obtains possession by false representation or imposition of any property of a registered society or branch, or withholds or misapplies any such property in his possession, or wilfully applies any part thereof to purposes other than those expressed or directed in the rules of the society or branch and authorized by this Act, he shall, on such complaint as is in this section mentioned, be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds, and costs, and to be ordered to deliver up all such property, or to repay all sums of money applied improperly, and in default of such delivery or repayment, or of the payment of such fine and costs as aforesaid, to be imprisoned, with or without hard labour, for any time not exceeding three months. [Provided that where on such a complaint against a person of withholding or misapplying property, or applying it for unauthorized purposes, it is not proved that that person acted with any fraudulent intent, he may be ordered to deliver up all such property or to repay any sum of money applied improperly, with costs, but shall not be liable to conviction, and any such order shall be enforceable as an order for the payment of a civil debt recoverable summarily before a court of summary jurisdiction.]<sup>2</sup> (4) Complaint under this section may be made—(a) In the case of a registered society, by the society or any member authorized by the society, or the trustees or committee of the society; or (b) in the case of a registered branch, by (i) the branch or any member authorized by the branch or the trustees or committee thereof; or (ii) the central body of the society of which the branch forms part; or (iii) any member of the society or branch authorized by the central body; or (c) in any case, by the chief registrar or any assistant registrar by his authority, or by any member of the society or branch authorized by the central office. (5) Nothing in this Act shall prevent any such person from being proceeded against by way of indictment, if not previously convicted of the same offence under the provisions of this Act ” (s. 87).

Circulating false copies of rules.

False declarations.

Fraud as to property of society.

Who may prosecute under s. 87.

<sup>1</sup> Not punishable summarily.<sup>2</sup> Words in brackets added by Friendly Societies Act, 1908, 8 Ed. 7, c. 32, s. 9.

Falsification of accounts, returns, etc.

"If any person wilfully makes, orders, or allows to be made, any entry, erasure in, or omission from a balance sheet of a registered society or branch, or a return or document required to be sent, produced, or delivered for the purposes of this Act, with intent to falsify the same, or to evade any of the provisions of this Act, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding £50" (s. 88).

Unlawful amalgamation or transfer.

"If an officer or person aids or abets in the amalgamation or transfer of engagements, or in the dissolution of a friendly society otherwise than as in this Act provided, he shall be liable on summary conviction to the fine imposed by this Act for offences thereunder, or to be imprisoned with hard labour for a term not exceeding three months" (s. 90).

Other offences. 59 & 60 Vict. c. 25, s. 84.

The following are the offence sections of the Friendly Societies Act, 1896 (59 & 60 Vict. c. 25):—

"It shall be an offence under this Act if—(a) a registered society or branch, or an officer or member thereof, fails to give any notice, send any return or document, do or allow to be done anything which the society, branch, officer, or person is by this Act required to give, send, do or allow to be done,<sup>1</sup> or (b) a registered society or branch, or an officer or member thereof, wilfully neglects or refuses to do any act, or to furnish any information required for the purposes of this Act by the chief or other registrar, or by any other person authorized under this Act, or does anything forbidden by this Act: or (c) a registered society or branch, or an officer or member thereof, makes a return, or wilfully furnishes information in any respect false or insufficient: or (d) an officer or member of a body which, having been a branch of a society, has wholly seceded or been expelled from that society, thereafter uses the name of that society or any name implying that the body is a branch of that society, or the number by which that body was designated as such branch: or (e) where a dispute is referred under this Act to the chief or other registrar, a person refuses to attend or to produce any documents, or to give evidence before the chief or other registrar: or (f) a society or branch, whether registered or unregistered, pays money on the death of a child under ten years of age, otherwise than is provided by this Act: or (g) a parent or personal representative of a parent claiming money on the death of a child produces a certificate of the death other than is in this Act provided to the society or branch from which the money is claimed, or produces a false certificate, or one fraudulently obtained, or in any way attempts to defeat the provisions of this Act with respect to payments upon the death of children" (s. 84).

Offences by society to be offences by officers, etc.

"Where a registered society or branch is guilty of an offence under this Act, every officer of the society or branch bound by the rules thereof to fulfil any duty whereof the offence is a breach, or if there is no such officer, then every member of the committee, unless that member is proved to have been ignorant of, or to have attempted to prevent the commission of the offence, shall be liable to the same penalty as if he had committed the offence" (s. 85).

Continuing offences.

"Every default under this Act constituting an offence, if continued, shall constitute a new offence in every week during which the default continues" (s. 86).

<sup>1</sup> Every registered society and branch shall have a registered office, and send notice to registrar of change (s. 24); appoint trustees (s. 25); have an annual audit (s. 26); make an annual return to registrar as prescribed (s. 27); supply gratuitously to every member or person interested copy of annual return or balance sheet (s. 39); allow inspection of books by members or person interested (s. 40). A society or branch shall not pay money on death of a child under ten, except to the parent or personal representatives of the parent, and upon production of certificate of registrar of deaths, containing prescribed particulars (s. 63).

"A society or branch, and an officer or member of a society or branch, or other person guilty of an offence under this Act for which a fine is not expressly provided, shall be liable to a fine of not more than £5" (s. 89). Fine for offences generally.

All offences and fines may be prosecuted and recovered in manner directed by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts,<sup>1</sup> either (a) at the place where the offence was committed, or (b) as respects a prosecution against a registered society or branch or an officer thereof, at the place where the registered office of the society or branch is situated; or (c) as respects other prosecutions, at the place where the person is resident at the time of the institution of the prosecution (s. 92). Procedure.

"Where proceedings are taken against a society or branch for the recovery of any fine under this Act the summons . . . shall be sufficiently served by leaving a true copy thereof at the registered office of the society or branch, or at any place of business of the society or branch, within the jurisdiction of the court in which the proceeding is brought, or, if that office or place of business is closed, by posting the copy on the outer door of that office or place of business" (Friendly Societies Act, 1896, s. 94 (6); Friendly Societies Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 32, s. 11).

Any person may appeal to quarter sessions from any order or conviction made by a court of summary jurisdiction under the Act (Act of 1896, s. 93). Appeal.

As to determination of civil matters under the Act, see CIVIL JURISDICTION, ante, p. 161 et seq.

GAME LAWS.

	PAGE		PAGE
Procedure, . . . . .	481	Sunday shooting, . . . . .	489
Game, what is, . . . . .	482	Game certificates or licences, . . . . .	489
Trespass in pursuit of game—		Gun licences, . . . . .	490
Generally, . . . . .	483	Dealing in game, . . . . .	491
Procedure under 27 Geo. 3, c. 35, . . . . .	483	Who may sell game without a licence, . . . . .	491
Reservation to landlord of game, . . . . .	483	Licences required by game dealers, . . . . .	491
Killing hares or rabbits in warren in daytime, . . . . .	484	Offences as to game-dealing, . . . . .	492
Night poaching, . . . . .	484	Ground game, . . . . .	493
Killing hares and rabbits in warren in night-time, . . . . .	486	Destroying eggs or nests, . . . . .	494
Offences as to deer, . . . . .	486	Burning mountain, . . . . .	494
Tracing game in snow, . . . . .	486	Poisoned flesh and poisoned grain, . . . . .	494
Powers as to suspected poachers, . . . . .	486	Dogs, . . . . .	494
Close seasons, . . . . .	488	Wild birds, . . . . .	494

With the exception of offences under the Larceny Act, 1861, the Game Trespass Act, 1864, the Ground Game Act, 1880, the Wild Birds' Protection Acts, and possibly the Poaching Prevention Act, 1862, the Petty Sessions Act is not applicable to the offences mentioned in this article, inasmuch as section 42 of that Act excludes its operation from prosecutions relating to the game or excise laws, save as to forms of procedure. In summary proceedings for offences against the game laws, as in the case of other offences triable by magistrates, the proceedings must be commenced by an information or complaint (Paley, 8th ed., p. 75), which need not be in writing, unless the statute Procedure.

<sup>1</sup> As to which, see p. 335.

Procedure.

expressly so directs (R. v. Millard, (1853) 6 Cox, 150). On the making of the information, the justice should issue a summons setting out the charge. The summons should be signed by the justice, and it is thought should be served on the defendant personally (R. v. Hall, (1825) 6 D. & R. 84, R. v. Simpson, (1716) 10 Mod. 341), as it does not seem that the provisions as to substituting service contained in the Petty Sessions Act are applicable, being something more than a form of procedure. If, however, the defendant appears at petty sessions, the irregularity is waived (R. v. Barrett, (1710) 1 Salk. 383.) There is no jurisdiction at common law by which a summons issued in one county can be served in another.<sup>1</sup> As to the Petty Sessions Act, see G. S. & W. R. v. Leyden, (1907) 2 I. R. 160, noted p. 45. The justices on proof of the service of the summons can proceed in the absence of the defendant (R. v. Simpson, (1717) 10 Mod. 341). They can also probably issue a warrant for the arrest of the accused if he does not appear (2 Hawk. 133). In many cases prosecutions must be brought within six calendar months from the date of the offence (27 Geo. 3, c. 35 (Ir.), s. 20; 9 Geo. 4, c. 69, s. 4; 23 & 24 Vict. c. 90, s. 3). The laying of the information is the commencement of the prosecution (R. v. Barret, (1710) 1 Salk. 383; Thorpe v. Priestnall, (1897) 1 Q.B. 159; Beardsley v. Giddings (1904) 1 K.B. 847). The justices have no power to compel the attendance of witnesses (Paley, 8th ed.; p. 125), except in cases to which the Petty Sessions Act applies, or in prosecutions by the Inland Revenue. As to the jurisdiction of justices on a question of title being raised, see p. 210.

Speaking generally,<sup>1</sup> any person may prosecute (Bruce v. McAlister, (1881) 8 L.R.I. 195; Crichton v. Brady, (1892) 27 I.L.T.R. 42; R. (Connolly) v. Tyrone JJ., (1902) 2 I.R. 78; see also p. 43, ante).

It has been held that in cases of dismissal, the dismiss should state whether it is "on the merits" or "without prejudice" (R. (Bridges) v. Armagh JJ., (1897) 2 I. R. 236); but the case was decided on the erroneous assumption that the Petty Sessions Act applied, and it is submitted that the decision should have been the other way had the attention of the court been drawn to section 42 of the Petty Sessions Act; though the case is a valuable authority in all cases to which that statute applies.

Care should be taken, that where a fine mentioned in an Act is Irish currency, the amount should not be exceeded by imposing that amount in British coinage, as if this is done the amount of the fine is excessive and the conviction consequently bad (R. v. Creagh, (1852) 5 Ir. Jur. (O.S.) 109. If an order imposes a penalty in Irish currency, it is bad, having regard to the Coinage Act, 1870 (33 & 34 Vict.), c. 10, s. 6 (Noble v. Hughes, (1896) 2 I. W. L. R. 90). The justices have no power to award costs, save where specially mentioned.

As to procedure generally in cases not within the Petty Sessions Act, see further, SUMMARY CASES NOT WITHIN PETTY SESSIONS ACT, p. 76.

The power of appeal given by the Petty Sessions Act does not apply to cases of prosecutions under the game or excise laws; but the various particular statutes usually give a right of appeal. Under section 9 of the Fines (Ireland) Act a right of appeal to quarter sessions is allowed in all cases where there is an order of justices for payment of any penalty exceeding 40s.; as to this section and appeals generally, see APPEAL TO QUARTER SESSIONS, p. 130.

Game, what is.

Most of the statutes have a special section defining game, but where there is no definition of game the following seem to be included in the term:—deer, hares, pheasants, partridge, landrail (cornerake), black game, grouse, quail, capercaillie, bustard.

<sup>1</sup> There are some exceptions, e.g., Poaching Prevention Act, 1862, noted post, p. 486.

"No person or persons, not being duly authorized, shall go or enter upon the land of any other person or persons to look for, set, spring, start, follow, shoot, course, hunt, hawk, or otherwise pursue, take or destroy, any sort of game, woodcock, snipe, duck, teal or widgeon"<sup>1</sup>—Trespass in pursuit of game. Generally.
Penalty, not exceeding £10 Irish, equivalent to £9 4s. 7½*d.* sterling (27 Geo. 3, c. 35 (Ir.), s. 10).

"No person shall be construed to be within the meaning of this Act as looking for game unless such person shall appear to be provided with a dog, or dogs, gun, net or nets, or some other implements for taking or destroying game" (ib., s. 11).

To render the act innocent the authorization must precede the entry (Morden v. Porter, (1860) 7 C.B.N.S. 641). It is not an offence under the section for a man to remain on the adjoining land, sending a dog into his neighbour's cover (R. v. Pratt, (1855) 4 E. & B. 860), but if several go out in concert for the purpose of poaching, both those who remain outside and those who enter the lands may be convicted of entering (R. v. Passy, (1836) 7 C. & P. 282). The entry may be on the public road, as any person who uses the road for other than the purpose of passing and re-passing is a trespasser (R. v. Pratt, supra; Harrison v. Rutland, (1893) 1 Q.B. 142). It is not necessary to prove that the defendant fired at game or had game in his possession (Tyrrell v. Flanagan, (1901) 2 I.R. 423). Where nets were set to catch plover, but were capable of catching, and did in fact catch grouse, the Queen's Bench affirmed the conviction (Blake v. Shea, (1896) 30 I.L.T.R. 102).

A conviction which alleges a breach of the whole of the section is bad, as alleging alternative offences (R. (M'Carron) v. Donegal JJ. (1907) 2 I.R. 386, 40 I.L.T.R. 197, noted p. 88, ante).

Any person may prosecute as a common informer for any offence under this statute (Bruce v. M'Alister, (1881) 8 L.R.I. 195; Crichton v. Brady, (1892) 27 I.L.T.R. 42; R. (Connolly) v. Tyrone JJ., (1902) 2 I.R. 78). The prosecution shall be commenced within six months from the commission of the offence (27 Geo. 3, c. 35 (Ir.), s. 20). One justice is sufficient (s. 19). There is no power to award costs. A defendant may appeal against any order, irrespective of amount of penalty, to the next quarter sessions, who may award such costs to the respondent as they may think just and reasonable, and may impanel a jury (s. 23). The appellant must enter into a recognizance with two sureties conditioned to try the appeal, and abide the order of, and pay the costs awarded by, the quarter sessions (ib.). A complainant has no right of appeal (R. (Kane) v. Tyrone JJ., (1906) 40 I.L.T.R. 181). The complainant in a charge under this section was a gamekeeper, who was unable to produce his gamekeeper's licence, and who denied that he prosecuted as a common informer. Held, that in law he was a common informer, notwithstanding his own views on the subject, and that as he did not withdraw the summons, the justices were wrong in holding that he was not competent to prosecute (Hennessey v. Ryall, (1911) 45 I.L.T.R. 4).

"Where the landlord or lessor of any land has reserved to himself by any deed or writing the exclusive right to the game on such land, then such landlord or lessor, for the purpose of prosecuting all persons for trespassing in pursuit of game on such land without his consent, shall be deemed the legal occupier of the said land; and any person who shall enter or be upon the said land in search of, or in pursuit of, game without the consent of such landlord or lessor, shall be deemed a trespasser"—Penalty, not

Procedure under 27 Geo. 3, c. 35 (Ir.).

Reservation of game to landlord.

<sup>1</sup> Provided also that nothing herein contained shall subject any person duly qualified to take or kill game, his or their servants or necessary attendants, to any of the penalties hereby inflicted from following or pursuing their four-footed game into the lands of other persons (27 Geo. 3, c. 35 (Ir.), s. 10).

Trespass in pursuit of game.

exceeding 40s., with costs, penalty and costs to be recovered and levied in the same mode and with the same right of appeal as provided by the Petty Sessions (Ireland) Act, 1851, and the Petty Sessions Clerks (Ireland) Act, 1858 (Game (Ireland) Act, 1864, s. 1). "Game," for the purposes of the Act, includes hares, pheasants, partridges, grouse, heath or moor game, black game, woodcocks, snipe, quail, landrail, wild-duck, widgeon, and teal (s. 2).

As the Courts would, as far as possible, endeavour to construe the statute so as to have a uniform practice, it is conceived that the costs allowed under the section should not exceed the limit laid down by the Petty Sessions Act; and, further, that costs under the Petty Sessions Act may be awarded to a successful defendant.

This Act has no application where the shooting belongs to a person other than the landlord, e.g., where the shooting rights are vested in a shooting lessee (Powell v. Castletown, (1891) 30 L.R.I. 93). Where a fair rent order reserves the exclusive right to rabbits and game, the landlord can prosecute under this section for trespass in pursuit of either (Hope v. Callaghan, (1888) 24 I.L.T.R. 5; Land Law (Ir.) Act, 1881, s. 5), but not where the right to rabbits is reserved by a deed (Clery v. De Vesci, (1895) 2 I.R. 704).

Killing hares or rabbits in a warren in the daytime.

"Whosoever shall unlawfully and wilfully, between the beginning of the last hour before sunrise and the expiration of the first hour after sunset, take or kill any hare or rabbit in any such 'warren or ground, or shall at any time set or use therein any snare or engine for the taking of hares or rabbits"—Penalty not exceeding £5 (Larceny Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, s. 17). The procedure under this section will be regulated by the Petty Sessions Act.

Night poaching

"Every person who shall wilfully take, kill, or destroy any hare, pheasant, partridge, quail, landrail, moor-game, heath-game, or grouse in the night, between one hour after sunset and one hour before sunrise, unless qualified to take or kill game, and upon his or her own lands or duly authorized so to do"—Penalty, not exceeding £5 Irish (= £4 12s. 3 $\frac{3}{4}$ d., sterling) for every such hare, &c., so taken, killed, or destroyed" (27 Geo. 3, c. 35 (Ir.), s. 4).

The time of actual sunrise and sunset in the locality is the time referred to (Gordon v. Cann, (1899) 15 T.L.R. 165). It is doubtful whether justices may take judicial notice of the time of sunrise or sunset, or should require proof thereof (see Collier v. Nokes, (1849) 2 C. & K. 1012, Taylor, 10th ed., p. 16). To render the act lawful, the authorization must precede the taking, etc. (Morden v. Porter, (1860) 7 C.B. (N.S.) 641). As to the procedure under this Act see p. 483.

"If any person shall by night<sup>2</sup> unlawfully take or destroy any game<sup>3</sup> or rabbits in any land, whether open or enclosed, or shall by night unlawfully enter or be in any land, whether open or enclosed, with any gun, net, engine, or other instrument for the purpose of taking or destroying game"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, three months', subsequent offence, six months' imprisonment, with hard labour, and at the end of such period to find sureties himself in, for first offence, £10 and two sureties in £5 each, or one in £10 [for subsequent offence, £20 and two sureties in £10 each, or one in £20], for not so offending again during, in the case of a first offence one year [and in the

<sup>1</sup> That is "warren or ground lawfully used for the breeding or keeping of hares and rabbits" (preceding part of section).

<sup>2</sup> "Night" in this Act commences at the expiration of the first hour after sunset and concludes at the beginning of the last hour before sunrise (s. 12).

<sup>3</sup> Including hares, pheasants, partridges, grouse, heath or moor game, black game, and bustards (s. 13).

It is thought desirable to add the following explanatory note as to the questions:—(a) who can prosecute for trespass in pursuit of game contrary to 27 Geo. 3, c. 35, s. 10; (b) against whom the prosecution lies; and (c) what is the effect of s. 5 of the Land Law (Ir.) Act, 1881,<sup>1</sup> as regards rabbits.

Any person whosoever, whether he has or has not any right to the game, can prosecute as a common informer (Bruce v. M'Alister, (1881) 8 L.R.I. 195; Crichton v. Brady, (1892) 27 I.L.T.R. 42; R. (Connolly) v. Tyrone J.F., (1902) 2 I.R. 78).

A prosecution can be successfully maintained against any person who, in the words of 27 Geo. 3, c. 35, s. 10, "not being duly authorized, shall go, etc., upon the lands of any other person, etc., to look for, etc., game."

Therefore, if A is the person in occupation of the lands, and B is the person in whom the game rights are vested, B, or B's gamekeeper, or any person whosoever can successfully prosecute X, a person who enters upon the lands for the purpose of taking game; and this, it is submitted, is so, even if A does not dissent from, or purports to assent to, X's entry upon the lands, because A cannot (the game rights being vested in B) "duly authorize" X so to enter. Those portions of s. 1 of the Game (Ir.) Act, 1864 (verbatim at pp. 483, 484), of s. 5 of the Land Law Act, 1881,<sup>1</sup> and of s. 13 of the Irish Land Act, 1903,<sup>2</sup> that confer a right to prosecute were, apparently, framed in forgetfulness of the fact that no statutory authority was necessary for the purpose. Where a person prosecuting comes within these sections, he seems to be a "party aggrieved"; but whether he is a "party aggrieved" or a "common informer" is immaterial in considering the question of the right to prosecute. A person to whom the shooting is leased is not a "landlord or lessor" within s. 1 of the Game (Ir.) Act, 1864 (Powell v. Castletown, (1891) 30 L.R.I. 93).

Rabbits are not game within 27 Geo. 3, c. 35, s. 10, or within the Game (Ir.) Act, 1864; and therefore a reservation of rabbits by a deed will not enable a prosecution under these statutes to be sustained in respect of trespass in pursuit of rabbits (Cleary v. De Veszi, (1895) 2 I. R. 704). The effect of the definition of game in s. 5 of the Land Law (Ir.) Act, 1881,<sup>1</sup> is to include rabbits in the term "game," where that section applies, and to give the landlord of a holding held for a statutory term reserving the game to the landlord the right, under the Game (Ir.) Act, 1864, to prosecute for trespass in pursuit of rabbits against 17 Geo 3, c. 35, s. 10 (Hope v. Callaghan, (1888) 24 I.L.T.R. 5).

<sup>1</sup> Which section, so far as is material, is as follows:—

"The landlord, or any person or persons authorized by him in that behalf (he or they making reasonable amends and satisfaction for any damage to be done or occasioned thereby), shall have the right to enter upon the holding for any of the purposes following (that is to say): . . . hunting, shooting, fishing, or taking game or fish, and if the landlord at the commencement of the statutory term so requires, then, as between the landlord and tenant, the right of shooting and taking game, and fishing and taking fish, shall belong exclusively to the landlord, subject to the provisions of the Ground Game Act, 1880, and the provisions of the 27 & 28 Vict. c. 67 shall extend where such right of shooting and taking game belongs exclusively to the landlord as though such exclusive right were reserved by the landlord to himself by deed. The word 'game' for the purposes of this sub-section means hares, rabbits, pheasants, partridges, quails, landrails, grouse, woodcock, snipe, wild duck, widgeon, and teal."

The occupier will have a concurrent right to take ground game (hares and rabbits) under s. 1 of the Ground Game Act, 1880, noted p. 493.

<sup>2</sup> This section is as follows:—

"(1) Where at the time of sale of any land to the Land Commission or to tenants or others, the vendor has, subject to the provisions of the Ground Game Act, 1880, sporting rights, exclusive of the tenant, those rights may by agreement between the vendor and purchaser be either conveyed to the purchaser or be expressly reserved to the vendor, and in the absence of such agreement those rights shall be vested in the Land Commission, and the Land Commission may deal with the same, subject to regulations to be made by the Lord Lieutenant. (2) The expression 'sporting rights' includes any right of hunting, shooting, fishing, and taking game or fish on any land, and the expression 'game' has the same meaning as in section five of the Act of 1881, and also includes deer. . . . (4) Where any right mentioned in this section is so reserved, there shall be attached thereto a right to enter upon the land in respect of which the first-mentioned right may be exercised, and to authorize any person so to do; but any person entering upon land in pursuance of this subsection shall be liable to make reasonable amends and satisfaction for any damage done or occasioned thereby. (5) Any person authorized, by or in pursuance of the last preceding subsection, to enter upon land for the purpose of exercising a sporting right shall have the same authority to prosecute for trespass in pursuit of game or fish as if he were the occupier of that land."

case of a subsequent offence, two years], and in default of finding such sureties to be further imprisoned, with hard labour, for, in the case of a first offence, six months [and in the case of a subsequent offence twelve months]; third offence, misdemeanour, punishable on indictment with penal servitude not exceeding seven nor less than three years, or with imprisonment with or without hard labour not exceeding two years (Night Poaching Act, 1828, 9 Geo. 4, c. 69, s. 1).

Trespass in pursuit of game.

Two justices are required (ss. 1 and 2). Prosecution must be brought within six months (s. 4). A defendant may appeal against any conviction to the quarter sessions held not less than twelve days after the date of the conviction, for the county, riding, or division wherein the cause of complaint shall have arisen, giving notice in writing of the appeal, and of the cause and matter thereof<sup>1</sup> within three days after such conviction, and seven clear days before the sessions; remaining in custody till the appeal, unless he enters into a recognizance, with a sufficient surety conditioned to appear personally, and try such appeal, and abide the judgment of the court; and pay the costs; the court on appeal may give costs to either party<sup>2</sup> (s. 6). There is no appeal by the complainant (R. (Kane) v. Tyrone JJ., (1906) 40 I.L.T.R. 181).

On an indictment for a third offence, two previous convictions under s. 1 must be proved: a previous conviction under section 9 of the misdemeanour of entering upon land by night armed, and to the number of three or more for the purpose of taking game is not a previous conviction within section 1 (R. v. Lines, (1902) 1 K.B. 199).

The Night Poaching Act, 1844, 7 & 8 Vict. c. 29, extends this Act to taking or destroying game or rabbits on any public road, highway, path, or the sides thereof, or at the openings, outlets, or gates, from any such land into any such public road, highway, or path in the like manner, or upon any such land, but it should be noted that it does not extend the provisions of the Act to entering or being on such road for such purpose.

The purpose must be to take game on the lands on which the offenders are (R. v. Gainer, (1835) 7 C. & P. 231), and the conviction should so allege (R. v. Capewell, (1833) 5 C. & P. 549). It is not necessary that all should enter if all are acting in concert (R. v. Whittaker, (1848) 2 C. & K. 636), but the sending in of a dog is not sufficient entry (R. v. Nickless, (1839) 8 C. & P. 757).

The owner or occupier of land or his servant can arrest any offender and hand him over to the police (Night Poaching Act, 1828, s. 2; Night Poaching Act, 1844, s. 1). If the offender uses violence with any offensive weapon, which includes, if brought for the purpose, a stick (R. v. Merry, (1847) 2 Cox 240), or a stone (R. v. Grice, (1837) 7 C. & P. 803), he commits a misdemeanour, punishable on indictment in like manner as a third offence under s. 1, see note, supra (Night Poaching Act, 1828, s. 2). One justice may issue a warrant for the arrest of an offender without a previous summons where the information is on oath (ib., s. 3). Any person may prosecute as a common informer.

"If any persons, to the number of three or more together, shall by night unlawfully enter or be in any land, whether open or enclosed, for the purpose of taking or destroying game or rabbits, any of such persons being armed with any gun, cross-bow, firearms, bludgeon, or any other offensive weapon," each is guilty of a misdemeanour, punishable on indictment with penal servitude for not more than fourteen nor less than three years, or with imprisonment with or without hard labour not exceeding two years (9 Geo. 4, c. 69, s. 9).

<sup>1</sup> It has been held that the notice should state that the party appealing was aggrieved (R. v. Recorder of Dublin, (1843) 6 I.L.R. 440).

<sup>2</sup> There is nothing to limit the amount of such costs.

Trespass in pursuit of game.

Killing, &c., hares or rabbits in warren by night.
Offences as to deer.

"Whosoever shall unlawfully and wilfully, between the expiration of the first hour after sunset and the beginning of the last hour before sunrise, take or kill any hare or rabbit in any warren or ground lawfully used for the breeding or keeping of hares or rabbits, whether the same be enclosed or not, shall be guilty of a misdemeanour"<sup>1</sup> (Larceny Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, s. 17).

Coursing, killing, etc., deer in forest, chase, or purlieu<sup>2</sup>—Penalty, first offence, not exceeding £50 (Larceny Act, 1861, s. 12), second offence, felony (ib.); stealing deer, felony (s. 13); suspected persons found in possession of venison, etc., and not satisfactorily accounting for same—Penalty, not exceeding £20 (s. 14); setting engines for taking deer or pulling down fences of land where deer are kept—Penalty, not exceeding £20 (s. 15).

Tracing game in snow.

Tracing game in snow, unless by a person qualified, and upon his own lands, is punishable by fine not exceeding £5 Irish (27 Geo. 3, c. 35 (Ir.), s. 4).

Powers as to suspected poachers.

"It shall be lawful for any constable or peace officer . . . in any highway, street, or public place to search any person whom he may have good cause to suspect of coming from any land where he shall have been unlawfully in search or pursuit of game, or any person aiding or abetting such person, and having in his possession any game<sup>3</sup> unlawfully obtained, or any gun, part of gun, or nets or engines used for the killing or taking game, and also to stop and search any cart or other conveyance in or upon which such constable or peace officer shall have good cause to suspect that any such game or any such article or thing is being carried by any such person, and should there be found any game or any such article or thing as aforesaid upon such person, cart, or other conveyance, to seize and detain such game, article, or thing, and such constable or peace officer shall in such case apply to some justice of the peace for a summons citing such person to appear before two justices of the peace assembled in petty sessions as provided in 18 & 19 Vict. c. 126, s. 9,<sup>4</sup> . . . and if such person shall have obtained such game by unlawfully going on any land in search or pursuit of game, or shall have used any such article or thing as aforesaid for unlawfully killing or taking game, or shall have been accessory thereto"—Penalty, not exceeding £5, with forfeiture of game, gun, etc., which the justices shall order to be sold or destroyed; no penalty on any person selling same by written direction of a justice; if no conviction takes place, the articles seized or their value to be returned to owner (Poaching Prevention Act, 1862, 25 & 26 Vict. c. 114, s. 2).

The following are the requirements of the statute to warrant a conviction:—"First, the accused must be found in a highway, street, or public place; secondly, a constable or peace officer must have good ground to suspect that he is coming from land where he has been unlawfully in search or pursuit of game; thirdly, he must have in his possession some game unlawfully obtained, or a gun, or part of a gun, or net, or engine for taking or killing game; fourthly, the game, or other article, or thing, must have been found on him, and by that I understand that it has been either heard, seen, or felt on him. It must then and there have been perceived by the finder's senses, and not inferred by conjecture. If it be found without searching, I agree there need be no search"<sup>5</sup> (per Byles, J., in Clarke v. Crowder, (1869) L.R., 4 C.P. 638, at p. 643; see also judgment of Mathew, J., in Lloyd v. Lloyd, (1885) 14 Q.B.D. 725, at

<sup>1</sup> As to which see LARCENY, in CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES.

<sup>2</sup> There probably is no "forest, chase, or purlieu," in Ireland; see Stroud, sub verb.

<sup>3</sup> Includes hare, pheasant, partridge, woodcock, snipe, rabbit, grouse, black or moor game, eggs of pheasant and partridge, eggs of grouse, black or moor game (s. 1).

<sup>4</sup> That is in open petty sessions court, as provided by that statute.

<sup>5</sup> See also Hall v. Knox, (1863) 4 B. & S. 515, as to search being unnecessary where the game is seen on the defendant.

p. 728). The police officer who makes the seizure, &c., is the only person entitled to bring this prosecution (Clarke v. Crowder, supra). Six or seven men were seen on the highway by the police, and ran, "holding up their coat laps, their pockets being large and bulky." They were pursued, but got away; but after an interval the police found them in a house where there were also found eighty live and twenty dead rabbits, with a number of rabbit nets. Held, that the defendants could not be convicted, as no game, &c., was "found" on them (Clarke v. Crowder, supra). The defendants drove a cart along the highway, and on being called upon by the respondent, a police officer, to stop, whipped up and drove furiously away. As the cart passed the respondent he saw a rug in it, containing something bulky underneath, which the justices rightly—as was held—inferred was game. It was also proved by witnesses other than the respondent (who lost sight of the cart) that the defendant had passed on the game to G in a street of the town close by. The respondent came up in a few minutes and got the game in G's cart. Held, that there had been no seizure of the game within the section (Turner v. Morgan, (1875), L.R. 10 C.P. 587). But where the seizure takes place in hot pursuit of the defendant, it is immaterial that it did not take place on the highway. The defendant was carrying rabbits, slung on his shoulder, along the highway, and on seeing the complainant, a policeman, he took to his heels across the fields. The complainant followed, and never lost sight of him, and overtook him, when defendant threw the rabbits on the ground, and they were taken possession of by the complainant. Held, (1) that the fact that the complainant saw the rabbits upon the defendant was sufficient to satisfy the requirements of the statute as to search and finding; and (2) that, the seizure and detainer having taken place then and there, and so as to be part of a continuous transaction, the provisions of the statute in that respect also were complied with; and that the defendant was rightly convicted (Lloyd v. Lloyd, (1885) 14 Q.B.D. 725).

Trespass in pursuit of game.
Powers as to suspected poachers.

The appellants were seen by a policeman on a highway about 9.30 p.m. on the 16th December. One had a net under his arm for catching hares. Nothing else was found on them, but they had a lurcher with them. The policeman had heard a dog yelping as if in chase a little time before the defendants came along the road. The night was damp, and the net was wetish. Held, that there was evidence to support a conviction; for that it was not necessary that the appellants should have caught any game; it was sufficient if they had used the net for the purpose, though unsuccessfully, of which there was evidence (Jenkin v. King, (1872) L.R. 7 Q.B. 478).

It is not necessary to prove on what ground the defendants were or the game was taken (see judgments of Montague Smith, J., and Brett, J., in Clarke v. Crowder, supra, at p. 644).

The mere finding of the game or engine is presumptive evidence of guilt, and the burden of proof is on the accused to show that he came lawfully by them (Brown v. Turner, (1863) 13 C.B. (N.S.) 485). As to evidence see R. v. Cheshire JJ., (1876) 40 J.P. 148; Evans v. Botterill, (1863) 3 B. & S. 787.

A police officer on 22nd May, 1908, seized partridges' eggs that were being conveyed along the highway to a railway station, and took proceedings against the sender under s. 24 of the Game Act, 1831, charging him in substance with unlawful possession of the eggs as having been taken out of nests upon land upon which he had no right to take game. The justices convicted, but the conviction was, in October, 1908, quashed by the High Court upon a case stated. The justices, apparently purporting to act under s. 2 of the Poaching Prevention Act, 1862, made an order on

Trespass in pursuit of
game.

the 20th November, 1908, for the destruction of the eggs. On the 19th November, 1908, the sender of the eggs took proceedings against the police officer for the value of the eggs. Held, that the police officer was liable to the plaintiff for the full value of the eggs as at the time of seizure, because, instead of proceeding under the Act of 1862, he had proceeded under the Act of 1831, which gave no right of seizure; but that, had he proceeded under the Act of 1862, he would only have been liable, in the event of the dismissal of the charge, to the value of the eggs at the time of the termination of the proceedings, and not to the value at the time of seizure (Stowe v. Benstead, (1909) 2 K.B. 415).

Appeal under Poaching Prevention
Act.

A right of appeal is given by section 6, which is identical with section 6 of the Night Poaching Act, 1828, noted, p. 485.

Close seasons.*CLOSE SEASONS.

The following are the seasons in which it is illegal to kill, take, or have in possession winged game, both days excluded :—

Moor Game or Grouse,	10th Dec. to 12th Aug.	37 Geo. 3, c. 21 (Ir.), s. 2. 37 & 38 Vict. c. 11, s. 1.
Heath Game.	10th Dec. to 20th Aug.	37 Geo. 3, c. 21 (Ir.), s. 2.
Pheasant.	1st Feb. to 1st Oct.	28 & 29 Vict. c. 54, s. 2.
Partridge.	1st Feb. to 1st Sept.	62 Vict. c. 1, s. 1.
Quail.	10th Jan. to 20th Sept.	37 Geo. 3, c. 21 (Ir.), s. 2.
Landrail.	10th Jan. to 20th Sept.	37 Geo. 3, c. 21 (Ir.), s. 2.

Taking, &c., in close season.

The penalty for killing, taking, or having in possession the game above scheduled during the above close seasons is a fine not exceeding £5 Irish for each bird taken, &c. The Petty Sessions Act does not apply to the proceedings, and no costs can be given; any person can prosecute; and the fine is to be awarded under the Fines Act. One justice can adjudicate (27 Geo. 3, c. 35 (Ir.), s. 19; 37 Geo. 3, c. 21 (Ir.), s. 2).

Snipe, woodcock, wild fowl, and all wild birds.	1st March to 1st August, save where altered by order; for such orders see WILD BIRDS.	Wild Birds Protection Act, 1880, s. 3.
---	--	---

Selling, &c., in close season.

A penalty is enacted for shooting, or taking such wild birds, or exposing or offering same for sale, or having same in control or possession, by the Wild Birds Protection Act, 1880, 43 & 44 Vict. c. 35, s. 3, as amended, which statute is fully noted under WILD BIRDS, post.

"If any person licensed to deal in game<sup>1</sup> . . . shall buy or sell or knowingly have in his house, shop, stall, possession, or control any bird of game after the expiration of ten days (one inclusive and the other exclusive) from the respective days in each year on which it shall become unlawful to kill or take such birds of game respectively as aforesaid; or if any person, not being licensed to deal in game . . . shall buy or sell any bird of game after the expiration of ten days (one inclusive and the other exclusive) from the respective days in each year on which it shall become unlawful to kill or take such birds of game respectively as aforesaid": Penalty, on conviction before two justices, for every such head of game, not exceeding £1, with costs of the conviction (Game Act, 1831, 1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 32, s. 4, as applied to Ireland by the Game Licences Act, 1860, 23 & 24 Vict. c. 40, s. 13). The Petty Sessions Act is not applicable to proceedings under this section.

<sup>1</sup> Meaning hares, pheasants, partridges, grouse, heath or moor game, black game, and bustards (s. 2).

The section extends to live as well as dead birds (Loome v. Bailey, (1860) 3 E. & E. 444). Game killed abroad may be sold during the close season (Guyer v. R., (1889) 23 Q.B.D. 100), but cannot be sold without a licence (Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1843, 56 & 57 Vict. c. 7, s. 2).

Under the Hares Preservation (Ir.) Act, 1879, the close season for hares is between 20th April and 12th August (s. 3), unless varied by order of the Lord Lieutenant (s. 4). Such orders have been made as regards every county in Ireland.<sup>1</sup> Any person killing, wounding, or taking, or attempting so to do, whether with gun, net, snare, or dog, or having in his possession during the close season any hare or leveret—Penalty, for each hare or leveret so killed, wounded, taken or attempted to be so killed, &c., not exceeding £1, with costs of conviction (Hares Preservation (Ir.) Act, 1879, 42 & 43 Vict. c. 23, s. 3). Penalties, to be applied as directed by the Fines (Ir.) Act, 1851 (s. 5).

The close season for male fallow-deer commences on September 30th, and ends on June 9th, and as regards all other male deer commences on January 1st, and ends on June 9th—Penalty, £5 (Irish), on any person, except on his own land, hunting, coursing or killing any deer during the close season, for such deer (10 Wm. 3, c. 8, s. 6).

“Every person who shall make use of any gun, snare, net, or other engine to take, kill, or destroy any moor game, heath game, or grouse, pheasant, partridge, quail, landrail, wild turkey, or other wild fowl, or any hare or rabbit on a Sunday shall forfeit for every such offence a sum not exceeding £5” (Irish) (27 Geo. 3, c. 35, (Ir.), s. 4).

The procedure under this statute is noted, p. 483.

Certificates to kill game are granted under 23 & 24 Vict. c. 90, s. 2, and 46 & 47 Vict. c. 10, s. 5. The certificate, which is in force from the 31st July to the 31st July the following year, costs £3; but if taken out to expire on the 31st October of the same year, may be taken out at a cost of £2, and a certificate to kill game for a fortnight may be taken out upon payment of a sum of £1 (23 & 24 Vict. c. 90, s. 2; 46 & 47 Vict. c. 10, s. 5). A game certificate is available throughout the United Kingdom (23 & 24 Vict. c. 90, s. 18).

“If any person . . . shall have, keep, or use any . . . dog, or any gun, net, or other engine for the taking or destruction of any hare, pheasant, partridge, woodcock, snipe, heath-fowl (commonly called black game), or grouse (commonly called red game), or any other game whatsoever,” without having a certificate, such person shall forfeit £20 (Game Certificates (Ir.) Act, 1842, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 81, s. 5). To the above enumeration of game must also be added quail, landrail, and deer (Game Licences Act, 1860, 23 & 24 Vict. c. 90). As to procedure see p. 481, ante.

A person having a game certificate need not take out the ten-shilling gun licence required by the Gun Licence Act, 1870, s. 7; (Gun Licence Act, 1870, 33 & 34 Vict. c. 57, s. 7). A game certificate is not required for killing rabbits, coursing hares, hunting hares or deer with hounds, killing deer on enclosed ground (Game Licences Act, 1860, 23 & 24 Vict. c. 90, s. 5), nor for killing hares by occupier (Ground Game Act, 1880, 43 & 44 Vict. c. 47, s. 4). A person aiding or assisting in the taking of any game, &c., in the company or presence and for the use of another person who has a game certificate, and is himself using his own gun, net, &c., need not have a certificate (Game Licence Act, 1860, s. 5). But if the servant himself fires the gun, he should have a certificate (Ex parte Sylvester, (1829) 9 B. & C. 61).

<sup>1</sup> For a list of orders, see p. 494, post.

Game certificate or licence.
Production of.

"If any person . . . shall be found using any dog, gun, net, or other engine for the taking or destruction of game, it shall be lawful for any officer of excise or for the occupier of the land where he shall be so found, . . . or any person having any estate whatsoever in the same lands, whether in possession, remainder, reversion, or future interest, or for any person having a certificate then in force, producing the same, to demand and require from the person so using such gun, dog, net, or engine as aforesaid to produce and show a certificate issued to him under this Act, and then in force, and every such person shall, upon such demand and requisition as aforesaid, produce such certificate to the person so requiring and demanding the same, and shall furnish the same to be inspected accordingly, and if any such person shall wilfully refuse to produce and show a certificate then in force, or shall decline to produce or show the same, or shall refuse, on being required so to do, to give and declare his name and surname, and the place of his residence, or shall give or declare any false or fictitious name, surname, or place of residence, every person so offending shall forfeit fifty pounds; and it shall be lawful for the officer of excise, or occupier of the land where any person shall be found who shall, on requisition and demand as aforesaid, refuse to produce such certificate, or who shall refuse to declare his name and surname, and place of residence, or for any other person present at such refusal, to apprehend the person so refusing as aforesaid, and to convey him forthwith before any justice of the peace within whose jurisdiction such offence shall be committed; and such justice shall proceed to the conviction of such offender, in the same manner as if such offender had been summoned to appear before any justice or justices on information for such offence" (Game Certificates (Ir.) Act, 1842, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 81, s. 8). It is probable that there should be both a non-production of the licence and a refusal to give the name (Molton v. Rogers, (1803) 4 Esp. 215). The demand must be made on the lands, or in close proximity (Scarth v. Gardener, (1831) 5 C. & P. 38).

Gun licence.

A gun licence, on which a duty of ten shillings is paid, is in force from the date of issue to the 31st July next following (Gun Licence Act 1870, s. 5; Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1883, s. 6).

"Every person who shall use or carry a gun elsewhere than in a dwelling house or the curtilage thereof, without having in force a licence duly granted to him under this Act, shall forfeit the sum of £10: Provided always, that the said penalty shall not be incurred by the following persons, namely":—(1) Persons in the naval, military, or volunteer or police forces carrying a gun in the performance of their duty or when engaged in target practice; (2) persons having licences to kill game; (3) a person carrying a gun belonging to a licensed person by the orders and for the use of such person only, provided that the person carrying gives his own name and address and name and address of his employer if required; (4) an occupier of land using a gun for purpose of scaring birds or killing vermin on such land, or any person using or carrying a gun for the purpose only of scaring birds or killing vermin on any lands by order of the occupier thereof who shall be a licensed person; (5) a gun-smith or his servant carrying a gun in the ordinary course of his trade or testing a gun in a place set apart for the purpose; (6) a person carrying a gun in the ordinary course of his business as a common carrier (Gun Licence Act, 1870, 33 & 34 Vict. c. 57, s. 7).

"In this Act the term 'gun' includes a firearm of any description and an air gun or any other kind of gun from which any shot, bullet, or other missile can be discharged" (s. 2).

"Gun."

The word "gun" includes a pocket pistol, if capable of doing an injury, but not a mere toy (Campbell v. Hadley, (1876) 40 J.P. 756). Where a gun is carried in two or more parts, each person carrying a part is liable to the penalty (s. 8). The "curtilage" is a garden, yard, or field or other piece of ground lying near or belonging to a messuage (Johnson's "Dictionary"). An orchard separated from the house by a garden is not part of the curtilage (Asquith v. Griffin, (1881) 48 J.P. 724). A vacant piece of ground not fenced off from the road and separated from the house by a narrow foot-passage was held to be part of the curtilage (Masson v. L.C. & D.R. Co., (1868) L.R. 6 Eq. 101). "Vermin" does not include rabbits (Ld. Advocate v. Young, W. N., (1899) 190).

"It shall be lawful for any officer of inland revenue, or for any officer of constabulary or any constable to demand from any person using or carrying a gun (not being a person in the naval, military, or volunteer service of Her Majesty, or in the constabulary or other police force, using or carrying a gun in the performance of his duty) the production of a licence granted to such person under this Act. If the person upon whom the demand is made shall not produce a licence duly granted to him under this Act, or a licence or certificate to kill game granted to him under the laws of excise, and permit the officer or constable demanding the production thereof to read such licence or certificate, it shall be lawful for such officer or constable to require such person to declare to him immediately his Christian and surname and place of residence, and if such person shall refuse to declare his Christian and surname and place of residence as aforesaid, he shall for such refusal forfeit the penalty of £10 over and above any other penalty to which he may be liable under this or any other Act of Parliament; and it shall be lawful for such officer or constable to arrest such person so refusing, and to convey him before any justice of the peace having jurisdiction at the place where the offence shall be committed, and such justice shall, upon due proof on oath of the offence, or upon the confession of the accused person, convict such person in the penalty aforesaid, or in some mitigated portion thereof, not being less than one-fourth"; or, in default, imprisonment with hard labour not exceeding one month, nor less than seven days or until the penalty shall be sooner paid (Gun Licence Act, 1870, s. 9).

"The word 'game' shall for all the purposes of this Act be deemed to include hares, pheasants, partridges, grouse, heath or moor game, black game, and bustards" (Game Act, 1831, 1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 3, s. 2).<sup>1</sup>

"Every person who shall have obtained an annual game certificate shall have power to sell game to any person licensed to deal in game according to the provisions hereinafter mentioned" (Game Act, 1831,<sup>2</sup> 1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 3, s. 17).

Any inn-keeper or tavern-keeper may, without any licence to sell game, sell for consumption in his own house game procured from some person licensed to deal in game under the Act (s. 26).

Every occupier of land has the same power of selling ground game<sup>3</sup> killed by him, or by persons authorized by him pursuant to the second Game Act, 1880, as if he had a licence to kill game<sup>4</sup> (Ground Game Act, 1880, 43 & 44 Vict. c. 47, s. 4).

Except as regards sale by the persons above mentioned, no person can deal in game without (a) a justice's licence, and (b) an Excise licence.

Production of
licence.

Dealing in game.

Who may sell game without game-dealer's
licence.

Licences required by game-dealers.

<sup>1</sup> The provision is not necessary so far as woodcock and snipe are concerned, as these birds are not game for the purposes of sale.

<sup>2</sup> This Act, which originally related only to England, was extended to Ireland by the Game Licences Act, 1860 (23 & 24 Vict. c. 90), s. 17.

<sup>3</sup> That is to say, hares and rabbits (s. 8). But rabbits may be sold by anyone without any certificate or licence.

<sup>4</sup> A "licence to kill game" properly means a permission given by a person having the right to kill game on any lands (see cases cited at p. 2 of Farran's "Game Laws of Ireland"). But the obvious meaning in this section of these words is, "as if he had in force an annual game certificate" (see Game Act, 1831, s. 17, supra).

Dealing in game.
Justices'
licence.

"The justices of the peace of every county, riding, division, liberty, franchise, city, or town, shall hold a special session in the division or district for which they usually act . . . in the month of July for the purpose of granting licences to deal in game, of the holding of which session seven days' notice shall be given to each of the justices acting for such division or district: and the majority of the justices assembled at such session, or at some adjournment thereof, not being less than two, are hereby authorized, if they shall think fit, to grant, under their hands to any person being a householder or keeper of a shop or stall within such division or district, and not being an inn-keeper or victualler, or licensed to sell beer by retail, nor being the owner, guard, or driver of any mail coach . . . or other public conveyance, nor being a carrier or higgler, nor being in the employment of any of the above-mentioned persons, a licence<sup>1</sup> . . . to buy game at any place from any person who may lawfully sell game, . . . and also to sell the same at one house, shop, or stall only kept by him" (Game Act, 1831, s. 18). The justices may hold a special sessions for the above purpose any time in the year after the month of July, seven days' notice thereof being given to the justices of the district (2 & 3 Vict. c. 35, s. 4).<sup>2</sup> These powers may be exercised within the D.M.P. district by two or more divisional justices (28 & 29 Vict. c. 2). A justice's licence expires on the 1st July next following in date (2 & 3 Vict. c. 35, s. 4).

Name over
door.

"Provided that every person while so licensed to deal in game as afore-said shall affix to some part of the outside of the front of his house, shop, or stall, and shall there keep a board having thereon in clear and legible characters his Christian name and surname, together with the following words 'Licensed to deal in game'"—Penalty, not exceeding £10 (Game Act, 1831, s. 18). The licence becomes void on conviction of an offence against the Act (s. 22). Partners need only one licence (s. 21).

Offences as to game dealing.

Selling or offering for sale, game without a justices' licence or annual game certificate,<sup>3</sup> or holder of such certificate selling or offering for sale game to any person other than the holder of a justices' licence—Penalty, on conviction before two justices, £2 for each head of game so sold or offered, and costs of conviction (Game Act, 1831, s. 25).

Unlicensed persons buying from any person save from a person licensed to deal in game, or bona fide from a person exhibiting a board as if a person licensed to deal in game—Penalty, not exceeding £5 for every head of game bought (Game Act, 1831, s. 27).

Where one pheasant farmer bought pheasants from another pheasant farmer, and the birds were tame, having never been at large, it was held that an offence was committed (Cook v. Treverer, (1910) W.N. 211).

Licensed game-dealers buying game from any person other than a licensed game-dealer or the holder of an annual game certificate, or selling or offering for sale game without having, in accordance with s. 22, outside the place in which he sells or offers game for sale a board bearing his Christian name and surname, and the words "licensed to deal in game," or selling elsewhere than in a place to which such board has been affixed, or any person other than a licensed game-dealer pretending, by exhibiting such board or otherwise, that he is licensed under the Act—Penalty, on conviction before two justices, not exceeding £10 and costs of conviction (Game Act, 1831, s. 28).

<sup>1</sup> This licence expires "on the day therein mentioned for the termination thereof" (Game Licences Act, 1860, s. 16).

<sup>2</sup> This section is incorporated and kept in force by the Game Licences Act, 1860, s. 13, notwithstanding its repeal by 32 & 33 Vict. c. 14, s. 39.

<sup>3</sup> Except in the cases of an innkeeper or occupier of land, as to which see "Persons who may sell game without a game-dealer's licence," p. 491.

Every person<sup>1</sup> who shall purchase or sell, or otherwise deal in game before he shall obtain an excise licence, the duty on which is £2, shall forfeit £20 (Game Licences Act, 1860, 23 & 24 Vict. c. 90, ss. 2, 14). Excise licence.

As to dealing in game during the close season, see CLOSE SEASONS, p. 488.

"Every occupier of land shall have, as incident to and inseparable from his occupation of the land, the right to kill and take ground game<sup>2</sup> thereon concurrently with any other person who may be entitled to kill and take ground game on the same land. Provided that the right conferred on the occupier by this section shall be subject to the following limitations:—(1) The occupier shall kill and take ground game only by himself or by persons duly authorized by him in writing: (a) The occupier himself and one other person authorized in writing by such occupier shall be the only persons entitled under this Act to kill ground game with firearms. (b) No person shall be authorized by the occupier to kill or take ground game except members of his household resident on the land in his occupation, persons in his ordinary service on such land, and any one other person bona fide employed by him for reward in the taking and destruction of ground game. (c) Every person so authorized by the occupier on demand by any person having a concurrent right to take and kill the ground game on the land or any person authorized by him in writing to make such demand shall produce to the person so demanding the document by which he is authorized, and in default he shall not be deemed to be an authorized person" (Ground Game Act, 1880, 43 & 44 Vict. c. 47, s. 1). Ground game.
Rights of occupier.

An owner occupying land over which he has let the sporting rights is within s. 1 of the Act of 1880, so that if he has let or granted the sporting rights he is still entitled to kill ground game (Anderson v. Vicary, (1899) 2 Q. B. 436; (1900) 2 Q. B. 287). A person who has only a right of common over lands or an occupation for not more than nine months for the purpose of grazing cattle, sheep, or horses is not to be deemed an occupier (Ground Game Act, 1880, s. 1 (2)). A visitor staying in the house of the occupier has been held to be a member of his household within the meaning of s. 1 of the Act of 1880 (Stuart v. Murray, (1884) 12 C. of S. C. (Just.) 9); and the Scotch Court of Justiciary has also held that a person employed by the occupier to kill ground game, and receiving as his sole remuneration the ground game so killed, was a person bona fide employed for reward (Bruce v. Prosser, (1898) 35 Sc. L.R. 433).

In the case of moorlands and unenclosed lands (not being arable lands) the occupier and the persons authorized by him shall only exercise the rights conferred by this section (a) with firearms from 11th December to the 31st March, both inclusive; (b) but without firearms from 1st September to 31st March, both inclusive (ib., s. 1 (3); Ground Game Amendment Act, 1906, 6 Ed. 7, c. 21, s. 2): but these restrictions do not apply to detached portions (less than twenty-five acres in extent) of moorlands or unenclosed lands adjoining arable lands (Act of 1880, s. 1 (3)). When right may be exercised.

"No person having a right of killing ground game under this Act or otherwise shall use any firearms for the purpose of killing ground game between the expiration of the first hour after sunset and the commencement of the last hour before sunrise; and no such person shall for the purpose of killing ground game, employ spring traps except in rabbit holes, nor employ poison; and any person acting in contravention of this section shall on summary conviction be liable to a penalty not exceeding £2" (Ground Game Act, 1880, s. 6).

<sup>1</sup> Except of course the persons mentioned under "Persons who may sell game without a game-dealer's licence" selling in manner provided respecting such persons.

<sup>2</sup> That is hares and rabbits (s. 8).

Ground Game. It has been held that section 6 does not apply to an owner of land who was also the occupier (Smith v. Hunt, (1886) 16 Cox, 54), nor to a person who by virtue of a grant from the owner exercises sporting rights over, but does not occupy, the land (May v. Waters, (1910) 1 K.B. 431). In the latter case Lord Alverstone, L. C. J., said:—"The Ground Game Act, 1880, was not intended to impose the restrictions in s. 6 upon the owner of the land in possession of the sporting rights, or the lessee or grantee from him of those rights who possesses or acquires those rights independently of the occupation of the land." But the section applies to an occupier of land who, by reason of the owner not having reserved the sporting rights, has the right, apart from the Act, of killing and taking game upon the land (Waters v. Phillips, (1910) 2 K.B. 465; Saunders v. Pitfield, (1888) 16 Cox 369; cf. Anderson v. Vicary, (1900) 2 K.B. 287).

Close season. Ground game are not to be killed or taken on any days or seasons prohibited by any Act in force at the time (7th September, 1880) of the passing of the Act of 1880 (Act of 1880, s. 10): consequently hares or rabbits cannot be killed or taken on Sundays, and hares cannot be killed during the annual close seasons for hares (see section entitled Sunday Shooting and Close Season, ante).

Destroying eggs or nest. "Every person who shall wilfully destroy the eggs or nest of any pheasant, partridge, quail, landrail, moor game, heath game, or grouse, wild duck, widgeon, plover, or snipe"—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (Irish) (27 Geo. 3 c. 35 (Ir.), s. 4).

This offence seems to be committed even if the destruction is done by an owner upon his own lands. As to eggs of other birds, see WILD BIRDS.

Burning mountains. It is illegal to burn any furze, heath, or fern on any moor, bog, or waste ground between the 2nd February and 14th June in any year (save the burning of furze, heath, or fern by the owner on lands broken up for the purpose of agriculture or planting (27 Geo. 3 (Ir.), c. 35, s. 3) under a penalty of £5 (Irish, equivalent to £4 12s. 3<sup>4</sup>d. sterling) (10 Wm. 3 (Ir.), c. 8, s. 7). The justices cannot reduce the fine (see R. v. Salomons, (1786) 1 T. R. 252). The Petty Sessions Act does not apply, and no costs can be given. A defendant has a right of appeal under 27 Geo. 3, c. 35, s. 23, noted p. 483, ante. One justice is sufficient (10 Wm. 3 (Ir.), c. 8, s. 7). A common informer can prosecute.

Poisoned flesh and poisoned grain. As to laying poisoned flesh, or selling or sowing poisoned grain, see POISONED GRAIN AND POISONED FLESH (post).

Dogs. As to dog licences and injury by dogs, see Dogs.

Close season, &c., for wild birds. See WILD BIRDS.

Close seasons for hares. Under the orders at present<sup>1</sup> in force the close seasons for hares (see p. 489) are as follows:—Carlow, Cavan, Clare, Cork, Kerry, Kildare, Kilkenny, Leitrim, Meath, Tipperary, Waterford, Westmeath, Wicklow—March 1st to September 20th; Antrim, Donegal, Dublin, Fermanagh, Galway, Londonderry, Mayo, Queen's County, Roscommon, Tyrone—April 1st to August 12th; Armagh, Louth, Monaghan, Sligo—April 1st to September 20th; Down—March 31st to September 20th; Longford—April 1st to September 18th; Limerick—March 17th to October 1st; King's County—March 18th to September 20th; Wexford—March 25th to September 20th.

<sup>1</sup> 31st December, 1910.

GAMING.

	PAGE		PAGE
Keeping common gaming-house, . . . . .	495	Betting-houses—
Keeping premises for unlawful gaming, . . . . .	496	Penalty for receiving deposits for bets, . . . . .	501
Evidence, . . . . .	497	Exception in favour of stakeholder in race, . . . . .	501
Search warrant, . . . . .	497	Advertising betting-houses, . . . . .	501
Appeal, . . . . .	498	Other betting advertisements, . . . . .	501
Cheating at play, . . . . .	498	Search and seizure, . . . . .	502
Betting-houses—		Abandonment of prosecution by complainant, . . . . .	502
Declared to be a nuisance, . . . . .	498	Appeal, . . . . .	502
No house, &c., to be kept for betting purposes, . . . . .	498	Lotteries, . . . . .	502
Betting-house deemed a gaming-house, . . . . .	499	Street betting, . . . . .	504
Penalty on owner or occupier, . . . . .	499	Thimblers and swindlers, . . . . .	505
		Inciting infant to bet, . . . . .	505

“The owner or keeper of any common gaming-house, and every person having the care or management thereof, and also every banker, croupier, and other person who shall act in any manner in conducting the business of any common gaming-house.”—Penalty, on conviction before two justices “beside any penalty or punishment to which he may be liable under the said Act of King Henry the Eighth,”<sup>1</sup> not exceeding £100, or six months’ imprisonment, with or without hard labour . . . . . “Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall prevent any proceeding by indictment against the owner or keeper, or other person having the care or management of a common gaming-house; but no person who shall have been summarily convicted of any such offence shall be liable to be proceeded against by indictment for the same offence” (Gaming Act, 1845, 8 & 9 Vict. c. 109, s. 4).

The Act of 1845 is aimed at persons keeping a gaming-house; the Act of 1854, infra, is aimed at persons keeping a house in which unlawful games are played (per Hawkins, J., in Jenks v. Turpin, (1884) 13 Q.B.D. 505, at p. 513).

“And whereas doubts have arisen whether certain houses, alleged or reputed to be opened for the use of the subscribers only, or not open to all persons desirous of using the same, are to be deemed ‘common gaming-houses: Be it declared and enacted, that in default of other evidence proving any house or place to be a common gaming-house, it shall be sufficient, in support of the allegation in any indictment or information that any house or place is a common gaming-house, to prove that such house or place is kept or used for playing therein at any unlawful game, and that a bank is kept there by one or more of the players exclusively of the others, or that the chances of any game played therein are not alike favourable to all the players, including among the players the banker or other person by whom the game is managed, or against whom the other players stake, play, or bet; and every such house or place shall be deemed a common gaming-house such as is contrary to law, and forbidden to be kept by the said Act of King Henry the Eighth, and by all other Acts containing any provision against unlawful games or gaming houses” (Gaming Act, 1845, s. 2).

<sup>1</sup> The Act referred to is the 33 Hen. 8, c. 9, recited in s. 1. The words in italics do not apply to Ireland, the Act of Henry 8 being an exclusively English Act.

Keeping common gaming-house.
"Common gaming-
house."

What is a common gaming-house? What is unlawful gaming? A common gaming-house is a house in which a large number of persons are invited habitually to congregate for the purpose of gaming (Jenks v. Turpin, (1884) 13 Q.B.D., 505, at p. 516). S. 2 of the Act of 1845 includes in the term any house of which it can be proved (1) that it is kept and used for playing therein at any unlawful game, and (2) that a bank is kept there either by one or more of the players, exclusively of the others, or that the chances of any game played therein are not equally favourable to all the players. A house may be a common gaming-house even though (1) it is kept open for a double purpose as an honest social club for those who do not desire to play, as well as for the purpose of gaming for those who do (Jenks v. Turpin, supra, at p. 512); (2) no annoying interference in the public street can be pointed to (ib., p. 515); and (3) the use of the house is limited to the subscribers and members of the club (ib.). As to what is unlawful gaming, see infra.

Keeping premises for unlawful
gaming.

"Any person, being the owner or occupier, or having the use of any house, room, or place, who shall open, keep, or use the same for the purpose of unlawful gaming being carried on therein, and any person who, being the owner or occupier of any house or room, shall knowingly and wilfully permit the same to be opened, kept, or used by any other person for the purpose aforesaid, and any person having the care or management of or in any manner assisting in conducting the business of any house, room, or place opened, kept, or used for the purpose aforesaid, and any person who shall advance or furnish money for the purpose of gaming with persons frequenting such house, room, or place"—Penalty, on conviction before two justices, not exceeding £500, and costs, or imprisonment, with or without hard labour, not exceeding twelve months (Gaming House Act, 1854, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 38, s. 4).

What is unlawful gaming.

Unlawful gaming comprises:—(1) all gaming in a common gaming house (Jenks v. Turpin, (1884) 13 Q.B.D. 505, at p. 513); (2) every game of cards which is not a game of mere skill; (3) probably, any other game of mere chance, and (4) certain games expressly declared unlawful by statute (ib., p. 524).<sup>1</sup>

The question whether a particular game is unlawful or not is a question for the judge and not for the jury (R. v. Davies, (1897) 2 Q.B. 199), but, it is submitted, this does not apply where a game, lawful in itself, is alleged to be unlawful by reason of being played in a common gaming house, for whether a house is a common gaming house or not is a question of fact for the jury. The use of a penny-in-the-slot machine, by means of which the person using the machine gambles for a prize, the chances being in favour of the machine, constitutes unlawful gaming (Fielding v. Turner, (1903) 1 K.B., 867). In Roberts v. Harris, (1909) 25 T.L.R. 700, the appellant kept in his shop an automatic machine with a slot in it. A person desirous of working the machine put a halfpenny in the slot, then pulled a lever which caused a ball to be thrown to the top of the machine. If the ball came back into one cup, the halfpenny was returned to the player; if it went into another, the ball was returned to the player to be played again; and if it went into a third cup, the halfpenny became the property of the appellant. It was sought to distinguish the case from Fielding v. Turner, on the ground that no prize was to be won. Held, that the appellant was rightly convicted of using his shop for the purpose of unlawful gaming, on the ground (Lord Alverstone, C.J., and Jelf, J.) that the game was not equally favourable to all the players, including the owner of the machine, and also on the ground (Darling, J.) that the amusement provided was money's worth (cf. on this point, Lockwood v. Cooper, (1903) 2 K.B., 428, noted under INTOXICATING LIQUORS). Keeping premises for unlawful gaming.

<sup>1</sup> Ace of hearts, pharaoh, basset, hazard, passage, roulette, every game of dice except backgammon are unlawful in England, by virtue of 33 Hen. 8, c. 9. Games of chance at cards or dice and lotteries were made illegal by the Irish statute 13 Geo. 2, c. 8, s. 17.

Mere players are not, but the committee of a club, as having the management of the premises, are, within the statute (Jenks v. Turpin, (1884) 13 Q.B.D., 505, at p. 526). Mere players.

It is not necessary, to support a conviction, to prove that any person found playing was playing for money (Gaming Act, 1845, s. 5).<sup>1</sup> Discovery of instruments of gaming is presumptive evidence that the house is a common gaming-house (s. 8); obstruction of officers duly authorized to enter is evidence to the like effect (Gaming Houses Act, 1854, s. 2); persons concerned in unlawful gaming who give true evidence can obtain a certificate of exemption from prosecution (Gaming Act, 1845, s. 9). Persons arrested in a gaming-house may be required to give evidence and compelled to answer incriminating questions (Gaming Houses Act, 1854, s. 5). As to effect of evidence of newspapers found on premises containing announcements of races, see Bannon v. Breen, p. 499, infra. Evidence.

The Gaming Act, 1845, by s. 3, provides that, "in every case except within the metropolitan police district," in which the justices of peace in every shire, and mayors, sheriffs, bailiffs, and other head officers<sup>2</sup> within every city, town, and borough, within this realm, now have by law authority to enter into any house, room, or place, where unlawful games shall be suspected to be holden," any justice may issue a warrant to search a suspected gaming-house.<sup>3</sup> Either of the commissioners of police in Dublin may, by order in writing, authorize a superintendent (ss. 6, 7, 24) to enter and search houses suspected of being common gaming-houses, and arrest and bring before a justice persons found therein (ib.). Search warrant. Who may grant.

"Any person who shall wilfully prevent any constable or officer authorized under the provisions of the said Act of the eighth and ninth years of Her Majesty to enter any house, room, or place from entering the same or any part thereof, or who shall obstruct or delay any such constable or officer in so entering, and any person who, by any bolt, bar, chain, or other contrivance, shall secure any external or internal door of, or means of access to, any house, room, or place so authorized to be entered, or shall use any means or contrivance whatsoever for the purpose of preventing, obstructing, or delaying the entry of any constable or officer authorized as aforesaid into any such house, room, or place, or any part thereof"—Penalty, on summary conviction before two justices, not exceeding £100, with such costs as to the justices shall appear reasonable; "and on the non-payment of such penalty and costs, or in the first instance, if to the said justices it shall seem fit, may be committed to the common gaol or house of correction, with or without hard labour, for any period not exceeding six calendar months" (Gaming Houses Act, 1854, s. 1). Obstructing entry.

Person apprehended refusing to give name and address or giving false name and address—Penalty, not exceeding £50 and costs, or one month's imprisonment, with or without hard labour (s. 3). Person arrested to give name and address.

<sup>1</sup> This, however, merely means that the justices are at liberty to infer that gaming was being carried on, though there is no direct evidence that the game was played for money, just as under s. 62 of the Licensing Act, 1872, proof of money having passed is not necessary in a charge of unlawfully selling intoxicating liquor. Of course, there can be no gaming unless money or money's worth is staked.

<sup>2</sup> Meaning the Dublin metropolitan police district, see s. 24.

<sup>3</sup> Sic.

<sup>4</sup> Apparently no such authority as that referred to in the section seems to have existed; and, therefore, it may be questioned whether, outside the D.M.P. district, such search warrant can be issued. As to power of justices to issue warrant to search houses suspected of being betting houses, see p. 502.

When persons are so arrested and brought before a justice, and charged with an offence, a summons should be issued in the ordinary way charging the offence (Blake v. Beech, (1876) 1 Ex. D. 320).

Appeal.

Any person summarily convicted may appeal, giving notice of his intention to do so "at the time of the conviction,"<sup>1</sup> and then, or within forty-eight hours, entering into recognizances with two sureties (s. 20).

Cheating at play.

A person cheating at play is deemed guilty of obtaining money by false pretences (Gaming Act, 1845, s. 7). See INDICTABLE OFFENCES, under FALSE PRETENCES.

See also LOTTERIES, infra.

Betting-houses.

"No house, office, room, or other place shall be opened, kept, or used for the purpose of the owner, occupier, or keeper thereof, or any person using the same, or any person procured or employed by or acting for or on behalf of such owner, occupier, or keeper, or person using the same, or of any person having the care or management or in any manner conducting the business thereof betting with persons resorting thereto; or for the purpose of any money or valuable thing being received by or on behalf of such owner, occupier, keeper, or person as aforesaid as or for the consideration for any assurance, undertaking, promise or agreement, express or implied, to pay or give thereafter any money or valuable thing on any event or contingency of or relating to any horse race, or other race, fight, game, sport, or exercise, or as or for the consideration for securing the paying or giving by some other person of any money or valuable thing on any such event or contingency as aforesaid; and every house, office, room, or other place opened, kept, or used for the purposes aforesaid, or any of them, is hereby declared to be a common nuisance and contrary to law" (Betting Houses Act, 1853, 16 & 17 Vict. c. 119, s. 1).

Declared to be a nuisance.

This section creates two separate and distinct offences, namely, keeping the places referred to (1) for the purpose of betting with persons resorting thereto, (2) for the purpose of receiving deposits on bets for ready-money betting (see Bond v. Plumb, (1894) 1 Q.B. 169). "Persons resorting thereto" means physical resorting, and using a place for the purpose of receiving betting telegrams, &c., will not sustain a conviction for using for the purpose of betting with persons resorting thereto, but may sustain a conviction for using for the purpose of receiving deposits (R. v. Brown, (1895) 1 Q.B. 119; see also Wright v. Clarke, (1870) 34 J.P. 661). A "commission agent" is liable, though he does not "stand" the bets himself (Wright v. Clarke, supra). The appellant was a bookmaker, and a letter was sent to his premises stating that the writer wished to open a deposit account with the appellant, and on hearing from him would forward £5; the writer added that none of his commissions would exceed that amount without a further remittance. The appellant replied, enclosing a book of rules, and saying that "on receipt of yours, as suggested, I will place you on my list of clients." The money was thereafter sent to the appellant in the form of postal orders. Bets were made by the appellant on behalf of the writer of the letter, and a day or two later the appellant's premises were raided, when books of account showing betting transactions, and about 100 betting slips, were found. The appellant was convicted upon an indictment under the Betting Act, 1853, for using the premises for the purpose of receiving deposits on bets. Held, that there was evidence upon which the jury could convict the appellant: Semble, the receipt of a document which can be turned into money is the receipt of money within s. 1 of the Betting Act 1853 (R. v. Mortimer, (1910) 27 T.L.R. 17). In this case, the contention that there was evidence of only one act of user for ready-money betting, and that all the other transactions were on credit, was rejected.

<sup>1</sup> As to which see p. 140.

On a charge of using premises for betting purposes, a newspaper found therein is evidence of a public announcement that a certain race mentioned in the newspaper is to be run, and that certain horses are to take part in it, and no evidence that the race was run is necessary (Bannon v. Breen, 17th November, 1910, K.B.D. (Ir.), unreported).<sup>1</sup>

Betting-houses.

"Every house, room, office, or place opened, kept, or used for the purposes aforesaid, or any of them, shall be taken and deemed to be a common gaming-house within the meaning of" the Gaming Act, 1845 (Betting Houses Act, 1853, s. 2).

Betting-houses to be deemed gaming-houses.

"Any person who being the owner or occupier of any house, office, room, or other place, or a person using the same, shall open, keep, or use the same for the purposes herein-before mentioned, or either of them; and any person who being the owner or occupier of any house, room, office, or other place shall knowingly and wilfully permit the same to be opened, kept, or used by any other person for the purposes aforesaid, or either of them; and any person having the care or management of or in any manner assisting in conducting the business of any house, office, room, or place opened, kept, or used for the purposes aforesaid, or either of them"—Penalty, on summary conviction before two justices, not exceeding £100, and such costs as the justices may deem reasonable, or imprisonment with or without hard labour, not exceeding six months (Betting Houses Act, 1853, s. 3).

Penalty on owner or occupier.

A person who permits his house to be used for the sale of tickets and the receipt of purchase money for such tickets in an ordinary sweep-stake on a horse race, does not commit an offence against the statute (R. v. Hobbs, (1898) 2 Q.B. 647), but would probably be guilty of keeping a lottery (ib., per Lord Russell of Killowen, C.J., p. 655). The defendant was the occupier of an office and the proprietor of a newspaper published weekly at that office. Each number of the paper contained a notice of what was called a "coupon competition"—that is to say, of a promise by the defendant to pay a certain specified sum of money to such persons as should correctly guess the result of a certain horse race then shortly to be run, and should write their guesses upon certain forms called "coupons," which were issued with each number of the newspaper, and should return the coupons so filled up to the defendant's office, together with the sum of one penny in respect of each guess made. A large number of persons every week sent in to the defendant's office coupons filled up as aforesaid, accompanied by remittances of money. Held, that a conviction of the defendant for keeping the office for the purpose of money being received by her as the consideration for undertakings to pay thereafter money on events relating to horse races was right (R. v. Stoddart, (1901) 1 Q.B. 177; cf. Caminada v. Hulton, (1906) 60 L.J.M.C. 116).

"Betting-house."

The section is confined to cases where the defendant is in control and occupation of a place, and Tattersall's Ring is not a place within the Act (Powell v. Kempton Park Racecourse Co., (1899) A.C. 143, overruling Hawke v. Dunn, (1897) 1 Q.B. 579). The cases of M'Innay v. Hildreth, (1897) 1 Q.B. 600 (a pit heap where a bookmaker constantly went to make bets), R. v. Humphrey, (1898) 1 Q.B. 875 (a case of an archway, portion of a private thoroughfare over which the defendant had no control); Eastwood v. Miller, (1874) L.R. 9 Q.B. 440, and Haigh v. Town Council of Sheffield, (1875) L.R. 10 Q.B. 102 (betting in an enclosed field to which admission was obtained by payment), Gallaway v. Maries, (1881) 8 Q.B.D. 275 (bookmaker standing on a box), are probably not good law, in view of the decision in Powell v. Kempton Park Racecourse Co., supra (see references of Lord Esher, M.R., and Lord Davey, to Gallaway v. Maries and Eastwood v. Miller in Powell v. Kempton Park Racecourse Co., at (1897) 2 Q.B. 259 and (1899) A.C. 183 respectively). But where defendant

"Place."

<sup>1</sup> At time of going to press. See INDEX OF CASES.

Betting houses.
"Place."

erected a cane structure about five feet high with four legs or supports, and having on the top a board with his name, and defendant stood on a box near the structure and invited people to bet with him, he was held to be rightly convicted (Brown v. Patch, (1899) 1 Q.B. 892; see also Shaw v. Morley, (1868) L.R. 3 Ex. 137). In Brown v. Patch, decided after Powell v. Kempton Park Racecourse Co., the convictions in Bows v. Fenwick, (1874) L.R. 9 C.P. 339 (where a bookmaker stood on a stool under an umbrella), and Liddell v. Lofthouse, (1896) 1 Q.B. 295 (where he stood in a bay formed by a hoarding and wooden supports thereof), were approved (see also judgment of Lord James of Hereford in Powell v. Kempton Park Racecourse Company, (1899) A.C. 197, but see judgments of Lord Esher and Lord Davey referred to supra).

"Using."

To sustain a charge of "using" a house for betting purposes contrary to the Betting Act, 1853, it is necessary, if there is a place which is not in law or fact in possession for the time being of the person charged, but which is a common place to which persons have access for other purposes, to prove that the person who owns the place permitted the prohibited business to be carried on (R. v. Deaville, (1903) 1 K.B. 468, 475). In such a case, a mere physical user of the place is not enough to justify a conviction; there must be a user with the sanction of the owner (R. v. Moss, (1910) 26 T.L.R. 323). Where a bookmaker upon several days went to the vaults or an adjacent public room of an inn, and had betting transactions there, but no evidence was given that the occupier or his servants saw or knew what was going on, it was held that the bookmaker could not be convicted of using the house for the purpose of betting (R. v. Deaville, supra). But if portion of the premises is used by a bookmaker by permission of the owner, even though the bookmaker has no interest in the premises, the offence is committed (Belton v. Busby, (1899) 2 Q.B. 380; Tromans v. Hodgkinson, (1903) 1 K.B. 30), and permission given by a person assisting in the management of the premises is sufficient (Burton v. Scott, (1909) 25 T.L.R. 239). A person acting as a mere conduit-pipe for making bets between a bookmaker and his customers, though he has no pecuniary interest in the transactions, may be guilty of using the premises (R. v. Wyton, (1910) 5 Cr. App. 287).

To constitute a user, the place must be habitually used for the purpose of betting; and mere evidence that a bet was made by the occupier on one occasion (M'Connell v. Brennan, (1908) 2 I.R. 411; Jayes v. Harris, (1908) 21 Cox. 639; R. v. Davies, (1897) 2 Q.B. 199) is not sufficient. A single betting transaction, coupled with other evidence, may be sufficient (R. v. Mortimer, (1910) 27 T.L.R. 17, noted p. 498; Quinn v. Maguire, (Feb., 1911) K.B.D. (Ir.)). Evidence of previous betting transactions is admissible to prove user (R. v. Mean, (1904) 21 T.L.R. 172).

The use by a bookmaker of premises for the mere purpose of paying over bets does not constitute an offence (Bradford v. Dawson, (1897) 1 Q.B. 307). But where an essential part of the operation of making bets habitually takes place in the premises, it is no defence to show that the money is not received therein (Stoddart v. Hawke, (1902) 1 K.B. 353; Mackenzie v. Hawke, (1902) 2 K.B. 216). The facts that racing men and others are seen entering the premises, and papers and accounts relating to horse racing and betting are found therein, will sustain a conviction, though there is no direct proof of betting (Reynolds v. Agar, (1906) 70 J.P.N. 568). See Bannon v. Breen, noted, p. 499, ante.

Club.

A bona fide club, in which members are in the habit of betting with each other in the club rooms, is not within section 1 of the Betting Act, 1853 (Downes v. Johnson, (1895) 2 Q.B. 203); but this does not apply where the club is a mere blind, as, for instance, where the members were divided into two classes: bookmakers, who occupied a particular portion of the club rooms, and other members who went to the club to bet with them Betting-houses.

(R. v. Corrie & Watson, (1904) 20 T.L.R. 365).

"Any person, being the owner or occupier of any house, office, room, or place opened, kept, or used for the purposes aforesaid, or either of them, or any person acting for or on behalf of any such owner or occupier, or any person having the care or management, or in any manner assisting in conducting the business thereof, who shall receive, directly or indirectly, any money or valuable thing as a deposit on any bet on condition of paying any sum of money or other valuable thing on the happening of any event or contingency of or relating to a horse-race, or any other race, or any fight, game, sport, or exercise, or as or for the consideration for any assurance, undertaking, promise, or agreement, express or implied, to pay or give thereafter any money or valuable thing on any such event or contingency, and any person giving any acknowledgment, note, security, or draft on the receipt of any money or valuable thing so paid or given as aforesaid, purporting or intended to entitle the bearer or any other person to receive any money or valuable thing on the happening of any such event or contingency as aforesaid"—Penalty, on conviction before two justices, not exceeding £50, and such costs as the said justices shall deem reasonable; or imprisonment with or without hard labour, not exceeding three months (Betting Houses Act, 1853, s. 4). Receiving deposits for bets.

"Provided always, that nothing in this Act contained shall extend to any person receiving or holding any money or valuable thing by way of stakes or deposit to be paid to the winner of any race, or lawful sport, game, or exercise, or to the owner of any horse engaged in any race" (Betting Houses Act, 1853, s. 6). Stake-holder in horse-race.

"Any person exhibiting or publishing, or causing to be exhibited or published, any placard, handbill, card, writing, sign, or advertisement whereby it shall be made to appear that any house, office, room, or place is opened, kept, or used for the purpose of making bets or wagers, in manner aforesaid, or for the purpose of exhibiting lists for betting, or with intent to induce any person to resort to such house, office, room, or place for the purpose of making bets or wagers in manner aforesaid, or any person who, on behalf of the owner or occupier of any such house, office, room, or place, or person using the same, shall invite other persons to resort thereto for the purpose of making bets or wagers, in manner aforesaid"—Penalty, on conviction before two justices of the peace, not exceeding £30, and such costs as to the said justices shall seem reasonable, or imprisonment, with or without hard labour, not exceeding two calendar months (Betting Houses Act, 1853, s. 7). Advertising betting-houses.

"Where any letter, circular, telegram, placard, handbill, card, or advertisement is sent, exhibited, or published (1) whereby it is made to appear that any person, either in the United Kingdom or elsewhere, will on application give information or advice for the purpose of, or with respect to, any such bet or wager, or any such event or contingency as is mentioned in the principal Act,<sup>1</sup> or will make on behalf of any other person any such bet or wager as is mentioned in the principal Act,<sup>1</sup> or (2) with intent to induce any person to apply to any house, office, room, or place, or to any person with the view of obtaining information or advice for the purpose of any such bet or wager, or with respect to any such event or contingency, as mentioned in the principal Act;<sup>1</sup> or (3) inviting any person to make or take any share in or in connection with any such bet or wager. Every person sending, exhibiting, or publishing or causing the same to be sent, exhibited, or published, shall be subject to the penalties provided in" section 7 of the Betting Act, 1853 (Betting Act, 1874, 37 Vict. c. 15, s. 3). Other advertisements as to betting.

<sup>1</sup> The Betting Act, 1853.

Betting-houses.

The Betting Act, 1874, which (s. 1) is to be construed as one with the Act of 1853, is confined to such bets as are mentioned in the Betting Act, 1853, that is to bets made in any house, office, or place kept for betting, and the Act does not apply to advertisements offering information for the purpose of bets not to be made in any house, office, or place kept for that purpose (Cox v. Andrews, (1883) 12 Q.B.D. 126).

Search and seizure.

A warrant may be granted, on information on oath, by a justice to a police officer to enter and search a house suspected of being used as a betting house or office, and arrest all persons and seize all documents relating to betting or racing found therein (s. 11). The commissioners of police in Dublin may, by order in writing, authorize a superintendent of police to so enter, search, arrest, and seize (ss. 12, 18).

A person may be "found" on premises within the meaning of s. 11, although he only comes thereon after the police have entered the premises. But the power of arrest given to the police by that section is limited to the arrest of persons found on the premises for the purpose of betting (Davis v. Sly, (1910) 26 T.L.R. 460).

The plaintiff, a bookmaker, placed £107 6s. 8d., the proceeds of street betting, in a house occupied by a person who assisted him in his betting transactions. The house in question having been searched by the police under a warrant issued under s. 11 of the Betting Act, 1853, the £107 6s. 8d. and a number of betting slips were seized and retained by the police for the purposes of certain proceedings taken against the plaintiff and others. In those proceedings the plaintiff was acquitted, and he sued the police for detaining the £107 6s. 8d. and claimed the return thereof. Held, that the plaintiff was entitled to recover (Gordon v. Chief Commissioner of Metropolitan Police, (1910) 2 K.B. 1080).

Abandonment of prosecution by complainant. Appeal.

If complainant neglect to prosecute summons, the justices may authorize some other person to proceed (s. 10).

An appeal is given to "any person who shall be summarily convicted under this Act" (Betting Houses Act, 1853, s. 13), which seems to give a right to any person convicted, irrespective of amount of penalty. Notice of intention to appeal shall be given "at the time of the conviction,"<sup>1</sup> and at the time of the conviction or within forty-eight hours, recognizances with two sureties conditioned to try the appeal and abide the judgment of the Court of Appeal and pay costs must be entered into (ib.).

Lotteries.

Lotteries are public nuisances (6 Anne, c. 17 (Ir.), s. 1; 11 Anne, c. 6 (Ir.)), and therefore the keeping thereof is an indictable misdemeanour.

Statutory provisions.

By various statutes of the Irish Parliament, penalties were enacted for keeping lotteries (see 6 Anne, c. 17 (Ir.); 11 Anne, c. 6 (Ir.); 13 Geo. 2, c. 8 (Ir.)), such penalties being recoverable either by action or, in some instances, on conviction before justices, e.g., 13 Geo. 2, c. 8 (Ir.), s. 1. But by 46 Geo. 3, c. 148, s. 59, it was enacted that all penalties under that Act or other Acts against lotteries were to be sued for in the High Court by the Attorney-General.<sup>2</sup> (See R. v. Tuddenham, (1841) 9 D.P.C. 937).

No person shall publicly or privately keep any office or place to exercise, keep open, show, or expose to be played, drawn, or thrown at or in, either by dice, lots, cards, balls, or by numbers or figures, or by any other way, contrivance, or device whatsoever, any game or lottery called a "Little Goe," or any other lottery whatsoever, not authorized by Parliament, or shall knowingly suffer to be exercised, kept open, shown, or exposed to be played, drawn, or thrown at or in, either by dice, lots, cards, balls, or by numbers or figures, or by any other way, contrivance, or device whatsoever, any such game or lottery, in his or her house, room, or place, upon pain of forfeiting for every such offence £500, to be recovered at the suit of His Majesty's Attorney-General, and every person so offending is to be deemed a rogue and vagabond<sup>1</sup> (Gaming Act, 1802, 42 Geo. 3, c. 119, s. 2).

<sup>1</sup> As to which see p. 140.

<sup>2</sup> A number of English statutes enacting penalties in respect of lotteries were applied to Ireland by the Lotteries (Ir.) Act, 1780 (21 Geo. 3, c. 14, s. 60); but as all these statutes are subject to the provisions of the 46 Geo. 3, c. 148, s. 59, further reference to them is deemed unnecessary.

If any person shall sell any ticket or tickets, chance or chances, share or shares of any ticket, &c., in any lottery or lotteries authorized by any foreign potentate or state, or to be drawn in any foreign country, or in any lottery or lotteries except such as are or shall be authorized by this or some other Act of Parliament to be sold, or shall publish any proposal or scheme for the sale of any ticket or tickets, chance or chances, except such lottery or lotteries as shall be authorized as aforesaid, he shall for every offence forfeit and pay £50, to be recovered at the suit of His Majesty's Attorney-General, and is to be deemed a rogue and vagabond<sup>1</sup> (Lotteries Act, 1823, 4 Geo. 4, c. 60, s. 41).

"In Webster's Dictionary a lottery is defined to be a distribution of prizes by lot or chance, and a similar definition is given in Johnson. Such definitions are, in our opinion, correct, and in such sense we think the word is used" in s. 2, 42 Geo. 3, c. 119 (Taylor v. Smetten, (1883) 11 Q.B.D. 207). The appellant sold packets of tea containing one pound each at 2s. 6d. a packet. In each packet was a coupon entitling the purchaser to a prize, and this was publicly stated by the appellant before the sale, but the purchasers did not know until after the sale what prize they were entitled to, and the prizes varied in character and value. The tea was good and worth the money paid for it. Held, that what the appellant did constituted a lottery (ib.); see also Hunt v. Williams, (1888) 52 J.P. 821; Barrett v. Burden, (1893) 57 J.P. 772.

What is a lottery.

Holding a sweepstake is a lottery (Allport v. Nutt, (1845) 1 C.B. 974; Mearns v. Hellings, (1845) 14 M. & W. 711; R. v. Hobbs, (1898) 2 Q.B. 647; Hardwick v. Lane, (1904) 1 K.B. 204). As regards newspaper and other so-called "competitions," the test is—does the result depend entirely upon chance, or, to some extent, at all events, upon the exercise of skill, knowledge, and judgment (Hall v. Cox, (1899) 1 Q.B. 198; Stoddart v. Sagar, (1895) 2 Q.B. 474). The following have been held to be lotteries:—a missing word competition (Barclay v. Pearson, (1893) 2 Ch. 154); a "Limerick" competition (Blyth v. Hulton, (1908) 24 T.L.R. 719; Smith's Advertising Agency v. Leeds Laboratory Company, (1910) 26 T.L.R. 335); a weather forecast competition (R. v. Pearson, (1893—Bow-street), 37 S.J. 749); a competition in which purchasers of a newspaper were given prizes for making out certain portions of the paper marked with spots (Hall v. McWilliam, (1901) 20 Cox 33). The following were held not to be lotteries:—offering prizes for selecting winning horses (Caminada v. Hulton, (1891) 60 L.J.M.C. 116; Stoddart v. Sagar, (1895) 2 Q.B. 474); for predicting the number of births and deaths during a stated period in a particular locality (Hall v. Cox, (1899) 1 Q.B. 198).

The proprietors of a weekly newspaper caused medals to be distributed gratuitously among members of the public; each medal bore a distinctive number and the words, "Keep this, it may be worth £100. See the Weekly Telegraph to-day;" the winning numbers, which were arbitrarily selected by the newspaper proprietors, and were unknown to the distributors, were published weekly in the newspaper. There were no coupons, and it was not necessary that the holder of a medal should purchase a copy of the paper as a condition of receiving a prize; information as to the winning numbers could be obtained without charge at the office of the newspaper.

<sup>1</sup> There is no enactment in force in Ireland under which "a rogue and vagabond" is punishable as such.

Lotteries.

The object of the scheme was to induce persons to inspect or buy the paper, and the circulation in fact increased considerably during the progress of the scheme. Held that, although it was possible for an individual holder of a medal to obtain a prize without paying anything for his chance, the medal-holders as a body collectively contributed sums of money to the fund out of which the money came for the prizes, and that the scheme was a lottery within s. 2 of the Gaming Act, 1802 (Willis v. Young, (1907) 1 K.B. 448). The defendant exposed on the counter of his shop a machine called an Automatic Tivoli Cigar machine, intended to be and actually used by his customers. The machine was put in operation by putting a penny in the slot and by pressing a spring. The amount of the pressure applied to the spring determined the course taken by the penny inside the machine, and this in turn determined whether the person who had put in the penny got it back, lost it to the defendant, or won from him a cigar valued at twopence. A certain amount of skill might be acquired in giving the requisite pressure to the spring, but it was not shown that the defendant's customers had any opportunity or ever attempted to acquire such skill. Held, that the machine as worked and used was a lottery within the meaning of section 22 of the Glasgow Police (Further Powers) Act, 1892, which provides that "no person shall keep or be concerned in the keeping, management, or conduct of any place, or exercise, keep open, show, or expose to be played, drawn, or thrown at, or in, either by dice, lots, cards, balls, or by numbers or figures, or by any other way, contrivance, or device whatsoever, any lottery" (Santgoneli v. Neilson, (1903) F. (Just. Cas.) 10).

"Keeping" a lottery.

A person who on one occasion only holds a lottery in a place does not thereby keep such place for the purpose of a lottery, as using a place once for the purpose of a lottery is not "keeping" it for that purpose (Martin v. Benjamin, (1907) 1 K.B. 64).

Street betting.

"Any person frequenting or loitering in streets or public places, on behalf either of himself or of any other person, for the purpose of book-making, or betting, or wagering, or agreeing to bet or wager, or paying or receiving or settling bets"—Penalty, first offence, not exceeding £10 second offence, not exceeding £20; subsequent offence (or in any case where offender had betting transactions with a person under sixteen), not exceeding £50, or six months' imprisonment, if tried by indictment; and £30, or three months' imprisonment, if tried summarily. Books, cards, papers, and other articles relating to betting found in offender's possession may be forfeited (Street Betting Act, 1906, 6 Ed. 7, c. 43, s. 1 (1)).

A person who appears to be under sixteen shall be deemed to be under that age until the contrary is proved, or unless the person charged shall satisfy the court that he had reasonable ground for believing otherwise (s. 1 (3)). A constable may arrest an offender without warrant, and may seize and detain any article liable to forfeiture (s. 1 (2)).

"The word 'street' shall include any highway, and any public bridge, road, lane, footway, square, court, alley, or passage, whether a thoroughfare or not; and the words "public place" shall include any public park, garden, or sea beach, and any unenclosed ground to which the public, for the time being, have unrestricted access, and shall also include every enclosed place (not being a public park or garden) to which the public have a restricted right of access, whether on payment or otherwise, if at or near every public entrance there is conspicuously exhibited by the owners or persons having the control of the place a notice prohibiting betting therein" (s. 1 (4)).

Nothing in the Act shall apply to any ground used for the purpose of a racecourse for racing with horses or adjacent thereto on the days on which races take place (s. 2).

An appeal lies against any order of imprisonment without the option of a fine (s. 4). Street betting.

On June 29th, 1908, the appellant attended at an athletic ground to which the public had access on payment of an entrance fee, and made bets there. The justices having convicted him of frequenting a public place for the purpose of betting (within a bye-law). Held, that the conviction was right (Airton v. Scott, (1909) 25 T.L.R. 250). In that case Lord Alverstone, C.J., said that "it was plain that being long enough on premises to effect the particular object aimed at was 'frequenting.' They could not distinguish this case from the unreported case to which they had been referred, and in which the man who remained long enough in the street to effect a bet was held to have frequented the street for that purpose." In a Scotch case (Lang v. Walker, (1902) 40 Sc.L.R. 284), it was held that a man who on one day loitered about a street and the adjoining streets for about forty minutes, making or endeavouring to make bets, "frequented and used" the street for the purpose of betting within a local Act. Lord Adams said, "I do not see why frequenting may not consist in staying in the street long enough at a time. If, for example, a man went to a street at 10 a.m. and stayed there till 6 p.m., though he never left the street, that would be, in my opinion, frequenting the street"; but Lord Kinnear said that "to frequent a street means not to be found there on a single occasion, but to visit the place often, to be much there, to resort to it often," but thought that frequenting was shown by the man going from the street to the adjoining streets and back again. See also R. v. Clarke, (1884) 14 Q.B.D. 92, at pp. 98, 102.

Where a bookmaker standing on private ground separated by a fence from the street put his arm over the fence and received a betting slip and money from a person standing in the street, it was held that the betting transaction took place in the street, and that the bookmaker was rightly convicted (Queen v. Wilson, (1910) S.C. (J.) 62).

The appellant was a bookmaker, and was betting in a field which was being used on the occasion in question for the purpose of certain athletic sports and horse races. The programme of events at the sports consisted of a number of footraces and athletic competitions, and two horse races. The field was not permanently laid out or used as a racecourse for horse racing, but was adapted for use as such for the occasion. Held, that the field was not "used for the purpose of a racecourse" within s. 2 (Stead v. Aykroyd, (1910) 74 J.P. 482).

J. C., being charged under s. 1 (1) of the Street Betting Act, 1906, with loitering and frequenting X street for the purpose of betting contrary to said Act, admitted that he was there for the purpose of paying bets made on the race course at B. The magistrate amended the charge and convicted the defendant of loitering, etc., for the purpose of "paying bets": Held, that the magistrate was right in point of law in so convicting (Keenan v. Collie, (1907) 41 I.L.T.R. 226). A conviction that defendant loitered in a certain street "for the purpose of bookmaking or betting or wagering, or agreeing to bet or wager, or paying or receiving or settling bets" contrary to the Street Betting Act, 1906, is good (Stenhouse v. Dykes, (1908) S.C. (J.) 61).

By the Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 103, s. 76, all thimblers, loaded dice players, and other swindlers who shall be found in the possession of implements for practising games of hazard, or who shall induce any person to play, &c., or who shall attempt to cozen or cheat, on conviction before one justice, may be imprisoned for a term not exceeding thirty days, and be ordered to restore money won, and in default of so doing may be imprisoned for an additional term not exceeding thirty days. Thimblers and swindlers.

As to inciting infant to bet, see CHILDREN, p. 404. Inciting infant to bet.

GAS.

	PAGE		PAGE
Statutes, . . . . .	506	Recovery of gas rents, etc., . . . . .	507
Offences by company, . . . . .	506	Alliance & Dublin Consumers' Gas Co. . . . .	507
Offences by consumer, . . . . .	506	Larceny of gas, . . . . .	508
Procedure, . . . . .	507

Statutes : The general statutes applicable to gas undertakings are the Gas Works Clauses Act, 1847 (10 & 11 Vict. c. 15), and the Gas Works Clauses Act, 1871 (34 & 35 Vict. c. 41), which Acts are to be construed as one Act (Act of 1871, s. 1). The Act of 1871 applies to any undertaking authorized by any special Act passed after 1871, unless expressly excluded (Act of 1871, s. 3). The Act of 1847 is generally incorporated by the private Act. Besides the offences created by these statutes, reference should be made in all cases to the private Act.

Offences by company. Failure of the undertakers to supply gas to owner or occupier of premises of the prescribed pressure—Penalty, not exceeding 40s. per day (Act of 1871, s. 36). Failure to supply gas to public lamps as required by the Act—Penalty, not exceeding 40s. for each default (ib.). If the gas supplied is of less pressure or less illuminating power, or less purity than prescribed, the undertakers shall be liable to a penalty of £20, recoverable before two justices, payable to the local authorities or other persons making application for testing the gas (ib.). Streets not to be broken up by company except under the superintendence of persons having control, &c., and according to such plan as they shall approve of; in case of difference, to be settled by two justices (Act of 1847, s. 9). Failure to fulfil their obligations in reference to roads, &c., broken up by them—Penalty, payable to the persons having control of such road, &c., £5 and £5 a day (Act of 1847, s. 11). Fouling streams or reservoirs—Penalty, £200 (s. 21), recoverable by action (s. 22). Allowing escape of gas from pipe after twenty-four hours' notice—Penalty, £5 a day (s. 24). Fouling water—Penalty, payable to person whose water is fouled, not exceeding £20 and £10 a day (s. 25). Refusing to produce books as required—Penalty, £100 and £10 a day, recoverable by action (s. 37). Failing to keep copies of special Act at their office, or to deposit copies with clerk of peace—Penalty, £20 and £5 a day (Act of 1847, s. 46). Where the local authority do not themselves supply gas, they may appoint an examiner to test the gas of the undertakers between certain specified hours (Act of 1871, s. 29), and where no gas examiner is appointed under s. 29, or where the testing of gas is imperfectly attended to by the local authority, two justices, upon the application of not less than five consumers, may appoint a competent and impartial person to be gas examiner; such examiner may enter the premises of the undertakers during the same hours to test the gas (s. 30)—Penalty, on undertakers failing to give facilities for such tests, not exceeding £5, payable to local authority or the persons applying under s. 30 (s. 34).

Offences by consumer. Connecting pipe with any pipe belonging to undertakers without their consent, or fraudulently injuring meter, &c., or improperly using or burning gas, or supplying other persons with the gas—Penalty, payable to the undertakers, £5 and 40s. a day (Act of 1847, s. 18). Connecting meter with any pipe, or disconnecting meter from pipe without giving twenty-four hours' previous notice—Penalty, not exceeding 40s. (Act of 1871, s. 15).

<sup>1</sup> See also ss. 77, 78 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, noted under PUBLIC HEALTH.

Obstructing officers—Penalty, payable to the undertakers, not exceeding £5 (s. 21). Injuring or tampering with meters, or preventing meter from fully registering, or fraudulently abstracting or consuming gas—Penalty, payable to the undertakers, £5, in addition to damages (s. 38). Wilfully damaging pipes, &c.—Penalty, payable to the undertakers, £5, in addition to amount of damage (Act of 1847, s. 9). Damage by accident may be recovered (s. 20), as set out in CIVIL JURISDICTION, ante, p. 164.

The clauses of the Railways Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, in respect to the recovery of damages not specially provided for, and of penalties, and the determination of any other matters referred to justices are incorporated (Act of 1847, s. 40), the effect of which is that two justices are required in any proceedings under the Act of 1845, except where one justice is expressly empowered to act. As to procedure generally under the incorporated Act, see ss. 140–145, 148–150, and 152–154 thereof, noted under CIVIL JURISDICTION, ante, p. 184. Penalties under Act of 1871 to be recoverable in like manner (Act of 1871, s. 44). In none of the sections above set forth is a single justice empowered to act.

Provisions as to the sale of gas by meter by the cubic foot, and rules for testing meter, penalties for altering meter or obstructing inspector, are contained in the Sale of Gas Act, 1859 (22 & 23 Vict. c. 66), penalties under which are recoverable before two or more justices in petty sessions (Sale of Gas Act Amendment Act, 1860, 23 & 24 Vict. c. 146), with appeal to quarter sessions (Act of 1859, s. 22). The Act of 1859 is not to come into operation until the grand jury of the county (now the county council) shall have resolved to bring the county under the operation of the Act (Act of 1860, s. 2).

The registering by the gas-meter is merely prima facie evidence of the quantity consumed (Gas Light and Coke Co. v. Creswell, (Clerkenwell Police Ct., 1897) 61 J.P. 699; Cork Gas Co. v. Bible, (Co. Ct., 1897) 31 I. L. T. 477).

Justices have jurisdiction to civilly determine disputes as to gas rents, &c. See CIVIL JURISDICTION, ante, p. 164.

The following is a précis of sections of the private Acts of the ALLIANCE and DUBLIN CONSUMERS' GAS COMPANY, giving justices jurisdiction:—

Company shall not discontinue supply unless and until consumer, who has been called upon to give security, has failed to give security for seven days after the amount thereof has been agreed on or determined—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (Alliance and Dublin Gas Act, 1866, 29 & 30 Vict. c. ccv, ss. 51, 49). Failure by the Company to give supply—Penalty, on summary conviction, not exceeding £5 a day (ib., s. 51). Any person fraudulently injuring meters—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (s. 59). The corporation or local authority for lighting street with gas, or, where there is no such local authority, any two justices may appoint gas examiner, whose tests the company are to facilitate (s. 63). Penalty, if gas not of proper lighting power, or for not affording facilities for testing, £20 (s. 64), with costs of examination and proceedings (s. 65). Penalties on Company for one and same offence under this Act and other Acts not cumulative (s. 73). Penalty not exceeding £5, and not exceeding £2 for every day for failure by Company to keep, &c., map of mains (Alliance and Dublin Gas Act, 1874, 37 & 38 Vict. c. cxxxv, s. 22). Company not maintaining tram rails and road (built by the Company on Sir John Rogerson's Quay, Dublin, pursuant to the Act) in good condition—or not complying with requirements of sect. 28 of Tramways Act, 1870—Penalty, £5 and £5 a day (Alliance and Dublin Gas Act, 1879, c. clxxxiii, s. 9). Jurisdiction is given to one divisional justice in Dublin (Alliance and Dublin Gas Act, 1883, 46 & 47 Vict. c. cix, s. 43). No penalty for neglect or refusal to give a supply, or for insufficiency of pressure or defect in illuminating power, when occasioned by unavoidable cause or accident (Alliance and Dublin Gas Act, 1909, 9 Ed. 7, c. lxii, s. 36). Not liable to penalty or forfeiture for sulphur compounds (ib., s. 42).

Recovery of gas rents, &c.

Provisions of Alliance and Dublin Consumers Gas Co.'s Acts.

As to breaches of contract by persons employed in supply of gas or water, see MASTER AND SERVANT.

Larceny of gas.

As to larceny of gas, see SUMMARY OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES, under the title LARCENY.

GENERAL DEALERS.

	PAGE		PAGE
Definition, . . . . .	508	Duty as to stolen property, . . . . .	511
Licences, . . . . .	508	Not to alter or deface property, . . . . .	511
Description of premises, . . . . .	510	Not to do business with persons . . . . .	511
Books to be kept, . . . . .	510	under fourteen, . . . . .	511
Retention of articles for seven days, . . . . .	510	Not to do business within certain . . . . .	511
Entry of names of purchasers, . . . . .	510	hours, . . . . .	511
Production of articles and books to . . . . .	510	Name over door, . . . . .	511 police, . . . . .	510	See also MARINE STORE DEALERS.

Definition of "general
dealer."

"In this Act, unless the context otherwise requires, the expression 'general dealer' means any person buying, otherwise than at a public auction held by a licensed auctioneer, or selling old metal, scrap metal, broken metal, or partly manufactured metal goods in quantities at each particular purchase or sale, of less, in the case of iron, than ten hundred-weight, or in the case of copper, of less than fifty-six pounds weight, or in the cases of lead, zinc, spelter, machinery, or tools, respectively, of less than one hundred and twelve pounds weight, or buying or selling in any quantities bottles, syphons, tools, bags, sacks, packing cases, boxes, articles of pottery or glass, whether such person deals in those articles only or together with second-hand goods or marine stores, but the said expression does not include a pawnbroker or a licensed dealer in plate" (General Dealers (Ir.) Act, 1903, 3 Ed. 7, c. 44, s. 12).

A "general dealer" must not be confounded with a "marine store dealer," that is, any "person dealing in, buying, or selling any of the articles following, that is to say, anchors, cables, sails, old junk, or old iron, or other marine stores of any kind" (Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, s. 538; see MARINE STORE DEALERS, post); or with a "dealer in old metals," meaning "any person dealing in, buying, and selling old metal, scrap metal, broken metal, or partly manufactured metal goods, or defaced or old metal goods, whether such person deals in such articles only or together with second-hand goods or marine stores" (Prevention of Crime Act, 1871, s. 13; see MARINE STORE DEALERS, post).

A "dealer in old metals" is forbidden to purchase certain articles in less than certain quantities, namely, lead 112 lb., copper, brass, tin, pewter, German silver, 56 lb. (Prevention of Crime Act, 1871, s. 13, sch.). This prohibition is not affected, so far as brass is concerned, by the General Dealers (Ir.) Act, 1903, so that a licensed "general dealer" commits an offence by purchasing brass in quantities less than 56 lb. (Campbell v. Finn, (1907) 2 I.R. 502; R. (Rogers) v. Duthie, Large, & Co., (1908) 42 I.L.T.R. 148). The same remark would apply to tin, pewter, and German silver; but quære the case of copper, as s. 12 of the General Dealers (Ir.) Act, 1903, specially mentions the sale of copper in less than 56 lb. weight.

Licence to general
dealer.

"(1) No person shall carry on the business of a general dealer without having in force a licence under this Act. . . . (6). If a person acts as a general dealer, without having in force a licence under this Act, or contravenes the terms of his licence, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £5" (s. 1). Licence to general dealer.

A person licensed under the Act to carry on the business of a general dealer within the Dublin metropolitan police district, went about from house to house outside that district buying articles specified in section 12. Held, that he had not contravened the terms of his licence, because his acts did not amount to the using, in the course of his business, premises other than those specified in his licence. Could a licence be so framed under the Act as to confine the licensee's dealings to a district in which he is licensed, quaere (Hall v. O'Brien, (1906) 2 I. R. 6)?

A licence under the Act or renewal thereof may be granted or refused at the discretion of the licensing authority (s. 1 (2)), which means, in Dublin, any divisional justice, and elsewhere, two or more justices in petty sessions (s. 12). The licence may be revoked or suspended by a court of summary jurisdiction on conviction before such court of any violation of the terms of the licence, or of any of the provisions of the Act (s. 1 (3)). The licence shall be in the prescribed form, dated the day of issue, and ending on the first of January (s. 1 (5)). The applicant must pay for a licence or renewal to the clerk to the licensing authority two shillings and sixpence (s. 1 (4)), and shall at the time of his application furnish a description of the premises to be used by him in his business (s. 2 (1)); the application to be made for the licence or renewal in the prescribed manner and at the prescribed time (s. 1 (2)). Power is given to the Lord Chancellor to make rules for prescribing anything which may under the Act be prescribed (s. 11). Under this power statutory rules dated the 21st day of April, 1904, have been made whereby it is provided, inter alia, (a) that the applicant for a licence or renewal shall give fourteen days' notice in writing of the application to the clerk to the licensing authority and to the police, that is, in Dublin, the superintendent of the division in which the premises are situated, elsewhere the district inspector of the Royal Irish Constabulary (Rule 1); the police may oppose the application, provided that seven days' notice of the intention to oppose, stating the ground of opposition, shall be given to the applicant (Rule 3); on the hearing of the application the licensing authority shall take such evidence for and against the application as shall seem to them just (Rule 4); applications shall be made for police divisions A, B, and E in the Dublin metropolitan police district on the second Wednesday in the month of December, and for the police divisions C and D on the second Thursday in the month of December, and as to police division F at Kingstown on the second Thursday of the month of December; elsewhere at the petty sessions for the district held next before the 15th of December; provided that an application for a licence by a person intending to open a new business, or for a licence by a person already licensed in respect of premises not already licensed, or for a licence in respect of premises already licensed to some person other than the applicant, may be made on any day on which the licensing authority is sitting, due notice having first been given in accordance with Rule 1; and also provided that upon the hearing of a complaint against any person for acting as a general dealer without being duly licensed under the Act, if it shall appear to the Court hearing the complaint that the failure of the said person seeking a licence was due to some cause over which he had no control or some other cause that shall appear to the court reasonable, the court may, without regard to any order for fine or imprisonment, forthwith proceed to entertain and hear an application for a licence (Rule 5); the particulars to be recorded by the clerk to the licensing authority relating to any such application shall be the date of the application, the name of the applicant, the description of the premises, Grant of licence, &c.

and whether the application was granted or refused (Rule 6). Forms are provided by the rules.

Description of premises. “(1) Every person applying for a licence under this Act or a renewal thereof shall, at the time of his application, furnish to the clerk to the licensing authority a description in writing of his premises, including all cellars, closets, and other places proposed to be used by him in the course of his business. (2) Every general dealer shall enter in a book to be kept by him on his premises the particulars of each transaction in his business, including—(a) a proper and distinctive description of each article purchased or received by him; (b) the name and place of abode of the person from whom he purchased or received the article; (c) the date and hour of the day of each transaction; and (d) the price paid or agreed to be paid for the article; provided that, where articles of the same kind, value, and description are on any particular occasion bought or sold in a lot or parcel, it shall be sufficient to describe such lot or parcel without describing each of the several articles comprising same. (3) If any general dealer fails to comply with any requirement of this section, he shall for each offence be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £5” (s. 2).

Books to be kept.

Section 12 of the Act is exclusive and exhaustive in the enumeration of the articles required to be entered, and any article not mentioned in the section, e.g., horse-hair, does not require to be entered (Kelly v. Rice, (1906) 2 I. R. 1). A general dealer is bound to enter the true name and place of abode of the person from whom he purchases an article, otherwise he is guilty of an offence (s. 2 (2)); and it is no answer that he entered the name and place of abode given by the seller, and had no reason to believe they were not the true name and abode (Toppin v. Marcus, (1908) 2 I. R. 423; cf. Attenborough v. London, (1853) 8 Ex. 661, noted under PAWNBROKERS.

Retention of articles for seven days.

“(1) Every article purchased or received by a general dealer shall be kept by him in his shop, or other place where his ordinary business is carried on, for seven days from the date on which it was so purchased or received, unless in the meantime he shall, on giving twenty-four hours' previous notice to the licensing authority, have received from that authority permission to dispose of such article. (2) Every general dealer shall attach to each article a ticket or label with the date of purchase or receipt written thereon. (3) Every general dealer shall, when required so to do by a police constable, produce to him any such article before the expiration of the said period of seven days. (4) If any general dealer fails to comply with any requirement of this section, he shall be liable for each offence on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £5” (s. 3).

General entry of names of purchasers, &c.

“(1) Every general dealer shall enter in his book the name and address of the person to whom any article, lot, or parcel is sold or delivered by him, and also the date of the sale. (2) If any general dealer fails to comply with the requirement of this section, he shall be liable for each offence on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding 20s.” (s. 4).

Production of articles and books to police.

“(1) Every general dealer shall at all reasonable times produce on demand to any police constable, having the general or special authority of a justice of the peace to, make the demand, all articles in his possession, and also the book in which the description of any article is or ought to have been entered. (2) Any police constable obtaining the production of any such book shall on each occasion subscribe his name immediately after the last entry therein. (3) Whenever any articles which have been stolen, embezzled, or fraudulently obtained are found in the possession of any general dealer, he shall, on being informed by a police constable authorized as aforesaid that such articles were stolen, embezzled, or fraudulently obtained, deposit the same with the constable. (4) If any general dealer fails to comply with any requirement of this section, he shall be liable for each offence, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding £5, without prejudice to his being also proceeded against according to law as a receiver of stolen goods" (s. 5).

"(1) If any articles with respect to which information in writing is given by any police constable to a general dealer that they have been stolen, embezzled, or fraudulently obtained, are then in or subsequently come into the possession of the dealer, he shall, as soon as may be, give information to a police constable that articles answering to the description of the said articles are in his possession, and shall also state the name and address given by the person from whom the articles were received. (2) If any general dealer contravenes the provisions of this section, he shall be liable for each offence, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding £5: Provided that, in the case of articles which it may be difficult to trace out and identify, no fine shall be imposed under this section unless it appears to the Court that the articles were knowingly concealed by the dealer" (s. 6).

"If any general dealer, after receiving information of the theft, embezzlement, or fraudulent obtaining of any metals or other articles, melts, alters, defaces, or puts away any metals or articles answering to the description of the aforesaid metals or articles, or causes the same to be melted, altered, defaced, or put away, without having been authorized in writing by a justice of the peace so to do, and if it is found that the said metals or articles were stolen, embezzled, or fraudulently obtained by the person from whom the general dealer received the same, or by any other person, then in such case it shall be held that the general dealer knew that the said metals or articles were stolen, embezzled, or fraudulently obtained, and he shall be proceeded against according to law as a receiver of stolen goods, and no evidence of his guilt shall be necessary other than the evidence of such melting, altering, defacing, or putting away after receiving such information as aforesaid" (s. 7).

"(1) A general dealer shall not sell to or purchase from any person apparently under the age of fourteen years, whether such person is acting on his own behalf or on behalf of any other person. (2) If any general dealer contravenes the provisions of this section, either by himself or any agent or servant, he shall be liable for each offence, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding £5" (s. 8).<sup>1</sup>

"(1) A general dealer shall not sell to or purchase from, or have any business transactions whatsoever with, any person between ten o'clock on Saturday night and nine o'clock in the morning of the following Monday, or between ten o'clock on any other night and eight o'clock on the following morning: Provided that it shall be permissible to make delivery within the said hours of goods previously sold. (2) If any general dealer contravenes the provisions of this section, either by himself or any agent or servant, he shall be liable for each offence, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding £5" (s. 9).

"(1) Every person licensed as a general dealer under this Act shall have his name, with the words 'licensed general dealer,' painted over the door or principal entrance of his premises in large characters, either black upon a white ground or white upon a black ground, and shall replace the same if removed, obliterated, or defaced. (2) If any person fails to comply with the requirements of this section, he shall be liable for each offence, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding 20s." (s. 10).

<sup>1</sup> See s. 116 of the Children Act, 1908, as to dealers in old metals and marine store dealers.

GOLD AND SILVER PLATE.

	PAGE		PAGE
Licence: assay, . . . . .	512	Foreign plate, . . . . .	513
Selling plate not assayed, &c., . . . . .	512	Assay, . . . . .	513
Standards, . . . . .	512	Marks, . . . . .	513
Excise duties, . . . . .	512	False statements, . . . . .	513
Dealing without licence, . . . . .	512	Exemptions, . . . . .	513

Licence:
Assay.
30 & 31 Vict.

Every person who shall sell or make any gold or silver plate in Ireland is obliged to take out a licence (Revenue Act, 1867, 30 & 31 Vict. c. 90, s. 1); gold and silver plate wrought in Ireland to be assayed (Plate Assay (Ir.) Act, 47 Geo. 3, sess. 2, c. 15, s. 3); if conforming to standard, to be marked.

Workers or dealers in gold and silver to register their names, marks, and places of abode at assay office, and have their wares assayed and marked at such office (Gold and Silver Wares Act, 1854, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 96, s. 2).

Gold wedding-rings to be assayed and marked (Wedding Rings Act, 1855, 18 & 19 Vict. c. 60, s. 1).

No licence is required for selling or taking in, or delivering out of pawn gold or silver lace, or gold or silver wire, thread, or fringe (s. 4), or for sale of watch-cases made by seller (Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1870, 33 & 34 Vict. c. 32, s. 4).

Selling plate not assayed,
&c.

Goldsmiths selling plate not assayed and marked—Penalty, £100, and forfeiture of plate (s. 14). Penalties to be recovered as Excise penalties (s. 17); see Excise.

The buying of plate, &c., not assayed, &c., subjects the buyer to liability to forfeiture of value to be sued for and recovered by person discovering such sale (s. 18).

Assay masters, &c., guilty of neglect—Penalty, £100. Penalty recovered as Excise penalty;<sup>2</sup> (s. 13).

Lower standards.

Orders in Council may be made fixing standards (Gold and Silver Wares Act, 1854, s. 1).<sup>3</sup> Marking lower standards with mark of higher standard—Penalty, £20 (s. 5).

Excise duties.

The rates of duty are prescribed by the Revenue Act, 1867 (30 & 31 Vict. c. 90), s. 1.

Every licence to deal in plate shall be dated the day of grant, and expire on 5th July following (ib., s. 6).

Dealing without a licence.

“Every person who shall do any act or carry on any trade or business for which a licence to deal in plate is required by this Act, without having in force a proper licence authorizing him so to do”—Penalty, for every offence, £50. In any prosecution it shall be sufficient to allege that the defendant did deal in plate without a licence (Revenue Act, 1867, s. 3).

A person, not a general trader, selling a piece of plate in a particular instance for a price above the value of old silver is not a vendor of plate within 31 Geo. 2, c. 32, s. 6, which enacts that persons using the trade of <sup>1</sup> The standards in the Act are—Gold, not less than 22, 20, or 18 carats fine gold in 1 lb. troy: Silver, 10 oz. 2 dwt. fine silver in 1 lb. troy (s. 3). As to lower standards, see 17 & 18 Vict. c. 96, infra, and as to wedding-rings, 18 & 19 Vict. c. 60, supra.

<sup>2</sup> See SUMMARY CASES NOT WITHIN PETTY SESSIONS ACT, p. 76.

<sup>3</sup> Standards declared under Gold and Silver Wares Act, 1854:—

(1) 15 carats fine gold in 1 lb. troy: mark, figures 15; decimal mark, .625.

(2) 12 carats fine gold in 1 lb. troy: mark, figures 12; decimal mark, .5.

(3) 9 carats fine gold in 1 lb. troy: mark, figures 9; decimal mark, .375.

(Order, 11th December, 1854 (S. R. & O.) (revised), vol. v. 161.)

selling plate shall be deemed traders, and to require a licence (R. v. Buckle, (1883) 4 East 346). Grocers gave tickets with packets of tea sold by them, and advertised that they would present gold watches in return for a certain number of such tickets. A conviction for dealing in plate without licence was upheld (Scott & Co. v. Solomon, (1905) 1 K.B. 577).

Foreign gold and silver plate to be assayed and marked—Penalty Foreign plate for selling such plate without being assayed and marked, same as for Assay. selling without being assayed and marked plate made in the United Kingdom (Customs Act, 1842, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 47, s. 59; see also s. 60.—Revenue Act, 1883, 46 & 47 Vict. s. 55, s. 10; Finance Act, 1907, 7 Ed. 7, c. 13, s. 5).

Foreign plate to be marked so to distinguish it from plate manufactured Marks. in the United Kingdom; marks to be prescribed by Order in Council (Hall Marking of Foreign Plate Act, 1904, 4 Ed. 7, c. 6, s. 1 (1)).<sup>1</sup>

Any person bringing plate to be assayed at an assay office to state in writing whether the plate, &c., was wrought in England, Ireland, False statements. Scotland, or in foreign parts. No statement required where plate brought for assay as foreign plate under Revenue Act, 1883 (s. 1 (2)): where person unable to state place where wrought, written statement to that effect to be made (s. 1 (3)): knowingly making a false statement—Penalty, not exceeding £5 on summary conviction under Summary Jurisdiction Acts (s. 1 (4)). Orders under the Act may be revoked or altered by Order in Council (s. 1 (6)).

Foreign plate properly describable as hand-chased, inlaid, bronzed, or filagree work of oriental pattern exempted from assay in the United Kingdom (Revenue Act, 1884 (47 & 48 Vict. c. 62, s. 4)). Exemptions.

Watch-cases imported from foreign parts before 1st June, 1907, exempted from assay (Assay of Imported Watch-Cases, Existing Stocks Exemption Act, 1907, 7 Ed. 7, c. 8, s. 1 (1)). Exempted watch-cases exported and re-imported to be assayed, unless identified as prescribed by Regulations of Commissioners of Customs (s. 1 (2)).<sup>2</sup>

Gold and silver watch-cases forming parts of finished watch-cases imported are gold and silver plate within Customs Act, 1842 (Goldsmiths Co. v. Wyatt, (1907) 1 K.B. 95).

As to the indictable offence of removing crests, &c. from plate, see CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES.

GUN.

As to licence to use gun, see GAME LAWS As to discharging fire-arm in highway, see HIGHWAY.

<sup>1</sup> Marks for foreign plate have been fixed by Order in Council dated 11th May, 1906 (S. O., 1906, p. 516), made pursuant to this Act. The mark to be used in Dublin assaying office is a Boujet, which is a heraldic device representing an arrangement of water buckets.

<sup>2</sup> Regulations of Commissioners will be found in S. R. O., 1907, p. 868; 1908, p. 713.

HABITUAL DRUNKARDS.

	PAGE		PAGE
Statutes, . . . . .	514	Offences—
Scheme of statutes, . . . . .	514	(3) certified inebriate reforma-
Definition of habitual drunkard, . . . . .	514	tories, . . . . .	520
Private retreats for habitual drunkards, . . . . .	514	Expenses of detention, . . . . .	520
Inebriate reformatories, . . . . .	514	Protection of property—
Voluntary detention in a retreat, . . . . .	515	Married men habitual drunkards, . . . . .	520
Compulsory detention—		Married women habitual drunk-
Habitual drunkard guilty of crime , . . . . .	515	ards, . . . . .	521
Habitual drunkard four times		Power to rescind or vary orders, . . . . .	521
convicted of drunkenness , . . . . .	516	Penalty for illegal seizure or Habitual drunkard convicted of		pawning, . . . . .	521
cruelty to child, etc., . . . . .	519	Appeal, . . . . .	521
Offences—		Liability to guardians, . . . . .	521
(1) retreats, . . . . .	519	Evidence, . . . . .	521
(2) State inebriate reformatories, . . . . .	520

Statutes :
42 & 43 Vict.
c. 19.
51 & 52 Vict.
c. 19.
61 & 62 Vict.
c. 60.
62 & 63 Vict.
c. 35.
Scheme of statutes.

Definition of "habitual drunkard."

Private retreats for habitual drunkards.

Inebriate
reformatories.

The statutes dealing with habitual drunkards are the Inebriates Acts 1879 to 1899, being the Habitual Drunkards Act, 1879, the Inebriates Act, 1888, the Inebriates Act, 1898, which three Acts are to be construed as one (Act of 1898, s. 30), and the Inebriates Act, 1899,<sup>1</sup> which amends the Act of 1898. The four Acts are by s. 3 of the Act of 1899, entitled the Inebriates Acts, 1879 to 1899.

These statutes provide for (1) the establishment of private retreats, and of state and certified inebriate reformatories; (2) the voluntary detention in private retreats<sup>2</sup> of habitual drunkards; (3) the compulsory detention in state or certified inebriate reformatories<sup>3</sup> of certain habitual drunkards; and (4) the protection of property from a married man or a married woman who is a habitual drunkard.

" 'Habitual drunkard' means a person who, not being amenable to any jurisdiction in lunacy, is notwithstanding, by reason of habitual intemperate drinking of intoxicating liquor, at times dangerous to himself or herself, or to others, or incapable of managing himself or herself, or his or her affairs " (Habitual Drunkards Act, 1879, s. 3). The expression "habitual drunkard" applies to a person who habitually drinks to excess, and who is, when drunk, dangerous or incapable of managing himself or his affairs, even though when sober he is capable of managing himself and his affairs (Eaton v. Best, (1909) 1 K.B. 632).

The Act of 1879 provides for the licensing by the local authority of private retreats for habitual drunkards (s. 6), subject to inspection by "Inspectors of Retreats" (ss. 13-16), to be appointed by the Lord Lieutenant (s. 13; Act of 1898, ss. 26 (c), 30). The local authority now is the council of a county borough, or the county council, who may delegate their powers to a committee (Act of 1898, ss. 13, 26 (e)), who may contribute to retreats (ib., s. 14). The licence shall be for a period not exceeding two years (ib., s. 15).

The Act of 1898 gives power to the Lord Lieutenant to establish State inebriate reformatories,<sup>4</sup> and, with the approval of the Treasury, to authorize

<sup>1</sup> See also amendments contained in the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1908, 8 Ed. 7, c. 24, s. 9, p. 517, post, and ss. 1 and 2, noted p. 521, post; and the Children Act, 1908, 8 Ed. 7, c. 27, s. 26, p. 519, post.

<sup>2</sup> The provisions as to voluntary detention do not apply to either State or certified inebriate reformatories.

<sup>3</sup> Save under the Children Act, 1908, s. 26, noted post, p. 519, the provisions as to compulsory detention do not apply to certified retreats.

<sup>4</sup> The only State inebriate reformatory in Ireland is at Ennis.

the Prisons Board to erect or acquire the buildings and land for same (s. 26 (b)); or the Lord Lieutenant, on the application of the council of a county borough, or of a county, or of any persons desirous of establishing an inebriate reformatory, may, if satisfied as to the fitness of the reformatory or of the persons proposing to maintain it, certify it as an inebriate reformatory, and thereupon, while the certificate is in force, the reformatory shall be a certified inebriate reformatory within the Act (ss. 5 (1), 26 (c)).<sup>1</sup>

Inebriate
reformatories.

The Lord Lieutenant may make regulations as to State inebriate reformatories, or as to certified inebriate reformatories (ss. 4, 6, 26 (c)), and may appoint inspectors (ss. 7, 26 (c)). The county councils may contribute towards such reformatories (s. 9).

A habitual drunkard desirous of being admitted into a private retreat may make application to the licensee of the retreat for admission, in the Form No. 3 in the second schedule to the Act of 1879, the application to state the time during which the applicant undertakes to remain in the retreat, and to be accompanied by a statutory declaration of two persons to the effect that the applicant is a habitual drunkard within the meaning of the Inebriate Acts (Act of 1879, s. 10). The signature must be attested by one justice, who shall have satisfied himself that the applicant is a habitual drunkard, and have explained to the applicant the effect of his admission; the justice must state in writing as part of such attestation that the applicant understood the effect of his application for admission and of his reception into the retreat (Act of 1879, s. 10; Act of 1898, s. 16). The justice need not be a justice of the county where the matter arises (Act of 1888, s. 4).

Voluntary detention in private retreat.

After admission the applicant, unless discharged or authorized by licence, cannot leave till the expiration of the term mentioned in his application, and he may be detained till the expiration of such term, provided such term shall not exceed two years (Act of 1879, s. 10; Act of 1898, s. 16). An applicant may be discharged by order of a justice, upon the request in writing of the licensee of the retreat, if it shall appear to such justice to be reasonable and proper (Act of 1879, s. 12). A justice of the peace, at the request of the licensee of a retreat, may, by licence under his hand, permit such habitual drunkard to live with any trustworthy and respectable person named in the licence willing to receive and take charge of him for a definite time for the benefit of his health, the licence to be in force for not more than two months, subject to renewal (Act of 1879, s. 19), the absence to be reckoned in time of detention (s. 20); the licence is forfeited upon misconduct by the habitual drunkard (s. 21), and is subject to revocation by the Secretary of State (s. 22).

(1) "Where a person is convicted on indictment of an offence punishable with imprisonment or penal servitude, if the court is satisfied from the evidence that the offence was committed under the influence of drink, or that drunkenness was a contributing cause of the offence, and the offender admits that he is, or is found by the jury to be, a habitual drunkard, the court may, in addition to or in substitution for any other sentence, order that he be detained for a term not exceeding three years in any State inebriate reformatory, or in any certified inebriate reformatory the managers of which are willing to receive him. (2) In any indictment under this section it shall be sufficient, after charging the offence, to state that the offender is a habitual drunkard. In the proceedings on the indictment the offender shall, in the first instance, be arraigned on so much only of the indictment as charges the said offence, and, if on arraignment he pleads guilty, or is found guilty by the jury, the jury detention.

Compulsory

(1) Habitual drunkard
guilty of crime.

<sup>1</sup> There are at least two such certified reformatories in Ireland, one at Waterford for Roman Catholic males, and one at Wexford for Roman Catholic females,

Compulsory
detention.

shall, unless the offender admits that he is a habitual drunkard, be charged to inquire whether he is a habitual drunkard, and in that case it shall not be necessary to swear the jury again. Provided that, unless evidence that the offender is a habitual drunkard has been given before he is committed for trial, not less than seven days' notice shall be given to the proper officer of the court by which the offender is to be tried, and to the offender, that it is intended to charge habitual drunkenness in the indictment" (Inebriates Act, 1898, s. 1).

The section is not confined to cases where the offender is convicted by a jury, but also extends to a case where he pleads guilty to an offence mentioned in the section (R. v. Meehan, (1905) 2 I.R. 577). In such case the evidence necessary to satisfy the court that the offence charged was committed under the influence of drink may consist of the depositions taken before the justices when the accused was returned for trial (ib.).

A defendant was returned for trial on a charge of grievous assault. At the preliminary investigation before the justices a police sergeant swore: "I arrested the accused. He was drunk in bed. He has been eleven times convicted for drunkenness within the past twelve months, and is a perfect nuisance to people in the town owing to his drunken habits." Notice was served under the above section of the intention to charge habitual drunkenness, but was served late. Held, that the sergeant's deposition was "evidence that the offender is a habitual drunkard given before he is committed for trial" within the section, and that, therefore, the lateness of the service of the notice was immaterial (R. v. Doherty, Ulster Winter Assizes, 1903, Palles, C.B., unreported). As to what amounts to habitual drunkenness, see Robson v. Robson, (1904) 68 J.P. 416. See further, as to seven-day notice, CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES, "HABITUAL CRIMINAL."

(2) Habitual drunkard four times convicted of drunkenness.

"(1) Any person who commits any of the offences mentioned in the first schedule to this Act, and who within the twelve months preceding the date of the commission of the offence has been convicted summarily at least three times of any offences so mentioned, and who is a habitual drunkard, shall be liable upon conviction on indictment, or if he consents to be dealt with summarily on summary conviction, to be detained for a term not exceeding three years in any certified inebriate reformatory the managers of which are willing to receive him. (2) The Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879, shall apply to proceedings under this section as if the offence charged were specified in the second column of the first schedule to the said Act" (Act of 1898, s. 2).

By s. 26, references to the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879, and the offences specified in the second column of the First Schedule to that Act shall be construed as references to the Criminal Justice Act, 1855, and the offences specified in section 1 of that Act.<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Section 1 of the Criminal Justice Act, 1855, gives power to "justices" (which expression it is, in view of s. 16, submitted means "two justices") at petty sessions, with the consent of the accused, to try summarily persons charged with larceny, where the value of the property, in the opinion of the justices, does not exceed 5s., or with attempt to commit larceny from the person, or with attempt to commit simple larceny. By section 2 of the same statute, where the justices propose to deal summarily with the case, one of the justices, after the examinations of all the witnesses for the prosecution have been completed, and before calling upon the person charged for any statement which he may wish to make, shall state to such person the substance of the charge, and shall then say to him these words or words to the like effect, "Do you consent that the charge against you shall be tried by us, or do you desire that it shall be sent for trial by a jury at the sessions or assizes?" (as the case may be); and if the person charged shall consent to the charge being tried summarily, then the justices shall reduce the charge into writing, and read the same to such person, and shall then ask him whether he is guilty or not of such charge, and if he pleads guilty, shall pass sentence, but if he pleads not guilty, the justices shall inquire whether he has any defence to make, and if he shall state that he has, the justices shall hear the defence, and dispose of the

The expenses of any prosecution on indictment under sections shall be payable as in cases of indictment for felony, and where any case under that section is dealt with summarily, such expenses shall be payable in manner provided by s. 14 of the Criminal Justice Act, 1855, 18 & 19 Vict. c. 126 (Inebriates Act, 1899, s. 1).

The offences mentioned in the first schedule to the Act of 1898, so far as applicable to Ireland, are as follows:—being found drunk in highway or other public place, whether a building or not, or on licensed premises; being guilty while drunk of riotous or disorderly behaviour in a highway or other public place, whether a building or not; being drunk while in charge, on any highway or other public place, of any carriage, horse, cattle, or steam-engine; being drunk when in possession of any loaded firearms (Licensing Act, 1872, 35 & 36 Vict. c. 64, s. 12); refusing or failing, when drunk, to quit licensed premises upon request (s. 18); being drunk and persisting, after being refused admission on that account, in attempting to enter a passenger steamer; being drunk on board a passenger steamer, and refusing to leave such steamer when requested (Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, 57 & 58 Vict. c. 60, s. 287); refusing or neglecting when drunk to quit any premises or place licensed under the Refreshment Houses (Ir.) Act, 1860, when requested (Refreshment Houses (Ir.) Act, 1860, 23 & 24 Vict. c. 107, s. 42); being drunk in any street or public thoroughfare within the Dublin police district, or being guilty, while drunk, of any riotous or indecent behaviour (Dublin Police Act, 1842, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 24, s. 15); being found drunk in any street, square, lane, roadway, or other public thoroughfare or place (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1836, 6 & 7 Wm. 4, c. 38, s. 12); all similar offences in local Acts. The offence of being found drunk in any place, whether a building or not, to which the public have access, whether on payment or not, or on any licensed premises in charge of a child apparently under seven, is added by the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1908, 9 Ed. 7, c. 24, s. 9.

Section 2 creates a new offence (if it can be so called), which is triable, at the option of the accused,<sup>1</sup> either summarily or on indictment, and which, if established, subjects the accused to detention for any term not exceeding three years in a certified inebriate reformatory. It is a compound offence, to constitute which three things are necessary:—(1) That the accused committed one of the offences mentioned in the first schedule to the Act, as amended by the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1908, noted supra; (2) that the accused has, within the twelve months preceding the date of the commission of such offence, been three times summarily convicted of any of such offences; and (3) that the accused is a habitual drunkard (see judgment of Lord Alverstone, L.C.J., in R. v. Briggs, (1909) 1 K.B. 381, at p. 386). The following is a suggested form of summons under the section:—

A. B., Complainant.

C. D., Defendant.

Petty Sessions District of

, County of

Form of summons.

Whereas a complaint has been made to me that you were on the      day of at      , found drunk on the public highway at within the county and district aforesaid, and that within twelve months preceding the said      day of      , you were three times summarily convicted of offences, to which case summarily. S. 7 provides that where justices try the accused, the conviction, or the duplicate of a certificate of dismissal, the written charge, the depositions of the witnesses, and the statement of the accused are to be returned to quarter sessions; and s. 14 provides that where they convict they may give to the prosecutor or any witness for the prosecution a certificate of the amount (to be paid by the treasurer of the county council) of compensation which the justices think reasonable for "his expenses, trouble, and loss of time."

<sup>1</sup> To be exercised as provided for; see p. 516 n., ante.

Compulsory detention.

(2) Habitual drunkard four times convicted of drunkenness.

section 2 of the Inebriates Act, 1898, applies, and the particulars of which convictions are set forth in the schedule hereto, and that you are a habitual drunkard. This is to command you to appear as a defendant on the hearing of the said complaint at _____, on the _____ day of _____, at _____ o'clock, before such justices as shall be there, to show cause why an order should not be made against you under the said section 2 of the Inebriates Act, 1898.

SCHEDULE.

(1) Conviction at _____ Petty Sessions, on the _____ day of _____, of being drunk on the _____ day of _____, on the highway, at _____, while in charge of a horse; (2) conviction at _____ Petty Sessions, on the _____ day of _____, of being drunk on the day of _____, on board a passenger steamer, and refusing to leave such steamer as requested; (3) conviction at _____ Petty Sessions, on the _____ day of _____, of being drunk on the _____ day of _____, when in possession of loaded firearms.

Signed X. Y., justice of the said county . This _____ day of _____, 1911.

To _____, of _____.

Procedure.

It is submitted that it is immaterial where the offences were committed, provided the defendant is within the jurisdiction of the justices. In respect of the three previous offences, it should be noted that the twelve months seem to run, not from the dates of commission, but from the dates of the convictions. Where a person is charged under the section, the only order that can be made is an order of detention; an order in addition of imprisonment in respect of the last particular offence is void (R. v. Briggs, (1909) 1 K.B. 381). A prosecutor under section 2 should come prepared with the name and situation of a certified inebriate reformatory, the managers of which are willing to receive the accused; failing that, the course can be adopted of postponing judgment till such facts be ascertained, but as to whether the accused can, meanwhile, be detained in custody, quære (see judgment of Lord Alverstone, C.J., in R. v. Briggs, supra, at p. 387).

The following summary of the procedure will be found useful<sup>1</sup> :—

(1.) Obtain consent of manager of certified inebriate reformatory to receive defendant if committed (sect. 2 (1)); (2.) Obtain certificates of order in cases of three or more convictions for drunkenness against defendant within previous twelve months (sect. 2 (1)); (3.) Complainant, constable or sergeant R.I.C., to make an information verifying these certificates, identifying defendant as the person convicted by them, and averring the offence of drunkenness, and informant's belief from his knowledge of defendant and his habits for _____ years that he is a habitual drunkard within meaning of the Inebriates Acts, 1879 to 1898; (4.) Issue summons for offence, and further allege in it the three or more previous convictions for drunkenness within past twelve months, and that defendant is a habitual drunkard; (5.) Evidence at petty sessions to be taken by depositions as in indictable offence cases (sects. 2 (2) and 26 (a)); (6.) After depositions completed read charge to defendant and ask him, "Do you consent that the charge against you shall be tried summarily by this court, or do you desire that it shall be sent on for trial by a jury at the next quarter sessions" (or assizes)? If defendant consents to be tried summarily, ask him if he is guilty or not guilty of the said charge. If he pleads guilty, following order may be made :—"Defendant having consented to be tried summarily is convicted by us of said charge and ordered to be detained in the certified inebriate reformatory at _____, called _____, for a period of _____ [not to exceed three years]. If defendant pleads not guilty, he should be asked for his defence, and after hearing same (if any) court may convict and make same order as above. If defendant does not consent to be tried summarily, he may be returned for trial to next quarter sessions or assizes (sects. 2 and 26 (a)); (7.) At least two justices should hear charge and sign warrant of committal (sects. 2 (2) and 26 (a)); (8.) If case dealt with summarily, warrant to commit should recite consent of defendant to have the charge tried summarily. Ordinary form of warrant of execution (E a) may be used; (9.) The amending Act of 1899 (62 & 63 Vict. c. 35) provides that in any case dealt with summarily under sect. 2 of Act of 1898, the expenses of the prosecution shall, in Ireland, be recoverable under sect. 14 of the Criminal Justice Act, 1855.

<sup>1</sup> This summary was prepared by Mr. Michael Kavanagh, C.P.S., Wexford, for use in Wexford district, and kindly lent by him.

As to what is evidence of being a "habitual drunkard," see Compulsory detention. p. 516, ante. Proper evidence, of course, must be given of the previous convictions, and of the identity of the accused with the person previously convicted (see EVIDENCE, pp. 281 and 290). It was held in England that the minutes made at a London police court as prescribed by section 22 of the Summary Jurisdiction (E.) Act, 1879, are admissible in evidence before the same court for the purpose of proving the previous convictions (Commissioner of Police v. Donovan, (1903) 1 K.B. 895). There is no corresponding provision as to entries in the Dublin metropolitan police courts;<sup>1</sup> but apart from statutory provision there seems to be authority that, at common law, a court can look at and act upon entries in its own books of previous orders, where in practice such orders are not formally drawn up (see Taylor, 10th ed., p. 1128; R. v. Haines, (1695) Comb. 337; Houlston v. Smyth, (1825) 2 C. & P. 24; London School Board v. Harvey, (1879) 4 Q.B.D. 451).

(2) Habitual drunkard four times convicted of drunkenness.

No question of the kind, however, can arise in petty sessions districts, for the signed entry in the order book is the order (Petty Sessions Act, 1851, s. 21 (1), and see p. 63, ante).

"Where it appears to the court by or before which any person is convicted of an offence of cruelty, or of any of the offences mentioned in the first schedule to this Act,<sup>2</sup> that that person is a parent of the child or young person in respect of whom the offence was committed, or is living with the parent of the child or young person, and is a habitual drunkard within the meaning of the Inebriates Acts, 1879 to 1900,<sup>3</sup> the court, in lieu of sentencing that person to imprisonment, may, if it thinks fit, make an order for his detention in a retreat under the said Acts, the licensee of which is willing to receive him, for any period named in the order, not exceeding two years, and the order shall have the like effect, and copies thereof shall be sent to the local authority and secretary of state in like manner, as if it were an application duly made by that person and duly attested by a justice under the said Acts; and the court may order an officer of the court or constable to remove that person to the retreat, and on his reception the said Acts shall have effect as if he had been admitted in pursuance of an application so made and attested as aforesaid: provided that—(a) An order for the detention of a person in a retreat shall not be made under this section unless that person, having had such notice as the court deems sufficient of the intention to allege habitual drunkenness, consents to the order being made; and (b) if the wife or husband of such person, being present at the hearing of the charge, objects to the order being made, the court shall, before making the order, take into consideration any representation made to it by the wife or husband; and (c) before making the order, the court shall, to such extent as it may deem reasonably sufficient, be satisfied that provision will be made for defraying the expenses of such person during detention in a retreat; and (d) nothing in this section shall affect any power of the court to order the person convicted to be detained in a certified inebriate reformatory"<sup>4</sup> (Children Act, 1908, s. 26).

(3) Habitual drunkard convicted of cruelty to child, &c.

Licensee of retreat contravening provisions of the Act, or neglecting habitual drunkard—Penalty, not exceeding £20 or three months' imprisonment with or without hard labour (Act of 1879, ss. 23, 28). Any person ill-treating, etc., habitual drunkard, or, if an officer, wilfully neglecting patient, inducing or aiding him to escape, or unlawfully Offences in connection with private retreats.

<sup>1</sup> Under s. 70 of the Dublin Police Act, 1842, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 24, a note or memorandum in writing must be kept of the summonses issued.

<sup>2</sup> For which see APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

<sup>3</sup> Thus including the Scotch Act of 1900.

<sup>4</sup> As to which power see pp. 515, 516, ante.

Offences in connection with private retreats.

supplying him with intoxicants, sedatives, or stimulants—Like penalty (Act of 1879, ss. 24–28). Any habitual drunkard wilfully neglecting or refusing to comply with the rules—Penalty, not exceeding £5 or imprisonment for seven days, period of imprisonment being excluded in computation for time of detention (Act of 1879, s. 25). The Summary Jurisdiction Acts are made applicable (s. 29). Two justices are necessary (s. 3). Appeals are regulated in Dublin by the Dublin Police Acts, and elsewhere by the Petty Sessions Act, 1851 (s. 36). A habitual drunkard escaping from a retreat may be apprehended on warrant issued by a justice upon the sworn information of the licensee of the retreat, and may be remitted to the retreat (s. 26). If a habitual drunkard escapes from a retreat, the time between his escape and his return to the retreat shall not be treated as part of his term of detention (Act of 1898, s. 18).

Offences in connection with State inebriate reformatories.

The Lord Lieutenant may make regulations as to State inebriate reformatories, and for the classification, treatment, employment, and control of inmates, and for their absence under licence; and, subject to any adaptations, alterations, and exceptions made by such regulations, the Prisons Acts, 1865 to 1898 (including the penal provisions thereof<sup>1</sup>), shall apply to every such reformatory as if it were a prison, but no corporal punishment can be inflicted in such reformatory (Act of 1898, ss. 4, 26 (b)). In exercise of this power the Lord Lieutenant has made regulations, dated 16 March, 1899, under which an inmate can be discharged, upon licence, to remain under the charge of a responsible person willing to take charge of him; and, in further exercise of the same power, the Lord Lieutenant has made other regulations, dated 10 Feb., 1904, providing that the time during which an inmate is absent upon licence, shall, except when the licence is forfeited or revoked, be deemed part of his period of detention, but that, when the licence is forfeited or revoked, the period of absence upon licence shall not be computed as part of the period of detention, unless a revocation is ordered for reasons unconnected with the inmate's conduct, or unless the Lord Lieutenant otherwise directs.

Offences in connection with certified inebriate reformatories.

The Lord Lieutenant may make regulations for, inter alia, the control of persons sentenced to detention in a certified inebriate reformatory, and may thereby impose a penalty not exceeding £20, or imprisonment not exceeding three months, for the breach of any such regulation (Act of 1898, ss. 6, 26 (b)). The breach of any such regulation, if made punishable with fine or imprisonment, is an offence punishable summarily (Act of 1899, s. 2); and the provisions in the Act of 1879 as to procedure and appeal (for which see supra) are applicable (see Act of 1898, s. 30). In case of escape of person ordered to be detained in a certified inebriate reformatory, he may be apprehended without warrant and brought back (s. 11 (2)).

Expenses of detention in state or certified inebriate reformatory.

A county court judge has jurisdiction to make an order for the payment of expenses incurred in relation to the detention of a person in either a state or certified inebriate reformatory, when he has real or personal property more than sufficient to maintain his family (Act of 1898, s. 12).

Protection of property:
(1) Married men being habitual drunkards.

(1) "Where a court of summary jurisdiction is satisfied by evidence produced before it that a married man is a habitual drunkard, as defined by section three of the Habitual Drunkards Act, 1879, the court may, on the application of any person specified in this section, make an order under this Act protecting—(a) the earnings or separate property of the wife of the drunkard; (b) anything purchased by her with such earnings or property; (c) the wearing apparel, school requirements, and earnings of her children or step-children; (d) any tools, instruments, appliances, or materials entrusted to her independently of her husband; (e) any furniture, bedding, or other articles in use as household necessities in her residence; (f) any tools, instruments, appliances, or other articles used in connection with any work, business, or calling engaged in by the wife or her children or step-children independently of her husband. (2) The persons who may make an application to the court under this section are the wife of the habitual drunkard or his or her parent, child, brother, or sister, or anyone holding the commission of the peace of the borough or county in which the alleged habitual drunkard resides, or the relieving officer of the district in which the alleged habitual drunkard resides" (Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1908, 8 Ed. 7, c. 24, s. 1).

<sup>1</sup> As to which see CATALOGUE OF SUMMARY OFFENCES under "PRISONS."

Protection of property:

"(1) Where a court of summary jurisdiction is satisfied by evidence produced before it that a married woman is a habitual drunkard, as defined by section three of the Habitual Drunkards Act, 1879, the court may, on the application of any person specified in this section, make an order under this Act, protecting—(a) any furniture, bedding, or other articles in use as household necessities in the residence of the husband of the drunkard; (b) the wearing apparel, school requirements, and earnings of his children or step-children; (c) any tools, instruments, appliances, or other articles belonging to him, or entrusted to him independently of his wife. (2) The persons who may make an application to the court under this section are the husband of the habitual drunkard, or his or her parent, child, brother, or sister, or anyone holding the commission of the peace of the borough or county in which the alleged habitual drunkard resides, or the relieving officer of the district in which the alleged habitual drunkard resides" (s. 2).

(2) Married women being habitual drunkards.

"The court may at any time rescind or vary an order under this Act" (s. 3).

Power to rescind or vary orders.

"While an order under this Act is in force it shall not be lawful to seize or sell any article specified therein for the satisfaction or discharge of any debt or liability of the habitual drunkard, or knowingly to buy from him, or receive from him, or on his behalf, any such article in pledge or pawn, or for him to sell or give in pledge or pawn any such article; and any person knowingly acting in contravention of this enactment shall be liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding 40s., or to imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for any period not exceeding one month" (s. 4).

Penalty for illegal seizure or pawning.

"Any order made under sections 1, 2, 4, or 10<sup>1</sup> of this Act shall be subject to appeal as if it were an order imposing a fine of more than 20s., or inflicting imprisonment of more than one month's duration" (s. 5).

Appeal.

"An order under this Act shall not affect any liability to a board of guardians in respect of relief given to a wife or children" (s. 6).

Liability to guardians.

"In all proceedings under this Act a husband or wife shall be a competent witness" (s. 12).

Evidence.

HARBOURS.

	PAGE		PAGE
Throwing rubbish into harbours, . . .	521	Taking material to injury of beach, . . .	522
Provisions as to unloading ballast, . . .	522	Bye-laws as to seashore, . . .	522
Order prohibiting removal of shingle, . . .	522	Miscellaneous offences as to harbours, . . .	522
Procedure under 54 Geo. 3, c. 159, . . .	522

Persons throwing, etc., or causing or procuring to be thrown, etc., ballast, rubbish, etc., into port, harbour, haven or navigable river, or into any place where liable to be washed into sea, port, harbour, haven, or navigable river, penalty not to exceed £10, with expenses (Harbours Act, 1814, 54 Geo. 3, c. 159, s. 11).

Throwing rubbish into harbours.

<sup>1</sup> As to s. 10, see INTOXICATING LIQUORS.

Unlading ballast.
Order prohibiting taking shingle.

Provisions as to unlading ballast, at high water, etc. (ss. 12, 13).

"No person or persons shall take any ballast or shingle from the shores or banks, or any portion of the shores or banks of any port, harbour, or haven of this kingdom, from which the Commissioners for executing the office of Lord High Admiral of the United Kingdom for the time being<sup>1</sup> shall find it necessary for the protection of such port, harbour, or haven, or the works thereof, by order under their hands, or the hands of any three of them, or the hands of his or their secretary, and published in The London Gazette, shall prohibit the taking or removing of such shingle or ballast, upon pain of forfeiting for every such offence the sum of £10" (Harbours Act, 1814, s. 14).

"A port is a place for the lading and unlading of ships, or vessels, erected by charter of the King or a lawful prescription" (per Lord Chelmsford, Foreman v. Free Fishers of Whitstable, (1869) L.R. 4 H.L. 266). "A harbour, in its ordinary sense, is a place to shelter ships from the violence of the sea, and where ships are brought for commercial purposes to load and unload goods. The quays are a necessary part of a harbour" (per Lord Esher, M.R., in R. v. Hannam, (1886) 2 T.L.R. 234). "A haven is a place of a large receipt and safe riding of ships, so situate and secured by the land circumjacent that the vessels thereby ride and anchor safely, and are protected by the adjacent land from dangerous and violent winds; as Milford Haven, Plymouth Haven, and the like" (Hale, De Portibus Maris, c. 2).

Section 28 provides that nothing in the Act shall take away any right of property or possession of any person in a harbour or the shores thereof, etc. Where a respondent made a bona fide claim of right to take shingle as owner of the foreshore, and the justices, without considering whether the fact of such ownership afforded any defence to proceedings under section 14, dismissed the information on the ground that a question of title was raised, it was held that the justices were right, and that for the purpose of testing the validity of an order made under the section, the Board of Trade should take proceedings in the Superior Courts (Burton v. Hudson, (1909) 2 K.B. 564).

Procedure
under 54 Geo.
3, c. 159.

Taking material to injury of beach.

Bye-laws as to seashore.

Miscellaneous
offences as to harbours, etc.

Penalties can be recovered in a summary manner. An appeal is provided against any conviction<sup>2</sup> (Harbours Act, 1814, s. 26).

County surveyor, road contractor, or other person, taking materials from beach or sea-shore, whereby a public road or bulwark or defence to any bridge or like building, or any land within the fences of any such road, may be injured—Penalty, not to exceed 5s. a load (Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1851, 14 & 15 Vict. c. 92, s. 9 (5)<sup>3</sup>).

The local authority, with the sanction of the Board of Trade, may make bye-laws for the prevention of danger, obstruction, or annoyance to persons using the sea-shore, under the Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1907, 7 Ed. 7, c. 53, s. 82, in places where that Act applies (see PUBLIC HEALTH).

The Harbours, Docks, and Piers Clauses Act, 1847, 10 & 11 Vict. c. 27, which applies to such harbours, docks, and piers as shall be authorized by any Act of Parliament thereafter to be passed which shall declare that the Act of 1847 shall be incorporated therewith (s. 1), provides penalties on a master of a vessel liable to rates failing to report his arrival within twenty-four hours to the harbour-master (s. 35); on the master of a registered vessel refusing or neglecting to produce the certificate of registration of his vessel (s. 36); on ship-master not complying with the directions of the harbour-master (s. 53) ; penalties on the harbour-master for misbehaviour (s. 54) ; on persons offering bribes to officers, and on officers taking bribes (s. 55) ; combustible matter on quays to be removed within two hours after notice (s. 69) ; to be guarded during night (s. 70) ; boiling or heating pitch, save as prescribed, having fires or lighted candles, &c., in any vessel within the harbour or dock, except with the permission of the harbour-master, bringing loaded guns on the quays, &c., or having any gunpowder on the quays (s. 71) ; obstructing harbour-master entering ship to search for and extinguish fires or lights (s. 72) ; throwing ballast into the harbour or dock (s. 73) ; the undertakers may make bye-laws (ss. 83 to 90). The procedure sections of Railways Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845 (as to which see RAILWAYS, post), are incorporated and make two justices necessary (s. 92). Wilful false swearing in proceedings is punishable as perjury (s. 96).

<sup>1</sup> Now the Board of Trade (Harbour Transfer Act, 1862, 25 & 26 Vict. c. 69, s. 16).

<sup>2</sup> Probably this right would be held to be impliedly repealed by s. 24 of the Petty Sessions Act. The procedure as to appeal will be regulated by the Petty Sessions Act.

<sup>3</sup> Verbatim, APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

Miscellaneous
offences as to harbours, etc.

Where commissioners were empowered by their special Act to make bye-laws for regulating and fixing the conduct and hire or fare of all boats or ferry-boats plying in the harbour, and for regulating the conduct of boatmen, ferrymen, and others plying in the harbour, it was held that a bye-law requiring the owners of boats carrying passengers within the port to take out an annual licence from the commissioners under a penalty was ultra vires (Londonderry Port and Harbour Commissioners v. Londonderry Bridge Commissioners, (1894) 2 I.R. 384). Where the special Act requires a certain number of the commissioners to be present at the time the bye-laws were made, a bye-law made when a less number are present is invalid, even though the bye-law bears the common seal of the commissioners (Cork Harbour Commissioners v. City of Cork Steam Packet Company, (1897) 31 I.L.T. & S.J. 439).

The owner of every vessel or float of timber is liable for any damage done by the same or by any person employed about the same to a harbour, dock, or pier, &c., as also is the master or person having charge thereof through whose wilful negligence such damage is done (s. 74) ; and the damage not exceeding £50 is recoverable before two justices, who may cause, &c., vessel to be distrained and kept if damage and costs not paid within seven days (s. 75).

HAWKERS.

See Hawkers Act, 1888, 51 & 52 Vict. c. 33, APPENDIX OF STATUTES ; see also MARINE DEALERS and GENERAL DEALERS ; PEDLARS.

HIGHWAY.

	PAGE		PAGE
Obstructing highway—		Hackney cars—
What is the highway, . . . .	524	Offences, . . . . .	528
Limited dedication of highway, .	525	Bye-laws as to, . . . .	529
What is an obstruction, . . . .	525	Procedure in proceedings relating
When obstruction not unlawful, .	525	to, . . . . .	529
Miscellaneous offences as to roads—		Regulations as to street traffic, .	529
Injuries to roads, . . . . .	526	Lights on Vehicles, see LIGHTS ON
Nuisances on roads, . . . . .	526	VEHICLES.
Public stage carriages, . . . . .	527	Locomotives on highways, see Loco-
Cars and carts, . . . . .	527	MOTIVES ON HIGHWAYS.
Begging, . . . . .	527	Motor cars, see MOTOR CARS.

Obstructing
highway.

Wilfully or by negligence or misbehaviour obstructing the thoroughfare—Penalty, not exceeding 20s. (Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1851, s. 13 (3)).<sup>1</sup> Obstructing streets or market-places in city, borough, or market town, or within quarter of a mile thereof, by causing car, &c., to stand longer than reasonable or necessary for loading or unloading, or taking up or setting down passengers—Penalty not exceeding 20s. (s. 17 (4)).<sup>2</sup> The word “road” shall include highway or other public thoroughfare; and “street” shall include any lane or passage in any town (s. 25).

What is the highway.

The highway is prima facie the space between the fences, and not merely the metalled part of the road, and includes the footpath (M’Kee v. M’Grath, (1892) 30 L.R.I. 41; Collen v. Ellis, (1893) 32 L.R.I. 491; A.-G. v. Co. Council of Mayo, (1902) 1 I.R. 13; Mayor of Burslem v. Staffordshire C.C., (1896) 1 Q.B. 24; Derby Co. Council v. Matlock Bath U.D.C., (1896) A.C. 315; cf. Neeld v. Hendon U.D.C., (1899) 16 T.L.R. 50; Belmore v. Kent Co. Council, (1901) 1 Ch. 873). A trackway or towing path along a river is not a public road, though s. 119 of the Grand Jury (Ir.) Act, 1836, expressly recognizes the existence of these towing paths, and enables presentments to be made for them (London v. Duff, (1897), 2 I.R. 143).

Where the defendant exposed goods for sale outside his shop in a street in Dublin, but the place where they were so exposed was portion of the premises of the defendant, over which the public had no right to pass: Held, that the defendant was not guilty of an offence under the Dublin Police Act, 1842, s. 17 (7)<sup>3</sup> (Dowling v. Byrne, (1876) I.R. 10 C.L. 135; Byrne v. Ring, (1876) I.R. 10 C.L. 192; Kavanagh v. Grant, (1876) 11 I.L.T.R. 34). But where the area in question, though forming part of the defendant’s premises, was incorporated with the street, the defendant was held rightly convicted under the same section (Kavanagh v. Dolan, (1876) 10 I.L.T.R. 80); and if a person alters a fence so as to be an obstruction to the highway, the fact that the fence is his own property is immaterial (Collen v. Ellis, (1893) 32 L.R.I. 491). Where, on a summons under the Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, against the owner of adjoining lands for the obstruction of a public road by the placing of stones, &c., on a grass strip by the roadside, the magistrates refused to hear the case, and dismissed the same on the ground that a previous summons between the same parties had been dismissed on a question of title. Held, that the justices were wrong, and that they should have gone into the case and received evidence before deciding that there was a question of title which ousted their jurisdiction (R. (Punch) v. Cork JJ., (1898) 32 I.L.T.R. 179).

<sup>1</sup> Carts, &c., lawfully standing on place customarily used for that purpose in a market-place, and hackney carriages standing at any place fixed as a stand, are excepted (ib.).

<sup>2</sup> Printed verbatim, APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

<sup>3</sup> Enacting that “every person who shall expose anything for sale upon, or so as to hang over, any carriageway or footway, or on the outside of any house or shop,” &c.

The practice of exposing or hanging goods on the highway outside business premises may be supported, if it be clearly shown by evidence of a cogent character that the practice prevailed before the dedication of the highway in question; for there may be a dedication limited by and subject to such a practice or right (R. (Christie) v. Londonderry JJ., (1902) 2 I.R. 266; Spice v. Peacock, (1875) 39 J.P. 581; cf. Whittaker v. Rhodes, (1881) 46 J.P. 182; R. v. Young, (1883) 52 L.J.M.C. 55; and Leicester Urban Authority v. Holland, (1888) 57 L.J.M.C. 75). Where W.'s shop, on being rebuilt, was set back to suit the line of building, and the space thus added to the pavement had been open to the street for two years, and he used this space to expose his goods: Held no offence, as he had a right to use the space as he did (Hitchman v. Watt, (1894) 58 J.P. 720).

The placing of things on a public road, street, or crossing in a manner calculated to create an obstruction to free passage, is an offence under s. 13 of the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1851, though no person or carriage is proved to have been actually obstructed thereby (R. (Collins) v. Fermanagh JJ., (1883) 14 L.R.I. 50); and the fact that the obstruction is on a part of the road that forms a recess and is off the ordinary track of passengers is immaterial (Boyle v. Edwards, (1901) 1 N.I.J.R. 79). The exposure of goods for sale on a stand projecting some feet over the footway is an offence (Brewster v. Wallace, (1897) 31 I.L.T.R. 153). An obstruction upon a highway can be looked on as inappreciable only when the obstruction is temporary in character, or where it is so small in extent that it could not under any circumstances impede traffic (A.-G. v. Mayo Co. Council, (1901) 1 I.R. 13; cf. R. v. Bartholomew, (1908) 1 K.B. 554). An unlawful obstruction will not be rendered lawful by the consent of the public authority to its erection (A.-G. v. Mayo County Council, (1902) 2 I.R. 13). See also cases under TOWNS IMPROVEMENT.

A person who collects a crowd, and thereby blocks the thoroughfare, may be guilty of an offence. Thus, where the defendant marched at the head of a band into a public square, and there addressed the crowd, he was held rightly convicted (Homer v. Cadman, (1886) 16 Cox, 51). In the case of public processions the test seems to be, was the user of the street by those taking part in the processions reasonable? (Loudens v. Keaveny, (1903) 2 I.R. 82). An unreasonable user may consist in persisting in playing a drum at which horses drawing vehicles on the highway had taken fright (Filson v. Morrell, (1888) 22 I.L.T.R. 7). A public meeting held on the highway is not necessarily unlawful (Burden v. Rigler, (1911) 1 K.B. 337). Whether such a meeting causes an obstruction depends upon the facts (ib.).

Every obstruction is not unlawful. The fact that in stopping a vehicle you temporarily reduce the width of the roadway does not make the act unlawful, and does not make your obstruction unlawful (per Vaughan Williams, L.J., in A.-G. v. Brighton and Hove Supply Association, (1900) 1 Ch. 276, at p. 283). "Vehicles have a reasonable right of stopping. . . . What is a reasonable right of stopping? That must depend upon circumstances" (Jessel, M.R., in Original Hartlepool Collieries Co. v. Gibb, (1877) 5 C.D. 713, at p. 721). "A cart or waggon may be unloaded at a gateway, but this must be done with promptness" (Lord Ellenborough, in R. v. Jones, (1812) 3 Camp. 230). A motor omnibus belonging to an omnibus company broke down in a street in the city of London about 10.30 a.m., and, being unable to proceed by its own mechanism, it was pushed out of the traffic into a side street. Two hours later the appellant, dedication.

Limited

What is an obstruction.

When obstruction not unlawful.

Obstructing
highway.

a fitter in the service of the omnibus company, arrived and repaired the omnibus while it was in the side street, the repair taking about twenty-five minutes. Evidence was given that annoyance was caused by the omnibus being repaired as aforesaid. On a summons under s. 35 of the City Police Act, 1839, for having repaired a vehicle to the annoyance of the inhabitants, the magistrate found that the omnibus might have been removed by other means than its own mechanism, and that its repair on the street was not necessary within the section, and convicted the appellant. Held, that the conviction was right (Chapman v. Rawlings, (1910) 26 T.L.R. 15).

Miscellaneous
offences as to roads.

Sections 9, 10, and 11 of the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1851, printed verbatim in Appendix of Statutes, contain a number of provisions as to offences in relation to public roads. Section 14 makes special provisions as to procedure in road offences. Reference should be made to the statute and index, as the following is a very short summary.

Injuries, &c., to roads.

Omitting to scour ditches, or to have drains under passages in and out of roads, after notice—Penalty, not exceeding 20s. Building houses within thirty feet of centre of road<sup>1</sup> (except in the streets of corporate and market towns)—Penalty, not exceeding £10, and 10s. a week till house pulled down. Deepening ditches, altering fences, or building wall, making ditches, &c., within thirty feet of centre<sup>2</sup> of road, without consent of county surveyor, &c.—Penalty, not exceeding 20s. Scraping or cutting turf at side of road without consent of county surveyor, &c.; drawing timber, &c., so as to injure road, or riding on footpaths—Penalty, not exceeding 20s. Taking materials from the side of any public road, or from any beach or seashore to the injury of any bulwark or defence to any bridge or like building—Penalty, not exceeding 5s. per load. Destroying toll-gate, &c., or forcibly rescuing or attempting to rescue any person lawfully in custody for such offences—Penalty, not exceeding 40s., or imprisonment not exceeding two months. Obstructing or assaulting engineers, surveyors, or contractors on public roads, or wilfully injuring instruments, milestones, direction posts, bridges, railings, or fences, &c.—Penalty, not exceeding £10, or imprisonment not exceeding three months. Wilful disobedience to the order of justices forbidding user of new road—Penalty, not exceeding 20s. (s. 9), and the justices have power to order obstructions to be removed, or injury to be made good (Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1851, s. 1).

Nuisances, &c., on roads

Turning horses, cattle, &c., loose, or urging dog or other animal to attack or worry, or negligence or ill usage in driving, cattle, &c.—Penalty, not exceeding 10s. Flying kites, or making slides, or playing at any game,<sup>3</sup> throwing fireworks, &c., or discharging firearms on road or within sixty feet of the centre thereof—Penalty, not exceeding 10s. Leaving ploughs, harrows, carts or carriages, &c., on public road—Penalty, not exceeding 10s. Slaughtering beasts, or leaving dead beasts, or permitting to be skinned any beast on public road or within thirty feet thereof (save in a house or enclosed yard)—Penalty, not exceeding 10s. Laying stones, timber, &c., on road or street or within thirty feet of centre thereof so as to cause danger or mischief—Penalty, not exceeding 10s., and fine of 2s. 6d. for every day that materials are left on road after notice to remove the same. Scalding casks, beating flax, or winnowing corn, &c., on public road or within thirty feet of the centre thereof (save within a house or enclosed yard) —Penalty, not exceeding 10s. Keeping or suffering to be at large within fifty yards of public road any unmuzzled and unlogged dog—Penalty, not exceeding 10s., and justices may order dangerous dog to be killed. Drying flax, burning bricks, lime, or weeds, or making bonfires, on public road, or within sixty feet of centre thereof (save within house or enclosed yard)—Penalty, 10s. Carrying timber so as to project more than two feet beyond wheels or sides of vehicle—Penalty, not exceeding 10s. Exposing horses, &c., on road for show, sale, or hire, except in fair or market—Penalty, not exceeding 40s. Allowing beasts &c., to wander on roads—Penalty, not exceeding 2s., and beasts, &c., may be impounded (Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1851, s. 10).

<sup>1</sup> The defendant proceeded to build a new house on the site of an old house which had fallen. The site was less than thirty feet from the centre of the road, but was separated from the road by an old wall. Held, that there had been a breach of the statute (Adair v. Martin, (1897) 3 I.W.L.R. 76).

<sup>2</sup> The centre of the road for the purposes of the Act is the centre of the part of the road made with gravel or stones, s. 9 (3).

<sup>3</sup> This will include bowls, which is not expressly provided for.

Miscellaneous offences as to roads. Nuisances, &c., on roads.

Discharging firearms, setting fire to fireworks, throwing or discharging stone or missile in streets of a town under the Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854<sup>1</sup>—Penalty, not exceeding 10s. (Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, s. 72).

Throwing fireworks in thoroughfare or public place—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (Explosive Substances Act, 1875, s. 80). Hawking, selling, or exposing gunpowder in thoroughfare or public place—Penalty, not exceeding 40s., with forfeiture of gunpowder (s. 30).

Driver, owner, or guard of public stage carriage, carrying more than a certain number, or carrying luggage exceeding a certain height; a person keeping any such public stage carriage omitting to paint thereon the number of passengers to be conveyed and names of proprietors; misconduct by driver or guard of public stage carriage; driver of public stage carriage leaving his horses, or allowing others to drive—Penalty, not exceeding 40s. (Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1851, s. 11).

Public stage carriages.

The following are offences under the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1851, 14 & 15 Vict. c. 92<sup>2</sup>:—

Name and residence of owner not painted on carts as prescribed;<sup>3</sup> one driver taking charge of more than one cart, &c., except in certain cases; driver being at such distance, &c., as to be unable to have the direction of his horses;<sup>4</sup> leaving carts, &c., so as to be an obstruction; driver of cart, not having owner's name thereon, refusing to discover owner's name—Penalty, in each case, not exceeding 10s. (s. 12).

Cars and carts.

Keeping on wrong side of road—Penalty, not exceeding 10s. (s. 13).<sup>5</sup> Led horse to be kept on far side of ridden horse—Penalty, not exceeding 10s. Wilfully, or by negligence or misbehaviour, obstructing passage or crossings—Penalty, not exceeding 10s. Furious or negligent driving—Penalty, not exceeding 20s. No cart, dray, waggon, or other such carriage, and no car or carriage let on hire, to be driven by a person under thirteen years—Penalty, not exceeding 10s. to be paid by owner (s. 13).

Begging in street, or causing, or procuring, or encouraging child so to do—imprisonment not exceeding one month (Vagrancy (Ir.) Act, 1847, s. 3). See also Vagrancy Act, 1824, s. 4, noted under VAGRANTS.

Begging.

Causing or procuring child or young person to be in street, &c., for purpose of begging—Penalty, not exceeding £25, or alternatively or in

<sup>1</sup> See TOWNS IMPROVEMENT.

<sup>2</sup> Printed verbatim in APPENDIX OF STATUTES, to which reference should be made. Section 14 makes special provision for making the offender amenable.

<sup>3</sup> The name and residence must be in English characters (McBride v. McGovern, (1906) 2 I.R. 181; Buckley v. Finnegan, (1906) 40 I.L.T.R. 76).

<sup>4</sup> An offence is committed even though the vehicle is stationary upon the highway (see Phythian v. Baxendale, (1895) 1 Q.B. 768).

<sup>5</sup> A tramcar running on tramway rails on a highway is a carriage, and vehicles meeting or passing it must observe the rules of the road (Burton v. Nicholson, (1909) 1 K.B. 397). The rule of the road is, however, subordinate to considerations of safety (Finnegan v. L.N.W.R. Co., (1889) 53 J.P. 663).

default of payment of fine, or in addition thereto, imprisonment, with or without hard labour, not exceeding three months (Children Act, 1908, 8 Ed. 7, c. 67, s. 14; verbatim, APPENDIX OF STATUTES).

Hackney carriages.
Offences.
Stands.

Stands for cars plying for hire may be appointed by (1) notice in writing of Town Commissioners under the Lighting of Towns (Ir.) Act, 1828, and of Commissioners acting under any local or special Acts giving them like powers in their respective towns, not being market towns; (2) justices at petty sessions in other market towns not being corporate towns—Penalty, for standing elsewhere, not exceeding 20s. (Summary Jurisdiction Act (Ir.), 1851, s. 17).

Licence.

Town<sup>1</sup> Commissioners may license hackney carriages (Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, ss. 79, 80). Proprietors permitting hackney carriages to ply for hire<sup>2</sup> within prescribed distance<sup>3</sup> without licence—Penalty, not exceeding 40s. (s. 80). Proprietors of hackney carriages to notify change of abode—Penalty, not exceeding 40s. (s. 81). Driver not to act without being licensed, or to lend licence; proprietor not to employ unlicensed person—Penalty in each case not exceeding 20s. (s. 82.)<sup>4</sup> Licence to remain in full force till revoked, except during the time when it is suspended under the Act. Commissioners may, on second conviction, suspend or revoke licence (ib.). Number of persons to be carried to be painted on hackney carriage (see Buckley v. Finnegan, (1906) 40 I.L.T.R. 77); driver refusing to carry said number or a less number; driver refusing to drive<sup>5</sup>—Penalty, in each case, not exceeding 40s. (s. 83). Driver demanding more than agreed or legal fare—Penalty, 40s. Agreement to pay more than legal fare void, excess may be recovered before a justice on complaint, and driver is liable to penalty of 40s., and on default of payment of penalty to

Number to be carried.

Fare.

<sup>1</sup> As to overlapping area to D.M.P. district and outlying district see Dunne v. Owens, (1903) 3 N.I.J.R. 45, noted p. 314 n.

<sup>2</sup> The words "used in standing or plying for hire" in the Act are not confined to the actual time of so using, standing, or plying (Hawkins v. Edwards, (1901) 2 K.B. 169). The essential conditions necessary to bring carriages within the definition of hackney carriages within the similar provisions of the Towns Police Clauses Act, 1847, are thus summed up in 48 J.P., p. 452—(1) A carriage is not a hackney carriage unless it is both plying for hire, and in a public street; (2) plying for hire consists simply in the keeping of a carriage for the use of any of the public who may desire to use it; (3) plying for hire does not necessarily imply being in a public street or place; (4) a railway station, and any place over which the public have no rights of passage, is not a public "street" or place; (5) a public "street" (under the Act) must apparently be a public thoroughfare. See Curtis v. Embery, (1872) L.R. 7 E. 369; Case v. Storey, (1869) L.R. 4 E. 319; Skinner v. Usher, (1872) L.R. 7 Q.B. 423; Marks v. Ford, (1881) 45 J.P. 157; Jones v. Short, (1900) 19 Cox 472; Cavill v. Amos, (1900) 16 T.L.R. 156. An omnibus taking regular trips, the passengers paying no fares, but giving voluntary contributions, may be a hackney carriage (Cocks v. Mayner, (1894) 17 Cox 745); see also Hickman v. Birch, (1899) 24 Q.B.D. 172; Cousins v. Stockbridge, (1866) 30 J.P. 166; R. v. Fletcher, (1908) 72 J.P. 249. A carriage which, by arrangement with a railway company, awaits the arrival of trains for the conveyance of any passenger who chooses to hire it, is "plying for hire" (Clark v. Stanford, (1871) L.R. 6 Q.B. 357; Allen v. Tunbridge, (1871) L.R. 6 C.P. 481). Where a livery-stable keeper rented an office at a station, and also ground within the station on which he kept superior carriages, ready for use but hireable only at the office, it was held that this was "plying for hire" (Foinett v. Clarke, (1877) 41 J.P. 359). But where the appellants, who were large carters in Belfast, hired out carts to anyone requiring same applying at their offices or to their foreman, but the carts did not occupy the public stands: Held, that they did not "ply for hire," (Wordie & Co. v. Belfast Corporation, (1902) 36 I.L.T.R. 168).

<sup>3</sup> The prescribed distance under the Act is within four miles from the post office of the town (s. 78). An omnibus making regular journeys to and from a place outside the district of the local authority, but stopping to take up and let down passengers at places within such district, is "plying for hire within the prescribed distance" (Dewhurst v. Eddles, (1893) 9 T.L.R. 494).

<sup>4</sup> Personal application for licence may be required (Banton v. Davies, (1892) 56 J.P. 17 Cox 469).

<sup>5</sup> Refusing to drive inside a station where cabs usually set down passengers. Held, an offence under similar provisions of London Hackney Carriage Act, 1853, s. 17 (Ex parte Kippins, (1897) 1 Q.B. 1).

imprisonment not exceeding one month unless fine and excess sooner paid (s. 84).<sup>1</sup> Driver driving while intoxicated, or by wanton and furious driving or other wilful misconduct causing injury or danger—Penalty, not exceeding £5, and, on default of payment, imprisonment not exceeding two months. Driver causing obstruction, &c.—Penalty, not exceeding 20s., and where hurt or damage has been caused, justice may award a sum not exceeding £5 as compensation to be paid by proprietor<sup>2</sup> (s. 85). Leaving hackney car unattended—Penalty, not exceeding 20s.; carriage may be impounded by constable (s. 86). Payment of fare and costs may be enforced as a penalty.<sup>3</sup> Wilful injury to carriage—Penalty, not exceeding £5, with compensation to be ascertained by the justice before whom the conviction takes place (s. 87).

Hackney carriages.

Misconduct of driver.

Causing injury.

Car unattended.

Injury to carriage.

Commissioners may make bye-laws for regulating hackney carriages (s. 88),<sup>4</sup> and may also make order prescribing routes, and for preventing obstructions in times of public processions, &c.—Penalty for disobedience, not exceeding 40s. (s. 70).

Bye-laws.

The procedure is regulated by sections 90–92, which give jurisdiction, in claims for damages, and in complaints, to one or more justices to hear the case, and to award such costs as they may think proper. See full note as to procedure under “TOWNS IMPROVEMENT.”

Procedure.

Where the Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1907, is applied, the “local authority” have power to make regulations as to street traffic. See “PUBLIC HEALTH.”

Regulations as to street traffic.

As to locomotives on highways, see “LOCOMOTIVES ON HIGHWAYS.”

See also “TOWNS IMPROVEMENT,” “DUBLIN METROPOLITAN POLICE DISTRICT,” “MOTOR CARS,” &c.

HORSEFLESH.

The sale of horseflesh for human food is regulated by the Horseflesh Regulation, &c., Act, 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 11. “Horseflesh” includes the flesh of asses and mules (s. 7). Horseflesh is not to be sold for human food except in a shop, &c., over which is displayed a notice, in letters at least four inches long, that horseflesh is sold there (s. 1); and any person selling it except in such shop, &c., without anything to show that it was not intended for human food, shall be deemed to have so intended it, unless he proves the contrary (s. 6). Any meat intended for human food reasonably suspected to be horseflesh, and kept elsewhere than in such shop, &c., may be seized by any officer of a local authority,<sup>5</sup> acting either with or without a warrant which a justice is under the Act empowered to grant; and if it appear to any justice that the meat so seized was intended for human food, he may order it to be disposed of as

Sale of horseflesh.

Seizure of horseflesh.

Disposal of seizure.

<sup>1</sup> Overcharge by proprietor or driver under any byelaw—Penalty, not exceeding 40s., recoverable before a justice. Overcharge to be included in conviction and returned to the aggrieved party (s. 80).

<sup>2</sup> Where the jurisdiction under this section to award compensation is exercised, with the consent, express or implied, of the party injured, the order will be a bar to further proceedings, even though the injured person did not lay the information, or, in the first instance, request the magistrate to award compensation (Wright v. London General Omnibus Co., (1877) 2 Q.B.D. 271). As to responsibility of the proprietor for the acts of the driver, see Keen v. Henry, (1894) 1 Q.B. 292.

<sup>3</sup> It has been held in England (on the construction of ss. 6 and 35 of the English Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1849, and s. 66 of the Towns Police Clauses Act, 1847), that the fare is a civil debt not enforceable by imprisonment in default (R. v. Kerswill, (1895) 1 Q.B. 1; and see R. v. Master, (1869) L.R. 4 Q.B. 285).

<sup>4</sup> See Blackpool Local Board v. Bennett, (1859) 38 L.J.M.C. 293.

<sup>5</sup> That is of the urban or rural sanitary authority under the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878 (s. 9).

Offences against the Act.

Penalty.

he thinks fit, and the person in whose possession or on whose premises it was shall be deemed guilty of an offence against the Act, unless he proves that it was not intended for human food contrary to the provisions of the Act (ss. 3, 4, 5). Any person obstructing any officer of a local authority making such seizure shall be guilty of an offence against the Act (s. 4). Any person offending against any of the provisions of the Act—Penalty, on summary conviction, not exceeding £20 (s. 6).

HUSBAND AND WIFE.

	PAGE		PAGE
Criminal liability of husband and wife		Maintenance of deserted wife—
as to each other's goods, . . .	530	Where proceedings to be taken, . . .	535
Liability of husband to support wife, . . .	531	Amount of order, . . .	535
Maintenance of deserted wife—		Liability of wife to support husband, . . .	535
49 & 50 Vict. c. 52, . . .	531	Protection of property of deserted wife, . . .	535
Order by justices, . . .	531	Protection of property where husband
Procedure, . . .	532	or wife is habitual drunkard, . . .	536
"Deserted," meaning of, . . .	533

Criminal liability of husband and wife as to each other's goods.

Husband and wife being one person in law, a wife could not be convicted of stealing her husband's goods, even though she had committed adultery (R. v. Kenny, (1877) 2 Q.B.D. 307), and vice versa. It followed from this that a third person could not be convicted of unlawfully receiving the goods, knowing them to be stolen (ib.). This anomaly, however, has been removed by the Married Women's Property Act, 1882, sections 12 and 16 of which are as follows:—

Goods of wife.

"Every woman, whether married before or after this Act, shall have in her own name against all persons whomsoever, including her husband, the same civil remedies, and also (subject as regards her husband to the proviso hereinafter contained) the same remedies and redress by way of criminal proceedings for the protection and security of her own separate property, as if such property belonged to her as a feme sole, but, except as aforesaid, no husband or wife shall be entitled to sue the other for a tort. In any indictment or other proceeding under this section it shall be sufficient to allege such property to be her property; and in any proceeding under this section a husband or wife shall be competent to give evidence against each other, any statute or rule of law to the contrary notwithstanding: Provided always, that no criminal proceeding shall be taken by any wife against her husband by virtue of this Act while they are living together, as to or concerning any property claimed by her, nor while they are living apart, as to or concerning any act done by the husband while they were living together, concerning property claimed by the wife, unless such property shall have been wrongfully taken by the husband when leaving or deserting, or about to leave or desert, his wife" (Married Women's Property Act, 1882, 45 & 46 Vict. c. 57, s. 12).

Goods of husband.

"A wife doing any act with respect to any property of her husband, which, if done by the husband with respect to property of the wife, would make the husband liable to criminal proceedings by the wife under this Act, shall in like manner be liable to criminal proceedings by her husband" (Married Women's Property Act, 1882, s. 16).

Evidence.

"In any such criminal proceeding against a husband or wife as is authorized by the Married Women's Property Act, 1882, the husband and wife respectively shall be competent and admissible witnesses, and, except where defendant, compellable to give evidence" (Married Women's Property Act, 1884, 47 & 48 Vict. c. 14, s. 1).

Receiving.

The offence of stealing under sections 12 and 16 of the Married Women's Property Act, 1882, is not a felony, but a misdemeanour only (R. v. Payne, (1906) 1 K.B. 97); and, therefore, a count will not lie for feloniously receiving goods stolen by a wife from her husband (R. v. Streeter, (1900) 1 K.B. 601).

“For the purposes of this Act every husband shall be liable to maintain his wife, and every child under the age of fifteen, whether legitimate or illegitimate, which she may have had at the time of her marriage with such husband; and every father shall be liable to maintain his child, and every widow to maintain her child, and the mother of every bastard child to maintain such bastard child, until every such child respectively shall attain the age of fifteen years: Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall be taken to remove or lessen the obligations to which any husband or parent is by law liable in regard to the maintenance of his wife and children, legitimate or illegitimate, respectively, independently of this Act” (Poor Relief (Ir.) Act, 1838, 1 & 2 Vict. c. 56, s. 53).

Liability of husband to maintain his wife and her children, and of parents to maintain their children.

It has been held, that a husband is liable for the support of his wife in a union, though the wife has left her husband, and he is able and willing to maintain her (M'Evoy v. Guardians of Kilkenny Union, (1896) 30 I.L.T.R. 156).

“Every person who shall desert or wilfully neglect to maintain his wife or any child whom he may be liable to maintain, so that such wife or child shall become destitute and be relieved in or out of the workhouse of any union in Ireland, shall, on conviction thereof before any justice of the peace, be committed to the common gaol or house of correction, there to be kept to hard labour for any time not exceeding three calendar months” (Vagrancy (Ir.) Act, 1847, s. 2).<sup>1</sup>

In a prosecution under the section, a board of guardians are parties aggrieved, and not merely common informers (R. (Ferris) v. Londonderry J.J., (1903) 2 I.R. 747). The adultery of the wife, if proved, is a good defence to a charge under this section (Phillips v. Guardians of South Dublin Union, (1902) 2 I.R. 112; 34 I.L.T.R. 171; 1 N.I.J.R. 31). The word “wilfully” implies ability on the part of the defendant to contribute to the support (ib.); and the burthen of proving such ability rests upon the complainant (Guardians of Drogheda v. M'Cann, (1905) 39 I.L.T.R. 210; 5 N.I.J.R. 216).

As to the support of children see “CHILDREN,” p. 403. As will be seen by reference at p. 403 to s. 53 of the Poor Relief (Ir.) Act, 1838, 1 & 2 Vict. c. 56, a widow is liable to maintain her child, and the mother of an illegitimate child is liable to maintain such child, up to the age of fifteen. The question does not seem to have been decided whether the word “person” in s. 2 of the Vagrancy (Ir.) Act, 1847, refers merely to a male parent; but it is arguable that it includes a female parent, and that, therefore, a widow, or the mother of an illegitimate child, is within this section (see the repealed ss. 59 and 124 of the Act of 1838, and s. 8 of the Act of 1847).

“(1) It shall be lawful for any married woman, who shall have been deserted by her husband, to summon her husband before any two justices in petty sessions or any stipendiary magistrate, and thereupon such justices or magistrate, if satisfied that the husband, being able, wholly or in part, to maintain his wife, or his wife and family, has wilfully refused or neglected so to do, and has deserted his wife, may order—(1) That the husband shall pay to his wife such weekly sum, not exceeding £2, as the justices or magistrate may consider to be in accordance with his means and with any means the wife may have for her support and the support of her family, and the payment of any sum so ordered shall be enforceable and enforced against the husband in the same manner as the payment of money is enforced under an order of affiliation; and the said justices or magistrate by whom any such order for payment shall be made, or other

Maintenance in case of desertion.
(Order by justices against husband.)

<sup>1</sup> See also Vagrancy Act, 1824, s. 4, under “VAGRANTS.”

Maintenance in case of desertion.

justices or magistrate sitting in their or his stead, shall have power from time to time to vary the same. on the application of either the husband or wife, upon proof that the means of the husband or wife have been altered in amount since the original order, or any subsequent order varying it, shall have been made : (2) Provided always, that no order for payment of any such sum by the husband shall be made in favour of a wife who shall be proved to have committed adultery, unless such adultery has been condoned, and that any order for payment of any such sum may be discharged by the justices or magistrate by whom such order was made, or other justices or magistrate sitting in their or his stead, upon proof that the wife has since the making thereof been guilty of adultery" (Married Women (Maintenance in Case of Desertion) Act, 1886, 49 & 50 Vict. c. 52, s. 1).

Procedure.

" A summons under this Act shall be applied for and granted and served in the same manner as summonses are now applied for, granted, and served in cases of assault, or in such other manner as the said justices or magistrate shall direct : Provided always, that in such case the said justices or magistrate, or other justices or magistrate sitting in his or their stead, may rehear any such summons at the instance of the husband at any time, and confirm, discharge, or vary any previous order thereon as they or he may think just " (s. 2).

The expression " stipendiary magistrate " in section 1 includes a divisional justice of the Dublin metropolitan police district (R. (Redding) v. Swift, (1909) 2 I.R. 302).

Costs under the Petty Sessions Act may be awarded (R. (Fleming) v. Armagh JJ., December, 1910, unreported).<sup>1</sup>

There is no such thing as an affiliation order in Ireland, the only liability being to pay for the support of an illegitimate child in a union under 26 & 27 Vict. c. 20, enforceable by civil bill. Accordingly, it has been held that the words " shall be enforced in the same manner as the payment of money is enforced under an order of affiliation " must be construed with reference to the procedure in England (R. (Fleming) v. Armagh JJ., supra). That procedure is as follows :—After one calendar month from making the order, a single justice, on oath or affirmation that the sum ordered has not been paid, may, by warrant,<sup>2</sup> cause the father to be brought before two justices, and in case such father neglect or refuse to make payment of the sums due under the order, such justices may by warrant direct the amount, with such costs, to be recovered by distress and sale, and order the father to be detained in custody until return be made to the warrant of distress, unless he give security by way of recognizance or otherwise to the satisfaction of the justices for his appearance before two justices on the day appointed for the return of the warrant, not being more than seven days from the time of taking security ; but if upon the return, or by the father's admission, it appears that no sufficient distress within their jurisdiction can be had, then any such two justices may commit the father for a period not exceeding three calendar months, unless the money, with costs of commitment and conveyance to prison, and of the persons employed to convey him thither, be sooner paid (Bastardy Laws Amendment Act, 1872, 35 & 36 Vict. c. 65, s. 4).

The justices ought to have evidence before them, at the time of making the order for payment, of the defendant's means ; but if he fails to comply with that order while it stands unvaried and undischarged, they have jurisdiction to commit him for such non-compliance, notwithstanding that they have no evidence of his means at the date when the payment accrued due (R. v. Richardson, (1909) 2 K.B. 851; R. (Fleming) v. Armagh JJ., Maintenance in case of desertion. supra); and apparently, when the defendant has been brought before the justices for committal under the procedure in the last-mentioned section, they are not bound, on his request, to re-open the matter with a view to having the order varied (R. (Fleming) v. Armagh JJ., supra).

<sup>1</sup> At time of going to press, but see INDEX OF CASES.

<sup>2</sup> No previous summons or notice is necessary (see R. (Fleming) v. Armagh JJ., supra).

The proceedings are civil in character, and the defendant can be examined in his own behalf (R. (Redding) v. Swift, (1909) 2 I.R. 302, per Lord O'Brien, L.C.J., p. 315, per Wright, J., p. 317, per Dodd, J., p. 328; see also In re Gamble, (1899) 1 Q.B. 305).

There are numerous decisions upon the meaning of the term "Deserted." "desertion" in the Summary Jurisdiction (Married Women) Act, 1895 (E.). That Act repealed, for England, the Act of 1886, and provided for a quasi-decree of judicial separation with an order for maintenance, to be made by a court of summary jurisdiction, on the application of a wife "whose husband shall have" (inter alia) "deserted her." It is submitted that the expression "who shall have been deserted by her husband" in the Act of 1886 would be construed in the same way as the corresponding expression in the Act of 1895, and that, consequently, the following decisions are applicable:—

Desertion under the Act of 1895 means the same thing as desertion "without reasonable cause" in the Matrimonial Causes Act (E.), 1857 (Frowd v. Frowd, (1904) P. 177). If a wife by her conduct<sup>1</sup> renders her husband's position intolerable, so that he leaves her or turns her out, this is not desertion (Frowd v. Frowd, supra, per Sir Francis Jeune, at p. 178). What is desertion without reasonable cause is, within limits, a question of fact for the justices, having regard to the legal meaning of the term (R. v. Birwistle, (1889) 58 L.J.M.C. 158; R. v. Davidson, (1889) 5 T.L.R. 199; In re Duckworth, (1889) 58 L.J.M.C. 158). Reasonable cause may consist either in (a) violence of conduct, or even of language (see, for instance, Russell v. Russell, (1895) P. 315), persisted in so as to make the man's life a burthen<sup>2</sup>; (b) loose conduct, as, for instance, the wife staying out all night, after the husband had discovered her improper relations with another man (Frowd v. Frowd, supra); or (c) persistent refusal to allow marital intercourse (Synge v. Synge, (1900) P. 180, (1901) P. 317). Husband leaving wife.

If, on the other hand, a husband by his cruelty obliges his wife to leave him, and she does leave him, that will be desertion by the husband of the wife.<sup>3</sup> There may be cruelty without actual violence; thus, the unreasonable denial of usual necessities or comfort so as to affect health is cruelty, entitling the wife to leave her husband (Dysart v. Dysart, (1848) 3 N.C. 340). Wife leaving husband.

Apart from any question of actual ill-treatment on one side or the other, what is desertion? "A husband deserts his wife if he wilfully absents himself from the society of his wife in spite of her wish. Desertion may be inferred from certain acts in one case which in another would not What absence amounts to desertion.

<sup>1</sup> Not being adultery, which is specifically named as a defence under s. 1 (2) of the Act of 1886, and under s. 7 of the English Act of 1895.

<sup>2</sup> Mere frailty of temper, unless shown in some marked and intolerable excesses, is not a reasonable cause (Yeatman v. Yeatman, (1868) L.R. 1 P. and D. 489, per Lord Penzance, at p. 493; see also Charter v. Charter, (1901) 84 L.T. 272).

<sup>3</sup> In Sickert v. Sickert, (1899) P. 278, it was laid down (p. 284) that a wife with any self-respect has no alternative except to withdraw from cohabitation upon her husband's refusal to abandon adulterous intercourse, whether carried on under her own roof or elsewhere; and if, upon such refusal, the wife leaves her husband, he is guilty of desertion; and in Graves v. Graves, (1864) 10 L.T. 273, Dickinson v. Dickinson, (1893) 62 L.T. 330; and Koch v. Koch, (1899) P. 221, the decisions were to the same effect. As to causing mental distress sufficient to injure health, and threats causing reasonable fear of physical restraint, see MacKenzie v. MacKenzie, (1895) A.C. 384.

Maintenance
in case of desertion.

justify the same inference. There must be a deliberate purpose of abandoning the conjugal society. Such abandonment need not be for a specified period. If a husband had quite recently left his wife, stating that he did not intend to return, and was found living with another woman, this would be abundant evidence of desertion upon which the justices could act" (per Lopes, L.J., in R. v. Leresche, (1891) 2 Q.B. 418, at p. 420).

Absence by arrangement.

If the parties are living apart by mutual consent, there is no desertion. Disputes arose between a husband and wife, and an agreement for separation was come to whereby they agreed to live apart, and he undertook to pay her a weekly sum so long as she should live chastely. After they had separated, the husband alleged that the wife had been guilty of adultery, and he refused to continue the payments. Held, that as the parties had been living apart under an agreement to separate, there was no desertion (Pape v. Pape, (1887) 20 Q.B.D. 76). A husband and wife were living apart under a separation deed, by which the husband covenanted to pay 7s. a week to a trustee for the wife. The husband having ceased to make the payments required by the deed, the wife offered to resume cohabitation, but the husband refused to do so. Held, that, in order to constitute desertion within the Act, the parties must be living together as man and wife when the desertion took place; that the husband's refusal of the wife's offer to resume cohabitation did not constitute desertion (see also Piper v. Piper, (1902) P. 198; and compare Bradshaw v. Bradshaw, infra). But if a deed is merely a fraudulent transaction on the part of one of the parties; "if a man, determining to abandon his wife, were to set about fraudulently, by the show of an agreement which he intended never to fulfil, to induce or extort her consent to their mutual separation, covering his true purpose under delusive covenants, and seeking a shield for his designs in a consent brought about by treachery, the court might well be asked to reject the false face of the transaction, and to regard the real object that lay underneath" (Crabb v. Crabb, (1868) L.R. 1 P. & D. 601, at p. 604; see Piper v. Piper, (1902) P. 198, at p. 200; Bradshaw v. Bradshaw, (1897) P. 24). A married female domestic servant, who never lived with her husband under the same roof, was visited from time to time by him at the house of her mistress, and a child (which subsequently died) was born of the marriage in a lying-in hospital. The husband refused to receive his wife in the house where he lodged, and to give her any help towards her maintenance. Held, that the cohabitation was sufficient to give jurisdiction to the justices to make an order under s. 4 of the Summary Jurisdiction (Married Woman) Act (E.), 1895. "There is a very common misunderstanding of the effect of those two decisions.<sup>1</sup> It is true that there cannot be a desertion of a wife unless the cohabitation is broken by some act of desertion. But cohabitation does not necessarily imply that a husband and wife are living together physically under the same roof. If that were so, there would be large classes of persons to whom the term could have no application; married domestic servants, for example, who cannot live day and night under the same roof, but yet may cohabit together in the wider sense of the term. The two cases cited have one common feature: in each of them there were two persons living separate from each other by mutual consent, and not cohabiting together, and in such a case there clearly could not be desertion unless there was a resumption of cohabitation" (Bradshaw v. Bradshaw, (1897) P. 24, per Sir Francis Jeune, P., at p. 26).

A separation deed was, on September 18th, 1902, drawn up between a husband and wife, under which the husband covenanted to pay the wife 30s. per week. They ceased to cohabit from that date, and were still living apart when, on December 6th, 1902, only one payment of 30s. having been made by the husband, the wife applied to the divisional magistrate and obtained an order upon the husband for maintenance under the Act. Upon an application to quash the order: Held, that there was no desertion by the husband within the meaning of the Act, and that the conviction must be quashed (R. (Waldron) v. Dublin J.J., (1903) 3 N.I.J.R. 366).

<sup>1</sup> Fitzgerald v. Fitzgerald, (1869) L.R. 1 P. & D. 694, and R. v. Leresche, (1891) 2 Q.B. 418.

Maintenance in case of desertion.

It has been held in England that a married woman whose husband has deserted and refused to maintain her, may obtain an order under the Married Women (Maintenance in Case of Desertion) Act, 1886, against him for her support from any justices within whose jurisdiction she resides at the time of such refusal or desertion, whichever act is the latest (R. v. Leresche, (1887) 56 L.J.M.C. 135; see remarks of Dodd, J., in R. (Redding) v. Swifte, (1909) 2 I.R. 302, at p. 329).

Where proceedings may be taken.

Where an order did not contain the name of the place where the refusal to maintain took place, the court refused to make absolute a rule for a certiorari to bring up and quash the same, it being admitted that the wife's residence was within the jurisdiction (R. v. Leresche, (1887) 56 L.J.M.C. 135).

In Cobb v. Cobb, (1900) P. 294, it was held by Sir Francis Jeune, P., that, in the absence of any statutory provision in the Summary Jurisdiction (Married Women) Act, 1895 (E.), as to the proportion of the husband's income that justices should direct under that Act to be paid to a wife in whose favour they make a maintenance order, justices should be guided by the practice of the matrimonial courts as to alimony, that practice being, as a general rule, to order payment to the wife, if there are no children, or no children that she has to support, of the marriage, of such sum as approximately represents one third of the husband's net income, or, if the wife is in receipt of any income apart from her husband's, of the net combined incomes. This decision, it is submitted, may be taken as a guide for magistrates making an order in Ireland under the Act of 1886.

Amount of maintenance order.

"Where in Ireland relief is given under the provisions of the Acts relating to the relief of the destitute poor to the husband of any woman having separate property, the cost price of such relief is hereby declared to be a loan from the guardians of the union in which the same shall be given, and shall be recoverable from such woman as if she were a feme sole by the same actions and proceedings as money lent" (Married Women's Property Act, 1882, s. 20).

Liability of wife to support husband.

"A wife deserted by her husband in Ireland, may at any time after such desertion, if resident within the police district of Dublin, apply to a police magistrate, or, if resident in the country, to justices in petty sessions, or in either case to a judge of the Court of Common Pleas sitting in chambers, for an order to protect any money or property she may acquire by her own lawful industry, and property which she may become possessed of after such desertion, against her husband or his creditors, or any person claiming under him; and such magistrate or justices or judge, if satisfied of the fact of such desertion, and that the same was without reasonable cause, and that the wife is maintaining herself by her own industry or property, may make and give to the wife an order protecting her earnings and property acquired since the commencement of such desertion from her husband, and all creditors and persons claiming under him; and such earnings and property shall belong to the wife as if she were a feme sole: Provided always that a copy of every such order, if made by a police magistrate or justices at petty sessions, shall, within ten days from the making thereof, be lodged with the clerk of the peace of the county within which the wife is resident; and that it shall be lawful for the husband, and any creditor or other person claiming under him, to apply to the same judge or any other judge of the court, or to the magistrate or justices by whom such order was made or for the time being acting instead of or as successors to the same, for the discharge thereof: Provided also that if the husband or any creditor or other person claiming under the husband shall seize or continue to hold any property of the wife after notice of any such order, he shall be liable, at the suit of the wife, which she is hereby empowered to bring, to restore the specific property, and also for a sum equal to double the value of the property so seized or held after such notice as aforesaid. If any such order of protection be made, the wife shall, during the continuance thereof, be and be deemed to have been, during such desertion of her, in the like position in all respects with regard to property and courtesy (sic)<sup>1</sup> and suing and being sued as she would be under this Act if she obtained a decree of divorce a mensa et thoro" (Married Women's Property (Ir.) Act, 1865, 28 & 29 Vict. c. 43, s. 1).

Property of deserted wife.

Property of deserted wife.

Protection of property
where husband or wife is habitual drunkard.

As to orders for protection of property where either husband or wife is habitual drunkard, see HABITUAL DRUNKARD, ante, p. 520.

INDECENCY.

Any person who in a town within the Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, wilfully and indecently exposes his person, or who commits any act contrary to public decency—Penalty, not exceeding 40s. (Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act,<sup>2</sup> 1854, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 103, s. 72).

"Any person who within the limits of the police district of Dublin metropolis, in any thoroughfare or public place shall wilfully and indecently expose his person, or commit any act contrary to public decency"—Penalty, not exceeding £5, or two months' imprisonment (Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1871, 34 & 35 Vict. c. 76, s. 5).

A bye-law forbidding the use of profane, obscene, or indecent language in any street or public place to the annoyance of passengers cannot be held to apply to language alleged to be indecent used in a publichouse, and only heard by persons present therein (Russon v. Dutton, (1911) 27 T.L.R. 197).

The Vagrancy Act, 1824, 5 Geo. 3, c. 83, s. 4, noted under "VAGRANTS," also gives summary jurisdiction to deal with the offence, which is, further, a misdemeanour, punishable on indictment; see INDICTABLE OFFENCES. And it is submitted that persons guilty of any indecency might be required to find sureties to be of good behaviour. See p. 33, ante.

INDECENT ADVERTISEMENTS.

See ADVERTISEMENTS, p. 352, ante.

INDUSTRIAL SCHOOLS.

As to sending children to reformatories or industrial schools, see the Children Act, 1908, ss. 57-70, APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

<sup>1</sup> The corresponding English section 20 & 21 Vict. c. 85 s. 2, has "contracts."

<sup>2</sup> As to which, see "TOWNS IMPROVEMENT."

INTIMIDATION.

The offence of intimidation and criminal conspiracy in a proclaimed district is punishable summarily by imprisonment, with or without hard labour, not exceeding six months, under the Criminal Law & Procedure (Ir.) Act, 1887, 50 & 51 Vict. c. 20, ss. 2 (3), 11. The offence, however, is only punishable before a court of summary jurisdiction constituted under the Act, and the procedure is now rarely availed of. See statute, APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

INTOXICATING LIQUORS.

	PAGE		PAGE	Index to offences.
Admittance of police, . . . . .	537	Making or manufacturing liquor with-
Admittance of excise officer, . . . . .	539	out licence, . . . . .	550
Adulteration, . . . . .	539	Measure, . . . . .	551
Bribing constable, . . . . .	539	Name over door, . . . . .	551
Brothel, permitting licensed premises		Occasional licence, . . . . .	552
to be used as, . . . . .	540	"Off" licence, . . . . .	552
Children, offences as to, . . . . .	540	Passenger vessel licence, . . . . .	553
Clubs, . . . . .	543	Permitting drunkenness or selling to Contravening terms of licence, . . . . .	543	drunken person, . . . . .	553
Dead body, refusing to receive, . . . . .	543	Permitting prostitutes, . . . . .	555
Distillation, . . . . .	543	Procuring drink for drunken person, . . . . .	555
Drunkenness, . . . . .	545	Production of licence, . . . . .	556
Emblems, . . . . .	545	Prohibited hours, . . . . .	556
Entry of licensed premises with excise, . . . . .	546	Railway car licence, . . . . .	555
Entry of licensed premises with clerk		Refusing to leave licensed premises, . . . . .	565 of the peace, . . . . .	546	Riot, closing in case of, or apprehen-
Exemption order, offence as to, . . . . .	546	sion of, . . . . .	565
Flags, . . . . .	546	Sale without licence, . . . . .	566
Gaming, suffering, . . . . .	546	Soliciting orders, . . . . .	574
Grogging spirit casks, . . . . .	547	Spirit grocers, . . . . .	575
Harbouring constable, . . . . .	548	Spirits, . . . . .	575
Harbouring thieves, . . . . .	548	Spirits in transit, . . . . .	576
Illegal assemblies, . . . . .	548	Storing liquor, . . . . .	576
Internal communication, . . . . .	549	Theatre licence, . . . . .	576
Justice acting while disqualified, . . . . .	550	Valuation, licensee to render . . . . .	576
Procedure under Licensing Acts, . . . . .	577	Index to Procedure, . . . . .	577	Procedure.

Any justice or any chief constable (now district-inspector), or any constable authorized by any justice, or chief constable, may enter premises licensed for the sale of spirits, wine, or beer by retail, in which any illegal assembly is suspected to be held (see ILLEGAL ASSEMBLIES, p. 548), or from which emblems, &c., are displayed (see EMBLEMS, p. 545), to remove and destroy such emblems, &c., and remove persons illegally assembled, and seize books of such illegal assembly. Persons refusing to leave, or resisting, or refusing to give correct name and address—Penalty, 5s. to 20s. (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1836, 6 & 7 Wm. 4, c. 38, s. 9).

"Any constable may, for the purpose of preventing or detecting the violation of any of the provisions of the principal Act,<sup>1</sup> or this Act which it is his duty to enforce, at all times enter on any licensed premises, and on any premises kept by a spirit grocer, and on any premises in respect of which an occasional licence is in force. Every person who, by himself, or by any person in his employ, or acting by his direction, or with his consent, refuses, or fails to admit any constable in the execution of his duty, demanding to enter in pursuance of this section " Penalty—not exceeding, first offence, £5; subsequent offence, £10 (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, 37 & 38 Vict. c. 69, s. 23<sup>1</sup>). This offence is recordable (s. 21).

<sup>1</sup> That is (see preamble) the Licensing Act, 1872.

Admittance
of police.

A spirit dealer<sup>2</sup> is not obliged under this section to admit the police, as the section applies only to premises having a licence for which a justice's certificate is required (Harrison v. MacL'Veel, (1880) 50 L.T. 210), and a spirit, or a wine, dealer does not require such certificate (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 73).

It seems to have been laid down in Duncan v. Dowding, (1897) 1 Q.B. 575, that in order to justify a constable's demand to enter under the section, some reasonable ground must exist for suspecting a violation of the Licensing Acts; but it is submitted that the true test to determine whether the right of entry exists or not is whether the constable has a bona fide intention of detecting or preventing the violation of the Licensing Acts, which seems to have been the test applied in the earlier decision of R. v. Dobbins, (1883) 48 J.P. 182.

Where the licence was to sell "in the dwelling-house of the said T., and in the premises thereunto belonging," it was held that a refusal to admit a constable into an outhouse forming portion of the premises was an offence against 4 & 5 Wm. 4, c. 85, s. 7 (R. v. Tott, (1861) 4 L.T. 306). The words "house or place" in any Act relating to the sale of intoxicating liquor shall extend to "every room, closet, cellar, yard, stable, outhouse, shed, or any other place whatsoever, of, belonging, or in any manner appertaining to such house or place" (Spirits (Ir.) Act, 1854, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 89, s. 12).<sup>3</sup>

Where a publican's wife, who had no general authority to manage the premises, at a time when her husband was in charge, but without his knowledge, refused to admit a constable. Held, that under the circumstances the husband was not liable for the acts of his wife

<sup>1</sup> Other statutes providing penalties for opposing, refusing, or delaying to admit justice or constable seeking to enter licensed premises are:—3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 68, ss. 15, 17, 18 (search for tipplers, gamblers, &c., during prohibited hours); 6 & 7 Wm. 4, c. 38, ss. 10 & 11 (search for illegal assemblies, secret societies, &c.); 8 & 9 Vict. c. 64, s. 2 (spirit grocer's premises during hours of sale); 23 & 24 Vict. c. 107, s. 20 (person licensed as refreshment-house keeper, or servant, or other person in his employ, or by his direction, refusing to admit, or not admitting police officer seeking to enter premises between 9 p.m. and 7 a.m.)—Penalty, on information made within seven days, first offence, not exceeding £5 and costs; on second conviction licence may be forfeited, and defendant disqualified for two years, or shorter period: 17 & 18 Vict. c. 89, s. 5 (premises which are not licensed may be entered by justice, or by constable under authority of justice's warrant, see p. 572, post).—Penalty for delaying or refusing to admit, not exceeding £2, or less than 10s., or imprisonment not less than one week, or more than a fortnight). A warrant may also be granted under the Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 24, to search unlicensed premises for intoxicating liquors kept or sold contrary to law. A justice or constable can enter the premises of spirit grocers during prohibited hours, for the purpose of removing persons unlawfully there (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 87). A justice or constable can enter the premises of a spirit grocer at any time whilst open for sale; excise penalty on spirit grocer for opposing, obstructing, or delaying entrance, £2 (Spirits (Ir.) Act, 1845, s. 2; Spirits (Ir.) Act, 1854, s. 2).

<sup>2</sup> A dealer's licence authorizes the sale at any one time to one person of liquor in the following quantities:—(a) in the case of spirits, wine, or sweets, in any quantity not less than two gallons, or not less than one dozen reputed quart bottles; and (b) in the case of beer or cider in any quantity not less than four and a half gallons, or not less than two dozen reputed quart bottles (Finance (1909-10) Act, 1910, 10 Ed. 7, c. 8, First Schedule). As to the grant of licences to spirit grocers, see p. 121, ante, and to publicans, see p. 110, ante.

<sup>3</sup> Probably this definition applies only for the purpose of extending the right to enter licensed premises to out-houses, &c., see judgment of Wright, J., in Murnane v. Adams, (1910) 2 I.R. 175, at p. 186; and of Holmes, L.J., in R. (Blackburn) v. Down JJ., (1905) 2 I.R. 74, at p. 99.

(Caswell v. Hundred JJ., (1890) 54 J.P. 87; see also Brownrigg v. Mulligan, K.B.D. (Ir.), 9 Oct., 1910, unreported,<sup>1</sup> noted p. 571, post.)

An officer of excise and his assistants may, by night or day (if between 11 p.m. and 5 a.m., after request, and in the presence of a constable or peace officer, except in such cases as are otherwise specially provided for by any Excise Act), enter into and remain as long as such officer shall think fit, in any building or place belonging to or used by any person for the purpose of carrying on a trade subject to the excise laws, or belonging to or used by any person required to make entry of such building or place according to such laws, for the purpose of inspection, or taking account and charging excise duty (Excise Management Act, 1826, 7 & 8 Geo. 4, c. 53, s. 22)—Excise penalty on hindering officers, etc., in the execution of their duty, £100 (Inland Revenue Regulation Act, 1890, 53 & 54 Vict. c. 21, s. 11).

Admittance of excise officer.

"If any person so licensed as aforesaid" (i.e., licensed under the Act to sell wine by retail) "shall mix, or cause to be mixed, any spirits or any drugs or other pernicious ingredients, with any wine sold in his house or premises, or shall fraudulently dilute, or in any ways adulterate any such wine, or shall sell or offer for sale any wine which, to the knowledge of such person, has been so mixed, diluted or adulterated"—Penalty, first offence, not less than £10 nor more than £20; second offence, disqualification for selling wine by retail for 5 years, or penalty not less than £20 nor more than £60 (Refreshment Houses (Ir.) Act, 1860, 23 & 24 Vict. c. 107, s. 31); third offence, penalty, £50 and costs of conviction (s. 32).

Adulteration.

"(1) A brewer of beer for sale shall not adulterate beer, or add any matter or thing thereto (except finings for the purpose of clarification, or other matter or thing sanctioned by the Commissioners of Inland Revenue) before the same is delivered for consumption; and any beer found to be adulterated or mixed with any other matter or thing (except as aforesaid) in the possession of a brewer of beer for sale shall be forfeited, and the brewer shall incur a fine<sup>2</sup> of £50. (2) A dealer in or retailer of beer shall not adulterate or dilute beer, or add any matter or thing thereto (except finings for the purpose of clarification); and any beer found to be adulterated, or diluted, or mixed with any other matter or thing (except finings) in the possession of a dealer in or retailer of beer shall be forfeited, and he shall incur a fine<sup>2</sup> of £50" (Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1885, 48 & 49 Vict. c. 51, s. 8).

Mixing strong and weak beer, except in small quantities, in the presence and at the request of the purchaser, is a dilution of the stronger beer within the section (Crofts v. Taylor, (1887) 19 Q.B.D. 524).

"Where a licensed person or a spirit grocer is convicted of any offence against the provisions of any Act for the time being in force relating to the adulteration of drink, such conviction shall be entered in the proper register of licences, and may be directed to be recorded on the licence or excise licence of the offender, in the same manner as if the conviction were for an offence against the principal Act,<sup>3</sup> and when so recorded shall have effect as if it had been a conviction for an offence against the principal Act" (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 22). As to the effect of such conviction, see also p. 581.

"If any licensed person bribes, or attempts to bribe, any constable"—Bribing Penalty, not exceeding, first offence £10; subsequent offence, £20 constable. (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 16). Conviction is recordable (see p. 580).

<sup>1</sup> At time of going to press, but see INDEX OF CASES.

<sup>2</sup> Excise penalty.

<sup>3</sup> That is the Licensing Act, 1872.

Brothel, permitting
licensed premises to be used as.

"If any licensed person is convicted of permitting his premises to be a brothel, he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £20, and shall forfeit his licence, and he shall be disqualified for ever from holding any licence for the sale of intoxicating liquors" (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 15).

As to what amounts to keeping a brothel, see BROTHEL, p. 390, ante.

CHILDREN, OFFENCES AS TO.

	PAGE		PAGE
Children. offences as to.	Children, offences as to—	Children, offences as to—
	Sale of spirits to child under sixteen for "on" consumption, . . . . .	Exclusion of children from bars of licensed premises, . . . . .	541
	Sale of liquor to child under fourteen, . . . . .	Drunkenness in charge of a child under 7, . . . . .	542
	Sending child under fourteen for liquor, . . . . .	Offences are not recordable, . . . . .	543

Sale of spirits to person under sixteen.

"Every holder of a licence who sells, or allows any person to sell, to be consumed on the premises, any description of spirits to any person apparently under the age of sixteen years"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, 20s.; subsequent offence, 40s. (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 7).

Sale of intoxicating liquor to child under fourteen.

"Every holder of a licence who knowingly sells or delivers, or allows any person to sell or deliver, save at the residence or working place of the purchaser, any description of intoxicating liquor to any person under the age of fourteen years, for consumption by any person on or off the premises, excepting such intoxicating liquors as are sold or delivered in corked and sealed vessels in quantities not less than one reputed pint<sup>1</sup> for consumption off the premises only"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, 40s.; subsequent offence, £5 (Intoxicating Liquors (Sale to Children) Act, 1901, 1 Ed. 7, c. 27, s. 2).

Sending child to licensed premises for intoxicating liquor.

"Every person who knowingly sends any person under the age of fourteen years to any place where intoxicating liquors are sold or delivered or distributed, for the purpose of obtaining any description of intoxicating liquor, excepting as aforesaid, for consumption by any person on or off the premises, shall be liable to like penalties" (Intoxicating Liquors (Sale to Children) Act, 1901, s. 2).

"Nothing in this Act shall prevent the employment by a licensed person of a member of his family or his servant or apprentice as a messenger to deliver intoxicating liquors" (s. 3).

"Corked."

"The term 'corked' means closed with a plug or stopper, whether it is made of cork or wood or glass or some other material. The expression 'sealed' means secured with any substance without the destruction of which the cork, plug, or stopper cannot be withdrawn" (s. 5).

"Sealed."

The true test as to whether the stopper complies with the Act is:—Is it so secure that the child cannot get at the liquor without the abstraction of the liquor being detected? (Mitchell v. Craushaw, (1903) 1 K.B. 701; see also Macey v. McKenzie, (1903) 88 L.T. 631).

No offence is committed if the liquor is sold in a vessel corked and sealed, even though the liquor is not of a kind commonly sold in a corked and sealed vessel (Jones v. Shervington, (1908) 2 K.B. 539, in which case the child was sent with an empty bottle, which was filled, corked, and sealed, and returned to the child, and it was held that no offence was committed).

"Knowingly."

A licensed person cannot be convicted under the Act of 1901 if he sells liquor to a child under fourteen, honestly believing that he has attained that age (Groom v. Grimes, (1903) 89 L.T. 129). The word "knowingly" in s. 2 of the Act of 1901 does not apply to the words "sold and delivered in corked and sealed vessels," and a defendant is therefore liable to be convicted notwithstanding that he honestly believed (contrary to the fact) that he had secured the stopper in conformity with the Act (Brooks v. Mason, (1902) 2 K.B. 743).

<sup>1</sup> Reputed pint is not defined in this or any statute. It is about the twelfth part of a gallon. (See article in 66 J.P., p. 507.)

Children,
offences as to.

A child was sent by the defendant with an empty bottle for half a pint of beer. The publican gave the child the beer in the bottle, which was corked, but not sealed. Held, that the defendant was guilty of an offence under s. 2, for the mere fact that the vessel with which a child is sent to fetch liquor is capable of being corked and sealed by the vendor after being filled is not enough to bring the sender within the exception (Farndale v. Dillon, (1907) 2 K.B. 513). Seem, the sending of a child for less than a reputed pint is, under any circumstances, an offence (ib.).

Sending child
with bottle.

No offence is committed if a child is sent merely to order and pay for liquor, delivery being made by the publican's own messenger (McIlroy v. Kenny, (1906) 40 I.L.T.R. 138, Recorder of Dublin). But as to permitting child to be in the bar of a licensed premises, see s. 120 of Children Act, 1908, noted infra.

Child mere verbal messenger.

A licensed person is not responsible under the Act of 1901 for the unauthorized acts of his servant unless the servant is in charge of the licensed premises (Emary v. Nolloth, (1903) 2 K.B. 264; Conlan v. Muldowney, (1904) 2 I.R. 498). If a licensed person or his manager is on the premises, and in control of the business, though not actually in the bar or shop, such licensed person or manager is to be deemed the person in charge (Allchorn v. Hopkins, (1905) 69 J.P. 355; McKenna v. Harding, (1905) 69 J.P. 354). Where the premises are left in charge of a manager, the licensed person will be responsible for the sale by the manager; but he will not be responsible for an unauthorized sale by another servant, without the knowledge or connivance of the manager, at a time when the manager was in charge (Allchorn v. Hopkins, supra; R. (Steadman) v. Lowe, (1908) 42 I.L.T.R. 149). In the above cases the assistants were forbidden to supply liquor to children save in conformity with the Act; and it has been held in Scotland, under the identical Scotch section (3 Ed. 7, c. 25, s. 59), that the publican is responsible for the acts of any servant to whom he has not given definite instructions not to supply children under fourteen years of age (Greig v. Macleod, (1908) S.C. (J.) 14).

Acts of publican's
servant.

"(1) The holder of the licence of any licensed premises shall not allow a child<sup>1</sup> to be at any time in the bar of the licensed premises, except during the hours of closing. (2) If the holder of a licence acts in contravention of this section, or if any person causes or procures, or attempts to cause or procure, any child to go to or be in the bar of any licensed premises except during the hours of closing, he shall be liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding, in respect of the first offence, 40s., and in respect of any subsequent offence, £5. (3) If a child is found in the bar of any licensed premises, except during the hours of closing, the holder of the licence shall be deemed to have committed an offence under this section, unless he shows that he has used due diligence to prevent the child being admitted to the bar, or that the child was apparently a person over the age of fourteen. (4) Nothing in this section shall apply in the case of any child of the licence-holder, or in the case of a child who is resident, but not employed, in the licensed premises, or who is in the bar of licensed premises solely for the purpose of passing through in order to obtain access to or egress from some other part of the premises, not being a bar, where there is no other convenient means of access to or

Exclusion
from bars.

<sup>1</sup> Meaning a person under the age of fourteen years (s. 131). Where a child appears to be under the age of fourteen, he shall be presumed to be under that age till the contrary is proved (s. 123 (2)).

Children.
offences as to.

Exclusion
from bars.

“Bar.”

Mixed
business.

egress from that part of the premises, or in the case of railway refreshment rooms or other premises constructed, fitted, and intended to be used in good faith for any purpose to which the holding of a licence is merely auxiliary. (5) In this section the bar of licensed premises means any open drinking bar or any part of the premises exclusively or mainly used for the sale and consumption of intoxicating liquor; and the expressions ‘licence’ and ‘licensed premises’ have the same meaning as in the Licensing Acts, [1828 to 1906]” (Children Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 67, s. 120).

“The provisions of section one hundred and twenty of this Act (relative to the exclusion of children from bars of licensed premises) shall not apply in the case of any child going to or being upon licensed premises, if a substantial part of the business carried on upon the premises is a drapery, grocery, hardware, or other business wholly unconnected with the sale of intoxicating liquor, and the child, or the person (if any) in whose custody the child is, goes to or is upon the premises for the purpose of purchasing goods other than intoxicating liquor for consumption on the premises; and the reference in the said section to the Licensing Acts, 1828 to 1906, shall be construed as a reference to the Licensing (Ireland) Acts, 1833 to 1905” (Children Act, 1908, s. 133 (29)).

The word “allow” in s. 120, on the analogy of the cases noted under GAMING, p. 546, post, would seem to imply knowledge on the part of the licence-holder or his servant in charge.

A girl of ten had gone to the licensed premises of the appellant in the evening with an elder sister to see the appellant’s wife, who was a dress-maker and carried on business in a room on the upper floor of the premises, about a dress she was making for the elder girl. When the two girls entered the licensed premises the appellant’s wife saw them and, without the appellant’s knowledge, invited them to wait in the bar parlour while she went to her work-room to bring down the dress, so as to avoid the necessity of lighting up the work-room, which was almost in darkness. The girls went into the bar parlour and waited there for the dress to be brought. While they were so waiting, there were no customers in the bar parlour, nor was any intoxicating liquor sold there during that time. The appellant did not see the two girls enter, nor did he know they were in the bar parlour until his attention was called to their presence by police officers who had entered. There was no finding that there was any negligence in fact on the part of the appellant, or that the wife conducted or took any part in the management of the publichouse. The justices convicted the appellant, being of opinion that he was responsible for the action of his wife, and so was guilty of an offence under the Act in allowing the younger of the two girls to be on the licensed premises, while those premises were open. Held, that the conviction must be quashed, as in the circumstances the appellant was not responsible for the action of his wife (Russon v. Dutton, (1911) 27 T.L.R. 198). Quære, is a bar parlour part of the bar (ib.).

Defendant not competent witness.

In a charge under s. 120, there seems to be no power to examine the defendant, or the husband or wife of the defendant, as the provisions of s. 133 (28) make a defendant, or the husband or wife of the defendant, competent witnesses only in charges under Part II of the Act, and the provisions of the Licensing Acts (see p. 579) are not made applicable.

Performance by children.

Drunkenness
in charge of child.

As to performance by children in licensed premises, see Prevention of Cruelty to Children Act, 1904, s. 2 (b) noted p. 400, supra.

“Any person found drunk . . . on any licensed premises while in charge of a child apparently under the age of seven years may be apprehended, and shall, if the child is under that age, be guilty of an offence”<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> A justice interested in licensed premises can act in proceedings under this section. See p. 550.

—Penalty, not exceeding 40s. or imprisonment, with or without hard labour, not exceeding one month (Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1908, s. 9 (1)). "If the child appears to the Court to be under the age of seven, the child shall, for the purpose of this section, be deemed to be under that age unless the contrary is proved" (s. 9 (2)).

Children,
offences as to.

None of the above offences by licensed persons as to children are recordable (see R. (Haslett) v. Fermanagh J.J., (1903) 37 I.L.T.R. 120).

Offences are not recordable.

A sale of liquor in a club is merely a manner of distributing the joint property of the members, and no licence is required therefor (Graff v. Evans, (1882) Q.B.D. 373). The club, however, must be a bona fide club (Lynam v. O'Reilly, (1898) 2 I.R. 48), and registered under the Registration of Clubs (Ir.) Act, 1904; and moreover the "sale" must be to a member either for consumption by himself or by a visitor (Stevens v. Wood, (1890) 54 J.P. 742); and if for "off" consumption, must take place between 8 a.m. and 10 p.m. (Registration of Clubs (Ir.) Act, 1904, ss. 8, 4 (h)). As to penalty for supplying, &c., liquor in unregistered club, and other offences, see the statute of 1904, APPENDIX OF STATUTES; and as to necessity to furnish statement to Inland Revenue of purchases of intoxicating liquors, see p. 128, ante.

Clubs.

"If any person holding any of the licences specified in the First Schedule to this Act contravenes the terms of the licence, or sells otherwise than as he is authorized by the licence, or contravenes any of the provisions applicable to the licence under that Schedule, he shall be liable in respect of each offence, if the offence is not an offence for which any specific penalty is imposed by any Act relating to excise duties or licences, to an excise penalty of £50" (Finance (1909-10) Act, 1910, s. 50 (4)).

Contravening terms of
licence.

The licences mentioned in the First Schedule are:—(a) Manufacturers' licences, spirits, beer, and sweets; (b) wholesale dealers' licences, spirits, beer, wine, and sweets; (c) retailers' "on" and "off" licences, spirits, beer, cider, wine, sweets; (d) passenger vessel licences; (e) railway restaurant car licences; (f) occasional licences.

Any owner or occupier of a tavern, publichouse, or house licensed for the sale of spirits, refusing to receive therein a dead body, upon order of a coroner, until an inquest is held, may be fined by such coroner not more than 40s. (Coroners (Ir.) Act, 1846, 9 & 10 Vict. c. 37, s. 36).

Dead body. refusing to receive.

Distilling or making low wines or spirits without a licence—Excise penalty, £500 (Excise Licences Act, 1825, 6 Geo. 4, c. 81, s. 26).

Distillation.

"No person may, without being licensed to do so, or on any premises to which his licence does not extend, (a) have or use a still for distilling, rectifying, or compounding spirits; or (b) brew or make wort or wash, or distil low wines,<sup>1</sup> feints,<sup>2</sup> or spirits; or (c) rectify or compound spirits"—Penalty, £500, with forfeiture of spirits and utensils and materials (Spirits Act, 1880, 43 & 44 Vict. c. 24, s. 5). Penalty recoverable and forfeiture obtained as in excise cases (s. 156), as to which see p. 76.

Generally.

The Spirits Act, 1880, creates a large number of highly technical offences by licensed distillers, which cannot be here enumerated.

Each of the penalties mentioned hereinafter under the Illicit Distillation (Ir.) Act, 1831, 1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 55, is subject to mitigation under ss. 39, 40 thereof, as to which see post, p. 545.

Illicit Distillation
Act, 1831.

Chemist using still of more than 50 gallons capacity, unless specially authorized—Penalty, £50 (Illicit Distillation (Ir.) Act, 1831, s. 10).

Chemists.

Still-maker to admit Excise officers and comply with specified Excise requirements—Penalty, £60 (s. 11). Persons importing into Ireland stills under 200 gallons to give notice to Excise authority—Penalty, £60 (s. 12). Possession of stills under 200 gallons not marked by Excise—Penalty, £60, Miscellaneous.

<sup>1</sup> That is, spirits of the first extraction conveyed into a low wines receiver (s. 7).

<sup>2</sup> Spirits conveyed into a low wine receiver (s. 3).

Distillation.
Act of 1831.
Distilling or having in possession.

and still to be forfeited (s. 13). Sending still, still-head, or worm without permit—Penalty, £100, and forfeiture of article so sent (s. 14).

“Every person, other than a licensed distiller, brewer, or maker of vinegar, who shall brew or make or shall have in his possession any worts, wash, or pot-ale (except for the purpose of being made into beer for the private use of such person, the proof whereof shall lie on such person); and every person, other than a licensed distiller, who shall distil or have in his possession any low wines or singlings; and every person not being duly licensed to keep or use a still, who shall have or keep any still, still-head, or worm of a still; and every person who shall, without being lawfully authorized thereto, have in his possession, or in any dwelling-house, or in any out-building, place, or premises occupied by him, any worts, wash, or pot-ale (except as aforesaid), or any low wines or singlings, or any still, still-head, or worm of a still, whether such wort, wash, or pot-ale, or low wines or singlings, or still-head, or worm, shall or shall not be the property of such person, shall forfeit £100 . . . and all such worts, wash, or pot-ale, low wines, and singlings, stills, still-heads, and worms shall be forfeited, and may be seized by any officer of Excise” (s. 16).

A conviction that the defendant had a still, still-head, or worm of a still, without specifying which, is bad (R. (Moore) v. Wexford JJ., (1903) 37 I.L.T.R. 643; 3 N.I.J.R. 129).

To constitute an offence under this section the house or place where illicit spirits are found must be one in which illicit distillation was intended to be, was being, or had been carried on (Doherty v. McClelland, (1890) 28 L.R.I. 168).

*Justice's
warrant.
Still found.*

A justice's warrant to break open and search suspected premises, and to seize stills, &c., may be granted upon oath of an officer of Excise (s. 17).<sup>1</sup> Proprietor and occupier of house in which stills, &c., found—Penalty, £100 (ib.). Persons obstructing officers—Penalty, £100 (ib.).

Search without warrant.

Officer of Excise may without warrant, search for and seize private stills, &c., and proprietors and persons obstructing shall be subject to the same penalty as if the officers had a special warrant; finding of illicit articles to be a justification of forcible entry (s. 18).

Place for illicit distillation.

Persons found in any room or place<sup>2</sup> where illegal distillation or malting is in process shall forfeit £100, and may be arrested and taken before a justice (s. 19).

Seizure, &c.

Officers may spill and destroy all spirits, materials, and utensils found at unlawful distillery (s. 20).

*Harbouring,
&c.*

Justice of the peace, landlord, or his bailiff may seize stills, &c. (s. 21).

“Every person who shall harbour, keep, or conceal, or shall knowingly permit to be harboured, kept, or concealed, or shall give aid, or assistance, or reward, to any person to harbour, keep, or conceal, any spirits unlawfully made or distilled, or the full duties whereon have not been paid”—Penalty, £100 (s. 22).

Possession of spirits.

“Every person who shall have in his custody or possession any spirits, in any quantity whatsoever, the full duties whereon shall not have been fully paid, or any spirits in any quantity exceeding one gallon, which shall not have been duly and legally permitted and attended with a proper permit to him”—Penalty, £100 (s. 23). “Upon the trial or hearing of any proceedings for the recovery of such penalty the defendant shall be convicted, unless due proof shall be made by such defendant, that the full duties on such spirits had been duly paid, or that such spirits were bought by or for such defendant, and received from a licensed distiller, or some person licensed to sell spirits, or that the same were attended with a proper permit to such defendant" (s. 23). Distillation.

<sup>1</sup> The powers conferred on an officer of Excise are extended to police constables (Illicit Distillation (Ir.) Act, 1857, 20 & 21 Vict. c. 40, s. 5), and to officers of Customs (Inland Revenue Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 91, s. 22).

<sup>2</sup> In R. (Wall) v. Gallagher, (1896) 31 I.L.T.R. 156, it was held in the county court that an open bog was not a place within the section; see cases under “Gaming,” p. 499, as to meaning of “place” within the Gaming Acts.

Act of 1831.

Selling or delivering spirits illicitly distilled, or on which the full duties have not been paid—Penalty, £100 (s. 24). Selling.

Persons removing or carrying stills or spirits may be stopped by officer, and if they have no permit, or if spirits are illicitly distilled; shall forfeit £100, together with stills and spirits, and may be arrested and taken before a justice (s. 25). Removing stills or spirits.

Owners, part owners, &c., of illicit stills, spirits, &c., to forfeit £100 (s. 27). Owners of stills.

Persons permitting private maltings, or distilling in their house, land, or premises—Penalty, £60 (s. 28). Permitting.

Forcibly opposing officers of excise, or being found armed to assist in removing contraband articles, felony (s. 29). Opposing officers.

Making signals, or giving notice to persons engaged in illicit distilling of approach of excise officers—Penalty, £10 (s. 30). Signalling.

Penalties may be mitigated to not less than £6 (s. 39), in case of a second conviction not to be mitigated to less than double the former penalty (s. 40). Mitigation of penalties.

The procedure in respect of offences against 1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 55, may be either under the Petty Sessions Act<sup>1</sup> (Illicit Distillation (Ir.) Act, 1857, 20 & 21 Vict. c. 40, s. 6), or as provided for by section 31 of the 1 and 2 Wm. 4, c. 55 (Inland Revenue Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 91, s. 18). By said section 31, all penalties may be sued for, prosecuted, and recovered by an action of debt or information in the Superior Courts in the name of the Attorney-General or of some officer of Excise, or on complaint before justices in manner set forth in sections 32, et seq. Whichever procedure is adopted, apparently two justices are necessary (Inland Revenue Act, 1861, s. 18); and the provisions of section 22 of the Petty Sessions Act, 1851, under which justices have power to give time for the payment of the penalty do not apply (Inland Revenue Act, 1867, 30 & 31 Vict. c. 90, s. 14), but as to mitigation, see supra. Whichever proceeding be adopted, a complainant or defendant may appeal; the appeal is to the next quarter sessions after the expiration of twenty days from the judgment appealed from (7 & 8 Geo. 4, c. 53, 4 & 5 Wm. 4, c. 51, 4 Vict. c. 20, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 91, s. 19), according to the procedure noted, APPEALS TO QUARTER SESSIONS, p. 139. An appeal lies from a dismissal without prejudice (R. (M'Alister) v. Tyrone JJ., (1897) 31 I.L.T.R. 81).

Police officers (Illicit Distillation (Ir.) Act, 1857, s. 5), and officers of Customs (Inland Revenue Act, 1861, s. 22) have the same power as an excise officer under 1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 55. Powers of police.

As to the offence of DRUNKENNESS, see p. 425.

"No person licensed to sell spirits by retail to be consumed on the premises or otherwise . . . shall, on any occasion or pretence whatsoever, hang out or display, or suffer to be hung out or displayed, on, from, or out of such house or other place of sale any sign, flag, symbol, colour, decoration, or emblem whatsoever, except the known and usual and accustomed sign of such house or other place of sale usually fixed thereto in the way of business"—Penalty, £2.<sup>2</sup> Licence not to be renewed without certificate at quarter sessions that the justices consider such licensed person, notwithstanding such conviction, a fit person to be licensed, on condition of his not again committing a like offence; on second conviction, licence is absolutely forfeited and offender disqualified Drunkenness.
Emblems.

<sup>1</sup> But it is submitted that s. 6 of the Act of 1857 gives no right to award costs. The Act of 1831 itself gives no right to award costs.

<sup>2</sup> See p. 578 n. as to power of mitigating this penalty.

Emblems.

for ever (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1836, 6 & 7 Wm. 4, c. 38, s. 8). The provisions of the Petty Sessions Act are applicable (Petty Sessions (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1863).

An offence under this section is prima facie an offence of a serious nature, and cannot be treated as an offence of a trivial nature within the meaning of the Probation of Offenders Act, 1907, unless circumstances be proved before the justices which justify them in so treating it (Glasgow v. O'Connor, (1911) 45 I.L.T.R. 5).

Entry of licensed premises with excise.

Various Acts of Parliament have rendered necessary the entry at the office of excise, by persons carrying on business for which an excise licence is required, of the premises in which the business is carried on, e.g., wine retailers, under the Refreshment Houses (Ir.) Act, 1860. It may be taken that an entry is required of all premises used either for the manufacture or the sale of spirits.

The entry must be in the name of the real owner, who has attained twenty-one years of age (Excise Management Act, 1827, 7 & 8 Geo. 4, c. 53, s. 20). Persons employed in unentered excise manufactories liable to fine and imprisonment—Excise penalty, first offence, £30; second offence, £60 (s. 33). Any person carrying on any trade or business under or subject to any excise laws, and required to make entry of any house, building, place, vessel, or utensil, neglecting to make entry—Excise penalty, £200 (Excise Management Act, 1834, 4 & 5 Wm. 4, c. 51, s. 6). An entry may be made by a corporation carrying on business (see the Revenue Act, 1898, 61 & 62 Vict. c. 46, s. 15 (2)). The person signing the entry to be responsible (s. 15 (3)). Entry may be made by a married woman whose husband has become insane or incapable of transacting affairs, or who may be separated from her and out of the kingdom (Excise Management Act, 1841, 4 & 5 Vict. c. 20, s. 7). On the transfer of any licence, the transferee must make a fresh entry in his own name (Excise Licences Act, 1825, 6 Geo. 4, c. 81, s. 21). Dealer in or retailer of wine to enter his premises—Excise penalty, £50 and forfeiture of liquor (Excise Act, 1835, 5 & 6 Wm. 4, c. 39, s. 4).

Entry with clerk of peace.

Licensed person must enter his premises with clerk of the peace, and pay him a fee of two shillings and sixpence<sup>1</sup>—Penalty for non-compliance, £10 (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1833, 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 68, s. 10; Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, 37 & 38 Vict. c. 69, s. 15; Revenue Act, 1898, 61 & 62 Vict. c. 46, s. 16). In Dublin an entry must also be made with the divisional justices, and a fee of ten shillings paid—Excise penalty, £2 (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1833, s. 12).

Exemption order.

Holder of exemption order making default in affixing or keeping affixed to his premises notice of the order as prescribed—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 11). Non-holder of such order affixing such notice—Penalty, not exceeding £10 (ib.). Neglecting to produce exemption order on demand by justice of the peace, constable, or peace officer—Penalty, not exceeding £10 (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 64).

As to grant of exemption order, see p. 125, ante.

Flags.

As to displaying flags, see EMBLEMS, supra.<sup>2</sup>

Gaming. suffering.

"If any licensed person (1) suffers any gaming or any unlawful game to be carried on on his premises; or (2) opens, keeps, or uses, or suffers his house to be opened, kept, or used in contravention of the Betting Act, 1853"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £10; subsequent offence, £20 (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 17). Conviction is recordable; see p. 580.

As to what are unlawful games, see p. 496.

The playing of any game, whether a game of skill or not, for any stakes, however small, is gaming within the section (R. v. Ashton, (1852)

<sup>1</sup> This applies also to a renewal (Hawkins v. M'Loughlin, (1851) 14 I.C.L.R. App. 1).

<sup>2</sup> For other penalties on licensed persons and persons gaming during prohibited hours, see 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 68, ss. 15, 19; 6 & 7 Wm. 4, c. 38, ss. 6, 12.

1 E. & B. 286; Patten v. Rhymer, (1860) 3 E. & E. 1; Danford v. Taylor, Gaming, (1869) 20 L.T. 483; Luff v. Leaper, (1872) 36 J.P. 773; Dyson v. Mason, suffering. (1889) 22 Q.B.D. 351; Craig v. Boyan, (1901) 2 I.R. 429). To constitute gaming, however, the game played must be one which involves the element of wagering; each player must have a chance of losing as well as of winning; therefore a whist drive, played for prizes presented by non-players, is not gaming (Lockwood v. Cooper, (1903) 2 K.B. 428). Betting on horse races is not gaming within the first part of the section; and a licensed person who merely allows bets on horses to be made on his premises does not "suffer gaming" to be carried on thereon within the meaning of the section (Keep v. Stephens, (1909) 100 L.T. 491).

To sustain a conviction for suffering gaming or any unlawful game to be carried on, the prosecution must prove either actual knowledge or connivance on the part of the licensed person, or actual knowledge or connivance on the part of the servant who is in charge of the licensed premises, or of that portion of the licensed premises in which the gaming is carried on (Avards v. Dance, (1862) 26 J.P. 437; Bosley v. Davies, (1875) 1 Q.B.D. 84; Redgate v. Haynes, (1876) 1 Q.B.D. 89; Crabtree v. Hole, (1879) 43 J.P. 799; Somerset v. Hart, (1884) 12 Q.B.D. 360; Bond v. Evans, (1888) 21 Q.B.D. 249: see also MASTER AND SERVANT, p. 293, et seq.).

The offence is committed if a lodger is allowed to carry on gaming (Redgate v. Haynes, (1875) 1 Q.B.D. 49); or if gaming is carried on, either in portion of the premises retained by the licensed person for his own use (Patten v. Rhymer, (1860) 3 E. & E. 1), or in any part of the premises (Hare v. Osborne, (1876) 34 L.T. 294; R. (M'Nally) v. Murphy, (1908) 42 I.L.T.R. 88), by the private friends of the publican, bona fide entertained by him at his own expense. And it follows from these decisions as to private friends that gaming carried on by the servants or the family of the licensed person, even during closing hours and in their private apartments, is, in strict law, an offence under the section.

A licensed person cannot be convicted in respect of the same transaction both under this section and section 3 of the Betting Act, 1853 (Sims v. Pay, (1889) 60 L.T. 602).

As to using premises as a betting-house, see GAMING, p. 495, ante.

"A person shall not (a) subject any cask to any process for the purpose of abstracting any spirits absorbed in the wood thereof; or (b) have on his premises any cask which is being subjected to any such process, or any spirits extracted from the wood of any cask"—Excise penalty, £50; spirits to be deemed to be unlawfully kept or deposited within the Spirits Act, 1880, casks to be forfeited (Finance Act, 1898, 61 & 62 Vict. c. 10, s. 4). Grogging spirit casks.

In order to convict of the offence of having on the premises spirits extracted from the wood of a cask, the spirits must have been extracted either by an active process intentionally applied to the cask for that purpose, or by allowing the cask to remain in a position where it would be affected by the external temperature, with the knowledge that the temperature would cause the spirits to exude from the wood and collect in the bottom of the cask; the innocent possession of spirits which have, owing to the operation of natural causes and without any intent on the part either of the owners or their servants, exuded from the wood and collected at the bottom of the cask does not amount to the possession of "spirits extracted" from the wood of the cask within the section (Robinson v. Dixon, (1903) 2 K.B. 701). Apparently an offence is committed in respect of each cask unlawfully treated (Lord Advocate v. Stewart, (1899) 63 J.P. 311). An allegation that water was put into the cask for the purpose of keeping the wood sweet is no defence (Lord Advocate v. Carse, (1899) 63 J.P. 472). The Scotch Courts have held that there is power to mitigate the penalties (Lord Advocate v. Stewart, supra; Lord Advocate v. Carse, supra). The owners of a cask may be liable for the acts of their servants, though committed without their knowledge or approval (Robinson v. Dixon, supra).

Harbouring
constable.

"If any licensed person (1) knowingly harbours or knowingly suffers to remain on his premises any constable during any part of the time appointed for such constable being on duty, unless for the purpose of keeping or restoring order or in execution of his duty; or (2) supplies any liquor or refreshment, whether by way of gift or sale, to any constable on duty, unless by authority of some superior officer of such constable"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £10; subsequent offence, £20 (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 16).<sup>1</sup> Conviction is recordable (see p. 580).

Knowledge is of the essence of the offence under either sub-section; and therefore, if the licensed person bona fide believes that the police constable is off duty, he is not liable to a conviction for supplying him with liquor (Sherras v. De Rutzen, (1895) 1 Q.B. 918). The omission of the word "knowingly" in sub-section 2 merely shifts the burthen of proof of want of knowledge to the defendant (ib., per Day, J.).

A licensed person who supplied liquor to a constable, and allowed him to remain on the premises, was held rightly convicted of both offences—(1) supplying liquor, and (2) harbouring (R. (M'Manus) v. Meath JJ., (1898) 27 I.L.T.R. 127). The publican is responsible under the section for the acts of his servants (Mullins v. Collins, (1874) L.R. 9 Q.B. 292).

Harbouring
thieves.

Licensed person harbouring thieves, or knowingly allowing deposit of goods stolen—Penalty, not exceeding £10. Licence may on first offence, and must on second offence, be forfeited; second offence entails personal disqualification for two years; and where two convictions take place within three years with respect to the same premises, whether the person convicted is or is not the same, the court must direct that for a period of one year from the last conviction no licence shall be issued to anyone in respect of the premises, and if, thereupon, a licence be issued it is void. (Prevention of Crime Act, 1871, 34 & 35 Vict. c. 112, s. 10).<sup>2</sup>

Illegal assembly on licensed
premises.

"No person licensed to sell spirits by retail to be consumed on the premises or otherwise shall knowingly permit any body, union, society, or assembly of persons declared to be illegal, or prohibited by any law in force at the time of the passing of this Act; or any body, union, society, or assembly of persons who shall require from persons about to be admitted or being admitted thereto, or into the said body, union, society, or assembly any oath, test, solemn declaration, or affirmation not expressly allowed and required by law; or who shall observe on the admission of members or on any other proceeding any religious or other solemn mystery, rite, or ceremony, or seeming or pretended religious or other solemn mystery, rite, or ceremony not sanctioned by law; or who shall wear, bear, or display, on occasions of their meeting or assembling together, any arms, flags, colours, symbols, decorations, or emblems whatsoever, to meet or assemble, or hold a meeting or assembly on any occasion or pretence whatsoever, in the house or other place of sale of such person so licensed"—Penalty, £2<sup>3</sup>; "and the licence of such person convicted of such offence shall not be renewed by the proper officer of excise without the certificate of the justices at quarter sessions assembled, and of the assistant barrister attending said quarter sessions, that they consider such person to be, notwithstanding such conviction, a fit person to be licensed, on condition of his not again committing a like offence; and if any such person so convicted, and obtaining a renewal of his licence on said certificate, shall be again convicted of a like offence, such licence shall immediately on such second conviction become null and void to all intents and purposes whatsoever, and such person shall not be capable, at any time thereafter, of obtaining such licence: Provided, however, that nothing herein contained shall extend to any meeting of persons consisting exclusively of Freemasons, or members of the society called the Friendly Brothers" (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1836, s. 8).

<sup>1</sup> Other provisions as to harbouring constables are:—"On" licensee in a town within the Towns Improvement Act, 1854, harbouring or entertaining in his licensed premises constable while on duty, unless for the purpose of quelling disturbance or restoring order—Penalty, not exceeding 20s. (Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 103, s. 74). Like offence by such licensee anywhere—Penalty, not exceeding 20s. (Refreshment Houses (Ir.) Act, 1860, 23 & 24 Vict. c. 107, s. 41).

<sup>2</sup> As to procedure under this section, see PREVENTION OF CRIME.

<sup>3</sup> As to power of mitigation, see p. 578 n., post.

Illegal
assembly on licensed
premises.

"Every person who makes or uses, or allows to be made or used, any internal communication between any licensed premises and any unlicensed premises which are used for public entertainment or resort, or as a refreshment house"—Penalty, not exceeding £10 per day; and if offender is holder of a licence, forfeiture of licence (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 9). Like provision as to premises of a spirit grocer (s. 85).

Internal communication.

There is no definition, statutory or otherwise, of what are "premises used for public entertainment or resort" within this section. A private house and garden where a sale by public auction takes place is for the time being a "place of public resort" within the Vagrancy Act, 1824, 5 Geo. 4, c. 83, s. 4 (Sewell v. Taylor, (1859) 7 C.B.N.S. 160). A railway platform is also within the same section (Ex parte Davis, (1857) 26 L.J.M.C. 178). A booth used by strolling players is not a "place of public resort" within section 2 of the Theatres Act, 1843, 6 & 7 Vict. c. 68, which forbids the performance of stage plays without a licence, the decision apparently going upon the fact that the section was aimed at a place of a permanent character (Darys v. Douglas, (1859) 4 H. & N. 180). A "place of public resort" within section 36 of the Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1890, 53 & 54 Vict. c. 59,<sup>1</sup> is defined by that section to mean "a building, &c., used, or constructed or adapted to be used, either ordinarily or occasionally, as a church, chapel, or other place of public worship (not being merely a dwellinghouse so used), or as a theatre, public hall, public concert-room, public ball-room, public lecture-room, or public exhibition-room, or as a public place of assembly for persons admitted thereto by tickets or by payment; or used, or constructed, or adapted to be used, either ordinarily or occasionally, for any other public purpose; but shall not include a private dwellinghouse used occasionally or exceptionally for any of these purposes." For other cases, see Cole v. Coulton, (1860) 2 E. & E. 695; Turnbull v. Appleton, (1881) 45 J.P. 469; Langrish v. Archer, (1882) 10 Q.B.D. 44; O'Connor v. Symmott, (1902) 36 I.L.T.R. 239, 3 N.I.J.R. 35; Kitson v. Ashe, (1899) 1 Q.B. 425. "Entertainment" for the purposes of the Refreshment Houses (E.) Act, 23 & 24 Vict. c. 27, s. 6 (dealing with places of "public refreshment, resort, and entertainment"), means, having regard to the context, entertainment in the nature of refreshment; but, with reference to other Acts of Parliament, Pollock, C.B., said he should be strongly disposed to think the word meant amusement and gratification of some sort other than food, meat, and drink (Taylor v. Oram, (1862) 1 H. & C. 370; see also Terry v. Brighton Aquarium Co., (1875) L.R. 10 Q.B. 306; Warner v. Brighton Aq. Co., (1875) L.R. 10 Ex. 291; Reid v. Wilson, (1895) 1 Q.B. 315; Barter v. Langley, (1868) L.R. 4 C.P. 21). A refreshment house is a place of public resort (Taylor v. Oram, supra).

For the purpose of construing section 9 of the Act of 1872, the words, "place of public entertainment or resort," would probably receive a meaning cognate to the statutory definition contained in section 36 of the Public Health Act, 1890; and it is submitted that an ordinary draper's shop, for instance, would not be a place of public entertainment or resort within the section. A billiard-room has been held not to be a "place of public entertainment" within the Intoxicating Liquors (Ir.) Act, 1906, for the terms of which, see p. 564, post (Mercer v. O'Shaughnessy, 8 Dec., 1910, K.B.D. (Ir.), unreported<sup>1</sup>).

<sup>1</sup> Prescribing means of ingress to and egress from places of public resort.

Justice acting while disqualified.

"No justice shall act for any purpose under this Act, or under any of the Intoxicating Liquor Licensing Acts,<sup>2</sup> except in cases where the offence charged is that of being found drunk in any highway or other public place, whether a building or not, or on any licensed premises, or of being guilty while drunk of riotous or disorderly conduct, or of being drunk while in charge, on any highway or other public place, of any carriage, horse, cattle, or steam engine, or of being drunk when in possession of loaded fire-arms, who is or is in partnership with, or holds any share in any company which is a common brewer, distiller, maker of malt for sale, or retailer of malt, or of any intoxicating liquor in the licensing district, or in the district or districts adjoining to that in which such justice usually acts; and no justice shall act for any purpose under this Act, or under any of the Intoxicating Liquor Acts, in respect of any premises in the profits to<sup>3</sup> which such justice is interested, or of which he is wholly, or partly the owner, lessee, or occupier, or for the owner, lessee, or occupier of which he is manager or agent. Any justice hereby declared not to be qualified to act under this Act, who knowingly acts as a justice for any of the purposes of this Act, shall, for every such offence, be liable to a penalty not exceeding £100, to be recovered by action in one of Her Majesty's Superior Courts at [Dublin]<sup>4</sup>: Provided that (1) no justice shall be disqualified under this section to act in respect of any premises, by reason of his having vested in him a legal interest only, and not a beneficial interest in such premises or the profits thereof; (2) no justice shall be liable to a penalty for more than one offence committed by him under this section before the institution of any proceedings for the recovery of such penalty; (3) no act done by any justice disqualified by this section shall by reason only of such disqualification be invalid" (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 60).

An offence under section 9 of the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1908, 8 Ed. 7, c. 24, which enacts penalties on persons found drunk in charge of children, shall be deemed to be included in the list of offences mentioned in the above section (Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 24, s. 9).

Acting "knowingly" means acting deliberately (per Lord Russell of Killowen, C.J., in A.-G. v. Willet, (1896) 12 T.L.R. 494), and a justice who so acts is liable to the penalty, even if he acts in forgetfulness of the fact that he holds shares in a brewery in the district (A.-G. v. Ball, (1902) 66 J.P. 553). If no actual bias is attributable to the justice, his acts will not be invalid (R. v. Tempest, (1902) 18 T.L.R. 433; R. (Murphy) v. Kilkenny JJ., (1908) 42 I.L.T.R. 135). See also p. 215, et seq. ante.

Making or manufacturing without
licence.

"If any person makes or manufactures any intoxicating liquor, for the making or manufacture of which he is required to take out a licence under this Act, without taking out such a licence, he shall be liable in respect of each offence to an excise penalty of £500"<sup>5</sup> (Finance (1909-10) Act, 1910, 10 Ed. 7, c. 8, s. 50). The manufacturers' licences set forth in the schedule thereof are: distiller of spirits, rectifier, or compounder of

<sup>1</sup> But see INDEX OF CASES.

<sup>2</sup> Meaning the Acts authorizing the grant of a licence or of an Excise (i.e., spirit grocer's) licence (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 77).

<sup>3</sup> Sic.

<sup>4</sup> See s. 77.

<sup>5</sup> Recoverable as an Excise penalty, see p. 79.

spirits; brewer of beer for sale; brewer of beer not for sale; maker of sweets<sup>1</sup> for sale.

“Every person shall sell all intoxicating liquor which is sold by retail Measure. and not in cask or bottle, and is not sold in a quantity less than half a pint, in measures marked according to the imperial standards. Every person who acts, or suffers any person under his control or in his employment to act, in contravention of this section”—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £10, and subsequent offence, £20; with forfeiture of illegal measure on any conviction (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 8).

Where the liquor was poured into a standard and stamped measure, but not in the sight of the customer, and was afterwards poured into a jug which was handed to the customer, it was held that an offence had been committed, as the liquor should have reached the customer in the standard measure or been poured into same in his presence (Addy v. Blake, (1887) 19 Q.B.D. 478); but where the liquor is filled into a properly marked standard measure in the presence of the customer, no offence is committed, even though additional liquor be added to give what is known as the “long pull” (Pennington v. Pincock, (1908) 2 K.B. 244). Where the liquor sold exceeds half a pint, an offence is committed if sold in an illegal measure, even though such illegal measure contains a specific quantity, known by a local denomination which is asked for by the customer (Payne v. Thomas, (1890) 63 L.T. 456; Riddell v. Nelson, (1904) F. (J.C.) 57); but if the quantity sold be less than half a pint, no offence is committed under the section by reason of the sale of a quantity other than a known legal measure of capacity (Craig v. McPhee, (1884) 48 J.P. 115).

Wine retailer, if required, to sell wine (except wine in bottle and quantities less than half a pint) in standard measure—Penalty, not exceeding 40s. and forfeiture of illegal measure, complaint to be made within seven days (Refreshment Houses (Ir.) Act, 1860, 23 & 24 Vict. c. 107, s. 28).

See also WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

“Every licensed person shall cause to be painted or fixed, and shall Name over door. keep painted or fixed, on the premises in respect of which his licence is granted, in a conspicuous place, and in such form and manner as the Commissioners of Inland Revenue” (now “the licensing justices”—Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 26) “may from time to time direct, his name, with the addition after the name of the word ‘licensed,’ and of words sufficient, in the opinion of said Commissioners” (now “licensing justices”—Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 26), “to express the business for which his licence has been granted, and in particular of words expressing whether the licence authorizes the sale of intoxicating liquor to be consumed on or off the premises only, as the case may be; and no person shall have any words or letters on his premises importing that he is authorized as a licensed person to sell any intoxicating liquor which he is not in fact duly authorized to sell”—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £10; subsequent offence, £20” (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 11).

In the case of a six-day licence, the notice must indicate that the licence is a six-day licence (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 49), and in the case of an early-closing licence that the licence is an early-closing licence (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 2).

The holder of an exemption order must put a notice of same in a conspicuous place outside the premises—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 11).

<sup>1</sup> “Sweets” mean any liquor, made from fruit and sugar, which in the process of manufacture has been fermented (Revenue Act, 1889, s. 28).

Name over
door.

Every person required by the Excise Laws<sup>1</sup> to make entry of premises with Excise must cause his name to be painted in letters at least one inch long, with the word "licensed" and the nature of the business over the principal door or gate, and not more than three feet from the top—Excise penalty on breach, £20: unlicensed person putting up such name or sign—Penalty, £20 (Excise Licences Act, 1825, 6 Geo. 4, c. 81, s. 25).

It follows from McBride v. McGovern, (1906) 2. I.R. 181, that the affixing of the name in Irish will not be a compliance with any of the above enactments.

Occasional
licence.

"For the purpose of so much of the principal Act<sup>2</sup> as relates to offences against public order, that is to say, sections 12 to 18, both inclusive, and the sections for giving effect to the same, a person taking out an occasional licence shall be deemed to be a licensed person within the meaning of the said sections, and the place in which any intoxicating liquors are sold in pursuance of the occasional licence shall be deemed to be licensed premises, and to be the premises of the person taking out such licence" (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 6).

An occasional licence may now be granted for the sale of beer only (Finance (1909-10) Act, 1910, 10 Ed. 7, c. 8, Schedule 1 (F)).

"off"
licence, evasion of.

"If any purchaser of any intoxicating liquor from a person who is not licensed to sell the same to be drunk on the premises drinks such liquor on the premises where the same is sold, or on any highway adjoining, or near such premises, the seller of such liquor shall, if it shall appear that such drinking was with his privity or consent, be subject to the following penalties": not exceeding, first offence, £10; subsequent offence, £20. "For the purposes of this section the expression 'premises where the same is sold' shall include any premises adjoining or near the premises where the liquor is sold, if belonging to the seller of the liquor or under his control, or used by his permission" (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 5). This offence is recordable (see p. 580).

"If any person having a licence to sell intoxicating liquors not to be drunk on the premises, himself takes or carries, or employs or suffers any other person to take or carry, any intoxicating liquor out of or from the premises of such licensed person for the purpose of being sold on his account, or for his benefit or profit, and of being drunk or consumed in any other house, or in any tent, shed, or other building of any kind whatever, belonging to such licensed person, or hired, used, or occupied by him, or on or in any place, whether enclosed or not, and whether or not a public thoroughfare, such intoxicating liquor shall be deemed to have been consumed by the purchasers thereof on the premises of such licensed person, with his privity and consent, and such licensed person shall be punished accordingly in manner provided by this Act. In any proceeding under this section, it shall not be necessary to prove that the premises or place or places to which such liquor is taken to be drunk belonged to, or were hired, used, or occupied by the seller, if proof be given to the satisfaction of the court hearing the case that such liquor was taken to be consumed thereon or therein with intent to evade the conditions of his licence" (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 6). This offence is recordable (see p. 580).

The foregoing sections, which are contained in that portion of the Act of 1872 common to England and Ireland, are wide enough to embrace the case of a spirit grocer; but two other sections (ss. 83, 84) were passed in respect of spirit grocers, and are identical respectively with sections 5 and 6, ante, substituting the words "spirit grocer" for "the seller," &c.

<sup>1</sup> See ante, ENTRY OF LICENSED PREMISES WITH EXCISE.

<sup>2</sup> That is, the Licensing Act, 1872.

To sustain a conviction under section 5, the evidence must clearly show that the licensed person connived at the drinking on the premises or on the highway near the premises (Bath v. White, (1878) 3 C.P.D. 175).

Section 5 does not apply to the case of a person who has no licence at all, but to a person having an "off" licence who illegally sells for "on" consumption<sup>1</sup> (Dowling v. O'Loughlin, (1877) I.R. 11 C.L. 488, at p. 493). The section must be read as follows:—"If any person licensed to sell any intoxicating liquor to be consumed off his premises shall sell such liquor"; and therefore a spirit grocer cannot be convicted under this section for selling porter to be consumed on the premises (ib.).

Section 6 is aimed at sending out liquor to be hawked for sale off the premises.

Spirit grocer selling liquor for consumption in any house, outhouse, or building, hut, tent, or place occupied by him—Excise penalty, £10 (Licensed Grocers (Ir.) Act, 1818, 58 Geo. 3, c. 57, s. 2).

Spirit grocer opposing or obstructing entrance of police whilst his premises are open for sale, or selling spirits for consumption on the premises, or harbouring tipplers—Excise penalty, £2, and forfeiture of licence (Spirit Grocers (Ir.) Act, 1845, 8 & 9 Vict. c. 64, s. 2).

Selling beer (or porter—34 & 35 Vict. c. 111, s. 3)<sup>2</sup> for "on" consumption, without being licensed in that behalf—Penalty, first offence, 5s. to £2, or imprisonment, one week to one month; subsequent offence, 20s. to £5, or imprisonment, one month to three months (Beerhouses (Ir.) Act, 1864, 27 & 28 Vict. c. 35, s. 7). Persons found drinking or tippling, or having the appearance of having been recently drinking or tippling on premises licensed for "off" consumption—Penalty, first offence, not exceeding 5s.; subsequent offence, 5s. to 10s. (ib., s. 8).

The hours for closing spirit grocers' premises are the same as in the case of publicans' premises (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 86). Justices and constables have the right to enter the premises of spirit grocer during prohibited hours, and to remove persons unlawfully there. Persons refusing to obey may be apprehended and fined—Penalty, 5s. to 20s. (s. 87).

A passenger-vessel licence granted in respect of any vessel authorizes the sale by retail, while the vessel is engaged in carrying passengers, of any intoxicating liquor to the passengers for consumption on the vessel (Finance Act, (1909-10), Act 1910, Schedule I. (D)), and is granted without a justices' certificate to the master or other person nominated by the owner, and costs per annum, £10; per day, £2 (ib.). Contravening the terms of a licence—Excise Penalty, £50 (ib. s. 50 (4)).

Passenger vessel licence.

"If any licensed person permits drunkenness or any violent, quarrelsome, or riotous conduct to take place on his premises, or sells any intoxicating liquor to any drunken person"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £10; subsequent offence, £20 (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 13.)<sup>3</sup> Conviction may be recorded (see p. 580).

Permitting drunkenness selling to drunken person.

A licensed person found drunk on his own licensed premises cannot be convicted under s. 13 (Warden v. Tye, (1877) 2 C.P.D. 74), nor can he be convicted of supplying drink to himself whilst drunk (ib.). A licensed person selling drink to a drunken man may be convicted either of so selling or of permitting drunkenness (Edmunds v. James, (1892) 1 Q.B. 18.) In order to support a charge of permitting drunkenness, it must be

<sup>1</sup> The section would be clearer if it read "who is licensed to sell the same, but not to be drunk on the premises."

<sup>2</sup> For the purposes of the Finance (1909-10) Act, 1910, beer includes porter (see s. 52 of that Act). See also 566 n.

<sup>3</sup> Retailer of wine permitting any person to be guilty of drunkenness or other disorderly conduct, or himself guilty of any such disorderly conduct on his premises—Penalty, first offence, 40s. to £5; second offence, £5 to £10; third offence, £20 to £50 (Refreshment Houses (Ir.) Act, 1860, 23 and 24 Vict. c. 107, s. 31).

Permitting
drunkenness;
selling to drunken
person.

shown the publican knew of the drunkenness (Somerset v. Wade, (1894) 2 Q.B. 574). In Hope v. Warburton, (1892) 2 Q.B. 134, a police inspector visited defendant's premises, and found two brothers there, each drinking out of a pint pot; one of them was drunk, but said he had not been served there. There was no one serving behind the bar at the time the inspector entered; but the inspector, on passing in to the house, found the defendant's son, who was apparently in charge, and who admitted that he knew the man was drunk, but said he did not serve him. The defendant having been charged with permitting drunkenness, it was contended on his behalf that, though the man was drunk when he went upon the defendant's premises, and was found drinking there, yet, as no evidence had been given that he was actually supplied with drink there, the defendant was not guilty of the offence, and the justices yielded to this contention and dismissed the summons. The inspector appealed, and the appeal was allowed, as it was evident that the decision of the justice proceeded on the ground that an actual sale was necessary, and it was held that it was perfectly clear that serving the man with drink was not material to the offence at all.

It is frequently assumed that merely allowing a man already drunk to come and remain on licensed premises necessarily constitutes the offence of "permitting drunkenness to take place"; but this matter is still open to question, as will be seen by the following Scotch case. Section 98 of the Licensing (S.) Act, 1903, 3 Edw. 7, c. 25,<sup>1</sup> enacts:—"Where a licensed person is charged with permitting drunkenness on the premises, and it is proved that any person was drunk on his premises, it shall lie on the licensed person to prove that he and the persons employed by him took all reasonable steps for preventing drunkenness on the premises." This section, which is identical with section 4 of the English Licensing Act, 1902, was clearly not intended in ease of the publican; but to meet the case where the publican and his servants were not aware of the drunkenness (which, but for the section, would have been a defence), but should have been aware of it, if they had exercised due diligence. The following case was decided under this section. A drunken man was assisted into the bar of a public house by two friends, who, themselves sober, were to be treated by him. The keeper of the public house refused to supply the drunken man with alcoholic liquor, and advised him to go home, and supplied him with a bottle of non-alcoholic liquor, and supplied the two friends with a glass of whiskey, on their undertaking to see the drunken man home. The three men consumed these liquors seated in the bar, and had been there about ten minutes, when a constable looked in and drew attention to the drunken man's condition. Three minutes later they left, the two friends assisting the drunken man. The publican having been charged with contravention of his certificate by knowingly permitting drunkenness on his premises, it was held on appeal that no contravention had been established, he having discharged the onus on him under the Licensing (S.) Act, 1903, of proving that he "took all reasonable steps for preventing drunkenness on the premises" (Soutar v. McAuchinachie, (1909) 46 S.L.R. Ct. of Just. 243).

It has been held in England that where a guest arrived at a hotel after the closing hour and engaged a bedroom, and was drunk to the knowledge of the hotel manager, the fact that he was allowed into the hotel constituted the offence of permitting drunkenness (Thompson v. Mackenzie, (1908) 1 K.B. 905). The point raised on behalf of the defendant—and the sole point, apparently, argued at the hearing—was, that as the licensed premises were closed to the general public at the time the drunken man came to the premises, no conviction of permitting drunkenness on the premises was sustainable. The point does not seem to have been made that merely giving shelter to a drunken man does not amount to “permitting drunkenness to take place”; and it is submitted, therefore, that the decision does not in any way impeach the validity of the Scotch decision referred to above.

<sup>1</sup> In Scotland, the licence itself contains regulations as to the conduct of licensed premises, one of which forbids the licensed person "to permit drunkenness" on his premises.

Permitting drunkenness ; selling to drunken person.

It is immaterial whether the offence takes place during closing hours (R. v. Pelly, (1897) 2 Q.B. 33; Thompson v. Mackenzie, supra), or that the persons drunk were private guests of the publican (Lawson v. Edminson, (1908) 2 K.B. 952).

It was proved (1) that a person had been drinking in the defendant's licensed house; (2) that this was the last publichouse he visited, and that he got two or more glasses of whiskey there; and (3) that three quarters of an hour later he was found drunk in a ditch a hundred yards from the licensed house. Held, that this was some evidence to support a conviction for permitting drunkenness (Ex parte Ethelstane, (1875) 33 L.T. 339).

On a charge of selling drink to a drunken person it is immaterial whether the publican knew that the customer was drunk or not (Cundy v. LeCocq, (1884) 13 Q.B.D. 207). It is an offence to supply drink to a sober customer for the use of himself and a drunken companion (Scatchard v. Johnson, (1888) 57 L.J.M.C. 41); but it is submitted that this case should be taken subject to the qualification that the publican will not be guilty if he does not know that the liquor is intended for the drunken customer. It is now an offence for a sober person to procure or attempt to procure drink for a drunken person, see PROCURING DRINK FOR DRUNKEN PERSON, infra.

A licensed person is liable for the acts of his servant in charge, even though such acts be contrary to express general instructions (Commissioners of Police v. Cartman, (1896) 1 Q.B. 655; Worth v. Brown, (1898) 62 J.P. 658). For other cases on the liability of a licensed person for the acts of his servants, see MASTER AND SERVANT, p. 292, et seq.

It is not necessary to state in the summons the name of the person who, whilst drunk, is supplied with drink or permitted to be on the premises (Wray v. Toke, (1848) 12 Q.B. 492).

“If any licensed person knowingly permits his premises to be the habitual resort of, or place of meeting of, reputed prostitutes, whether the object of their so resorting or meeting is or is not prostitution, he shall, if he allow them to remain thereon longer than is necessary for the purpose of obtaining reasonable refreshment, be liable to a penalty not exceeding, for the first offence, £10; and not exceeding for the second and any subsequent offence, £20” (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 14). The conviction is recordable (see p. 580).

Permitting prostitutes.

A prostitute was seen on licensed premises by a constable, and left, on being spoken to by the publican, on the constable's entrance. Held, no evidence to warrant a conviction (Miller v. Dudley JJ., (1898) 46 W.R. 606). It is not necessary to state in the summons the names of the prostitutes, or to aver that the names are unknown (see Wray v. Toke, (1848) 12 Q.B. 492, decided on section 13 of 1 Wm. 4, c. 64, forbidding the permitting of disorderly persons). See also TOWNS IMPROVEMENT.

“Any person who, being on any premises licensed for the sale of intoxicating liquors, whether for consumption on or off such premises, shall procure or attempt to procure any intoxicating liquor for consumption by any drunken person, or who shall aid and abet any drunken person in obtaining or consuming any intoxicating liquor on or in the immediate vicinity of any premises so licensed as aforesaid”—Penalty, not exceeding 40s., or imprisonment not exceeding one month, with or without hard labour: "Provided always, that no person shall be liable to be convicted unless the court is satisfied that he knew, or ought to have known, the condition of the person in connection with whom the charge is brought."—(Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1908, s. 10).

Procuring drink for drunken person.

Production of licence.

"Every holder of a licence, or of an order of exemption made [by a local authority]<sup>1</sup> in pursuance of this Act, shall, by himself, his agent or servant, produce such licence or order within a reasonable time after the production thereof is demanded by a justice of the peace, constable, or officer of inland revenue, and deliver the same to be read and examined by him"—Penalty, not exceeding £10 (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 64).

"Every holder of a licence, excise licence, wholesale beer dealer's licence, or order of exemption made under this Act, who, on being required by any recorder or court of quarter sessions on the hearing of any appeal, or by a divisional justice or justice of the peace on the hearing of any summons or complaint, shall not produce and deliver such licence, excise licence, wholesale beer dealer's licence, or order to be read and examined by such recorder, court, or justice respectively, shall be subject to a penalty not exceeding £10, whether it shall or shall not be stated in any summons that such production will be required" (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 33).<sup>2</sup>

PROHIBITED HOURS, SALE, &c., DURING.

	PAGE.		PAGE
List of opening hours, . . .	556	Exemptions:—
History of legislation, . . .	557	(4) railway stations, . . .	563
Sale, &c. during prohibited hours, . . .	557	(5) canteens, . . .	563
Extent of licensed premises, . . .	558	Form of summons and conviction, . . .	563
What is a "sale," . . .	558	Penalties on persons on licensed pre-
What is an "opening," . . .	558	mises during prohibited hours, . . .	563
Exemptions:—	559-563	Provision as to mixed business, . . .	563
(1) bonâ fide travellers, . . .	560	Spirit grocers, . . .	564
(2) lodgers, . . .	562	Licences not requiring justices' certi-
(3) private friends, . . .	562	ficate, . . .	564

Prohibited hours, sale, &c., during. List of opening hours.

The following is a list of the hours during which, pursuant to the Refreshment Houses (Ir.) Act, 1860, s. 43; the Beer Houses (Ir.) Act, 1864, s. 6; the Licensing Act, 1872, ss. 78, 86; the Sale of Liquors on Sunday (Ir.) Act, 1878, s. 1; the Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1905; the Intoxicating Liquors (Ir.) Act, 1906, ss. 1 & 2, a person licensed for the sale of intoxicating liquor can keep his premises open for such sale.<sup>3</sup>

	Dublin, Belfast, Cork, Limerick, and Waterford.	Other towns with population <sup>4</sup> over 5000.	All other places.
Saturday, . . .	7 A.M. to 10 P.M.	7 A.M. to 10 P.M.	7 A.M. to 9 P.M.
Sunday, . . .	2 P.M. to 5 P.M.	None.	None.
Christmas Day, . . .	None.	None.	None.
Good Friday and days of public fast and thanksgiving, . . .	2 P.M. to 9 P.M.	2 P.M. to 9 P.M.	2 P.M. to 7 P.M.
Other days, . . .	7 A.M. to 11 P.M.	7 A.M. to 11 P.M.	7 A.M. to 10 P.M.

<sup>1</sup> The words in brackets are impliedly repealed by s. 11 of the Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874.

<sup>2</sup> Other provisions: Licence must be produced to Excise officer on demand—Excise penalty, £20 (Excise Licences Act, 1825, 6 Geo. 4, c. 81, s. 28). Beer licence to be produced if required on hearing of complaint—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (Beerhouse (Ir.) Act, 1864, 27 & 28 Vict. c. 35, s. 9).

<sup>3</sup> The exceptions will be found noted, infra.

<sup>4</sup> The population of any area for the purposes of this Act shall be ascertained according to the last published census for the time being (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 65). As to evidence of population, see p. 280, ante.

The beforementioned times mean Dublin time (Statutes (Definition of Time) Act, 1880).

Early-closing licences must close one hour earlier than the hours above mentioned (Licensing Act (Ir.), 1874, s. 2), including the hours above mentioned as applicable to Saturday (see Rowan v. Downing, (1909) 2 I.R. 626).

A six-day licensee must close the entire of Sunday, and cannot supply liquor, even to a bona fide traveller or lodger on that day (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 49). The holder of a six-day licence is not bound to close his licensed premises during the whole of Good Friday, but is only bound to close on that day during the hours of closing applicable to licensed premises generally (Davies v. Harrison, (1909) 2 K.B. 104).

Notwithstanding the provisions of the 63 & 64 Vict. c. cclxiv., extending the area of the city of Dublin, a licensed person within the "added area" in Dublin, e.g., Clontarf, is not within the city of Dublin for licensing purposes, and cannot therefore open on Sunday (Doyle v. Lambe, (1901) 2 N.I.J.R. 107, 3 N.I.J.R. 186; R. (Powell) v. Mahony, unreported, K.B.D., May, 1908).<sup>1</sup>

The following is a summary of the statutory provisions fixing the closing hours. The opening hours for premises licensed for the sale by retail of beer, cider, spirits, or wine, under the Refreshment Houses (Ir.) Act, 1860, 23 & 24 Vict. c. 107, s. 43, were 7 a.m. to 11 p.m., except Sunday, Good Friday, Christmas Day, or day of public fast or thanksgiving, on which the hours were between 2 p.m. and 11 p.m. By the Beer Houses (Ir.) Act, 1864, 27 & 28 Vict. c. 35, s. 6, those hours were applied to the premises of beer retailers. The Licensing Act, 1872, s. 78, forbade opening on Sunday, Christmas Day, Good Friday, or any day appointed for a public fast or thanksgiving, after 9 p.m., in a town exceeding 5,000, elsewhere 10 p.m., for the sale of intoxicating liquors, and included (s. 86) the premises of spirit grocers.

The Sale of Liquor on Sunday (Ir.) Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 72, s. 1, prohibited the opening of premises for which opening hours had been fixed by the Acts of 1860, 1864, 1872, on Sundays, save in Dublin, Belfast, Cork, Limerick, and Waterford, and limited the hours there to 2 to 7. The Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1905, 5 Edw. 7, c. 3, forbade the opening of such premises anywhere in Ireland at any hour on Christmas Day; and the Intoxicating Liquor (Ir.) Act, 1906, 6 Edw. 7, c. 39, changed the opening hours on Sundays for Dublin, Belfast, Cork, Limerick, and Waterford, to between 2 p.m. and 5 p.m., and made the closing hour on Saturday nights 10 p.m. in towns with population over 5,000, according to the last census, and elsewhere 9 p.m., and made provisions for cases where mixed business is carried on; see p. 563, post.

The provisions as to closing hours do not apply to the sale of intoxicating liquor by wholesale (see R. v. Jenkins, (1891) 65 L.T. 857), which sale, as well as that of spruce or black beer, sales in theatres (but see Gallagher v. Rudd, (1898) 1 Q.B. 114, noted p. 118, ante), packet boats, or canteens under statutory authorization, sales on special occasions under statutory authority, sales of medicated or methylated spirits, and sales of spirits made up in medicine by medical practitioners, or chemists and druggists, are by s. 72 of the Act of 1872 expressly exempted. As to premises not requiring a justice's certificate, see p. 564, post.

"Any person who sells or exposes for sale,<sup>2</sup> or opens or keeps open any premises for the sale of, intoxicating liquors at any other times than those limited for such purpose by section 43 of the Refreshment Houses (Ireland)

Prohibited hours, sale, &c., during. Early-closing licence.

Six-day licence.

Dublin.

History of legislation.

Sale, &c., during prohibited hours.

<sup>1</sup> At the time of going to press a Bill is before Parliament as to D.M.P. district; see APPENDIX OF STATUTES, where the statute will be found, if passed before publication.

<sup>2</sup> Can a defendant be convicted, on the same facts, of selling and exposing, quære (R. v. South Shields JJ., (1911) 27 T.L.R. 330)?

Prohibited
hours, sale,
&c., during.

Act, 1860, as the same is amended by this section, or during such times as aforesaid allows any intoxicating liquors to be consumed on such premises"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £10; subsequent offence, £20. "None of the provisions contained in this section shall preclude a person licensed to sell any intoxicating liquor to be consumed on the premises from selling such liquor to bona fide travellers<sup>1</sup> or to persons lodging in his house. Nothing in this section contained shall preclude the sale at any time at a railway station of intoxicating liquors to persons arriving at or departing from such station by railroad" (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 78).

Extent of licensed
premises.

A conviction under the section is recordable (see p. 580).

The defendant was charged with allowing intoxicating liquor to be consumed on his licensed premises during prohibited hours. The justices found that the place where the liquor was allowed to be consumed was a yard which originally did not form portion of the licensed premises, and had been purchased by the defendant about five years before the date of the offence. This yard was separated by a fence from the yard at the rear of the defendant's public-house; but there was a large gap in the fence, and it had been used for several years past by the defendant in common with his public-house, but for agricultural, and not for licensed trade, purposes, and it was held under a separate valuation from the public-house premises. On these facts it was held that the yard in question formed portion of the licensed premises (R. (Beirne) v. Liston, (1910) 44 I.L.T.R. 82; but the case seems inconsistent with Murnane v. Adams, (1910) 2 I.R. 175, a decision of Lord O'Brien, C.J., Madden and Wright, JJ., noted p. 569, post<sup>2</sup>).

What is a
sale.

"In proving the sale or consumption of intoxicating liquor for the purpose of any proceeding relative to any offence under this Act, it shall not be necessary to show that any money actually passed, or any intoxicating liquor was actually consumed, if the court hearing the case be satisfied that a transaction in the nature of a sale actually took place, or that any consumption of intoxicating liquor was about to take place; and proof of consumption or intended consumption of intoxicating liquor on premises to which a licence under this Act is attached, by some person other than the occupier of, or a servant in, such premises, shall be evidence that such liquor was sold to the person consuming or being about to consume or carrying away the same by or on behalf of the holder of such licence" (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 62).

What is "opening."

In order to constitute an offence of opening or keeping open, there must be (1) a physical opening or keeping open during prohibited hours, and (2) such opening or keeping open must be for the purpose of sale (Jeffrey v. Weaver, (1899) 2 Q.B. 449; Lloyd v. Barnett, (1900) 19 Cox, 540; Commissioner of Police v. Roberts, (1904) 1 K.B. 369; see also Tennant v. Cumberland, (1859) 1 E. & E. 401; Cates v. South, (1859) 1 L.T. 365; Jefferson v. Richardson, (1871) 35 J.P. 470; cf. Finch v. Blundell, (1862) 5 L.T. 672; Smith v. Vaux, (1862) 6 L.T. 46; Thompson v. Greig, (1870) 34 J.P. 214; Brewer v. Shepherd, (1872) 37 J.P. 102; Pearse v. Gill, (1877) 41 J.P. 742). "In order to constitute the offence of 'keeping open,' there must be a keeping open of the premises in the sense that people can get in from the outside to have intoxicating liquor, or that they can get it supplied to them when outside" (per Lord Alverstone, C.J., in Commissioner of Police v. Roberts, supra, in which case it was held that, when the outer doors were closed at closing time, the fact that customers remained on the premises, and that the licensee intended to supply them, did not amount to a keeping open within the section).

<sup>1</sup> For definition of bona fide traveller, see Licensing Act, 1874, s. 28, post, p. 560.

<sup>2</sup> But the defendant in R. (Beirne) v. Liston, supra, could have been rightly convicted either (a), of selling on his licensed premises during prohibited hours, if the appropriation of the liquor and, therefore, the sale took place in the licensed house, or (b) in the alternative, of selling without a licence or at a place not authorized by his licence contrary to s. 3 of the Act of 1872.

Prohibited hours, sale, &c., during.

Where a bargain is made, during opening hours, for the sale of goods then and there paid for and appropriated to the customer, but one of the terms is that delivery is to take place during prohibited hours, the opening during prohibited hours for the purpose of delivery in pursuance of the contract is an offence under s. 78 (Noblett v. Hopkinson, (1905) 2 K.B. 214; Saunders v. Thorney, (1898) 14 T.L.R. 346; cf. Goldstein v. Vaughan, (1897) 1 Q.B. 549); but when the goods were paid for and appropriated during opening hours, and the arrangement was that they should be called for subsequently during opening hours, but, through an oversight, they were not called for till after closing hours, this was held not to constitute an offence (Mackenzie v. Spear, (1902) unreported, referred to in Noblett v. Hopkinson, supra).

Delivery after closing hours.

An opening, per se, of licensed premises during prohibited hours constitutes no offence; the gist of the offence being an opening for sale (Brigden v. Heighes, (1876) 1 Q.B.D. 330; Tassel v. Orenden, (1877) 2 Q.B.D. 383; Lloyd v. Barnett, (1900) 19 Cox 540; cf. R. (Williams) v. Doherty, (1899) 33 I.L.T.R. 170; Hyland v. Hamilton, (1902) 36 I.L.T.R. 193; R. (Lock) v. Ryan, (1909) 43 I.L.T.R. 110).<sup>2</sup> The fact that a man is on licensed premises during prohibited hours for the purpose of playing billiards and not of drinking constitutes no offence (Gallagher v. Flower, (1896) 2 I.W.L.R. 171). The opening of licensed premises for the purpose of admitting fresh air, and as a means of egress and ingress for the licensed person and his family, does not constitute an offence (Walsh v. Galvin, 30 June, 1910, unreported, in which the Crown did not press for a decision, and the acquittal by the justices was allowed to stand; see p. 245 n.).

"For the sale of" intoxicating liquor.

The question whether premises are open for the illicit sale of liquor is entirely one of fact for the justices (R. (Lock) v. Ryan, supra).

A master will, generally speaking, be liable for the acts of his servant (see p. 292). The holder of a six-day licence was charged with a sale on Sunday. The justices accepted the defendant's story, which was that he was in bed at the time, that the sale was made by his wife without his knowledge, and contrary to express general instructions, and dismissed the case. The King's Bench Division, without approving of the finding of the justices, declined to reverse same, the question being one of fact (Brownrigg v. Mulligan, 9 Oct., 1910, K.B.D.Ir., unreported, noted fully, p. 571).

Master's liability for acts of servant.

Section 78 of the Licensing Act, 1872, ante, exempted sales to bona fide travellers.

Statutory exemptions.

"If in the course of any proceedings which may be taken against any person licensed to sell any intoxicating liquor to be consumed on the premises for infringing the provisions of the principal Act relating to the closing of premises, such person (in this section referred to as the defendant) fails to prove that the person to whom the intoxicating liquor was sold (in this section referred to as the purchaser) is a bona fide traveller, but the justices are satisfied that the defendant truly believed that the purchaser was a bona fide traveller; and further, that the defendant took all reasonable precautions to ascertain whether or not the purchaser was such a traveller, the justices shall dismiss the case as against the defendant, and if they think that the purchaser falsely represented himself to be a bona fide traveller, it shall be lawful for the justices to direct proceedings

<sup>1</sup> But as to licensed premises in which a mixed business is carried on, see p. 564, post.

<sup>2</sup> See p. 564 n. 2 as to effect of these cases.

Prohibited
hours, sale,
&c., during.
Exemptions.

to be instituted against such purchaser under the next preceding section of this Act. A person for the purposes of this Act and the principal Act shall not be deemed to be a bona fide traveller unless the place where he lodged during the preceding night is at least three<sup>1</sup> miles distant from the place where he demands to be supplied with liquor, such distance to be calculated by the nearest public thoroughfare" (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 28).

"Nothing in this Act shall be construed to apply to sales of intoxicating liquor to lodgers, or to the sale of intoxicating liquor in packet boats,<sup>2</sup> or in canteens, in pursuance of any Act regulating the same, or shall preclude the sale at any time at a railway station of intoxicating liquors on arrival or departure of trains, or to bona fide travellers as described in the Licensing Act of 1874" (Sale of Liquors on Sunday (Ir.) Act, 1878, s. 3).

"For the purposes of this Act and the other Acts relating to the sale of intoxicating liquors, a person residing or lodging within the metropolitan police district of Dublin<sup>3</sup> or any of the cities of Waterford, Cork, Limerick, and Belfast shall not be deemed to be a bona fide traveller, unless the place where he lodged during the preceding night is at least five miles distant from the place where he demands to be supplied with liquor, such distance to be calculated by the nearest public thoroughfare" (Intoxicating Liquors (Ir.) Act, 1906, s. 3).

(1) Bona fide
travellers.

Whether business or pleasure is the traveller's object is immaterial. Atkinson v. Sellers, (1858) 5 C.B.N.S. 442; Taylor v. Humphries, (1861) 10 C.B.N.S. 429; Taylor v. Humphries, (1864) 17 C.B.N.S. 539; but if a person travels merely for the purpose of obtaining liquor, he is not a bona fide traveller (Penn v. Alexander, (1893) 1 Q.B. 522). Where, however, the customer's going abroad is bona fide for a purpose other than to get drink, and he prolongs or extends his journey for the purpose of getting drink, he will be a bona fide traveller (Cowap v. Atherton, (1893) 1 Q.B. 49; Dames v. Bond, (1891) 55 J.P. 503; Oldham v. Sheasby, (1891) 60 L.J.M.C. 81). In a Scotch case, Johnston v. Laing, (1876) 3 C. 250, Lord Young said that "he thought that in order to be a traveller, it was not necessary that a man should be travelling upon business or otherwise than on foot. It was sufficient that he was from home fairly and honestly, not out for drink, but for exercise or legitimate amusement such as the law allowed, and at some distance from home. Upon the question of distance, he thought that being four miles from home was abundantly sufficient to afford a reasonable excuse for having a glass of beer at a hotel, and unless there was some strong reason for acting otherwise, it was scarcely fair to deal so hardly with the man. However, the matter was left to the discretion and judgment of the magistrates." "To suppose that the legislature," in enacting an exception in favour of bona fide travellers, "had in view the stream of wanderers from the great centres of population who walk three or five miles for the sole purpose of getting refreshments is an utter absurdity" (per Madden, J., in R. (Lock) v. Ryan, 43 I.L.T.R. 110).

The three or five mile limit is measured by the nearest public thoroughfare, which expression will include a navigable arm of the sea, whether there is a public thoroughfare or not (Coulbert v. Troke, (1875) 1 Q.B.D. 1; Parker v. Walsh, (1896) 2 I.R. 404). It has been held that the distance must be measured from the traveller's "place," and not from his home, and therefore must be taken between the outskirts of his farm and the public-house, and the length of the avenue leading to the house must be disregarded (Langhorn v. Massy, (1900) 34 I.L.T.R. 161, 1 N.I.J.R. 4; Nagle v. Devane, (1901) 2 N.I.J. 17). In Nagle v. Devane, which was decided upon the authority of Langhorn v. Massy, Gibson, J., without actually dissenting, expressed doubts as to the correctness of the decision.

<sup>1</sup> For three read five, in the cases of Dublin, Limerick, Cork, Waterford, and Belfast (6 Edw. 7, c. 39, s. 3, infra).

<sup>2</sup> As to which, see PASSENGER VESSEL LICENCES, p. 553, ante.

<sup>3</sup> A section of a Bill before Parliament is apparently aimed at removing any doubts that might arise as to the applicability of the above section to the added area in D.M.P. district. See APPENDIX OF STATUTES, where the Act, if it becomes law before publication, will be found.

Prohibited
hours, sale,
&c., during Exemptions.
(1) Bona fide
travellers.

If a person is a bona fide traveller in a certain place, he does not cease to be so by reason of the fact that he has already been supplied in that place with refreshment (Oldham v. Sheasby, (1891) 60 L.J.M.C. 81).

Whether the fact, that the place of arrival is the ultimate destination of the traveller, makes any difference, has not been the subject of decision in the Irish or English courts, but the following Scotch cases have been decided in reference to the point. A resident of the town of Lerwick, who had been absent for some months, arrived there by steamer early on a Sunday morning, and went home and slept there. At noon of the same day he went to a hotel, where he was supplied with intoxicating liquor. Held, that he was not a traveller at the time he was so supplied (Galloway v. Wiber, (1889) 16 R. (J.) 46). A person, resident in Port-William, left home on Sunday morning on a visit to Glenluce, ten miles distant. On his return in the evening, he was supplied with liquor at a hotel in Port-William, a quarter of a mile distant from his house. Held, that he was not a bona fide traveller (Cairns v. Todd, (1910) S.C. (J.) 17). On the facts of the last case no question could have arisen in Ireland, as the three-mile condition (not necessary in Scotland) had not been performed; but the case is valuable as indicating what a traveller is. "Upon the question whether McNeillie was a traveller, I cannot hold that he was in itinere, when in point of fact he was at home" (ib., per Lord Mackenzie). The test, in each case, would seem to be—had the alleged traveller finished his travel? The fact that he had not actually set foot on his own threshold would not be conclusive in his favour, although, as in the Lerwick case, the fact that he had been in his residence would be conclusive against him. On the other hand, the fact that, at the time of the alleged offence, he was physically within the city or town where his residence was, would not be conclusive against him, though such fact would be a material element in determining the question, was his journey at an end.

The onus of proving that persons on licensed premises during prohibited hours are bona fide travellers, or lawfully on the licensed premises, lies upon the defendant (Roberts v. Humphreys, (1873) L.R. 8 Q.B. 483; Gallimore v. Goodall, (1874) 38 J.P. 597; Watt v. Glenister, (1875) 32 L.T. 856; Harbottle v. Gill, (1877) 41 J.P. 742; as to proof where, on the arrival of a large number of persons by train, the publican unwittingly serves persons who have not so arrived, and who are not bona fide travellers, see Peache v. Colman, (1866) L.R. 1 C.P. 324).

In England it has been held, in Mountfield v. Ward, (1897) 1 Q.B. 326, decided upon the construction of s. 10 of the English Licensing Act, 1874, 37 & 38 Vict. c. 49, that a licensed person commits an offence under that section if he sells liquor to a bona fide traveller for consumption elsewhere than upon the premises. That section enacts that nothing in the Act of 1872, or in the English Act of 1874, "shall preclude a person licensed to sell any intoxicating liquor to be consumed on the premises from selling such liquor at any time to bona fide travellers; and the decision in Mountfield v. Ward, therefore, which turned upon the fact that the section contained the words "such liquor" (which words are also used in s. 78 of the Act of 1872), seems to be equally applicable to Ireland.

Prohibited
hours, sale,
&c., during.
Exemptions.

It is still an open question whether a bona fide traveller can, under any circumstances, order and pay for intoxicating liquor during prohibited hours for another person who is not a bona fide traveller; but where the justices found that the defendant accompanied a bona fide traveller to an inn during prohibited hours, for the sole purpose of getting something to drink under colour of the bona fide traveller's right, it was held that an offence was committed by the defendant under s. 25 of the Licensing Act, 1872,<sup>1</sup> though the drink was to be, and was, ordered and paid for by the bona fide traveller; but the court refrained from expressing any opinion on the question, whether under any circumstances a bona fide traveller could, during prohibited hours, entertain upon the licensed premises a person who was not a bona fide traveller (Jones v. Jones, (1910) 2 K.B. 262). In Scotland it has been held that no offence is committed by a sale to a bona fide traveller of liquor for the consumption of himself and his friend, even though the licensed person knew that part of the liquor was for the use of the friend. "H was there in the exercise of his rights as a bona fide traveller, and as such was entitled to order what refreshment he desired, which the hotel-keeper, as keeper of a public place of entertainment, was bound to supply him; but when the hotel-keeper had sold to H what H was entitled to order, I regard the hotel-keeper's interest in and connection with the sale as at an end, and he had no responsibility for the manner in which the traveller, who had lawfully bought refreshment, disposed of it" (Oliver v. Louden, (1896) 33 S.L.R. 274, per Lord Trayner).<sup>2</sup>

(2) Lodgers.

Section 78 of the Licensing Act, 1872, p. 558, ante, exempts sales "to persons lodging in his house." It is clear that the exemption is not confined to a paying lodger, but includes any inmate of the house.

A lodger can entertain his friends on the licensed premises, and supply them with liquor bona fide purchased by the lodger after prohibited hours (Pine v. Barnes, (1887) 20 Q.B.D. 221). As to whether this applies to bona fide travellers, see supra.

(3) Private friends.

"No person keeping a house licensed for the sale of any intoxicating liquor, to be consumed on the premises, shall be liable to any penalty for supplying intoxicating liquors after the hours of closing to private friends bona fide entertained by him at his own expense" (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 29).

In O'Connor v. O'Reilly, (20 June, 1910, K.B.D. (Ir.) unreported), two men visited the licensed premises of the defendant, a short time before closing hour, and had a drink or two in the bar before closing hour, for which they paid. When coming up to closing hour, the defendant proceeded to clear the house, and while doing so, as these men were about to leave, he invited them to remain and have a drink with him. They did so and went into the kitchen, where the defendant treated them to drink. The justices believed the defendant's story, and dismissed the charge. Held, that having regard to their findings of fact, the decision of the justices was correct. But justices should be slow to accept explanations of this kind (see Corbet v. Haigh, (1879) 5 C.P.D. 50.)<sup>3</sup> Where justices found, as a matter of fact, that the son of the licence-holder, acting as manager of his father's business, and in his father's absence, bona fide entertained his friends after closing hours, it was held that a charge under s. 78 was rightly dismissed (Armstrong v. Donovan, (1902) 3 N.I.J.R. 15).

<sup>1</sup> Corresponding to s. 27 of the Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, p. 563, infra.

<sup>2</sup> A later Scotch case to the contrary (Cairns v. Todd, (1910) S.C. (J.), 17) was decided on s. 60 of the Licensing Act (S.) 1903, 3 Ed. 7, c. 25, forbidding the sale to a traveller "except for the personal use of, and to be drunk by such traveller within such inn," &c.

<sup>3</sup> Corbet v. Haigh is frequently cited in support of the proposition, that a publican, at closing hour, cannot "convert a customer into a private friend"; but it is no authority for any such general proposition, which is opposed to O'Connor v. O'Reilly, supra.

Section 78 of the Licensing Act, 1872, and section 3 of the Sale of Liquor on Sunday (Ir.) Act, 1878, both verbatim, ante, pp. 558 and 560, respectively contain provisions exempting sales at a railway station.

It has been held that in the case of a sale at a railway station, the fact that the object of the traveller is merely to obtain liquor is immaterial (Williams v. McDonald, (1899) 2 Q.B. 308). It has been held—and, it is submitted, rightly held—in the Dublin metropolitan police courts (E. G. Swifte, divisional justice), that the right to supply liquor on the arrival or departure of trains does not extend to all comers, but is confined to persons arriving at or departing from the station by railroad (Reilly v. Keogh, (1903) 37 I.L.T.R. 179). A person who has bona fide taken a ticket at a railway station, intending to depart by train, was, under the 2 & 3 Vict. c. 47, s. 42 (prohibiting sales in London within certain hours except to “travellers”), held to be a traveller, though he had not started on his journey (Fisher v. Howard, (1864) 34 L.J.M.C. 42).

The sale of spirits in canteens is specially exempted from the provisions of the Licensing Act of 1872, by s. 72 of that Act; and section 3 of the Sale of Liquor on Sunday (Ir.) Act, 1878, contains an exemption as to canteens, q.v., p. 560, ante.

It has been held in England that a person who holds a canteen licence can sell to a civilian (Dickeson v. Mayes, (1910) 1 K.B. 452).

The summons or conviction need not aver that the purchaser was not a bona fide traveller or lodger (R. (Mooney) v. Dublin JJ., (1881) 8 L.R.I. 274; see also Roberts v. Humphreys, (1873) L.R. 8 Q.B. 483). A person cannot be convicted both of opening and selling where the selling and opening are part of the same transaction (Dorrian v. McHugh, (1907) 2 I.R. 564). Each of several sales on the same day constitutes a separate offence on a charge of selling (McHugh v. Cartin, (1903) 3 N.I.J.R. 250).

“If during any period during which any premises are required under the provisions of the principal Act<sup>1</sup> to be closed any person is found on such premises, he shall, unless he satisfies the court that he was an inmate, servant, or a lodger on such premises, or a bona fide traveller, or that otherwise his presence on such premises was not in contravention of the provisions of the principal Act with respect to the closing of licensed premises and premises kept by a spirit grocer, be liable to a penalty not exceeding 40s. Any constable may demand the name and address of any person found on any premises during the period during which they are required by the provisions of the principal Act to be closed; and if he has reasonable ground to suppose that the name or address given is false, may require evidence of the correctness of such name and address, and may, if such person fail upon such demand to give his name or address, or such evidence, apprehend him without warrant, and carry him as soon as practicable before a justice of the peace. Any person required by a constable under this section to give his name and address who fails to give the same, or gives a false name or address, or gives false evidence with respect to such name and address, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5. Every person who, by falsely representing himself to be a traveller or a lodger, buys or obtains, or attempts to buy or obtain, at any premises, any intoxicating liquor during the period during which such premises are closed in pursuance of the principal Act, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5” (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 27).

“Found” on the premises is equivalent to proved, or ascertained, to have been on the premises (Thomas v. Powell, (1893) 57 J.P. 329).

“Where any business, other than the sale of intoxicating liquor, is carried on in the licensed premises, the whole of such premises shall be Prohibited hours, sale, &c., during. Exemptions.

(4) Railway station.

(5) Canteens.

Form of summons and conviction.

Penalty on person found on premises during prohibited hours.

Mixed business.

<sup>1</sup> The Act of 1872.

Prohibited
hours, sale,
&c., during.
Mixed
business.

closed at the hours aforesaid, unless the portion of the same in which such sale of intoxicating liquors is carried on is structurally separated from the remainder of the building. Nothing in this Act shall in any way interfere with the rights of any licensed person who is the owner or lessee of a theatre, music-hall, or other place of public amusement; but all such persons shall have the same rights and privileges as they have now under the existing licensing law as if this Act had not been passed" (Intoxicating Liquors (Ir.) Act, 1906, 6 Edw. 7, c. 39).

The effect of this section is that the entire of the premises, including the portion used for business other than the sale of intoxicating liquor, must be closed for business purposes during the statutory period; and if the section be not complied with, the offender will be deemed to commit the offence of keeping open for the sale of liquor, and may be proceeded against accordingly (Richardson v. Sweeney, (1908) 42 I.L.T.R. 174). The "hours aforesaid" in the section are not restricted to Saturday nights, but mean prohibited hours generally (Rowan v. Downing, (1909) 2 I.R. 626; R. (Turnbull) v. Glynn, (1910) 44 I.L.T.R. 233). The structural separation must be a separation of a permanent character, and not of a kind which exists or not at the publican's volition; so that a locked door (Richardson v. Sweeney, supra) or a wire network frame, firmly secured by bolts, but removable in about fifteen minutes (Toppin v. Coleman, (1910) 2 I.R. 200, 44 I.L.T.R. 60), is not a structural separation within the section.

In Mercer v. O'Shaughnessy (9 Dec., 1910, K.B.D. Ir.),<sup>1</sup> portion of the licensed premises consisted of a billiard-room, carried on by the licensee for the purpose of profit. Certain parties having been found in the billiard-room during prohibited hours (but not for the purpose of drink), the publican was charged under the foregoing section. The justices held that a billiard-room was a "place of public entertainment" within the section, and dismissed the charge on that ground. On the hearing in the King's Bench Division, the defendant was not represented. Held, that the justices were wrong, and the case was remitted to them with a direction to convict. It was assumed throughout the case that keeping a billiard-room for profit was a business within the section.

Where the statute is not complied with, the proper charge is for opening or keeping open for the sale of intoxicating liquor during prohibited hours, though the premises, in fact, are not open for anything of the kind, but for another business altogether (see Richardson v. Sweeney, supra).<sup>2</sup>

Spirit
grocers.

Licences not requiring justices'
certificate.

The provisions as to closing hours apply to spirit grocers (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 86).

The provisions as to closing hours extend to licences granted without a justice's certificate (Martin v. Barker, (1881) 45 L.T. 214), with the exception of wholesale beer-dealers, specially exempt by section 72 of the Licensing Act of 1872 (li. v. Jenkins, (1891) 65 L.T. 857). As to theatre licences, see p. 118, ante.

<sup>1</sup> Unreported at time of going to press; but see INDEX OF CASES.

<sup>2</sup> Notwithstanding the dicta of Wright, J., in Rowan v. Downing, (1909) 2 I.R. 626, at p. 635, and of Madden, J., in R. (Lock) v. Ryan, (1909) 43 I.L.T.R. 110, it is submitted that, apart from the above section, no offence is committed by opening, during prohibited hours, the doors of a publican's premises for any purpose save that of the sale of intoxicating liquors. The cases of Brigden v. Heighes, (1876) 1 Q.B.D. 330, Tassel v. Ovenden, (1877) 2 Q.B.D. 383, Lloyd v. Barnett, (1900) 19 Cox 540, cited ante, p. 558, clearly establish this principle, and it is submitted that R. (Williams) v. Doherty, (1899), 33 I.L.T.R. 170, and Hyland v. Hamilton, (1902) 36 I.L.T.R. 193 (cases not deemed worthy of a place in the authorized reports), cannot be taken to have overruled the English decisions above referred to, as well as many Scotch cases to the same effect. Accordingly, the above section creates an absolutely novel offence.

A licence for a railway restaurant-car may be granted, without the production of a justice's certificate, in respect of a car in which passengers can be supplied with meals, and authorizes the sale by retail to passengers on the car of any intoxicating liquor for consumption on the car (Finance (1909-10) Act, 1910, Schedule 1 (E)). Contravening the terms of any licence under the Act—Excise penalty, £50 (s. 50 (4)).

Railway car
licences.

"Any licensed person may refuse to admit to, and may turn out of, the premises in respect of which his licence is granted, any person who is drunken, violent, quarrelsome, or disorderly, and any person whose presence on his premises would subject him to a penalty under this Act. Any such person who, upon being requested, in pursuance of this section, by such licensed person, or his agent or servant, or any constable, to quit such premises, refuses or fails so to do, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5; and all constables are required, on the demand of such licensed person, agent, or servant, to expel or assist in expelling every such person from such premises, and may use such force as may be required for that purpose. The court committing any person to prison for non-payment of any penalty under this section may order him to be imprisoned, with hard labour" (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 18). This section is, by s. 6 of the Act of 1874, extended to premises for which an occasional licence is held.

Refusal to leave licensed premises.

"The owner or manager of any premises may require any constable on duty to arrest and remove from such premises any person in his employment who is found drunk thereon" (Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1908, s. 8).

A person who has been drunken, violent, quarrelsome, or disorderly on former occasions cannot be convicted under the Licensing Act, 1872, s. 18, unless he has been drunk, violent, quarrelsome, &c., between his coming and his being asked to leave, or unless he is a person whose presence would subject the licensed person to a penalty (Dallimore v. Sutton, (1898) 78 L.T. 469). But a publican, who is not also an innkeeper, is under no obligation to admit any person to whose presence he for any reason objects; and if any such person refuses to leave, the publican, and anyone that he can get to assist him, have a right to remove such person, who may be convicted of assault if he does in fact assault anyone effecting his removal (Sealy v. Tandy, (1902) 1 K.B. 296). A publican, who is not also an innkeeper, is not obliged to serve any customer, whether a traveller or not (ib.; R. v. Rymer, (1877) 2 Q.B.D. 136); but a capricious refusal to serve customers under such circumstances as would warrant the belief that the publican was engaged in a boycotting conspiracy might be made a cause of objection to the renewal of the licence (R. (Delaney) v. Queen's County JJ., (1887) 20 L.R.I. 167). An innkeeper is bound to supply travellers with reasonable refreshment (R. v. Rymer, (1877) 2 Q.B.D. 136); but he is not obliged to admit drunken travellers demanding lodging at his inn (R. v. Ivens, (1835) 7 C. & P. 213; see Thompson v. McKenzie, (1908) 1 K.B. 905, noted supra, p. 554); nor is he bound to permit a person who originally came to his inn as a traveller to remain after such person has lost, by lapse of time, the character of a traveller (Lamond v. Richard, (1897) 1 Q.B. 541).

"It shall be lawful for any one justice acting for any county, city, or place where any riot or tumult shall happen, or for any two or more justices where any riot or tumult shall be apprehended and expected to take place, to order or direct that every person selling spirits or beer by retail, and keeping any house or place for that purpose, situate within their respective jurisdictions, and in or near the place where such riot or tumult shall happen or be expected to take place, shall close his house or place at any time, and for such length of time, as such justice or justices shall

Riots:
closing licensed premises.

Riots;
closing licensed
premises.

order or direct; and every person to whom such order shall be given, and who shall keep open such house or other place in violation of such order"—Penalty, £2 (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1833, 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 68, s. 21).

"It shall be lawful for any two justices acting for any county or place where any riot or tumult shall happen or be expected to take place to order or direct that every person licensed under the authority of this Act to sell wine by retail in any house within their respective jurisdictions, in or near the place where such riot or tumult shall happen or be expected to take place, shall close his house at any time which the said justices shall order or direct; and every such person who shall keep open his house at or after any hour at which such justices shall have so ordered or directed such house to be closed shall be taken and deemed to have not maintained good order and rule therein, and to be guilty of an offence against the tenor of the licence granted to him" (Refreshment Houses (Ir.) Act, 1860, s. 30). As to punishment, see p. 579.

SALE WITHOUT LICENCE, OR AT PLACE NOT AUTHORIZED BY LICENCE.

	PAGE		PAGE
Spirits (Ir.) Act, 1854, . . .	566	Effect of Petty Sessions "transfer," . . .	571
Licensing Act, 1872, . . .	567	"Licensed person," . . .	571
Other statutory provisions, . . .	568	Hotel licence, . . .	571
What is a sale, . . .	568	Licence to disqualified person, . . .	572
Area covered by licence, . . .	569	Second conviction, . . .	572
Delivery at place other than licensed premises, . . .	570	Search warrant, . . .	572
Power of sale restricted to licensee, . . .	570	Illegal "dealing in" intoxicating liquor, . . .	574
Sale by servant, . . .	571	Clubs, . . .	574

Sale without licence, or at place not authorized by licence.
Spirits (Ir.)
Act, 1854.

"Every person, not being duly licensed to sell wine, spirits, beer, ale, cider, or perry, who shall sell, or keep for sale, or expose for sale, any wine, spirits, beer, ale, cider, or perry, shall for every such offence be liable—for the first offence, to a fine not exceeding £2 nor less than 5s., or to be imprisoned, with or without hard labour, for any term not exceeding one month nor less than one week; and for the second and every subsequent offence, to a fine not exceeding £5 nor less than 20s., or to be imprisoned, with or without hard labour, for any term not exceeding three months nor less than one month; and for the purpose of any such conviction it shall be sufficient to prove that wine, spirits, beer, ale, cider, or perry was kept for sale or exposed for sale by such person or on his premises, or had been illegally consumed on such premises, at any time within two months preceding such alleged offence; and if any person be found drunk in such house, or having the appearance of having been recently drinking, it shall be deemed evidence of his having been drinking in such house, and of the unlawful consumption of wine, spirits, beer,<sup>1</sup> ale, cider, or perry, unless the contrary be proved" (Spirits (Ir.) Act, 1854, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 89, s. 3). The penalties under the Acts are recoverable under the Petty Sessions Act (s. 8).

This section does not apply where a person is duly licensed, but trades in excess of his licence—e.g., by breaking out into altogether new premises (Molloy v. Cunningham, (1865) 11 Ir. Jur. N.S. 37), or by selling for consumption on, when licensed to sell only for consumption off, the premises (Quinn v. Murray, (1862) 8 Ir. Jur. N.S. 392).

A person charged with an offence under this section (or the wife or husband of such person) is not a competent witness; but persons charged separately under the Act for the same offence are competent witnesses for each other. The fact that drunken persons are found upon the unlicensed premises of a defendant is evidence that must be considered by the justices in determining whether an offence has been committed (Swanzy v. Drohan, (1909) 43 I.L.T.R. 281). Sale without licence, &c.

<sup>1</sup> For the purposes of this section "porter" is included in the term "beer" (Swanzy v. Drohan, (1909) 43 I.L.T.R. 281). "Beer," for the purposes of the Beerhouses (Ir.) Acts, 1864 and 1871, is expressly declared to include porter (Beerhouses (Ir.) Act, 1871, s. 3; see also Inland Revenue Act, 1880, s. 2; Finance (1909-10) Act, 1910, s. 52); and it is submitted that, generally speaking, it will include porter, even in the absence of a statutory enactment to that effect.

As to whether justices can, in their discretion, notwithstanding the wish of the complainant, try a case of selling without a licence, either under this section or under s. 3 of the Licensing Act, 1872 (post), see p. 100 n., ante.

“No person shall sell or expose for sale by retail any intoxicating liquor without being duly licensed to sell the same, or at any place where he is not authorized by his licence to sell the same. Any person selling or exposing for sale by retail any intoxicating liquor which he is not licensed to sell by retail, or selling or exposing for sale any intoxicating liquor at any place where he is not authorized by his licence to sell the same, shall be subject to the following penalties—that is to say: (1) For the first offence he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £50, or to imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for a term not exceeding one month; (2) for the second offence he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £100, or to imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for a term not exceeding three months, and he may, by order of the court by which he is tried, be disqualified, for any term not exceeding five years, from holding any licence for the sale of intoxicating liquors; (3) for the third and any subsequent offence he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £100, or to imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for any term not exceeding six months, and may, by order of the court by which he is tried, be disqualified for any term of years, or for ever, from holding any licence for the sale of intoxicating liquors. In addition to any other penalty imposed by this section, any person convicted of a second or any subsequent offence under this section shall, if he be the holder of a licence, forfeit such licence<sup>1</sup>; and in the case of a conviction for any offence under this section the court may, if it thinks expedient so to do, declare all intoxicating liquor found in the possession of any such person as last aforesaid, and the vessels containing such liquor, to be forfeited. No penalty shall be incurred under this section by the heirs, executors, administrators, or assigns of any licensed person who dies before the expiration of his licence, or by the trustee of any licensed person who is adjudged a bankrupt, or whose affairs are liquidated by arrangement before the expiration of his licence, in respect of the sale or exposure for sale of any intoxicating liquor, so that such sale or exposure for sale be made on the premises specified in such licence, and take place prior to the special session<sup>2</sup> then next ensuing, or (if such special session be holden within fourteen days next after the death of the said person, or the appointment of a trustee in the case of his bankruptcy, or the liquidation of his affairs by arrangement) take place prior to the special session<sup>2</sup> holden next after such special session<sup>2</sup> as last aforesaid” (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 3). Licensing Act, 1872.

“The occupier of any unlicensed premises on which any intoxicating liquor is sold, or if such premises are occupied by more than one person, every occupier thereof, shall, if it be proved that he was privy or consenting to the sale, be subject to the penalties imposed upon persons for the sale of intoxicating liquors without licence” (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 4).

See also as to “dealing” in intoxicating liquor without a licence (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 24, p. 573, post).

<sup>1</sup> On the same facts, a defendant was convicted of selling at a place not authorized by his licence and also of exposing for sale. Held, that there had been no “second offence” (R. v. South Shields JJ., (1911) 27 T.L.R. 330. Quære, on the same facts, can a person be convicted both of selling and exposing (ib.)?

<sup>2</sup> Meaning petty sessions (s. 77).

Sale without licence, &c.
Other statutory provisions.

The following are other provisions:—Selling beer by retail at a place other than the premises specified in the licence, deemed a sale without a licence—Excise Penalty, £20 (Excise Act, 1860, 23 & 24 Vict. c. 113, s. 37). Selling beer by retail without licence—Excise Penalty, £20. for which the police may prosecute (Revenue Act, 1863, 26 & 27 Vict. c. 33, s. 3).

“If any person sells by retail any intoxicating liquor, for the retail sale of which he is required to take out a licence under this Act, without taking out such a licence, he shall be liable in respect of each offence, at the election of the Commissioners, either to an Excise penalty of £50, or to an Excise penalty equal to treble the amount of the full duty” (Finance (1909–10) Act, 1910, 10 Ed. 7, c. 8, s. 50 (3)).

A retailer's licence authorizes sale, at any one time to one person, of liquor in the following quantities, namely:—(a) in the case of spirits, wine, or sweets,<sup>1</sup> in any quantity not exceeding two gallons, or not exceeding one dozen reputed quart bottles; and (b) in the case of beer or cider, in any quantity not exceeding four and a half gallons, or not exceeding two dozen reputed quart bottles, but not in any larger quantities (ib.; Schedule (1) C).

“If any person deals wholesale in any intoxicating liquor, for the wholesale dealing in which he is required to take out a licence under this Act, without taking out such a licence, he shall be liable in respect of each offence to an Excise penalty of £100” (ib., s. 50).

The wholesale dealers' licences mentioned in the Schedule (B) are in respect of spirits, beer, wine, and sweets. A wholesale dealer's licence authorizes sale at any one time to one person of liquor in the following quantities, namely:—(a) in the case of spirits, wine, or sweets,<sup>2</sup> in any quantity not less than two gallons, or not less than one dozen reputed quart bottles; and (b) in the case of beer or cider<sup>3</sup> in any quantity not less than four and a half gallons, or not less than two dozen reputed quart bottles, but not in any less quantities (Schedule).

Various Excise penalties, varying from £50 to £100, are imposed by 6 Geo. 4, c. 81, s. 26, for dealing in or retailing spirits, beer, wine, &c., without a licence.

For procedure as to offences against the Excise Acts, see p. 79.

What is a
sale.

The respondent was the holder of a wholesale beer-dealer's licence, empowering him to sell not less than four and a half gallons of beer at one time, to be consumed off the premises. On the 8th of April, 1910, he sold to one Bovington eighteen imperial quart bottles of beer on the terms that he, the respondent, should store the bottles on his premises and deliver them from time to time in such quantities as the purchaser might require. The respondent appropriated eighteen bottles to the contract of sale and put the purchaser's name upon them. He delivered the bottles in small quantities on different dates, the final delivery of two bottles being on the 28th of May. In respect of this last delivery he was summoned for selling beer by retail without a licence. It was contended by the appellant that the delivery of the beer was, under the circumstances, part of the transaction of sale, and that for the purposes of a sale under the wholesale dealer's licence there could lawfully be only one delivery. The justices dismissed the summons. Held, that the sale was complete on the 8th of April, and that there was consequently no sale of a less quantity than that which was authorized by the wholesale licence (Hales v. Buckley, (1911) W.N. 32).

<sup>1</sup> Liquors made in whole or in part of fruits and sugar which in manufacture have been fermented (Revenue Act, 1889, s. 28).

<sup>2</sup> For definition see p. 551 n.

<sup>3</sup> “Cider” includes perry (Inland Revenue Act, 1880, s. 40).

In proving a sale, it is not necessary to show that any money actually passed, if the court is satisfied that a transaction in the nature of a sale actually took place (see Licensing Act, (1872) s. 62, verbatim, p. 558, ante). See also as to evidence of sale (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 24, p. 573, post).

The defendant, an unlicensed person, supplied a bottle of porter daily to each of certain lodgers occupying her premises at a fixed weekly payment for board and lodgings, including the supply of porter. The complainant entered the premises on a warrant, and found thirty-five full bottles of porter there. The justices having found that the transaction was not a sale: Held, that the transaction was obviously a sale, and that the defendant should have been convicted (Horgan v. Driscoll, (1908) 42 I.L.T.R. 238).

A licence only enables the trade to be carried on in one separate and distinct set of premises (see Excise Licences Act, 1825, 6 Geo. 4, c. 81, s. 10).<sup>1</sup> Area covered by licence.

The question as to the area covered by the licence is one of some difficulty.<sup>2</sup> Where the licensed house has been enlarged, and a sale has taken place in the added portion, the test as to whether an offence is committed is one of fact for the justices, the test being, are the premises as enlarged substantially the same as the former premises? (R. v. Raffles, (1876) 1 Q.B.D. 207; see also R. v. Smith, (1866) 15 L.T. 178; Stringer v. Huddersfield JJ., (1875) 33 L.T. 568; R. v. Bradford JJ., (1896) 74 L.T. 28; R. (Callaghan) v. Donegal JJ., (1898) 2 I.R. 652; R. v. Hants JJ., (1880) 44 J.P. 72; R. v. Sheffield JJ., (1899) 63 J.P. 595); but the court will, on a case stated, set aside a conviction if there is no evidence to support it (Deer v. Bell, (1894) 64 L.J.M.C. 85). In the last case the defendant rebuilt his premises, and advanced the front by taking in a strip of yard five feet wide on which part of a new bar stood. The defendant having been convicted, the conviction was quashed (see also Deer v. Wirrell JJ., (1894) 11 T.L.R. 188). The right to sell, however, seems to be confined to the house mentioned in the licence. A, the owner of a house, with a yard and offices at the rear, the whole being enclosed by walls, held a licence authorizing him to sell spirits, &c., in "a house" situate at, &c. He opened a bar at the end of the yard, having an entrance from a street at the rear of the premises, and sold spirits there. Held, that the licence authorized a sale in the house alone, and that A was guilty of the offence of selling at a place not authorized

<sup>1</sup> This does not apply to auctioneers (ib).

<sup>2</sup> The following statutory provisions have a bearing on the question: "The words 'house or place' in this and the aforesaid Act, or any other Act or Acts relating to the sale of spirits, wine, beer, ale, cider, or perry in Ireland, shall be construed to mean and to extend to every room, closet, cellar, yard, stable, outhouse, shed, or any other place whatsoever of, belonging, or in any manner appertaining to such house or place; and whatever particular part of such house or place shall be entered in the said books of the said Inland Revenue Department as licensed under the said Act of the eighth and ninth years of Her Majesty, or any other Acts relating to the sale of spirits, wine, beer, ale, cider, or perry, as aforesaid, it shall be lawful for any such justice of the peace, chief or other constable, or overseer, or any officer of Excise with their assistants respectively, to enter every room, closet, cellar, yard, stable, outhouse, shed, or any other place whatsoever belonging to such house or place" (Spirits (Ireland) Act, 1854, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 89, s. 12). "On licences to be taken out by retailers of spirits in the United Kingdom there shall be charged and paid the duties following (that is to say)—if the annual value of the dwelling-house in which the retailer shall reside or retail spirits, together with the offices, courts, yards, and garden therewith occupied," &c. [here follows list of duties] (Inland Revenue Act, 1880, 43 & 44 Vict. c. 20, s. 43 (1)). The latter section is repealed by the Finance (1909-10) Act, 1910; but see s. 44 (1) of that Act, and s. 43 (7) of the Inland Revenue Act, 1880. By s. 77 of the Licensing Act, 1872, licensed premises are defined as meaning premises in respect of which a licence has been granted and is in force; "premises" shall include house or place as defined by the Spirits (Ir.) Act, 1854, s. 12.

Sale without
licence, &c.

by his licence (Murnane v. Adams, (1910) 2 I.R. 175; but see R. (Beirne) v. Liston, (1910) 44 I.L.T.R. 82, noted, p. 558, ante).<sup>1</sup> But it appears that the entire house is licensed. "A licensed victualler carries on his trade upon the whole of the licensed premises. He resides, it is true, in one portion of the house, but his licence covers the whole of the house, and he may use any portion of it for the purpose of carrying on his trade" (per Day, J., in Curritt v. Godson, (1899) 2 Q.B. 193, approved in Dicksee v. Hoskins, (1901) 2 K.B. 122, 660).

Delivery at place other than licensed premises.

Where goods are delivered at a place other than the licensed premises, the question arises, where does the sale take place, on the licensed premises or at the place of delivery? If the goods are appropriated in the licensed premises to the order of the customer, then the sale takes place in the licensed premises, otherwise at the place of delivery (McLoughlin v. McCloy, (1892) 26 I.L.T.R. 131; Pletts v. Campbell, (1895) 2 Q.B. 229; Pletts v. Beatty, (1896) 1 Q.B. 519; Stephenson v. Rogers, (1899) 80 L.T. 193; Walker v. Walker, (1903) 20 Cox, 594; Hewitt v. Jervis, (1903) 68 J.P. 54; Strickland v. Whittaker, (1904) 20 T.L.R. 224; Trappe v. Egan, (1900) 34 I.L.T.R. 21; Pasquier v. Neale, (1902) 2 K.B. 287; Dowling v. Fahy, (1903) 3 N.I.J.R. 343; Stansfeld v. Andrews, (1909) 25 T.L.R. 259). The defendant, a person having an "on" licence, employed a drayman to deliver beer to customers who had given previous orders for it, and the drayman had been expressly forbidden to sell or deliver beer to other persons. The drayman having sold and delivered some beer from his van to persons in a street who had not previously ordered it, it was held that the licensed person was not liable, as the sale was entirely outside the scope of the drayman's authority (Boyle v. Smith, (1906) 1 K.B. 432). See also cases noted, p. 574, under SOLICITING ORDERS.

Power of sale restricted to licensee.

The licence does not authorize any person, other than the licensee, his agent or servant, to sell under cover of the licence; and if any other person sells, in the licensed premises, intoxicating liquor which is his own property, under the cloak of the licence, he is guilty of selling without a licence (Peckover v. Defries, (1906) 21 Cox, 323). The licensee having left the premises, a person, with the authority of the licensee's wife and of the landlord, entered therein and sold for his own profit; and it was held that the sale was illegal, and that the landlord, who was a brewer, and had agreed to supply the liquors for sale, was under the circumstances rightly convicted of aiding and abetting in the illegal sale (Owen v. Langford, (1891) 55 J.P. 484). An assignee commits an offence by carrying on the trade before he gets a protection order;<sup>2</sup> and such trading without a licence is not an offence "of a trifling nature" (Barnard v. Barton, (1906) 1 K.B. 357). Where intoxicating liquor is sold by retail by an agent on behalf of the owner, the sale is a sale by the owner and not by the agent, and, if the owner is not duly licensed, the fact that the agent is so licensed affords the owner no defence (Dunning v. Owen, (1907) 2 K.B. 237). In the last case, the defendant, who was not a licensed person, had entered into a contract for the supply of refreshments at an exhibition, and arranged with X that X, who was a licensed person, should obtain an occasional licence for the purpose of sale at the exhibition. X attended at and managed a bar at the exhibition, but was not remunerated for his services. The intoxicating liquor sold was the property of the defendant, and the entire profits of the transaction went into the defendant's pocket. Held, that the defendant should have been convicted of selling without a licence. Sale without licence, &c.

<sup>1</sup> The definition of "house" or "place" in 17 & 18 Vict. c. 89, s. 12, quoted ante, p. 569 n., seems to apply only so far as affects the right of entry given to the constabulary. See judgments of Holmes, L.J., in R. (Blackburn) v. Down J.J., (1905) 2 I.R. 74, at p. 99, and of Wright, J., in Murnane v. Adams, supra, at p. 186.

<sup>2</sup> But see special provisions as to death, bankruptcy, or arrangement, contained in s. 3 of the Licensing Act, 1872, p. 567, ante.

Where a servant sells, the sale is by the master and not by the servant (Williamson v. Norris, (1899) 1 Q.B. 7); but if the servant who has no authority to sell, chooses to sell of his own initiative, the servant can be convicted of selling (per Lord Alverstone, C.J., in Boyle v. Smith, (1906) 1 K.B. 432, at p. 436), and if a servant sells by his master's order, he can be convicted of aiding and abetting (R. (O'Hara) v. Conlan, (1909) 43 I.L.T.R. 173). Where a married woman sells liquors without a licence and without the knowledge of her husband, the husband cannot be held liable (Allen v. Lumb, (1893) 57 J.P. 377); but slight evidence may warrant the justices in such a case in inferring that the offence was committed with the authority of the husband (R. (Waters) v. Kerry JJ., (1901) 35 I.L.T.R. 10; 1 N.I.J.R. 32). In Brownrigg v. Mulligan (8 December, 1910, K.B.D. (Ir.), unreported), the defendant, a holder of a six-day licence, was summoned under section 3 of the Licensing Act, 1872, for selling intoxicating drink without a licence. It appeared that the liquor had been supplied by the defendant's wife at a time when he was in bed, that the defendant had no personal knowledge of the sale, and that he had previously warned his wife not to sell on Sunday, and that it was contrary to his express instructions and commands that she did so. It was admitted, however, that the wife attended to the shop regularly. The justices accepted the defendant's statement, and dismissed the charge. The Court, while intimating that they expressed no approval of the justices findings of fact, refused to disturb the order.

A, the holder of a licence, assigned his premises and licence to B, who took out a protection order under the Public House (Ir.) Act, 1855, and applied for a transfer at quarter sessions. This transfer was refused. B assigned the premises and licence to C, who subsequently let them to A. Held, that A was entitled to resume his trade without any transfer or protection order, and could not be convicted of selling without a licence (Dunigan v. Walsh, (1904) 2 I.R. 298; see also Lawrance v. O'Hara, (1903) 67 J.P. 369). A licensee who remained on in possession and carried on the trade after a protection order had been granted (under the English statute, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 44, s. 1) to another person in contemplation of the transfer of the licence and delivery of possession to him, was held not liable to a conviction for selling without a licence (Andrews v. Denton, (1897) 2 Q.B. 37). Effect of petty sessions "transfer."

It would appear that a licence may be in the names of several persons.<sup>1</sup> It is doubtful if a limited company can hold a licence in its own name (see R. v. Lyon, (1898) 14 T.L.R. 357: cf. Revenue Act, 1898, 61 & 62 Vict. c. 46, s. 15, noted ante, p. 546). "Licensed person."

The executor or a trustee of a licensed person carrying on the trade under the proviso to section 3 is a "licensed person" for the purposes of the Licensing Acts, and liable as such (McDonald v. Hughes, (1902) 1 K.B. 94). It has been held that a person under twenty-one years of age is not disqualified from carrying on the trade under the section (Rose v. Frogley, (1893) 17 Cox 685); but the attention of the court in this case was not called to section 20 of the Excise Management Act, 1827, 7 & 8 Geo. 4, c. 59, enacting that no entry of licensed premises can be made in the name of a person under twenty-one years of age. See p. 546, ante. Hotel licence.

The defendant was the holder of a licence granted for a hotel under the Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1902 (verbatim, APPENDIX OF STATUTES). Her trade in intoxicating liquors was practically carried on in three rooms.

<sup>1</sup> See form of clerk of peace's certificate under the Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1833, s. 5, "I certify that C D is (or C D and E F are) duly entitled to receive a licence," &c.

Sale without licence, &c.

Part of the middle room was cut off by a partition and glass screen, behind which intoxicating liquors were stored, and from which such liquors were handed out to an attendant to be given to the customer. The glass screen was provided with a moveable panel and door. The three rooms communicated with one another, and contained chairs, lounges and tables, at which the customers were served. All persons coming in were supplied. There were at least ten bedrooms upstairs. The magistrate held that it was not legal for the defendant under this class of licence to sell to anyone but travellers and guests at the hotel; that "public bar" did not refer exclusively to a physical structure in the nature of a counter; and that on the defendant's premises, as constructed and used, a public bar did exist. Held, that there was no prohibition against sales to the public under a licence granted under the Act of 1902, in respect of a hotel, and that the only restriction as to selling liquor in the case of such a licence was against having a public bar on the premises (Quinn v. Bourke, (1905) 39 I.L.T.R. 253). The court adopted the definition given in Murray's English Dictionary of a bar—"a barrier or counter over which drink (or food) is served out to customers in an inn, hotel, or tavern, and hence in a coffee-house at a railway station, &c., also the space behind this barrier, and sometimes the whole compartment containing it." The holder of such a hotel licence can be convicted of selling without a licence if he erects a public bar on his premises, and sells thereat (Quinn v. Bourke, (1906) 2 I.R. 94).<sup>1</sup> In this case the court upheld the finding of magistrates that the structure described in Quinn v. Bourke (31 I.L.T.R. 353), supra, was a "bar."

Licence to disqualify
person.

Any person who has been convicted of felony or of selling spirits without a licence is disqualified for ever from obtaining a licence to sell wine by retail (Refreshment Houses (Ir.) Act, 1860, s. 24) unless he has obtained a free pardon (Hay v. Tower JJ., (1890) 24 Q.B.D. 561), and a licence to sell wine by retail if granted to him is utterly void for all purposes (R. v. Vine, (1875) L.R. 10 Q.B. 195). In Ireland no other licensing disqualification arises from a conviction for felony. A licence which is forfeited on conviction for using licensed premises as a brothel is ipso facto void for all purposes (R. v. West Riding JJ., (1888) 21 Q.B.D. 258), as also, it is submitted, is a licence which has been forfeited on any other statutory ground (ib.; R. v. Vine, supra) or a licence granted to a person or in respect of premises, disqualified on any statutory ground (ib.; ib.; and Cowles v. Gale, infra). A licence which is granted without any jurisdiction whatsoever is absolutely void, e.g., a licence to a dead man (Cowles v. Gale, (1871) L.R. 7 Ch. 12); or a licence granted by justices sitting in private instead of in public (R. v. Downes, (1790) 3 T.R. 560). But where the statute (Revenue Act, 1862, s. 13) authorizes only a justice of the petty sessional division to grant an occasional licence, but same was granted by a justice not of the proper division, it was held that the licence was a good answer to a charge of selling without a licence (Stevens v. Emson, (1876) 1 Ex. D. 100; see also Thompson v. Harvey, (1859) 4 H. & N. 254; R. v. Minshall, (1833) 1 N. & M. 277).

Second
conviction

In order to justify the imposition of an increased penalty on a second conviction for selling without a licence under s. 3 of the Licensing Act, 1872, the first conviction must be for an offence of selling without a licence under the same section (Re Authers, (1889) 22 Q.B.D. 345). See also CONVICTIONS, p. 91.

Search
warrant.

"Any justice of the peace, if satisfied by information on oath that there is reasonable ground to believe that any intoxicating liquor is sold by retail, or exposed or kept for sale by retail at any place within his jurisdiction, whether a building or not, in which such liquor is not authorized to be sold by retail, may, in his discretion, grant a warrant under his hand, by virtue whereof it shall be lawful for any constable named in such warrant, at any time or times within one month from the date thereof, to enter, and, if need be, by force, the place named in the warrant, and every part thereof, and examine the same, and search for intoxicating liquor therein, and seize and remove any intoxicating liquor found therein, which there is reasonable ground to suppose is in such place for the purpose of unlawful sale at that or any other place, and the vessels containing such liquor; and in the event of the owner or occupier of such premises being convicted of selling by retail, or exposing or keeping for sale by retail any liquor which he is not authorized to sell by retail, the intoxicating liquor so seized, and the vessels containing such liquor, shall be forfeited. When a constable has entered any premises in pursuance of any such warrant as is mentioned in this section, and has seized and removed such liquor as aforesaid, any person found at the time on the premises shall, until the contrary is proved, be deemed to have been on such premises for the purpose of illegally dealing in intoxicating liquor, and be liable to a penalty not exceeding 40s. Any constable may demand the name and address of any person found on any premises on which he seizes, or from which he removes any such liquor as aforesaid; and if he has reasonable ground to suppose that the name and address given is false, may examine such person further as to the correctness of such name and address, and may, if such person fail upon such demand to give his name or address, or to answer satisfactorily the questions put to him by the constable, apprehend him without warrant, and carry him as soon as practicable before a justice of the peace. Any person required by a constable under this section to give his name and address, who fails to give the same, or gives a false name or address, or gives false information with respect to such name and address, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5" (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 24).

<sup>1</sup> But see Quinn v. Murray, (1863) 8 Ir. Jur. N. S. 392; Molloy v. Cunningham, (1866) 11 Ir. Jur. N. S. 371. In Quinn v. Bourke, (1906) 2 I.R. 94, the offender could clearly have been proceeded against under s. 24 of the Revenue Act, 1898 (now replaced by s. 50 of the Finance (1909-10) Act, 1910), for contravening the terms of her licence.

Search without licence, &c.
Search warrant.

"Illegal dealing" presumed.

Name and address to be given.

"It shall and may be lawful for any one or more justices of the peace, whether in or out of petty sessions, upon being satisfied by the personal examination on oath of a credible witness that there is reasonable ground for suspecting that spirits are sold, kept for sale, or exposed for sale in any house or place within the county, not licensed for the sale thereof, or by some person not having a licence to sell spirits in or at such house or place, or that illicit spirits are kept for sale in or at any house or place, to grant a warrant under his or their hand or hands, authorizing within the police district of Dublin metropolis any superintendent or inspector of police, or in any other part of Ireland any [sub-inspector, head or other constable]<sup>1</sup> of constabulary, with his assistants, respectively, to enter such house or place at all times, to search for spirits, and if any spirits shall be found in such house or place exceeding one gallon without a permit or other legal authority justifying the keeping thereof, or any spirits in any quantity whatsoever, the full duties whereon shall not have been duly paid, shall be found in such house or place, to seize such spirits, together with the vessel in which the same are contained; and such warrant shall continue in force for one month from the date thereof, and shall be sufficient authority to the superintendent, inspector, [sub-inspector, head or other constable]<sup>1</sup> therein named, and his assistants respectively, such assistants being members of the constabulary force, in his presence, to enter into such house or place, and seize all such spirits as aforesaid and the vessel containing the same; and the person on whose premises such spirits shall be found as aforesaid shall, on conviction, be liable, for the first offence, to a fine not exceeding £5, nor less than £2, or to Illegal possession of spirits.

<sup>1</sup> For the words in brackets, now read "district inspector, head constable, sergeant, acting-sergeant, or constable."

Sale without
licence, &c.

be imprisoned, with or without hard labour, for any term not exceeding three months, nor less than one month; and for the second and every subsequent offence, to a fine not exceeding £10, nor less than £5, or to be imprisoned, with or without hard labour, for any term not exceeding six months, nor less than three months, and all such spirits and the vessels containing the same, so seized as aforesaid, shall be forfeited" (Spirits (Ir.) Act, 1854, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 89, s. 2). The spirits are to be seized (ib.), and forfeited (Spirits (Ir.) Act, 1855, 18 & 19 Vict. c. 103, s. 2). Penalties under the Acts are recoverable under the Petty Sessions Act (Spirits (Ir.) Act, 1854, s. 8). The defendant is not a competent witness.

It is no defence to a charge under the Spirits (Ir.) Act, 1854, s. 2, that the search warrant (issued under that section) is defective (Yates v. Molony, (1900) 6 I.W.L.R. 175).

Illegally dealing.

A person purchasing liquor is guilty of an offence under s. 24 of the Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874 (supra), as the words "illegally dealing" include the purchasing as well as the selling of intoxicating liquor upon unlicensed premises (McKenzie v. Day, (1893) 1 Q.B. 289). Before forfeiting the liquor, the owner of same should be given an opportunity of being heard, to show that the seizure was wrong (Gill v. Bright, (1871) 25 L.T. 591.) Liquor seized under this section may be sold under s. 51 of the Licensing Act, 1872, noted post, p. 579.

Clubs.

As to clubs, see p. 543.

Soliciting orders for spirits, wines,
&c.

"If any person shall solicit, take, or receive any order for spirits, wine, or other article, for the dealing in, retailing, or selling whereof an Excise licence is by law required, without having in force a proper Excise licence authorizing him so to do, he shall forfeit the penalty imposed by law upon a person dealing in, retailing, or selling such article without having an Excise licence in force authorizing him so to do; and in any case in which the place of business or residence of the offender shall not be known to the officer of Excise who shall exhibit any information for the recovery of such penalty as aforesaid, or, if known, shall be out of the United Kingdom, it shall be sufficient service of the notice and summons required to be given to a defendant by any law of Excise if the same be left at the house or place where the offender shall have solicited, taken, or received any such order as aforesaid, addressed to such offender: Provided always that nothing herein contained shall be deemed to apply to the sale of any spirits or foreign wine while the same shall be and remain in the warehouse or warehouses in which the same shall have been deposited, lodged, or secured according to law, before payment of duty upon the importation thereof, where such spirits or foreign wine shall be sold in a quantity not less than one hundred gallons at one time, or to impose a penalty upon a bona fide traveller taking orders for goods which his employer is duly licensed to deal in or sell" (Revenue Act, 1867, 30 & 31 Vict. c. 90, s. 17). The penalty is an Excise penalty, as to the recovery of which, see p. 79, ante.

It may be noted that the above section is not confined to intoxicating liquors, but is applicable to all excisable articles.

The meaning of the section appears from the decision in Elias v. Dunlop, (1906) 1 K.B. 266. In that case the appellants carried on business as grocers at two sets of premises in Harrow. They held, among other licences, a retail beer licence in respect of one set of premises, but not in respect of the other. A customer called at the premises in respect of which they did not hold a retail beer licence, and inquired the price of beer, and gave an order in respect of a retail quantity. The shopman took the order, and said it would have to be dealt with at the other set of premises. The order was sent on to, and was supplied from, the other set of premises. The appellants were charged under the section with having received an order for sale by retail at the premises where they had no retail licence, and were convicted. On their behalf it was argued that the section has nothing to do with place or locality, and only has to do with an unlicensed person who solicits or takes an order for an excisable article without any licence authorizing him to do so. Held, that the appellants were rightly convicted, for the licence referred to in the section is local only, and there will be a breach if a sale is effected at, or an order is received at, any other place.

Soliciting
orders for spirits, wines,
&c.

A London watchmaker was the proprietor of a "watch club" in a provincial town. The secretary of the club, a clerk in the town, collected subscriptions from the members, which he forwarded to the watchmaker. Ballots for watches (to be supplied from the watchmaker's stock) were held from time to time. Held, that the secretary was guilty of an offence within the section, and was not a bona fide traveller within the exemption (Killick v. Graham, (1896) 2 Q.B. 196). A traveller for a fully licensed firm of wine and spirit merchants at Bristol occupied an office and premises at Cowbridge, where he resided, and where, amongst other places, he solicited and obtained orders which he forwarded to his employers at Bristol, who delivered the goods so ordered direct to the purchaser. The firm neither rented nor occupied any premises at all at Cowbridge, nor did they store goods upon their traveller's premises. Held, that the traveller was a bona fide traveller within the exemption (Stuchberry v. Spencer, (1886) 55 L.J.M.C. 141).

A brewer held a retail licence for the sale of beer in Inverness, and a wholesale licence at Elgin. A retail order was accepted at Elgin, transmitted to Inverness, where the beer was sent to the station at Elgin, where the brewer's servant took charge of it, and conveyed it to the purchaser. Held, that the sale took place at Elgin (Guild v. Freeman, (1898) 36 Sc.L.R. 6). The appellants carried on business as wine and spirit merchants in Worcester, and held all the necessary licences for dealing in and retailing spirits there. They took a house at Cheltenham in the name of D., one of their travellers, for their own use, took out a beer dealers' licence there, and put up a board with their names, describing themselves as "Distillers, Wine Merchants, and Brewers, Worcester." D. took orders for spirits at the Cheltenham premises, and transmitted them to Worcester, where the appellants executed the orders by sending out the spirits from Worcester. No spirits were kept in the Cheltenham premises. Held, that the justices were right in convicting the appellants of selling spirits at Cheltenham without a licence (Stallard v. Marks, (1878) 3 Q.B.D. 412).

A spirit grocer must now sell in closed vessels only, in quantities not exceeding at any one time to one person two gallons, or one dozen reputed quart bottles (Finance (1909-10) Act, 1910 (First Schedule), s. 122). As to the recording of convictions on the licence of a spirit grocer, see p. 580; and as to repeated convictions, see p. 583.

Spirit grocer.

Spirit dealer must not sell in quantity less than two gallons;<sup>1</sup> retailer must not sell spirits<sup>2</sup> to a rectifier, dealer, or retailer, or buy spirits from another retailer—Excise penalty, £50 (Spirits Act, 1880, s. 102). Every distiller, rectifier, dealer and retailer, when required, must assist excise officer in taking account of stock—Excise penalty for refusal or neglect, £50 (s. 142). Hawking, selling, or exposing to sale spirits otherwise than in premises licensed for the sale of spirits—Excise penalty, £100, and forfeiture of spirits; the fine cannot be mitigated to less than £6, and in default of payment imprisonment for not less than two months, nor more than three months (s. 146). Knowingly selling or delivering spirits to be unlawfully retailed, or consumed, or carried into consumption—Excise

Spirits.

<sup>1</sup> See also Finance (1909-10) Act, 1910, p. 568.

<sup>2</sup> Any fermented liquor containing a greater proportion than 40 per cent. of proof spirit shall be deemed to be spirits (23 & 24 Vict. c. 107. s. 23).

Spirits.

penalty, £100 (s. 146). Receiving, buying, or procuring spirits from persons unauthorized to sell or deliver same—Excise penalty, £100 (s. 148). Knowingly buying, or receiving, or having spirits on which duty is not paid—Excise penalty, forfeiture of spirits, and fine equal to treble the value thereof (s. 149). As to permit, see ss. 105, 116.

Person licensed to retail wine under Refreshment Houses (Ireland) Act, 1860, receiving into or having in his possession spirits in any cellar, room, or place used for storing, keeping, or retailing wine—Excise penalty, £50, licence to be forfeited (Refreshment Houses (Ir.) Act, 1860, s. 27).

Spirits in transit.

Any county inspector, or member of the R.I.C. below that rank, may demand from any person having spirits exceeding one gallon in his possession a proper permit; and, if such permit be not produced, seize such spirits, and vessel containing, and the horse and vehicle conveying, the same, and arrest such person—Penalty, first offence, 20s. to £5, or imprisonment, with or without hard labour, three months to one month; second offence, 40s. to £10, or imprisonment, with or without hard labour, six months to two months (Spirits (Ir.) Act, 1854, s. 6). The Petty Sessions Act applies (s. 8).

Storing of liquor.

"If any licensed person has in his possession, on the premises in respect of which his licence is granted, any description of intoxicating liquor which he is not authorized to sell, unless he shall account for the possession of the same to the satisfaction of the court by which he is tried, he shall forfeit such liquor and the vessels containing the same, and shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding for the first offence £10, and not exceeding for any subsequent offence £20" (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 10). See also 17 & 18 Vict. c. 89, s. 2, noted ante, p. 573.

Theatre licence.

As to grant of a theatre licence, see p. 117.

"It shall not be lawful for any person under the authority of any licence granted under the authority of section 7 of the Excise Act, 1835, to sell or expose for sale by retail any intoxicating liquors elsewhere than within the part or parts of the theatre or other place of public entertainment which shall be specified in such licence; or to sell intoxicating liquors to persons other than those employed in or bona fide attending the performances in such theatre or other place of public entertainment; or to sell or expose intoxicating liquor at any time other than the time of such performances, or during thirty minutes immediately preceding the commencement or immediately succeeding the termination of such performances<sup>1</sup>, and any sale or exposure for sale in contravention of any of the provisions of this enactment shall be deemed to be a sale or exposing for sale by retail of intoxicating liquor by a person not duly licensed to sell the same within the meaning of the principal Act, and shall subject the person making the same to the penalties and forfeitures of that Act. Provided always, that no part of such theatre or other place of public entertainment which shall, during the performances in the same, be accessible to persons other than those employed or attending performances therein, shall be included in any such licence" (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 7).

It is doubtful whether a sale can take place during hours ordinarily prohibited, even if within the periods mentioned in this section (see Gallagher v. Rudd, (1898) 1 Q.B. 114).

Valuation of licensed premises.

The Finance (1909–10) Act, 1910, s. 44 (3), contains provisions under which the licence-holder and any person interested in licensed premises can be required (under a penalty not exceeding £20) to furnish particulars to the Commissioners of Inland Revenue for the purpose of valuation under that Act.

<sup>1</sup>To take advantage of the fixed duty of £20 under the Finance (1909–10) Act, 1910, it shall be a condition of the licence that intoxicating liquor is not sold "except while the premises are open and being used, and to persons bona fide using the premises," for the purposes of a theatre (Schedule, Scale 7).

PROCEDURE.

Procedure.

	PAGE
Excise offences generally, . . .	577
Offences under Illicit Distillation of Spirits (Ir.) Act, 1831, . . .	577
Offences under Refreshment Houses (Ir.) Act, 1860, . . .	577
Offences under Acts to which Petty Sessions Act applies, . . .	578

	PAGE
Offences under Licensing Act, 1862, and Acts to be read as one therewith : Procedure generally, p. 578 ; charge of drunkenness in towns, 579 ; local limits of jurisdiction, 579 ; certiorari taken away, 580 ; recording conviction, p. 580 ; defacing records, p. 582 ; proof of recorded conviction, p. 582 ; register of licences, p. 582 ; forfeiture of licence on repeated convictions, p. 582 ; disqualification of premises, p. 583 ; stale convictions, p. 584 ; appeals, p. 584.

Reference should be made to p. 79 for the procedure as to the various offences (other than offences under the Illicit Distillation of Spirits (Ir.) Act, 1831) the penalties for which are stated in the preceding part of this article to be excise penalties. In any such proceeding, two justices are required (see p. 79).

For the alternative procedures as to offences under the Illicit Distillation of Spirits (Ir.) Act, 1831, see p. 545. Under either of those procedures two justices are required.

Offences under the Refreshment Houses (Ir.) Act, 1860, are of two classes :—(a) offences punishable by penalties declared by the Act to be excise penalties (Refreshment Houses (Ir.) Act, 1860, s. 45) ; and (b) offences punishable by penalties not declared to be excise penalties. As to class (a), the procedure is that indicated at p. 79, ante, as to excise offences generally. Penalties for such offences may be mitigated to not less than one-fourth (s. 35). See also s. 33 infra, which applies to all offences.

For any proceedings relating to such offences, two justices are required (see p. 79).

The procedure as to all offences under the Act which are not declared excise offences is subject to the Petty Sessions Act (s. 44), with the following modifications :—Only the police can prosecute (s. 32). Prosecutions to be commenced within three calendar months of the offence, or such shorter time as is fixed by the section creating it (ib.). Defendant to be fined either the sum fixed by the section under which he is convicted, or, where no penalty is fixed, then to be fined £5, unless proof be given that defendant, within the twelve calendar months preceding his conviction, has been once convicted of an offence under the Act, in which case he shall be fined either the sum fixed by the section under which he is convicted or £10 ; or unless proof be given that defendant, during the eighteen calendar months preceding his conviction, has been twice convicted of an offence under the Act, in which case he shall be fined either the sum fixed by the section under which he is convicted or £50 (s. 32) with in each case “the costs of the conviction,” such penalty to be applied in accordance with the Fines (Ir.) Act, 1851 (s. 44), and to be subject to any mitigation the justices think fit (s. 35). Any person so convicted of such second or third offence may, upon entering into the prescribed recognizances, appeal to the quarter sessions next held twelve days after such conviction : the prosecutor also to be bound over on recognizance to appear on the appeal. Upon such appeal the fine may be increased to not more than £100, together with the costs of the appeal, or the licence may be forfeited, or the premises may be disqualified for two years, or the fine may be increased as above stated and the licence Procedure as to Excise offences generally.

Procedure under Illicit Distillation of Spirits (Ir.) Act, 1831.

Procedure under Refreshment Houses (Ir.) Act, 1860.

(a) Excise offences.

(b) Other offences.

Procedure
under Refreshment Houses (Ir.)
Act. 1860.

forfeited, in which latter case the defendant shall be disqualified for two years from holding any such licence (s. 36). If on such appeal the appeal be dismissed or abandoned, quarter sessions shall order the defendant to pay costs sufficient to cover the expenses incurred by the complainant on such appeal, and in default of payment to be imprisoned for not more than six calendar months; but if the order be reversed, the quarter sessions shall order the treasurer of the county to pay like costs to the defendant (s. 37). Person summoned as witness failing to attend and give evidence either before justices or quarter sessions—Penalty, not exceeding £10 (s. 40). See also s. 33 (next paragraph), as to all offences.

As to all
offences.

If any person licensed under the Act for the sale by retail of wine be convicted of any offence under the Act, and if it be proved that, within two years preceding such conviction, two convictions under the Act either of that person or of any other person so licensed in respect of the same premises have taken place, the court may declare the licence forfeited, and order that, for three years from the date of their order, no such licence be issued in respect of the same premises (s. 33).

Offences
under Acts to which
P. S. Act applies.

By the Petty Sessions (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1863, 26 & 27 Vict. c. 96, s. 1, proceedings, outside Dublin, under the Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1833, and the Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1836, are governed by the Petty Sessions Act.<sup>1</sup> By s. 8 of the Spirits (Ir.) Act, 1854, the Petty Sessions Act applies to all proceedings under that Act. By the Beer Houses (Ir.) Act, 1864, s. 12, proceedings under that Act are governed by the Petty Sessions Act and the Dublin Police Acts. Under the above statutes the defendant or the wife of the defendant is not a competent witness. As there is no statutory provision to the contrary, the Petty Sessions Act and the Dublin Police Acts will also apply to proceedings under the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1908, and to proceedings under the Children Act, 1908. A defendant and a husband and wife of defendant are competent witnesses under the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1908 (s. 12). A defendant and husband and wife of the defendant are competent witnesses in charges under Part II of the Children Act, 1908 (see s. 133 (28)), but Part II does not include s. 120 (allowing children to be in the bars of licensed premises). As to procedure under the Petty Sessions Act, see p. 40, and as to the Dublin Police Acts, see p. 305.

Procedure
under Licensing
Act, 1872, and Acts read therewith.

The rest of this article deals with the procedure under the Licensing Act, 1872, and the Acts to be read as one therewith. Those Acts are the Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, which terms the Act of 1872 "the principal Act"; the Sale of Liquors on Sunday (Ir.) Act, 1878, which merely extends the Acts of 1872 and 1874 as well as other Acts; the Intoxicating Liquors (Sale to Children) Act, 1901, which (see s. 4) is to be read as one with the Acts already mentioned; the Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1905, and the Intoxicating Liquors (Ir.) Act, 1906 (see Rowan v. Hamilton, (1909) 2 I.R. 626).

Generally.
Application of
S. J. Acts.
Constitution of Court.

Except as in this Act otherwise expressly provided, every offence under this Act may be prosecuted, and every penalty and forfeiture may be recovered and enforced, in manner provided by the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1848<sup>2</sup> subject to the following provisions:—(1) The court of summary jurisdiction, when hearing and determining an information or complaint, other than in a case where the offence charged is that of being found drunk in any highway or other public place, or on any licensed premises, shall be constituted either of two or more justices of the peace in petty sessions sitting at a place appointed for holding petty sessions, or of a stipendiary magistrate,<sup>1</sup> or some other officer for the time being empowered by law to do alone any act authorized to be done by more than one justice of the peace, and sitting alone or with others at some court or other place appointed for the administration of justice. (2) Where the court of summary jurisdiction orders that a distress shall be made in default of payment of any penal sum exceeding £5, including under that expression costs actually adjudged in respect of an offence, the court may order that in default of the said sum being paid as directed, the person liable to pay the same shall be imprisoned for any term not exceeding the period specified in the following scale:—for any sum exceeding £5 but not exceeding £10, three months; for any sum exceeding £10 but not exceeding £30, four months; for any sum exceeding £30 but not exceeding £50, six months; for any sum exceeding £50, one year. (3) The description of any offence under this Act in the words of such Act, or in similar words, shall be sufficient in law. (4) Any exception, exemption, proviso, excuse, or qualification, whether it does or does not accompany the description of the offence in this Act, may be proved by the defendant, but need not be specified or negatived in the information; and if so specified or negatived, no proof in relation to the matters so specified or negatived shall be required on the part of the informant or complainant; and in all cases of summary proceedings under this Act, the defendant and his wife shall be competent to give evidence. (5) All forfeitures shall be sold or otherwise disposed of in such manner as the court may direct, and the proceeds of such sale or disposal (if any) shall be applied in the like manner as penalties, but the court may direct that such proceeds may be applied in the first instance in paying the expenses of and incidental to any search and seizure which resulted in such forfeiture. (6) Penalties and forfeitures under this Act shall not, for the purpose of any Act respecting the application of such penalties, or the costs, charges, and expenses attending proceedings for recovery of such penalties or of forfeitures, be deemed to be penalties or forfeitures under any Act relating to the Inland Revenue. Any officer appointed by the Commissioners of Inland Revenue may sue for any penalties under this Act, and when so sued for any penalties which may be recovered shall be applied in the manner in which Excise penalties are for the time being applicable by law.<sup>2</sup> Where under this Act any sum for costs (other than costs upon a conviction or order of dismissal of an information) or for compensation, or both, is ordered or awarded to be paid by any person, the amount thereof shall be recovered in manner directed by the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1848,<sup>3</sup> for the recovery of costs awarded upon the dismissal of an information or complaint” (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 51).

<sup>1</sup> A power of mitigation of penalties under the Acts of 1833 and 1836 to one-fourth was given by s. 24 of the Act of 1833 and s. 23 of the Act of 1836. Section 24 of the Act of 1833 is, however, repealed by the Statute Law Revision Act, 1891, but, in view of the limited effect of such repeal (see p. 340), ante, it is not certain that such power of mitigation is taken away.

<sup>2</sup> Meaning in Ireland the Petty Sessions Act, or in Dublin the Dublin Police Acts (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 77). This section has been repealed by the Statute Law Revision Act, 1883, which, however, provided that such repeal should not affect any established jurisdiction, practice, or procedure.

Wherever the Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, or any local Act incorporating the same, is in force in any town or place, a justice of the peace for such town or place may hear and determine charges for offences committed within the boundary of such town or place against s. 12 of the Act of 1872 (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 30). This does not apply to Dublin (ib.).

“For all the purposes of this Act, any pier, quay, jetty, mole, or work extending from any place within the jurisdiction of any licensing justices or court of summary jurisdiction into or over any part of the sea, or any

Procedure under Licensing Act, 1872, and Acts read therewith.

Distress.

Description of offence.

Negativing exemptions.

Defendant and wife of defendant competent witnesses.

Disposal of forfeitures.

Penalties not Excise penalties.

Enforcement of order as to costs.

Charges of drunkenness, &c., in towns.

Local limits of jurisdiction, Seas, rivers, &c.

<sup>1</sup> A resident magistrate is not a stipendiary magistrate within the section (R. (Jackson) v. Tipperary J.J., (1894) 28 I.L.T.R. 107).

<sup>2</sup> As to application of Excise Penalties, see p. 79, ante.

<sup>3</sup> That is, the Dublin Police Acts, or Petty Sessions Acts, as the case may be.

Procedure under Licensing Act, 1872, and Acts read therewith.

Certiorari taken away.

Recording offences.
(1) Under Act of 1872.

part of a river within the ebb and flow of the tide, shall be deemed to be within the jurisdiction of such justices and court. For the purpose of jurisdiction in any proceeding under this Act, any river or water which runs between or forms the boundary of two or more licensing districts, or of the jurisdiction of two or more courts of summary jurisdiction, shall be deemed to be wholly within each such licensing district and the jurisdiction of each of such courts" (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 61).

Conviction not to be quashed on certiorari (s. 54); but as to the effect of such a provision see p. 226.

Convictions for the following offences either were to be or might be recorded under the Licensing Act, 1872:—Sections 5 and 6—Holder of an "off" licence allowing drinking on or near the premises, or evading the law by sending out liquor for sale and consumption (ss. 5, 6); permitting drunkenness or disorderly conduct, or sale to drunken person (s. 13); permitting prostitutes to resort (s. 14); harbouring or supplying constable on duty, or bribing constable (s. 16); permitting gaming or unlawful games, or suffering premises to be used contrary to Betting Act, 1853 (s. 17); selling or exposing for sale, or opening or keeping open for sale, or allowing liquor to be consumed during prohibited times (s. 78); spirit grocer allowing liquor to be drunk in or near premises, or evading law by sending out liquor for sale and consumption (ss. 83, 84); spirit grocer selling during prohibited hours (s. 86).

(2) Under Act of 1874.

The Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, creates the following offences, namely:—Adulterating liquor (s. 22); refusing or failing to admit constable (s. 23); failing to produce licence on being required by court (s. 33); and it also enacts that, for the purposes of ss. 13, 14, 16, and 17 of the Act of 1872, a person taking out an occasional licence shall be deemed to be a licensed person within the meaning of those sections, and that the place in which any intoxicating liquors are sold, in pursuance of the occasional licence, shall be deemed to be licensed premises, and to be the premises of the person taking out such licence (s. 6).

"Where any licensed person or spirit grocer is convicted of any offence against the principal Act,<sup>1</sup> which by such Act was to have been, or might have been, endorsed upon the licence or excise licence, or of any offence against this Act, the court<sup>2</sup> before whom the offender is brought shall cause the register of licences in which the licence or excise licence of the offender is entered, or a copy of the entries therein relating to the licence or excise licence of the offender, certified in manner prescribed by this Act, to be produced to the court before passing sentence; and after inspecting the entries therein in relation to the licence or excise licence of the offender, or such copy thereof as aforesaid, the court shall declare, as part of its sentence, whether it will or will not cause the conviction for such offence to be recorded on the licence or excise licence of the offender; and if it decide that such record is to be made, the same shall be made accordingly. A declaration by the court that a record of an offence is to be made on a licence or excise licence shall be deemed to be part of the conviction or order of the court in reference to such offence, and shall be subject accordingly to the jurisdiction of the court of appeal. A direction by the court that a conviction for an offence is to be recorded on the licence or excise licence of the offender shall, for the purposes of the principal Act, be deemed equivalent to a direction or requirement by the Act that such conviction is to be recorded; and all the provisions of the principal Act importing that convictions are required or directed by the Act to be recorded on the licence or excise licence of an offender shall be construed accordingly" (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 21).

<sup>1</sup> That is the Licensing Act of 1872.

<sup>2</sup> The offences of bribery or treating by a licensed person on his licensed premises must also be entered (46 & 47 Vict. c. 51, s. 38 (8)).

"Where a licensed person or a spirit grocer is convicted of any offence against the provisions of any Act for the time being in force relating to the adulteration of drink,<sup>1</sup> such conviction shall be entered in the proper register of licences, and may be directed to be recorded on the licence or excise licence of the offender in the same manner as if the conviction were for an offence against the principal Act, and when so recorded shall have effect as if it had been a conviction for an offence against the principal Act" (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 22). But a conviction under the Food and Drugs Acts has not the effect of a conviction under the Licensing Act, 1874, or the Acts to be read as one therewith (as to which see p. 578), so as to work a forfeiture of the licence, unless it is directed to be recorded on the licence (Millar v. M'Cabe, (1892, Co. Court) 26 I.L.T. & S.J. 348).

Procedure under Licensing Act, 1872, and Acts read therewith.
(3) Adulteration of drink.

A conviction of a licensed person for an offence against the Criminal Law and Procedure (Ir.) Act, 1887 (i.e., conspiracy, intimidation, assaulting or resisting police or sheriff in a proclaimed district, riot or unlawful assembly), is recordable, and, when recorded, has the same effect as if it were a conviction under the Licensing Acts (Criminal Law and Procedure (Ir.) Act, 1887, 50 & 51 Vict. c. 20, s. 11 (2)); but as to the effect of such a conviction if unrecorded, see Millar v. M'Cabe, supra.

(4) Criminal Law and Procedure. (Ir.) Act, 1887.

"With respect to the record of convictions of licensed persons for offences under this Act committed by them as such, the following provisions shall have effect in cases where this Act requires the conviction to be recorded on the licence:—(1) The court before whom any licensed person is accused shall require such person to produce and deliver to the clerk of the court the licence under which such person carries on business, and the summons shall state that such production will be required.<sup>2</sup> (2) If such person is convicted, the court shall cause the short particulars of such conviction, and the penalty imposed, to be endorsed on his licence before it is returned to the offender. (3) The clerk to the licensing justices shall enter the particulars respecting such conviction, or such of them as the case may require, in the register of licences, kept by him under this Act. (4) If the clerk to the court be not the clerk to the licensing justices, he shall send forthwith to the last-mentioned clerk notice of such conviction, and of the particulars thereof. (5) Where the conviction of any such person has the effect of forfeiting the licence, or of disqualifying any person or premises for the purposes of this Act, the licence shall be retained by the clerk of the court, and notice of such forfeiture and disqualification shall be sent to the licensing officer of the district, and if the clerk to the court is not the clerk to the licensing justices, to such last-mentioned clerk, together with the forfeited licence" (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 55).

Entry of record, &c.

"Where a licensed person is convicted of more offences than one committed on the same day, the convictions for which are by this Act directed to be recorded on his licence, the court by whom he is convicted may, in their discretion, order that one or some only of such convictions shall be so recorded" (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 57). See also s. 21 of the Act of 1874, which leaves the question of recording entirely in the discretion of justices.

More than one offence in same day.

A conviction under the Intoxicating Liquors (Sale to Children) Act, 1901, 1 Ed. 7, c. 27, is not recordable, and a conviction ordering a record will be quashed (R. (Haslett) v. Fermanagh J.J., (1903) 37 I.L.T.R. 120, 3 N.I.J.R. 109).

Wrongfully recording convictions.

It should be noted that the Court must declare as part of the sentence

Omission to order record.

<sup>1</sup> Consequently a conviction, if for the adulteration of drink, under the Food and Drugs Acts, is recordable.

<sup>2</sup> But see s. 33 of Act of 1874, p. 556.

Procedure under Licensing Act, 1872, and Acts read therewith.

Defacing record.

Proof of recorded conviction.

Register of licences.

Forfeiture of licence and personal disqualification.

whether it will or will not cause the conviction to be recorded<sup>1</sup> on the licence, so that if the order is silent in this respect the conviction will be bad, and will be set aside R. (Sheran) v. Dublin J.J., (1906) 40 I.L.T.R. 22). See also Shiel v. Mc'Carthy, (1895) 29 I.L.T. and S.J. 577, 584.

"If any person defaces or obliterates, or attempts to deface or obliterate, any record of a conviction on his licence, he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5" (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 34).

An entry of any conviction ordered to be recorded on a licence or an excise licence in the Register of Licences, or in the Petty Sessions or Police Court Order Book, or a copy of any such entry, purporting to be signed and certified as a true copy by the person having custody of such book, and also in the case of a Petty Sessions Order Book, by a justice pursuant to the Petty Sessions Act, is evidence of such conviction and order respectively, and is conclusive evidence that such conviction was duly recorded upon any licence or excise licence which is not produced to a recorder, court of quarter sessions, or court of summary jurisdiction requiring such production (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 35).

The Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 16, provides for a register of licences, to be kept in each petty sessions district by the clerk of petty sessions.<sup>2</sup> Such register must contain (1) particulars of licences transmitted by the clerk of the peace, in pursuance of section 15; (2) the particulars of all licensing justices' certificates; (3) the premises in respect of which they are granted; (4) the names and addresses of the owners of the premises and the names of the holders, for the time being, of such certificates; (5) all forfeitures of licences; (6) all exemption orders; (7) all disqualifications of premises; (8) records of convictions; (9) other matters relating to the licences in the district. A person claiming to be the owner of premises may apply to a court of summary jurisdiction to have his name substituted in the register, which may be inspected by any ratepayer or any owner of licensed premises, and any holder of any licence within the district on payment of a fee of 1s.; by any police officer or excise officer without payment.

"If any licensed person on whose licence two convictions for offences committed by him against this Act have been recorded is convicted of any offence which is directed by this Act to be recorded on his licence, the following consequences shall ensue, that is to say:—(1) The licence of such licensed person shall be forfeited, and he shall be disqualified for a term of five years from the date of such third conviction from holding any licence; and (2) the premises in respect of which his licence was granted shall, unless the court having cognizance of the case, in its discretion, thinks fit otherwise to order, be disqualified from receiving any licence for a term of two years from the date of such third conviction: Provided that nothing in this section contained shall prevent the infliction by the court of any pecuniary penalty or any term of imprisonment to which such licensed person would otherwise be liable, or shall preclude the court from exercising any power given by any other section of this Act of disqualifying such licensed person or such premises for a longer period than the term mentioned in this section" (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 30).

<sup>1</sup> "Where a conviction for an offence is by this Act directed to be recorded on the licence of any person, the fact of no such record having been made shall not, if such conviction be otherwise proved to the satisfaction of the court having cognizance of any case under this Act, exempt such person, or the premises occupied by him, from any penalty to which such person or premises would have been subject if such record had been duly made. And on such proof being given, the omitted conviction may be recorded accordingly, and shall be deemed to have been duly recorded in accordance with this Act" (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 33); and it is submitted that, whilst this section was operative so long as the recording was obligatory, that is, until the passing of the Act of 1874, it is really obsolete and inoperative now.

<sup>2</sup> The Clerk of the Peace also keeps a register under s. 11 of the Licensing Act, 1833.

"The preceding provisions of this Act relating to repeated convictions, except so much thereof as relate to the disqualification of premises, shall apply to spirit grocers, and for the purpose of such application, the terms 'spirit grocer' and 'excise licence' shall respectively be therein substituted for the terms 'licensed person' and 'licence'" (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 80).

Procedure under Licensing Act, 1872, and Acts read therewith. Spirit grocers.

See also s. 3 (p. 567) as to liability to disqualification on second conviction of selling without licence.

Two recorded convictions followed by a third recordable conviction have the effect of forfeiting the licence, even though they do not take place within the same licensing year (R. (O'Leary) v. Cork JJ., (1883) 12 L.R.I. 167, 17 I.L.T.R. 106; R. (Hore) v. Wexford JJ., (1904) 2 I.R. 51, 3 N.I.J.R. 151).

"The following additional provisions shall be enacted with respect only to convictions of persons who may hereafter become licensed in respect of premises, and shall not apply to a conviction of any person licensed for any premises at the passing of this Act, so long as he is licensed in respect of the same premises, viz.:—(1) The second and every subsequent conviction recorded on the licence of any one such person shall also be recorded in the register of licences against the premises. (2) When four convictions (whether of the same or of different licensed persons) have within five years been so recorded against premises, those premises shall during one year be disqualified for the purposes of this Act. (3) If the licences of two such persons licensed in respect of the same premises are forfeited within any period of two years, the premises shall be disqualified for one year from the date of the last forfeiture: Provided that where any premises are disqualified under this section, notice of such disqualification shall be served upon the owner of the premises in like manner as an order of disqualification is required to be served under this Act, and the regulations for the protection of the owner of premises in case of an order of disqualification shall, so far as the same are applicable, extend to the case of disqualification under this section" (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 31).

Disqualification of premises.

When two recorded convictions have been followed by a third recordable conviction, the justices should consider the question of disqualification of the premises under section 30 (2), and should it appear that they have failed to do so, the disqualification will not attach (R. (O'Hara) v. Wicklow JJ., (1902) 36 I.L.T.R. 72, 136; 2 N.I.J.R. 218); and apparently the disqualification will not attach if the clerk of petty sessions has neglected to serve the notices prescribed by section 56 (ib.).<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Section 56 contains provisions as to the protection of owners of licensed premises, including a mortgagee in possession (see s. 77) as follows:—"Where any tenant of any licensed premises is convicted of an offence against this Act, and such offence is one the repetition of which may render the premises liable to be disqualified from receiving a licence for any period, it shall be the duty of the clerk of the licensing justices to serve, in manner provided by this Act, notice of every such conviction on the owner of the premises. Where any order of a court of summary jurisdiction declaring any licensed premises to be disqualified from receiving a licence for any period has been made, the court shall cause such order to be served on the owner of such premises where the owner is not the occupier, with the addition of a statement that the court will hold a petty sessions at a time and place therein specified, at which the owner may appear, and appeal against such order on all or any of the following grounds, but on no other grounds: (a) That notice as required by this Act has not been served on the owner of a prior offence, which on repetition, renders the premises liable to be disqualified from receiving a licence at any period; or (b) that the tenant by whom the offence was committed held under a contract made prior to the commencement of this Act, and that the owner could not legally have evicted the tenant in the interval between the commission of the offence, in respect of which the disqualifying order was made, and the receipt by him of the notice of the immediately preceding offence, which on repetition renders the premises liable to be disqualified from receiving a licence at any period; or (c) that the offence in respect of which the disqualifying order was made occurred so soon after the receipt of such last-mentioned notice, that the owner, notwithstanding he had legal power to evict the tenant, could not with reasonable diligence have exercised that power in the interval which

Procedure
under Licensing
Act, 1872, and Acts read
therewith.
Definitions.
"Licence."
"Licensed person."
"Licensed premises."
Stale conviction.
Appeals.

A licence within the Licensing Act, 1872, and the Acts to be read therewith (see p. 578), means an Excise licence for the sale of intoxicating liquor, but not including a spirit grocer's licence or a wholesale beer dealer's licence (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 37). "Licensed person" means a person holding a licence (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 77). "Licensed premises" means premises in respect of which a licence has been granted and is in force.

"A conviction for any offence under this Act, shall not after five years from the date of such conviction be receivable in evidence against any person for the purpose of subjecting him to an increased penalty or to any forfeiture" (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 32).

"If any person feels aggrieved by any order or conviction made by a court of summary jurisdiction, the person so aggrieved may appeal therefrom, subject to the conditions and regulations following: (1) The appeal shall be made to the next court of quarter sessions for the county or place in which the cause of appeal has arisen, holden not less than fifteen days after the decision of the court from which the appeal is made. (2) The appellant shall, within seven days after the cause of appeal has arisen, give notice<sup>1</sup> to the other party, and to the court of summary jurisdiction of his intention to appeal, and of the ground thereof. (3) The appellant, immediately after such notice, shall enter into a recognizance before a justice of the peace, with two sufficient sureties, conditioned personally to try such appeal, and to abide the judgment of the court thereon, and to pay such costs as may be awarded by the court, or shall give such other security by deposit of money or otherwise as the justice may allow. (5) The court of appeal may adjourn the appeal, and upon the hearing thereof may confirm, reverse, or modify the decision of the court of summary jurisdiction, or remit the matter to the court of summary jurisdiction with the opinion of the court of appeal thereon, or make such other order in the matter as the court thinks just. The court of appeal may also make such order as to costs to be paid by either party as the court thinks just" (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 52).

"When the appellant is in custody, and shall enter into such recognizances with sureties approved by the justice in manner by said Act provided, or shall give such other security as by said Act provided, the justice shall release him from custody" (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1874, s. 31).

The appeal provided by the above sections is unaffected by the Petty Sessions Act (R. (McGrath) v. Wicklow J.J., (1901) 2 I.R. 130). Therefore, no notice of intention to prosecute the appeal is required (ib.). The procedure as to appeals laid down by the Licensing Acts, 1872 and 1874, will also apply to appeals in respect of offences against the Sale of Liquors on Sunday (Ir.) Act, 1878, the Intoxicating Liquors (Sale to occurred between the said notice and the second offence. If the owner appear at the time and place specified, and at such sessions, or any adjournment thereof, satisfy the court that he is entitled to have the order cancelled on any of the grounds aforesaid, the court shall thereupon direct such order to be cancelled, and the same shall be void" (Licensing Act, 1872, s. 56).

<sup>1</sup> The following is a form of notice:—

County of . Petty Sessions District of Between A. B., Complainant; and C. D., Defendant.
Take notice that I, C. D., of , the above-named defendant, being aggrieved by the order or conviction made by the court on the day of , do hereby give you notice of my intention to appeal from such order or conviction to the next court of Quarter Sessions for the County of , to be held at , on the day of , and the grounds of my said appeal are (1), that the said order or conviction was made without evidence, and was against evidence and the weight of evidence; (2) that the determination of said court was wrong in point of law, and was made without jurisdiction, and in excess of jurisdiction.

Dated

Children) Act, 1901 (see s. 4 of that statute), and, it is submitted, against the Intoxicating Liquors (Ir.) Act, 1905, and the Intoxicating Liquors (Ir.), Act, 1906; but it will not apply to offences against the Children Act, 1908, s. 120, as applied to Ireland by s. 133 (29) of the same statute, to which the Petty Sessions Act procedure will apply. A defendant who is convicted can appeal, no matter how small the penalty may be. A prosecutor cannot appeal, not being a party aggrieved (see R. (Kane) v. Tyrone JJ., (1906) 40 I.L.T.R. 181; R. v. London JJ., (1890) 25 Q.B.D. 357). Nor is an owner of licensed premises, whose tenant has been convicted, a person aggrieved, even though the conviction has been recorded (R. v. Andorer JJ., (1886) 16 Q.B.D. 711. See also Appeals to Quarter Sessions, p. 130, ante).

Procedure under Licensing Act, 1872, and Acts read therewith.

LARCENY AND EMBEZZLEMENT.

	PAGE		PAGE
Definition of larceny, . . . . .	585	Summary jurisdiction under Larceny Act, 1861—
Summary jurisdiction under Criminal Justice Act, 1855—		Punishment of abettors, . . . . .	589
Simple larceny not exceeding 5s., or attempted simple larceny or attempted larceny from the person, . . . . .	585	Arrest, . . . . .	589
Simple larceny, &c., exceeding 5s., . . . . .	586	Search warrant, . . . . .	589
Procedure, . . . . .	586	Application of penalties, . . . . .	589
Embezzlement, . . . . .	586	First offences, . . . . .	589
Summary jurisdiction under Larceny Act, 1861—		Barring of further proceedings, . . . . .	589
Dogs, . . . . .	586	Application of Petty Sessions Act, . . . . .	590
Animals kept in confinement, . . . . .	587	Number of justices required, . . . . .	590
Pigeons, . . . . .	587	Summary jurisdiction under Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1862—
Trees, &c., . . . . .	587	Number of justices required, . . . . .	590
Fences, . . . . .	587	Stealing shrubs, &c., not over value of £5, . . . . .	590
Unlawful possession of tree, &c., . . . . .	588	Stealing trees, plants, &c., not over value of 40s., . . . . .	590
Stealing fruit, &c., from garden, . . . . .	588	Unlawful possession of carcases of sheep, . . . . .	590
Stealing vegetable productions, &c., elsewhere, . . . . .	588	Workman making away with goods not over value of £5, . . . . .	591
Unlawful possession of shipwrecked goods, . . . . .	588	Application of Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Acts, . . . . .	591
Offering shipwrecked goods for sale, . . . . .	588	Summary jurisdiction as to children and young persons, . . . . .	591
Receivers of stolen property, . . . . .	588	Game (including deer) and fish (including oysters). See GAME; FISHERY LAWS.

As to what constitutes the offence of larceny, see CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES, "LARCENY." Except in cases hereinafter mentioned, the offence is triable only on indictment.<sup>1</sup>

Where any person is charged at petty sessions with the simple larceny of anything which in the opinion of the court does not exceed in all the value of 5s., or with attempting to commit either larceny from the person or simple larceny, the court may try the case summarily; but if by reason of a previous conviction of the accused the offence charged is punishable with penal servitude, or if the court, for any reason, thinks that the offence charged should not be tried summarily, then the accused may be sent for trial (Criminal Justice Act, 1855,<sup>2</sup> 18 & 19 Vict. c. 128, s. 1); if the accused be tried summarily, he may be imprisoned for not exceeding

Definition of larceny.

Criminal Justice Act, 1855. Simple larceny not exceeding 5s., or attempted simple larceny, or attempted larceny from the person.

<sup>1</sup> The offence of obtaining money, &c., by false pretences, is not punishable summarily.

<sup>2</sup> Printed verbatim, APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

Criminal Justice Act, 1855.

three months, with or without hard labour, or, if the court thinks that "there are circumstances in the case which render it inexpedient to inflict any punishment," the charge, whether proved or not, may be dismissed (ib.).

Before disposing summarily of any of the foregoing offences, justices must carefully comply with s. 2 of the Act, for which see APPENDIX OF STATUTES. From the wording of s. 2 it would appear that, once the justices, pursuant to that section, after having asked the accused whether he consents to be tried by them, and have been informed by the accused that he consents to be so tried, the power of the justices to commit him for trial is gone. R. v. Hertfordshire J.J., (1911) 1 K.B. 612, may at first sight seem an authority against this view, but the decision in that case turned largely upon s. 12 of the Summary Jurisdiction (E.) Act, 1879, 42 & 43 Vict. c. 49, which provides that if, in reply to the question of the justices, the accused consents to be tried by them, they "may deal summarily with the offence," whilst in the Criminal Justice Act, 1855, s. 2, the corresponding words are "shall . . . dispose of the case summarily."

Simple larceny, or larceny from the person, or as a clerk or servant ;
involving more than 5s.

Where any person is charged at petty sessions, the amount involved being over 5s., with simple larceny, or larceny from the person, or as a clerk or servant, and if the evidence for the prosecution is in the opinion of the court sufficient to put the accused on his trial, the court, if of opinion that the offence may be properly disposed of summarily, shall reduce the charge to writing, and after reading it to the accused, and after explaining to him that he is not obliged to plead or answer before them at all and will be sent for trial if he refuses to answer, shall ask him whether he is guilty or not. If he pleads guilty, penalty, not exceeding six months with hard labour (ib., s. 3). If he does not plead guilty, there is no summary jurisdiction.

Procedure.

Convictions and other proceedings to be returned to quarter sessions (s. 7). Upon a summary conviction, an order for the restitution of stolen property may be made (s. 8). For the purposes of the Act, petty sessions are an open court (s. 9). A certificate of dismissal or conviction under the Act is a bar to all further criminal proceedings (s. 12). Justices may order payment of expenses of prosecution out of public funds (s. 14). In Dublin a divisional justice, and outside Dublin apparently not less than two justices, may adjudicate (s. 16).

Embezzlement.

By the Larceny Act, 1868, 31 & 32 Vict. c. 116, s. 2, all the provisions of the Criminal Justice Act, 1855, are extended to cases of embezzlement.

Larceny Act, 1861.

The following are the cases in which justices have summary jurisdiction under the Larceny Act, 1861<sup>1</sup> :—

Dogs.

"Whosoever shall steal any dog"—Penalty, on summary conviction, imprisonment, with or without hard labour, not exceeding six months, or fine, over and above the value of the said dog, not exceeding £20; "and whosoever, having been convicted of any such offence, either against this or any former Act of Parliament, shall afterwards be guilty of such offence as in this section before mentioned"—Misdemeanour, punishable on indictment by imprisonment, not exceeding eighteen months, with or without hard labour (Larceny Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, s. 18).

"Whosoever shall unlawfully have in his possession or on his premises any stolen dog, or the skin of any stolen dog, knowing such dog to have been stolen, or such skin to be the skin of a stolen dog"—Penalty, on summary conviction, not exceeding £20; "and whosoever, having been convicted of any such offence, either against this or any former Act of Parliament, shall afterwards be guilty of any such offence as is in this section before mentioned"—Misdemeanour, punishable on indictment by imprisonment, not exceeding eighteen months, with or without hard labour (s. 19). Larceny Ac. 1861.

<sup>1</sup> All offences triable summarily under the Act are now triable before a single justice (25 & 26 Vict. c. 50, s. 2); see APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

"Whosoever shall steal any bird, beast, or other animal ordinarily kept in a state of confinement or for any domestic purpose, not being the subject of larceny at common law, or shall wilfully kill any such bird, beast, or animal, with intent to steal the same or any part thereof"—Penalty, on summary conviction, imprisonment, with hard labour, not exceeding six months, or fine, over and above the value of the bird, beast, or other animal, not exceeding £20; "and whosoever, having been convicted of any such offence either against this or any former Act of Parliament, shall afterwards commit any such offence as is in this section before mentioned"—Penalty, on summary conviction, imprisonment, with hard labour, not exceeding twelve months (s. 21). Animals kept in confinement.

"If any such bird, or any of the plumage thereof, or any dog, or any such beast, or the skin thereof, or any such animal, or any part thereof, shall be found in the possession or on the premises of any person, any justice may restore the same respectively to the owner thereof; and any person in whose possession or on whose premises such bird or the plumage thereof, or such beast or the skin thereof, or such animal or any part thereof shall be so found, such person knowing that the bird, beast, or animal has been stolen, or that the plumage is the plumage of a stolen bird, or that the skin is the skin of a stolen beast, or that the part is a part of a stolen animal"—Penalty, on summary conviction, first offence,<sup>1</sup> not exceeding £20, over and above the value of the bird, beast, or other animal; subsequent offence,<sup>1</sup> imprisonment, with hard labour, not exceeding twelve months (s. 22).

"Whosoever shall unlawfully and wilfully kill, wound, or take any house dove or pigeon under such circumstances as shall not amount to larceny at common law"—Penalty, on summary conviction, not exceeding £2 (s. 23). A conviction under this section cannot be supported where a farmer, believing that he is exercising a legal right, kills a pigeon which is picking up seeds on his lands (Taylor v. Newman, (1863) 9 Cox, 314). Pigeons.

"Whosoever shall steal, or shall cut, break, root up, or otherwise destroy or damage with intent to steal, the whole or any part of any tree, sapling, or shrub, or any underwood, wheresoever the same may be respectively growing, the stealing of such article or articles, or the injury done, being to the amount of 1s. at the least"—Penalty, on summary conviction, over and above the value of the articles stolen, or the amount of the injury done, not exceeding £5; "and whosoever, having been convicted of any such offence, either against this or any former Act of Parliament, shall afterwards commit any of the said offences in this section before mentioned"—Penalty, on summary conviction, imprisonment not exceeding twelve months with hard labour; and "whosoever having been twice convicted of any such offence shall afterwards commit any of the offences in this section before mentioned"—Felony, punishable on indictment as simple larceny<sup>2</sup> (s. 33). Trees over value of 1s.

"Whosoever shall steal, or shall cut, break, or throw down, with intent to steal, any part of any live or dead fence, or any wooden post, pale, wire, or rail, set up or used as a fence, or any stile or gate, or any part thereof respectively"—Penalty, on summary conviction, over and above the value Fences, &c.

<sup>1</sup> For a first offence, a defendant cannot be imprisoned (R. v. Martin, (1874) I.R. 8 C.L. 556). The punishment provided by the section for any offence subsequent to a first cannot be ordered unless the first offence has been under this section, as the words "under this or any former Act of Parliament," &c., do not occur in the section.

<sup>2</sup> As to which see CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES.

Larceny Act, 1861.

of the articles stolen, or the amount of the injury done, not exceeding £5; "and whosoever, having been convicted of any such offence, either against this or any former Act of Parliament, shall afterwards commit any of the offences in this section before mentioned"—Penalty, on summary conviction, imprisonment not exceeding twelve months with hard labour (s. 34).

Unlawful possession of tree, &c.

"If the whole or any part of any tree, sapling, or shrub, or any under-wood, or any part of any live or dead fence, or any post, pale, wire, rail, stile, or gate, or any part thereof, being of the value of 1s. at the least, shall be found in the possession of any person, or on the premises of any person, with his knowledge, and such person, being taken or summoned before a justice of the peace, shall not satisfy the justice that he came lawfully by the same"—Penalty, on summary conviction, over and above the value of the articles so found, not exceeding £2 (s. 35).

Stealing, &c., fruit, &c., from gardens, &c.

"Whosoever shall steal, or shall destroy or damage with intent to steal, any plant, root, fruit, or vegetable production growing in any garden, orchard, pleasure-ground, nursery-ground, hot-house, green-house, or conservatory"—Penalty, imprisonment, with or without hard labour, not exceeding six months, or fine over and above the value of the articles so stolen, or the amount of the injury done, exceeding £20; "and whosoever having been convicted of any such offence, either against this or any former Act of Parliament, shall afterwards commit any of the offences in this section before mentioned"—Felony, punishable on indictment as simple larceny<sup>1</sup> (s. 36).

Stealing, &c., vegetable productions not growing in gardens, &c.

"Whosoever shall steal, or shall destroy or damage with intent to steal, any cultivated root or plant, used for the food of man or beast, or for medicine, or for distilling, or for dyeing, or for or in the course of any manufacture, and growing in any land, open or inclosed, not being a garden, orchard, pleasure-ground, or nursery-ground"—Penalty, imprisonment, with or without hard labour, not exceeding one month, or fine, over and above the value of the articles so stolen, or the amount of the injury done, not exceeding 20s.; and "whosoever, having been convicted of any such offence, either against this or any former Act of Parliament, shall afterwards commit any of the said offences in this section before mentioned"—Penalty, on summary conviction, imprisonment with hard labour, not exceeding six months (s. 37). Clover is a cultivated plant (R. v. Brumby, (1851) 5 Cox, 315). Mushrooms, flower-roots, water-cress, and plants, if growing without cultivation, are not within the section (Gardner v. Mansbridge, (1887) 19 Q.B.D. 217), but it is otherwise where mushrooms, &c., are the subject of cultivation (see 61 J.P., p. 571).

Possession of shipwrecked
goods.

Persons in possession of shipwrecked goods not giving a satisfactory account—Penalty, imprisonment, with or without hard labour, not exceeding six months, or fine, over and above the value of the goods, not exceeding £20 (s. 65).

Offering shipwrecked
goods for sale

If any person offers shipwrecked goods for sale, the goods may be seized—Penalty, imprisonment, with or without hard labour, not exceeding six months, or fine, over and above the value of the goods, not exceeding £20 (s. 60).

Receivers of stolen
property.

"Where the stealing or taking of any property whatsoever is by this Act punishable on summary conviction, either for every offence, or for the first and second offence only, or for the first offence only, any person who shall receive any such property, knowing the same to be unlawfully come by, shall, on conviction thereof before a justice of the peace, be liable, for every first, second, or subsequent offence of receiving, to the same forfeiture and punishment to which a person guilty of a first, second, or subsequent offence of stealing or taking such property is by this Act made liable" Larceny Act, 1861.

<sup>1</sup> As to which see CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES.

(s. 97).

"Whosoever shall aid, abet, counsel, or procure the commission of any offence which is by this Act punishable on summary conviction, either for every time of its commission, or for the first and second time only, or for the first time only, shall, on conviction before a justice of the peace, be liable, for every first, second, or subsequent offence of aiding, abetting, counselling, or procuring, to the same forfeiture and punishment to which a person guilty of a first, second, or subsequent offence as a principal offender is by this Act made liable" (s. 99). Punishment of abettors.

"Any person found committing any offence punishable, either upon indictment, or upon summary conviction, by virtue of this Act, except only the offence of angling in the daytime, may be immediately apprehended without a warrant by any person, and forthwith taken, together with such property (if any) before some neighbouring justice of the peace, to be dealt with according to law; and if any credible witness shall prove upon oath before a justice of the peace, a reasonable cause to suspect that any person has in his possession or on his premises any property whatsoever on or with respect to which any offence, punishable either upon indictment or upon summary conviction by virtue of this Act, shall have been committed, the justice may grant a warrant to search for such property as in the case of stolen goods; and any person to whom any property shall be offered to be sold, pawned, or delivered, if he shall have reasonable cause to suspect that any such offence has been committed on or with respect to such property, is hereby authorized, and, if in his power, is required to apprehend and forthwith to take before a justice of the peace the party offering the same, together with such property, to be dealt with according to law" (s. 103). Arrest without warrant. Search warrant.

"Every sum of money which shall be forfeited on any summary conviction for the value of any property stolen or taken, or for the amount of any injury done (such value or amount to be assessed in each case by the convicting justice), shall be paid to the party aggrieved, except where he is unknown, and in that case such sum shall be applied in the same manner as a penalty; and every sum which shall be imposed as a penalty by any justice of the peace, whether in addition to such value or amount or otherwise, shall be paid and applied in the same manner as other penalties recoverable before justices of the peace are to be paid and applied in cases where the statute imposing the same contains no direction for the payment thereof to any person: Provided, that where several persons shall join in the commission of the same offence, and shall, upon conviction thereof, each be adjudged to forfeit a sum equivalent to the value of the property or to the amount of the injury, in every such case no further sum shall be paid to the party aggrieved than such value or amount; and the remaining sum or sums forfeited shall be applied in the same manner as any penalty imposed by a justice of the peace is hereinbefore directed to be applied" (s. 106). Application of forfeitures and penalties.

"Where any person shall be summarily convicted before a justice of the peace of any offence against this Act, and it shall be a first conviction, the justice may, if he shall so think fit, discharge the offender from his conviction, upon his making such satisfaction to the party aggrieved for damages and costs, or either of them, as shall be ascertained by the justice"<sup>1</sup> (s. 108). First offences.

"In case any person convicted of any offence punishable upon summary conviction by virtue of this Act shall have paid the sum adjudged to be paid, together with costs, under such conviction, or shall have received Barring of further proceedings.

<sup>1</sup> See now also the Probation of Offenders Act, 1907 (7 Edw. 7, c. 17).

Larceny Act, 1861.

a remission thereof from the Crown, or from the Lord Lieutenant, or shall have suffered the imprisonment awarded for non-payment thereof, or the imprisonment adjudged in the first instance, or shall have been so discharged from his conviction by any justice as aforesaid, in every such case he shall be released from all further or other proceedings for the same cause" (s. 109).

Application of Petty Sessions
Act.

Section 110 provides for appeal, s. 111 takes away certiorari, and s. 112 provides for the return to quarter sessions of all convictions under the Act, but these provisions do not, it is submitted, apply to Ireland, in view of s. 120, which, so far as it applies to Ireland, is as follows:—

"Every offence hereby made punishable on summary conviction . . . may be prosecuted in Ireland before two or more justices of the peace or one metropolitan or stipendiary magistrate in the manner directed by the 14 & 15 Vict. c. 93, or in such other manner as may be directed by any Act that may be passed for like purposes; and all provisions contained in the said Acts<sup>1</sup> shall be applicable to such prosecution in the same manner as if they were incorporated in this Act" (s. 120). The words in italics seem to make it quite clear that appeal is governed by the Petty Sessions Act, and that, as provided by the Petty Sessions Act, certiorari is taken away and convictions are not to be returned to quarter sessions.

Summary Jurisdiction
(Ir.) Act,
1862.

The Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1862, 25 & 26 Vict. c. 50. after reciting, amongst other Acts, the Larceny Act, 1861, and the Malicious Damage Act, 1861 (as to which see p. 601), enacts as follows:—"Every offence by this Act and the said recited Acts respectively made punishable on summary conviction in Ireland may be prosecuted before any justice or justices sitting in petty sessions in Ireland, or before any two justices sitting out of petty sessions (when the offender shall be unable to procure bail for his appearance at petty sessions, or before any divisional justice of the police district of Dublin metropolis); and no stipendiary magistrate in Ireland, not being a justice of the police district in Dublin metropolis, shall have any further or other jurisdiction than any other justice of the peace in respect of any such offence" (Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1862, s. 2).

Number of justices.

Stealing trees,
shrubs, &c.
(under the value of £5), growing anywhere.

"Any person who shall steal, or shall cut, break, root up, or otherwise destroy or damage with intent to steal, the whole or any part of any growing tree, sapling, shrub, or underwood, or any growing fruit or vegetable production, or any growing cultivated root or plant, shall (in case the value of the property stolen or the amount of the injury done shall not exceed £5) pay to the party aggrieved the value of the property stolen or the amount of the injury done, and shall also be liable to a fine not exceeding £5, or to be imprisoned for any period not exceeding three months" (s. 4).

Stealing trees, plants, vegetables, &c., severed from the soil or turf not exceeding 40s. in value.

"Any person who shall steal, or damage with intent to steal, the whole or any part of any tree, sapling, shrub, or underwood, or any cultivated plant, root, fruit, or vegetable production severed from the soil, or any turf or peat manufactured or partly manufactured for fuel (in case the value of such article or articles stolen, or the amount of the injury done shall not exceed 40s.), shall pay to the party aggrieved the value of the property stolen, or the amount of the injury done, and shall also be liable to a fine not exceeding £5, or to be imprisoned for a term not exceeding three months" (s. 5).

Unlawful possession of carcasses of sheep, &c.

"Whenever any credible witness shall prove upon oath, before a justice of the peace, that there is reasonable cause to suspect that any of the articles of property following: that is to say, the carcase of any sheep or lamb, or the head, skin, or any part thereof, or the fleece of any sheep or lamb, has been stolen or unlawfully taken, and is to be found in any house or other place, it shall be lawful for such justice to issue a warrant to search such house or place for such articles of property; and any person in whose possession or on whose premises any of the said articles of property shall be found by virtue of any such search warrant (or by any member of the constabulary or metropolitan police forces when executing any warrant or otherwise acting in the discharge of his duty), and who shall not satisfy the justice before whom he shall be brought that he came lawfully by the same, or that the same was on his premises without his knowledge or assent, may be committed by such justice to gaol until the next day for holding petty sessions for the district, unless he shall enter into a recognizance with one or more sureties to appear at such petty sessions; and if such person shall not account for the same in manner aforesaid, he shall, on summary conviction by such justice or justices as aforesaid, and at his or their discretion, either be committed pursuant to the provisions of the Petty Sessions (Ir.) Act, 1851, to be imprisoned for a term not exceeding three months, or be liable to a fine not exceeding £5" (s. 6).

<sup>1</sup> That is, the P. S. Act and the English Summary Jurisdiction Act.

Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1862.

Workman making away with goods (not exceeding £5 in value) committed to his care—Penalty, fine not exceeding 40s. or imprisonment not exceeding one month, and compensation may be ordered to be paid (s. 7).

Workman making away with goods.

"Any person who shall steal, or injure with intent to steal, any turkey, goose, or other poultry (where the value of such poultry so stolen or injured shall not exceed 5s.), shall be liable to a fine not exceeding 20s., or to be imprisoned for a period not exceeding two weeks" (s. 8). This section does not authorize the justices to make an order for the restitution of the stolen property (R. (Hannon) v. Londonderry JJ., (1910) 44 I.L.T.R. 135).

Stealing poultry (not exceeding 5s. in value).

Proceedings under the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1862, are subject to the provisions of the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Acts,<sup>1</sup> "so far as the said provisions shall be consistent with any special provisions of this Act" (s. 3).

Procedure.

As to jurisdiction in the case of, amongst other things, larceny by children or young persons, see CHILDREN, p. 406.

Children and young persons.

LAUNDRY.

Provisions as to laundries are contained in the Factory and Workshop Act, 1907, verbatim, APPENDIX OF STATUTES. See also FACTORIES AND WORKSHOPS.

LIBEL.

	PAGE		PAGE
Summary jurisdiction to dismiss charge of libel, . . . .	591	Defendant and husband or wife competent witnesses, . . . .	592
When truth is a defence, . . . .	592	Summary punishment of trivial libel, . . . .	592

"A court of summary jurisdiction, upon the hearing of a charge against a proprietor, publisher, or editor, or any person responsible for the publication of a newspaper, for a libel published therein, may receive evidence as to the publication being for the public benefit, and as to the matters charged in the libel being true, and as to the report being fair and accurate, and published without malice, and as to any matter which under this or any other Act or otherwise, might be given in evidence by way of defence by the person charged on his trial on indictment; and the court, if of opinion after hearing such evidence that there is a strong or probable presumption that the jury on the trial would acquit the person charged, may dismiss the case" (Newspaper Libel and Registration Act, 1881, 44 & 45 Vict. c. 60, s. 4).

Summary jurisdiction to dismiss charge of libel

<sup>1</sup> As to which see p. 335.

When truth is a defence.

Truth afforded no defence to a criminal charge of libel until the passing of the Libel Act, 1843, 6 & 7 Vict. c. 96.<sup>1</sup> By section 6 of that statute, the truth of the matters charged may be inquired into, but shall not amount to a defence unless it was for the public benefit that the said matters charged should be published.<sup>2</sup>

Defendant and husband or wife competent witnesses.

The defendant, and the husband or wife of the defendant, are competent, but not compellable, witnesses in any prosecution for libel (Law of Libel Amendment Act, 1888, 51 & 52 Vict. c. 64, s. 9).

Summary punishment of trivial libel.

"If a court of summary jurisdiction upon the hearing of a charge against a proprietor, publisher, editor, or any person responsible for the publication of a newspaper for a libel published therein, is of opinion that though the person charged is shown to have been guilty, the libel was of a trivial character, and that the offence may be adequately punished by virtue of the powers of this section, the court shall cause the charge to be reduced into writing and read to the person charged, and then address a question to him to the following effect: "Do you desire to be tried by a jury, or do you consent to the case being dealt with summarily?" and if such person assents to the case being dealt with summarily, the court may summarily convict him, and adjudge him to pay a fine not exceeding £50. Section 27 of the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879, shall, so far as is consistent with the tenor thereof, apply to every such proceeding as if it were herein enacted and extended to Ireland, and as if the Summary Jurisdiction Acts were therein referred to instead of the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1848" (Newspaper Libel and Registration Act, 1881, s. 5).<sup>3</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Truth was always a perfect answer in a civil action.

<sup>2</sup> The section does not apply to seditious libels (R. v. Duffy, (1846) 9 Ir. L.R. 329; see R. v. McHugh, (1901) 2 I.R. 569, ex parte O'Brien, (1883) 12 L.R.I. 29).

<sup>3</sup> Section 27 of the English Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1879, 42 & 43 Vict. c. 49, contains regulations as to indictable offences dealt with summarily, and is as follows:—

"Where an indictable offence is under the circumstances in this Act mentioned authorized to be dealt with summarily: (1) The procedure shall, until the court assumes the power to deal with such offence summarily, be the same in all respects as if the offence were to be dealt with throughout as an indictable offence, but when and so soon as the court assume the power to deal with such offence summarily, the procedure shall be the same from and after that period as if the offence were an offence punishable on summary conviction and not on indictment, and the provisions of the Acts relating to offences punishable on summary conviction shall apply accordingly; and (2) the evidence of any witness, taken before the court assumed the said power, need not be taken again, but every such witness shall, if the defendant so require it, be recalled for the purpose of cross-examination; and (3) the conviction for any such offence shall be of the same effect as a conviction for the offence on indictment, and the court may make the like order for the restitution of property as might have been made by the court before whom the person convicted would have been tried, if he had been tried on indictment: and (4) where the court have assumed the power to deal with the case summarily, and dismiss the information, they shall, if required, deliver to the person charged a copy certified under their hands of the order of such dismissal, and such dismissal shall be of the same effect as an acquittal on a trial on indictment for the offence; and (5) the conviction shall contain a statement either as to the plea of guilty of an adult, or in the case of a child as to the consent or otherwise of his parent or guardian, and in the case of any other person of the consent of such person, to be tried by a court of summary jurisdiction; and (6) the order of dismissal shall be transmitted to and filed by the clerk of the peace in like manner as the conviction is required by the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1848, to be transmitted and filed, and together with the order of dismissal or the conviction, as the case may be, there shall be transmitted to and filed by such clerk in each case the written charge, the depositions of the witnesses, and the statement, if any, of the accused."

LIBRARIES.

“Any person who in any library or reading-room to which this Act applies, to the annoyance or disturbance of any person using the same (1) behaves in a disorderly manner; (2) uses violent, abusive, or obscene language; (3) bets or gambles; (4) or who, after proper warning, persists in remaining therein beyond the hours fixed for the closing of such library or reading-room”—Penalty, not exceeding 40s. (Libraries Offences Act, 1898, 61 & 62 Vict. c. 53, s. 2, as applied to any library established under the Public Libraries (Ir.) Act, 1855, 18 & 19 Vict. c. 40, by the Public Libraries (Ir.) Act, 1902, 2 Ed. 7, c. 20, s. 7).

The provision of the Public Libraries Act, 1901, 1 Ed. 7, c. 19, enabling the local authority to make bye-laws, is extended to Ireland, with certain modifications, by the Public Libraries (Ir.) Act, 1902, s. 8.

LIGHTS ON VEHICLES.

See Lights on Vehicles Act, 1907, 7 Ed. 7, c. 45, APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

LINEN.

The statutes, other than the Factory Acts, regulating the manufacture of linen in Ireland are the Linen Manufactures (Ir.) Act, 1835, and the Linen Manufactures (Ir.) Act, 1844. It is not thought necessary to do more than refer to these Acts, for they relate to a system of selling linen in fairs and markets which has now fallen into desuetude.

The prevention of frauds by weavers, sewers, and other persons engaged in the linen manufacture, as well as in other textile manufactures, and the better payment of the wages of such persons, is provided for by the Textile Manufacturers (Ir.) Act, 1840, the Textile Manufacturers (Ir.) Act, 1842, and the Textile Manufactures (Ir.) Act, 1867. These Acts also do not require any lengthy reference. They relate to the time at which the manufacture of linen was mainly carried on by handloom weavers in their own houses, which system has now been largely superseded by the system of manufacturing in mills. The offence committed by a weaver, &c., who fraudulently disposes of yarn entrusted to him, can generally be as effectually dealt with under the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1862, s. 7, as under s. 2 of the Act of 1842; and the misdemeanours referred to in ss. 3 & 4 of the Act of 1842 can generally be effectually dealt with under the Larceny Act, 1861.

As to obligation on sale of linen, &c., to mark Irish-woven, and as to sale of goods falsely bearing such mark, see Irish Handloom Weavers Act, 1909, 9 Ed. 7, c. 21, noted under MERCHANDISE MARKS, p. 623.

LOBSTERS.

See CRABS AND LOBSTERS, p. 414.

LOCAL GOVERNMENT OFFENCES.

	PAGE		PAGE
Non-acceptance of office, . . .	594	Acting when disqualified, . . .	596
Declaration before acting, . . .	594	Who may prosecute, . . .	598
Disqualification by absence, . . .	594	Acting without qualification a criminal matter, . . .	598
Other statutory disqualifications, . . .	595

Non-acceptance of office.

“(1) Every qualified person elected or chosen to a corporate office in a council or board, unless exempt under this article or otherwise by law, either shall accept the office by making and subscribing the declaration required by this order within ten days, or, in the case of a corporate office in a county council, within three months after notice of election,<sup>1</sup> or shall, in lieu thereof, be liable to pay to the council or board a fine of such amount not exceeding £50, and in case of a chairman or vice-chairman £100, as the council or board by bye-law, made in accordance with the enactments relating to the making of bye-laws by such council or board, or if there is no such enactment, made with the approval of the Local Government Board, determine.

“(2) If there is no bye-law determining fines, the fine in case of a councillor or guardian, shall be £25, and in case of a chairman or vice-chairman, £50.

“(3) The persons exempt under this section are—(a) any person disabled by lunacy or imbecility of mind, or by deafness, blindness, or other permanent infirmity of body, and (b) any person who, being above the age of sixty-five years, or having within five years before the day of his election either served the office or paid the fine for non-acceptance thereof, claims exemption within five days after notice of his election.

“(4) A fine payable under this article shall be recoverable on conviction before a court of summary jurisdiction.

Declaration before acting.

“(5) A person elected or chosen to a corporate office in a council or board shall not, until he has made and subscribed before two members or the secretary or clerk of the council or board, or in the case of a corporate office in a county council, either in that manner or before any justice of the peace or commissioner to administer oaths in the Supreme Court, a declaration as hereinafter mentioned, act in the office except in administering that declaration. The said declaration is as follows:—

I, A. B., having been chosen chairman [or vice-chairman, or councillor, or guardian] for the of , hereby declare that I take the said office upon myself, and will duly and faithfully fulfil the duties thereof according to the best of my judgment and ability.

“(6) Nothing in this article shall render a person elected or chosen to a corporate office without his consent to his nomination being previously obtained, liable to pay a fine on non-acceptance of office”—(Art. 9 of Schedule to Application of Enactments Order, 1898, made pursuant to the Local Government (Ir.) Act, 1898).

Disqualification by absence.

“(8) . . . If a member of a council of a county or district or of a board of guardians or of any town commissioners is absent from meetings of the council board or commissioners for more, in the case of a county council, than twelve months, consecutively, and in the case of a district council board or commissioners than six months consecutively, except in case of illness or for some reason approved by the council, board, or commissioners, his office shall on the expiration of these months become vacant"—(Art. 12 (9) of Schedule to Adaptation of Enactments Order, 1898, made pursuant to the Local Government (Ir.) Act, 1898).

<sup>1</sup> That is to say, either by being actually present when the election takes place or by receiving, not casual information, but formal official notice of his election (R. v. Preece, (1843) 5 Q.B. 94).

"Where a person becomes disqualified by absence for holding a corporate office in a council or board he shall be liable to the same fine as for non-acceptance of office, recoverable on conviction before a court of summary jurisdiction . . ."—(Art. 10 (3) of Schedule to Adaptation of Enactments Order, 1898, made pursuant to the Local Government (Ir.) Act, 1898.

The place of meeting of the body from whose meetings the defendant is charged with having absented himself is to be deemed the place at which the offence was committed (see R. v. Milner, (1846) 2 C. and K. 310).

"(4) A person shall be disqualified for being elected or chosen or being a member of a council of a county or of a district or of a board of guardians or of any town commissioners if he (a) is an infant or an alien; or (b) has within twelve months before his election, or since his election, received union relief; or (c) has, within five years before his election, or since his election, been convicted either on indictment or summarily of any crime,<sup>1</sup> and sentenced to imprisonment with hard labour without the option of a fine, or to any greater punishment, and has not received a free pardon, or has, within or during the time aforesaid, been adjudged bankrupt, or made a composition or arrangement with his creditors; or (d) holds any paid office or place of profit under or in the gift or disposal of the council, board, or commissioners, as the case may be, other than that of mayor or sheriff; or (e) is concerned by himself or his partner in any bargain or contract entered into with the council, board, or commissioners, or participates by himself or his partner in the profit of any such bargain or contract, or of any work done under the authority of the council, or board, or commissioners, and for the purpose of this provision, any bargain or contract with a county council in respect of any public work in a district shall be deemed to be also a bargain or contract with the council of that district.

Disqualification by absence.

Other statutory disqualifications.

Infant.
Alien.
Poor law relief.
Conviction.
Bankruptcy or arrangement.
Office of profit.

Bargain or contract.

"(5) Provided that a person shall not be disqualified for being elected or chosen or being a member of any such council, board, or commissioners by reason of being, by himself or his partner, interested (a) in the sale or lease of any lands or in any loan of money to the council, board, or commissioners, or in any contract with the council for the supply from land, of which he is owner or occupier, of stone, gravel, or other materials for making or repairing highways or bridges, or in the transport of materials for the repair of roads or bridges in his own immediate neighbourhood; or (b) in any newspaper in which any advertisement relating to the affairs of the council, board, or commissioners is inserted; or (c) in any contract with the council, board, or commissioners as a shareholder in any joint-stock company.

Exemptions.

Sale or lease of land, &c.

Newspapers.
Shares in company.

"(6) The foregoing provisions of this article shall apply as if any committee of a council, board, or commissioners, or any joint committee partly appointed by a council, board, or commissioners, were that council, board, or commissioners.

Committees.

"(7) Where a person is disqualified by being adjudged bankrupt or making a composition or arrangement with his creditors, the disqualification shall cease in case of bankruptcy, when the adjudication is annulled, or when he obtains his discharge with a certificate that his bankruptcy was caused by misfortune without any misconduct on his part, and, in case of composition or arrangement, on payment of his debts in full.

Cesser of disqualification in bankruptcy or arrangement.

<sup>1</sup> It is immaterial that the crime was committed in England, Scotland, or Wales (see Conybeare v. London School Board, (1891) 1 Q.B. 118).

Acting when disqualified.

"(8) A person disqualified for being a guardian shall also be disqualified for being a rural district councillor. . . . (11) If any person acts when disqualified or votes when prohibited under this Order, he shall for each offence be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding twenty pounds, without prejudice to the disqualification enacted by subsection 3 of section 94 of the Act" (Art. 12 of Schedule to Application of Enactments Order, 1898, made pursuant to the Local Government (Ir.) Act, 1898).

"Composition or arrangement."

The words "composition or arrangement" are wide enough to cover every composition, howsoever made, which the debtor has made with his creditors (Bradfield v. Cheltenham Guardians, (1906) 2 Ch. 371, per Buckley, J., at p. 377), and therefore include an arrangement made outside court.

"Bargain or contract."

A number of difficult questions arise on clause 4 (2) of this article:— (1) What is a "bargain" or "contract"? (2) When is a person "concerned in" a bargain or contract? and (3) what is the nature and duration of the disqualification?

What is a "bargain" or "contract"? It appears clear that a petty cash transaction, involving immediate mutual performance, is not a "bargain" or "contract." "A case was put of the commissioners buying some trifling article at a shop kept by one commissioner, and paying for it over the counter. It seems to me that is not a contract within the statute; but I am by no means prepared to say that if articles were so supplied from time to time upon credit, there would not be a contract. The buying a pennyworth of nails may not be a contract, but that is different from supplying lime on credit. Here there was evidence for the jury of a continuous dealing and supplying on credit of an article which the commissioners must buy" (per Martin, B., in Nicholson v. Fields, (1862) 7 H. & N. 810; see also judgment of Lopes, L.J., in Nutton v. Wilson, (1889) 22 Q.B.D. 744, at p. 749; and of Bramwell, B., in Lewis v. Carr, (1876) 1 Ex. D. 484, at p. 486). In Nicholson v. Fields, supra, an invoice was produced in the handwriting of the defendant, charging the commissioners with lime supplied by him to them on several occasions during a period of some months. It was held that this was evidence from which the jury might properly find that he was concerned or participated in a contract within s. 9 of the Commissioners Clauses Act, 1847. If there is anything in the nature of a continuous dealing, the quantum of profit derivable from it seems immaterial. A person appointed chemist to the council was held disqualified even though his sales during the period in question amounted to only fourpence (Nell v. Longbottom, (1894) 1 Q.B. 767; see R. v. Rowlands, (1906) 2 K.B. 292). The acceptance of a tender for a twelve months' supply of goods was held to be a contract, and its subsequent rescission did not purge the disqualification existing at the date of its acceptance (Ford v. Newth, (1901) 1 K.B. 683). In Local Government Board v. Eivers, (1902) 2 I.R. 262, the defendant was summoned and convicted at petty sessions for acting as a district councillor while disqualified, the ground of disqualification alleged and proved being that at the time of so acting he was in occupation of a labourer's cottage and allotment, under the Labourers (Ir.) Acts, under a monthly agreement of letting from the district council. Held, that such letting was not a "bargain" or "contract" within the article; that, even if it was such a bargain or contract, still it came within the exception in clause 5 (a) of the same article as a lease of lands, and that the conviction was wrong. A poor law guardian, who, in common with the other occupiers under a certain valuation, receives seed potatoes from the guardians under a promise to pay for them a specified price, is, at least so long as the price remains unpaid, concerned in a contract with the guardians, within the article (R. (Madden) v. Roscommon JJ., (1906) 2 I.R. 173). Whether the office of a rate-collector is a "contract" or "bargain" within the article, quaere (Kearse v. O'Mahony, (1910) 44 I.L.T.R. 231). Acting when disqualified.

Assuming a bargain or contract, when is a person concerned therein? "Concerned in."
 A retired partner who remains liable on a contract entered into with a public body is "concerned in" such contract (Cox v. Ambrose, (1891) 7 T.L.R. 59). A person who is employed by another person to do the work or portion of the work which such other person has entered into a contract with a public body to do, is "concerned in" such contract (Nutton v. Wilson, (1889) 22 Q.B.D. 744). In that case the contractor was a plumber who had entered into a contract with the local board for the putting up of certain warming apparatus at the board's offices. It being necessary for the performance of the work to take up some boards, and to trim and lay them down again, and to do some other joinery work on the premises, he ordered the work of the defendant, who was a joiner, through his foreman, and the work was done at a cost of between £2 and £3 by the defendant's men. Held, that the defendant, who was a member of the board, was concerned in the contract (see also Tomkins v. Jolliffe, noted 21 I.L.T. & S.J. 256). In Barnacle v. Clark, (1900) 1 Q.B. 279, the defendant, a member of a school board, sold sand and gravel to a builder who had entered into a contract with the board for the building of a school; at the time the defendant was aware that the sand and gravel were intended to be used, as they were in fact used, in the building of the school; and the sand and gravel were paid for at the time, apparently at the usual rate. Held, that the defendant had been "concerned in" work done under the authority of the board. But a member of a town council who, in the course of his trade, sold some iron to a party who had contracted to supply the council with iron railings, and who purchased the iron for the purpose of performing his contract, was held not to have an interest in the contract within the meaning of 5 & 6 Wm. 4, c. 76, s. 28 (Le Feuvre v. Lankester, (1854) 3 E. & B. 530). The only distinction between Le Feuvre v. Lankester and Barnacle v. Clark seems to be that in the former case the defendant did not know, while in the latter case he did know, the purpose for which the materials were required. A town surveyor who takes out quantities for a contract for which he is to be paid by the contractor is "interested in" the contract (Whiteley v. Barley, (1888) 21 Q.B.D. 154). An officer of a local authority who lets rooms to the board is "concerned in or interested in a bargain or contract" with the board (Burgess v. Clark, (1884) 14 Q.B.D. 735). A rate collector died unmarried intestate and a creditor of a district council, and administration of his estate, which was insolvent, was granted to his brother, his father being a member of the district council. Held, that the estate being insolvent, the father took no benefit or interest in the contract and was not disqualified (Kearse v. O'Mahony, (1910) 44 I.L.T.R. 231).

The respondent was an acting councillor for the urban district of Ballinasloe, County Galway, and, while such acting councillor, was a contractor to the board of guardians of the Ballinasloe Lunatic Asylum for the supply of delft and brushes. The district of the Asylum comprised two counties, Galway and Roscommon, and the board was a joint committee of the councils of both counties, with a representative from each council, pursuant to section 9 of the Act. Held, that the respondent's contract was not one in respect of any public work within the district, and that therefore he had not incurred a penalty under Article 12. Held, also, by Gibson, J., that the contract was not within the mischief (viz., a conflict of interest and duty) prohibited (Hastings v. Cogavin, (1904) 2 I.R. 529). "Public work."

Assuming a disqualification under clause 4, what is its duration? <sup>1</sup> Duration of disqualification.

<sup>1</sup> As to bankruptcy or arrangement, see p. 595.

Acting when disqualified.

Does it merely continue as long as the contract is in existence and cease when the contract is performed on both sides? There is no absolutely binding authority on the point.<sup>1</sup>

In O'Carroll v. Hastings, (1905) 2 I.R. 590, at pp. 609, 610, Gibson, J., clearly expressed his opinion upon this point, which, however, was not necessary for the decision. "Disqualification should not be intermittent. Once it attaches, it cannot be got rid of by mere lapse of time without a new election. . . . The member must be taken to know his own disqualification, and, whether the council knows the disqualification and avoids the election or not, he incurs the penalty if he acts, notwithstanding that the original cause of disqualification has determined. Once the disqualification has destroyed his lawful status, it cannot be regained under article 12 without a new election." And he further says that the same observation applies even where the disqualification attaches before and at the time of the election. "A membership invalidated at its birth ought not to stand in a better position than a membership invalidated by matter subsequent."

Who may prosecute.

In Kenealy v. O'Keeffe, (1901) 2 I.R. 39, it was held that any person may prosecute a defendant for acting when disqualified, and the grounds for the decision in that case make it clear that any person may prosecute for any other of the offences mentioned in this Article.

Acting
without qualification is a criminal matter.

Acting as a member of a public board without qualification is a criminal matter (Martin v. Treacher, (1886) 16 Q.B.D. 507).

LOCOMOTIVES ON HIGHWAYS.

	PAGE		PAGE
Light Locomotives—See MOTOR CARS.		County surveyor to be conservator of
Heavy Locomotive—		roads, . . . . .	600
To consume its own smoke, . . . .	598	Penalties, . . . . .	600
Regulations as to use, . . . .	599	Bye-laws by local authority, . . . .	600
Regulations as to speed, . . . .	599	Actions for nuisance or damage, . . . .	600
Miscellaneous provisions, . . . .	599
Weight of locomotive and name and residence of owner to be affixed, . . . .	600

Heavy locomotives.
Light locomotives.

This article deals with Heavy Locomotives, that is, mechanically propelled vehicles not coming within the definition of Light Locomotives under the Motor Car Acts, 1896 and 1903, for which see MOTOR CARS, p. 628. The Acts dealing with Heavy Locomotives are the Locomotive Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 70, and the Locomotive Act, 1865,<sup>2</sup> 28 & 29 Vict. c. 83, which are to be construed as one Act (Act of 1865, s. 13).

Locomotive to consume its own smoke.

"Every locomotive propelled by steam or any other than animal power to be used on any turnpike road or public highway shall be constructed on the principle of consuming and so as to consume its own smoke; and any person using any locomotive not so consuming its own smoke"<sup>3</sup>—Penalty, on conviction before any two justices, not exceeding £5 for every day during which such locomotive shall be used on any such turnpike road or public highway (Locomotive Act, 1861, s. 8).

<sup>1</sup> There are some English cases, of which Todd v. Robinson, (1884) 14 Q.B.D. 739, R. v. Morton, (1892) 1 Q.B. 39, Lewis v. Carr, (1876) 1 Ex. D. 484, may be mentioned, decided, however, on different statutes.

<sup>2</sup> The Act of 1865 was originally enacted for a year, but is kept in force by the Expiring Laws Continuance Acts.

<sup>3</sup> The case of the Star Omnibus Co. v. Tagg, (1907) 23 T.L.R. 288, was decided on the words "constructed on the principle of consuming or not consuming so far as practicable its own smoke," of the Highways and Locomotives (E.) Amendment Act, 1878, s. 30. The above section does not contain the words "so far as practicable."

“Every locomotive propelled by steam or any other than animal power on any turnpike road or public highway shall be worked according to the following rules and regulations, viz. :—Firstly—At least three persons shall be employed to drive or conduct such locomotive; and if more than two waggons or carriages be attached thereto, an additional person shall be employed, who shall take charge of such waggons or carriages. Secondly—One of such persons, while any locomotive is in motion, shall precede such locomotive on foot by not less than sixty yards, and shall carry a red flag constantly displayed, and shall warn the riders and drivers of horses of the approach of such locomotives, and shall signal the driver thereof when it shall be necessary to stop, and shall assist horses and carriages drawn by horses passing the same. Thirdly—The drivers of such locomotives shall give as much space as possible for the passing of other traffic. Fourthly—The whistle of such locomotives shall not be sounded for any purpose whatever; nor shall the cylinder taps be opened within sight of any person riding, driving, leading, or in charge of a horse upon the road; nor shall the steam be allowed to attain a pressure such as to exceed the limit fixed by the safety valve, so that no steam shall blow off when the locomotive is upon the road. Fifthly—Every such locomotive shall be instantly stopped on the person preceding the same, or any other person with a horse or carriage drawn by a horse, putting up his hand as a signal to require such locomotive to be stopped. Sixthly—Any person in charge of any such locomotive shall provide two efficient lights, to be affixed conspicuously, one at each side on the front of the same, between the hours of one hour after sunset and one hour before sunrise. In the event of non-compliance with any of the provisions of this section, the owner of the locomotive shall, on summary conviction thereof before two justices, be liable to a penalty not exceeding £10; but it shall be lawful for such owner, on proving that he has incurred such penalty by reason of the negligence or wilful default of any person in charge of or in attendance on such locomotive, to recover summarily from such person the whole or any part of the penalty he may have incurred as owner” (Locomotive Act, 1865, s. 3).

Regulations as to use.
Persons in attendance.

Red flag.

Passing other traffic.

Use of whistle.

Duty to stop on request.

Lights.

“Subject and without prejudice to the regulations hereinafter authorized to be made by local authorities,<sup>1</sup> it shall not be lawful to drive any such locomotive along any turnpike road or public highway at a greater speed than four miles an hour, or through any city, town, or village at a greater speed than two miles an hour; and any person acting contrary thereto shall for every such offence, on summary conviction thereof, forfeit any sum not exceeding £10” (Locomotive Act, 1865, s. 4). The speed limit imposed by this section is not binding on the Crown (Cooper v. Hawkins, (1904) 2 K. B. 164).

Speed.

As to wheels, size, and weight of locomotives, see the Locomotive Act, 1861, s. 3, and the Locomotive Act, 1865, s. 5; and as to weight to be carried, see the Locomotive Act, 1861, s. 4. Locomotives are not to be driven over suspension bridges nor over any bridge on which a prohibitive notice is placed by authority of county surveyor or persons liable to repair of bridge, without consent of surveyor, bridgeworkmaster, or the persons liable to repair (Act of 1861, s. 6). Damage caused to bridges is to be made good by owner of locomotive<sup>2</sup> (s. 7). The provisions of general or local

Miscellaneous provisions.

<sup>1</sup> The words in italics refer to the provisions in s. 8 which are not applicable to Ireland. The only power to make bye-laws in Ireland is under the Public Health (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1879, s. 6, noted post, p. 600.

<sup>2</sup> Section 7 applies only to private bridges (R. v. Kitchener, (1873) L. R. 2 C. C. R. 88).

Acts relating to turnpike roads or highways are to apply to locomotives (s. 12).

The restrictions contained in any Act as to the use of a steam-engine within twenty-five yards of a road<sup>1</sup> do not apply to locomotives used within that distance of a road for ploughing under the conditions specified in s. 6 of the Act of 1865 (Locomotive Act, 1865, s. 6).

Weight of locomotive and name and residence of owner to be marked.

The weight of every locomotive and the name or names of the owners are to be conspicuously and legibly affixed thereto—Penalty on owner for non-compliance, not exceeding £5, recoverable before two justices; Penalty on owner not exceeding £10 for fraudulently marking an incorrect weight (Locomotive Act, 1861, s. 12).

"The name and residence of the owner of every locomotive shall be affixed thereto in a conspicuous manner"—Penalty on owner for non-compliance not exceeding £2 (Locomotive Act, 1865, s. 7).

County surveyor to be conservator of roads.

"For the purposes of this Act the county surveyor of each county in Ireland shall be deemed to be the conservator of all the roads in the county of which he is surveyor, made or repaired by grand jury presentment<sup>2</sup>; and it shall not be lawful to use any locomotive, other than those specially authorized by this Act, on any such road in any county in Ireland, without the consent in writing of the county surveyor thereof, approved of by one or more justices sitting at petty sessions; and all compensation for any damage done by any locomotive to any bridge, gullet, or arch, or of the walls, buttresses, or supports thereof, on any such road in any county in Ireland, shall be recoverable in the name of the county surveyor thereof, for and on behalf of the county, from the party liable to pay the same, such compensation, if not exceeding £10, to be recovered in a summary way by summons at petty sessions, and if over £10 to be recovered by process in the civil bill court" (Locomotive Act, 1865, s. 9).

Penalties.

Penalties are recoverable according to the provisions of the Petty Sessions (Ir.) Act, 1851 (Locomotive Act, 1865, s. 10). There is no provision as to appeal.<sup>3</sup>

Bye-laws.

"In urban sanitary districts the urban sanitary authority, and in such parts of the counties as are outside the limits of any urban sanitary district the grand jury,<sup>4</sup> may respectively from time to time make bye-laws as to the hours during which locomotives propelled by steam or by other than animal power are not to pass over the roads or highways situate within the areas respectively above mentioned, the hours being in all cases consecutive hours, and not more than eight out of the twenty-four, and for regulating the use of such locomotives upon any highway, or preventing such use upon every bridge where such authority is satisfied that such use would be attended with danger to the public; and any person in charge of a locomotive acting contrary to such bye-laws shall be liable to a fine not exceeding £5, to be recovered in a summary manner" (Public Health (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1879, 42 & 43 Vict. c. 57, s. 6).

Actions for nuisance or damage.

Nothing in this Act contained shall authorize any person to use a locomotive which may be so constructed or used as to be a public nuisance at common law; and nothing herein contained shall affect the right of any person to recover damages in respect of any damages he may have sustained in consequence of the use of a locomotive (Locomotive Act, 1865, s. 12; see also s. 13 of the Locomotive Act, 1861).

<sup>1</sup> This seems to refer to the provisions of the Highway Act, 1835 (5 & 6 Wm. 4, c. 50, s. 70), which is an exclusively English Act.

<sup>2</sup> Now county council resolution.

<sup>3</sup> See, therefore, p. 132.

<sup>4</sup> Now the county council (Local Government (Ir.) Act, 1898, s. 4).

The use of a traction engine which, by reason of its excessive weight, does substantial and enormous damage to a public road, adequate for ordinary traffic, is a public nuisance, even though it be constructed in accordance with the provisions of the Locomotive Acts, 1861 and 1865. In such a case the duty cast upon a county council to repair such damage, and the liability of a district council to provide the funds for such repair, amount to special damage, so as to make the owner of the traction engine civilly liable at the suit of both bodies, suing jointly, for the cost of repairing the road. Seemle, such an action could be maintained by either body suing alone (Cavan County Council v. Kane, (1910) 2 Ir. 644).

Actions for nuisance or damage.

LUNATIC.

"If any manager, officer, nurse, attendant, servant, or other person employed in an institution for lunatics, or any person having charge of a lunatic, whether by reason of any contract or of any tie of relationship, or marriage, or otherwise [or any person employed in the care of a single patient or of a lunatic in a workhouse],<sup>1</sup> strikes or otherwise ill-treats or wilfully neglects a patient, he shall be guilty of a misdemeanour, and, on conviction on indictment, shall be liable to a fine or imprisonment, or to both fine and imprisonment, at the discretion of the court, or be liable on summary conviction for every offence to a penalty not exceeding £20, nor less than £2" (Lunacy Act, 1890, 53 & 54 Vict. c. 5, s. 322).

Ill-treatment of lunatic.

See also CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES.

MALICIOUS INJURIES TO PROPERTY.

	PAGE		PAGE
Ouster of jurisdiction, . . . . .	601	Offences punishable summarily under
Malice, . . . . .	601	the Malicious Damage Act, 1861—
Offences punishable summarily under		Damage not previously provided the Malicious Damage Act, 1861—		for by Act, . . . . .	604
Trees to value of 1s., . . . . .	602	Compensation for damage, . . . . .	604
Plants, &c., . . . . .	603	Trees generally, . . . . .	605
Fences, &c., . . . . .	603	Arrest, . . . . .	605
Electric telegraphs, . . . . .	603	Abettors, . . . . .	605
Animals, . . . . .	604	Procedure, . . . . .	605

The law on the subject of malicious injury to property is consolidated by the Malicious Damage Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 97.

Ouster of jurisdiction.

The summary jurisdiction of justices under this Act is (under the rule of law dealt with at pp. 206–7) ousted wherever the act charged was done in the exercise of a bona fide claim of right. The special provision on this point contained in s. 52 relates only to offences against that section and against s. 53, and does not affect the jurisdiction of justices under other sections of the Act.

In ss. 52 and 53 the acts charged must be done wilfully or maliciously. In all other sections under which there is summary jurisdiction, the act charged must be done unlawfully and maliciously. In s. 58 it is provided malice.

What is

<sup>1</sup> The words in brackets are inserted by the Lunacy (Ir.) Act, 1901, 1 Ed. 7, c. 17, s. 2.

What is
malice.

that malice against the owner of the property injured is not necessary in order to make the act malicious. That section is merely declaratory of the ordinary rule of law, as laid down by Bayley, J., in Bromage v. Prosser, (1825) 4 B. & C. 247, where he defined malice as a "wrongful act done intentionally without just cause or excuse," and by Walker, L.J., in McDowell v. Corporation of Dublin, (1903) 2 I.R. 549, where he defined a malicious act as one "which is intentional, illegal, and wrongful, though there is no actual ill-will or spite existing against the person who owns the property injured, and the act is not attributable to any such ill-will." "Malice," said Lord Campbell, "consists in the conscious violation of the law to the prejudice of another" (Ferguson v. Earl of Kinnoul, (1842) 9 Cl. & F. 251, 321). Where the accused was charged under s. 51 of the Act (as to which section see p. 208) with unlawfully and maliciously damaging a window, and where the jury found that he had broken it with a stone which he meant for a man with whom he had been fighting, but which he did not intend to put through the window, it was held that upon the finding of the jury he could not be convicted under s. 51 (R. v. Pembrilton, (1874) L.R. 2 C.C.R. 119). In this case Blackburn, J., said that the jury might have convicted the prisoner "if they had found that the prisoner was aware that the natural and probable consequence of his throwing the stone was that it might break the glass window. A person may be said to act maliciously where he wilfully does an act without lawful excuse." Where the accused broke a jeweller's plate-glass window, value for more than £5, in order to steal the jewellery inside it, he was held to have "unlawfully and maliciously" broken it within the meaning of this Act (McDowell v. Corporation of Dublin, supra). Where the servant of a milkman put water in his master's milk with the intention, not of injuring his master, but of increasing the quantity of fluid that he had to sell and of appropriating the increased receipts arising from such increased quantity, he was held to have "wilfully or maliciously" damaged the milk within the meaning of s. 52 (Roper v. Knott, (1898) 1 Q.B. 868). Where a person, in contravention of the Game Laws, fired the heather on his own lands for the purpose of improving the grazing thereon and, as a natural and probable consequence of his act, the fire damaged, to the extent of £20, a game covert adjoining his lands, but the act was not done with the intention that the covert should be damaged, it was held by the Court of Appeal that, though the act was done "unlawfully," it was not done "maliciously" within the meaning of s. 16 (as to which see p. 208) of the Act (Woodley v. Cork County Council, (1909) 44 I.L.T.R. 5).

Under the Malicious Damage Act, 1861, the following offences are punishable summarily:—

Summary offences under Malicious Damage Act,
1861.

Trees to value of 1s.

"Whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously cut, break, bark, root up, or otherwise destroy or damage the whole or any part of any tree, sapling, or shrub, or any underwood, wheresoever the same may be growing, the injury done being to the amount of one shilling at the least"<sup>1</sup>—Penalty, imprisonment not exceeding three months, with or without hard labour, or fine (over and above the amount of the injury done) not exceeding £5; "and whosoever, having been convicted of any such offence, either against this or any former Act of Parliament, shall afterwards commit any of the said offences in this section before mentioned"—

<sup>1</sup> This means the amount of the damage to the tree, &c., not the cost of making good the damage done (R. v. Whiteman, (1854) 6 Cox 370). There is injury within the meaning of the section to the amount of one shilling if several trees, &c., have at the same time, or as the result of the one transaction, been damaged, each to an amount less than a shilling, but collectively to an amount equalling or exceeding that sum (R. v. Shepherd, (1868) L.R. 1 C.C.R. 118).

Penalty, imprisonment not exceeding twelve months with hard labour<sup>1</sup> (Malicious Damage Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 97, s. 22).

Summary offences under Malicious Damage Act, 1861.

"Whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously<sup>2</sup> destroy, or damage with intent to destroy, any plant, root, fruit or vegetable production growing in any garden, orchard, nursery-ground, hothouse, greenhouse, or conservatory"—Penalty, imprisonment not exceeding six months with or without hard labour<sup>3</sup> or fine (over and above the amount of the injury done) not exceeding £20 (s. 23).

Plants, &c.

"Whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously destroy, or damage<sup>4</sup> with intent to destroy, any cultivated root or plant<sup>5</sup> used for the food of man or beast, or for medicine, or for distilling, or for dyeing, or for or in the course of any manufacture and growing in any land, open or enclosed, not being a garden, orchard or nursery-ground"—Penalty, imprisonment not exceeding one month with or without hard labour, or fine (over and above the amount of the injury done) not exceeding £1, and, in default of payment, imprisonment [according to the Small Penalties (Ir.) Act, 1873], "and whosoever, having been convicted of any such offence either against this or any former Act of Parliament, shall afterwards commit any of the said offences in this section before mentioned"—Penalty for such second offence imprisonment with hard labour, not exceeding six months (s. 24).

"Whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously cut, break, throw down, or in anywise destroy any fence of any description<sup>6</sup> whatsoever, or any wall, stile, or gate, or any part thereof respectively"—Penalty, for the first offence, fine (over and above the amount of the injury done) not exceeding £5; "and whosoever, having been convicted of any such offence either against this or any former Act of Parliament, shall afterwards commit any of the said offences in this section before mentioned"—Penalty, imprisonment not exceeding twelve months with hard labour (s. 25).

Fences, &c.

"Whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously cut, break, throw down, destroy, injure or remove any battery, machinery, wire, cable, post, or other matter or thing whatsoever, being part of or being used or employed in or about any electric or magnetic telegraph, or in the working thereof, or shall unlawfully and maliciously prevent or obstruct in any manner whatsoever the sending, conveyance, or delivery of any communication by any such telegraph" may be sent for trial; but "if it shall appear to any justice on the examination of any person charged with any offence against this section that it is not expedient to the ends of justice that the same should be prosecuted by indictment," the offender is

Electric telegraphs.

<sup>1</sup> Any subsequent offence against the section is indictable.

<sup>2</sup> Where defendants had entered upon ground used as a vegetable garden in the assertion of an alleged public right, and had done more damage than was reasonably necessary for the assertion of such right, it was held by the K.B.D. in England that justices were right in convicting under this section (Heaven v. Crutchley, (1903) 68 J.P. 53).

<sup>3</sup> Any subsequent offence against the section is indictable.

<sup>4</sup> There must be appreciable damage, and an inference by justices that damages must have resulted from a trespass upon land growing "cultivated roots or plants" will not justify a conviction (Eley v. Lytle, (1885) 50 J.P. 308). But where a trespasser who walked 130 yards through grass that was knee-deep, was convicted of damaging the grass to the extent of 6d. the conviction was upheld (Gayford v. Chouler, (1898) 1 Q.B. 316).

<sup>5</sup> Clover is a cultivated plant used for the food of beasts (R. v. Brumby, (1851) 3 C. & K. 315).

<sup>6</sup> In Evison v. Marshall, (1868) 32 J.P. 691, it was held by the Q.B.D. in England that where a defendant, in assertion of an asserted right of way, broke down more of a fence than was necessary to make a passage, the justices were wrong in convicting him: but this decision was not followed in H. v. Clemens, (1898) 1 Q.B. 556, decided upon s. 51, in which it was held that where persons do more damage than is reasonably necessary for the assertion of a right, their act is malicious, nor in Heaven v. Crutchley, noted under s. 23.

Summary
offences under Malicious Damage Act, 1861.

punishable with imprisonment not exceeding three months with or without hard labour, or fine not exceeding £10 (s. 37).

"Whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously by any overt act, attempt to commit any of the offences in the last preceding section mentioned" is punishable with imprisonment not exceeding three months with or without hard labour, or with fine not exceeding £10 (s. 38).

Animals.

"Whosoever shall unlawfully and maliciously<sup>1</sup> kill, maim, or wound any dog, bird, beast, or other animal not being cattle,<sup>2</sup> but being either the subject of larceny at common law, or being ordinarily kept in a state of confinement or for any domestic purpose"—Penalty, imprisonment not exceeding six months, with or without hard labour, or fine over and above the amount of injury done not exceeding £20; and "whosoever having been convicted of any such offence shall afterwards commit any of the said offences in this section before mentioned"—Penalty, imprisonment not exceeding twelve months with hard labour (s. 41).

Damage not otherwise provided for.

"Whosoever shall wilfully or maliciously commit any damage, injury, or spoil, to or upon any real or personal property<sup>3</sup> whatsoever, either of a public or private nature, for which no punishment is hereinbefore provided," is liable either to Imprisonment not exceeding two months, with or without hard labour, or to a Fine not exceeding £5, and to payment of such further sum not exceeding £5; "as shall appear to the justice to be a reasonable compensation<sup>4</sup> for the damage, injury, or spoil so committed," which sum so payable as compensation, in the case of private property, is to be paid to the party aggrieved, and, in the case of property of a public nature or wherein any public right is concerned, is to be applied in the same manner as penalties imposed by a justice of the peace under the Act, and if such sums, together with costs, if ordered, are not paid either immediately after the conviction or within such period as the justice at the time of the conviction appoints, then in default of payment the offender may be imprisoned according to the Small Penalties (Ir.) Act, 1873, with or without hard labour, "provided, that nothing herein contained shall extend to any case where the party acted under a fair and reasonable supposition that he had a right to do the act complained of,"<sup>5</sup>

Compensation
for damage.

<sup>1</sup> It is not an offence against this section to maim a cat by breaking its leg with a spring rat-trap set to catch it in a garden where it is in the habit of trespassing (Bryan v. Eaton, (1875) 40 J.P. 213). It is, however, submitted that any person so maiming a cat or any other animal is guilty of an offence against the Cruelty to Animals Act, 1849, s. 2, as to which see p. 356. Killing a dog by means of poisoned meat put for that purpose in a garden which the dog was in the habit of entering was also held not to be an offence against this section (Daniel v. Janes, (1877) 2 C.P.D. 351); but the question whether the person so doing does or does not commit an offence against the Poisoned Flesh Protection Act, 1864, as to which see post, will turn entirely upon the facts of the particular case. Where an occupier of land, recently sown with seed, shot and killed fowls which were on the land, but did so without malice and merely in order to protect his crop, the Q.B.D. in England reluctantly held, following Daniel v. Janes, supra, and other authorities, that no offence against this section had been committed (Smith v. Williams, (1892) 56 J.P. 840).

<sup>2</sup> The maiming, &c., of cattle, &c., is indictable. See CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES.

<sup>3</sup> The expression "real or personal property" does not include anything growing wild which the law does not recognize as capable of being owned—such as mushrooms not artificially propagated (Gardner v. Mansbridge, (1887) 19 Q. B. D. 217), or "primroses, black-berries, or the like" (ib., p. 222, per Smith and Wills, JJ.). The expression includes only such property as is tangible and visible, and consequently does not include rights of way, rights of grazing, or other similar property (Laws v. Eltringham, (1881) 8 Q. B. D. 283).

<sup>4</sup> The words "hereinbefore provided" relate, not merely to the sections of the Act previously set out in this article, but to the sections dealing with indictable offences, and bearing numbers below 52, referred to in CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES.

<sup>5</sup> Justices have no jurisdiction to order compensation exceeding the amount of the damage proved (R. (Crilly) v. Derry JJ., (1904), 4 N. I. J. R. 169).

<sup>6</sup> As to which see p. 209, et seq.

nor to any trespass,<sup>1</sup> not being wilful and malicious, committed in hunting, fishing, or in the pursuit of game, but that every such trespass shall be punishable in the same manner as if this Act had not been passed" (s. 52).

"The provisions in the last preceding section contained shall extend to any person who shall wilfully or maliciously commit any injury to any tree, sapling, shrub, or underwood, for which no punishment is herein-before<sup>2</sup> provided" (s. 53).

Any person found committing any offence against this Act may be arrested without warrant by any peace officer or the owner of the property injured, or his servant, or by any person authorized by such owner, and brought before a justice (s. 61). Abettors in offences punishable summarily under this Act are punishable as principals (s. 63). Sections 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 76 of the Act (all of which relate to procedure) are word for word the same as ss. 108, 109, 110, 111, 112, and 120, respectively of the Larceny Act, 1861 (dealt with under "LARCENY" at pp. 589, 590), and s. 64 of this Act is the same as s. 106 of the Larceny Act, 1861 (for which also see p. 589), except that s. 64 of this Act deals with the amount of the injury done, and s. 106 of the Larceny Act with the value of the property stolen. For procedure, therefore, see pp. 589, 590. An order directing compensation to be paid "to the representatives of the late owner" is bad (R. (Williams) v. King's Co. JJ., (1902) 2 N.I.J.R. 22).

Summary offences under Malicious Damage Act, 1861.

Trees, &c., generally.

Power of arrest.

Abettors.

Procedure.

MARINE INSURANCE (GAMBLING POLICIES) ACT, 1909.

This Statute will be found in APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

MARINE STORE DEALERS.

	PAGE		PAGE
Name over door, . . . . .	605	Buying metals less than certain weight, . . . . .	606
To keep books, . . . . .	605	Unlawful possession of public stores, . . . . .	606
Not to purchase from person under 16, . . . . .	605	Provision under Public Health Act, . . . . .	607
Not to cut up cable, . . . . .	606	1907, . . . . .	607
Marking anchors, . . . . .	606	See also GENERAL DEALERS (p. 508).

"(1) Every person dealing in, buying, or selling any of the articles following, that is to say, anchors, cables, sails, old junk, or old iron, or other marine stores of any kind (in this part of this Act called a marine store dealer) shall have his name, together with the words 'dealer in marine stores,' distinctly painted, in letters of not less than six inches in length, on every warehouse and place of deposit belonging to him"—Penalty, not exceeding £20 (Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, 57 & 58 Vict. c. 60, s. 538).

Name over door.

"(1) Every marine store dealer shall keep proper books, and enter therein an account of all marine stores of which he becomes possessed, stating in respect of each article the time at which and the person from whom he purchased or received the same, and a description of the business and place of abode of that person"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £20; subsequent offence, £50 (s. 539).

To keep books

"(1) A marine store dealer shall not by himself or his agents purchase marine stores of any description from any person apparently under the age of sixteen years"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £5; subsequent offence, £20 (s. 540).

Not to purchase from person under sixteen.

<sup>1</sup> It should be noted that the offence under this section is never committed by mere trespass. There must be actual damage (Butler v. Turley, (1827) M. & M. 54, decided upon 7 & 8 Geo. 4, c. 30, s. 24, from which s. 52 was taken).

<sup>2</sup> See note to s. 52.

Not to cut up cable without permit.

"(1) A marine store dealer shall not, on any pretence, cut up any cable or other like article exceeding five fathoms in length, or unlay the same into twine or paper stuff, without obtaining a written permit" (from a justice of the peace) as prescribed by the section—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £20; subsequent offence, £50 (s. 541).

"(1) A marine store dealer who has obtained such permit shall not act thereon until he has advertised it for a week in any local newspaper with prescribed particulars. (2) Any person believing cable, &c., described in such advertisement to be his may, upon sworn statement, obtain a warrant requiring production of cable and dealer's books; dealer failing without reasonable cause to comply with section"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £20; subsequent offence, £50 (s. 542).

Marking anchors.

"(1) Every manufacturer of anchors shall mark on every anchor manufactured by him, in legible characters and both on the crown and also on the shank under the stock, his name or initials, and shall in addition mark on the anchor a progressive number and the weight of the anchor. (2) If a manufacturer of anchors fails without reasonable cause to comply with this section, he shall be liable for each offence to a fine not exceeding £5" (s. 543).

The above offences are punishable summarily (s. 680), the limitation of time being six months from the commission of the offence or the cause of complaint, or, if both or either of the parties to the proceeding happen during that time to be out of the United Kingdom, within two months after they both first happened to arrive or be at one time within the United Kingdom (s. 683). The Summary Jurisdiction Acts<sup>2</sup> are made applicable (s. 681).

Dealer in old metals buying metals less than certain weight.

"Any dealer in old metals who, either personally or by any servant or agent, purchases, receives, or bargains for any metal mentioned in the first column of the schedule annexed hereto, whether new or old, in any quantity at one time of less weight than the quantity set opposite each such metal in the second column of the schedule annexed hereto, shall be guilty of an offence against this Act, and be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5. For the purposes of this section the term 'dealer in old metals' shall mean any person dealing in, buying, and selling old metal, scrap metal, broken metal, or partly manufactured metal goods, or defaced or old metal goods, and whether such person deals in such articles only or together with second-hand goods or marine stores" (Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, 34 & 35 Vict. c. 112, s. 13). Punishable summarily (s. 17).

The quantities mentioned in the schedule are: lead, 112 lbs.; copper, brass, tin, pewter, German silver, 56 lbs.

This section is not repealed by the General Dealers (Ir.) Act. 1903; so that a person licensed as a "general dealer" is not thereby entitled to purchase brass, &c., in less quantities than the amounts mentioned in the schedule to the Act (Campbell v. Finn, (1907) 2 I.R. 502; R. (Rogers) v. Duthie, Large & Co., (1908) 42 I.L.T.R. 148). A "general dealer" is not necessarily a "dealer in old metals": it is a question of fact to be decided by the justices whether a person charged is or is not a dealer in old metals (R. (Rogers) v. Duthie, Large, & Co., supra). See GENERAL DEALERS, p. 508.

Unlawful
possession of public stores
38 & 39 Vict.
c. 25.

Dealer in marine stores or old metals found in possession of public stores and not accounting for them—Penalty, on summary conviction, not exceeding £5 (Public Stores Act, 1875, 38 & 39 Vict. c. 25, ss. 9, 10).

"Public stores" mean all stores under the care, superintendence, or control of a Secretary of State or of the Admiralty, or any public department or office, or any person in the service of His Majesty (s. 3).

<sup>1</sup> See sect. 541 (2).

<sup>2</sup> As to the meaning of which expression, see p. 335.

Where the Public Health Act Amendment Act, 1907, is in force (as to which see "PUBLIC HEALTH") the following section is applicable:—

"(1) Every person who shall carry on business as a dealer in old metal, or as a marine store dealer, shall register his name and place of abode, and every place of business, warehouse, store, and place of deposit occupied or used by him for the purpose of such business, in a book to be kept for the purpose at the offices of the local authority. (2) Every person carrying on business as aforesaid shall correctly enter in a book to be kept by him for that purpose the description and price of all articles purchased or otherwise acquired by him, and the name, address, and occupation of the person from whom the same were purchased or otherwise acquired. (3) Every person who shall carry on such business without having so registered, or without keeping such book and making such entries as required by this section, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five pounds, and to a daily penalty not exceeding forty shillings. (4) Any officer of the local authority or other person duly authorized in writing in that behalf by the local authority, and if so required exhibiting his authority, shall have free access at all reasonable times to every such place of business, warehouse, store, and place of deposit, to inspect the same and the books by this section required to be kept; and every person who shall prevent, hinder, or obstruct any officer or person so authorized in the execution of his duty under this subsection shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding five pounds. (5) The local authority shall give public notice of the provisions of this section by advertisement in two newspapers circulating in the district, and by handbills and otherwise, in such manner as they think sufficient" (Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1907, 7 Edw. 7, c. 53, s. 86).

Provision under Public Health Act, 1907.

MASTER AND SERVANT.

	PAGE		PAGE
Servant misbehaving or leaving service, . . . . .	607	Procedure under 38 & 39 Vict. c. 86—
Complaint by servant against master, . . . . .	608	Evidence, . . . . .	612
Servant offering to be hired while in service, . . . . .	609	Appeal, . . . . .	613
Discharge—		Act of 1875 not to apply to sea services, . . . . .	613
Master obliged to give certificate, . . . . .	609	Tickets in hosiery trade, . . . . .	613
Servant not to be hired without, . . . . .	609	Tickets in silk-weaving, . . . . .	613
Power of justice to give, . . . . .	609	Servants in colliery, . . . . .	613
Taking servant without, . . . . .	610	Payment of workmen in spirits, . . . . .	613
Wages not recoverable without, . . . . .	610	Payment of wages in public-house, . . . . .	614
Conspiracy in trade disputes, . . . . .	610	Taking pledge for money owing for spirits, . . . . .	614
Intimidation, . . . . .	610	Labour Exchange, . . . . .	614
Peaceful picketing, . . . . .	612	Truck Acts, . . . . .	614
Breach of contract by servant in gas or water company, . . . . .	612	Trade Boards, . . . . .	614
Neglect to provide food for servants or apprentice, . . . . .	612	Civil Jurisdiction, . . . . .	614
Procedure under 38 & 39 Vict. c. 86—		Apprentices—
Reduction of penalty, . . . . .	612	Ill-treatment of, . . . . .	614
Right of offender to be tried on indictment, . . . . .	612	Misbehaviour of, . . . . .	614
		Powers of justice in respect of, . . . . .	615
		Obligation to support, . . . . .	615
		To sea service, . . . . .	616
		To sea fishing, . . . . .	616

"And for as much as several servants<sup>1</sup> are drunkards, idle, or otherwise disorderly in their services, or waste and purloin their masters' goods, or lend the same without their masters' or mistresses' consent or knowledge, or depart their masters' or mistresses' service without his or her consent

Servant
misbehaving or leaving service,
2 Geo. 1,
c. 17.

<sup>1</sup> There is no definition of "servants." The preceding section (repealed) speaks of "servants, artificers, and day-labourers"; and later of "such labourer, artificer, or servant". It would seem that "servants" is not confined to menial servants.

Servant misbehaving or leaving service.

within the time for which they had obliged themselves to serve; be it further enacted upon the authority aforesaid, That upon the complaint of any masters or mistresses upon oath of any such offence of his or her servant, any justice of the peace of any county or city, or chief magistrate of any city or town corporate, where the master or mistress inhabits, is hereby empowered and required to issue a warrant for bringing such servant or servants before him; and upon examination and due proof upon oath made of such offence or offences, it shall and may be lawful for the said justice of the peace or chief magistrate to send them to the house of correction of the county where such offence shall be committed, there to be kept at hard labour for any time not exceeding ten days; and in case that the said master or mistress shall, after the said time of punishment is expired, desire the said servant to return to their service for the remainder of the time that by agreement such servant ought to serve, that then the said justice of the peace or chief magistrate shall order the said servant so to do; and in case the said servant shall refuse or neglect so to do, that then and in such case the said justice of the peace or chief magistrate is again to commit such servant to the house of correction, to be kept to hard labour, and corporally punished, during the time he or she ought to serve his or her master or mistress according to their agreement, or until the next general quarter sessions of the peace, where the justices in open sessions may examine the matter and discharge the said servant, or continue him or her, as to them shall seem meet" (2 Geo. 1, c. 17 (Ir.), s. 2).<sup>1</sup>

25 Geo. 2,
c. 8.

Complaint by servant
against master.

"It shall and may be lawful to and for such justices<sup>2</sup> upon application or complaint made upon oath by any master, mistress, or employer against any such servant, artificer, handicraftsman, miner, collier, keel-man, pit-man, glass-man, potter, or other labourer touching or concerning any misdemeanour, miscarriage, or ill-behaviour in such his or her service or employment (which oath such justices are hereby empowered to administer) to hear, examine, and determine the same, and to punish the offender by commitment to the house of correction, there to remain, and be corrected and held to hard labour for a reasonable time, not exceeding one calendar month, or otherwise by abating some part of his or her wages, or by discharging such servant, artificer, handicraftsman, miner, collier, keel-man, pit-man, glass-man, potter, or other labourer from his, her, or their service or employment;" and in like manner also it shall and may be lawful to and for such justices upon any complaint or application upon oath by any such servant, artificer, handicraftsman, miner, collier, keel-man, pit-man, glass-man, potter, or other labourer, against such master, mistress, or employer, touching or concerning any misusage, refusal of necessary provision, cruelty, or other ill-treatment of, to, or towards such servant, artificer, handicraftsman, miner, collier, keel-man, pit-man, glass-man, potter, or other labourer, to summon such master, mistress, or employer, to appear before such justices at a reasonable time to be prefixed in such summons; and such justices shall and may examine into the matter of such complaint, whether such master, mistress, or employer shall appear or not, proof being made upon oath of his or her being duly summoned, and, upon proof thereof made upon oath to their satisfaction, to discharge such servant, artificer, handicraftsman, mariner, miner, collier, keel-man, pit-man, glass-man, potter, or other labourer of and from his said service and employment; which discharge shall be given under the hands and seals of such justices gratis" (25 Geo. 2, c. 8 (Ir.), s. 2).

<sup>1</sup> It is suggested in Humphreys' Justice of the Peace (9th ed., p. 138 n.) that the above sections are in effect repealed by the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1851, ss. 16 (4) and 26. These sections of the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1851, are themselves repealed, but the repeal of a repealing statute does not revive the original statute (see p. 335, ante). It should, however, be noted that the sections of the statute given in this article were treated as in force in 1878, when the Statute Law Revision (Ir.) Act, 1878, was passed, which repealed portions of the statute 2 Geo. 1, c. 17.

<sup>2</sup> One justice may act (29 Geo. 2, c. 8 (Ir.), s. 13).

"No servant shall hire him or herself, or offer themselves to be hired into any service, while she or he is actually in service, and before the time for which he or she did contract or hire him or herself be expired, without licence from his or her master or mistress first obtained, unless such servant or servants do first give one month's notice thereof to his or her master or mistress; and in case any servant shall do the contrary, on complaint and due proof upon oath being made thereof before any justice of the peace of the county, or chief magistrate of any town corporate, where such servant resides, every such servant shall be committed to the house of correction for any time not exceeding ten days, there to be kept at hard labour during that time" (2 Geo. 1, c. 17 (Ir.), s. 3).

Servant offering to be hired while in service.

"On the discharge or putting away any servant from his or her service, or upon such servant's regularly leaving his or her service, the master or mistress of such servant shall give a certificate in writing under his or her hand, that such person who is therein named, was his or her servant, and that he or she is discharged from the said service, and shall in the said discharge certify, if desired, or such master or mistress thinks fit, the behaviour of such servant" (2 Geo. 1, c. 17 (Ir.), s. 4).

Discharge. Master obliged to give.

The only remedy open to the servant in case of a refusal is under s. 5 (as to which see infra), and no action lies against a master for refusal (Handley v. Moffat, (1873) I. R. 7 C. L. 104, 7 I. L. T. R. 9).

"No master or mistress shall hire any servant without a discharge as aforesaid under the hand of the master or mistress with whom the said servant last dwelt; and in case any person shall refuse to give his or her servant a discharge and certificate of their behaviour as aforesaid, that then and in such case such servant may apply him or herself to some neighbouring justice of the peace of the county or city where such master or mistress inhabits, or to the chief magistrate of any city or corporate town, if such master or mistress lives in one, who shall write to the master or mistress of such servant (not being a peer or peeress of this realm), and, in case such master or mistress shall be a peer or peeress of this realm, then to the steward or bailiff of such peer or peeress, and require from them respectively the reason why such servant is refused such discharge and certificate of his or her behaviour; and in case no answer be given to such letter within the space of five days, or that the justice of the peace or chief magistrate shall sooner by an answer to such letter find that the cause of the refusal of such discharge or certificate was not sufficient, in either of the said cases the said justice of the peace or chief magistrate may and are hereby required to give a certificate thereof, or of such reason or reasons as the master or mistress give for refusing such discharge or certificate, that such person who is about to hire such servant may be apprised of such servant's behaviour, and judge thereof, before he or she hires such servant; for which certificate the said justice of the peace or chief magistrate, or their clerks, shall not take any fee or reward; and the said certificate to all intents and purposes shall be as good as if the same had been given by such master or mistress; and that any servant who shall be convicted of counterfeiting, or producing a counterfeited certificate, under the hand of any master or mistress, or justice of the peace or chief magistrate, or under the hand of the steward or bailiff of any peer or peeress, before two justices of the peace by the oath of one or more witnesses, or by such servant's own confession, such servant shall be committed to the house of correction, and shall be kept there for the space of three months to hard labour" (2 Geo. 1, c. 17 (Ir.), s. 5).

Servants not to be hired without discharge.

Power of justice to give discharge.

Discharge.
Taking a servant without discharge.

" . . . If any person or persons shall knowingly take into his or her service any person who has been in any former service, without such discharge or certificate as aforesaid, every such person taking such servant as aforesaid into his or her service, being thereof lawfully convicted at the general sessions of the peace held for the county or place where such offence shall be committed, shall forfeit the sum of £5, to be levied by distress and sale of the offender's goods by warrant of such general quarter sessions of the peace, rendering to the party the overplus" (2 Geo. 1, c. 17 (Ir.), s. 6).

Wages not recoverable
without
discharge

"No servant, not having such discharge or certificate as aforesaid, shall be intitled to recover any wages by virtue of this Act from such master or mistress to whom he or she shall hire him or herself, without producing such discharge or certificate before such justice of the peace or chief magistrate, or proving by a sufficient witness on oath that such discharge or certificate was given to such servant" (2 Geo. 1, c. 17 (Ir.), s. 6).

Conspiracy in trade disputes.

"An agreement or combination<sup>1</sup> by two or more persons to do or procure to be done any act in contemplation or furtherance of a trade dispute<sup>2</sup> [between employers and workmen]<sup>3</sup> shall not be indictable as a conspiracy if such act committed by one person would not be punishable as a crime. [An act done in pursuance of an agreement or combination by two or more persons shall, if done in contemplation or furtherance of a trade dispute, not be actionable unless the act if done without any such agreement or combination would be actionable.<sup>4</sup>] Nothing in this section shall exempt from punishment any persons guilty of a conspiracy for which a punishment is awarded by any Act of Parliament. Nothing in this section shall affect the law relating to riot, unlawful assembly, breach of the peace, or sedition, or any offence against the State or the sovereign. A crime for the purposes of this section means an offence punishable on indictment, or an offence which is punishable on summary conviction, and for the commission of which the offender is liable under the statute making the offence punishable to be imprisoned either absolutely or at the discretion of the court as an alternative for some other punishment. Where a person is convicted of any such agreement or combination as aforesaid to do or procure to be done an act which is punishable only on summary conviction, and is sentenced to imprisonment, the imprisonment shall not exceed three months, or such longer time (if any) as may have been prescribed by the statute for the punishment of the said act when committed by one person" (Conspiracy and Protection of Property Act, 1875, 38 & 39 Vict. c. 86, s. 3).<sup>5</sup>

Intimidation.

"Every person who, with a view to compel any other person to abstain from doing or to do any act, which such other person has a legal right to do or abstain from doing, wrongfully and without legal authority (1) uses violence to or intimidates such other person or his wife or children, or injures his property; or (2) persistently follows such other person about from place to place; or (3) hides any tools, clothes, or other

<sup>1</sup> The greater portion of the Unlawful Combination (Ir.) Act, 1803, 43 Geo. 3, c. 86, is repealed by the Statute Law Revision Act, 1888, though the fact is not noted in the INDEX to STATUTES, and Walker v. Bailie, (1903) 37 I.L.T.R. 211, is a decision on section 7, which was one of the sections repealed by the Act of 1888.

<sup>2</sup> "The expression 'trade dispute' means any dispute between employers and workmen, or between workmen and workmen, which is connected with the employment or non-employment, or the terms of the employment, or with the conditions of labour, of any person, and the expression 'workmen' means all persons employed in trade or industry, whether or not in the employment of the employer with whom a trade dispute arises" (Trade Disputes Act, 1906 (6 Edw. 7, c. 47), s. 5 (3)).

<sup>3</sup> The words in brackets have been repealed by 6 Edw. 7, c. 47, s. 5.

<sup>4</sup> Words in brackets inserted by Trade Disputes Act, 1906 (6 Edw. 7, c. 47), s. 1.

<sup>5</sup> The Act does not apply to seamen or to apprentices to the sea service (s. 16, noted post).

property owned or used by such other person, or deprives him of or hinders Intimidation. him in the use thereof; or (4) watches or besets the house or other place where such other person resides, or works, or carries on business, or happens to be, or the approach to such house or place; or (5) follows such other person with two or more other persons in a disorderly manner in or through any street or road"—Penalty, on conviction thereof by a court of summary jurisdiction, or on indictment, as hereinafter mentioned, not exceeding £20, or to be imprisoned for a term not exceeding three months, with or without hard labour (s. 7).

As to peaceful picketing, see Trades Disputes Act, 1906, s. 2, infra. The section is not confined to trades disputes, or to disputes between employer and workmen (Lyons v. Wilkins, (1899) 1 Ch. 255, per Chitty, L.J., at p. 272).

Intimidation in the section means such intimidation as would justify a magistrate in binding over the intimidator to keep the peace towards the person intimidated, in other words, such intimidation as implies a threat of personal violence (Connor v. Kent; Gibson v. Lawson; Curran v. Treleaven, (1891) 2 Q.B. 545). Intimidation is "the using of language which causes another man to fear" (per Smith, J., in Judge v. Bennett, (1877) 36 W. R. 103);<sup>1</sup> and "where a man expresses his intention to picket in such terms as to make the person addressed afraid, that is sufficient to bring his action within the meaning of intimidation" (ib., per Stephen, J.). The appellant and the respondent were workmen in the same yard, members of different trade unions. The trade union to which the respondent belonged having resolved to strike, if the appellant did not leave his society and join theirs, the respondent informed the appellant of this, without threatening him with violence to person or property in case of his refusal. The appellant refused to join the respondent's society, and was dismissed in consequence by his employer, in order to avoid a strike. He stated in evidence that "he was afraid, because of what the respondent had said, that he would lose his work, and could not obtain employment anywhere where the respondent's society predominated numerically over his own society." Held, that there was no evidence of intimidation by the respondent (Connor v. Kent; Gibson v. Lawson; Curran v. Treleaven, (1891) 2 Q.B. 545). The appellant and two other secretaries of trade unions, in order to prevent the respondent employing non-union men, informed him that if he did not cease to do so, they would call off from their employment by him all the members of their respective unions. After a meeting of the unions, at which it was resolved that this course should be adopted, the appellant and the other secretaries, in the presence of the respondent, whom they asked to attend, made the following statement to the respondent's workmen and others who were assembled:—"Inasmuch as Mr. T" (i.e. the respondent) "still insists on employing non-union men, we, your officials, call upon all union men to leave their work, use no violence, use no immoderate language, but quietly cease to work, and go home." The union men in consequence ceased to work. Held, that there was no evidence of intimidation by the appellant within the section (ib.).

The foreman on coming out of a factory was hooted by a hostile crowd. The defendant, a workman on strike, who was near the entrance, followed the foreman, at a distance of about twenty yards, through two streets, but did not speak. Held, that the defendant was rightly convicted of "persistently following" the foreman (Smith v. Thomasson, (1890) 16 Cox 740).

As to the form of conviction under the section, see R. v. M'Kenzie, (1892) 2 Q.B. 519; ex parte Wilkins, (1895, 18 Cox 161; Smith v. Moody, (1903) 1 K.B. 56, noted pp. 85, 86; and Wilson v. Renton, (1910) 17 S.L., R. 209, noted, p. 89.

<sup>1</sup> As to the extended definition of intimidation under the Criminal Law and Procedure (Ir.) Act, 1887, 50 & 51 Vict. c. 20, see R. v. M'Carthy, (1903) 2 I.R. 146.

Peaceful picketing.

"It shall be lawful for one or more persons, acting on their own behalf or on behalf of a trade union or of an individual employer or firm in contemplation or furtherance of a trade dispute<sup>1</sup> to attend at or near a house or place where a person resides or works or carries on business or happens to be if they so attend merely for the purpose of peacefully obtaining or communicating information, or of peacefully persuading any person to work or abstain from working" (Trade Disputes Act, 1906, 6 Ed. 7, c. 47, s. 2).

The section does not confer a right to enter upon private property against the will of the owner (Larkin v. Belfast Harbour Commissioners, (1908) 2 I.R. 214).

Breach of contract by persons employed in supplying gas or water.

Breach of contract by persons employed in supply of gas or water knowing or having reasonable cause to believe that such breach will deprive inhabitants of supply—Penalty, on conviction by a court of summary jurisdiction<sup>2</sup> not exceeding £20, or imprisonment not exceeding three months with or without hard labour. Printed copy of the section to be posted and kept posted up at the gasworks or waterworks—Penalty, on neglect by municipal authority, company, or contractor, not exceeding £5 per day. Injuring, defacing, or covering up notice—Penalty, not exceeding 40s. (Conspiracy and Protection of Property Act, 1875, s. 4).

Breach of contract of service or hiring, knowing or having reasonable cause to believe that the probable consequences will endanger human life, or cause serious bodily injury, or expose valuable property to injury—Penalty, on conviction by a court of summary jurisdiction,<sup>3</sup> not exceeding £20, or imprisonment not exceeding three months with or without hard labour (s. 5).

Neglect to provide food, &c., for servant or apprentice.

"Where a master, being legally liable to provide for his servant or apprentice necessary food, clothing, medical aid, or lodging, wilfully and without lawful excuse refuses or neglects to provide the same, whereby the health of the servant or apprentice is, or is likely to be, seriously or permanently injured"—Penalty, on summary conviction,<sup>4</sup> not exceeding £20, or imprisonment not exceeding six months, with or without hard labour (s. 6).

A master is civilly responsible for the maintenance of his domestic servant in a workhouse or fever hospital so long as the service shall continue, and is also liable to maintain his apprentice residing under his roof (Poor Relief (Ir.) Act, 1862, 25 & 26 Vict. c. 83, s. 4).

Procedure under 38 & 39 Vict. c. 86.

Reduction of penalty.

Offences under the Conspiracy and Protection of Property Act, 1875, are punishable summarily, in Dublin before a divisional justice, elsewhere before two or more justices at petty sessions, in manner provided by the Dublin Police Acts or the Petty Sessions Act, 1851, as the case may be (ss. 10, 21). The court may mitigate to one-fourth any pecuniary penalty imposed by "any Act relating to employers or workmen" where no power is given to reduce such penalty (s. 8). A person accused of an offence made punishable under the Act, with a penalty amounting to £20, or imprisonment, may, on appearing before the court . . . , object to being tried summarily for such offence, and thereupon the case shall be treated as an indictable offence (s. 9). The parties to the contract of service, their husbands or wives, are competent witnesses (s. 11).

Right of offender to be tried on indictment. Evidence.

<sup>1</sup> Meaning any dispute between employers and workmen, or between workmen and workmen, which is connected with the employment or non-employment, or the terms of the employment, or with the conditions of labour, of any person (s. 5 (3)).

<sup>2</sup> Or on indictment. See s. 9, infra.

<sup>3</sup> Or on indictment. See s. 9, infra.

<sup>4</sup> Or on indictment. See s. 9, infra.

A right of appeal is given against any conviction to the quarter sessions held not less than fifteen days, and not more than four months, after the decision of the inferior court, the appellant within seven days after the cause of appeal has arisen giving notice to the other parties and to the court of his intention to appeal and of the ground thereof, and immediately after such notice entering into a recognizance conditioned to try the appeal and to abide the decision of the court and to pay the costs. When the appellant is in custody, the justice may, if he thinks fit, release him on the recognizance being entered into. The court of appeal may reverse, confirm, or vary the conviction, or remit the matter to the court of summary jurisdiction, or may make such other order as to the payment of the costs by the other party as the court thinks just (s. 12).

Procedure under 38 & 39 Vict. c. 86.
Appeal.

"Nothing in the Act shall apply to seamen or apprentices to the sea service" (s. 16). This section means only that the punishments prescribed by the Act are not to fall on seamen; the case of an offence against a seaman by a person who is not a seaman is, therefore, not excluded from the Act by the section (Kennedy v. Cowie, (1891) 1 Q.B. 771). The expression "seamen" means seamen as defined by the Merchant Shipping Acts,<sup>1</sup> that is to say, persons employed or engaged on board ship; and the section does not exempt persons whose calling or occupation is the sea, but who are not actually so employed or engaged (R. v. Lynch, (1898) 1 Q.B. 61). A hand employed on a Thames sailing barge is a seaman (Corbett v. Pearce, (1904) 2 K.B. 422).

Act not to apply to sea services.

Masters engaged in the hosiery business are required to furnish tickets containing price, description of work, &c. (which, in the event of a dispute about the work, are to be evidence of the facts therein stated), to workmen when work is given out to them—Penalty, for non-compliance, not exceeding £5, recoverable summarily on the complaint of the workman to whom such ticket was not given (Hosiery Act, 1845, 8 & 9 Vict. c. 77).

Tickets in hosiery trade.

Manufacturer of silk goods required (but without being liable to any penalty for non-compliance) to give to weaver of such goods, unless dispensed with by written agreement, printed or written tickets containing particulars of the work, the price, &c., when work given out to workmen (Silk Weavers Act, 1845, 8 & 9 Vict. c. 128, s. 1), which in the event of a dispute between the parties are to be evidence of the facts therein stated (s. 2).

Tickets in silk-weaving.

No owner, &c., of a colliery shall knowingly employ persons retained or employed by another—Penalty, £5, recoverable by civil bill (25 Geo. 2, c. 8 (Ir.), s. 7).

Servants in colliery.

"If any person in Ireland shall agree to pay or shall pay any journeyman, workman, servant, or labourer, or other person employed by or working under him, or her, or under his or her direction, so much money for wages, or any part thereof, which shall be ordinarily and usually paid for the work which such journeyman, servant, labourer, or other person shall be employed in, or shall agree to pay or shall pay such wages partly in money and partly in or by spirituous liquors, or shall set off, stop, or deduct all or any part of the wages or hire due to any journeyman, workman, servant, or labourer, for any spirituous liquors delivered or sold to or drunk by him or her, every such person so offending shall for every such offence, upon being convicted thereof before any magistrate or justice of the peace, forfeit the sum of 40s. British currency; and every person giving or procuring credit to be given for spirituous liquor sold or drunk as aforesaid shall forfeit the sum of £5 British currency" (Intoxicating Liquors (Ir.) Act, 1815, 55 Geo. 3, c. 19, s. 64).

Paying workmen, &c., wholly or partly in spirits.

<sup>1</sup> See Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 and 1894, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 104, s. 2; 57 & 58 Vict. c. 60, s. 72.

Paying workmen, &c., in public-houses.

"No person in Ireland employing journeymen, workmen, servants, or labourers, shall by himself or herself, or by any other person, pay any journeyman, workman, servant, or labourer, employed by him or her, the whole or any part of the wages due to such journeyman, workman, servant, or labourer, in or at any house in which any spirituous liquors, wine, beer, ale, porter, or cyder, or perry, metheglin, or mead shall be sold by retail, and every person so offending shall for every such offence, upon being convicted thereof before any magistrate or justice of the peace, forfeit the sum of £10 British currency, and all payments of all wages made in manner aforesaid shall be null and void" (s. 65).

Taking pledge or pawn for money owing for spirits.

"In case any person shall take or receive any pawn or pledge from any person by way of security for the payment of any sum or sums of money owing by such person for spirituous liquors, every such person so offending, and being convicted thereof before any magistrate or justice of the peace, shall forfeit the sum of 40s. British currency for every pawn or pledge so taken in or received by him or them, and the person or persons to whom any such pawn or pledge shall belong shall have the same remedy for recovering such pawn or pledge, or the value thereof, as if it had not been given as a pledge" (s. 67).

Labour Exchanges.

The Labour Exchanges Act, 1909, empowers the Board of Trade to establish and maintain labour exchanges, and to make regulations therefor. "If any person knowingly makes any false statement or false representation to any officer of a labour exchange established under this Act, or to any person acting for or for the purposes of any such labour exchange, for the purpose of obtaining employment or procuring workpeople"—Penalty, in respect of each offence on summary conviction, not exceeding £10 (Labour Exchanges Act, 1909, 9 Ed. 7, c. 7, s. 3).

Truck Acts.

As to Truck Acts, see TRUCK ACTS, post.

Trade boards.

As to the payment of less wages than that allowed under the Trade Boards Act, 1909, see that statute. APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

Civil jurisdiction.

As to civil jurisdiction in case of disputes between master and servant, or master and apprentice, see p. 157, et seq.

Apprentices. Ill-treatment of.

"It shall and may be lawful to and for any two or more such justices<sup>1</sup> upon any complaint or application by any apprentice, upon whose binding out no larger a sum than £5 sterling was paid, touching or concerning any misuse, refusal of necessary provision, cruelty, or ill-treatment of or towards such apprentice, by his or her master or mistress, to summon such master or mistress to appear before such justices at a reasonable time to be named in such summons; and such justices shall and may examine into the matter of such complaint, and upon proof thereof made upon oath to their satisfaction, whether the master or mistress be present or not, if service of the summons be also upon oath proved, the said justices may discharge such apprentice by warrant or by certificate under their hands and seals, for which warrant or certificate no fees shall be paid" (25 Geo. 2, c. 8 (Ir.), s. 3).

Misbehaviour of apprentice.

"It shall and may be lawful to and for such justices<sup>1</sup> upon application or complaint made upon oath by any master or mistress against any such apprentice touching or concerning any misdemeanour, miscarriage, or ill-behaviour in such his or her service (which oath such justices are hereby empowered to administer) to hear, examine, and determine the same, and to punish the offender by commitment to the house of correction, there to remain and be corrected, and held to hard labour for a reasonable time, not exceeding one calendar month, or otherwise by discharging such apprentice in manner and form before mentioned" (25 Geo. 2, c. 8 (Ir.), s. 4).

<sup>1</sup> One justice may act (29 Geo. 2, c. 8, s. 13 (Ir.)).

"In a proceeding before a court of summary jurisdiction in relation to a dispute under this Act between a master and an apprentice, the court shall have the same powers as if the dispute were between an employer and a workman, and the master were the employer and the apprentice the workman, and the instrument of apprenticeship a contract between an employer and a workman, and shall also have the following powers: (1) It may make an order directing the apprentice to perform his duties under the apprenticeship; and, (2) If it rescinds the instrument of apprenticeship, it may, if it thinks it just so to do, order the whole or any part of the premium paid on the binding of the apprentice to be repaid. Where an order is made directing an apprentice to perform his duties under the apprenticeship, the court may, from time to time, if satisfied after the expiration of not less than one month from the date of the order that the apprentice has failed to comply therewith, order him to be imprisoned for a period not exceeding fourteen days" (Employer and Workman Act, 1875, s. 6).

As to obligation to support apprentice, see p. 612.

Special provisions are contained in the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, 57 & 58 Vict. c. 60, as to indentures in respect of apprentices to sea service (see ss. 108, 109), and as to punishment of such apprentices (see ss. 220, 221, 225).

The Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, contains provisions as to offences by apprentices to sea fishing, applicable to boats of 25 tons and upwards (see ss. 383, 384, 387, 392, 395).

Apprentices.
Powers of justices in respect of apprentices.

Obligation to support apprentices.
Apprentices
to sea service.

Apprentices
to sea-fishing.

MEDICAL PRACTITIONER.

	PAGE		PAGE
Medical Acts, . . . . .	615	Medical register, . . . . .	616
Falsely pretending to be a physician, . . . . .	615	Non-registered practitioner cannot
Who may prosecute, . . . . .	616	sue for fees, &c., . . . . .	616

The Acts which now regulate the practice of the medical profession are the Medical Act, 1858, 21 & 22 Vict. c. 90; the Medical Act, 1859, 22 Vict. c. 21; the Medical Acts Amendments Act, 1860, 23 & 24 Vict. c. 7; the Medical Practitioners Act, 1876, 39 & 40 Vict. c. 40; and the Medical Act, 1886, 49 & 50 Vict. c. 48. These Acts are to be read together, and are collectively known as the Medical Acts. By these Acts a body known as the General Medical Council, having a Registrar and Treasurer, has been created. Under these Acts there are only two offences. One is the indictable offence (as to which see CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES, post) of procuring, &c., registration in pursuance of the Medical Act, 1858, by fraudulent representations, &c., created by s. 39 of the Medical Act, 1858. The other is as follows:—

"Any person who shall wilfully and falsely pretend to be or take or use the name or title of a physician, doctor of medicine, licentiate in medicine and surgery, bachelor of medicine, surgeon, general practitioner or apothecary, or any name, title, addition, or description implying that he is registered under this Act or that he is recognized by law as a physician or surgeon, or licentiate in medicine or surgery, or a practitioner in medicine, or an apothecary, shall upon a summary conviction for any such offence pay a sum not exceeding £20" (Medical Act, 1858, s. 40).

The penalty is recoverable subject and according to the Summary Jurisdiction (Ireland) Acts, as to which expression see p. 335 (s. 41), and is to be paid to the treasurer of the General Medical Council (s. 42).

Medical Acts.
False representation of being physician, &c.

No person can be convicted under s. 40 of the Act of 1858, unless it be clearly proved that he pretended to be what in fact he is not (Penygriff v. Chevalier, (1860) 8 C.B. N.S.) 240; and whether he has so pretended or not is a question of fact rather than of law (Carpenter v. Hamilton, (1877) 41 J.P. 615). But such pretence must, in order to constitute the offence, be made "wilfully and falsely"; and accordingly, where a licentiate of the Apothecaries' Hall, London, who was registered under the Act as an apothecary, described himself as a physician, it was held that, inasmuch as he had done so erroneously, but in good faith and not wilfully and falsely, that is to say, falsely to his knowledge, he was wrongly convicted under the section (Hunter v. Clare, (1899) 1 Q.B. 635).

Any member of the public may institute proceedings under s. 40 of the Act of 1858 (Clarke v. Maguire, (1909) 2 I.R. 681).

A register of the names and qualifications of persons registered pursuant to the Act (to be known as the "Medical Register") is to be printed and published every year by the registrar of the General Medical Council, and a copy thereof, purporting to be so printed and published, is to be evidence until the contrary is proved, that any person whose name appears therein is, and that any person whose name does not appear therein is not, registered pursuant to the Act (Act of 1858, s. 27).

No person can recover in any court for any medical or surgical attendance, &c., or for any medicine that he has both prescribed and supplied, unless he proves that he is registered under the Act (s. 32; see Lemon v. Fletcher, (1873) L.R. 8 Q.B. 319).

Who may prosecute.

Medical Register.

Non-registered person cannot sue for attendance or medicine.

MERCHANDISE MARKS.

	PAGE		PAGE
Merchandise Marks Act, 1887—		Merchandise Marks Act, 1887—
Offences as to trade marks and		False representation as to Royal trade descriptions, . . . . .	616	Warrant, . . . . .	621
Definitions, . . . . .	617	Liability of master, . . . . .	621
Forging trade mark, what is, . . . . .	618	Liability of servant, . . . . .	621
Applying trade mark, &c., what		Penalties, . . . . .	621
is, . . . . .	618	Procedure, . . . . .	622
Intent, . . . . .	618	Appeal, . . . . .	623
Verbal misdescription, no offence,	618	Search warrant, . . . . .	623
"Acting innocently," . . . . .	618	Forfeiture, . . . . .	623
Misrepresentation as to place of		Trades Marks Act, 1905—origin, . . . . .	619	Falsely representing trade mark as Exemption of general trade de-		registered, . . . . .	623
scriptions used at passing of		Irish Handloom Weavers Act, 1909,	623
Act, . . . . .	620	Irish trade mark, . . . . .	624
Watches and watch cases, . . . . .	621

Merchandise
Marks Act,
1887.

Offences as to trade marks and trade descriptions.

"(1) Every person who—(a) forges any trade mark; or (b) falsely applies to goods any trade mark, or any mark so nearly resembling a trade mark as to be calculated to deceive; or (c) makes any die, block, machine, or other instrument for the purpose of forging, or of being used for forging, a trade mark; or (d) applies any false trade description to goods, or (e) disposes of or has in his possession any die, block, machine, or other instrument for the purpose of forging a trade mark; or (f) causes any of the things above in this section mentioned to be done, shall, subject to the provisions of this Act, and unless he proves that he acted without intent to defraud, be guilty of an offence against this Act.

"(2) Every person who sells, or exposes for, or has in his possession for sale, or any purpose of trade or manufacture any goods or things to which any forged trade mark or false trade description is applied, or to which any trade mark or mark so nearly resembling a trade mark as to be calculated to deceive is falsely applied, as the case may be, shall, unless he proves—(a) That having taken all reasonable precautions against committing an offence against this Act, he had at the time of the commission of the alleged offence no reason to suspect the genuineness of the trade mark, mark, or trade description; and (b) that on demand made by or on behalf of the prosecutor, he gave all the information in his power with respect to the persons from whom he obtained such goods or things; or (c) that otherwise he had acted innocently; be guilty of an offence against this Act” (Merchandise Marks Act, 1887, 50 & 51 Vict. c. 28, s. 2; as to penalties, see p. 622).

“(1) For the purposes of this Act—The expression ‘trade mark’ means a trade mark registered in the register of trade marks kept under the Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Act, 1883, and includes any trade mark which, either with or without registration, is protected by law in any British possession or foreign State to which the provisions of the one hundred and third section of the Patents, Designs, and Trade Marks Act, 1883, are, under Order in Council, for the time being applicable.

Definitions.
“Trade mark.”

“The expression ‘trade description’ means any description, statement, or other indication, direct or indirect, (a) as to the number, quantity, measure, gauge or weight of any goods, or (b) as to the place or country in which any goods were made or produced, or (c) as to the mode of manufacturing or producing any goods, or (d) as to the material of which any goods are composed, or (e) as to any goods being the subject of an existing patent, privilege, or copyright, and the use of any figure, word, or mark which, according to the custom of the trade, is commonly taken to be an indication of any of the above matters, shall be deemed to be a trade description within the meaning of this Act.

“Trade description.”

“The expression ‘false trade description’ means a trade description which is false in a material respect as regards the goods to which it is applied, and includes every alteration of a trade description, whether by way of addition, effacement, or otherwise, where that alteration makes the description false in a material respect, and the fact that a trade description is a trade mark, or part of a trade mark, shall not prevent such trade description being a false trade description within the meaning of this Act.

“False trade description.”

“The expression ‘goods’ means anything which is the subject of trade, manufacture, or merchandise.

“The expressions ‘person,’ ‘manufacturer,’ ‘dealer’ or ‘trader,’ and ‘proprietor,’ include any body of persons corporate or unincorporate.

“Person,” &c.

“The expression ‘name’ includes any abbreviation of a name.

“Name.”

“(2) The provisions of this Act respecting the application of a false trade description to goods shall extend to the application to goods of any such figures, words, or marks, or arrangement or combination thereof, whether including a trade mark or not, as are reasonably calculated to lead persons to believe that the goods are the manufacture or merchandise of some person other than the person whose manufacture or merchandise they really are.

“Application of false trade description.”

“(3) The provisions of this Act respecting the application of a false trade description to goods, or respecting goods to which a false trade description is applied, shall extend to the application to goods of any false name or initials of a person and to goods with the false name and initials of a person applied in like manner as if such name or initials were a trade description, and for the purpose of this enactment the expression ‘false name or initials’ means as applied to any goods, any name or initials of a person which (a) are not a trade mark or part of a trade mark, and (b) are identical with, or a colourable imitation of the name or initials of a person carrying on business in connection with goods of the same description, and not having authorized the use of such name or initials, and (c) are either those of a fictitious person or of some person not bona fide carrying on business in connection with such goods" (Merchandise Marks Act, 1887, s. 3).

Merchandise
Marks Act, 1887.

Forging trade mark, what is.

"A person shall be deemed to forge a trade mark who either (a) without the assent of the proprietor of the trade mark makes that trade mark or a mark so nearly resembling that trade mark as to be calculated to deceive; or (b) falsifies any genuine trade mark, whether by alteration, addition, effacement, or otherwise; and any trade mark or mark so made or falsified is in this Act referred to as a forged trade mark. Provided that in any prosecution for forging a trade mark the burden of proving the assent of the proprietor shall lie on the defendant" (s. 4).

Applying trade marks and descriptions,
what is.

"(1) A person shall be deemed to apply a trade mark or mark or trade description to goods who (a) applies it to the goods themselves; or (b) applies it to any covering, label, reel, or other thing in or with which the goods are sold or exposed or had in possession for any purpose of sale, trade, or manufacture; or (c) places, encloses, or annexes any goods which are sold or exposed or had in possession for any purpose of sale, trade, or manufacture, in, with, or to any covering, label, reel, or other thing to which a trade mark or trade description has been applied; or (d) uses a trade mark or mark or trade description in any manner calculated to lead to the belief that the goods in connection with which it is used are designated or described by that trade mark or mark or trade description.

"(2) The expression 'covering' includes any stopper, cask, bottle, vessel, box, cover, capsule, case, frame, or wrapper;<sup>1</sup> and the expression 'label' includes any band or ticket.

"A trade mark or mark or trade description shall be deemed to be applied whether it is woven, impressed, or otherwise worked into, or annexed, or affixed to the goods, or to any covering, label, reel, or other thing.

"(3) A person shall be deemed to falsely apply to goods a trade mark or mark, who, without the assent of the proprietor of a trade mark, applies such trade mark, or a mark so nearly resembling it as to be calculated to deceive, but in any prosecution for falsely applying a trade mark or mark to goods the burden of proving the assent of the proprietor shall lie on the defendant" (s. 5).

Intent.

If a trade mark is falsely applied, the fact that fraud is not intended, or any person actually deceived (Thwaites v. McEvilly, (1904) 1 I.R. 310; Wood v. Burgess, (1890) 24 Q.B.D. 162), or that the article sold is as good as, or better than, the article represented to be sold (Kirshenboim v. Gluckstein, (1898) 2 Q.B. 19), affords no defence; and see R. v. Phillips, (1909) 73 J.P. 458, noted at p. 621, infra).

Verbal mis-description
no offence.

No offence is committed by a false verbal description, the statute being limited to a physical mark upon the goods, whether printed, written, or otherwise (Coppen v. Moore (No. 1), (1898) 2 Q.B. 300; Langley v. Bombay Tea Co., Ltd., (1900) 2 Q.B. 460); but, as to the use of letters or words, unintelligible without a verbal explanation, see Cameron v. Wiggins, (1901) 1 K.B., noted p. 620, infra.

"Acting innocently."

The burthen of proof that the defendant "acted innocently" lies upon him (see judgment of Channell, J., in Christie, Manson, & Woods v. Cooper, (1900) 2 Q.B. 522, at p. 528). Mere suspicion of the genuineness of the article is not conclusive against a defendant (ib.). "To prove innocence the vendor must show that he was not aware that he was violating the Act of Parliament" (per Porter, M.R., in Thwaites v. McEvilly, (1904)

<sup>1</sup> See cases noted under WEIGHTS AND MEASURES as to wrappers or packages.

1 I.R., at p. 313). But mere ignorance of the statute is not enough ; there would have to be evidence before the justices of something showing no intention to commit any offence at all (per Lord Alverstone, C.J., in Stone v. Brown, (1910) 27 T.L.R. 6). It is difficult to suggest a case in which justices could properly find that the defendant acted innocently where he has not availed himself of his right to go into the witness-box. Merchandise Marks Act.
1887.

Where the defendants filled their own mineral waters into bottles bearing a rival manufacturer's name embossed thereon, but having the defendants' own label, it was held that defendants had not acted innocently, though they had not tried to pass off their manufacture as that of their rival, nor was there any proof that any person had been deceived (Thwaites v. McEvilly, (1904) 1 I.R. 310 ; see also Wood v. Burgess, (1890) 24 Q.B.D. 162 ; cf. R. (Findlater) v. Quirke, (1903) 3 N.I.J.R. 165). But where the occasional user of such embossed labels was without the knowledge of the defendants or any of their servants, and was the result of unavoidable error in spite of all reasonable precautions by the defendants, this was held to be "acting innocently" (Donohoe v. Cherry, (1909) 26 R.P.C. 545). The King's Bench Division in England would seem disposed to draw a different inference of fact from the use of an embossed bottle from that drawn by Porter, M.R., and the Court of Appeal in Ireland in Thwaites v. McEvilly, supra. The defendant, Horatius Stone, bottled Bass's ale in bottles bearing the name of the Felinfoel Brewery Company, and he affixed thereon a Bass's label with the words "bottled by Horatius Stone." The Felinfoel Brewery Company had not given the defendant authority to use bottles bearing their name, and notice had some time previously been given to the defendant by a trade protection association warning him against the use of bottles moulded with the name of any member of the association. The justices found that the embossed name was calculated to deceive, that defendant had not acted innocently, and convicted him of selling goods to which a false trade name had been applied. Held, that the decision could be supported on s. 5 (c), infra ; but the court intimated their non-concurrence with the findings of fact of the justices (Stone v. Brown, (1910) 27 T.L.R. 6). Lord Alverstone, C.J., said :—"If they had been dealing with the case as an ordinary case of applying a false trade description to goods, he would have had no hesitation in saying that as long as the Bass label was on the bottle no reasonable purchaser could have doubted that he was getting Bass's beer and not beer of the complainants. . . In s. 5 (c) of the Act the legislature had been careful to spread the net very wide indeed, and in view of the wording of that section it could not be said that there was no evidence before the justices on which they could say that an offence had been committed. Nor could they quash the conviction on the ground that the defendant had acted innocently. For himself, in view of the evidence of the practice which existed for thirty years,<sup>1</sup> he would not have convicted, but they could not say that the matter was so clear that the justices were bound in law to hold that no offence had been committed." Pickford, J., said that, in his view, the grounds on which the justices had convicted were wrong.

Whether or not the accused "acted innocently" is a question of fact and not of law ; a finding that he acted without intent to defraud is not the same as a finding that he "acted innocently" (Jenkinson v. Neilson, (1899) 2 Fraser (J.C.) 13 ; Haddow v. Nielson, ib., 19, noted Stroud's Supplement, p. 271).

As to misrepresentation of place of origin, it was held that the words "French Factory" constituted a false trade description where the finishing Misrepresentation as to place of origin.

<sup>1</sup> The practice in Swansea of bottling Bass's beer into bottles with various names embossed on them.

Merchandise
Marks Act, 1887.

process in manufacture was done in England (Bishop v. Toler, (1895) 65 L.J. M.C. 1). Where a watch was described as an "English Lever" whereas the greater part of it was made abroad, though assembled in England, it was held that an offence had been committed (Williamson v. Tierney, (1900) 17 T.L.R. 174). Where bacon, killed in America and cured partly in America and partly in Ireland, was displayed in a shop of Liptons, Ltd., in Dublin, as "Lipton's Cure" and "own cure at Lipton's market," it was held that no offence was committed (R. v. Lipton, (1893) 32 L.R.L. 115; cf. Stacey v. Chilworth Gunpowder Co., (1889) 24 Q.B.D. 90, and see s. 18, infra). But where Lipton applied to a ham the description "Tracey's Mild Cure," Tracey being Lipton's foreman curer in America, it was held that Lipton was rightly convicted of an offence under section 3 (3) (c) (R. v. Lipton, supra).

Although upon a sale of goods a purely oral indication of the country of their production will not amount to a trade description within the meaning of the Act, any writing or mark, however unintelligible without explanation, will, if orally explained by the vendor at the time of sale to be intended to indicate a particular country as the country in which the goods were produced, constitute a sufficient trade description for the purposes of the Act; thus, the letters "N. M.," orally explained at the time of sale as meaning "New Zealand Mutton" were held to constitute a false trade description (Cameron v. Wiggins, (1901) 1 K.B. 1).<sup>1</sup>

Exemption of general trade descriptions in use at the passing of the Act.

"Where, at the passing of this Act, a trade description is lawfully and generally applied to goods of a particular class, or manufactured by a particular method, to indicate the particular class or method of manufacture of such goods, the provisions of this Act with respect to false trade descriptions shall not apply to such trade description when so applied: provided that, where such trade description includes the name of a place or country, and is calculated to mislead as to the place or country where the goods to which it is applied were actually made or produced, and the goods are not actually made or produced in that place or country, this section shall not apply unless there is added to the trade description, immediately before or after the name of that place or country, in an equally conspicuous manner with that name, the name of the place or country in which the goods were actually made or produced, with a statement that they were made or produced there" (Merchandise Marks Act, 1887, s. 18).

To bring a trade description within the section, it must (a) have been applied generally (i.e., as an accepted popular name or description) to the goods at the date of the passing of the Act (i.e., 24th August, 1887); and (b) such application must not have been contrary to law. Examples of the class of trade descriptions referred to in s. 18 are "patent leather," "mackintosh coats," "Harvey's sauce."

Whether a trade description (in use at the passing of the Act), which includes the name of a place or country, is "calculated to mislead as to the place or country" of origin is a question of fact in each case.<sup>2</sup> Under the Customs Order of 1900, made under the Act of 1887, the terms "Balbriggan," as applied to hosiery, "Kidderminster," as applied carpets, and "Shetland," as applied to shawls, are given as instances of trade descriptions which are calculated to mislead; and the description "Portland," as applied to cement, is given as an appellation not calculated to deceive. "Donegal," as applied to tweeds (Daniels' Case, Times, 6th April, 1907), and semble, "Witney," as applied to blankets (Ryland's Case, Times, 9th April, 1909), both cited in Kerly's Law of Merchandise Marks, 3rd ed., 1909, p. 49 n., were held in the London police courts to be calculated to deceive.

<sup>1</sup> For an instance of a successful prosecution in reference to a misdescription of the place of origin, see the police court decision in R. (Irish Industrial Association) v. Mullins, (1910) 44 I.L.T. & S. J. 107. In that case the gist of the complaint was that defendant sold English goods under a label implying, though not stating, that the goods were Irish made. The label was follows:—"A. & Co., The Catholic Manufacturing Co., X Street, Dublin," implying that the goods were made at X Street, whereas in fact they were made at defendants' Liverpool place of business.

<sup>2</sup> The dicta of Mellish, L.J., in Ford v. Foster, (1872) L.R. 7 Ch. 611, at p. 628 (though applied to trade marks), may be referred to as a statement of the test to be applied.

Merchandise
Marks Act,
1887.

Cigars of Havana tobacco, with an outside leaf of Sumatra tobacco, not made in Cuba, were packed in boxes bearing the name "Bella de Cuba," certain Spanish words, and a registered trade mark, consisting of a Spanish-looking lady. The boxes were stamped with a rubber stamp on the outside and inside, with the words, "Guaranteed British made"—Held, a false trade description (R. v. Phillips, (1909) 73 J. P. 458).

"Where a watch-case has thereon any words or marks which constitute, or are by common repute considered as constituting, a description of the country in which the watch was made, and the watch bears no description of the country where it was made, those words or marks shall, prima facie, be deemed to be a description of that country within the meaning of this Act; and the provisions of this Act with respect to goods to which a false trade description has been applied, and with respect to selling or exposing for, or having in possession for sale, or any purpose of trade or manufacture, goods with a false trade description, shall apply accordingly; and for the purposes of this section the expression 'watch' means all that portion of a watch which is not the watch-case" (s. 7).

Watches and watch-cases.

After date fixed by Order in Council, any person making a false declaration as to the country or place where any watch-case was made, for the purpose of obtaining a false mark of the Assay Office, is liable on conviction on indictment to penalties of perjury, and on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £20 (s. 8).

False representation that goods are made by a person holding a Royal Warrant, or for the service of His Majesty, or any of the Royal family, or any Government Department—Penalty, not exceeding £20 (s. 20).

False representation as to Royal warrant.

A master will be liable for the criminal acts of his servants while acting within the general scope of their authority (Coppen v. Moore (No. 2), (1898) 2 Q.B. 306). See also p. 292.

Liability of master.

A servant will be liable for taking part in the sale (see Pharmaceutical Society v. Wheelton, (1890) 24 Q.B.D. 683), unless he comes within the following provisions of s. 19 (3):—"Nothing in this Act shall be construed so as to render liable to any prosecution or punishment any servant of a master resident in the United Kingdom who bona fide acts in obedience to the instructions of such master, and, on demand made by or on behalf of the prosecutor, has given full information as to his master." Special provision is made by section 11 for the punishment of accessories within the United Kingdom who procure the commission abroad of offences against the Act.

Liability of
servant.

Persons employed, on behalf of other persons, in the business of making dies, &c., if charged with forging a trade mark, are exempt, on proof of bona fides and of certain other conditions (s. 6).

No prosecution for an offence against the Act shall be commenced after the expiration of three years next after the commission of the offence, or one year after the first discovery thereof by the prosecutor, whichever expiration first happens (s. 15). The defendant has the right to elect to be tried by indictment, and he must be informed of his right before the case is gone into (s. 2). Should the defendant be not so informed, the proceedings will be invalid (R. v. Cockshott, (1898) 1 Q.B. 582).

Procedure.

The defendant, and the wife or husband of the defendant, are competent witnesses (s. 10). Evidence may be given of previous similar acts of the defendant showing an intention to defraud (Budd v. Lucas, (1891) 1 Q.B. 408; see also R. v. Francis, (1873) L.R. 2 C.C.R. 128).

Merchandise
Marks Act, 1887.

By the Merchandise Marks (Ireland) Act, 1909, 9 Edw. 7, c. 24, the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction for Ireland may, with the concurrence of the Lord Chancellor of Ireland and of the Board of Trade, make regulations providing that, in cases which appear to the Department to relate to Irish agricultural produce, or to the produce of any other Irish rural industry and to affect the general interests of the country or of a section of the community or of a trade, the prosecution in Ireland of offences under the Merchandise Marks Act, 1887, shall be undertaken by the Department;<sup>1</sup> and prescribing the conditions on which such prosecutions are to be so undertaken.<sup>2</sup>

On any prosecution under the Merchandise Marks Act, 1887, the court may order costs to be paid to the defendant by the prosecutor, or to the prosecutor by the defendant, having regard to the information given by, and the conduct of, the defendant and prosecutor respectively (Merchandise Marks Act, 1887, s. 14).

The word "person" includes any body of persons corporate or unincorporate (Merchandise Marks Act, 1887, s. 2 (1)). It is only necessary in legal proceedings to refer to the trade mark or foreign trade mark, without further description (s. 9). The Vexatious Indictments Act, 1859, applies to all offences punishable on indictment under the Act (s. 13).

Penalties.

The penalty for a breach of the Merchandise Marks Act, 1887, is as follows:—

(1) On conviction on indictment, imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for a term not exceeding two years, or fine, or both imprisonment and fine. (2) On summary conviction imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for a term not exceeding four months, or fine not exceeding £20; second or subsequent conviction, imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for term not exceeding six months, or fine not exceeding £50; and (3) in any case, forfeiture of goods or articles (s. 2 (3)).

<sup>1</sup> The following regulations have been made by the Department with the concurrence of the Lord Chancellor and of the Board of Trade:—

(1.) The Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction for Ireland shall, subject to the conditions in the next following regulations prescribed, undertake the prosecution in Ireland of offences under the Merchandise Marks Act, 1887, in cases which appear to the Department to relate to Irish agricultural produce, or to the produce of any other Irish rural industry, and to affect the general interests of the country, or of a section of the community, or of a trade. (2.) (i.) Every application to the Department to undertake a prosecution shall be accompanied by the following documents:—(a) A statement showing the nature and circumstances of the case, and sufficient to enable the Department to form an opinion whether the case relates to Irish agricultural produce, or to the produce of any other Irish rural industry, and affects the general interests of the country, or of a section of the community, or of a trade. (b) A statement showing the facts which, if the Department undertake the prosecution, will be capable of proof, and setting out the proofs and names of witnesses available to prove such facts. (ii.) The Department may require the above statements to be supplemented or additional evidence to be furnished. (3.) If, on the evidence, the Department are of opinion that there is no reasonable prospect of a conviction being obtained, the Department will not, unless they think fit, undertake the prosecution. (4.) If the Department are of opinion that the prosecution would be better or more properly conducted otherwise than under these regulations, the Department will not undertake the prosecution. (5.) The Department may, before undertaking a prosecution, require the applicant to give security for costs on such terms and in such manner as they think proper. (6.) For the purpose of carrying these regulations into effect, the Department may, from time to time, prescribe the use of such forms and give such directions as they may deem expedient.

<sup>2</sup> Under the Merchandise Marks Act, 1891, 54 & 55 Vict. c. 15, s. 2, the Board of Trade may make regulations providing that in cases appearing to the Board to affect the general interest of the country or of a section of the community, or of a trade, the prosecution shall be undertaken by the Board of Trade.

In case of any conviction, an appeal to quarter sessions is given to the party aggrieved (s. 2 (5)).

Where either a summons or a warrant to arrest has been issued under the Act, a search warrant may be granted, upon information on oath, authorizing a constable to enter the defendant's premises by day, and to seize and take away any goods or things of or in relation to which the offence has been committed (s. 12 (1)).

The Court before whom any person is convicted may order any forfeited articles to be destroyed or otherwise disposed of as the court thinks fit (s. 2 (4)). Where the owner of goods liable to forfeiture cannot be found, a complaint may be made for the purpose only of enforcing such forfeiture; and, after advertisement of a notice that the goods will be forfeited unless the owner or some person interested shows cause to the contrary, an order may be made for forfeiture (s. 12 (2)). Out of the proceeds of the sale of such forfeited goods, the court may award any innocent party any loss he may have innocently sustained in dealing with such goods (s. 12 (3)).

"(1) Any person who represents a trade mark as registered which is not so, shall be liable for every offence on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £5. (2) A person shall be deemed, for the purposes of this enactment, to represent that a trade mark is registered, if he uses, in connection with the trade mark, the word "registered" or any words expressing or implying that registration has been obtained for the trade mark" (Trade Marks Act, 1905, 5 Ed. 7, c. 15, s. 67).

An offence is apparently committed under this section if a trade mark, registered abroad, but not registered in the United Kingdom, is described as "registered" (see Wright, Crossley, & Co. v. Dobbin, (1897) 15 R. P. C. 21).

Falsification of entries in register is a misdemeanour (s. 66).

In all proceedings in respect of an alleged infringement of a trade mark, the production of the sealed copy of the register, under section 50 of the Trade Marks Act, 1905, is, if it is submitted, sufficient, having regard to the provisions in section 40, that registration shall be prima facie evidence of the validity of the registration. If, out of abundance of caution, it is desired to give in evidence the permission of the Board of Trade, this may be proved by the production of a copy or extract purporting to be signed by the Secretary or Assistant-Secretary of the Board of Trade (See Taylor, 10th ed., p. 1104 n.).

"(1) Every person who weaves in a handloom in Ireland any linen damask table-cloth or napkin, or any piece of linen damask goods, shall weave in the selvage or hem thereof the words 'Irish hand-woven linen damask.' (2) Every person who weaves in a handloom in Ireland any piece of cambric or linen diaper goods shall, as soon as the piece is woven, stamp or print, or cause to be stamped or printed, thereon the words 'Irish hand-woven' in legible character. (3) Any person weaving in a handloom in Ireland any linen damask table-cloth or napkin, or any piece of linen damask goods, or cambric, or linen diaper goods, who fails or neglects to carry out the requirements of this section shall be guilty of an offence under this Act. (4) If any manufacturer, agent, or other person causes or procures any person to weave in a handloom in Ireland any linen damask table-cloth or napkin, or any piece of linen damask goods, or cambric or linen diaper goods, otherwise than in accordance with the requirements of this section, he shall be guilty of an offence under this Act" (Irish Handloom Weavers Act, 1909, 9 Ed. 7, c. 21, s. 1).

"Any person selling or exposing for sale any goods being, or purporting to be, linen damask goods, or cambric or linen diaper goods, having woven thereon or stamped or marked thereon the words 'Irish hand-woven,' or 'Irish hand-made,' or other words representing that the goods were

Merchandise Marks Act, 1887.

Appeal.

Search warrant.

Forfeiture.

Trade Marks Act, 1905.

Falsely representing trade mark as registered.

Irish Handloom Weavers Act, 1909.

Irish origin to be indicated on linen goods.

Sale of goods bearing false trade mark.

Irish Hand-loom Weavers Act, 1909. woven in a handloom in Ireland, shall, unless the goods were in fact so woven, be guilty of an offence under this Act" (ib., s. 2).

Procedure and penalties.

"(1) Offences under this Act may be prosecuted, and penalties recoverable under this Act may be recovered, in a summary manner. (2) Any person guilty of an offence under this Act shall be liable on conviction for the first offence to a penalty not exceeding £10, and for the second or any subsequent offence to a penalty not exceeding £20, or to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months" (ib., s. 3).

Irish trade mark.

The well-known "Irish Trade Mark" is registered in pursuance of section 62 of the Trade Marks Act, 1905, 5 Ed. 7, c. 15, which provides that:—"Where any association or person undertakes the examination of any goods in respect of origin, material, mode of manufacture, quality, accuracy, or other characteristic, and certifies the result of such examination by mark used upon or in connection with such goods, the Board of Trade may, if they shall judge it to be to the public advantage, permit such association or person to register such mark as a trade mark in respect of such goods, whether or not such association or person be a trading association or trader, or possessed of a goodwill in connection with such examination and certifying. When so registered such trade mark shall be deemed in all respects to be a registered trade mark, and such association or person to be the proprietor thereof, save that such trade mark shall be transmissible or assignable only by permission of the Board of Trade."

MILITIA.

	PAGE		PAGE
Application of the Army Act, 1881,	624	Procedure,	625
Offences under Militia Act, 1882,	624

Application of Army Act, 1881.

The following sections of the Army Act, 1881, apply to militia recruits: s. 80 (relating to the mode of enlistment and attestation); s. 96 (relating to the claims of masters to apprentices); s. 98 (imposing a fine for unlawful recruiting); s. 99 (making recruits punishable for false answers); s. 100 (relating to the validity of attestation and enlistment, or re-engagement); s. 101 (relating to the competent military authority); and so much of s. 163 as relates to an attestation paper, or a copy thereof, or a declaration, being evidence; and these sections apply in like manner as if they were re-enacted in the Militia Act, 1882, with the substitution, (a) of "militia" for "regular forces," and of "militiaman" for "soldier"; and (b) (in s. 100) of "during three months, or during the whole period of preliminary training, if less than three months, or during one whole period of annual training" for "during three months" (Militia Act, 1882, 45 & 46 Vict. c. 49, s. 9).

The summary jurisdiction given in respect of these sections is set out under ARMY, at p. 373, et seq.

Offences under Militia Act, 1882.

The following are the offences under the Militia Act, 1882, in respect of which there is summary jurisdiction:—

Persons discharged with disgrace from the army or navy enlisting without declaring same. Person, subject to military law, being concerned with enlistment which he knows, or has reasonable cause to believe, is an offence, or wilfully contravening any enactment, order, or regulation relating to enlistment or attestation in the militia—Penalty, imprisonment not exceeding six or less than two months, with or without hard labour (Militia Act, 1882, s. 10). Constable failing to conform with orders and regulations under the Militia Act, 1882, with respect to the publication and service of notices to be given under that Act to militiamen—Penalty, not exceeding £20 (s. 22). Militiaman absent from preliminary or annual training, or assembling or embodiment, or who commits an offence against s. 12 or 15<sup>1</sup> of the Army Act, 1881—Penalty, not exceeding £25, nor less than £2, and in default imprisonment with or without hard labour for not less than seven days, and not more than the maximum period allowed by law for non-payment of the fine (s. 23).

Any person falsely representing himself to any military, naval, or civil authority to be a deserter or absentee from the militia—Penalty, not exceeding three months, with or without hard labour (s. 24). Inducing or aiding, &c., militiaman to absent himself, or employing or continuing to employ any militiaman with knowledge that he is an absentee—Penalty, not exceeding £20 (s. 25 (1)). Procuring or aiding, &c., militiaman to desert,<sup>2</sup> or continuing to employ him—Penalty, imprisonment, with or without hard labour, not exceeding six months (s. 25 (2)). Fraudulent enlistment or false answer of militiaman—Penalty, imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for not less than one month nor more than three months, or fine of not less than £5, nor more than £25, and, in default of payment, imprisonment for not less than one month nor more than the maximum term allowed by law for non-payment of the fine; and for any subsequent offence, imprisonment, with or without hard labour, not less than two nor exceeding six months. Any person who attempts to commit any offence against this section is liable to the punishments above mentioned reduced by one-half (s. 26).

Any of the above offences may be prosecuted in manner provided by ss. 166 and 167 of the Army Act, 1881 (as to which see p. 377), subject to the following modification, that any such fine imposed on a militiaman, or recovered in respect of any such offence on a prosecution instituted by or on behalf of the commanding officer of a militiaman (the application of which is not otherwise provided for by the Militia Acts), is to be paid to the commanding officer of the part of the militia to which the militiaman belongs (s. 42 (3)); any such prosecution against a militiaman may be instituted, whether the term of his militia service has or has not expired, at any time within two months after the offence becomes known to his commanding officer, if the militiaman be then apprehended, or if he be not then apprehended, then within two months after he is apprehended by either a civil or a military authority (s. 43 (2); see also s. 42 (3)). Sections 163 and 164 of the Army Act, 1881, relating to evidence (see ante, p. 377), apply to every prosecution under the Militia Act, 1882 (s. 44). As to what is to be deemed evidence of the service on militiamen of notices required by the Militia Act, 1882, see s. 22 of the Act. A militiaman cannot be tried by a court of summary jurisdiction in respect of any of the above offences until the sanction of his commanding officer, or of some authority superior to such commanding officer, has been signified in writing to the court<sup>3</sup> (Royal Warrant, dated 27th December, 1882, issued pursuant to the Militia Act, 1882).

Offences
under Militia
Act, 1882.

Procedure.

<sup>1</sup> That is to say, desertion, or inciting others to desert.

<sup>2</sup> The distinction between absence without leave and desertion is not the subject of any enactment or of any decision of the superior courts. The following extract from the note on p. 280 of the Manual of Military Law (1907 ed.) to s. 12 of the Army Act, 1881, may be of use to justices:—“To establish desertion it is necessary to prove some circumstance justifying the inference that the accused intended not to return to military duty in any corps, or intended to avoid some important particular service, such as active service, embarkation for foreign service, or service in aid of the civil power.”

<sup>3</sup> The signature appended to such consent must be proved. The Warrant does not say that such consent must be given before the proceedings are instituted, and it would therefore appear that the production of the consent to the court before the hearing of the case is all that is required.

MINES.

Employment in mines.

Regulations as to employment in mines, &c., are contained in the Metalliferous Mines Regulation Acts, 1872 and 1875; the Coal Mines Regulation Acts, 1887 and 1896; Mines (Prohibition of Child Labour Underground) Act, 1900; Coal Mines (Weighing of Minerals) Act, 1905; and the Coal Mines Regulation Act, 1908. The provisions of the Acts are so numerous that an enumeration of them is impracticable.

Quarries.

Certain provisions of the Metalliferous Mines Regulations Acts, 1872 and 1875, are applied to quarries (Quarries Act, 1894, s. 3<sup>1</sup>).

Dangerous
explosives.

Section 6 of the Coal Mines Regulation Act, 1896, provides that "a Secretary of State, on being satisfied that any explosive is or is likely to become dangerous, may, by order, of which notice shall be given in such manner as he may direct, prohibit the use thereof in any mine or in any class of mines, either absolutely or subject to conditions." . . . Upon the hearing of a summons against the manager of a mine for contravention of an order purporting to be made by a Secretary of State under the above section, a Queen's printers' copy of the order was put in evidence, but no evidence was given of any notice by the Secretary of State of the making of the order or of any direction by him as to the manner in which notice of the order should be given. Held, that the provisions as to the giving of notice were directory only, and were not conditions precedent to the coming into operation of the order, and that the order of the Secretary of State was therefore valid and binding (Jones v. Robson, (1901) 1 K.B. 673).

Application
of Weights and Measures Acts.

As to application to mines of the Weights and Measures Acts, 1878 to 1904, see WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

MONEY-LENDERS.

Offences by money-lenders.

"(1) A money-lender as defined by this Act (a) shall register himself as a money-lender in accordance with regulations under the Act," at an office provided for the purpose by the Commissioners of Inland Revenue, under his own or usual trade name, and in no other name, and with the address, or all the addresses if more than one, at which he carries on his business of money-lender<sup>3</sup>; and (b) shall carry on the money-lending business in his registered name, and in no other name and under no other description, and at his registered address or addresses, and at no other address; and (c) shall not enter into any agreement in the course of his business as a money-lender with respect to the advance and repayment of money or take any security for money in the course of his business as a money-lender otherwise than in his registered name; and (d) shall, on reasonable request and on tender of a reasonable sum for expenses, furnish the borrower with a copy of any document relating to the loan or any security therefor. (2) If a money-lender fails to register himself as required by the Act, or carries on business otherwise than in his registered name, or in more than one name, or elsewhere than at his registered address, or fails to comply with any other requirement of this section, he shall be liable, on conviction under the Summary Jurisdiction Acts,<sup>1</sup> to a fine not exceeding £100, and in the case of a second or subsequent conviction, to imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for a term not exceeding three months, or to a fine not exceeding £100, or to both: provided that, if the offender be a body corporate, that body corporate shall be liable, on a second or subsequent conviction, to a fine not exceeding £500. (3) A prosecution under sub-section (1) (a) of this section shall not be instituted except with the consent in . . . Ireland of the Attorney-General or Solicitor-General" (Money-Lenders Act, 1900, 63 & 64 Vict. c. 51, s. 2).

<sup>1</sup> The Quarries Act, 1894, applies to every place (not being a mine) in which persons work in getting slate, stone, coprolites, or other minerals, and any part of which is more than twenty feet deep (s. 1). Gravel and sand are minerals within the section (Scott v. Midland Railway Co., (1901) 1 Q.B. 317).

<sup>2</sup> Made by the Commissioners of Inland Revenue pursuant to s. 3 (1).

<sup>3</sup> Such registration has effect for three years only, but may then be renewed, and it has effect for three years from the date of that or any subsequent renewal (s. 3 (2)).

Offences by money-lenders.

"The expression 'money-lender' in this Act shall include every person whose business is that of money-lending, or who advertises or announces himself or holds himself out in any way as carrying on that business; but shall not include (a) any pawnbroker in respect of business carried on by him in accordance with the provisions of the Acts for the time being in force in relation to pawnbrokers; or (b) any registered society within the meaning of the Friendly Societies Act, 1896, or any society registered or having rules certified under s. 2 or 4 of that Act, or under the Benefit Building Societies Act, 1836, or the Loan Societies Act, 1840, or under the Building Societies Acts, 1874-1894; or (c) any body corporate incorporated or empowered by a special Act of Parliament to lend money in accordance with such special Act; or (d) any person bona fide carrying on the business of banking or insurance, or bona fide carrying on any business not having for its primary object the lending of money, in the course of which and for the purposes whereof he lends money; or (e) any body corporate for the time being exempted from registration under this Act by order of the Board of Trade, made and published pursuant to regulations of the Board of Trade" (s. 6).

"Money-lender."

The Act was intended to apply only to persons who are really carrying on the business of money-lending. Speaking generally, a man who carries on a money-lending business is one who is ready and willing to lend to all and sundry, provided they are from his point of view eligible (per Farwell, J., in Litchfield v. Dreyfus, (1906) 1 K.B. 584, at p. 589; see also Newton v. Pyke, (1909) 25 T.L.R. 127; Newman v. Oughton, (1911) 1 K.B. 824).

A name assumed by a money-lender for the first time for the purpose of registration cannot be described as his "usual trade name" (Whiteman v. Sadler, (1910) A.C. 514).

"Usual trade name."

A money-lender who, under different names, carries on one business as an individual and another as a member of a partnership firm, carries on business "in more than one name" within the meaning of s. 2 (1) (b) (Whiteman v. Sadler, supra); and the offence is committed though he has in fact succeeded in getting himself registered in respect of both businesses (Whiteman v. Director of Public Prosecutions, (1911) 1 K.B. 824).

"More than one name."

The provision in s. 2 (1) (c) strikes at a money-lender who is actually registered by the registration authorities and contracts otherwise than in his registered name, and not at a money-lender who being so registered contracts in that name (Whiteman v. Sadler, supra).

"Registered name."

A money-lender who receives, at a place which is not his registered address, money in repayment of loans previously made does not thereby carry on business elsewhere than at his registered address (Hopkin v. Hills, (1910) 2 K.B. 29).

"Registered address."

For the indictable offences of making false statements and misrepresentations under s. 4, see INDICTABLE OFFENCES, post.

Indictable offences.

As to inciting infants to bet or borrow money, see CHILDREN, p. 404.

Inciting infants to bet or borrow.

<sup>1</sup> As to the meaning of which expression, see p. 335.

MOTOR CARS.

	PAGE		PAGE
Two classes of locomotives on highways,—		Power of L.G.B. to make regulations—
(A) Heavy locomotives, . . .	628	Prohibition on special roads (Act of 1903, s. 8), . . .	636
(B) Light locomotives, comprising—		Maximum weight (Act of 1896, s. 6; Act of 1903, s. 12), . . .	636
(1) Heavy motor cars, . . .	629	Private roads, . . .	637
(2) Light motor cars, . . .	629	Penalties, . . .	637
Restrictions on use of heavy locomotives, . . .	629	Endorsement of conviction, suspension of licence, and disqualification, . . .	637
Removal of former restrictions from light locomotives, . . .	629	Appeal, . . .	638
Offences as to motor cars—		When defendant a competent witness, . . .	639
Reckless driving, . . .	630	Evidence of L.G.B. regulating, . . .	640
Rate of speed, . . .	631	Evidence of previous conviction, . . .	640
Lights, . . .	633	Liability for acts of servant, . . .	640
Horn, . . .	633	Petroleum, regulations as to, . . .	640
Registration and identification mark, . . .	633	Excise duty on motor cars, . . .	640
Licensing of drivers, . . .	634	Regulations made by Local Government Board:
Obligation to produce licence, . . .	634	Use and Construction (Ireland) Order, 1904, . . .	641
Obligation to stop in case of accident, . . .	635	Registration and Licensing (Ireland) Order, 1903, . . .	643
Forgery of identification mark, . . .	635	Heavy Motor Car (Ireland) Order, 1905, . . .	644
Power of L.G.B. to make regulations—		Regulations made by Home Office—
Generally (Act of 1896, s. 6), . . .	635	Petroleum for motor cars, . . .	645
Identification, registration, &c. (Act of 1903, s. 7), . . .	635

INDEX TO REGULATIONS (LIGHT MOTOR CARS).

Brakes, p. 642; Condition of car, p. 642; Control, p. 643; Dealers, p. 644; Horn, &c., to be sounded, p. 643; Identification mark, p. 644; Illumination of, p. 644; Interrupting free passage, p. 643; Lamp, pp. 642, 644; Leaving unattended, p. 643; Licence, p. 644; Obstruction, p. 643;

Register, inspection of, p. 644; Registration, p. 643; Reverse gear, p. 642; Reversing, p. 642; Rule of the road, p. 643; Stopping car on request, p. 643; Stopping engine, p. 643; Tires (pneumatic), p. 642; Tires (solid) p. 642; Traction, use for, p. 642; Width of car, p. 642.

INDEX TO REGULATIONS (HEAVY MOTOR CARS).

Breach of regulations, p. 645; Bridges, p. 645; Register, separate, p. 645; Registration of weight, &c., p. 645; Speed, p. 645; Springs, p. 645; Trailer, weight of, p. 645; Tires, p. 645; Weight, p. 644; Wheels, p. 645; Width, p. 645.

Locomotives on highways:

(A) Heavy locomotives;

(B) Light locomotives.

The law recognizes two classes of locomotives in use on highways:—

CLASS A.—Heavy locomotives, being mechanically propelled vehicles other than Class B.

CLASS B.—Light locomotives or motor cars, being mechanically propelled vehicles fulfilling the three following conditions<sup>1</sup>:—(a) if it is so constructed that no smoke or visible vapour is emitted therefrom except from any temporary or accidental cause (Locomotives on Highways Act, 1896, 59 & 60 Vict. c. 36, s. 1); (b) if its weight unladen does not exceed five tons (ib., s. 1, Heavy Motor Car (Ir.) Order, 1905); and (c) if it is not used for the purpose of drawing more than one vehicle, such vehicle

<sup>1</sup> A mechanically propelled vehicle not fulfilling all three conditions is a heavy locomotive.

(unladen) with the weight of the locomotive (also unladen) not to exceed six and a half tons (ib., s. 1; Heavy Motor Car (Ir.) Order, 1905, Art. 3).<sup>1</sup>

Light locomotives, again, are divided into two classes:—(1) Heavy motor cars, meaning light locomotives exceeding two tons in weight, unladen (Heavy Motor Car (Ir.) Order, 1905, Art. 2). (2) Light motor cars, not exceeding two tons, unladen, including motor bicycles unless where the contrary appears (see Motor Cars Registration and Licensing (Ir.) Order, 1903, Art. 21).

Heavy locomotives are still subject to the restrictions imposed by the Locomotives on Highways Acts, 1861 and 1865, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 70, and 28 & 29 Vict. c. 83, including the necessity for a man with a red flag. The law as to heavy locomotives is dealt with under title LOCOMOTIVES ON HIGHWAYS, p. 598.

Light locomotives (that is, heavy motor cars and light motor cars) are not subject to the Acts of 1861 and 1865, these statutes having been repealed, so far as light locomotives are concerned, by section 1 of the Act of 1896, but are subject to the Acts of 1896 and 1903, and the Local Government Board Regulations made thereunder, applicable to each class. The power of the Local Government Board to make regulations is derived from section 6 of the Act of 1896 ("with respect to the use of light locomotives on highways and their construction, and the conditions under which they may be used"), and the following sections of the Act of 1903: section 7 (as to registration, identification marks, and licensing), section 8 (as to prohibiting motor cars on specified roads), section 9 (as to special speed limits), section 12 (as to increase of maximum weight and speed limit of heavy motor cars). See also p. 635, post.

"(1) The enactments mentioned in the schedule to this Act,<sup>2</sup> and any other enactment restricting the use of locomotives on highways, and contained in any public, general, or local and personal Act in force at the passing of this Act, shall not apply to any vehicle propelled by mechanical power if it is under three tons<sup>3</sup> in weight, unladen, and is not used for the purpose of drawing more than one vehicle (such vehicle with its locomotive not to exceed in weight unladen four tons),<sup>4</sup> and is so constructed that no smoke or visible vapour is emitted therefrom, except from any temporary or accidental cause; and vehicles so exempted, whether locomotives or drawn by locomotives, are in this Act referred to as light locomotives. Provided that—(a) the council of any county or county borough shall have power to make bye-laws preventing or restricting the use of such locomotives upon any bridge within their area, where such council are satisfied that such use would be attended with damage to the bridge or danger to the public; (b) a light locomotive shall be deemed to be a carriage within the meaning of any Act of Parliament, whether public, general, or local, and of any rule, regulation, or bye-law, made under any Act of Parliament, and, if used as a carriage of any particular class, shall be deemed to be a carriage of that class, and the law relating to carriages of that class shall apply accordingly. (2) In calculating for the purposes of this Act the Light locomotives:—

- (1) Heavy motor cars.
- (2) Light motor cars.

Restrictions on use of heavy locomotives.

Removal of former restrictions on light locomotives.

<sup>1</sup> Section 1 of the Act of 1896 laid down different weights, three tons and four tons respectively; but section 12 of the Motor Car Act, 1903, 3 Ed. 7, c. 36, gave power to the Local Government Board (inter alia) to increase the weight mentioned in the Act of 1896, and accordingly the effect is that a locomotive within the weight laid down by Art. 3 above referred to, and otherwise complying with the conditions as to light locomotives, is a light locomotive within the Acts of 1896 and 1903, and is not subject to the various statutory restrictions as to heavy locomotives (Evans v. Nicholl, (1909) 1 K.B. 778).

<sup>2</sup> These enactments are:—The Locomotives Act, 1861 (24 & 25 Vict. c. 70), except so much of section 1 as relates to tolls on locomotives, and sections 7 and 13; the Locomotives Act, 1865 (28 & 29 Vict. c. 83); section 6 of the Public Health (Ireland) Amendment Act, 1879 (42 & 43 Vict. c. 57); and some others that do not relate to Ireland.

<sup>3</sup> Now five tons; see ante.

<sup>4</sup> Now six and a half tons, ante.

weight of a vehicle unladen, the weight of any water, fuel, or accumulators used for the purpose of propulsion, shall not be included" (Locomotives on Highways Act, 1896, 59 & 60 Vict. c. 36, s. 1).

Where smoke is caused by excess of lubricating oil, or through the negligence of the driver, this is a temporary or accidental cause (Star Omnibus Co. v. Tapp, (1907) 23 T.L.R. 488; R. v. Wilbraham, (1907) 96 L.T. 712).

Reckless driving.

"(1) If any person drives a motor car on a public highway recklessly or negligently, or at a speed or in a manner which is dangerous to the public, having regard to all the circumstances of the case, including the nature, condition, and use of the highway, and to the amount of traffic which actually is at the time, or which might reasonably be expected to be, on the highway, that person shall be guilty of an offence under this Act. (2) Any police constable may apprehend without warrant the driver of any car who commits an offence under this section within his view, if he refuses to give his name and address or produce his licence on demand, or if the motor car does not bear the mark or marks of identification. (3) If the driver of any car who commits an offence under this section refuses to give his name or address, or gives a false name or address, he shall be guilty of an offence under this Act, and it shall be the duty of the owner of the car, if required, to give any information which it is within his power to give, and which may lead to the identification and apprehension of the driver, and if the owner fails to do so he also shall be guilty of an offence under this Act" (Motor Car Act, 1903, 3 Ed. 7, c. 36, s. 1).

Penalty.
Endorsement.

The penalty for an offence under the section is a fine not exceeding, first offence £20, subsequent offence £50 or imprisonment not exceeding three months (s. 11). A conviction under the section must be endorsed (s. 4 (1) (c)). A right of appeal is given to defendant where any term of imprisonment is imposed, or where a penalty exceeding 20s. is imposed; see s. 19 (3)).

Appeal.

Form of conviction.

The section creates four different offences: (1) driving recklessly, (2) driving negligently, (3) driving at a speed dangerous to the public, and (4) driving in a manner dangerous to the public; and a conviction for driving "at a speed or in a manner dangerous to the public" is void for uncertainty (R. v. Wells, (1904) 20 Cox 671). But the conviction is not uncertain because it does not upon its face specify whether the circumstances taken into consideration by the magistrate were the amount of traffic which was actually at the time on the highway, or the amount which might reasonably be expected to be there; so that a conviction for driving at a speed dangerous to the public "having regard to all the circumstances of the case, including the nature, condition, and use of the highway, and to the amount of traffic which actually was at the time, or which might reasonably be expected to be, on the said highway," is good (R. (Cahill) v. Dublin JJ., (1904) 2 I.R. 698). The driver of a motor car was charged with (a) having driven in a manner which was dangerous to the public, and (b) having driven at a speed exceeding twenty miles an hour. He was convicted on (a), the magistrate having taken into account the speed of the car. Held (Lawrance and Sutton, JJ., Jelf, J., dissenting), that the magistrate was right in holding that, as the question of speed had been taken into account on the hearing of the first charge, the conviction was a bar to the second charge (Welton v. Taneborne, (1908) 21 Cox 702).

Conviction when a bar to offence of exceeding speed limit.

What is driving to the danger of the public.

To sustain a conviction, it is not necessary to show that any vehicle or person using the highway was interrupted, interfered with, incommoded, or affected (see Smith v. Boon, (1901) 19 Cox 698);<sup>1</sup> and a person may be convicted of driving to the danger of the public who is shown to have driven at a fast pace, although there is no evidence to show that there were any passengers on the highway at the time (Mayhew v. Sutton, (1901) 20 Cox, 146; see also Ex parte Stone, (1909) 25 T.L.R. 787; R. (Cahill) v. Dublin J.J., (1904) 2 I.R. 698). Evidence of excessive speed may support a conviction for driving in a manner dangerous to the public (Hargreaves v. Baldwin, (1905) 21 T.L.R. 715). The appellant having refused to pay a toll for a motor car, the respondent, the toll-collector, placed himself in front of the car to prevent it proceeding. Having been warned to stand clear, the respondent, after the car was in motion, hung on to the side of the car, was carried along, and after having asked the appellant to stop, fell off and was injured. The speed of the car was reasonable, and no danger was caused to anyone but the respondent. Held, that a conviction for reckless driving could not be supported (Troughton v. Manning, (1905) 20 Cox 861). The sub-section does not strike at driving which is reckless as regards passengers in the car, but at driving which is reckless as regards the public (ib., per Kennedy, J.). The appellant appealed from a conviction for having driven at a speed which was dangerous to the public, "having regard to all the circumstances of the case," and on the hearing of the appeal evidence was admitted of hypothetical traffic, namely, the traffic which might reasonably be expected to be on the highway. Held, that the evidence was rightly admitted (Elwes v. Hopkins, (1906) 2 K.B. 1).

<sup>1</sup> Decided under Art. 4 (1) of the revoked Light Locomotives on Highways Order, 1896, prohibiting the driving at any speed greater than is reasonable and proper, having regard to the traffic on the highway.

Reckless driving.

A conviction of the owner of a motor car under section 1 (3) stated that the defendant did unlawfully refuse to give the name and address of the person who at a specified time and place was driving the defendant's motor car, such name and address being required in order that proceedings might be taken against him under section 1 of the Motor Car Act, 1903, and Art. 4 (6) of the Statutory Rules and Orders, 1904. Held, that the conviction was bad, in that it did not state what offence the driver of the motor car had committed (R. v. Hankey, (1905) 2 K.B. 687; R. v. Chancellor, (1905) 69 J.P. 383). It is not a condition precedent to the obligation of the owner of a motor car to give the name and address of the driver of his car that the driver should previously have been asked for and should have refused to give his name and address (R. v. Hankey, supra). In the same case Lord Alverstone expressed a doubt whether the obligation to give the name and address arose where the offence was one against the regulations, as distinguished from an offence against the Act (p. 690); but it appears from the later case of Brown v. Crossley, (1911) 27 T.L.R. 194, noted infra, that no such distinction can be drawn.

Name and address.

The owner who is in control of a car driven recklessly, though not actually driving it at the time the offence is committed, may be convicted of the offence as a principal (Du Cros v. Lambourne, (1907) 1 K.B. 40).

Owner may be convicted.

"(1) Section four of the principal Act<sup>1</sup> (which relates to the rate of speed of motor cars) is hereby repealed; but a person shall not, under any circumstances, drive a motor car on a public highway at a speed<sup>2</sup> exceeding twenty miles per hour, and, within any limits or place referred to in regulations made by the Local Government Board with a view to the safety of the public on the application of the local authority of the area in which the limits or place are situate, a person shall not drive a motor car at a speed exceeding ten miles per hour. If any person acts in contravention of this provision, he shall be liable, on summary conviction, in respect of the first offence to a fine not exceeding £10, and in respect of the second offence to a fine not exceeding £20, and in respect of any subsequent offence to a fine not exceeding £50. But a person shall not be convicted under this provision for exceeding the limit of speed of

Rate of speed.

<sup>1</sup> That is, the Locomotives on Highways Act, 1896.

<sup>2</sup> As to regulations in case of heavy motor cars, see p. 644.

Rate of speed. twenty miles, merely on the opinion of one witness as to the rate of speed. (2) Where a person is prosecuted for an offence under this section, he shall not be convicted unless he is warned of the intended prosecution at the time the offence is committed, or unless notice of the intended prosecution is sent to him, or to the owner of the car as entered on the register, within such time after the offence is committed, not exceeding twenty-one days, as the court think reasonable. (3) The Local Government Board may, without any application from the local authority, after considering any objections which may be raised by the local authority, revoke or alter any regulation made by them under this section. (4) For the purposes of this section the expression 'local authority' means. . . (b) As respects a municipal borough with a population of over ten thousand according to the last census taken before the passing of this Act, the council of the borough; and (c) as respects any other area, the county council" (Motor Car Act, 1903, 3 Ed. 7, c. 36, s. 9).

Appeal.

As to appeal, see p. 638.

*Endorsing
licence.*

On a third or subsequent, but not on a first or second, conviction for exceeding the speed limit, the conviction must be endorsed on the licence, and the court may suspend or disqualify the defendant pursuant to s. 4 (post, p. 637).

A third offence of exceeding the limit prescribed by regulations referring to a Royal Park may be endorsed, though the regulation was made subsequent to the date of the Act (R. v. Plowden, (1909) 2 K.B. 269).

Evidence.

A police sergeant, who was the only witness, swore that, on a motor car entering a measured distance, he started a stop-watch, and stopped it when the car had completed the distance, and that the rate of speed thus shown was twenty-eight miles an hour. Held, that the evidence of the police sergeant was not evidence of his "opinion" merely, and that therefore the justices were at liberty to convict (Plancq v. Marks, (1906) 21 Cox 157). A conviction has been upheld when the timing was done with an ordinary watch (Gorham v. Brice, (1902) 18 T.L.R. 421). The fact that the defendant was driving when the car was stopped by the police at one end of a measured distance (of four miles) is some evidence that he was driving over the whole measured distance (Beresford v. St. Albans JJ., (1905) 22 T.L.R. 1).

Notice of prosecution.

A constable seeing a motor car approaching him at what he considered an excessive speed, stopped the car and informed the driver that he thought he was exceeding the speed limit, but that if, after he (the constable) had compared the time taken by his watch with that of another constable, it appeared that the driver had not exceeded the speed limit, he would hear nothing further about it. Held, that this was a sufficient warning given at the time (Jessopp v. Clarke, (1908) 24 T.L.R. 672). But where no warning is given at the time, the section requires that a notice, which apparently must be in writing, must be sent, and should set forth the particulars of the offence, stating generally what it was and the place, date, and hour at which it occurred (Hughes v. Nimmo, (1910) Court of Session, 47 S.L.R. 381, noted 44 I.L.T. & S.J. 102)<sup>2</sup> A notice stated an offence as having been committed "between St. Albans and Markyate," distant over ten miles from each other. It was in fact committed between the seventh and the third milestones from St. Albans, where the defendant was stopped. Held, that as the defendant was in no way misled or taken by surprise, the notice was sufficient (Beresford v. St. Albans JJ., (1905) 22 T.L.R. 1).

<sup>1</sup> The Scotch High Court of Justiciary quashed a conviction for exceeding the speed limit where the evidence was that two constables, with stop-watches, were placed together 30 yards distant from one end of a trap 440 yards long, so that they were 470 yards distant from the further end of the trap, and from such position they timed the motor car as doing twenty-five miles an hour. The court (Lords Low, Ardwall, and Dundas) considered that the method of timing was not sufficiently precise to warrant a conviction, at all events where the excess deposited to was only five miles an hour (Wright v. Mitchell, (1910) 2 Sc. L.T. 30).

<sup>2</sup> In that case the prosecutor gave evidence of a verbal notification three days after the offence, in reference to which Lord Ardwall said, "I am unable to hold that a casual conversation with a constable is proper notice in terms of the Act."

Notice of an intended prosecution for exceeding the speed limit was delivered by the police officer to the porter of a block of flats where the driver of the car resided. The officer told the porter the purport of the notice. It was held that there was some evidence upon which the justices could find that notice of the prosecution had been sent to the driver within s. 9 (2) of the Act (Martin v. Brooman, (1909) 25 T.L.R. 783).

As to right to examine defendant, see p. 639, post.

A person who warns the driver of a motor car who is exceeding the speed limit to slacken speed, with the intention of preventing policemen, stationed in a "motor trap," from obtaining evidence to support the charge of exceeding the speed limit, is guilty of the offence of wilfully obstructing a constable in the execution of his duty (Betts v. Stevens, (1910) 1 K.B. 1); but to support the charge it must be proved that the car had, before the warning, been going at an illegal speed (Bastable v. Little, (1907) 1 K.B. 59).

Giving warning of police trap.

"During the period between one hour after sunset and one hour before sunrise, the person in charge of a light locomotive shall carry attached thereto a lamp so constructed and placed as to exhibit a light in accordance with the regulations to be made by the Local Government Board" (Locomotives on Highways Act, 1896, s. 2).<sup>1</sup> The regulations made under this section will be found, p. 642, post.

Lights.

As to penalties under this section, see p. 637; as to appeal, see p. 638.

A breach of a regulation made in pursuance of this section is an offence which must be endorsed (Brown v. Crossley, (1911) 27 T.L.R. 194).

"Every light locomotive shall carry a bell or other instrument capable of giving audible and sufficient warning of the approach or position of the carriage" (Locomotives on Highways Act, 1896, s. 3). See further, Art. 4 (5) of the Regulations of 1904, p. 643, post, as to giving warning of approach.

Horn.

For penalties under this section, see p. 637; as to right to examine defendant, see p. 639; as to right of appeal, see p. 638; as to indorsement, see pp. 637, 638.

"(1) Every motor car shall be registered with the council of a county or county borough, and every such council shall assign a separate number to every car registered with them. (2) A mark indicating the registered number of the car and the council with which the car is registered shall be fixed on the car or on a vehicle drawn by the car, or on both, in such manner as the council require in conformity with regulations of the Local Government Board made under this Act.<sup>2</sup> (3) A fee of 20s. shall be charged by the council of a county or county borough on the registration of a car, except in the case of motor cycles, for which the fee shall be 5s. (4) If a car is used on a public highway without being registered, or if the mark to be fixed in accordance with this Act is not so fixed, or if, being so fixed, it is in any way obscured, or rendered or allowed to become not easily distinguishable, the person driving the car shall be guilty of an offence under this Act, unless, in the case of a prosecution for

Registration
and identification mark.

<sup>1</sup> That is the L.G.B. for Ireland (s. 11). As to carrying lamp so as to illuminate identification plate, see pp. 642, 644.

<sup>2</sup> Under s. 7, p. 635.

Registration
and identification mark.

obscuring a mark, or rendering or allowing it to become not easily distinguishable, he proves that he has taken all steps reasonably practicable to prevent the mark being obscured or rendered not easily distinguishable. Provided that—(a) A person shall not be liable to a penalty under this section if he proves that he has had no reasonable opportunity of registering the car in accordance with this section, and that the car is being driven on a highway for the purpose of being so registered; and (b) the council of any county or county borough in which the business premises of any manufacturer of, or dealer in, motor cars are situated, may, on payment of such annual fee, not exceeding £3, as the council require, assign to that manufacturer or dealer a general identification mark which may be used for any car on trial after completion, or on trial by an intending purchaser, and a person shall not be liable to a penalty under this section while so using the car if the mark so assigned is fixed upon the car in the manner required by the council in accordance with regulations of the Local Government Board made under this Act" (Motor Car Act, 1903, s. 2).

As to penalties under this section, see p. 637; as to appeal, see p. 638; as to indorsement, see pp. 637, 638.

The regulations made by the Local Government Board for Ireland are contained in the Motor Cars Registration and Licensing Order, 1903, summarized, p. 643. If a car is driven with an identification plate which is not in accordance with the regulations, an offence is committed under this section (R. v. Gill, (1909) 100 L.T. 858). Such offence is an "offence in connection with the driving of a motor car" within s. 4 of the Act of 1903 (ib.), and therefore must be endorsed on defendant's licence.

As to making a master responsible for the acts of his servant, see Provincial Motor Cab Co. v. Dunning, (1909) 2 K.B. 599, noted post, p. 640.

Licensing of drivers.

"(1) A person shall not drive a motor car on a public highway unless he is licensed for the purpose under this section, and a person shall not employ any person who is not so licensed to drive a motor car. If any person acts in contravention of this provision, he shall be guilty of an offence under this Act. (2) The council of a county or county borough shall grant a licence to drive a motor car to any person applying for it who resides in that county or county borough on payment of a fee of 5s., unless the applicant is disqualified under the provisions of this Act. (3) A licence shall remain in force for a period of twelve months from the date on which it is granted, but shall be renewable, and the same provisions shall apply with respect to the renewal of the licence as apply with respect to the grant of the licence. (4) A licence must be produced by any person driving a motor car when demanded by a police constable. If any person fails so to produce his licence, he shall be liable, on summary conviction, in respect of each offence to a fine not exceeding £5. (5) Any person under the age of seventeen years shall be disqualified for obtaining a licence (except that a licence limited to driving motor cycles may be granted to a person over the age of fourteen years), and any person who already holds a licence shall be disqualified for obtaining another licence while the licence so held by him is in force" (Motor Car Act, 1903, s. 3). The regulations under this section are contained in the Motor Car Registration and Licensing (Ireland) Order, 1903, summarized post, p. 643.

Obligation to produce
licence.

No capacity to drive is required to enable an applicant to obtain a licence. The disqualifications are: (1) being under the age specified in s. 3 (5); (2) disqualification by reason of convictions as prescribed by s. 4 (5). The council has no power to refuse a licence to a person not disqualified (see R. v. Middlesex Co. Council, (1898) 15 T. L. R. 14).

As to penalties under this section, see p. 637; as to appeal, see p. 638; as to endorsement, see pp. 637, 638.

The appellant was stopped by a police constable for exceeding the speed limit, and on demand produced his licence, from which the constable took his name. At the hearing of the charge for exceeding the speed limit, it was objected on appellant's behalf that, as no notice to produce the licence had been served, secondary evidence of its contents could not be given. Held, that the evidence was rightly admitted (Marshall v. Ford, (1908) 99 L.T. 796; see Martin v. White, (1910) 1 K.B. 665, noted in chapter on EVIDENCE, p. 281, ante).

"A person driving a motor car shall, in any case, if an accident occurs to any person, whether on foot, on horseback, or in a vehicle, or to any horse or vehicle in charge of any person, owing to the presence of the motor car on the road, stop, and, if required, give his name and address, and also the name and address of the owner and the registration mark or number of the car; and if any person knowingly<sup>1</sup> acts in contravention of this section, he shall be liable, on summary conviction, in respect of the first offence to a fine not exceeding £10, and in respect of the second offence to a fine not exceeding £20, and in respect of any subsequent offence to a fine not exceeding £20, or, in the discretion of the court, to a term of imprisonment not exceeding one month" (Motor Car Act, 1903, s. 6).

Obligation to stop in case of accident.

As to appeal, see p. 638; as to endorsement, see pp. 637, 638.

"If any person forges or fraudulently alters or uses, or fraudulently lends or allows to be used by any other person, any mark for identifying a car or any licence under this Act, he shall be guilty of an offence under this Act" (Motor Car Act, 1903, s. 5).

Forgery, &c., of identification mark or licence.

As to penalties under this section, see p. 637; as to appeal, see p. 638; as to endorsement, see pp. 637, 638.

"(1) The Local Government Board<sup>2</sup> may make regulations with respect to the use of light locomotives on highways, and their construction and the conditions under which they may be used. (2) Regulations under this section may, if the Local Government Board deem it necessary, be of a local nature and limited in their application to a particular area, and may, on the application of any local authority, prohibit or restrict the use of locomotives for purposes of traction in crowded streets, or in other places where such use may be attended with danger to the public. All regulations under this section shall have full effect notwithstanding anything in any other Act, whether general or local, or any bye-laws or regulations made thereunder. Every regulation purporting to be made in pursuance of this section shall be forthwith laid before both Houses of Parliament" (Locomotives on Highways Act, 1896, s. 6). See also s. 9 of Act of 1903 (p. 632) as to 10-mile limit of speed.

Power of L.G.B. to make regulations.

Generally (Act of 1896, s. 6).

As to the effect of an omission to lay such regulations before Parliament, see p. 337.

"(1) The Local Government Board may, under section 6 of the Locomotives on Highways Act, 1896 (in this Act referred to as the principal Act), make regulations (a) providing generally for facilitating the identification of motor cars, and in particular for determining and regulating generally the size, shape, and character of the identifying marks to be fixed under this Act, and the mode in which they are to be fixed and to be rendered easily distinguishable whether by night or by day, and with respect to the registration of cars, and the entry of particulars, including particulars of the ownership of the car, in the register, and the giving of those particulars, and for making any particulars contained in the register available for use by the police, and for making the Identification and registration, &c., of car (Act of 1903, s. 7).

<sup>1</sup> That is, it is submitted, knowing of the accident and its cause.

<sup>2</sup> That is, the L.G.B. for Ireland (s. 11).

Power of L.G.B. to make regulations.

registration of a car void if the regulations as to registration are not complied with, and b) with respect to the licences to be granted by the councils of counties or county boroughs under this Act, and in particular with respect to the register to be kept of those licences and the renewal of licences, and for providing special facilities for granting licences to persons not resident in the United Kingdom, and for communicating particulars thereof to adjoining and other county or county borough councils, and for making any particulars with respect to any persons whose licences are suspended or endorsed available for use by the police, and for preventing a person holding more than one licence. (2) The councils of counties and county boroughs shall comply with any regulations so made by the Local Government Board, and may, if authorized by those regulations and in accordance therewith, charge in respect of the entry of particulars of the ownership of a car on change of ownership such fee, not exceeding 10s., as may be prescribed by the regulations, and, in respect of the issue of a new licence in the place of a licence lost or defaced, such fee, not exceeding 1s., as may be prescribed by the regulations" (Motor Car Act, 1903, s. 7).

For regulations—Registration and Licensing, see p. 643; Use and Construction, see p. 641: and Heavy Motor Cars, see p. 644.

Prohibition on special roads.
Act of 1903,
s. 8.

"The Local Government Board may, by regulations made under sec. 6 of the principal Act,<sup>1</sup> prohibit or restrict the driving of any motor cars, or of any special kind of motor cars, on any specified highway, or part of a highway, which does not exceed sixteen feet in width, or on which ordinary motor car traffic would, in their opinion, be especially dangerous" (Motor Car Act, 1903, s. 8).

As to penalty, under this section see p. 637; as to appeal, see p. 638; as to endorsement, see pp. 637, 638.

The following is a form of summons or conviction under the section :

"that you, the defendant, did on                      day of                      within the county and district aforesaid drive a motor car at                      between                      and being a place whereon the driving of motor cars is prohibited by Local Government Board regulation dated                      day of                      ."

The regulation should be proved; as to manner of proof, see p. 278.

"(1) Local authorities within the meaning of the last preceding section shall give public notice of any regulation of the Local Government Board made in pursuance of this Act, prohibiting or restricting the use of motor cars on any highway or part of a highway, or limiting the speed of motor cars within any limits or place, and, for the purpose of giving effect to any such regulation, shall place notices in conspicuous places on or near the highway, part of a highway, limits, or place to which the regulation refers. (2) Subject to regulations as to size and colours to be made by the Local Government Board, local authorities within the meaning of the last preceding section shall within their areas cause to be set up sign-posts denoting dangerous corners, cross-roads, and precipitous places, where such sign-posts appear to them to be necessary" (Motor Car Act, 1903, s. 10).

Maximum weight (Act of 1903, s. 12).

Local authorities are required (1) to give notice, e.g., by advertising in a newspaper circulating in the district, and (2) to place notice-boards as described; and it is submitted that their doing so is a condition precedent to a prosecution under this section (see R. v. Surrey J.J., (1870) L.R. 5 Q.B. 466; Walsh v. Somerville, (1888) 22 L.R.I. 314).

"(1) The Local Government Board by regulations made under section 6 of the principal Act may, as respects any class of vehicle mentioned in the regulations, increase the maximum weights of three and four tons mentioned in section 1 of that Act, subject to any conditions as to the use and construction of the vehicle which may be made by the regulations. (2) The power of the Local Government Board to make regulations under section 6 of the Locomotives on Highways Act, 1896, shall, as respects motor cars exceeding two tons in weight unladen, include a power to make regulations as to speed" (Motor Car Act, 1903, s. 12).

<sup>1</sup> The Act of 1896.

"The provisions of this Act, and of the principal Act, shall apply in the case of a roadway to which the public are granted access in the same manner as they apply in the case of a public highway" (Motor Car Act, 1903, s. 20 (1)). Private roads.

"A breach of any bye-law or regulation made under this Act, or of any provision of this Act, may, on summary conviction, be punished by a fine, not exceeding £10" (Locomotives on Highways Act, 1896, s. 7). Penalties.
Breach of regulations.

"A person guilty of an offence under this Act for which no special penalty is provided shall be liable on summary conviction in respect of each offence to a fine not exceeding £20, or in the case of a subsequent conviction to a fine not exceeding £50, or, in the discretion of the court, to imprisonment for a period not exceeding three months" (Motor Car Act, 1903, s. 11 (1)). No special penalty provided.

Penalties under the Acts are recoverable "on summary conviction" (Act of 1896, s. 7; Act of 1903, s. 11), which has the effect of applying the Petty Sessions Act (see R. v. Unkles, (1873) L.R. 8 C.L. 50, noted p. 41, ante).

"(1) Any court before whom a person is convicted of an offence under this Act or of any offence in connection with the driving of a motor car, other than a first or second offence consisting solely of exceeding any limit of speed fixed under this Act—(a) may, if the person convicted holds any licence under this Act, suspend that licence for such time as the court thinks fit, and, if the court thinks fit, also declare the person convicted disqualified for obtaining a licence for such further time after the expiration of the licence as the court thinks fit; and (b) may, if the person convicted does not hold any licence under this Act, declare him disqualified for obtaining a licence for such time as the court thinks fit; and (c) if the person convicted holds any licence under this Act, shall cause particulars of the conviction and of any order of the court made under this section, to be endorsed upon any licence held by him, and shall also cause a copy of those particulars to be sent to the council by whom any licence so endorsed has been granted. (2) Any person so convicted, if he holds any licence under this Act, shall produce the licence within a reasonable time for the purposes of endorsement, and if he fails to do so shall be guilty of an offence under this Act. (3) A licence so suspended by the court shall during the term of suspension be of no effect, and a person whose licence is suspended or who is declared by the court to be disqualified for obtaining a licence shall during the period of suspension or disqualification be disqualified for obtaining a licence. (4) Any person who is by virtue of an order of the court under this section disqualified for obtaining a licence may appeal against the order in the same manner as a person may appeal who is ordered to be imprisoned without the option of a fine; and the court may, if they think fit, pending the appeal, defer the operation of the order. (5) If any person who under the provisions of this Act is disqualified for obtaining a licence, applies for or obtains a licence while he is so disqualified, or if any person whose licence has been endorsed applies for or obtains a licence without giving particulars of the endorsement, that person shall be guilty of an offence under this Act, and any licence so obtained shall be of no effect" (Motor Car Act, 1903, s. 4). Suspension of licence and disqualification; endorsement.
Suspension.
Disqualification.
Endorsement.
Licence to be produced.
Effect of suspension or disqualification

Suspension of licence and disqualification; endorsement.

Date from which suspension runs.

Speed limit under special regulations.

Endorsement obligatory.

What offences must be endorsed.

When a court of summary jurisdiction convict a person holding a licence under the Motor Car Act, 1903, and suspend his licence under s. 4 (1a) of the Act, but make no order under s. 4 (4), deferring the operation of the order of suspension pending an appeal to quarter sessions, it does not defer the operation of the order of suspension, which runs from the date when it is made, and not from the date when the appeal is disposed of by quarter sessions (Kidner v. Daniels, (1910) 102 L.T. 132).

The offence of exceeding the speed limit for motor cars in Royal Parks, fixed under regulations made in pursuance of the Parks Regulation Act, 1872, stands upon the same footing as regards endorsement as a conviction for exceeding the speed limit under s. 9, and therefore a first conviction for such offence cannot be endorsed (R. v. Marsham, (1907) 2 K.B. 638).

Where the offence is one to which the clause as to endorsement is applicable, it should be noticed that the justices have no discretion, and that the endorsement is obligatory.

The offences which must be endorsed are of two classes:—(a) offences “under this Act,” i.e., the Act of 1903, and (b) offences “in connection with the driving” of a motor car, except the first or second offence of exceeding the speed limit.

The words “any offence in connection with the driving of a motor car” point to offences connected with the handling or manipulation of the car in the process of driving it, and inasmuch as a person wilfully obstructing the free passage of a highway may be convicted under other statutes independently of the Motor Car Acts and the regulations made under them, there is no reason for construing the words in question so as to include that offence; therefore, a breach of Art. 4 of the Motor Cars (Use and Construction) Order, 1904, in allowing a motor car to stand on a highway so as to cause an unnecessary obstruction cannot be endorsed (R. v. Yorkshire J.J., (1910) 1 K.B. 439; R. v. Lyndon, (1908) 72 J.P. 227; R. v. Beaver, (1910) 74 J.P. 127). But to drive a motor car without a light or a proper light, whether head light (Ex parte Symes, (1910) 27 T.L.R. 21), or a tail light (Brown v. Crossley, (1911) 27 T.L.R. 194), is an offence “in connection with the driving” of a motor car.

Offences “under this Act” (i.e., Act of 1903) include not only offences against the provisions of that Act, but also a breach of any regulations made under and in pursuance of the combined operation of section 7 of the Act of 1903 (supra) and section 6 of the Act of 1896, supra (Brown v. Crossley, supra); so that, apparently, breaches of regulations as to identification marks, registration of cars, and licences are offences which must be recorded.

Appeal.

No appeal is, at all events expressly, provided for by the Act of 1896. Section 19 of the Act of 1903 enacts as follows:—

“Section 23 of the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1851 (which gives a right of appeal), shall apply as respects convictions for offences under this Act as if any term of imprisonment without the option of a fine were substituted for a term of imprisonment exceeding one month” (s. 19 (3)).<sup>1</sup>

Section 4 of the Act of 1903, p. 637, supra, gives a right of appeal from any order of disqualification.

<sup>1</sup> Section 23 of the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1851, gives a right of appeal in any case where an order shall be made for the payment of any penal or other sum exceeding 20s., or for any term of imprisonment exceeding one month. By this section the right of appeal is extended to cases where the order is an order of imprisonment, even for a less period than one month. As to procedure, see p. 139, ante.

Section 20 (3) of the Act of 1903 enacts that the Act of 1896 and the Act of 1903 may be "cited together as the Motor Car Acts, 1896 and 1903," and refers (sub-sec. 3) to the Act of 1896 as "the principal Act." There is no provision that the Acts are to be read or construed as one Act; but as the judgments in Brown v. Crossley, supra, lay down that a breach of a regulation made under s. 7 of the Act of 1903 and s. 6 of the Act of 1896, is an offence under the Act of 1903, it follows that an appeal under the above section would lie under s. 19 (3) of the Act of 1903 in case of such offences (see, however, Steer v. Bennett, (1903) 67 J.P. 112; Davey v. Bennett, (1905) 69 J.P. 200, decisions of Lord Coleridge sitting as chairman of quarter sessions). It is submitted that, in Ireland, the appeal provisions of the Petty Sessions Act would apply (see p. 181, ante) even if the provisions of s. 19 (3) of the Act of 1903 were held not to be applicable.

"Sections one to four, inclusive, of the Criminal Evidence Act, 1898, shall extend to Ireland in the case of a person charged with any offence under this Act" (Motor Car Act, 1903, s. 19).

When defendant a competent witness.

From what has been said in the last paragraph, it would seem that this provision applies to offences under the regulations made under the Act of 1896.

1. The following is the text of the sections referred to:—

1. Every person charged with an offence, and the wife or the husband, as the case may be, of the person so charged, shall be a competent witness for the defence at every stage of the proceedings, whether the person so charged is charged solely or jointly with any other person. Provided as follows:—(a) A person so charged shall not be called as a witness in pursuance of this Act, except upon his own application: (b) The failure of any person charged with an offence, or of the wife or husband, as the case may be, of the person so charged, to give evidence shall not be made the subject of any comment by the prosecution: (c) The wife or husband of the person charged shall not, save as in this Act mentioned, be called as a witness in pursuance of this Act, except upon the application of the person so charged: (d) Nothing in this Act shall make a husband compellable to disclose any communication made to him by his wife during the marriage, or a wife compellable to disclose any communication made to her by her husband during marriage: (e) A person charged, and being a witness in pursuance of this Act, may be asked any question in cross-examination, notwithstanding that it would tend to incriminate him as to the offence charged: (f) A person charged and called as a witness in pursuance of this Act shall not be asked, and if asked shall not be required to answer, any question tending to show that he has committed or been convicted or been charged with any offence other than that wherewith he is then charged, or is of bad character, unless—(i) the proof that he has committed or been convicted of such other offence is admissible evidence to show that he is guilty of the offence wherewith he is then charged; or (ii) he has personally or by his advocate asked questions of the witnesses for the prosecution with a view to establish his own good character, or has given evidence of his good character, or the nature or conduct of the defence is such as to involve imputations on the character of the prosecutor or the witnesses for the prosecution; or (iii) he has given evidence against any other person charged with the same offence: (g) Every person called as a witness in pursuance of this Act shall, unless otherwise ordered by the court, give his evidence from the witness box or other place from which the other witnesses give their evidence: (h) Nothing in this Act shall affect the provisions of section eighteen of the Indictable Offences Act, 1848, or any right of the person charged to make a statement without being sworn.

2. Where the only witness to the facts of the case called by the defence is the person charged, he shall be called as a witness immediately after the close of the evidence for the prosecution.

3. In cases where the right of reply depends upon the question whether evidence has been called for the defence, the fact that the person charged has been called as a witness shall not of itself confer on the prosecution the right of reply.

4. (1) The wife or husband of a person charged with an offence under any enactment mentioned in the schedule of this Act may be called as a witness either for the prosecution or defence, and without the consent of the person charged. (2) Nothing in this Act shall affect a case where the wife or husband of a person charged with an offence may at common law be called as a witness without the consent of that person.

Where a defendant examined on his own behalf was, contrary to the statute, cross-examined as to previous convictions, the conviction was quashed (Charnock v. Marchant (1900) 1 Q. B. 474).

Evidence of
L.G.B.
regulations.

In any prosecution for a breach of the Local Government Board regulations, such regulations must, it is submitted, be duly proved in manner pointed out at p. 278, ante.

Evidence of previous conviction.

As to evidence of previous convictions, see Martin v. White, (1910) 1 K.B. 665, noted fully, p. 291, ante.

Master's liability for acts of servant

A limited liability company were convicted of aiding and abetting a driver in their service in using a motor cab in contravention of Art. 11 of the [English] Motor Car (Registration and Licensing) Order, 1903 (identical with Art. 11 of the corresponding Irish Order, post, p. 644), providing for the illumination, at night, of the identification plate. The driver was using the cab having a lamp, which was lighted, but hanging too low to illuminate the identification plate. The motor cab was fitted with a proper and permanent bracket on which to hang the lamp. The company had in their service a foreman who was charged by them with the duty of seeing that the cabs left their premises in such a condition as to satisfy the statutes and regulations. The magistrate found that the appellants were careless in not seeing to it that a proper lamp was fixed on the cab. Held, that there was evidence to support the conviction (Provincial Motor Cab Co., Ltd. v. Dunning, (1909) 2 K.B. 599). "A breach of the regulations is not to be regarded as a criminal offence in the full sense of the word; that is to say, there may be a breach of the regulation without a criminal intent and mens rea. . . . If a corporation have a large number of cars, and act, as they must act, by agents, and these agents send out the cars in a way which does not comply with the regulations, in my judgment the corporation are responsible for the penalties imposed thereby" (ib., per Lord Alverstone, L.C.J., pp. 602-3).

Petroleum. regulations
as to.

The keeping and use of petroleum or of any other inflammable liquid or fuel for the purpose of light locomotives shall be subject to regulations made by a Secretary of State, and regulations so made shall have effect, notwithstanding anything in the Petroleum Acts, 1871 to 1881 (Act of 1896, s. 5; Act of 1903, s. 5). See regulations, p. 645.

Excise duty on motor cars.

Up to 1910 there was no duty payable by any person keeping a motor car or other carriage in Ireland; but s. 86 of the Finance (1909-10) Act, 1910, now provides that the Excise duty for carriages, payable in respect of any motor car which is a carriage within the meaning of s. 4 of the Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1888, shall be at the rates specified in Part II. of the fifth schedule to the Finance (1909-10) Act, 1910, and the duty so payable shall be charged throughout the United Kingdom; and the Acts relating to the payment of the duty shall extend accordingly.

Accordingly, the following provisions of the Revenue Act, 1869, 32 & 33 Vict. c. 14, seem applicable to persons keeping a motor car<sup>1</sup> in Ireland:—

Section 25, enacting a penalty of £20 (over and above the duties payable) for neglecting or refusing to deliver any declaration in conformity with the Act, or delivering a declaration wherein the required particulars are not fully and truly stated; and section 27, enacting a penalty of £20 on "every person who shall keep a carriage" without a licence; section 33, enacting a penalty of £5 on any person failing to produce the licence to an Inland Revenue Officer within a reasonable time after being requested to do so.

Under Order in Council dated 2nd August, 1910, and known as the Motor Car Licence Duties (Ireland) Collection Order, 1910, it is provided:—(Art. 3) that every county council shall have within their county all powers and duties now vested in the Commissioners of Customs and Excise for carrying into execution every enactment relating to the duties on licences for motor cars imposed by the Finance (1909-10) Act, 1910, on motor cars; and (Art. 9), that any officer selected by a county council in pursuance of the order may request the production of a licence under s. 33 of the Revenue Act, 1869, 32 & 33 Vict. c. 14, for the purpose of its being examined and read by him, and that that section shall apply accordingly, and that if any person obstructs, molests, or hinders any such officer in the execution of his duty or of any power or authority by law given him in relation to such duties on licences for motor cars, he shall be subject to the same liability<sup>1</sup> as if he had obstructed an officer of Customs and Excise in the execution of his duty.

<sup>1</sup> Section 86 (4) of the Finance (1909-10) Act, 1910, provides for a rebate of one-half the duty in case of a duly qualified medical practitioner where the motor car is kept by him for the purpose of his profession.

"Carriage" does not include a "hackney carriage," or "a waggon, cart, or other such vehicle, which is constructed or adapted for use, and is used, solely for the conveyance of any goods or burden in the course of trade or husbandry, and whereon the Christian name and surname, and place of abode, or place of business of the person, or the name or style and principal or only place of business of the company or firm, keeping the same, shall be visibly and legibly painted in letters of not less than one inch in length" (Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1888, 51 & 52 Vict. c. 8, s. 4).

Nothing in s. 86 of the Finance (1909-10) Act, 1910, shall be construed to increase or affect the duty payable in respect of any motor car, motor omnibus, or other vehicle, being a hackney carriage within the meaning of s. 4 of the Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1888, or to require a licence to be taken out, for any motor car which is not a carriage within the meaning of that section (Finance (1909-10) Act, 1910, s. 86 (3)). "Hackney carriage" means any carriage standing or plying for hire, and includes any carriage let for hire by a coachmaker or other person whose trade or business it is to sell carriages or to let carriages for hire, provided that such carriage is not let for a period amounting to three months or more (Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1888, s. 4 (3)). The licence on a hackney carriage is 15s. per annum (ib.), though it is submitted, having regard to s. 86 (3) of the Finance (1909-10) Act, 1910, that no duty is payable on a motor car kept for hire in Ireland, inasmuch as no duty was heretofore payable on or in respect of same.

Where a vehicle, kept for the conveyance of the defendant's milk (and so exempt from duty), was on one occasion used by a bailiff who had entire charge and custody of defendant's farm and vehicles for the bailiff's own use: Held, that the defendant could not bring himself within the exception in s. 4 of the Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1888 (Strutt v. Clift, (1910) 27 T.L.R. 14).

MOTOR CARS (USE AND CONSTRUCTION) (I.) ORDER, 1904, DATED 6TH MAY, 1904. Use and Construction Order, 1904.

1. In this Order—the expression "carriage" includes a waggon, cart, or other vehicle. The expression "horse" includes a mule or other beast of draught or burden, and the expression "cattle" includes sheep. The expression "motor car" means a vehicle propelled by mechanical power which is under three tons in weight unladen, and is not used for the purpose of drawing more than one vehicle (such vehicle with its locomotive not exceeding in weight unladen four tons) and is so constructed that no smoke or visible vapour is emitted therefrom except from any temporary or accidental cause.<sup>3</sup> In calculating for the purposes of this order the weight of a vehicle unladen, the weight of any water, fuel, or accumulators

<sup>1</sup> That is to say, he incurs a fine of £100 (Inland Revenue Regulation Act, 1890, 53 & 54 Vict. c. 21, s. 11), recoverable summarily (s. 21). As to procedure under the Act of 1890, see p. 79.

<sup>2</sup> But see p. 628.

<sup>3</sup> See Star Omnibus Co. v. Tagg, (1907) 23 T.L.R. 488; R. v. Wilbraham, (1907) 96 L.T. 712, noted p. 630.

Article 1.
Definitions:
"Carriage."
"Horse."
"Cattle."
"Motor Car."
"Highway."

Use and Construction
Order, 1904.

Article 2.

used for the purpose of propulsion shall not be included. The expression "highway" includes any roadway to which the public are granted access.

2. No person shall cause or permit a motor car to be used on any highway, or shall drive or have charge of a motor car when so used, unless the conditions hereinafter set forth are satisfied, namely:—

Reverse gear.

(1) The motor car, if it exceeds in weight unladen five hundredweight, shall be capable of being so worked that it may travel either forwards or backwards.

Width.

(2) The motor car shall not exceed 7 feet 2 inches in width, such width to be measured between its extreme projecting points.

Tires.

(3) The tire of each wheel of the motor car shall be smooth, and shall, where the same touches the ground, be flat and of the width following, namely:—(a) if the weight of the motor car unladen exceeds fifteen hundredweight, but does not exceed one ton, not less than  $2\frac{1}{2}$  inches; (b) if such weight exceeds one ton, but does not exceed two tons, not less than 3 inches; (c) if such weight exceeds two tons, but does not exceed three tons, not less than 4 inches. Provided that where a pneumatic tire or other tire of a soft or elastic material is used, the conditions hereinbefore set forth with respect to tires shall not apply.

Brakes.

(4) The motor car shall have two independent brakes<sup>1</sup> in good working order, and of such efficiency that the application of either to the motor car shall cause two of its wheels on the same axle to be so held that the wheels shall be effectually prevented from revolving or shall have the same effect in stopping the motor car as if such wheels were so held. Provided that in the case of a motor car having less than four wheels this condition shall apply as if, instead of two wheels on the same axle, one wheel was therein referred to.

Solid tires.

(5) Where the weight of a motor car unladen exceeds fifteen hundredweight and the motor car is fitted with tires other than pneumatic tires or tires of a soft or elastic material, the weight of the motor car unladen shall be painted in one or more straight lines upon some conspicuous part of the right or off side of the motor car in large legible letters in white upon black or black upon white, not less than one inch in height.

Condition of car.

(6) The motor car and all the fittings thereof shall be in such a condition as not to cause, or to be likely to cause, danger to any person on the motor car or on any highway.

Lamp.

(7) (i) The lamp to be carried attached to the motor car in pursuance of section 2 of the Act of 1896 shall be so constructed and placed as to exhibit, during the period between one hour after sunset and one hour before sunrise, a white light visible within a reasonable distance in the direction towards which the motor car is proceeding, or is intended to proceed, and to exhibit a red light so visible in the reverse direction. The lamp shall be placed on the extreme right or off side of the motor car in such a position as to be free from all obstruction to the light. Provided that where a lamp, which exhibits a red light in the direction contrary to that towards which the motor car is proceeding, is carried attached at the back of the motor car, the condition requiring the lamp attached in pursuance of section 2 of the Act of 1896 to exhibit a red light shall not apply or have effect with regard to the motor car: Provided also that the first paragraph of this condition shall not extend to any bicycle, tricycle, or other similar machine, but the lamp to be carried by such bicycle, tricycle, or other similar machine shall be so constructed and placed as to exhibit a white light in the direction towards which such bicycle, tricycle, or other machine is proceeding. (ii) Every lamp carried by the motor car when in use on a highway at any time during the period mentioned in this condition shall be so constructed, fitted, and attached as to prevent the movement or the use as a searchlight of the light exhibited by any such lamp.

Article 3.

Use for traction.

3. No person shall cause or permit a motor car to be used on any highway for the purpose of drawing any vehicle, or shall drive or have charge of a motor car when used for such purposes, unless the conditions hereinafter set forth are satisfied, namely:—

(1) Conditions (2), (3), (5), and (6) of Article II. of this Order shall apply as if the vehicle drawn by the motor car was therein referred to instead of the motor car itself.

<sup>1</sup> The engine, though capable of being used as a brake, is not a brake within the regulation (Wilmott v. Southwell, (1908) 25 T.L.R. 22).

Use and Construction
Order, 1904.

(2) Every vehicle exceeding two hundredweight in weight unladen, drawn by a motor car, shall have a brake in good working order of such efficiency that its application to the vehicle shall cause two of the wheels of the vehicle on the same axle to be so held that the wheels shall be effectually prevented from revolving, or shall have the same effect in stopping the vehicle as if such wheels were so held.

(3) The vehicle drawn by a motor car shall, when in pursuance of the condition lastly hereinbefore set forth a brake is required to be attached thereto, carry upon the vehicle a person competent to apply efficiently the brake: Provided that it shall not be necessary to comply with this condition if the brakes upon the motor car by which the vehicle is drawn are so constructed and arranged that neither of such brakes can be used without bringing into action simultaneously the brake attached to the vehicle drawn, or if the brake of the vehicle drawn can be applied from the motor car by a person upon the motor car independently of the brakes of the latter.

4. Every person driving or in charge of a motor car when used on any highway shall comply with the regulations hereinafter set forth, namely:— Article 4.

(1) He shall not cause the motor car to travel backwards for a greater distance or time than may be requisite for the safety or convenience of the occupants of the motor car and of the passenger and other traffic on the highway. Reversing.

(2) He shall not, when on the motor car, be in such a position that he cannot have control over the same, or that he cannot obtain a full view of the road and traffic ahead of the motor car, nor shall he quit the motor car without having taken due precaution against its being started in his absence, nor allow the motor car or any vehicle drawn thereby to stand on such highway so as to cause any unnecessary obstruction thereof. *Control.
Leaving
unattended.
Obstruction.*

(3) He shall, when meeting any carriage,<sup>1</sup> horse, or cattle, keep the motor car on the left or near side of the road, and when passing any carriage, horse, or cattle proceeding in the same direction, keep the motor car on the right or off side of the same. Rule of the road.

(4) He shall not negligently or wilfully prevent, hinder, or interrupt the free passage of any person, carriage, horse, or cattle on any highway, and shall keep the motor car and any vehicle drawn thereby on the left or near side of the road for the purpose of allowing such passage. Interrupting free passage.

(5) He shall, whenever necessary, by sounding the bell or other instrument required by section 3 of the Act of 1896, give audible and sufficient warning of the approach or position of the motor car. Sounding horn.

(6) He shall on the request of any police constable in uniform, or of any person having charge of a horse, or if any such constable or person shall put up his hand as a signal for that purpose, cause the motor car to stop and to remain stationary so long as may be reasonably necessary. Request to stop.

5. Every motor car shall be so constructed as to enable the driver, when the motor car is stationary otherwise than through an enforced stoppage owing to the necessities of traffic, to stop the action of any machinery attached to or forming part of the motor car so far as may be necessary for the prevention of noise. The driver shall on every such occasion make prompt and effective use of all such means as, in pursuance of this condition, are provided for the prevention of noise as above mentioned: Provided that this regulation shall not apply so as to prevent the examination or working of the machinery attached to or forming part of a motor car where any such operation is rendered necessary by any failure or derangement of the said machinery. Article 5.
Power to stop machinery.

This Order may be cited as "The Motor Cars (Use and Construction) (I.) Order, 1904."

MOTOR CARS REGISTRATION AND LICENSING (I.) ORDER, 1903 (DATED 23RD NOVEMBER, 1903).

(Summarised).

Registration and Licensing
Order, 1903.

The following is a summary of the chief provisions of the Motor Cars Registration and Licensing (I.) Order, 1903, in respect of the registration and licensing of motor cars.

<sup>1</sup> A tramcar is a carriage (Burton v. Nicholson, (1909) 1 K.B. 397).

Registration and Licensing Order, 1903.Registration.*

Register of motor cars and motor cycles to be kept, index mark distinguishing the council to be the letter or letters contained in the first schedule to the Order (Art. 1). Fee of 20s. to be paid in case of a motor car, and 5s. in case of a motor cycle (Art. 2). Separate number to be assigned to motor car (Art. 3). On change of ownership, registration to be continued; fee of 5s. in case of motor car, 1s. in case of motor cycle (Art. 4). Change in circumstances affecting accuracy of registration to be notified by owner and registered accordingly (Art. 5). Provisions as to cancellation of registration where motor car destroyed, &c. (Art. 6).

Identification mark.

The identification mark to consist of two plates to conform to the fourth schedule to the order (Art. 7). Plates to be affixed one on the front and one on the back of the motor car in an upright position, so that every letter and figure of the plate is upright and easily distinguishable. In the case of motor tricycle or motor bicycle, the front plate if provided with duplicate faces to be affixed so as to have the letters or figures distinguishable, from either side of cycle (Art. 8). Whenever vehicle is attached to a motor car, either in front or behind, the plate required to be fixed on the front or the back of the motor car, or a duplicate of such plate, shall be affixed to the front or back of the vehicle, attached in the same manner as the plate is required to be affixed on the motor car (Art. 9). Council may furnish identification plates (Art. 10). "Whenever during the period between one hour after sunset and one hour before sunrise a motor car is used on a public highway,<sup>1</sup> a lamp shall be kept burning on the car, so contrived as to illuminate by means of reflection, transparency or otherwise, and render easily distinguishable every letter or figure on the identification plate fixed on the back of the motor car, or of any vehicle attached to the back of the motor car, as the case may be. In the application of this Article to a motor tricycle or motor bicycle of a weight unladen not exceeding three hundred weights, the plate fixed on the front of the motor car may, if desired, be substituted for the plate fixed on the back of the motor car" (Art. 11; see also Art. 2, cl. 7, of Order of 6 May, 1904, supra).

Dealer's identification mark.

General identification marks to manufacturer or dealer under sect. 2 (4) of the Act of 1903 with different colouring shall be provided; record of user to be kept by manufacturer or dealer; if general identification mark is used at the same time on more than one car, distinguishing number plates on or annexed to the plates must be put on each car; register of general identification marks to be kept (Art. 12). The council shall, on application by any other registering authority, or by any police authority, or by any superior police officer, or by any constable authorized by such superior police officer, provide, free of charge, a copy of the entries in the register relating to any specified motor car, or of the entries of general identification marks relating to any manufacturer or dealer; the council shall also supply to any other person applying for a copy of the entry relating to the any motor car a copy of such entry on payment of a fee of 1s., if he shows that he has a reasonable cause for requiring such copy; an Inland Revenue Officer may at all reasonable times inspect the register and take copies of any entries in it (Art. 13).

Licence.

Application for licence on payment of 5s. for licence (Art. 14). Form of licence or renewal (Art. 15) licence may be granted to person with residence outside the United Kingdom, even though not resident within the county or county borough (Art. 16). Issue of duplicate licence, or renewal in case of loss or destruction of original (Art. 17). Register of licences to be kept (Art. 18). Council upon application by any other licensing authority or by any police authority, or by any superior officer of police or constable authorized by such superior police officer shall provide, free of charge, copy of the particulars in the register of licences; particulars of any conviction to be sent to the police authority for the area in which the offender resides (Art. 19). Except where the contrary intention appears, motor car in the order includes a motor cycle. In calculating weight, the weight of any motor fuel, water, or accumulators shall not be included (Art. 21).

Heavy Motor Car Order, 1905.HEAVY MOTOR CAR (I.) ORDER (1905) (DATED 27TH JANUARY, 1905).(Summarised.)

"Heavy motor car."
"Trailer."

"Heavy motor car" means a motor car exceeding two tons in weight unladen.
 "Trailer" means a vehicle drawn by a heavy motor car (Art. 2). A heavy motor car may be used on a highway if its weight does not exceed five tons, or if the weight of the heavy motor car unladen with the weight of a vehicle unladen drawn by it does not exceed six and a half tons (Art. 3).<sup>1</sup> Ascertainment and registration of the weight unladen, the axle-weight of each axle, and the diameter of each wheel are provided for; the registered weight unladen, the registered axle-weight, and the highest rate of speed to be painted or marked as prescribed on the heavy motor car (Art. 4). The axle-weight of an axle of a heavy motor car shall not exceed the registered axle-weight; the registered axle-weight shall not exceed eight tons, and the sum of the registered axle-weights of all the axles shall not exceed twelve tons. Local Government Board may make an order reducing the maximum axle-weight<sup>2</sup> in respect of a road on the application of the road authority (Art. 5). Provisions are made for tires (Art. 6). The speed shall not exceed eight miles an hour, provided that if the weight of the heavy motor car unladen exceeds three tons, or if the registered axle-weight of any axle exceeds six tons, or if the heavy motor car draws a trailer, it shall not exceed five miles an hour; provided also that if the heavy motor car has all its wheels fitted with pneumatic tires, or with tires made of a soft or elastic material, the speed at which any heavy motor car shall be drawn on a highway shall not exceed (a) twelve miles an hour where the registered axle-weight of any axle does not exceed six tons, and (b) eight miles an hour where the registered axle-weight of any axle exceeds six tons (Art. 7). Provision is made as regards sizes of wheels (Art. 8). Width of vehicle not to exceed seven feet six inches (Art. 9). Springs (Art. 10). With regard to trailers, the weight of the trailer unladen and axle-weight of each axle to be painted or marked as prescribed; provision is made as to tires and size of wheels of trailers; axle-weight of an axle of a trailer shall not exceed four tons; every trailer to have sufficient springs; heavy motor car used for the conveyance of passengers for gain or hire shall not draw a trailer (Art. 11). No person shall cause or permit to be used on any highway, or have charge of a heavy motor car or trailer not in conformity with these regulations (Art. 13). Road authority may fix notice on bridges forbidding the crossing thereon of heavy motor cars, the registered axle-weight of which exceeds three tons, or any greater weight specified in the notice; any dispute or difference in relation to the insufficiency of a bridge to be determined by arbitration as provided; where the axle-weight of any axle exceeds six tons, a heavy motor car shall not be driven upon a bridge forming part of a highway at any time at which a heavy motor car or a locomotive to which the Locomotive Act, 1865, applies, is on the bridge (Art. 14). Separate register of heavy motor cars is provided for (Art. 15).

<sup>1</sup> The provisions of the order apply in the case of a roadway to which the public are granted access in the same manner as they apply in the case of a public highway (Art. 21).

Heavy Motor Car Order, 1905.

Ascertainment & registration of weight, &c.

Maximum axle-weight.

Tires. Speed.

Size of wheels. Width. Springs. Weight of trailer.

Breach of regulations. Bridges.

Separate register.

PETROLEUM FOR MOTOR CARS.

REGULATIONS.

DATED JULY 31, 1907, MADE BY THE SECRETARY OF STATE UNDER SECTION 5 OF THE LOCOMOTIVES ON HIGHWAYS ACT, 1896, AS TO THE KEEPING AND USE OF PETROLEUM FOR THE PURPOSES OF LIGHT LOCOMOTIVES.

Regulations as to petroleum for motor cars.

The Petroleum Act, 1871,<sup>3</sup> forbids the keeping of petroleum spirit without a licence, to which conditions as to storage, &c., may be annexed. That Act may be availed of by any person, and must be complied with by persons keeping petroleum spirit for sale. A person keeping petroleum not for sale, needs no licence under that Act, if he complies with the following regulations. Regulations 13 and 14 apply to petroleum spirit, kept partly for sale, and partly for use in light locomotives. Under s. 7 of the Act of 1896, a breach of these regulations may, on summary conviction, be punished by a fine not exceeding £10.

Explanatory note.

<sup>1</sup> The effect of this article is that a motor car or other mechanically propelled vehicle weighing less than five tons is put in the same position as a light locomotive under section 1 of the Act of 1896, and is therefore free from the old restrictions, such as requiring a person to walk in front with a flag (Evans v. Nicholl, (1909) 1 K.B. 778).

<sup>2</sup> The axle-weight means the aggregate weight transmitted to the road surface by the several wheels attached to that axle when the vehicle is laden.

<sup>3</sup> See PETROLEUM.

Regulations
as to petroleum for motor cars.
"Petroleum spirit."

"Storehouse."

Exemption
from licence.

Application of regulations
where licence taken out.

Storehouse.

Quantity of spirit.
More than one storehouse.

Storehouse
near building.

Ventilation.
Vessels.

In these regulations the expression "petroleum spirit" shall mean the petroleum to which the Petroleum Acts, 1871 and 1879, apply; provided that when any petroleum other than that to which the said Petroleum Acts apply, is on or in any light locomotive, or is being conveyed or kept in any place on or in which there is also present any petroleum spirit as above defined, the whole of such petroleum shall be deemed to be petroleum spirit.

In these regulations the expression "storehouse" shall mean any room, building, coachhouse, lean-to, or other place in which petroleum spirit for the purposes of light locomotives is kept in pursuance of these regulations and shall include an open-air place of storage, when and so long as due precautions for the prevention of unauthorized persons having access to the petroleum spirit are taken in pursuance of No. 13 of these regulations.

1. The following shall be exempt from licence under the Petroleum Act, 1871, namely:—(a) petroleum spirit which is kept for the purpose of, or is being used on light locomotives when kept or used in conformity with these regulations; (b) petroleum spirit which is kept for the purpose of, or is being used on light locomotives by, or by authority of, one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State, the Admiralty, or other department of the Government.

2. These regulations shall apply to petroleum spirit which is kept for the purpose of, or is being used on, light locomotives, and for which (save as hereinafter provided) no licence has been granted by the local authority under the Petroleum Act, 1871, and shall not apply to petroleum spirit which is kept for sale, or partly for sale and partly for use on light locomotives, and which must be kept in accordance with the provisions of the Petroleum Acts as heretofore, except that regulations 13 and 14 shall apply to petroleum spirit which is kept partly for sale and partly for use on light locomotives.

These regulations shall not apply to the keeping or use of petroleum spirit by or under the control of any Government Department. Such keeping or use may be the subject of regulations to be made by the department concerned.

3. Where for any special reason a person keeping petroleum spirit for the purpose of light locomotives applies for a licence under the Petroleum Act, 1871, and the local authority see fit to grant such licence, such petroleum spirit shall be subject only to regulations 8 to 15 and the conditions of such licence, in so far as the said conditions are not contrary to the said regulations 8 to 15.

4. Where a storehouse forms part of, or is attached to, another building, and where the intervening floor or partition is of an unsubstantial or highly inflammable character, or has an opening therein, the whole of such building shall be deemed to be the storehouse, and no portion of such storehouse shall be used as a dwelling or as a place where persons assemble. A storehouse shall have a separate entrance from the open air distinct from that of any dwelling or building in which persons assemble.

5. The amount of petroleum spirit to be kept in any one storehouse, whether or not upon light locomotives, shall not exceed 60 gallons at any one time.

6. Where two or more storehouses are in the same occupation, and are situated within 20 feet of one another, they shall for the purposes of these regulations be deemed to be one and the same storehouse, and the maximum amount of petroleum spirit prescribed in the foregoing regulation shall be the maximum to be kept in all such storehouses taken together. Where two or more storehouses in the same occupation are distant more than 20 feet from one another, the maximum amount shall apply to each storehouse.

7. Any person who keeps petroleum spirit in a storehouse which is situated within 20 feet of any other building whether or not in his occupation, or of any timber stack or other inflammable goods not owned by him, shall give notice to the local authority under the Petroleum Acts for the district in which he is keeping such petroleum spirit, that he is so keeping petroleum spirit, and shall renew such notice in the month of January in each year during the continuance of such keeping, and shall permit any duly authorized officer of the local authority to inspect such petroleum spirit at any reasonable time. This regulation shall not apply to petroleum spirit kept in a tank forming part of a light locomotive.

8. Every storehouse shall be thoroughly ventilated.

9. Petroleum spirit shall not be kept, used, or conveyed except in metal vessels so substantially constructed as not to be liable, except under circumstances of gross negligence or extraordinary accident, to be broken or become defective or insecure. Every such vessel shall be so constructed and maintained that no leakage, whether of liquid or vapour, can take place therefrom.

10. Every such vessel, not forming part of a light locomotive, when used for conveying or keeping petroleum spirit shall bear the words "petroleum spirit, highly inflammable," conspicuously and indelibly stamped or marked thereon, or on a metallic or enamelled label attached thereto, and shall be of a capacity not exceeding two gallons: Provided that this limitation of capacity shall not apply in any place of storage which is licensed under the Petroleum Act, 1871, unless such limitation is required by the conditions of the licence.

11. Before repairs are done to any such vessel, that vessel shall, as far as practicable, be cleaned by the removal of all petroleum spirit and of all dangerous vapours derived from the same.

12. The filling or replenishing of a vessel with petroleum spirit shall not be carried on, nor shall the contents of any such vessel be exposed in the presence of fire or artificial light, except a light of such construction, position, or character, as not to be liable to ignite any inflammable vapour arising from such spirit; and no fire or artificial light capable of igniting inflammable vapour shall be brought within dangerous proximity of the place where any vessel containing petroleum spirit is being kept.

13. In the case of all petroleum spirit kept or conveyed for the purpose of, or in connection with, any light locomotive, (a) all due precautions shall be taken for the prevention of accidents by fire or explosion, and for the prevention of unauthorized persons having access to any petroleum spirit kept or conveyed, and to the vessels containing, or intended to contain, or having actually contained, the same; and (b) every person managing, or employed on or in connection with, any light locomotive shall abstain from every act whatever which tends to cause fire or explosion, and which is not reasonably necessary, and shall prevent any other person from committing such act.

14. In the storehouse or in any place where a light locomotive is kept or is present, petroleum spirit shall not be used for the purpose of cleaning or lighting, or as a solvent, or for any purpose other than as fuel for the engine of a light locomotive: Provided that where due precaution is taken to prevent petroleum spirit from escaping into a sewer or drain, and provision made for disposing safely of any surplus petroleum spirit, and where no fire or naked light is present, quantities not exceeding one gill may be used for the cleaning of a light locomotive at a safe distance from any building, place of storage of inflammable goods, or much frequented highway, or for the repair of tires, under suitable precautions. This regulation shall apply to premises on which petroleum spirit is kept for the purpose of, or is being used on, light locomotives, whether such premises are licensed or not, unless the local authority see fit, in the case of licensed premises to grant an exemption by a special term of the licence.

15. Petroleum shall not be allowed to escape into any inlet or drain communicating with a sewer.

NOTE.—From the above regulations it will be seen that there are two methods in which petroleum spirit required for use in motor cars may be kept. The first of these will be the usual method, namely, to keep in accordance with these regulations; but where a person finds that for some special reason he cannot observe one of the regulations 4, 5, or 6, he may resort to the second method, namely, to apply to the local authority for a licence. In such cases the place will be examined by the local authority officer, who will advise the local authority as to its suitability for licence. Where a licence has been granted regulations 4 to 7 no longer apply. In no case is petroleum spirit, kept wholly or partly for sale, exempt from the necessity of a licence.

MUSEUMS AND GYMNASIUMS.

Where the Museums and Gymnasiums Act, 1891, 54 & 55 Vict. c. 22, is adopted, in manner prescribed by s. 3, by an urban authority (meaning—see ss. 14, 15 (1)—an urban sanitary authority under the Public Health (Ir.) Acts), such authority may provide and maintain museums and gymnasiums (s. 4), and may make bye-laws for regulating the conduct of persons admitted thereto (s. 7 (2)), and the provisions of ss. 219–223 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, shall be applicable thereto (ib., s. 15 (2); see PUBLIC HEALTH).

NAVY.

Royal Navy.

Naval deserters to be committed.
10 & 11 Vict.
c. 62.

Punishment of pretended naval deserters.

Bringing drink on board H. M. ships.
Hovering
about H. M. ships.

Purchasing seamen's clothing, &c.

Failure to account for seaman's
property.

Person belonging to navy improperly absent from duty, to be committed to gaol, and the justice committing him to report to the Admiralty or to the officer commanding any of H. M. ships or, if such person be apprehended near one of H. M. ships, to be sent on board such vessel (Naval Deserters Act, 1847, s. 9). Person falsely alleging himself to be a deserter or absentee from navy, shall, if the naval authorities accept him, be deemed to belong to the navy, and be compellable to serve therein; or, if the naval authorities reject him, shall upon conviction before two justices at or near the place where he delivered himself up or made such false statement, or where he may happen to be, be imprisoned with hard labour for not more than three months (s. 10). Any person bringing on board any of H. M. ships spirituous or fermented liquor without consent of officer commanding, or hovering about such ship with intent either of putting such liquors aboard without such consent, or of aiding anyone belonging to such ship to improperly absent himself; Forfeiture of not more than £10 recoverable with costs and to be applied as penalties under the Naval Deserters Act, 1847<sup>1</sup> (s. 12). Any person who, on entering or offering himself for the naval service<sup>2</sup> of H. M., makes, whether orally or in writing, any false statement with intent to deceive the recruiting official, is to be deemed a rogue and a vagabond within the meaning of the Vagrancy Act, 1824, s. 4<sup>3</sup>; Punishable with imprisonment with hard labour not exceeding three months (Naval Deserters Act, 1847, s. 16). Any person within the municipal borough of Cork or the urban district of Queenstown who buys or otherwise receives from any seaman,<sup>4</sup> or from anyone acting for a seaman, any seaman's property,<sup>5</sup> or who solicits any seaman or is employed by any seaman to sell, exchange, or pawn such property, unless he proves that he did not know such property to be seaman's property, or that he did not know that he was dealing with or acting for a seaman, or that such property was sold by order of the naval authorities: Penalty, for first offence, not exceeding £20, and for any subsequent offence, like Penalty or, at the discretion of the court, imprisonment not exceeding six months with or without hard labour (Seamen's Clothing Act, 1869, 32 & 33 Vict. c. 57, ss. 2, 4, Sch.). Any person in Cork or Queenstown in whose possession or keeping<sup>6</sup> seaman's property is found, and who is brought or summoned before a justice shall, if it appear to such justice that such property was stolen or obtained in contravention of this Act, and if such person do not satisfy such justice that such property was lawfully obtained, be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 (s. 5). Sec. 93 (relating to abettors), sec. 103 (relating to arrest and

<sup>1</sup> By s. 13 of that Act it is provided that offences under that Act may be prosecuted before any justice residing in or near the place where the offence was committed, or where the offender is, no matter where the offence may have been committed; and that one moiety of any penalty shall be paid to the informer or complainant, and the residue to the Commissioners of Greenwich Hospital.

<sup>2</sup> This expression is by s. 3 of the Seamen's and Soldiers' False Characters Act, 1906 (6 Edw. 7, c. 5), extended so as to include service in any of the Naval Reserve forces.

<sup>3</sup> This enactment is extended to Ireland by the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871 (34 & 35 Vict. c. 112), s. 15.

<sup>4</sup> This term means a person belonging to a ship in H. M. service who is below the rank of subordinate officer (s. 3).

<sup>5</sup> This term means any clothes, slops, medals, or articles deemed to be necessities on board ship belonging to a seaman (s. 3).

<sup>6</sup> For the purposes of this section, the property is in the possession or keeping of anyone if he knowingly has it in any place whatever (within Cork or Queenstown), whether occupied by himself or not, and whether for the benefit of himself or some other person (s. 5).

search warrants), secs. 107–112, and sec. 120 (relating to summary procedure and appeals) of the Larceny Act, 1861, are incorporated with the Act<sup>1</sup> (s. 6). As to the offences of forgery of service or discharge certificates or personation of men who have served in the navy, and as to the offences of using or making false statements on or for the purpose of entry into the navy, see the Soldiers' and Seamen's False Characters Act, 1906, under ARMY.

Royal Navy.
Forgery of certificates and false statements on enlistment.

NEWSPAPERS.

A register of the proprietors of newspapers<sup>2</sup> shall be published under the superintendence of the registrar<sup>3</sup> (Newspaper Libel and Registration Act, 1881, 44 & 45 Vict. c. 60, s. 8).

Register of newspaper proprietors.

A return must be made to the registrar of newspapers<sup>3</sup> by the printers and publishers of every newspaper every year in the month of July, specifying the title of the newspaper, the names, occupations, places of business (if any), and places of residence of all the proprietors (s. 9)—Penalty, on failure to make return before 1st September, not exceeding £25. and a summary order to make return within a specified time may be made (s. 10). Wilful misrepresentation in or omission from return—Penalty, not exceeding £100 (s. 12). Penalties recoverable under Summary Jurisdiction Acts<sup>4</sup> (ss. 16, 17). The provisions as to registration do not apply to the case of a newspaper belonging to an incorporated company (s. 18).

Return to registrar.

Every copy of an entry in or extract from the register, purporting to be certified by the registrar or his deputy, or under the official seal of the registrar, shall be conclusive evidence of the contents of the register; and every such certified copy or extract shall, in all proceedings, civil or criminal, be accepted as sufficient prima facie evidence of all the matters and things thereby appearing, unless and until the contrary be shown (s. 15).

Evidence.

As to special provisions relating to newspapers on a charge of criminal libel, see LIBEL, p. 591.

Libel.

OBSCENE BOOKS, PICTURES, &c.

“It shall be lawful for any metropolitan police magistrate or other stipendiary magistrate,<sup>5</sup> or for any two justices, upon complaint made before him or them upon oath that the complainant has reason to believe, and does believe, that any obscene books, papers, writings, prints, pictures, drawings, or other representations are kept in any house, shop, room, or

Issue of warrant

<sup>1</sup> Section 106, dealing with the application of penalties, is not incorporated, and the application of penalties is therefore governed by the Fines Act, 1851.

<sup>2</sup> “The word ‘newspaper’ shall mean any paper containing public news, intelligence, or occurrences, or any remarks, or other observations therein printed for sale, and published in England or Ireland periodically, or in parts or numbers at intervals not exceeding 26 days between the publication of any two such papers, parts, or numbers” (s. 1).

<sup>3</sup> That is, the assistant registrar for the time being of Joint Stock Companies for Ireland, or such person as the Board of Trade may from time to time appoint (s. 1).

<sup>4</sup> For the meaning of which term, see p. 335.

<sup>5</sup> The expression “stipendiary magistrate,” in s. 1 of the Married Women (Maintenance in case of Desertion) Act, 1886, includes a divisional justice of the Dublin metropolitan police district (R. (Redding) v. Swift, (1909) 2 I.R. 302); and it is submitted that the same expression, as used in this section, also includes such divisional justice.

other place within the limits of the jurisdiction of any such magistrate or justices for the purpose of sale or distribution, exhibition for purposes of gain, lending upon hire, or being otherwise published for purposes of gain, which complainant shall also state upon oath, and that one or more articles of the like character have been sold, distributed, exhibited, lent, or otherwise published as aforesaid at or in connection with such place, so as to satisfy such magistrate or justices that the belief of the said complainant is well founded, and upon such magistrate or justices being also satisfied that any of such articles so kept for any of the purposes aforesaid are of such character and description that the publication of them would be a misdemeanour and proper to be prosecuted as such,<sup>1</sup> to give authority by special warrant to any constable or police officer, into such house, shop, room, or other place, with such assistance as may be necessary, to enter in the daytime, and, if necessary, to use force by breaking open doors or otherwise, and to search for and seize all such books, papers, writings, prints, pictures, drawings, or other representations as aforesaid found in such house, shop, room, or other place, and to carry all the articles so seized before the magistrate or justices issuing the said warrant, or some other magistrate or justices exercising the same jurisdiction; and such magistrate or justices shall thereupon issue a summons calling upon the occupier of the house or other place which may have been so entered by virtue of the said warrant to appear within seven days before such police stipendiary magistrate or any two justices in petty sessions for the district, to show cause why the articles so seized should not be destroyed; and if such occupier or some other person claiming to be the owner of the said articles shall not appear within the time aforesaid, or shall appear, and such magistrate or justices shall be satisfied that such articles or any of them are of the character stated in the warrant, and that such or any of them have been kept for any of the purposes aforesaid, it shall be lawful for the said magistrate or justices, and he or they are hereby required, to order<sup>2</sup> the articles so seized, except such of them as he or they may consider necessary to be preserved as evidence in some further proceeding, to be destroyed at the expiration of the time hereinafter allowed for lodging an appeal, unless notice of appeal as hereinafter mentioned be given, and such articles shall be in the meantime impounded; and if such magistrate or justices shall be satisfied that the articles seized are not of the character stated in the warrant, or have not been kept for any of the purposes aforesaid, he or they shall forthwith direct them to be restored to the occupier of the house or other place in which they were seized" (Obscene Publications Act, 1857, 20 & 21 Vict. c. 83, s. 1).

Issue of summons

Order for destruction.

Appeal.

A special right of appeal is given to the next quarter sessions on a notice in writing being given of the appeal and of the grounds thereof within seven days after the act or determination of the justices, and on entering within such seven days into a recognizance, with sufficient surety, before a justice of the peace personally to appear and prosecute the appeal, and to abide the order of and pay such costs as shall be awarded by the court of appeal. The court of appeal may award such costs to appellant or respondent as they may think proper. No grounds of appeal are to be entertained save those set forth in notice of appeal (s. 4).

<sup>1</sup> To bring any book, &c., within the Act the only thing necessary is that its publication would be a misdemeanour and proper to be prosecuted as such. If the book, &c., come within that description the fact that it was written, &c., for some purpose other than the corruption of public morals is no defence (R. v. Hicklin, (1868) L.R., 3 Q.B. 360; Scott v. Wolverhampton J.J., (1868) 32 J.P. 533). Whether the book, &c., does or does not come within that description is to be decided by applying the test laid down by Cockburn, C.J., in R. v. Hicklin, supra: "Whether the tendency of the matter charged as obscenity is to deprave and corrupt those whose minds are open to such immoral influences and into whose hands a publication of this sort may fall."

<sup>2</sup> The order will be bad unless the justices state in it that they are satisfied that the publication of the books, &c., would be a misdemeanour and proper to be prosecuted as such (Ex parte Bradlaugh, (1878) 3 Q.B.D. 509).

For cognate offences, see LIBEL, INDECENCY, POST OFFICE, and ADVERTISEMENTS.

OLD AGE PENSIONS.

"If for the purpose of obtaining or continuing an old age pension under this Act, either for himself or for any other person, or for the purpose of obtaining or continuing an old age pension under this Act for himself or for any other person, at a higher rate than that appropriate to the case, any person knowingly makes any false statement, or false representation, he shall be liable on summary conviction to imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months with hard labour" (Old Age Pensions Act, 1908, 8 Ed. 7, c. 40, s. 9 (1)).

Making false statements, &c., for purpose of obtaining, &c., old age pensions.

"Where a person of sixty years of age or upwards, having been convicted before any court, is liable to have a detention order made against him under the Inebriates Act, 1898,<sup>1</sup> and is not necessarily, by virtue of the provisions of this Act, disqualified for receiving or continuing to receive an old age pension under this Act, the court may, if they think fit, order that the person convicted be so disqualified for such period, not exceeding ten years, as the court direct" (s. 3).

Depriving habitual inebriate of pension.

PATENTS.

Any person not registered<sup>2</sup> as a patent agent<sup>3</sup> falsely describing himself as such—Penalty, not exceeding £2 (Patents and Designs Act, 1907, 8 Ed. 7, c. 29, s. 84 (1)). "If any person falsely represents that any article sold by him is a patented article, or falsely describes any design applied to any article sold by him as registered"<sup>4</sup>—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (s. 89 (2)). "Any person who, after the copyright in a design has expired, puts or causes to be put on any article to which the design has been applied the word 'registered' or any word or words implying that there is a subsisting copyright in the design"—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (s. 89 (4)). "If any person uses on his place of business, or on any document issued by him, or otherwise, the words 'Patent Office' or any other words suggesting that his place of business is officially connected with or is the Patent Office"—Penalty, not exceeding £20 (s. 89 (5)).

False representations. "Patent agent," "Patented," "registered," "Copyright."

"Patent Office."

<sup>1</sup> See HABITUAL DRUNKARDS.

<sup>2</sup> The fact that an unregistered person is entitled to be registered is no defence (Starey v. Grahame, (1899) 1 Q.B. 406).

<sup>3</sup> In this section "patent agent" means exclusively an agent for obtaining patents in the United Kingdom (s. 84 (4)).

<sup>4</sup> "If any person sells an article having stamped, engraved, or impressed thereon or otherwise applied thereto the word "patent," "patented," "registered," or any other word expressing or implying that the article is patented or that the design applied thereto is registered, he shall be deemed for the purposes of this section to represent that the article is a patented article or that the design applied thereto is a registered design" (s. 89 (3)).

are regulated by the Stamp Duties (Ir.) Act, 1842, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 82, and plate licences by the Revenue Act, 1867, 30 & 31 Vict. c. 90, and police licences for Dublin pawnbrokers by the 44 Geo. 3, c. 22 (Local and Personal Acts).

A pawnbroker is defined as "any person who shall receive or take by way of pawn, pledge, or exchange any goods or chattels for the repayment of money lent thereon" (Stamp Duties (Ir.) Act, 1842, s. 17). Persons lending money upon pawn at any rate of interest not exceeding £5 per cent. without taking or attempting to take any further profit are not included (ib.). Definition.

A loan exceeding £10 Irish (equivalent to £9 4s. English) is not a loan to which either the procedure as to loans laid down by the Acts relating to pawnbroking in Ireland or a great number of the other provisions of those Acts apply, the sum of £10 Irish being the highest sum to which the sections as to rate of interest apply (see infra). The repealed English Act of 1800 (39 & 40 Geo. 3, c. 99) contained provisions similar to those contained in the Irish Acts as to interest on loans up to £10; and where a pawnbroker advanced a sum exceeding £10 at more than 5 per cent., and did not make any entries or deliver a duplicate, it was held that the transaction, being concerned with a loan exceeding £10, was legal, and that the Act of 1800 did not apply (Pennell v. Attenborough, (1843) 4 Q.B. 868; see also Cowie v. Harris, (1827) M. & M. 141; Tregoning v. Attenborough, (1830) 9 L.J. (O.S.) C.P. 28). Lord Denman, C.J., in Pennell v. Attenborough (supra), adopted the decisions in Cowie v. Harris and Tregoning v. Attenborough (supra), and decided that the 39 & 40 Geo. 3, c. 99, did not apply to loans exceeding £10. Cowie v. Harris and Tregoning v. Attenborough were both cases on the legality of the rate of interest charged by the pawnbroker, and, as the interest section in the Act of 1800 (like s. 19 of 28 Geo. 3, c. 49 (Ir.)) allowed rates of interest on loans up to £10 which would otherwise have been illegal as exorbitant, it is clear that the Act of 1800 and the Irish Acts intended to restrict the power to charge such interest to such loans. It is submitted, however, that the above cases are not authorities for the wider proposition that the application of all the sections of the Act of 1800 was excluded where the loan exceeded £10, so as to exclude in such case provisions made in the public interest for the prevention of theft and wrongful disposal, such as sections 13 and 14 of that Act. It is submitted, therefore, that the provisions of section 8 of 26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.) (illegal pawning), and sections 11 and 12 of that Act (suspected goods) (see post, p. 662), which correspond to sections 12 and 13 of the Act of 1800, apply to loans of any amount. The provisions as to stolen goods of the Dublin Police Magistrates Act, 1808, s. 51 (see post, p. 663), apply to all loans by pawnbrokers,<sup>1</sup> as do the various enactments noticed hereinafter in reference to pawning by seamen, soldiers, and persons under fourteen, and to the pawning of public stores, and to pawnings dealt with by the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1908. Limited application of statutes to loans exceeding £10.

of the Dublin metropolis, and such provisions, with unrepealed sections of the Dublin Police Magistrates Act, 1808 (48 Geo. 3, c. 140 (Ir.)), and of the Dublin Justices Act, 1824 (5 Geo. 4, c. 102), form a code regulating the law of pawnbrokers in Dublin, differing, chiefly as to qualification and mode of sale, from the law relating to pawnbrokers in other parts of Ireland. Where any section applies solely to Dublin, a note is added to that effect.

<sup>1</sup> The wider construction of the decision in Pennell v. Attenborough, supra, has apparently been adopted by the legislature under the English Pawnbrokers Act, 1872 (35 & 36 Vict. c. 93), s. 10, which provides that nothing in the Act shall apply to a loan by a pawnbroker of above £10. This section appears to exclude, where the loan exceeds £10, the application of section 33 of the Act of 1872, which makes a provision as to illegal pawning somewhat similar to s. 8 of 26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.). As to the (English) Pawnbrokers Act, 1872, see R. v. Tregoning, (1899) 63 J.P. 504. As to exemption of charitable pawn societies, see 5 & 6 Vict. c. 75.

Loans and interest.

Loans to be in current coin, and not to be made up by including any other sort of value or payment (26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), s. 2). Rates of interest allowed under the Acts to be exhibited in a conspicuous part of pawnbroking establishment (26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), s. 38). Rates of interest<sup>1</sup> on loans up to £10 are fixed by 28 Geo. 3, c. 49 (Ir.), s. 19, and this section applies throughout Ireland (per Lord O'Brien, L.C.J., in Seddall v. Wilson, (1891) 25 I.L.T.R. 62). No penalty is provided for taking higher rates on loans under £10,<sup>2</sup> but, it is submitted, the taking of greater interest would avoid the loan and deprive the pawnee of his lien.

Qualifications.

(1) Outside D.M.P. district.

The following is the qualification for pawnbrokers outside the police district of Dublin metropolis:—Bond of £300 Irish by pawnbroker, conditioned for performance of duties and obligations of a pawnbroker, with three sureties bound in £100 Irish each, payable to treasurer or town clerk of the county, city, borough, or town corporate where the pawnbroker carries on business (26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), s. 14).<sup>3</sup> No other qualifications except the Inland Revenue licence and licence for dealing in plate (see pp. 655, 656) are required by a pawnbroker trading outside the police district of Dublin metropolis. Trading without giving securities—Penalty, £10 Irish to £20 Irish, and goods to be returned on payment of principal in presence of two justices; imprisonment not exceeding six months with hard labour if goods not returned (s. 18).<sup>4</sup>

Knowingly or wilfully neglecting to renew surety within three months of death or failure of any of the sureties—Penalty, on conviction before two justices, £5 Irish to £20 Irish (s. 15).

(2) D.M.P. district.

Every pawnbroker within the police district of Dublin metropolis must: (1) procure a certificate of fitness from five reputable resident citizens, and a similar certificate from a divisional justice (28 Geo. 3, c. 49 (Ir.), s. 2); (2) procure a licence from the divisional justices (Dublin Police Magistrates Act, 1808, 48 Geo. 3, c. 140 (Ir.), s. 66), for which he shall pay the duty of £100, imposed by 44 Geo. 3, c. xxii., now payable to the Dublin Corporation or the council of the county district, as the case may be (Local Government (Ir.) Act, 1898, s. 67);<sup>5</sup> (3) give a bond of £1,000 (Irish) conditioned for due discharge of duties, with three sureties approved by a divisional justice bound in £300 (Irish) each (28 Geo. 3, c. 49 (Ir.), s. 2); now given to the town clerk of Dublin or the clerk to the urban district council, as the case may be (see Local Government Act (Ir.), 1898, s. 67). Trading without having given securities—Penalty, same as for trading without giving securities under 26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), s. 18 (28 Geo. 3, c. 49 (Ir.), s. 3). Persons not duly qualified and licensed trading as pawnbrokers—Penalty, £5 (Irish) in addition to penalties for unqualified trading imposed by 26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), s. 18 (28 Geo. 3, c. 49 (Ir.), s. 1).

The word "licensed" in this section refers, it is submitted, to the police licence which is required in Dublin metropolitan police district by 48 Geo. 3, c. 140, and therefore that part of the section has no operation outside of that district.<sup>6</sup>

<sup>1</sup> The rates of interest are as follows:—Rates of interest per calendar month, above 1s. and not exceeding 2s.,  $\frac{1}{2}d.$ ; 2s. to 4s., 1d.; 4s. to 6s.,  $1\frac{1}{2}d.$ ; and in like proportion  $\frac{1}{2}d.$  for every increase of 2s. or fraction of 2s. of loan (28 Geo. 3, c. 49 (Ir.), s. 19).

<sup>2</sup> It is stated in Attenborough's "Laws of Pawnbroking," at p. 95, that pawnbrokers in England have been fined for taking rates of interest exceeding the rates allowed under section 15 of the English Act of 1872; but that Act contains a general section imposing fines for offences "against the Act." The Irish Acts have no such provision.

<sup>3</sup> As to certificates on perfecting securities, see p. 655, post.

<sup>4</sup> As to the application of s. 1 of 28 Geo. 3, c. 49, see p. 656 n., post.

<sup>5</sup> It would appear that partners in a pawnbroking business in Dublin would have to take out this police licence for each partner, as the Act does not otherwise provide.

<sup>6</sup> The above submission, however, is opposed to the dictum of Lord O'Brien, L.C.J., in Seddall v. Wilson, (1891) 25 I.L.T.R. at p. 63, but is advanced for the following

Every pawnbroker within the police district of Dublin metropolis before renewing his licence must give notice of his name, place of abode, and occupation, to the divisional justice, and receive a certificate of such notice having been given; and every change of abode at any time must be similarly notified by the licensed pawnbroker (48 Geo. 3, c. 140, s. 50). Qualifications.

Before renewing a licence the Dublin pawnbroker must, in addition to the above notice, produce new certificates of fitness (R. v. Darley, (1829) 2 Hud. & Bro. 486). Apparently he need not renew his securities annually, but only when required under the 26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), s. 15. All the conditions required by 28 Geo. 3, c. 49 (Ir.), are conditions precedent to obtaining the police licence (as to which see post) under the Dublin Police Magistrates Act, 1808, and, together with the provisions as to notice under the latter Act, must be fulfilled before the licence is obtained (R. v. Darley, supra; R. (M'Guinness) v. Dublin JJ., (1883) 12 L.R.I. 178). When these conditions have been complied with, it is mandatory on the divisional justices to issue the police licence (R. (M'Guinness) v. Dublin JJ., supra). Where an applicant applies to a divisional justice for a certificate of fitness, the justice can refuse the certificate only upon the ground of the unfitness of the applicant, and cannot take into consideration that the intended shop may deteriorate the value of property in its vicinity (ib.).

The following provisions apply to all pawnbrokers. Upon perfecting securities of a pawnbroker anywhere in Ireland the town clerk or treasurer to whom the same are made payable must give a certificate, for a fee of 6s. 8d. (Irish) above stamp duties, each certificate to be delivered within one month of date thereof to the City Marshal of Dublin,<sup>1</sup> and registered by him at a fee of 5s. (Irish) (26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), ss. 39 and 40). No penalties are provided for failure to comply with these provisions. (3) Generally.

If a pawnbroker within the police district of Dublin metropolis shall be proved, to the satisfaction of a divisional justice, to have bought, exchanged, or taken in pawn any goods that he knew to have been stolen or fraudulently obtained, then such justice shall certify the same, in writing, under his hand and seal; and, upon the lodging of such certificate in the office of the Town Clerk of Dublin, such pawnbroker shall be for ever disqualified (28 Geo. 3, c. 49 (Ir.), s. 5; 35 Geo. 3, c. 36 (Ir.); Dublin Police Magistrate Act, (1808) s. 70), and if he subsequently trades as a pawnbroker he shall be liable to the penalties provided by 26 Geo. 3, c. 43, s. 18, supra, for trading without sureties (28 Geo. 3, c. 49 (Ir.), s. 5). An appeal lies to quarter sessions from such disqualification (s. 6). Disqualification of Dublin pawnbroker.

Every pawnbroker within the police district of Dublin metropolis must take out every year a police licence, costing £100 (Irish) annually, and expiring on the 25th March in each year (44 Geo. 3, c. 22 (Local and Personal), s. 2, Sch.). Licences.
Police licence in Dublin.

Every pawnbroker in Ireland must take out, every year, an Inland Revenue licence, expiring 31st July in each year, costing £7 10s. 0d. annually (Stamp Act, 1854, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 83, s. 20), and by trading without such licence incurs an Excise penalty of £50 (Stamp Duties (Ir.) Act, 1842, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 82, s. 17.) Not more than one house can be Inland Revenue licence.

reasons:—The 28 Geo. 3, c. 45 (Ir.), which was a Dublin Police Act appointing commissioners of the watch, made a police licence necessary (sect. 79). The 28 Geo. 3, c. 49, in dealing with licences, can only have referred to the licence required by 28 Geo. 3, c. 45, because at that date no other licence was required. The 28 Geo. 3, c. 45 is repealed, but the 48 Geo. 3, c. 140 (the Dublin Police Magistrates Act, 1808), contains (s. 66) substituted provisions making a police licence necessary.

<sup>1</sup> The Marshal of the City of Dublin is by virtue of his office registrar of pawnbrokers of Ireland, and as Marshal and registrar is entitled to receive considerable fees. Where a person in consideration of being appointed City Marshal entered into an agreement with the Corporation of Dublin to take a fixed salary less than the fees, and to pay over the fees to the City Treasurer, the agreement was held void as contrary to public policy (Mayor of Dublin v. Hayes, (1876) 1 R. 10 C. L. 226).

Licences. included in such licence; but partners need take out only a single licence in respect of one house, shop, or tenement (s. 18).

Plate licence. Every pawnbroker in Ireland who shall trade in or sell any articles composed wholly or in part of gold or silver, or who shall take in pawn or deliver out of pawn any such article, must take out an Excise licence for trading in gold and silver plate, yearly; fee, £5 15s., in respect of every house, shop, or other place in which his trade or business shall be carried on (Revenue Act, 1867, 30 & 31 Vict. c. 90, s. 1). Duties and licences under the Act to be Excise duties and licences and provisions of Excise Acts to apply to same (s. 2). Every plate licence runs from the date of grant to the 5th of July following (s. 6). Dealing in gold or silver plate without licence required by Act—Penalty, £50. It is sufficient to allege that the defendant did deal in plate without a licence (s. 3). See further GOLD AND SILVER PLATE.

A person who sold on a particular occasion a piece of silver plate was held not to be a dealer in plate under the 31 Geo. 2, c. 32, s. 6, which enacted that persons using the trade of selling plate should be deemed traders in, or vendors of, plate (R. v. Buckle, (1803) 4 East 346).

Splitting loans. Sums lent are not to be split up so as to entitle a pawnbroker to payment for more than one duplicate. Pawnbroker demanding or receiving payment for more than one duplicate for any sum authorized to be lent by the Act—Penalty, on conviction before one justice, £1 (Irish) (28 Geo. 3, c. 49 (Ir.), s. 8). Where a pawnbroker received a parcel of goods on one day, and on that day, and on several subsequent days, lent various sums on the goods, each sum not exceeding £10, Lord Tenterden held it was a question for the jury to decide whether this was a mere contrivance for receiving a higher rate of interest than allowed by the Pawnbrokers Act, or whether the advances were distinct (Cowie v. Harris, (1827) M. and M., 141.) And see Tregoning v. Attenborough, (1830) 9 L.J. (O. S.) C.P. 28.

Device to obtain exorbitant profit. Making up loan by giving goods in part, or buying, agreeing for, or receiving a pledge at a certain rate and returning it at a higher rate, so as to gain exorbitant profit—Penalty, £5, goods to be returned on payment of principal only (28 Geo. 3, c. 49 (Ir.), s. 1).<sup>1</sup>

Name over door. Every pawnbroker in Ireland must have painted over his door, in legible characters, the name or names of the proprietor, and the word "pawnbroker" or "pawnbrokers"—Penalty, £5 Irish (26 Geo. 3, c. 43, (Ir.) s. 16). When partners carry on business, the names of both should be stated as above (Gordon v. Howden, (1845) 12 Cl. & Fin. 237; Armstrong v. Armstrong, (1834) 3 My. & K. 45). It is suggested by Tindal, C.J., in his judgment in Ferguson v. Norman, (1838) 5 Bing. (N.C.) 76, at p. 84, that the fact that the pawnbroker's name was not above the door, as required, at the time the loan was made, would not invalidate the loan, the regulations as to names being a matter collateral to the contract.

Selling excisable liquors. No licence to sell malt liquors, strong waters, or spirits shall be granted to any pawnbroker in Ireland. Pawnbroker retailing such liquor—Penalty, £10 Irish, to be enforced notwithstanding any licence obtained (26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), s. 21).

For provisions as to Belfast, see p. 663, post.

Books to be kept. Pawnbrokers in Ireland to keep books, in which entries are to be made of (a) goods pledged, (b) loan, (c) day of month and year when pledged, (d) name and abode of pawnbroker, (e) name and abode of owner as disclosed by pawnor; duplicates of entries (tickets) to be given to the pawnor, to be delivered on redemption to the pawnee; fees, 1d. where loan does not exceed 10s., 2d. if between 10s. and 40s., 4d. if above 40s.

Duplicates to be given.

<sup>1</sup> The above provisions of 28 Geo. 3, c. 49 (Ir.), s. 1, appear to apply generally (Seddall v. Wilson, (1891) 25 I.L.T.R. 62); but other portions of the Act would appear to apply to Dublin pawnbrokers only (see note, p. 653).

the currency in each case being Irish; duplicates must bear name and abode of pawnee, with the number and sign (if any) of his abode—Penalty for non-compliance, £2 (Irish) on conviction before one justice (26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), s. 5). Duplicates to be given.

Under similar provisions of the repealed English Act, 39 & 40 Geo. 3, c. 99, s. 6 (1), it was held that, where the pawnee makes entry on the information of the pawnor, he is not liable for a false entry, so long as the entry was made without knowledge that it was false (Attenborough v. London, (1853) 8 Ex. 661; cf. Toppin v. Marcus, (1908) 2 I.R. 423, noted p. 510). The entry of address should be reasonably specific, and the entry of such an address as "Pimlico" is bad (Attenborough v. London, supra). In Ferguson v. Norman, (1838) 5 Bing (N.C.) 76, it was held that a failure to comply with the similar requirements of the English Act of 1800 deprived the pawnee of his lien on the goods pledged.

Any person producing the duplicate as the owner therein named, or his agent, to be deemed the owner or agent. On production of duplicate and payment of principal and interest due, the pawnbroker must deliver<sup>1</sup> the pledge to such person. The pawnbroker is indemnified in respect of such delivery, unless (1) he has notice from the owner not to deliver the goods to persons producing the duplicate, (2) has notice that the goods are suspected to have been fraudulently or feloniously taken, or (3) unless the real owner proceeds as provided by the Act in the case of lost duplicates (26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), s. 6). Where a duplicate is lost before redemption, the owner or pawnor of the pledge must prove the property in the pledge before a justice of the peace for the county, city, borough, or town corporate, and make an affidavit or statutory declaration before a justice as to the circumstances of the case. On such proof of title the pawnbroker must deliver the pledge on being repaid principal and interest, and is indemnified for so doing (26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), s. 7). Re-delivery of pledge.

Under similar provisions as to lost duplicates in s. 16 of the repealed English Act, 39 & 40 Geo. 3, c. 99, it was held that where a pawnor had proved his title as required by the statute, and, returning to the pawnee's shop, showed him the proofs, the pawnor was not bound to redeem there and then, but had such time for redemption as he would have had from the date when the pawn was made if the ticket had not been lost (Burslem v. Attenborough, (1873) L.R. 8 C.P. 122).

The English Pawnbrokers Act, 1872, provides penalties for non-delivery on tender of principal and interest. The only jurisdiction given by the Irish Acts to justices in the case of non-delivery is the provision as regards disputes between pawnbrokers and pawnors (see p. 661, post), and where delivery is part of a penalty. Otherwise, the remedy of the pawnor is by action or process. The jurisdiction as to disputes would appear to be restricted to loans not exceeding £10 (see ante, p. 653).

These sections as to books, duplicates, &c., apply generally; the offence in Dublin being dealt with by a divisional justice. Stealing a pawnbroker's ticket is larceny (R. v. Morrison, (1859) 8 Cox, 194).

The power of sale of unredeemed pledges by any pawnbroker in Ireland arises under the 26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), where (1) loan does not exceed 20s. (Irish) and interest is in arrear for six months; or, (2) loan exceeds 20s. (Irish), but not 40s. (Irish), and nine months' interest is in arrear (26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), ss. 22 and 24); or, (3) in all cases where the pledge remains unredeemed for more than one year from the date of pledge (s. 23.) No pledge to be sold within a year except in cases 1 and 2 above, or except where the pawnbroker dies, fails in credit, or gives up business (s. 24.) For penalty, see s. 30, post, p. 658.<sup>2</sup> Sale of pledge.
(1) Outside D.M.P. district, with occasional application to D.M.P. district.

<sup>1</sup> Subject to the pawnbroker's right of sale, if previously exercised; see infra.

<sup>2</sup> The procedure as to sales of unredeemed pledges has been considerably altered as regards Dublin pawnbrokers by 28 Geo. 3, c. 49 (Ir.), noted post, p. 659. In all cases the Sale of pledge.

(1 Outside D.M.P. district, with occasional application to D.M.P. district.

Before sale, an appraisalment of the pledges must be made by an auctioneer. Each appraiser to keep books, and enter therein a schedule of goods to be sold, with a fair valuation thereof on the basis of auction value, less expenses. Such entry to be compared with the entry in the pawnbroker's book (which must be produced to the appraiser), and any difference in quantity, quality, or condition noted with special remark '26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), s. 25.)<sup>1</sup> Two copies of appraisalment to be given to pawnbroker, who is required to keep one and serve the other on the owner or pawnor of the goods appraised at the address declared in the pawnbroker's entry, if to be found. If owner cannot be found, a bill of appraisalment, containing the prescribed particulars, to be posted on the market-house or court-house nearest the pawnbroker's place of business. If goods are not redeemed within fourteen days of delivery or posting of notice, they may be sold by public auction by appraiser or his duly appointed deputy (s. 27).

The above provisions do not apply to Dublin.

Each appraiser to keep a sales book, and enter therein prescribed particulars (s. 27).

Every pawnbroker in Ireland to keep entry of sales copied from the appraiser's sales entry, with a note of the appraiser's name and address, the date of sale, and the price received; and the pawnor or his personal representatives or assigns are entitled to inspection on payment of a fee of 1d. (s. 28).

If, at the sale, the price yields an overplus, after deducting principal and interest due and expenses, and such person as above mentioned makes demand within three years of sale, the overplus must be paid over to such person (s. 28).<sup>2</sup>

Appraisers or auctioneers refusing inspection to persons entitled to same, or in case of overplus, not making the required entries, or not bona fide selling pledge, or refusing to deliver overplus to person entitled—Penalty, treble the amount of loan recoverable before two justices (s. 28).<sup>3</sup>

Appraiser must enter into a bond of £300, conditioned for due discharge of duties, with three sufficient sureties, payable to treasurer or town clerk of county, city, borough, or town corporate, of appraiser's residence (s. 31),<sup>4</sup> and must make a statutory declaration (which by 5 and 6 Wm. 4, s. 62, c. 12, was substituted for an oath) to perform duties (s. 33). Acting as appraiser without qualification—Penalty, on conviction before one justice, £10 (Irish) for each offence (s. 35).

Selling or disposing of pawn, except as herein—Penalty, £5 and value of goods (s. 30).

Knowingly or wilfully failing to renew sureties within three months of death or failure of any surety—Penalty, £5 (Irish); disqualification till surety renewed (s. 32).

Appraiser lending money upon pledges, and taking more than 5 per cent.—Penalty, £10 to £20 (Irish) (s. 30).<sup>5</sup>

The appraiser may appoint a deputy, for whose acts he is responsible (s. 31). Grand juries may appoint appraisers (s. 36),<sup>6</sup> such appraisers to give the securities, &c., aforesaid (s. 37).

sums of money mentioned in the Acts of 23 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.); 28 Geo. 3, c. 49 (Ir.); 48 Geo. 3, c. 140; 5 Geo. 4, c. 102, are in Irish currency.

<sup>1</sup> Under 28 Geo. 3, c. 49 (Ir.), s. 14, no appraisalment is now necessary in the Dublin area.

<sup>2</sup> A special provision as to entries of sales in the case of "divisional auctioneers" is provided by 28 Geo. 3, c. 49 (Ir.), s. 18, see post.

<sup>3</sup> Applies throughout Ireland; divisional auctioneer being substituted for appraiser in the Dublin area.

<sup>4</sup> These sections do not apply to Dublin.

<sup>5</sup> Sections 30, 32, 35, would seem to apply, with any necessary modifications, to offences of like nature as regards divisional auctioneers in Dublin.

<sup>6</sup> Sections 31 and 36 do not apply to Dublin.

Four auctioneers are appointed to the four divisions of the district of the Dublin metropolis (28 Geo. 3, c. 49 (Ir.), s. 9).<sup>1</sup> Each auctioneer to enter into a bond for £1,000 conditioned for due discharge of duties, &c., with three sureties approved by a divisional justice in £300 each (s. 11),<sup>2</sup> and to make a statutory declaration (5 & 6 Wm. 4, c. 62, s. 12) to duly discharge duties (s. 12); and may appoint a deputy, who is required to make a statutory declaration (s. 16; 5 & 6 Wm. 4, c. 62, s. 12).

Sale of pledge.
(2) Provisions relating solely to D.M.P. district.

Each auctioneer to have a public auction-room in his division; a pawnbroker may select any of the four auctioneers above mentioned to sell his pledges; and no auctioneer shall, under a penalty of £10, sell or cause to be sold elsewhere than in his division pledges committed to him (s. 10). No notice of sale required where loan does not exceed 4s.; but where loan exceeds 4s., and pledge becomes saleable (see 26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), ss. 22 and 23), pawnbroker to obtain notice or summons from the registrar, setting out (a) loan, (b) schedule of pledges for loan, (c) requisition to borrower to redeem within fourteen days of service, (d) auction-room in which sale will take place; and if pledge not redeemed within fourteen days, the registrar, within six days from requisition so to do by pawnbroker, shall serve the summons on the borrower, or at his address as declared in the pawnbroker's entry if within the Dublin district, service to be by registrar's agents, for whose acts he is responsible, and services to be entered by registrar at a fee, for loans under 20s., of 3d., and for loans exceeding 20s., of 4d., all Irish currency, payable by pawnbroker to registrar, who is responsible to pawnbroker and any other person affected for loss caused by non-service (s. 14); sales to be publicly advertised at least three days before sale (s. 15).

Any pawnbroker selling or causing to be sold any pledge, (1) without obtaining such notice or summons, (2) at any place other than divisional auction-room named in such notice, (3) by any person other than the divisional auctioneer of such room or his duly appointed deputy—Penalty, on conviction before one justice, £5 (Irish) (s. 17). For other offences see 26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), ss. 27, 28, supra. Every auctioneer to keep account of sales of pledges for each month, and make returns, with statutory declaration (5 & 6 Wm. 4, c. 62, s. 12), in the month succeeding each sale, to the registrar, if required—Penalty for failing to keep or return such accounts, 40s. (Irish) (s. 18).

The provisions of s. 28 of the 26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), as to sale and return of overplus, are similar to the provisions of s. 20 of the repealed English Act, 39 & 40 Geo. 3, c. 99. Where a pawnor pledged several articles with a pawnbroker at different times, which, when sold, realized more than the principal and interest due and costs of sale, but other articles, pawned by and with the same parties respectively, did not upon sale realize sufficient to pay principal, interest, and expenses, it was held, under the English Act of 39 & 40 Geo. 3, c. 99, that the pawnbroker had no right to set-off the loss on the latter articles against the overplus on the former (Dobree v. Norcliffe, (1870) 23 L.T. 552). Where a pawnbroker, on the sale of a pledge, receives a sum insufficient to repay the principal, interest, and expenses, his right to recover the balance at common law is not affected by the Pawnbrokers Acts (Jones v. Marshall, (1889) 24 Q.B.D. 269). At common law, apart from the above statutory provisions, the pawnbroker can be sued for the recovery of any overplus arising from a sale of the

<sup>1</sup> The divisions are—Stephen's Green, Castle, Rotunda, and Barrack division. The city sword-bearer is the auctioneer for Rotunda division, and the city marshal for Stephen's Green division (s. 10).

<sup>2</sup> For offence of acting without giving securities and failing to renew sureties, see ss. 32 and 35, 26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), supra. The moneys secured by the bond are payable and recoverable as provided by 26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), s. 14.

Sale of pledge.

pledge (see Langton v. Waite, (1868) L.R. 6 Eq. 165). After the term prescribed by the statute for redemption has elapsed, if the goods remain still in the possession of the pawnbroker, the pawnor is entitled to have them back on payment of principal and interest (Walter v. Smith, (1822) 1 D. & R. 1).

A pawnbroker who sells a forfeited pledge gives no warranty to the purchaser save that the article is a pledge, and is irredeemable, and that he is not cognisant of any defect of title to it (Morley v. Attenborough, (1848) 3 Ex. 500).

The Irish Acts do not give power to the pawnbroker to bid at the auction of his pledges, and if he buys in at the sale, he will not get good title against the true owner (see Burrows v. Barnes, (1900) 82 L.T. 721).

Damage to pledge.

If, in the course of any proceedings before a justice of the peace<sup>1</sup> under ss. 1-8 of the 26 Geo. 3, c. 43<sup>2</sup> it is proved that damage<sup>3</sup> has occurred to a pledge through the default of the pawnbroker or his servants, compensation may be awarded to the owner of the pledge (26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), s. 9). The compensation awarded is to be deducted from the principal and interest due upon the pawn, and it is sufficient for the pawnor or pawnors or their representatives to tender the balance due after deducting the compensation awarded, after which tender the justices shall proceed as if the whole principal and interest due had been paid or tendered (ib.).

As to procedure as regards delivery of pledges illegally detained, see p. 657.

Pawning
prohibited.

Pawning is prohibited in the following cases:—

Linen.

(1.) Linen or apparel entrusted to a person to wash, scour, iron, mend, or make up—Penalty, double sum lent, and return of goods (26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), s. 10).

Seamen's
property.

(2.) Any person in a dockyard town to which the Act applies<sup>4</sup> taking or receiving in pawn, &c., from a naval seaman—Penalty, 1st offence not exceeding £20; 2nd offence, £20 or imprisonment with or without hard labour not exceeding six months (Seamen's Clothing Act, 1869, 32 & 33 Vict. c. 57, s. 4). As to defences of ignorance, see s. 46; see also under NAVY.

Public stores.

Pawnbroker in possession of public stores which he cannot prove to have been lawfully obtained—Penalty, on conviction before two justices not exceeding £5 (Public Stores Act, 1875, 38 & 39 Vict. c. 25, s. 9; see also s. 7). See also under PUBLIC STORES.

Military
property.

Receiving, &c., in pawn, military property from soldier—Penalty, first offence not exceeding £20, with treble value of property; second offence, £5 to £20, with treble value property, or imprisonment with or without hard labour, not exceeding 6 months (Army Act, 1881, 44 & 45 Vict. c. 58, s. 156 (1); see also s. 156 (2), (3), (4), (5), and (6); as to defence of ignorance, &c., see s. 156 (1)).

Where a soldier in uniform pledged a musical instrument with a pawnbroker's assistant, the latter knowing that the soldier was a member of the regimental band, it was held that the pawnbroker was guilty of an offence under s. 156 of the Army Act, 1881 (Jones v. Cashin, (1893) 27 I.L.T. 87, Co. Ct.). In such a case the principal is liable to all penalties

<sup>1</sup> Or, it is submitted, in Dublin, a divisional justice—the Act applies throughout Ireland.

<sup>2</sup> Such proceedings are conversant with disputes between pawnbrokers and pawnors (s. 4), with offences in relation to duplicates (s. 5), return of pledges (ss. 6, 7), pawning goods without authority (s. 8). It should be noted that the jurisdiction conferred by the section on award compensation for damage is confined to cases where proceedings under said ss. 1-8 are brought. In other words, there is no summary remedy to recover simpliciter compensation for damage to a pledge.

<sup>3</sup> Under this section jurisdiction does not apply in case of a total loss of the pledge.

<sup>4</sup> In Ireland, Cork and Queenstown.

incurred by the acts of his assistant (per Anderson, C.C.J., ib., p. 88). Pawning Prohibited.
See also under ARMY.

Pawnbroker taking articles in pawn from any person apparently under the age of fourteen years—Penalty, not exceeding £10 with right to appeal as provided by Summary Jurisdiction Acts (Children Act, 1908, 8 Ed. 7, c. 67, s. 133 (12)). It is a good defence to prove that the person pawning was actually of or over the age of fourteen, s. 123 (4). See statute, APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

Pledging or pawning by or receiving in pledge or pawn from an habitual drunkard of any article specified in a protection order made under the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1908—Penalty, not exceeding 40s., or imprisonment, with or without hard labour, not exceeding one month (Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1908, 8 Ed. 7, c. 24, s. 4). See HABITUAL DRUNKARDS, p. 521.

No pawnbroker shall receive or take in any pledge or pawn upon Sundays, nor before 10 o'clock in the morning of any other day of the week, or after 4 o'clock in the afternoon of any of the said days between the 29th September and 25th March, nor before 10 o'clock in the morning aforesaid or after 7 o'clock in the afternoon of any of the said days between the 25th March and 29th September—Penalty, 40s. (Irish) (28 Geo. 3, c. 49 (Ir.), s. 20). This section applies not merely to pawnbrokers within the D.M.P. district, but to all pawnbrokers throughout Ireland (Seddall v. Wilson, (1891) 25 I.L.T.R. 62).

Knowingly pawning, &c., the goods of another without authority—Penalty, 20s. (Irish) to be applied towards satisfaction of person injured, &c. (26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), s. 8). A person convicted of larceny of a chattel may be subsequently prosecuted for the illegal pawning of the stolen chattel (Pickford v. Corsi, (1901) 2 K.B. 212). Unlawful pawning.

Outside Dublin, disputes between pawnbrokers and pawnors as to re-delivery of pledges or the money to be paid to the pawnbroker, if loan does not exceed 40s., may be determined by one justice; where exceeding 40s., by two justices of county, borough, or town corporate, whose determination is to be final. No such dispute to be determined except as above provided (26 Geo. 3, c. 49, s. 4). Disputes. Outside D.M.P. district.

The above provisions as to disputes appear to be the only summary procedure provided by the Irish Acts with reference to refusal to deliver pledges, except where delivery forms part of the penalty provided for any offence under the Acts. A refusal to deliver without reasonable cause on tender of principal and interest due, is an offence under the English Act.

The effect of 28 Geo. 3, c. 49 (Ir.), s. 4, the 35 Geo. 3, c. 36 (Ir.), and the Dublin Police Magistrates Act, 1808 (48 Geo. 3, c. 140, s. 70), is that all disputes between pawnbrokers and pawnors within the police district of Dublin metropolis (see the Dublin Justices Act, 1824 (5 Geo. 4, c. 102, s. 22), are to be determined summarily by a divisional justice, from whose decision an appeal lies to the Recorder if the amount advanced exceeded 40s. Irish, but not if the amount advanced is 40s. Irish or less. D.M.P. District.

Whenever any dispute between a pawnbroker and a borrower touching or concerning any pledge has been determined by the divisional justices, and any sum awarded by them, in case of non-payment thereof, the same may be enforced by distress under warrant of the justices, and, in default of distress, imprisonment not exceeding one calendar month may be ordered (5 Geo. 4, c. 102, s. 22).<sup>1</sup>

Under the Dublin Police Act, 1842, s. 68, a divisional justice may order any goods, not exceeding £15 in value, that are illegally detained to be returned to the owner, and, upon non-delivery, may order the person

<sup>1</sup> No similar power is given to justices outside the Dublin area.

Disputes.
D.M.P.
district.

illegally detaining such goods to pay to the owner such amount, not exceeding £15, as such justice decides to be the value thereof; but no corresponding enactment is in force outside the Dublin police district.

A company lent a sewing machine to one Holmes, on the hire-purchase system, under a contract which was aimed chiefly at preserving the property in the company, notwithstanding change of possession, until the last instalment was paid. Before the last instalment was paid, Holmes pawned the sewing machine with one Ivors. Holmes was summoned for the instalments and settled the case with the plaintiffs. On application by the plaintiffs to Ivors for delivery of the machine, Ivors refused, except on the terms of being paid the principal lent and interest due. Held, that as the value of the machine was under £15, an order for delivery should be made under 5 Vict. c. 24, s. 68 (Wilson v. Ivors, (1875) 9 I.L.T. 83, D.M.P. Court).

Suspected
goods.
Generally.

A person offering in pawn, pledge, exchange, or sale goods, and unable to give a satisfactory account of himself or of the means by which the said goods have been acquired, or if there be reason to suspect the goods to have been stolen or illegally obtained, may be seized by the person to whom the goods are offered and immediately conveyed, with the goods, before a justice or justices for the county, borough, or town corporate where the offence is committed. If justices, upon examination, have cause to suspect that the goods have been stolen or illegally obtained, they may commit the intending pawnor to gaol for a period not exceeding three days to be further examined, and if, upon the first or further examination, the justices are satisfied that the goods have been stolen or illegally obtained, the intending pawnor to be committed to gaol to be dealt with by law (26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), s. 11). If it afterwards appear that the goods have been legally obtained, or that the person offering them was duly authorized, then the person seizing the person who offered the goods is indemnified (s. 12).

P. offered in pawn to defendant a horse-shoe pin, set with seven diamonds, and a ring. The defendant had received from the police notice of articles stolen, including a gold horse-shoe pin set with seven diamonds, and asked plaintiff if he was a dealer, and was answered in the negative. Defendant also asked plaintiff where he obtained the articles. The plaintiff stated he received them from a publican, whose name he refused to disclose. Defendant gave plaintiff in custody. It was afterwards proved that the articles had not been stolen, and that the plaintiff's statements to the defendant were true. In an action against the defendant the jury found for the plaintiff. Held that the question whether the defendant reasonably suspected that the pin had been stolen or otherwise illegally or clandestinely obtained was for the judge; and that on the facts, there was no evidence of absence of reasonable suspicion in the mind of the defendant, and therefore that judgment should be entered for him (Howard v. Clarke, (1888) 20 Q.B.D. 558.) The moment of reasonable suspicion is the moment the article is offered in pawn, per A. L. Smith, J. (ib.).

Any person to whom any property is offered to be sold or pawned, if he have reasonable cause to suspect that an offence punishable summarily or by indictment has been committed with respect to such property, or that the same or any part thereof has been stolen, may and, if he has the power, shall apprehend and detain the person so offering, and, as soon as may be, deliver such offender unto the custody of a constable, together with the property, to be dealt with by law (Dublin Police Act, 1842, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 24, s. 29).

Stolen goods.
Generally.

If the owner of goods unlawfully pawned, pledged, or exchanged, make complaint upon oath before any justice that goods have been unlawfully taken away or obtained, and that there is just cause to suspect a person or persons within the jurisdiction of such justice, and if the justice is satisfied that there is reasonable ground for such suspicion, he may issue a warrant to search in the day-time the house, warehouse, or other place of the person charged as suspected. Upon request of authorized officer executing such warrant, such suspected person shall open the place aforesaid and permit inspection. Upon refusal, the officer may break open such place and search, doing no wilful damage. Opposing or hindering such search—Penalty, £5 (Ir.) (26 Geo. 3, c. 43 (Ir.), s. 13).

Stolen goods.
Generally.

As often as any pawnbroker who shall have in his possession goods, and after receiving printed or written notice with description that such goods, &c., have been stolen, shall wilfully omit or refuse to make discovery thereof to a divisional justice, or on being required by notice in writing, signed by a divisional justice, neglect or omit to attend for examination, or refuse to be examined concerning the same—Penalty, £50 (Irish) and forfeiture of value of goods and chattels. Refusal upon requisition of constable to produce the same—Penalty, £50 (Irish) and forfeiture of value of goods and chattels (Dublin Police Magistrates Act, 1808, 48 Geo. 3, c. 140, s. 51).

D.M.P.
district.

In Dublin a divisional justice may issue summons or warrant for the appearance of broker or dealer in whose possession are goods stolen or unlawfully obtained, and for the production of the goods, and may order such goods to be delivered to the owner either without payment or upon payment of such sum as the justice shall think fit; no such order to bar any broker or dealer from recovering possession of such goods by an action at law from the person into whose possession they may come by virtue of the justice's order, such action to be commenced within six months after such order shall be made (Dublin Police Act, 1842, 5 and 6 Vict. c. 24, s. 56).

The following special provision applies to Belfast:—

Belfast.

If goods stolen or fraudulently obtained be unlawfully deposited, pawned, pledged, sold, or exchanged, and complaint thereof be made to a justice, and that such goods are in the possession of any broker or other person who shall have advanced money upon the credit of such goods, the justice may issue a summons or warrant for appearance of broker and delivery of goods to the owner, on such terms as the justice may direct. Pawnbroker refusing or neglecting to deliver, or disposing, or making away with goods after notice that the same have been stolen or unlawfully obtained—Penalty, forfeiture of full value of goods as determined by the justice. Justice's order shall not bar the pawnbroker from taking action to recover goods from any person into whose possession they may come by the order (Belfast Improvement Act, 1845, 8 & 9 Vict. c. cxlii., s. 249). Brokers or dealers in second-hand goods not to carry on business of a publican or retailer of excisable liquors, nor to purchase from, or make any contract with holder of a pawnbroker's ticket, without first getting a transfer of ticket and getting the transfer endorsed on the ticket—Penalty, for offence against this section by broker, dealer, or servant or person in charge of the premises not exceeding £10 (s. 250). Brokers may detain persons offering goods for pawn which are suspected to be stolen or illegally obtained; a constable may take such person before a magistrate to be examined; upon such examination the justice may discharge person, or, if he has grounds for believing articles stolen, &c., remand person for three days for further examination to prison or on bail, and if on further examination the justice be satisfied that goods were stolen, &c., he shall remand prisoner to prison to be dealt with by law (s. 251). Unclaimed stolen goods to be delivered to city treasurer, and, if of a perishable nature, may be sold by him; proceeds of sale shall be accounted for by the treasurer to the owner (s. 252).

Stolen goods.

Dealers in second-hand goods.

*Suspected
goods.*

Stolen goods.

Appeals.
D.M.P.
district.

Upon the authority of R. v. Wall, (1824) Sm. and B. 121, it is submitted that within the D.M.P. district an appeal lies under the Dublin Police Act, 1837 (7 Wm. 4 and 1 Vict. c. 25, s. 27), from any order imposing a penalty exceeding £5, or imprisonment exceeding one month.

Outside
D.M.P.
district.

Outside the D.M.P. district appeals in respect of conviction of offences as to pawning are governed by the Petty Sessions (Ir.) Act, 1851, s. 20.

PEDLARS.

See the Pedlars Act, 1871, 34 & 35 Vict. c. 96 (as amended by the Pedlars Act, 1881, 44 & 45 Vict. c. 45), APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

PETROLEUM.

	PAGE		PAGE
Petroleum Acts, . . . . .	664	Hawking petroleum—
Definition of petroleum, . . . . .	664	Licence required, . . . . .	666
Bye-laws as to ships carrying petroleum, . . . . .	664	Regulations, . . . . .	666
Notice by owner or master of ship carrying petroleum, . . . . .	665	Offences by hawkers, . . . . .	667
Label on vessel containing petroleum, . . . . .	665	Offences by servants of hawkers, . . . . .	667
Regulations as to storage, . . . . .	665	Petroleum in carriages, . . . . .	667
Definition of local authority, . . . . .	665	Application of Petroleum Act, 1871, to hawkers, . . . . .	667
Licences generally, . . . . .	665	Constable's power of seizure, . . . . .	667
Licences by Lord Lieutenant, . . . . .	666	In municipal boroughs, . . . . .	668
Testing of petroleum, . . . . .	666	Definition of carriage, . . . . .	668
Obstruction, &c., of officer of local authority, . . . . .	666	Definition of hawking, . . . . .	668
Search warrants, . . . . .	666	Carbide of calcium, . . . . .	668
Search warrants, obstructing execution of, . . . . .	666	Petroleum mixtures, . . . . .	669
		Procedure, . . . . .	669

Petroleum
Acts, 1871 to 1881.

The enactments now in force as to the safe keeping and sale of petroleum are the Petroleum Act, 1871, 34 & 35 Vict. c. 105, the Petroleum Act, 1879, 42 & 43 Vict. c. 47, and the Petroleum (Hawkers) Act, 1881, 44 & 45 Vict. c. 67, all of which Acts are to be construed as one, and are termed the Petroleum Acts, 1871 to 1881 (Act of 1879, s. 1, and Act of 1881, s. 7).

Definition of
petroleum.

“For the purposes of this Act the term ‘petroleum’ includes any rock oil, Rangoon oil, Burmah oil, oil made from petroleum, coal, schist, shale, peat, or other bituminous substance, and any products of petroleum, or any of the above-named oils” (Petroleum Act, 1871, s. 3); and “In the Petroleum Act, 1871, the term ‘petroleum’ to which this Act applies shall mean such of the petroleum defined by s. 3 of that Act as, when tested in manner set forth in Schedule 1 to this Act, gives off an inflammable vapour at a temperature of less than 73° of Fahrenheit’s thermometer”<sup>1</sup> (Petroleum Act, 1879, s. 2).

Bye-laws as to ships carrying petroleum.

Any master or owner of a ship carrying “petroleum to which this Act applies,” or the owner of such petroleum who contravenes any bye-law made pursuant to s. 4 of the Act of 1871 by anything done as to the mooring of such ship, or as to the landing of such petroleum in harbours subject to such bye-law—Penalty, not exceeding £50 for each day during which such contravention continues, and such ship or such petroleum may be moved by the harbour-master of such harbour to such place as is in conformity with such bye-law, the expense of such removal to be recovered in like manner as penalties under the Act from the owner of the ship (Petroleum Act, 1871, 34 & 35 Vict. c. 105, s. 4).

<sup>1</sup> It was held by the English Q. B. D. that the keeping of a compound containing 33 per cent. of petroleum was a keeping of petroleum, inasmuch as petroleum did not cease to be petroleum because it was mixed with other substances (London County Council v. Holzapfels Composition Co., Ltd., (1899) 19 Cox 383).

The owner or master of every ship carrying as cargo any "petroleum to which this Act applies" is liable to a penalty not exceeding £500 if there be not given to the harbour-master of any harbour in the United Kingdom which such ship enters notice of the nature of such cargo, unless it be shown to the court that he did not know, and could not with reasonable diligence have known, the nature thereof (s. 5).

Notice by owner or master of ship.

"Where any petroleum to which this Act applies (a) is kept at any place except during the seven days next after it has been imported, or (b) is sent or conveyed by land or water between any two places in the United Kingdom, or (c) is sold or exposed for sale, the vessel containing such petroleum shall have attached thereto a label in conspicuous characters stating the description of the petroleum, with the addition of the words 'highly inflammable,' and with the addition, (a) 'in the case of a vessel kept, of the name and address of the consignee or owner; (b) in the case of a vessel sent or conveyed, of the name and address of the sender; (c) in the case of a vessel sold or exposed for sale, of the name and address of the vendor'—Penalty on any person keeping, sending, selling, or exposing for sale in contravention of this section, fine not exceeding £5, and forfeiture of such petroleum and vessel containing the same (s. 6).

Label on vessel containing petroleum.

Except where petroleum is kept, either for private use<sup>1</sup> or for sale in separate glass, earthenware, or metal vessels, each of which does not contain more than a pint, and is securely stopped, and the aggregate amount kept does not exceed three gallons, no "petroleum to which this Act applies" is to "be kept, except in pursuance of a licence given by such local authority as is in this Act mentioned"; and any petroleum "kept in contravention of this section" and the vessel containing the same is to be forfeited; and the occupier of any place in which petroleum is kept in contravention of this section—Penalty not exceeding £20 for each day during which it is so kept (s. 7).

Regulations as to storage of petroleum.

The local authorities to grant licences under this Act are:—"In any borough, . . . except as hereafter in this section mentioned, the mayor, aldermen, and burgesses acting by the Council. . . In any place except as hereafter in this section mentioned, within the jurisdiction of any trustees or improvement commissioners appointed under the provisions of any local or general Act of Parliament, and not being a borough or comprising any part of a borough, the trustees or commissioners. . . . In any harbour within the jurisdiction of a harbour authority, whether situate or not within the jurisdiction of any local authority before in this section mentioned, the harbour authority, to the exclusion of any other local authority. . . . In any place in which there is no local authority as before in this section defined, . . . the justices in petty sessions assembled . . . (s. 8); and such licences "shall be valid if signed by two or more of the persons constituting the local authority or executed in any other way in which other licences, if any, granted by such authority are executed," and "may be granted for a limited time, and may be subject to renewal or not in such manner as the local authority think necessary," and "there may be annexed to any such licence such conditions as to the mode of storage, the nature and situation of the premises in which, and the nature of the goods with which "petroleum to which this Act applies" is to be stored, the facilities for the testing of such petroleum from time to time, the mode of carrying such petroleum within the district of the licensing authority, and generally as to the safe keeping of such petroleum, as may seem expedient to the local authority. Any licensee violating any of the Definition of local authority.

Licences.

<sup>1</sup> As to petroleum for use in motor cars, see p. 645.

Licences by Lord Lieutenant.
Testing of petroleum.

conditions of his licence shall be deemed to be an unlicensed person . . .” (s. 9). Licences may also be issued by the Lord Lieutenant in certain cases (s. 10). Provision is made for the testing of petroleum; and if any dealer in petroleum be convicted of keeping, sending, conveying, selling, or exposing for sale petroleum in contravention of the Act, the expense of testing any petroleum purchased from him shall be paid by him as part of the costs of the proceedings against him (s. 11).

Refusing information and obstructing officer.

“Any dealer who refuses to show to any officer authorized by the local authority every or any place, or all or any of the vessels in which petroleum in his possession is kept, or to give him such assistance as he may require for examining the same, or to give to such officer samples of such petroleum on payment of the value of such samples, or who wilfully obstructs the local authority, or any officer of the local authority, in the execution of this Act, shall incur a penalty not exceeding £20” (s. 12).

Search warrants for petroleum.

“Where any court of summary jurisdiction is satisfied by information on oath that there is reasonable ground to believe that any petroleum to which this Act applies is being kept, sent, conveyed, or exposed for sale within the jurisdiction of such court in contravention of this Act,” the court is to grant a warrant to search for petroleum, and to take samples of the same if found, and to seize and remove “any petroleum to which this Act applies” which is so kept, sent, conveyed, or exposed for sale, and the vessel containing the same, and may use for the purposes of such removal, any ship or vehicles (with the tackle, beasts, and accoutrements belonging thereto) in which the same is found; and the person executing such warrant may detain such petroleum and vessel until a court of summary jurisdiction has decided whether the same are or are not forfeited, and must commence the proceedings for such forfeiture forthwith after the seizure; and such court may direct the person so using such ship or vehicle to pay to the owner thereof for the use thereof such sum as the court deems fit, such sum to be recovered in like manner as penalties under the Act (s. 13).

Obstructing execution of search
warrant.

“Any person who, by himself, or by anyone in his employ, or acting by his direction or with his consent, refuses or fails to admit into any place occupied by or under the control of such person, any person demanding to enter in pursuance of this section, or in any way obstructs or prevents any person in or from making any such search, examination, or seizure, or taking any such samples as authorized by this section”—Penalty, not exceeding £20, and forfeiture of all “petroleum to which this Act applies” found in his possession or under his control (s. 13).

Hawking
petroleum.
Licence.

“Any person who is licensed in pursuance of the Petroleum Act, 1871, to keep petroleum to which that Act applies, may, subject to the enactments for the time being in force with respect to hawkers and pedlars,<sup>1</sup> hawk such petroleum by himself or his servants” (Petroleum (Hawkers) Act, 1881, 44 & 45 Vict. c. 67, s. 1).

Regulations
as to hawking.

“With respect to the hawking of petroleum to which the Petroleum Act, 1871, applies, the following regulations shall be observed:—(1) The amount of petroleum conveyed at one time in any one carriage shall not exceed 20 gallons. (2) The petroleum shall be conveyed in a close vessel so constructed as to be free from leakage. (3) The carriage in which the vessels containing the petroleum are conveyed shall be so ventilated as to prevent any evaporation from the petroleum mixing with the air in or about the carriage, in such proportion as to produce or be liable to produce an explosive mixture. (4) Any fire, or light, or any article of an explosive or highly inflammable nature, shall not be brought into, or dangerously near to, the carriage in which the vessels containing the petroleum are conveyed. (5) The carriage in which the vessels containing the petroleum are conveyed shall be so constructed or fitted that the petroleum cannot escape therefrom in the form of liquid, whether ignited or otherwise. (6) Proper care shall be taken to prevent any petroleum escaping into any part of a house or building, or of the curtilage thereof, or into a drain or sewer. (7) The petroleum shall be stored in some premises licensed for keeping of petroleum, and in accordance with the licence for such premises, both every night, and also when the petroleum is not in the course of being hawked. (8) All due precautions shall be taken for the prevention of accidents by fire or explosion, and for preventing unauthorized persons having access to the vessels containing the petroleum; and every person concerned in hawking the petroleum shall abstain from any act whatever which tends to cause fire or explosion, and is not reasonably necessary for the purpose of such hawking. (9) No article or substance of an explosive or inflammable character other than petroleum, nor any article liable to cause or communicate fire or explosion, shall be in the carriage while such carriage is being used for the purpose of hawking petroleum" (s. 2).

<sup>1</sup> This means that a person who hawks petroleum must have a hawker's licence as to which, see the Hawkers Act, 1888, in Appendix of Statutes, as well as a licence under the Petroleum Acts.

Hawking petroleum.

"In the event of any contravention of this section with reference to any petroleum, the petroleum, together with the vessels containing and the carriage conveying the same, shall be liable to be forfeited; and in addition thereto the licensee by whom or by whose servants the petroleum was being hawked shall be liable on summary conviction to a penalty not exceeding £20, provided that:—

Offences by hawkers.

"(1) Where some servant of the licensee or other person has in fact committed the offence, such servant or other person shall be liable to the same penalty as if he were the licensee. (2) Where the licensee is charged with a contravention of this section, he shall be entitled, upon information duly laid by him, to have any other person whom he charges as the actual offender brought before the court at the time appointed for hearing the charge; and if the licensee prove to the satisfaction of that court that he had used diligence to enforce the execution of this section, and that the said other person had committed the offence in question without his knowledge, consent, or connivance, the said other person shall be summarily convicted of such offence, and the licensee shall be exempt from any penalty" (s. 2).

Offences by servants.

"Any petroleum other than that to which the Petroleum Act, 1871, applies, while in any carriage used for the hawking of petroleum to which the Petroleum Act, 1871, applies, shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to be petroleum to which the Petroleum Act, 1871, applies" (s. 2).

Petroleum in carriages.

"Any conditions annexed to a licence granted in pursuance of the Petroleum Act, 1871, either before or after the passing of this Act, shall, so far as they are inconsistent with this Act, be void, but save as aforesaid, nothing in this Act shall affect the application to a licensee of the provisions of the Petroleum Act, 1871, or of any licence granted thereunder" (s. 3).

Application of Petroleum Act, 1871, to hawkers.

"Where a constable or any officer authorized by the local authority has reasonable cause to believe that a contravention of this Act is being committed in relation to any petroleum, he may seize and detain such petroleum and the vessels and carriage containing the same, until some court of summary jurisdiction has determined whether there was or not a contravention of this Act; and s. 13 of the Petroleum Act, 1871, shall apply to such constable and officer as if he were the person named in the warrant mentioned in that section, and as if the seizure were a seizure in pursuance of that section" (s. 4).

Constable's power of seizure.

Hawking
petroleum.
Municipal boroughs.

" Nothing in this Act contained shall extend to authorize the hawking of petroleum within the limits of any municipal borough in which, by any lawful authority, such hawking shall have been or may hereafter be forbidden " (s. 5).

" Carriage."

" For the purposes of this Act the expression 'carriage' includes any carriage, waggon, cart, truck, vehicle or other means of conveyance by land, in whatever manner the same may be drawn or propelled " (s. 6).

" Hawking."

" A person shall be deemed for the purposes of this Act to hawk petroleum if by himself or his servants he goes about carrying petroleum to sell, whether going from town to town to other men's houses, or selling it in the streets of the place of his residence or otherwise, and whether with or without any horse or other beast bearing or drawing burden " (s. 6).

Carbide of calcium.

By s. 14 of the Petroleum Act, 1871, it is provided that the Petroleum Acts, 1871 to 1879, may, in manner specified in that section, be applied to substances other than petroleum; and, in pursuance of this provision, those Acts have been applied to carbide of calcium by orders in Council,<sup>1</sup> dated respectively 26th February, 1897, and 24th October, 1904, which apply to such carbide the whole of these Acts except:—(a) So much of s. 6 of the Petroleum Act, 1871, as specifies the nature of the label to be on the vessel; (b) so much of s. 7 of the same Act as relates to the exemption from such section of small quantities under certain specified conditions; (c) so much of s. 11 of the same Act as relates to the testing of samples taken by an officer of the local authority under the powers conferred by that section; (d) so much of the Petroleum Act, 1879, as relates to the testing of petroleum; and (e) so much of the Petroleum Act, 1881, as relates to the hawking of petroleum. Under these orders vessels containing carbide of calcium must bear in conspicuous characters the words "Carbide of calcium. Dangerous if not kept dry. The contents of this package are liable if brought into contact with water to give off a highly inflammable gas." and the name and address of the owner or consignee, if such vessel is kept; if it is sent or conveyed, the name and address of the sender; and if it is sold or exposed for sale, the name and address of the vendor. Under these orders not more than 5 lbs. of carbide of calcium may be kept without a licence if enclosed in hermetically closed metal vessels containing not more than 1 lb. each, or not more than 28 lbs. may be kept where the following conditions are observed:—(a) The carbide shall be kept only in a metal vessel or vessels hermetically closed at all times when the carbide is not actually being placed in or removed from such vessel or vessels; (b) the vessels containing carbide shall be kept in a dry and well-ventilated place; (c) due precaution shall be taken to prevent unauthorized persons from having access to the carbide; (d) notice shall be given of such keeping to the local authority, and free access shall be afforded to their duly authorized inspector to inspect the premises where the carbide is kept and the generator is situated; and (e) (where a fixed generator is used on the premises) there shall be exhibited near the generator a certificate, signed by the maker or supplier thereof, that the generator complies with the regulations as to acetylene generators of the Acetylene Association; (f) full and detailed instructions as to the care and use of the generator shall be kept constantly posted up in such place as to be conveniently referred to by the generator attendant.<sup>2</sup>

For the keeping of any quantity exceeding 28 lbs., or the keeping of any quantity whatever where the above conditions cannot be complied with, a licence must be obtained from the Local Authority.

<sup>1</sup> As to proof of such orders, see EVIDENCE.

<sup>2</sup> This condition does not apply to lamps for vehicles or other portable lamps.

By Order in Council, dated 7th May, 1907, also made pursuant to s. 14 of the Petroleum Act, 1871, the undermentioned parts of the Petroleum mixtures. Petroleum Acts, 1871 to 1881, are applied "to any mixture of petroleum with any other substance which, when tested in the manner set forth in the schedule to this Order, gives off an inflammable vapour at a temperature of less than seventy-three degrees of Fahrenheit's thermometers, whether such mixture be liquid, viscous, or solid, in the same manner as if such mixture were petroleum to which the said Acts apply, viz.:—The whole of the Petroleum Acts, 1871 to 1881, except:—(a) So much of section 6 of the Petroleum Act, 1871, as specifies the nature of the label to be on the vessel, in lieu of which the label shall be as hereinafter provided. (b) So much of section 7 of the Petroleum Act, 1871, relating to the exemption from such section of small quantities under certain specified conditions, as is inconsistent with or contradictory to the exemptions and conditions hereinafter prescribed. (c) So much of section 11 of the Petroleum Act, 1871, and of the Petroleum Act, 1879, relating to the testing of petroleum, as is inconsistent with or contradictory to the directions for testing contained in the schedule to this Order. The label on the vessel or package containing a petroleum mixture which is subject to the Petroleum Acts in virtue of this Order shall bear in conspicuous characters the name of the mixture and the words "Petroleum Mixture giving off an inflammable heavy vapour." "Not to be exposed near a flame." The quantity of any petroleum mixture which is subject to the Petroleum Acts in virtue of this Order, which may be kept without licence, and the conditions of such keeping, shall be as follows:—(a) Where the petroleum mixture is sufficiently liquid to be measured by liquid measure, the quantity and the conditions of keeping shall be those specified in section 7 of the Petroleum Act, 1871. (b) Where the petroleum mixture is solid, or otherwise unsuitable to be measured by liquid measure, the quantity which may be kept without licence shall not exceed thirty pounds, which may only be so kept provided that it is enclosed in hermetically sealed packages or vessels containing each not more than one pound. Wherever in the Petroleum Acts, 1871 to 1881, or in any order, bye-law, or licence issued under these Acts, a quantity is specified in gallons or pints, such quantity shall, in the case of such solid petroleum mixture, be read as though the weight of ten pounds were substituted for a gallon and of one pound for a pint."

Offences and penalties under the Acts, and all moneys and costs thereby directed to be recovered as penalties, may be prosecuted and recovered in manner provided by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts<sup>1</sup> before a court of summary jurisdiction consisting, within the police district of Dublin metropolis, of one of the divisional justices of that district, and elsewhere of a stipendiary magistrate<sup>2</sup> sitting alone or with others, or of two or more justices sitting in petty sessions. Such court "shall not impose a penalty exceeding £50, but may impose that or any less penalty for any one offence notwithstanding the offence involves a penalty of higher amount." Penalties are to be applied according to the Fines (Ir.) Act, 1851, or any Act amending the same. All forfeitures are to be disposed of as the court directs. Certiorari does not lie in respect of any conviction.<sup>3</sup> The onus of proving all exceptions, exemptions, provisos, excuses, or qualifications is imposed on the defendant (Act of 1871, s. 15).

Procedure.

<sup>1</sup> This means as regards Ireland (see the Interpretation Act, 1889, s. 13 (10)) the Summary Jurisdiction (Ireland) Acts, as to which term see p. 335.

<sup>2</sup> The expression "stipendiary magistrate" here probably means a Resident Magistrate.

<sup>3</sup> But as to the circumstances in which certiorari lies, this enactment notwithstanding, see p. 226.

POISONED GRAIN AND POISONED FLESH.

Poisoned
grain.

“Every person who shall offer, or expose for sale, or sell any grain, seed, or meal which has been so steeped or dipped in poison, or with which any poison or any ingredient or preparation has been so mixed as thereby to render the same poisonous and calculated to destroy life’—Penalty, not exceeding £10 (Poisoned Grain Prohibition Act, 1863’ 26 & 27 Vict. c. 113, s. 2).

“Every person who shall knowingly and wilfully sow, cast, set, lay, put, or place, or cause to be sown, cast, set, laid, put, or placed into, in, or upon any ground or other exposed place or situation, any such grain, seed, or meal”—Penalty, not exceeding £10 (s. 3).

“Nothing in this Act shall prohibit the offering, or exposing for sale, or selling, or the use of any solution or infusion, or any material or ingredient for dressing, protecting, or preparing any grain or seed for bona fide use in agriculture only, or the sowing of such last-mentioned grain or seed so prepared” (s. 4).

Penalties recoverable before two justices of the peace; Petty Sessions Act applies; informer, not being a constable, may be awarded a moiety of the penalty; indemnity clause to witnesses who may have participated in the commission of the offence (s. 5).

Poisoned
flesh.

“Every person who shall knowingly and wilfully set, lay, put, or place, or cause to be set, laid, put, or placed in or upon any land,<sup>1</sup> any flesh or meat which has been mixed with, or steeped in, or impregnated with poison or any poisonous ingredient, so as to render such flesh or meat poisonous and calculated to destroy life”—Penalty, not exceeding £10. “Provided always that nothing herein contained shall prevent owners or occupiers of land in Ireland from laying or causing to be laid any poisonous matter as hereinbefore described, after a notice has been posted in a conspicuous place, and notice in writing has been given to the nearest constabulary station” (Poisoned Flesh Prohibition Act, 27 & 28 Vict. c. 115, s. 2).

“Nothing in this Act shall make it unlawful for the occupier of any dwellinghouse or other building, or the owner of any rick or stack of wheat, barley, oats, beans, peas, tares, seeds, or of any cultivated vegetable produce, to put or place, or cause to be put or placed in any such dwellinghouse or other building, or in any enclosed garden attached to such dwellinghouse, or in the drains connected with any such dwellinghouse (provided that such drains are so protected with gratings or otherwise as to prevent any dog from entering the same), or within such rick or stack any poison or poisonous ingredient for the destruction of rats, mice, or other small vermin” (s. 3).

Procedure is regulated by s. 5 of the Poisoned Grain Prohibition Act, 1863 (s. 4).

<sup>1</sup> Includes enclosed gardens and buildings (Rogers v. Hall, (1896) 60 J.P. 584).

To face page 670.]

POISONED GRAIN AND POISONED FLESH.

The Poisoned Grain Prohibition Act, 1863, and the Poisoned Flesh Prohibition Act, 1864, have been repealed by the Protection of Animals Act, 1911, 1 & 2 Geo. 5, c. 27, which became law as the volume was going through the press. That statute, which will be found at p. 1277, contains substituted provisions : see ss. 8, 17 (2).

POISONS, SALE OF.

	PAGE		PAGE
Sale of arsenic, . . . . .	671	Shop to be managed personally
Restrictions on sale of poisons		or by qualified assistant, . . .	674
generally—		Exemptions as to weed-killers, &c.,	674
What are poisons, . . . . .	671	Restrictions as to sale of articles under
Method of sale, . . . . .	672	Act of 1908, . . . . .	675
Who may sell, . . . . .	673	Who may be convicted, . . . . .	675
Assuming title of druggist, &c.,	673	Procedure, . . . . .	675

The sale of arsenic is specially restricted by the Arsenic Act, 1851, 14 & 15 Vict. c. 13. No person<sup>1</sup> is to sell arsenic without entering in a book, in the form set forth in the schedule to the Act, the date of sale, the full name, the address, and the occupation of the purchaser, the quantity sold, and the purpose for which such quantity is required (s. 1). Such sale is not to be made to a purchaser unknown to the vendor, except in the presence of a witness known to the vendor, and who knows the purchaser, and who signs his name and address to the entries required by s. 1; and no sale is to be made to a person under twenty-one (s. 2). No sale is to be made unless the arsenic be discoloured as provided in s. 3 with soot or indigo, except in case the purchaser states that the arsenic is required, not for use in agriculture, but for some other purpose for which such discolouration would render it unfit, in which case not less than ten pounds at any one time may be sold without such discolouration (s. 3). Any person selling arsenic in contravention of the Act, or any purchaser giving false information to the vendor as to any particular required by s. 1 to be entered, or any person witnessing the signature of a purchaser whom he does not know, is liable on conviction before two justices (or one divisional justice<sup>2</sup> of the police district of Dublin metropolis) to a penalty not exceeding £20 (s. 4).

The method of sale<sup>3</sup> of various articles which are, under the Poisons (Ir.) Act, 1870, 33 & 34 Vict. c. 26, to be deemed poisons is restricted by that Act. Poisons are (1) the articles mentioned in Schedule A of the Act; (2) articles added to the list by the Royal College of Physicians in Ireland, by resolution approved of by the Privy Council, and advertised as directed by the section (s. 1).<sup>4</sup>

Restrictions on sale of poisons generally.
What are poisons.

<sup>1</sup> It would seem that a limited company cannot be convicted in respect of anything done in contravention of this Act (Pharmaceutical Society of Ireland v. Boyd, (1896) 2 I.R. 394).

<sup>2</sup> See p. 307.

<sup>3</sup> As to restriction on class of persons who can sell, see PHARMACY ACT, p. 673.

<sup>4</sup> The following articles are those mentioned in Part I of Schedule (A):—Arsenic and its preparations; Aconite and its preparations; Cantharides; Corrosive Sublimate; Cyanide of Potassium and all Metallic Cyanides; Emetic Tartar; Ergot of Rye and its preparations; Prussic Acid; Savin and its Oil; Strychnine and all poisonous vegetable alkaloids and their salts. No articles have been added to Part I of Schedule (A) pursuant to s. 1. The following articles are those mentioned in Part 2 of Schedule (A)—Almonds, Essential Oil of, unless deprived of its prussic acid; Belladonna and its preparations; Cantharides, the tincture and all vesicating preparations of; Chloroform; Corrosive Sublimate, preparations of; Mercury ammoniated (commonly known as White Precipitate of Mercury); Mercury, Red Oxide of (commonly known as Red Precipitate of Mercury); Morphine, preparations of; Opium, and all preparations of Opium or of Poppies; Oxalic Acid; and every compound containing any of the poisons mentioned in either Part I or Part II of the Schedule, when prepared or sold for the destruction of vermin. The following articles have been added to Part II of Schedule A pursuant to s. 1: Chloral Hydrate and all its preparations, and Phosphorous and all preparations containing it in a free state (see "Dublin Gazette," January 15th, 1875); Nux Vomica and its preparations (see "Dublin Gazette," March 16th, 1883); Sulphuric Ether (see "Dublin Gazette," December 2nd, 1890); Phenol (commonly called Carbolic Acid), all Oxalates, Biniodide of Mercury, and Preparations of Strychnine (see "Dublin Gazette," June 18th, 1897). See also poisons added by Act of 1908, p. 675.

Restrictions on sale of poisons
generally.

A compound containing only an infinitesimally small quantity of morphine is not a poison within the Act of 1870 (Pharmaceutical Society v. Delve, (1894) 1 Q. B. 71). But where a compound contains an appreciable quantity of any poison within the meaning of the Act, such compound is to be deemed a poison (see Pharmaceutical Society v. Piper, (1893) 1 Q. B. 686, in which case the compound was "chlorodyne," containing opium and chloroform; Pharmaceutical Society v. Armonson, (1894) 1 Q. B. 720, in which case the compound was "Balsam of Aniseed," containing morphine). A compound containing a large proportion of poison is, a fortiori, to be deemed a poison (see Pharmaceutical Society v. Wheeldon, (1890) 24 Q. B. D. 683).

Method of sale.

"It shall be unlawful to sell any poison, either by wholesale or by retail, unless the box, bottle, vessel, wrapper, or cover in which such poison is contained, be distinctly labelled with the name of the article and the word "poison," and with the name and address of the seller of the poison<sup>1</sup>; and it shall be unlawful to sell any of the poisons which are named in the first part of Schedule A to this Act annexed, or which may hereafter be added thereto under s. 1 of this Act, to any person unknown to the seller, unless such person is introduced by some person known to the seller; and on every sale of any such article the seller shall before delivery make or cause to be made an entry in a book to be kept for that purpose, stating, in the form set forth in the Schedule B to this Act annexed, the date of the sale, and name and address of the purchaser, the name and quantity of the article sold, and the purpose for which it is stated by the purchaser to be required, to which entry the signature of the purchaser and of the person, if any, who introduced him shall be affixed; and any person selling poison otherwise than is herein provided shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 for the first offence, and to a penalty not exceeding £10 for the second or any subsequent offence; and for the purpose of this section the person on whose behalf any sale is made by any apprentice or servant shall be deemed to be the seller: but the provisions of this section which are solely applicable to poisons in the first part of the Schedule A to this Act annexed, or which require that the label shall contain the name and address of the seller, shall not apply to articles to be exported from Ireland by wholesale dealers, nor to sales by wholesale to retail dealers in the ordinary course of wholesale dealing, nor shall any of the provisions of this section apply to any medicine supplied by a duly qualified apothecary, nor apply to any article when forming part of the ingredients of any medicine dispensed by a duly qualified apothecary, provided such medicine be labelled in the manner aforesaid with the name and address of the seller, and the ingredients thereof be entered with the name of the person to whom it is sold or delivered in a book to be kept by the seller for that purpose, and nothing in this Act contained shall repeal or affect any of the provisions of the Arsenic Act, 1851" (Poisons (Ir.) Act, 1870, 33 & 34 Vict. c. 26, s. 2).

The prohibitions in this section apply as well to bodies corporate as to individuals, and a common informer may prosecute for non-compliance with the provisions of the section (Lawler v. Egan, (1901) 2 I. R. 589).

When a seller sold poison labelled with his address and his trade name, such trade name not being his personal name, he was held to have sufficiently complied with the requirements of s. 17<sup>3</sup> of the Pharmacy Act, 1868, as to the vendor's name and address (Pharmaceutical Society v. Mercer, <sup>1</sup> The enactment contained in the preceding words applies to sales of articles mentioned in both parts of Schedule A, or added to either of them by resolution pursuant to s. 2.

<sup>2</sup> This section, like s. 2 of the Poisons (Ir.) Act, 1878, enacts that it shall be unlawful to sell any poison unless the box, &c., in which the same is enclosed, be distinctly labelled with the name and address of the seller, and that the person on whose behalf any sale is made by any apprentice or servant shall be deemed to be the seller.

(1910) 26 T. L. R. 420). Where a shop-keeper sold a poison labelled, not with his own name and address, but with the name and address of another shopkeeper who had supplied it to him, and who paid him a commission on the sale, he was held to have committed an offence under s. 17 of the Pharmacy Act, 1868 (Templeman v. Trafford, (1881) 8 Q. B. D. 397). But where a florist merely took an order for a compound containing a large quantity of arsenic, and then sent the order on to the makers of the compound, who sent the compound direct to the purchaser, and paid the florist a commission on the order, the florist was held not to be a seller of the compound within the meaning of s. 15 of the Pharmacy Act, 1868 (Pharmaceutical Society v. White, (1901) 1 Q. B. 601) and it is clear that any person so taking orders is not a seller within the meaning of s. 2 of the Poisons (Ir.) Act, 1870.

Restrictions on sale of poisons
generally.

"It shall be unlawful for any person to sell or keep open shop for retailing, dispensing, or compounding poisons within the meaning of the Poisons (Ir.) Act, 1870, or medical prescriptions, unless such person be registered as a pharmaceutical chemist under this Act, or to assume or use the title of pharmaceutical chemist, or pharmacist, or pharmacist, or dispensing chemist, in any part of Ireland unless such person shall be registered as a pharmaceutical chemist under this Act; and any person acting in contravention of this enactment, or compounding any medicines of the British Pharmacopœia, except according to the formularies of the said Pharmacopœia, shall, for every such offence, be liable to a penalty of £5<sup>1</sup>; but no such penalty shall exempt any person from being liable to any other penalty, damage, or punishment to which he would have been subject if this Act had not passed: Provided always that nothing in this section contained shall affect any licentiate of Apothecaries' Hall, or any person who shall have been registered as a legally qualified medical practitioner before the passing of this Act, or who shall be registered as a legally qualified practitioner after the passing of this Act, and who, in order to obtain his diploma, shall have passed an examination in pharmacy" (Pharmacy (Ir.) Act, 1875, s. 30).

Who may sell.

The word "person" does not include a body corporate (Pharmaceutical Society v. Boyd, (1896) 2 I.R. 394). Section 30 is not affected by s. 15 of the Act of 1890, infra (McGann v. Kelly, (1894) 2 I.R. 8).

"Nothing in this Act contained shall extend to or interfere with the making or dealing in patent medicines, or with the business of wholesale dealers in supplying poisons in the ordinary course of wholesale dealing, save and except the provisions against the compounding of poisons or medical prescriptions, and against the preparing of any medicines of the British Pharmacopœia except according to the formularies of the said Pharmacopœia; and nothing in this Act contained shall prevent any person who is a member of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons of Great Britain, or holds a certificate in veterinary surgery from the Highland and Agricultural Society of Scotland, from dispensing medicines for animals under his care" (Pharmacy (Ir.) Act, 1875, s. 31).

"It shall be unlawful for any person to use the title of a registered druggist, or chemist and druggist, in any part of Ireland, or to sell poisons, unless such person shall be registered as a chemist and druggist, or registered druggist, under this Act; and any person acting in contravention of this enactment shall, for every such offence, be liable to pay a penalty not exceeding £5" (Pharmacy Act (Ir.), 1875, Amendment Act, 1890, 53 & 54 Vict. c. 48, s. 15). See also s. 3 of Act of 1875, supra.

Assuming title of druggist,
&c.

The defendant, who was not registered as a pharmaceutical chemist, sold medicines in a shop over which was his name, followed by the words, <sup>1</sup> The justices cannot inflict a smaller penalty than £5 (Knox v. Galbraith, (1891) 32 I.L.T.R. 50).

Restrictions on sale of poisons
generally.

"The Pharmacy." The same words appeared on the medicines supplied by him. Held, that by such use of the words, "The Pharmacy," the defendant had not been guilty of a contravention of s. 12 of the English Act of 1852, 15 & 16 Vict. c. 56, by assuming, using, or exhibiting a name, title, or sign implying that he was registered under the Act, or was a member of the Pharmaceutical Society (Pharmaceutical Society v. Mercer, (1910) 26 T.L.R. 35).

The offence of selling or keeping open shop for the sale of poisons under s. 30 of the Act of 1875, is not repealed or affected by s. 15 of the Act of 1890 (McGiann v. Kelly (1894) 2 I.R. 8); and it is not competent for justices on a charge under the Act of 1875 to amend, against the wish of the complainant, to a charge under s. 15 of the Act of 1890 (ib.); and it seems that the latter section is only applicable to a sale by chemists and druggists who are not registered (Knoc v. Galbraith, (1898) 32 I.L.T.R. 50). The justices are obliged to impose the full penalty of £5 under s. 30 of the Act of 1875 (ib.).<sup>1</sup>

Business to be conducted personally or by qualified assistant.

"Any person or persons lawfully keeping open shop for selling, retailing, or mixing poisons, shall personally manage and conduct such shop and the retailing and mixing of poisons therein, or shall employ for the purposes aforesaid, as an assistant or manager in such shop, a duly registered chemist and druggist, or registered druggist, or pharmaceutical chemist, or licentiate apothecary; and such person or persons lawfully keeping open shop as aforesaid shall, for the purposes of this Act and of the principal Act, be held to be the retailer and compounder of poisons aforesaid therein: and every person or persons lawfully keeping open shop for selling and retailing poisons, and dispensing and compounding medical prescriptions, shall personally manage and conduct such shop and the retailing, dispensing, and compounding of poisons and medical prescriptions therein, or shall employ for the purposes aforesaid as assistant or manager in such shop a duly qualified pharmaceutical chemist or licentiate apothecary; and such person or persons lawfully keeping open shop as aforesaid shall, for the purposes of this Act and of the principal Act, be held to be the retailer and compounder of poisons or medical prescriptions as aforesaid therein; and any person or persons acting in contravention of this enactment shall, for every such offence, be liable to pay a penalty not exceeding £5" (Pharmacy Act (Ir.), 1875; Pharmacy Act (Ir.), 1875, Amendment Act, 1890, s. 17).

The word "person" in s. 30 of the Act of 1875 does not include a body corporate, so that a limited liability company cannot be convicted of the offence (Pharmaceutical Society v. Boyd, (1896) 2 I.R. 394); and the same principle, it is submitted, applies to sections 15 & 17 of the Act of 1890.

Exemptions
as to weed-killers, &c.

"So much of the [Pharmacy Act (Ireland) 1875, and the Pharmacy Act (Ireland), 1875, Amendment Act, 1890],<sup>2</sup> as make it an offence for any person to sell or keep open shop for the sale of poisons, unless he is a duly registered pharmaceutical chemist, or chemist and druggist, shall not apply in the case of poisonous substances to be used exclusively in agriculture or horticulture for the destruction of insects, fungi, or bacteria, or as sheep dips or weed-killers, which are poisonous by reason of their containing arsenic, tobacco, or the alkaloids of tobacco, if the person so selling or keeping open shop is duly licensed for the purpose under this section by a local authority,<sup>3</sup> and conforms to any regulations as to the keeping, transporting, and selling of poisons made under this section; but nothing in this section shall exempt any person so licensed from the requirements of any other provision of the [Pharmacy Act (Ireland), 1875, or the Pharmacy Act (Ireland), 1875, Amendment Act, 1890], or the Arsenic Act, 1851, relating to poisons: Provided that [the Lord Lieutenant] may by Order in Council amend this provision by adding thereto or removing therefrom any poisonous substance, and, upon any such order being made, this provision shall have effect as if the added poisonous substances were included therein and the removed poisonous substances were excluded therefrom" (Poisons and Pharmacy Act, 1908, 8 Ed. 7, c. 55, s. 2 (1)).<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> As to the D.M.P. district, see 5 & 6 Vict. c. 24, s. 63, noted, p. 311.

<sup>2</sup> Words in brackets substituted for "Pharmacy Act," 1868, (s. 6).

<sup>3</sup> That is, the county council, (s. 2 (4)).

Restrictions on sale of poisons generally.

The words "the persons so selling" include the person actually conducting the sale; and an unlicensed shop assistant, who sells, on behalf of his master, one of the specified poisonous substances, is not protected from the liability to the penalty imposed by the Pharmacy Act, 1868, by the fact that his master is duly licensed (Pharmaceutical Society v. Nash, (1911) 1 K. B. 520).

"It shall not be lawful<sup>2</sup> to sell any substance to which this section applies by retail unless the box, bottle, vessel, wrapper, or cover in which the substance is contained is distinctly labelled with the name of the substance and the word 'poisonous' and with the name and address of the seller of the substance, and unless such other regulations as may be prescribed under this section by Order in Council<sup>3</sup> are complied with"—Penalty, on selling otherwise, on summary conviction, not exceeding £5 (Poisons and Pharmacy Act, 1908, s. 5). The section applies to sulphuric acid, nitric acid, hydrochloric acid, soluble salts of oxalic acid,<sup>4</sup> or such other substances as may for the time being be prescribed by Order in Council by the Lord Lieutenant (s. 5 (2)).

Restrictions as to sale of articles under Poisons and Pharmacy Act, 1908.

In every case already noted in this article in which a body corporate cannot be convicted under any Act that is dealt with it in this article, the person in the employment of, or who, on behalf of such body, commits an offence, can of course be convicted (Pharmaceutical Society v. London and Provincial Supply Association, (1880) 5 A.C. 857). See also Pharmaceutical Society v. Nash, (1911) 1 K.B. 520, noted supra.

Who may be convicted.

Penalties under the Acts of 1875 and 1890, which are to be read together (Act of 1890, s. 23), are recoverable in Dublin according to the Dublin Police Acts, elsewhere before a justice or justices at petty sessions under the Petty Sessions Act; one third of the penalty must be awarded to the informer, and the remainder to the treasurer of the Pharmaceutical Society

Procedure.

<sup>1</sup> In pursuance of this power the Poisons and Pharmacy (Ir.) Regulations, 1909, dated July 22nd, 1909 (as to which see the Dublin Gazette of July 23, 1909), have been issued. Those regulations do not deal with the list of poisonous substances which a licensee may sell; and those of them with which justices are chiefly concerned are as follows:—"A licensee shall personally manage and conduct the sale of the poisonous substances which he shall be licensed to sell or to retail" (Par. 14). "All poisonous substances shall be kept by the licensee in a separate drawer or cupboard, or closed receptacle, apart from other goods" (Par. 16). "A poisonous substance shall not be sold except in an enclosed vessel or receptacle, as received from the manufacturer, distinctly labelled with the word 'poison,' the name of the substance, the name and address of the seller, and a notice of the special purpose for which it has been prepared" (Par. 18). "Liquid preparations shall be sold only in bottles or tins as received from the manufacturer, and such bottles and tins shall be so constructed as to bear the ordinary risk of transit without leakage, and to be easily distinguishable by touch from ordinary bottles or tins, and the word 'poison' or 'poisons' shall be indelibly marked on each bottle or tin" (Par. 19). "Solid preparations shall be securely packed in such a manner as to avoid, so far as possible, the risk of breakage or leakage from transport, and the package shall contain a notice that it must be destroyed when empty" (Par. 20). Perhaps the effect of selling in contravention of any of the above-quoted regulations would render a licensee liable to the same penalties as if the statute had created no exception in his favour (see Quinn v. Bourke, (1906) 2 I.R. 94).

<sup>2</sup> It would seem that the prohibition in this section applies as well to bodies corporate as to individuals (see Lawler v. Egan, (1901) 2 I.R. 589).

<sup>3</sup> That is, by the Lord Lieutenant in Council: see s. 6 (c). No such regulations have been made.

<sup>4</sup> Up to the Act of 1908 there was no restriction on the sale of such substances.

(appointed under s. 23), to be applied by him in manner prescribed by any regulation made in pursuance of the Act (Act of 1875, s. 36). There is no provision as to appeal, as to which see, therefore, p. 131. Penalties under the Act of 1908 are recoverable under the Summary Jurisdiction Acts<sup>1</sup> (s. 5), and there is no special provision as to the application of penalties, which, consequently, are to be applied as provided by the Fines Act (Ir.), 1851.

POLICE, OFFENCES BY.

R.I.C.

Neglect of duty.

Failure to deliver up accoutrements.

Resigning without leave.

Unlawful possession of constable's uniform, &c., or falsely pretending to be a constable.

Neglect with regard to execution of warrant, &c.

Similar offences by police.

Failure by constable to account for amount levied on warrant.

Indictable offences.

(Chief or other constable<sup>2</sup> neglecting or refusing to obey any warrant, or guilty of any neglect or violation of duty in his office—Penalty, on summary conviction before two justices, not exceeding £5, to be deducted from pay (Constabulary (Ir.) Act, 1836, 6 & 7 Wm. 4, c. 13, s. 19). Constable or sub-constable neglecting when dismissed to deliver up arms, accoutrements, &c.—Penalty, on summary conviction before two justices, not exceeding two months, with hard labour (s. 20). Constable or sub-constable resigning or withdrawing without leave—Penalty, on summary conviction before two justices, not exceeding £10, to be paid to the paymaster<sup>3</sup> or one of the paymasters of the county (s. 21). Persons unlawfully in possession of arms, clothing, accoutrements, &c., supplied to constables, and unable satisfactorily to account for the same, or assuming the dress, name, designation, &c., of any constable for the purpose of obtaining admission into any house or place, in addition to any liability for assuming a false name, dress, &c.—Penalty, on summary conviction before two justices, not exceeding £10 (payable as are penalties under s. 21, which see) (s. 25).

Sub-inspector,<sup>4</sup> head or other constable, wilfully neglecting to return any unexecuted warrant at the time required by the justices, or committing wilful default in respect of the execution of same—Penalty, not exceeding £5, to be deducted from pay (Petty Sessions Act, 1851, s. 35).

Similar provisions are contained in ss. 10, 11, 12, and 16 of the Town Police Clauses Act, 1847, 10 & 11 Vict. c. 89, and apply to constables appointed pursuant to that Act and any special Act that incorporates it.

Any member of the constabulary or metropolitan police forces, by whom any warrant shall be executed, who shall neglect to pay over the amount received or levied thereunder, or duly to account for such levies, of which neglect or refusal the certificate of the Chief or Under Secretary shall be prima facie evidence—Penalty, not exceeding £20, recoverable on summary conviction before two justices in petty sessions (Fines (Ireland) Act, 1851, 14 & 15 Vict. c. 93, s. 8 (2)).

As to assault, &c., on constables, see ASSAULTS; as to indictable offences by constables, see POLICE, OFFENCES BY AND RELATING TO, in CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES.

<sup>1</sup> For the meaning of which expression, see p. 335.

<sup>2</sup> The expression "chief constable" now means "district inspector," and the expression "other constable" now means "head-constable, sergeant, acting-sergeant, or constable" (2 & 3 Vict. c. 75, s. 5; 46 & 47 Vict. c. 14, s. 12).

<sup>3</sup> Paymasters were abolished by 14 & 15 Vict. c. 85, s. 1, which by s. 2 authorizes the Treasury to direct such persons in the Constabulary as the Treasury see fit to perform the duties theretofore performed by paymasters. The Treasury have directed the Inspector-General to perform such duties; and it accordingly is to him that any such penalty is now payable.

<sup>4</sup> Now district-inspector (46 & 47 Vict. c. 14, s. 12).

POOR.

	PAGE		PAGE
Offences by and relating to workhouse inmates, . . . . .	677	Procedure, . . . . .	677
Copies of or extracts from rate, . . . . .	677	Pauper children—
Offences by union officials, . . . . .	677	Provision for relief out of work-
Disobedience to L.G.B. Order, . . . . .	677	houses, . . . . .	677
		Prohibition of employment, . . . . .	678

“ Every person who shall refuse to be lodged and maintained in the workhouse of any union, or abscond out of such workhouse while his wife or any child whom he may be liable to maintain shall be relieved therein, and every person maintained in a workhouse who shall refuse to be set to work, or shall be guilty of drunkenness, insubordination to the officers of the union, or disobedience to the rules prescribed or sanctioned by the commissioners<sup>1</sup> for the government of such workhouse, or of other misbehaviour therein, and every person who shall introduce or attempt to introduce spirituous or fermented liquors into any workhouse ”—Penalty, imprisonment with hard labour, not exceeding one calendar month (Poor Relief (Ir.) Act, 1888, 1 & 2 Vict. c. 56, s. 58). Justices may issue warrant to apprehend offender (s. 60).

Offences by and relating to workhouse inmates.

Persons having custody of rate refusing to permit persons legally entitled to take copies or extracts—Penalty, not exceeding ten shillings (s. 70).

Copies of, or extract from rate.

Master or other officer of union wilfully disobeying the legal and reasonable order of the guardians—Penalty, upon conviction, before two justices, not exceeding £5 (s. 100). Officers purloining, embezzling, or wilfully wasting, or misapplying goods or property of the union—Penalty, upon conviction before two justices, not exceeding £20, with treble value of property (s. 101).

Offences
by union officials.

Wilfully neglecting or disobeying any sealed orders of the commissioners<sup>1</sup>—Penalties, first offence, not exceeding £5; second offence, not exceeding £20, nor less than £5; third offence, misdemeanour, punishable on indictment with fine, not less than £20, and such imprisonment, with or without hard labour, as may be awarded (s. 102).

Disobedience to L.G.B. order.

Penalties or forfeiture under the Act are recoverable before two justices (ss. 99, 103), and the procedure is regulated by the Petty Sessions Act (see p. 41).

Procedure.

The Pauper Children (Ir.) Act, 1898 (61 & 62 Vict. c. 30), enables the board of guardians of any poor law union, subject to regulations of the Local Government Board, to provide for the relief of any orphan or deserted child out of a workhouse, by placing such child out at nurse, or boarding it out, and to withdraw such child from the care of the person with whom it has been placed on nurse or boarded out. If the Local Government Board are of opinion that any child placed out at service should be removed from the care of its foster parent, or the person with whom it is boarded out, or placed out at service, the board of guardians shall at any time upon the request of the Local Government Board cause such child to be removed accordingly and brought back to the workhouse.

Pauper
children.
Provision for relief out of workhouses.

“ Any person failing or refusing to deliver up a child when required to do so pursuant to this section, shall be liable, on conviction before a court of summary jurisdiction, to a penalty of forty shillings; and the court shall, upon such conviction, order the child to be taken out of the custody of such person and handed over to the custody of the board of guardians ” (s. 1 (4)).

<sup>1</sup> Now Local Government Board (Local Government (Ir.) Act, 1872, 35 & 36 Vict. c. 69, s. 2).

Pauper children.
Prohibition of employment.

"No person shall take into his employment for any purpose any child being relieved in the workhouse of any union, or subject to the control of the board of guardians of any union, and being under the age of twelve years, and any person acting in contravention of this section shall be liable on conviction before a court of summary jurisdiction to a fine not exceeding £5" (s. 4 (1)).

POOR LAW UNIONS.

Inspection of rate by rate-payer.

The secretary of every county council and the clerk of every urban district council is to send to the board of guardians of every union, wholly or partly situate within the county or district, a certified copy of the poor rate relating to such union; the person having custody of such certified copy is to allow any person affected by the rate at all reasonable times to inspect and take copies of, or extracts from, such copy under a penalty not exceeding 10s. (Poor Relief (Ir.) Act, 1838, 1 & 2 Vict. c. 56, s. 70; Local Government (Ir.) Act, 1898, 61 & 62 Vict. c. 37, s. 96).

Insubordination of union officer.

Wilful disobedience by master of workhouse or other officer of any union to the legal and reasonable order of the guardians—Penalty, not exceeding £10 (Poor Relief (Ir.) Act, 1838, s. 100).

Embezzlement, &c., by union officer.

Any master of a workhouse, or other paid officer, or any other person employed by or under the authority of the guardians, purloining, embezzling, or wilfully wasting any of the moneys, goods, or chattels belonging to any union—Penalty (over and above penalties otherwise provided), not exceeding £20, and treble the value of the money, &c. so purloined, &c., and perpetual disqualification for "any office relating to the relief of the destitute poor" (s. 101).

Disobedience to sealed order of L. G. B.

Wilful neglect or disobedience of any order purporting to be a sealed order of the Commissioners<sup>1</sup>—Penalty, upon conviction before two justices, first offence, not exceeding £5; second offence, not less than £5 or more than £20. Penalty, upon indictment, for a subsequent offence, not less than £20 and such imprisonment, with, or without hard labour, as may be awarded by the court (s. 102.)

Procedure.

The provisions of ss. 105 and 106 as to procedure are now superseded by the provisions of the Petty Sessions Act.

POST OFFICE.

	PAGE		PAGE
Soldiers' and sailors' letters, . . .	679	Dealing, &c., in fictitious stamps, . .	680
Ships' letters, . . .	679	False notices as to receiving letters, .	680
Unauthorized conveyance of letters, .	679	Obstruction of postal officers, . . .	681
Surrender of clothing, &c., by postal officers, . . .	679	Obstruction outside G.P.O., Dublin, .	681
Carelessness, &c., as to mails, . . .	679	Ferryman failing to carry mails, . . .	681
Injury to letter box, . . .	679	Abettors in D.M.P. district, . . .	681
Placards on post office property, . .	680	Frauds in relation to adhesive stamps, .	681
Sending dangerous things, or indecent prints, &c., by post, . . .	680	Procedure: . . .
Imitating post office stamps, &c., . .	680	Where offender may be tried, . . .	681
		What is a postal packet, . . .	682

8 Edw. 7, c. 48.

The various enactments relating to the Post Office were consolidated and amended by the Post Office Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 48. For the offences in respect of which indictments lie under that Act, see CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES. The following offences under the Act are punishable on summary conviction.

<sup>1</sup> Now the Local Government Board (Local Government (Ir.) Act, 1872, 35 & 36 Vict. c. 69, s. 2).

Offences with regard to letters of soldiers or sailors privileged to be sent at less than usual rate—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (s. 6).

Offences as to letters of soldiers and sailors.
Ships' letters.

Master of vessel breaking bulk or making entry of any part of his cargo before delivery, as required by s. 27, of his postal packets,<sup>1</sup> or any person entrusted by master of vessel with postal packets<sup>1</sup> to bring on shore, breaking seal or wilfully opening them—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (ss. 27, 28). Any person, with intent to evade any postage, falsely super-scribing any letter as being the owner, charterer, or consignee of the vessel conveying the same, or as the owner, shipper or consignee of goods on the vessel—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (s. 30). Master, officer, or seaman of, or passenger on, any vessel detaining any postal packet within the privilege of the Postmaster-General<sup>2</sup> after the master has sent any postal packet to the post office—Penalty, for each such packet retained, not exceeding £5; or, if such detention be after demand made by any person authorized to demand the postal packets on board—Penalty, for each such packet, not exceeding £10 (s. 32).

Any unauthorized person who sends, or causes to be sent, or tenders or delivers in or to be sent, or conveys, or performs any service incidental to conveying, otherwise than by post, any letter not excepted from the exclusive privilege of the Postmaster-General,<sup>2</sup> or makes a collection of such excepted letters for the purpose of conveying or sending them by post or otherwise—Penalty, not exceeding £5 for every letter or packet (s. 34).

Unauthorized persons conveying letters.

Officer of Post Office vacating his office, or, if he be dead, his personal representative, failing to deliver in good order to the Postmaster General all articles issued to such officer as such, and which are not the property of such officer—Penalty, not exceeding £2, and further sum not exceeding £2 as value of articles, or for damage thereto. Justices may issue in respect of such articles a search warrant as for stolen goods (s. 44).

Surrender of clothing, &c., by postal officer.

"If any person employed to convey or deliver a mail-bag or a postal packet in course of transmission by post (a) whilst so employed, or whilst the mail-bag or postal packet is in his custody or possession, leaves it, or suffers any person not being the guard or person employed for that purpose, to ride in the place appointed for the guard in or upon any carriage used for the conveyance of it or to ride on or upon a carriage so used and not licensed to carry passengers, or upon a horse used for the conveyance on horseback of it; or (b) is guilty of any act of drunkenness whilst so employed; or (c) is guilty of carelessness, negligence, or other misconduct whereby the safety of the mail-bag or postal packet is endangered; or (d) without authority collects or receives or conveys or delivers a postal packet otherwise than in the ordinary course of post; or (e) gives any false information of an assault or attempt at robbery upon him; or (f) loiters on the road or passage, or wilfully misspends his time so as to retard the progress or delay the arrival of a mail-bag or postal packet in the course of transmission by post, or does not use due care and diligence safely to convey a mail-bag or postal packet at the due rate of speed"—Penalty, not exceeding £20 (s. 57).

Carelessness, negligence, or misconduct of persons carrying mails.

A person who places, or attempts to place, in or against any Post Office letter-box, any fire, match, light, explosive substance, dangerous substance, filth, or noxious or deleterious substance, or any fluid, or commits a nuisance in or against any such box, or does or attempts to do anything likely to injure such box or its appurtenances or contents—Penalty, not exceeding £10 (s. 61).

Putting injurious substances, &c., in or against letter-boxes.

<sup>1</sup> For definition of postal packet, see s. 74. Throughout this Act the expression "postal packet" includes a telegram (s. 89).

<sup>2</sup> The privilege of the Postmaster-General is defined in s. 34 (2).

<sup>3</sup> This offence is also indictable.

Putting placards, &c., on Post Office property.

Any person who without due authority affixes, or attempts to affix, any placard, advertisement, notice, list, document, board or thing, in or on, or paints or tars, any post office, Post Office letter box, telegraph post, or other property belonging to or used by or on behalf of the Postmaster-General, or who in any way disfigures any such office, box, post or property.—Penalty, not exceeding £2 (s. 62).

Sending by post inflammable or deleterious substances, or indecent or offensive matter.

“(1) A person shall not send or attempt to send a postal packet which either: (a) encloses any explosive substance, any dangerous substance, any filth, any noxious or deleterious substance, any sharp instrument not properly protected, any living creature which is either noxious or likely to injure other postal packets in course of conveyance or an officer of the post office, or any article or thing whatsoever which is likely to injure either other postal packets in course of conveyance or an officer of the post office; or (b) encloses any indecent or obscene print, painting, photograph, lithograph, engraving, book or card, or any indecent or obscene article, whether similar to the above or not; or (c) has on the packet, or on the cover thereof, any words, marks, or designs of an indecent, obscene, or grossly offensive character”.—Penalty, not exceeding £10<sup>2</sup> (s. 63).

Imitation of Post Office stamps, envelopes, forms, and marks.

“(1) A person shall not without due authority (a) make, issue, or send by post or otherwise any envelope, wrapper, card, form, or paper, in imitation of one issued by or under the authority of the Postmaster-General or any foreign or colonial postal authority, or having thereon any words, letters, or marks which signify or imply, or may reasonably lead the recipient to believe, that a postal packet bearing them is sent on His Majesty's Service; or (b) make on any envelope, wrapper, card, form, or paper for the purpose of being issued or sent by post or otherwise, or otherwise used, any mark in imitation of, or similar to, or purporting to be any stamp or mark of any post office under the Postmaster-General or under any foreign or colonial postal authority, or any words, letters, or marks which signify or imply, or may reasonably lead the recipient thereof to believe, that a postal packet bearing them is sent on His Majesty's Service; or (c) issue or send by post or otherwise any envelope, wrapper, card, form, or paper so marked”.—Penalty, not exceeding £2 (s. 64).

Dealing, &c., in fictitious stamps.

Any person who makes, knowingly utters, deals in, or sells, or for any postal purpose uses, or, unless he shows a lawful excuse, has in his possession any fictitious stamp, or makes, or, unless he shows a lawful excuse, has in his possession any die, plate, instrument, or materials for making any such stamp, is liable, on prosecution by order of the Commissioners of Inland Revenue, to a fine not exceeding £20 (subject to the right of appeal as in the case of penalty under the Excise Acts) (s. 65 (1, 2)). Any such stamp, die, plate, instrument, or materials found in the possession of any person in contravention of this section may be seized, and shall be forfeited (s. 65 (3)). “Fictitious stamp” means any facsimile, imitation, or representation, whether on paper or otherwise, of any stamp for denoting a rate of postage of any British possession, or of any foreign country (s. 65 (4)).

False notices as to reception of letters.

“(1) A person shall not, without authority from the Postmaster-General, place or maintain in or on any house, wall, door, window, box, <sup>1</sup> Where the editor of a newspaper inserted therein advertisements of books and photographs which to his knowledge were obscene, and those books and photographs were sent by post to purchasers who were led by those advertisements to apply for them, it was held that, by force of s. 8 of the Aiders and Abettors Act, 1861 (24 & 25 Vict. c. 94), he was rightly convicted on indictment under s. 4 of the Post Office (Protection) Act, 1884 (47 & 48 Vict. c. 76) of procuring such book, &c., to be so sent (R. v. de Marney, (1907) 2 K.B. 388). That section of the Act of 1884 was repealed by the Act of 1908; but s. 63 of the present Act is identical with it. Section 71 (3) of the Act of 1908, and s. 22 of the Petty Sessions (Ireland) Act, 1851, apply to the case of an abettor prosecuted summarily.

<sup>2</sup> This offence is also indictable.

post, pillar, or other place, belonging to him or under his control, any of the words, letters, or marks following, that is to say:—(a) the words “Post Office” or “Postal Telegraph Office,” or (b) the words “Letter Box” accompanied with words, letters, or marks which signify or imply, or may reasonably lead the public to believe, that it is a Post Office letter box; or (c) any words, letters or marks, which signify or imply, or may reasonably lead the public to believe, that any house or place is a Post Office, or that any box is a Post Office letter box: and every person, when required by a notice given by the Postmaster-General<sup>1</sup> to remove or efface any such words, letters, or marks as aforesaid, or to remove or effectually close up any letter box belonging to him or under his control which has been a Post Office letter box, shall comply with the request”—Penalty, for non-compliance, not exceeding £2; and, if the offence is continued after a previous conviction, not exceeding 5s. for every day during which the offence so continues (s. 66).

“(1) If any person wilfully obstructs, or incites anyone to obstruct, an officer of the Post Office in the execution of his duty, or whilst in any post office, or within any premises belonging to any post office or used therewith, obstructs the course of business of the Post Office”—Penalty, not exceeding £2. Any person guilty of such offence who fails or refuses, when required by any officer of the Post Office, to leave a post office or any such premises as aforesaid—Further penalty, not exceeding £5 (s. 67).

Obstruction of officers of Post Office.

If any horse-drawn carriage stands or plies for hire opposite the General Post Office, Dublin, or any part thereof, any driver or person having the management of such carriage is liable to a fine not exceeding £5; and if any hawker, news vendor, or idle disorderly person stops or loiters on the flagway opposite the General Post Office, Dublin, he is liable to the like fine (s. 68).

Obstruction outside G. P. O., Dublin.

If any ferryman, or other person employed to receive the tolls at a ferry, demands any toll for any mail, or does not, within fifteen minutes after demand made, convey the mail (if it be possible or safe to do so) across the ferry to the usual landing-place—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (s. 79).

Ferryman failing to carry mails.

Any person who aids, abets, counsels, or procures the commission of any offence punishable on summary conviction under this Act is, on conviction within the D. M. P. district, liable to the same punishment as the principal offender<sup>2</sup> (s. 71 (3)).

Abettors in D. M. P. District.

Frauds in relation to adhesive stamps are punishable summarily by a fine of £50 (Stamp Act, 1891, 54 & 55 Vict. c. 39, s. 9).

Penalty for frauds in relation to adhesive stamps.

All the foregoing offences may be prosecuted and the fines or forfeiture recoverable in respect of such offences respectively may be recovered in manner provided by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts<sup>3</sup> (s. 71). Such right of appeal as exists under those Acts applies to every conviction under this Act. See p. 130.

Procedure.

Any offence set forth in this article may be tried either in the place where it was committed, or in the place in which the alleged offender is apprehended or in custody, or (where such offence is in respect of a mail, mail-bag, or postal packet) in any place through which such mail, mail-bag, or postal packet passed in due course of conveyance by post, or (where such offence is committed on any highway, harbour, canal, river, arm of the sea, or other water, constituting the boundary of two or more counties

Where offenders may be tried.

<sup>1</sup> Or by any of the Secretaries of the Post Office (s. 35 of the Act).

<sup>2</sup> The punishment of such aider, abettor, &c., if convicted in any other part of Ireland, is provided for by s. 22 of the Petty Sessions (Ireland) Act, 1851.

<sup>3</sup> This expression is by s. 13 (10) of the Interpretation Act, 1889 (52 & 53 Vict. c. 63) defined to mean the Summary Jurisdiction (Ireland) Acts, as to the meaning of which latter expression see p. 335.

or places) it may be tried in any of the said counties or places, and where the offence consists of being accessory to, or of aiding or abetting in any offence against the Act, such accessory may be tried wherever the offence to which he was accessory, &c., may be tried (s. 72).

Evidence of thing being a postal packet.

Evidence that any article is in the course of transmission by post, or has been accepted on behalf of the Postmaster-General for such transmission, is sufficient evidence that such article is a postal packet (s. 74).

POUND.

Sections 19 & 20 of the Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1851, contain provisions regulating the impounding of animals (see the statute, APPENDIX OF STATUTES).

Pound breach.

In case any person or persons shall release or attempt to release any horse, ass, sheep, swine, or other beast or cattle which shall be lawfully seized for the purpose of being impounded, in consequence of having been found wandering, straying, or lying, or being depastured on any inclosed land, from the pound, or place where the same shall be so impounded or on the way to or from any such pound or place, or injuring pound—Penalty on conviction before any two justices of the peace not exceeding £5 with reasonable costs and expenses. Justices may award whole or part of penalty to the person or whose behalf the cattle were distrained (Pound Breach Act, 1843, 6 & 7 Vict. c. 30, s. 1).

Justices not to hear any case of pound breach under this Act in which there shall arise any question as to title to lands, or any question as to any bankruptcy, or as to any execution under the process of any court of justice, or as to the obligation of maintaining, repairing, or keeping in repair any wall, hedge, paling, ditch, sunk fence, or fence whatsoever (s. 2).

PREVENTION OF CRIME.

	PAGE		PAGE
Statutes, . . . . .	682	Offences by persons twice convicted
Convict on licence living dishonestly, . . . . .	683	of crime, . . . . .	685
Police supervision of person twice		Harbouring thieves, . . . . .	686
convicted of crime, . . . . .	683	Brothel-keeper harbouring thieves, . . . . .	687
Arrest on suspicion of convict on		Assaults on constables, . . . . .	687 licence or person under police		Police search for stolen goods, . . . . .	687
supervision, . . . . .	683	Procedure—
Offences by holder of licence with		Constitution of court, . . . . .	688
usual conditions, . . . . .	684	Onus of proof of exceptions, . . . . .	688
Offences by holder of licence with		Certiorari taken away, . . . . .	688
unusual conditions, . . . . .	684	Evidence, . . . . .	688
Convict on licence and police super-		Prevention of Crime Act, 1908, . . . . .	688
visee to notify residence to police, . . . . .	684	Reformatory school offences, . . . . .	688
And, if male, to report himself		Licences to youthful offenders under once a month, . . . . .	684	preventive detention, . . . . .	689
Penalties for failure to notify or		Licences to habitual criminals under report, . . . . .	685	preventive detention, . . . . .	689

Statutes.

The Acts dealing with this subject are the Penal Servitude Act, 1864, 27 & 28 Vict. c. 47; the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, 34 & 35 Vict. c. 112, as amended by the Prevention of Crime Act, 1879, 42 & 43 Vict. c. 55, and amended and extended by the Penal Servitude Act, 1891,

54 & 55 Vict. c. 69, and by the Prevention of Crime Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 59. Several sections and parts of sections of the Penal Servitude Act, 1864, and of the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, have been repealed by various subsequent enactments.<sup>1</sup> The effect of the five Acts above mentioned, as they now stand, and so far as they relate to summary jurisdiction, is as follows:—

Any constable of any police district<sup>2</sup> may, if authorized so to do in writing by the chief officer of police<sup>3</sup> of that district, without warrant take into custody any convict who is the holder of a licence granted under the Penal Servitude Acts,<sup>4</sup> if it appears to such constable that such convict is getting his livelihood by dishonest means, and may bring him before a court of summary jurisdiction<sup>5</sup> for adjudication. If it appears from the facts proved before such court that there are reasonable grounds for believing that the convict so brought before it is getting his livelihood by dishonest means, he shall be deemed guilty of an offence against the Act, and his licence shall be forfeited<sup>6</sup> (Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, (s. 3), and the court may commit him to any prison within its jurisdiction until he can be removed to a convict prison to undergo the remainder of his term of penal servitude (s. 17 (4)).

Convict on licence living dishonestly.

Where any person is convicted on indictment of a crime<sup>7</sup> and a previous conviction of a crime is proved against him, the court having cognizance of such indictment may, in addition to any other punishment which it may award to him, direct that he is to be subject to the supervision of the police for a period not exceeding seven years, commencing immediately after the expiration of the sentence passed on him for the last of such crimes (Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, s. 8).

Police supervision of person twice convicted of crime.

Any constable may take into custody, without warrant, any holder of a licence under the Penal Servitude Acts,<sup>8</sup> or any person under the supervision of the police in pursuance of the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, whom he reasonably suspects of having committed any offence,<sup>9</sup> and may take him before a court of summary jurisdiction to be dealt with according to law (Penal Servitude Act, 1891, s. 2 (1)). No special provision is made in any Act as to the manner in which a person under police supervision who is brought before justices under this section is to be Arrest on suspicion of convict on licence or person under police supervision.

<sup>1</sup> The Statutes Revised show the result of such subsequent enactments. It should, however, be noted that so much of the provisions of s. 17 (1) of the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, as are set forth on p. 688, have never been repealed, although in the Statutes Revised they are omitted from the text of the Act.

<sup>2</sup> This means in Ireland—(1) the police district of Dublin metropolis, and (2) elsewhere in Ireland any district, over which is appointed a district inspector of the Royal Irish Constabulary (34 & 35 Vict. c. 112, s. 20; 46 & 47 Vict. c. 14, s. 12).

<sup>3</sup> This means, as regards the police district of Dublin metropolis, either of the Commissioners of Police for the said district; and elsewhere in Ireland, in any other police district, the district inspector of the Royal Irish Constabulary (34 & 35 Vict. c. 112, s. 20; 46 & 47 Vict. c. 14, s. 12).

<sup>4</sup> Under this term are included the Penal Servitude Act, 1853, 16 & 17 Vict. c. 99, the Penal Servitude Act, 1857, 20 & 21 Vict. c. 3, the Penal Servitude Act, 1864, 27 & 28 Vict. c. 47, and the Penal Servitude Act, 1891, 54 & 55 Vict. c. 69 (Short Titles Act, 1896, 59 & 60 Vict. c. 14).

<sup>5</sup> Constituted in accordance with s. 17 (1) of the Prevention of Crime Act, 1871, as to which see p. 688.

<sup>6</sup> The Court shall forthwith forward by post to the Lord Lieutenant a certificate of such conviction in the form given in Sch. B annexed to the Penal Servitude Act, 1864 (see s. 8 of that Act).

<sup>7</sup> For the purposes of the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, a "crime" means any felony, or the offence of uttering false or counterfeit gold or silver coin, obtaining money or goods by false pretences, conspiracy to defraud, or any misdemeanour under the Larceny Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, s. 58; and an "offence" means any act or omission which is not a "crime" as above defined, and which is punishable on indictment or summary conviction (s. 20).

disposed of, and consequently he must be discharged unless an act which would be punishable if done by any ordinary member of the public is proved against him; but if the person arrested under this section be a convict on licence, the court, constituted in accordance with s. 17 (1) of the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, has precisely the same power as with regard to a convict arrested under s. 3 of that Act (as to which section see supra), for—"Any convict may be convicted before a court of summary jurisdiction of an offence against s. 3 of the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, although he was brought before the court on some other charge or not in manner provided by that section" (Penal Servitude Act, 1891, s. 2 (2)).

Offences by holder of licence with usual conditions.

If any holder of a licence in the form set forth in Schedule (A) of the Penal Servitude Act, 1864, fails without reasonable excuse to produce his licence when required by any magistrate before whom he may be charged with any offence, or by any constable in whose custody he may be, or breaks any of the other conditions<sup>2</sup> of his licence by an act that is not in itself punishable either upon indictment or summary conviction, he shall be liable, on summary conviction before two or more justices, to imprisonment not exceeding three months with or without hard labour (Penal Servitude Act, 1864, s. 5). The proceedings are governed by the Petty Sessions (Ir.) Act, 1851 (s. 7).

Offences by holder of licence with unusual conditions.

Where in any licence granted under the Penal Servitude Acts<sup>3</sup> any conditions different from or in addition to those contained in Schedule (A) of the Penal Servitude Act, 1864, are inserted, the holder of such licence, if he breaks any such condition by an act that is not in itself punishable either upon indictment or summary conviction, shall be deemed guilty of an offence against the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, and shall be liable on summary conviction<sup>4</sup> to imprisonment not exceeding three months with or without hard labour (Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, s. 4).

Convict on licence and person under police supervision to notify residence to police.

Every holder of a licence granted under the Penal Servitude Acts,<sup>3</sup> and every person under the supervision of the police pursuant to the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, s. 8, shall notify his residence to the chief officer of police of the district in which his residence is situated, and shall, whenever he changes his residence within the same police district, notify such change to the chief officer of police of that district, and, whenever he is about to leave a police district, he shall notify such his intention to the chief officer of police of that district, stating the place to which he is going, and also, if required and so far as practicable, his address at that place, and whenever he arrives in any police district he shall forthwith notify his residence to the chief officer of police of such last mentioned district<sup>5</sup>; and, if a male, shall once in each month report himself, at such Such person, if a male, to report himself once a month to police.

<sup>1</sup> If the Court convicts, the certificate specified in s. 8 of the Penal Servitude Act, 1864, must be forthwith forwarded by post to the Lord Lieutenant (see s. 8 of that Act).

<sup>2</sup> The conditions are—(1) The holder shall preserve his licence, and produce it when called upon to do so by a magistrate or police officer; (2) he shall abstain from any violation of the law; (3) he shall not habitually associate with notoriously bad characters, such as reputed thieves or prostitutes; (4) he shall not lead an idle and dissolute life, without visible means of obtaining an honest livelihood.

<sup>3</sup> See p. 683, n. 4.

<sup>4</sup> Before a court constituted in accordance with s. 17 (1) of the Prevention of Crime Act, 1871, as to which see p. 688.

<sup>5</sup> The requirements of the 34 & 35 Vict. c. 112, ss. 5 and 8, as to notification of residence and change of residence, shall be complied with if the holder of a licence or person under police supervision present himself personally and declare his place of residence to the constable or person who, at the time when such notification is made, is in charge of the police station or office of which notice has been given to the person subject to those requirements, as the place for receiving his notification, or, if no such notice has been given, is in charge of the chief office of the chief officer of police, as mentioned in those sections (Prevention of Crime Act, 1879, s. 2).

time as may be prescribed by the chief officer of police of the district in which such holder or person under police supervision may be, either to such chief officer himself or to such other person as that officer may direct,<sup>1</sup> and such report may, according as such chief officer directs, be required to be made personally or by letter<sup>2</sup> (Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, ss. 5 and 8, as amended by the Penal Servitude Act, 1891, s. 4).

If any person to whom either s. 5 or s. 8 of the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, as amended by the Penal Servitude Act, 1891, s. 4, applies, fails to comply with any of the requirements of such section, he shall be guilty of an offence against the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, unless he proves to the satisfaction of the court<sup>3</sup> before whom he is tried either that, being on a journey he tarried no longer than was reasonably necessary in the place in respect of which he is charged with failing to notify his place of residence, or that otherwise he did his best to act in conformity with the law—Penalty, either forfeiture of licence<sup>4</sup> or imprisonment with or without hard labour for not more than one year;<sup>5</sup> and the offender, if a convict on licence, may, if the court order his licence to be forfeited, be committed to any prison within the jurisdiction of the court to undergo the remainder of his term of penal servitude. (Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, ss. 5 and 8, as amended by the Penal Servitude Act, 1891, s. 4). The court shall, if the offender be a convict, forward to the Lord Lieutenant the certificate of conviction specified in s. 8 of the Penal Servitude Act, 1864 (Penal Servitude Act, 1864, s. 8).

Penalties for failing to notify residence, or change of residence, or to report monthly.

Where any person is convicted on indictment of a crime,<sup>6</sup> and a previous conviction of a crime is proved against him, he shall, if the sentence passed on him for the last of such crimes be to a term of imprisonment, at any time within seven years after the expiration of such sentence, and, if the sentence passed on him for the last of such crimes be to a term of penal servitude, then whilst at large on licence under that sentence, and also at any time within seven years after the expiration of that sentence, be guilty of an offence against this Act, and be liable to imprisonment with or without hard labour not exceeding one year, under the following circumstances or any of them :—

Offences by person twice convicted of crime.

(1) If on being charged by a constable with getting his livelihood by dishonest means,<sup>7</sup> and being brought before a court of summary jurisdiction,<sup>8</sup> it appears to such court that there are reasonable grounds for <sup>1</sup> The chief officer may direct the report to be made to the constable or person in charge of any particular police office or station without naming the individual person (Prevention of Crime Act, 1879, s. 2).

<sup>2</sup> Evidence that it appears from the records kept by the chief officer of police that a person subject to these requirements, or to any of them, has failed to comply therewith, shall be prima facie evidence that such person has failed to comply therewith; but if the person charged alleges that he made the required report or notification to any particular person or at any particular time, the court shall require the attendance of whatever person may be necessary to prove the truth or falsehood of such allegation (Prevention of Crime Act, 1879, s. 2).

<sup>3</sup> Constituted in accordance with s. 17 (1) of the Prevention of Crime Act, 1871, as to which see p. 688.

<sup>4</sup> The forfeiture alternative can only apply in the case of a convict on licence, for a person under police supervision has no licence of any kind.

<sup>5</sup> With, probably, such right of appeal as is given by the Petty Sessions Act. See p. 131.

<sup>6</sup> As to the meaning of crime, see p. 683, n. 7.

<sup>7</sup> Such person so charged may be arrested by any constable without warrant, if such constable is authorized so to do by the chief officer of police of his district (Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, s. 7). In the case of such arrest it is not provided (as is done in the case of an arrest under s. 3 of the same Act) that the authorization must be in writing, and it is submitted that a verbal authorization is sufficient. For the meaning of "district" see p. 683, n. 2, and "chief officer," p. 683, n. 3.

<sup>8</sup> This means a court constituted in accordance with s. 17 (1) of the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, as to which see p. 688.

Offences by person twice convicted of crime.

believing that he is getting his livelihood by dishonest means; or (2) if on being charged with any offence punishable on indictment or summary conviction, and on being required by a court of summary jurisdiction<sup>1</sup> to give his name and address, he refuses to do so, or gives a false name or a false address; or (3) if he is found in any place, whether public or private, under such circumstances as to satisfy the court before whom he is brought that he was about to commit or to aid in the commission of any offence punishable on indictment or summary conviction, or was waiting for an opportunity to commit or to aid in the commission of any such offence<sup>2</sup>; or (4) if he is found in or upon any dwelling-house, or any building, yard, or premises, being parcel of or attached to such dwelling-house, or in or upon any shop, warehouse, counting-house, or other place of business, or in any garden, orchard, pleasure-ground, or nursery ground, or in any building or erection in any garden, orchard, pleasure ground, or nursery ground, without being able to account to the satisfaction of the court<sup>1</sup> before whom he is brought for his being found on such premises<sup>3</sup> (Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, s. 7, as amended by the Penal Servitude Act, 1891, s. 6).

Harbouring
thieves, &c.

“ Every person who occupies or keeps any lodging-house, beer-house, public-house, or other house or place where intoxicating liquors are sold, or any place of public entertainment or public resort, and knowingly lodges or knowingly harbours thieves or reputed thieves or knowingly permits or knowingly suffers them to meet or assemble therein or knowingly allows the deposit of goods therein having reasonable cause for believing them to be stolen, shall be guilty of an offence against this Act ” —Penalty,<sup>4</sup> not exceeding £10, and in default of payment, imprisonment not exceeding four months with or without hard labour, and the court may, in addition to or in lieu of any penalty, require him to enter into recognizances, with or without sureties, for keeping the peace and being of good behaviour during twelve months: Provided (1) that no person shall be imprisoned for not finding sureties in pursuance of this section for a longer period than three months, and (2) the security required from a surety shall not exceed £20 (Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, s. 10). Any licensed person brought before a court under this section must produce his licence for examination, and, if such licence is forfeited, deliver it up altogether—Penalty on summary conviction for non-compliance (over and above any other penalty under the section, not exceeding £5 (ib.)). As to forfeiture of licence for the sale of intoxicating liquors in the case of offences by a licensed person against this section, see INTOXICATING LIQUORS, p. 548.

The 39 & 40 Vict. c. 20, s. 5, gives the same right of appeal against any conviction under this section as against a conviction under the Licensing Act, 1872, as to which see p. 584.

Brothel-keeper harbouring
thieves, &c.

“ Every person who occupies or keeps a brothel, and knowingly lodges or knowingly harbours thieves or reputed thieves, or knowingly permits or knowingly suffers them to meet or assemble therein, or knowingly allows

<sup>1</sup> This means a court constituted in accordance with s. 17 (1) of the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, as to which see p. 688.

<sup>2</sup> Such person so found may be arrested by any constable without warrant, and although such constable is not specially authorized to take him into custody (Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, s. 7).

<sup>3</sup> Such person so found may, without warrant, be apprehended by any constable, or by the owner or occupier of the property on which he is found, or by the servant of the owner or occupier, or by any other person authorized by the owner or occupier, and may be detained until he can be delivered into the custody of a constable (Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, s. 7).

<sup>4</sup> On conviction before a Court constituted in accordance with s. 17 (1) of the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, as to which see p. 685.

the deposit of goods therein, having reasonable cause for believing them to be stolen, shall be guilty of an offence against this Act"—Penalty,<sup>1</sup> not exceeding £10, and, in default of payment, imprisonment not exceeding four months, with or without hard labour; and the court may, in addition to or in lieu of any penalty, require him to enter into recognizances, with or without sureties "as in the Act described"<sup>2</sup> (Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871; s. 11).

Brothel-keeper harbouring thieves. &c.

The Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, deals in s. 12 with assaults on constables in the execution of their duty; as to which see p. 381.

Assaults on constables.

As to dealers in old metals, see MARINE STORE DEALERS and GENERAL DEALERS.

Dealers in old metals.

As to vagrancy, see VAGRANCY.

Vagrancy.

"Any constable may, under the circumstances hereafter in this section mentioned, be authorized in writing by a chief officer of police<sup>3</sup> to enter, and if so authorized may enter, any house, shop, warehouse, yard, or other premises in search of stolen property, and search and seize and secure any property he may believe to have been stolen in the same manner as he would be authorized to do if he had a search warrant and the property seized, if any, corresponded to the property described in such search warrant.

Power of police to search for stolen property.

"In every case in which any property is seized in pursuance of this section, the person on whose premises it was at the time of seizure, or the person from whom it was taken if other than the person on whose premises it was, shall, unless previously charged with receiving the same knowing it to have been stolen, be summoned before a court of summary jurisdiction<sup>4</sup> to account for his possession of such property, and such court shall make such order respecting the disposal of such property and may award such costs,<sup>5</sup> as the justice of the case may require.

"It shall be lawful for any chief officer of police to give such authority as aforesaid in the following cases or either of them:—First. When the premises to be searched are, or within the preceding twelve months have been, in the occupation of any person who has been convicted of receiving stolen property or of harbouring thieves: or, Second. When the premises to be searched are in the occupation of any person who has been convicted of any offence involving fraud or dishonesty and punishable by penal servitude or imprisonment. And it shall not be necessary for such chief officer of police on giving such authority to specify any particular property, but he may give such authority if he has reason to believe generally that such premises are being made a receptacle for stolen goods" (Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, s. 16).

Offences may be prosecuted (within the D. M. P. District according to the Dublin Police Acts, elsewhere, according to the Petty Sessions (Ireland) Act, 1851) before a court of summary jurisdiction, consisting of Procedure under 34 & 35 Vict. c. 119.

<sup>1</sup> On conviction before a court constituted in accordance with s. 17 (1) of the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, as to which see p. 688.

<sup>2</sup> The only part of this Act to which the words, "as in this Act described," can possibly refer is s. 10. There is no other reference to recognizances throughout the Act. Consequently, it is submitted that the effect of those words is to read into s. 11 the words of s. 10, which provide that no person shall be imprisoned for not finding sureties for a longer period than three months, and that no surety in more than £20 shall be required.

<sup>3</sup> For definition see note p. 683, n. 2.

<sup>4</sup> Constituted in accordance with the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, s. 17 (1), as to which see p. 688.

<sup>5</sup> Quære, are costs under this section limited, in petty sessions districts, to the amount that may be awarded under the Petty Sessions (Ir.) Act, 1851, as to which see p. 68. It is suggested that costs under this section are not so limited.

Procedure under 34 & 35 Vict. c. 119. Procedure.

(1) Constitution of Court.

(2) Proof of exceptions, &c.

(3) Certiorari taken away.

(4) Evidence.

Prevention of Crime Act, 1908.

Reformatory school offences.

a divisional justice in Dublin, and elsewhere of a stipendiary magistrate sitting alone or with others, or of any two or more justices sitting in Petty Sessions (Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, s. 17 (1)). As to the right of appeal see p. 132.

"Any exception, exemption, proviso, excuse, or qualification, whether it does or does not accompany the description of the offence in this Act, may be proved by the defendant, but need not be specified or negated in the information or complaint, and if so specified or negated, no proof in relation to the matter so specified or negated shall be required on the part of the informant, or prosecutor or complainant" (s. 17 (3)).

Certiorari does not lie in respect of any warrant or conviction under the Act (s. 17 (6)). As to effect of this clause, see p. 226.

Sect. 18 of the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, deals with the way in which previous convictions may be proved (as to which see p. 281), and s. 19 with evidence in cases of receiving stolen goods (as to which see p. 268).

The Prevention of Crime Act, 1908, deals with the reformation of young criminals and the prolonged detention of habitual criminals. There is no enactment providing that the Act is to be construed as one with the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, and the only summary jurisdiction under it is that given by ss. 2, 5, and 15.

"Where a youthful offender sentenced to detention in a reformatory school is convicted under any Act before a court of summary jurisdiction of the offence of committing a breach of the rules of the school, or of inciting to such a breach, or of escaping from such a school, and the court might under that Act sentence the offender to imprisonment, the court may, in lieu of sentencing him to imprisonment, sentence him to detention in a Borstal Institution for a term not less than one year or more than three years, and in such case the sentence shall supersede the sentence of detention in a reformatory school" (Prevention of Crime Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 59, s. 2).

<sup>1</sup> The expression "stipendiary magistrate" here, it is submitted, means a Resident Magistrate. It clearly does not mean a divisional justice of the D.M.P. district; and, outside Dublin, there is no "stipendiary magistrate" other than a Resident Magistrate in Ireland. R. (Jackson) v. Tipperary Justices, (1894) 22 I.L.T.R. 107, merely decided that, for the purposes of s. 51 of the Licensing Act, 1872, the expression did not include a Resident Magistrate.

<sup>2</sup> No definition of the term is given in the Act. Nor is any definition given in the Children Act, 1908 (8 Ed. 7, c. 67), which, however, defines (s. 131) a "child" as a person under 14, and a "young person" as a person between 14 and 16. The heading to Part V of that Act, read along with ss. 94-113 (which collectively form Part V), impliedly defines "juvenile offender" as any person under 16. Section 57 of the Children Act, 1908, which is the only Act under which anyone can now be sent to a reformatory school, provides that "a youthful offender who, in the opinion of the court before which he is charged, is 12 years of age or upwards, but less than 16 years of age," may, under the circumstances set forth in the section, be sent to a certified reformatory school. If no person could be detained in a reformatory school under any other section of the Act, it would be clear that "a youthful offender sentenced to detention in a reformatory school," as the expression is used in the Prevention of Crime Act, 1908, s. 2, simply meant any person so detained pursuant to the Children Act, 1908. But under s. 58 of the Children Act, 1908, a "child" may be committed to a certified industrial school, from which, under the circumstances set forth in s. 71 (2) of the Act (in which sub-section he is still called a "child"), he may be summarily sent to a reformatory school, "there to be detained subject and according to the provisions of this part of the Act." The part of the Children Act, 1908, last referred to is Part IV, which is headed, "Mode of Sending Offenders (sic) and Children to Reformatory and Industrial Schools," &c., and includes ss. 57-93. Whether a child sent to a reformatory school under s. 71 (2) of the Children Act, 1908, is "a youthful offender detained in a certified reformatory school" for the purposes of s. 71 (1) of that Act, and is consequently a "youthful offender sentenced to detention in a reformatory school" for the purposes of s. 2 of the Prevention of Crime Act, 1908, is not absolutely clear; but it is submitted that on the true construction of the two Acts a "child" so sent to a reformatory school then and thereupon becomes a "youthful offender" for the purposes of s. 71 (1) of the Children Act, 1908, and of s. 2 of the Prevention of Crime Act, 1908.

Borstal Institutions<sup>1</sup> are "places in which young offenders whilst detained may be given such industrial training and other instruction, and will be subjected to such disciplinary and moral influences, as will conduce to their reformation and the prevention of crime" (ib., s. 4 (1)).

Under ss. 1-4 (1) of the Prevention of Crime Act, 1908, certain offenders between the ages of 16 and 21<sup>2</sup> may on indictment be sentenced to detention in, or to be transferred from convict or other prisons to, a Borstal Institution. Any such person may, subject to the conditions laid down in s. 5 (1) of that Act, be released upon a licence upon condition that he be placed under the supervision or authority of any society or person named in the licence and subject (s. 5 (7)) to such other conditions as may be prescribed by regulations made by the Lord Lieutenant.

Licences to youthful offenders under preventive detention.

"If a person absent from a Borstal Institution under such a licence escapes from the supervision of the society or person in whose charge he is placed, or commits any breach of the conditions contained in the licence, he shall be considered thereby to have forfeited the licence" (Prevention of Crime Act, 1908, s. 5 (4)).

"A court of summary jurisdiction for the place where the Borstal Institution from which the person has been placed out on licence is situate, or where such person is found, may, on information on oath that the licence has been forfeited under this section, issue a warrant for his apprehension,<sup>3</sup> and he shall, on apprehension, be brought before a court of summary jurisdiction which, if satisfied that the licence has been forfeited, may order him to be remitted to the Borstal Institution, and may commit him to any prison within the jurisdiction of the court until he can be conveniently removed to the institution" (Prevention of Crime Act, 1908, s. 5 (5)).

Under s. 10 of the Prevention of Crime Act, 1908, an habitual criminal, as defined in that Act, may be sentenced to a term of preventive detention as well as, and in addition to, penal servitude, and the Lord Lieutenant (ss. 12 and 18 (a)) may, in the case of an habitual criminal within the meaning of the Act, who is undergoing a term of penal servitude, commute portion of such term to preventive detention. A person so undergoing preventive detention may at any time be released upon licence (s. 14 (2)). "A person so discharged on licence may be discharged on probation, and on condition that he be placed under the supervision or authority of any society or person named in the licence who may be willing to take charge of the case, or on such other conditions as may be specified in the licence" (s. 14 (3)); the licence may be in such form, and contain such conditions as may be prescribed by the Lord Lieutenant (s. 14 (6) and 18 (a)) and the provisions relating to licences to be at large granted to persons undergoing penal servitude shall not apply to such licences (s. 14 (7)).

Licences to habitual criminals under preventive detention

<sup>1</sup> So called from the name of the place near Rochester where the first institution of the kind was established in 1901.

<sup>2</sup> Section 1 (2) empowers the Secretary by order made pursuant thereto to direct that persons not more than twenty-three years of age may be sentenced to be detained in Borstal institutions.

<sup>3</sup> It should be noticed that the information must be made, not to any individual magistrate, but to the court, which in the Dublin police district means a divisional justice sitting in a police court, and elsewhere in Ireland a court of petty sessions, consisting of one or more justices (see p. 335). The information need not be in writing, though it will be better for magistrates to get it so made. The application for the warrant is not a summary proceeding within the meaning of s. 9 (1) of the Petty Sessions Act, and consequently need not be heard in open court.

Licences to habitual criminals under pre ventive
detention.

"If a person absent from prison under such a licence escapes from the supervision of the person or society in whose charge he is placed, or commits any breach of the conditions contained in the licence, he shall be considered thereby to have forfeited the licence, and shall be taken back to prison" (s. 15 (3)).

"A court of summary jurisdiction for the place where the prison from which the person has been discharged on licence is situate, or where such person is found, may, on information on oath that the licence has been forfeited under this section, issue a warrant for his apprehension,<sup>1</sup> and he shall, on apprehension, be brought before a court of summary jurisdiction, which, if satisfied that the licence has been forfeited, shall order him to be remitted to preventive detention, and may commit him to any prison within the jurisdiction of the court until he can conveniently be removed to a prison or part of a prison, set apart for the purpose of the confinement of persons undergoing preventive detention" (s. 15 (4)).

PRINTERS.

Name and address of printer of election
placards.

Any person printing, publishing, or posting, or causing to be printed, published, or posted, any bill, placard, or poster (having reference to a parliamentary election) which fails to bear upon the face thereof the name and address of the printer and publisher shall, if he is the candidate, or the election agent of the candidate, be guilty of an illegal practice, and if he is not the candidate or the election agent of the candidate, be liable, on summary conviction, to a fine not exceeding £100 (Corrupt and Illegal Practices Prevention Act, 1883, 46 & 47 Vict. c. 51, s. 18). A person guilty of an illegal practice is liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £100, and is subject to certain disqualifications as to both parliamentary and other elections (s. 10). The foregoing provisions are applied to municipal elections (Municipal Elections (Corrupt and Illegal Practices) Act, 1884, 47 & 48 Vict. c. 70, ss. 14, 7, 34), the only variation being a slight difference as to the disqualification incurred. The above-mentioned sections of the Municipal Elections (Corrupt and Illegal Practices Act), 1884, have been applied by the Adaptation of Enactments Order, par. 5 (3), of 22nd Dec., 1898, to all elections held under rules framed under that order; that is to say, all Local Government elections.<sup>2</sup>

See also "LIBEL"; "NEWSPAPER."

PRISONS.

Conveying spirituous liquors into prisons.

Person conveying or attempting to convey into any prison intoxicating liquors without authority may be apprehended by keeper or other officer of prison and brought before a justice of the peace—Penalty, on conviction, imprisonment not exceeding three months, or fine not exceeding £20, one moiety to be paid to the informer,<sup>3</sup> and the other moiety to the treasurer of the county (Prisons (Ir.) Act, 1826, 7 Geo. 4, c. 11 (Ir.), s. 4). Keeper of prison or any prisoner or other person selling, using, lending or giving away, or knowingly permitting or suffering to be sold, &c., in such prison, or brought into the same, such liquors, to forfeit £20,<sup>1</sup> or if a prisoner, in lieu of such penalty, shall be placed in solitary confinement for any period not exceeding one month<sup>1</sup> (ib.). Person bringing or endeavouring to bring into any prison any tobacco or other article not allowed by the regulations of such prison may be apprehended by any person, brought before a justice, and upon conviction may be sentenced to imprisonment not exceeding one month, with or without hard labour, or fine not exceeding £5 or less than 40s., to be paid to the board of superintendence<sup>2</sup> (Prisons (Ir.) Act, 1856, 19 & 20 Vict. c. 68, s. 34).

<sup>1</sup> See note, p. 689, to s. 5 (5).

<sup>2</sup> See Vanston, Loc. Gov., p. 171.

<sup>3</sup> The person who prosecutes (Powell v. Castletown, (1891) 30 L.R.I. 93)

If any head jailer or keeper of a prison, or such other person in whose custody the prisoner shall be detained, shall refuse to deliver, or within the space of six hours after admission shall not deliver to the prisoner, or a person demanding on his behalf, a true copy of warrant of commitment, he shall for first offence forfeit £100 Irish; for the second offence, £200 Irish, recoverable by the prisoner or party aggrieved by action of debt; and shall be incapable of holding office (Habeas Corpus (Ir.) Act, 1781, 21 & 22 Geo. 3, c. 111 (Ir.), s. 4).

Any justice who is a member of the visiting committee of a prison may, upon a report from the governor that a prisoner has been guilty of repeated breaches of the prison rules, or has been guilty of some offence against those rules which the governor is not empowered to punish, investigate the matter and sentence the offender to solitary confinement upon bread and water for not more than fourteen days (Prisons (Ir.) Act, 1826, s. 109, rule 16, and General Prisons (Ir.) Act, 1877, 40 & 41 Vict. c. 49, ss. 25, 55).

As to the appointment and duties of visiting justices, see p. 155, ante; and as to the right of justices generally to visit persons, see p. 154, ante.

As to indictable offences in connection with the escape and rescue of prisoners, see CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES.

Prisoner entitled to copy of warrant of commitment

Breach of prison rules.

Miscellaneous.

PROPERTY OF CONVICTS.

Section 2 of the Forfeiture Act, 1870, 33 & 34 Vict. c. 23, enacts that if any person convicted of treason or felony<sup>3</sup> for which he is sentenced to, amongst other things, any term of imprisonment with hard labour or exceeding twelve months, shall at the time of such conviction hold any office under the Crown, or any other public employment, or any ecclesiastical benefice, or any office in any university, college, or other corporation, or be entitled to any pension, superannuation allowance, or emolument payable by the public or out of any public fund, such office, &c., shall become vacant, and such pension, &c., shall cease to be payable upon such conviction, unless such person receives a free pardon within two months of such conviction or before such office, &c., shall be filled.

Forfeiture of public office or pension.

<sup>1</sup> Whether a justice has power to impose this penalty, or whether it is to be recovered by civil action, is not clear.

<sup>2</sup> Now to the General Prisons Board (General Prisons (Ir.) Act, 1877, 40 & 41 Vict. c. 49, ss. 4, 9, 17).

<sup>3</sup> The Criminal Justice Act, 1855, 18 & 19 Vict. c. 126, s. 11, provides that no summary conviction under that statute shall be attended with any forfeiture. The Children Act, 1908, s. 100, provides that a conviction of a child or young person shall not be regarded as a conviction of felony for the purposes of any disqualification attaching to felony.

Forfeiture
Act. 1870.

Meaning of "Convict."

When convict ceases to be subject to the operation of the Act.

Appointment
by Crown of administration of convict's
property.

Appointment
by justices of interim curator of convict's
property.

Proceedings before justices.

Removal of interim curator.

Order by justices for sale of personal property of convict.

The term "convict" for the purposes of the section hereafter mentioned of the Forfeiture Act, 1870, means "any person against whom judgment of death or of penal servitude shall have been pronounced or recorded by any court of competent jurisdiction in England, Wales, or Ireland, upon any charge of treason or felony" (Forfeiture Act, 1870, 33 & 34 Vict. c. 23, s. 6).

"When any convict shall die or be made bankrupt, or shall have suffered any punishment to which sentence of death or penal servitude if pronounced or recorded against him may be lawfully commuted, or shall have undergone the full term of penal servitude for which judgment shall have been pronounced or recorded against him, or such other punishment as may by competent authority have been substituted for such full term, or shall have received Her Majesty's pardon for the treason or felony of which he may have been convicted, he shall thenceforth, so far as relates to the provisions hereinafter contained, cease to be subject to the operation of this Act" (s. 7).

Sections 9–20 provide for the appointment by the Crown of an administrator of the convict's property, and as to the remuneration, powers, and duties of such administrator.

"If no such administrator as aforesaid shall have been appointed, an interim curator of the property of any convict may be appointed by any justices of the peace in petty sessions assembled, or, where there are no petty sessions, by any justice of the peace having jurisdiction in the place where such convict before his conviction shall have last usually resided, upon the application of any person who shall be able to satisfy such justice that the application is made bona fide with a view to the benefit of the convict or his family, or to the due and proper administration and management of his property and affairs; and the interim curator to be appointed may be either the person making the application or any other person willing to accept the office, and competent to discharge its duties, as to such justice shall seem fit" (s. 21).

"Before making any such appointment the justice shall require the applicant to make oath that no administrator or interim curator of the property of such convict has been to his knowledge or belief already appointed; and the applicant shall also state upon oath, to the best of his knowledge and belief, who are the nearest relatives (including any husband or wife) of such convict and (if any such there be) where they are residing, and whether any and which of them have consented to or have had notice of such application; and it shall be competent for such justice to require notice of such application to be given to all such persons and in such manner as to such justice shall seem fit" (s. 22).

"Any interim curator so appointed may be removed for any cause shown to the satisfaction of the justices or justices . . . upon the application of any relative of the convict or of any person interested in the due and proper administration and management of his property and affairs either by the petty sessions or justice by whom he was appointed (or, in the event of such justice dying or being unable to act, by any other justice having the like jurisdiction) . . . ; and upon the death or removal of any such interim curator a new interim curator may be appointed in the same manner as aforesaid . . ." (s. 23), but the powers of justices under s. 23 are suspended if and whilst proceedings for an account under s. 28 are being taken against the interim curator in the county court or the superior courts (ib., s. 28). The interim curator may with the authority of such justices or justice, unless whilst such proceedings for an account are being taken, sell any personal property of the convict (s. 25). It should be noted that justices have no power to authorize any sale of realty.

PUBLIC HEALTH.

	PAGE		PAGE
Matters cognisable by justices . . . . .	693	Slaughterhouses . . . . .	718
Who are sanitary authorities . . . . .	693	Housing of the Working Classes
Procedure . . . . .	694	Acts . . . . .	720
Drains and sewers . . . . .	696	Offensive trades . . . . .	722
Paving, sewerage, &c., of private		Unsound meat and food . . . . .	724
streets . . . . .	699	Infectious diseases . . . . .	726
Buildings and streets . . . . .	701	Burials . . . . .	729
Bye-laws . . . . .	702	Entry on lands . . . . .	731
Works contrary to bye-law . . . . .	703	Obstructing execution of Public
Sanitary accommodation . . . . .	704	Health Acts . . . . .	732
Removal of house refuse and		Injuring works of sanitary autho-
cleansing of streets . . . . .	705	rity . . . . .	732
Purification, &c., of houses . . . . .	706	Compensation for injury done by
Nuisances, generally . . . . .	706	sanitary authority . . . . .	732
Nuisances, particular . . . . .	712	Public Health Acts Amendment
Water supply . . . . .	714	Act, 1890, for summary see p. . . . .	733
Cellar dwellings . . . . .	716	Public Health Acts Amendment
Common lodging-houses . . . . .	717	Act, 1907, for summary see p. . . . .	742
Houses let in lodgings . . . . .	718

Under the Public Health (Ir.) Acts there are a number of offences cognisable by justices, to whom are also given jurisdiction to give decrees for expenses incurred by sanitary authorities in executing sanitary works on the premises of the person responsible for the same. Certain matters cognisable by justices.

The sanitary authorities in the districts of Ireland are the following Who are sanitary authorities.
(Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 52, s. 4):—

URBAN SANITARY DISTRICT.

City of Dublin.

Towns corporate (except Dublin).

Towns, the population of which according to the last parliamentary census exceeds 6000, having town commissioners under the Lighting of Towns (Ir.) Act, 1828, 9 Geo. 4, c. 83.

Towns, the population of which according to the last parliamentary census exceeds 6000, having municipal commissioners under 3 & 4 Vict. c. 108.

Towns, the population of which according to the last parliamentary census exceeds 6000, having town commissioners under the Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 103.

Towns or townships having commissioners under Local Acts.

RURAL SANITARY DISTRICTS.

Rural sanitary districts, which in general correspond with the area of poor law unions (Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, s. 6).

URBAN SANITARY AUTHORITY.

The Lord Mayor, aldermen and burgesses, acting by the town council.

The Mayor, aldermen and burgesses, acting by the town council.

The Commissioners.

The Municipal Commissioners.

The Town Commissioners.

The Town or Township Commissioners.

RURAL SANITARY AUTHORITY.

The guardians of the union.

PROCEDURE.

Who may take proceedings, p. 694 ; disqualification of justices, p. 694 ; application of Summary Jurisdiction Acts, p. 694 ; time limit, p. 695 ; application of penalties, p. 695 ; certiorari taken away, p. 695 ; appeal, p. 695.

Procedure.

Who may take proceedings.

Proceedings under the Public Health Acts can only be taken by a party aggrieved, or by the sanitary authority of the district, or by any other person with the consent in writing of the Attorney-General (Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, s. 251). The sanitary authority may appear before any court by their clerk, or by any officer or member authorised either generally, or in respect of any special proceeding, by resolution of such authority, and the clerk or any officer or member so authorised shall be at liberty to institute and carry on any proceeding which the sanitary authority may institute and carry on (s. 257). A local board passed a resolution that the superintendent and sergeants of the county police within the district be authorised as officers of the board to institute and prosecute all such proceedings as might be necessary. Held, that the board had no power<sup>1</sup> to delegate the prosecution to the police, who were not officers of the board or under their control (Kyle v. Barbor (1888), 16 Cox 378). The sanitary authority can appear by solicitor and counsel like any other litigant (see Petty Sessions Act, 1851, s. 9 (1)), or by their officer duly authorised under the section (Guardians of Mitchelstown Union v. Duffy (1893), 28 I.L.T.R. 20), but the proceedings should be in the name of the sanitary authority, and not of their officer (R. (Corker) v. Cavan JJ. (1904), 5 N.I.J.R. 94). It would seem that the clerk can appear without any authority, but that any other officer must be authorised under the section. A party aggrieved means one aggrieved otherwise than as a ratepayer or as a member of the public (Boyce v. Higgins (1853), 14 C.B. 1 ; Hollis v. Marshall (1858), 2 H. & N. 755), that is to say, it means a person who has sustained actual damage by reason of the act complained of (Robinson v. Currey (1881), 7 Q.B.D. 465 ; cf. Verdin v. Wray (1877), 2 Q.B.D. 608).

Disqualification of
justices.

The fact that a justice is a member of the prosecuting sanitary authority or is a ratepayer and so interested in the result of the proceedings does not ipso facto disqualify that justice from adjudicating (s. 256). This provision will not, however, render a decision valid, where the justice has taken an active part in instituting the proceedings or for any other reason may be substantially interested in the result (R. v. Milledge (1879), 4 Q.B.D. 332 ; R. v. Henley (1892), 1 Q.B. 504). As to other cases on bias, see p. 215.

Application of Summary Jurisdiction
Acts.

All offences under the Public Health Acts and all penalties, forfeitures, costs and expenses directed to be recovered in a summary manner, or the recovery of which is not otherwise provided for may be prosecuted and recovered in manner directed by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts<sup>2</sup> before a court of summary jurisdiction. The court of summary jurisdiction, when hearing and determining an information or complaint, shall be constituted of two or more justices sitting in petty sessions, or of some magistrate or officer for the time being empowered by law to do alone any act authorised to be done by more than one justice of the peace sitting at some court or other place appointed for the administration of justice (s. 249).

An order to abate a nuisance must be signed by at least two justices (Wing v. Epsom U.D.C. (1904), 1 K.B. 788). Summonses under s. 111, praying the abatement of a nuisance, were heard before five justices. Three justices were of opinion that a nuisance existed, and an order was pronounced for its abatement. A formal order was drawn up and signed, several days after the decision, by two of the justices, one of them being one of the dissenting justices, and served on the defendant. A conditional order having been obtained to quash the order, it was signed by the other two justices who formed the majority of the court. Held, (1) that the orders should have been signed by the majority of the adjudicating justices; (2) that the omission of the signatures did not go to jurisdiction, and that such omission could be corrected by the justices signing afterwards; (3) that the delay in signing and completing the orders did not warrant certiorari (R. (Donnell) v. Londonderry JJ. (1910), 2 I.R. 458). Procedure.

<sup>1</sup> Under s. 259 of the English Public Health Act, 1875, verbatim with s. 257, supra.

<sup>2</sup> As to the meaning of which term, see p. 335.

The order for the abatement of a nuisance is not the entry in the order book, but the document drawn up in accordance with Form C in the schedule to the Act (R. (Ewing) v. Down JJ. (1905), 2 I.R. 648).

Every information or complaint must be made within six months from the time when the matter of complaint arose (s. 250). In the case of a continuing offence, penalties may be recovered in respect of such offence (e.g. the erection of a building in contravention of s. 40) where the offence has been originally committed more than six months before the complaint, but continued (as by the non-removal of such building) into the period of six months preceding the complaint, the penalties being limited to the period of six months preceding the complaint (Rumball v. Schmidt (1882), 8 Q.B.D. 603). Where the sanitary authority sue the owner of property for expenses incurred, the six months is to be reckoned from the service of the notice of demand (s. 255). Time limit.

Where the application of the penalty is not otherwise provided for, one half is to go to the informer and the remainder to the sanitary authority, but if the sanitary authority is the informer they are to be entitled to the whole penalty (s. 252). Application of penalties.

Certiorari is taken away (Act of 1878, s. 261). As to effect of this provision, see p. 226, ante. Certiorari taken away.

Where any person deems himself aggrieved by any rate made under the provisions of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, or by any order, conviction, &c., of any court of summary jurisdiction, power to appeal is provided for by section 269 of that statute, and the procedure is as follows. (1) The appeal is to the next quarter sessions holden not less than twenty-one days from the demand of the rate or the decision of the court; (2) notice is to be given by the appellant to the other party, and to the authority or court of summary jurisdiction,<sup>1</sup> by whose act he deems himself aggrieved, within fourteen days after the cause of appeal has arisen, of his intention to appeal and of the grounds thereof; (3) appellant shall, immediately after such notice, enter into a recognisance before a justice of the peace with two sureties to prosecute the appeal, and abide the judgment of the court thereon, and pay such costs as may be awarded by the court, or give such other security, by deposit of money or otherwise, as the justice may allow. Where the appellant is in custody the justice may, on the appellant entering into such recognisance or giving such security, release him from custody. No ground save that mentioned in the notice shall be entertained on the appeal, and where the appeal is on any ground that requires the alteration of the rates of any other person, the fourteen day notice must be served on such other person. The court of appeal may confirm, reverse, or modify the decision of the court of summary jurisdiction or may remit the matter to such court with the opinion of the court of appeal thereon. As regards appeals against a rate, the chairman of the court before whom the appeal is brought has wide powers, including that of quashing the rate and ordering the Appeal.

<sup>1</sup> And to the clerk of the sanitary authority in case of an appeal from a rate.

Procedure.

sanitary authority to make a new rate. On all appeals the decision of the chairman is final, subject to the statement of a case, if the court of appeal thinks fit, for the determination of the High Court. In all cases, costs, in the discretion of the court, may be awarded.

An unsuccessful complainant has no right of appeal (R. v. London JJ. (1890), 25 Q.B.D. 357; R. v. Wright (1908), 72 J.P. 23). In the last case it was held that a sanitary authority, prosecuting for an offence of discharging refuse into a sewer, had no right of appeal.

The section provides a code of procedure complete in itself and is unaffected by the provisions of the Petty Sessions Act, so that notice to prosecute an appeal need not be given (R. (Commissioners of Public Works) v. Down JJ. (1902), 2 I.R. 220; R. (Lyster) v. Queen's Co. JJ. (1886) (1901), 2 I.R. 132 n.).

DRAINS AND SEWERS.

"Drain," "sewer," p. 696; use of sewer by owner or occupier within district, p. 697; use of sewer by owner or occupier without district, p. 697; enforcement of drainage within district by sanitary authority, p. 698; altering drains or sewers, p. 698; building houses without drains in urban district, p. 699; injurious matter not to pass into sewer, p. 699.

Drains and sewers.

"Drain,"
"sewer."

"'Drain' means any drain of and used for the drainage of one building only or of premises within the same curtilage, and made merely for the purpose of communicating therefrom with a cesspool or other like receptacle for drainage or with a sewer into which the drainage of two or more buildings or premises occupied by different persons is conveyed. 'Sewer' includes sewers and drains of every description, except drains to which the word drain interpreted as aforesaid applies, and except drains vested in or under the control of any authority having the management of roads and not being a sanitary authority under this Act" (Act of 1878, s. 2).

There are a great number of decisions as to the meaning of "drain" and "sewer." The test whether a certain channel is a "drain" or a "sewer" is, whether the houses which discharge into it are separate buildings or not (Hedley v. Webb (1901), 2 Ch. 126), and each case must be decided on its own facts (Humphrey v. Young (1903), 1 K.B. 44). The word "sewer" should receive the largest possible interpretation (per Kay, J., in Acton L.B. v. Batten (1884), 28 C.D. 283). The connection of a drain from other premises, though unauthorised, makes the original drain a sewer (Geen v. Leamington Vestry (1898), 2 Q.B. 1; Falconer v. Corporation of South Shields (1895), 11 T.L.R. 223). A cesspool is not a sewer, for a sewer must have a terminus a quo and a terminus ad quem (Pakenham v. Ticehurst R.D.C. (1903), 67 J.P. 448; Sutton v. Mayor of Norwich (1858), 27 L.J.Ch. 739).

A drain becomes a sewer at and from the point where more than one building is connected with it (Acton L.B. v. Batten (1884), 28 C.D. 283; Beckenham U.D.C. v. Wood (1896), 60 J.P. 490), which latter case overrules the dictum of Wills, J., in Travis v. Uttley (1894), 1 Q.B. 233, that in such a case the drain becomes a sewer from end to end.

Once a sewer, always a sewer, and, therefore, where a sewer ceases to receive the drainage of more than one house, it does not thereby cease to be a sewer (St. Leonard's, Shoreditch v. Phelan (1896), 1 Q.B. 533).

A drain or sewer need not necessarily convey sewage matter, and may only convey rain and surface water (Ferrand v. Hallas Land, &c., Co. (1893), 2 Q.B. 135, at p. 144, per Smith, L.J.; Holland v. Lazarus (1897), 66 L.J.Q.B. 285; Silles v. Fulham Borough Co. (1903), 1 K.B. 829).

The following are examples:—

Held to be a sewer.

Drains and sewers.

St. Martin's Vestry v. Bird (1895), 1 Q.B. 428. The Lowther Arcade, which consists of twenty-five houses enclosed by a gate at either end of the passage, on each side of which they are built, is not "premises within the same curtilage" so as to make the common channel a drain.

Falconer v. South Shields Corporation (1895), 11 T.L.R. 223. An open stream into which a number of houses have drained for many years may be a sewer (see also Wheatcroft v. Matlock L.B. (1885), 52 L.T. 356; and cf. W. Riding Rivers Board v. Gaunt & Sons, Ltd. (1902), 19 T.L.R. 140; W. Riding of Yorkshire Rivers B. v. Preston (1904), 92 L.T. 24).

Wilkinson v. Llandaff & Dinas Powis R.D.C. (1903), 2 Ch. 695. At the side of the road, which was vested in a local authority, was an open channel (not paved with stone and not very clearly defined on the side toward the centre of the road) made for the purpose of carrying off the surface water from the road. In the channel were gullies by which the water passed through pipes into an underground drain. Rain water from the roofs and the curtilages of many of the houses in the road also passed through pipes into the channel. Held, that the channel was a sewer.

Harris v. Scurfield (1904), 20 T.L.R. 659. In this case, which was one of a number of houses in a court, Lord Alverstone, L.C.J., said: "There is no definition of a curtilage which would include the case of a number of houses, separately occupied by different people, simply because there is a common access and to some extent common accommodation" (see also Brass v. London C.C. (1904), 2 K.B. 336).

Held not to be a sewer.

Pilbrow v. St. Leonard's, Shoreditch (1895), 1 Q.B. 433. Two blocks of buildings consisting of forty-six apartments, and separated by a causeway twenty feet wide, held to be premises within the same curtilage, and consequently that the channel draining the two blocks was a drain and not a sewer.

O'Neill v. Waldron (1905), 5 N.I.J.R. 241. An open ditch at the side of the road into which the drainage from several houses had been discharged for a considerable time, which had no outlet except a drain crossing the road into a public park, was held not to be a sewer.

See s. 19 of the Public Health Act, 1890 (post, p. 735), for an extended definition of drain for the purpose of that section.

Drain under
Act of 1890.

"The owner or occupier of any premises within the district of a sanitary authority shall be entitled to cause his drains to empty into the sewers of that authority,<sup>1</sup> on condition of his giving such notice as may be required by that authority of his intention so to do, and of complying with the regulations of that authority in respect of the mode in which the communications between such drains and sewers are to be made, and subject to the control of any person who may be appointed by that authority to superintend the making of such communications. Any person causing a drain to empty into a sewer of a sanitary authority without complying with the provisions of this section shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £20, and the sanitary authority may close any communication between a drain and sewer made in contravention of this section, and may recover in a summary manner from the person so offending any expenses incurred by them under this section" (Act of 1878, s. 23).

Use of sewer by owner or occupier within
district.

"The owner or occupier of any premises without the district of a sanitary authority may cause any sewer or drain from such premises to empty into the sewers of that authority, on condition of his giving such notice as may be required by that authority of his intention so to do, and of complying with the regulations of that authority in respect of the mode in which the communications between such drains and sewers are to be made, and subject to the control of any person who may be appointed by that authority to superintend the making of such communications. Any person causing a drain to empty into a sewer of a sanitary authority without complying with the provisions of this section shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £20, and the sanitary authority may close any communication between a drain and sewer made in contravention of this section, and may recover in a summary manner from the person so offending any expenses incurred by them under this section" (Act of 1878, s. 23).

Use of sewer by owner or occupier without district.

<sup>1</sup> By s. 15 all sewers, with certain stated exceptions, are vested in the sanitary authority.

Drains and sewers.

communicate with any sewer of the sanitary authority on such terms and conditions as may be agreed on between such owner or occupier and such sanitary authority, or as in case of dispute may be settled, at the option of the owner or occupier, by a court of summary jurisdiction or by arbitration in manner provided by this Act" (Act of 1878, s. 24).

Enforcement of drainage within district by sanitary authority.

"Where any house within the district . . . is without a drain sufficient for effectual drainage, the sanitary authority may by written notice require the owner or occupier of such house, within a reasonable time therein specified, to make a covered drain or drains emptying into any sewer which the sanitary authority are entitled to use and which is not more than 100 feet from the site of such house; but if no such means of drainage are within that distance, then emptying into such covered cesspool or other place not being under any house as the sanitary authority direct; and the sanitary authority may require any such drain or drains, cesspool or cesspools to be of such materials and size and to be so ventilated and to be laid at such level and with such fall as may appear to them to be necessary. Provided that where, in the opinion of the sanitary authority, greater expense would be incurred in the construction of such cesspool or cesspools than in the making of a drain emptying into a sewer which they are entitled to use, the sanitary authority may require the owner or occupier to make such drain, notwithstanding that the sewer into which it is to empty is not within 100 feet of the site of the house. If such notice is not complied with, the sanitary authority may, after the expiration of the time specified in the notice, do the work required and may recover in a summary manner the expenses incurred by them in so doing from the owner, or may by order declare the same to be private improvement expenses.<sup>1</sup> Provided that where in the opinion of the sanitary authority greater expense would be incurred in causing the drains of two or more houses to empty into an existing sewer pursuant to this section than in constructing a new sewer, and causing such drains to empty therein, the sanitary authority may construct such new sewer and require the owners or occupiers of such houses to cause their drains to empty therein, and may apportion as they deem just the expenses of the construction of such sewer among the owners of the several houses and recover in a summary manner the sums apportioned from such owners or may by order declare the same to be private improvement expenses" (Act of 1878, s. 25). See also Act of 1890, s. 18, post.

It would seem that the owner can dispute liability on the ground that the house is not without a "drain" sufficient for effectual drainage (see Eccles v. Wirral R.S.A. (1886), 17 Q.B.D. 107). The mere fact that the sanitary authority wishes the system of drainage to be altered is not sufficient to enable them to proceed under the section (St. Martin-in-the-Fields Vestry v. Ward (1897), 1 Q.B. 40). The sanitary authority may insist on their reasonable regulations being carried out, even if there may be an alternative which is as good (Austin v. St. Mary's Vestry (1858), 27 L.J. Ch. 677). The sanitary authority cannot compel a man to commit a trespass by making a drain through another's land to the sewer (R. v. Trimble (1877), 36 L.T. 508).

The Dublin Corporation Act, 1890, s. 60, provides that where any dwelling-house within the city of Dublin is drained only by a brick or built drain, the house shall be deemed to be without a drain sufficient for effectual drainage within the meaning of s. 25.

Altering drains or sewers.

In districts, whether rural or urban, where Part III. of the Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1890, has been adopted, the local authority must, upon the request of any owner or occupier who is entitled to cause any sewer or drain from his premises to communicate with any sewer of such authority, and upon payment in advance of the cost, make the communication, the cost to be estimated by the surveyor, and if the owner or occupier is dissatisfied he may, if the estimate is under £50, apply to a court of summary jurisdiction to fix the amount to be paid; but if the estimate is over £50, the amount is to be fixed by arbitration<sup>1</sup> (Act of 1890, s. 18).

<sup>1</sup> For which a special rate can be levied (ss. 229-231; P.H. Act, 1896, s. 4).

"It shall not be lawful in any urban district newly to erect any house or to rebuild any house which has been pulled down to or below the first floor or to occupy any house so newly erected or rebuilt unless and until a covered drain or drains be constructed, of such size, and materials, in such manner, and at such level and with such fall as may appear to the urban authority to be necessary for the effectual drainage of such house; and the drain or drains so to be constructed shall empty into some sewer which the urban authority are entitled to use, and which is within 100 feet of some part of the site of the house to be built or rebuilt; but if no such means of drainage are within that distance then shall empty into such properly constructed cesspool or other place, not being under any house, as the urban authority direct. Provided always, that the sanitary authority may, at the request of the owner of the house, permit such drain or drains to be disconnected from the interior of the house in such manner as it may think proper. Any person who causes any house to be erected or rebuilt or any drain to be constructed in contravention of this section shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £50" (Act of 1878, s. 27).

Apparently no penalty is provided for "occupying" a house in violation of this section. The sanitary authority may require a separate drain for each semi-detached house (Woodford U.D.C. v. Stark (1902), 18 T.L.R. 439).

As to allowing injurious matter, chemical refuse, &c., to pass into sewers, see ss. 16 & 17 of the Public Health Act Amendment Act, 1890, which may be applied in either an urban or rural sanitary district (see p. 734, post).

Building houses without drains in urban district.

Injurious matter not to pass into sewer.

PAVING, SEWERING, &C., OF PRIVATE STREETS.

Enforcing paving, sewerage, &c., of private streets, p. 699; "street," p. 700; "sewer," p. 700; "notice," p. 700; "abutting," p. 701; "owner," p. 701; election by sanitary authority, p. 701; power of justices, p. 701.

"Where any street within any urban district (not being for such purposes in charge of the sanitary authority, or of any grand jury or other public body), or the carriage way, footway, or any other part of such street is not sewered, levelled,<sup>2</sup> metalled, paved, flagged, channelled, and made good, or is not lighted to the satisfaction of the urban authority, such authority may, by notice addressed to the respective owners or occupiers of the premises fronting, adjoining, or abutting on such parts thereof as may require to be sewered, levelled, paved, metalled, flagged, or channelled, or to be lighted, require them to sewer, level, pave, metal, flag, channel, or make good, or to provide proper means for lighting the same within a time to be specified in such notice. Before giving such notice the urban authority shall cause plans and sections of any structural works intended to be executed under this section, and an estimate of the probable cost thereof, to be made under the direction of their surveyor or other duly appointed officer, such plans and sections to be on a scale of not less than 1 inch for 88 feet for a horizontal plan, and on a scale of not less than 1 inch for 10 feet for a vertical section, and in case of a sewer showing the depth of such sewer below the surface of the ground; such

Private streets.

Enforcing paving, sewerage, &c.

<sup>1</sup> As to which see ss. 216-218 of the Act of 1878.

<sup>2</sup> The word "levelled" was inserted in this section by the Public Health Act, 1896, s. 27.

Private streets.

plans, sections, and estimate shall be deposited in the office of the urban authority, and shall be open at all reasonable hours for the inspection of all persons interested therein during the time specified in such notice, and a reference to such plans and sections in such notice shall be sufficient without requiring any copy of such plans and sections to be annexed to such notice. If such notice is not complied with, the urban authority may, if they think fit, execute the works mentioned or referred to therein, and may recover in a summary manner the expenses incurred by them in so doing from the owners in default, according to the frontage of their respective premises, and in such proportion as is settled by the surveyor of the urban authority, or (in case of dispute) by arbitration in manner provided by this Act,<sup>1</sup> or the urban authority may by order declare the expenses so incurred to be private improvement expenses.<sup>2</sup> The same proceedings may be taken and the same powers may be exercised in respect of any such street or road of which a part is or may be a public footpath, under charge of the sanitary authority, or grand jury,<sup>3</sup> or other public body as fully as if the whole of such street or road or highway was not in charge of the sanitary authority, or grand jury, or other public body" (Act of 1878, s. 28). For form of notice, see Sch. C of Act.

"Street."

"Street" includes any highway, and any public bridge and any road, lane, footway, square, court, alley or passage, whether a thoroughfare or not" (Act of 1878, s. 2). It was laid down in Jowett v. Idle L.B. (1888), 36 W.R. 530, that the word is used in the corresponding section (s. 150) of the English Act of 1875 in the extended sense of the definition. In Taylor v. Corporation of Oldham (1876), 4 C.D. 395, Jessel, M.R., said that the word "streets" as used in the English Act of 1875 "clearly extends to places which are in all respects private and over which the public have no right." The question whether a place is a street or not is one of fact for the justices to decide (Midland R. Co. v. Watton (1886), 17 Q.B.D. 30). The following have been held to be "streets":—a private alley (Jowett v. Idle L.B. (1888), 36 W.R. 530); a private road enclosed by gates, over which the public were allowed to pass on payment of tolls for the passage of vehicles, horses and cattle (Midland R. Co. v. Watton (1886), 17 Q.B.D. 30); a railway bridge which the railway company allowed the public to use (North London R. Co. v. St. Mary's, Islington (1872), 27 L.T. 672; see also Walthamstow U.D.C. v. Sandell (1904), 68 J.P. 509; Fenwick v. Croydon R.S.A. (1891), 2 Q.B. 216, in which latter case the court expressly declined to follow the decision in R. v. Burnup (1886), 50 J.P. 598, to the effect that in s. 150 of the Act of 1875, "street" was to be read in the colloquial sense).

"Sewer."

The sewerage under the section means the initial drainage system and not an alteration or improvement of it (Bonella v. Twickenham L.B. (1887), 20 Q.B.D. 63), and consequently, where a sewer has once been laid with the approval of the authority, or where the sewer has been laid for a long period without their dissent, they cannot act under this section (Fulham D.B. of Works v. Goodwin (1876), 1 Ex.D. 400; Wilmslow U.D.C. v. Sidebottom (1906), 70 J.P. 537; Hornsey L.B. v. Davies (1893), 1 Q.B. 756).

"Notice."

The notice to the owner or occupier is a condition precedent to recovering (Jarrow L.B. v. Kennedy (1870), L.R. 6 Q.B. 128). Apparently if the notice has not been served on every frontager, the expenses cannot be recovered even from those who have been served (per Kekewich, J., in Handsworth D.C. v. Derington (1897), 2 Ch. 438), but in case of an arbitration this objection is late if not taken before the arbitrator (ib.). The notice should specify the required works and refer to the plans (Parkinson v. Mayor of Blackburn (1859), 28 L.J.M.C. 7; Bayley v. Wilkinson (1864), 16 C.B.N.S. 161; Worthington v. Sudlow (1862), 2 B. & S. 508). A notice may be good in part and bad in part (Hall v. Potter (1869), 39 L.J.M.C. 1). The deposit of plans and estimates is not a condition precedent to recovery (Shanklin L.B. v. Miller (1880), 5 C.P.D. 272). In Manchester Corporation v. Hampson (1887), 35 W.R. 334, Manisty, J., was of opinion that such deposit was, but Huddleston, B., was of opinion that it was not, a condition precedent.

<sup>1</sup> Provisions as to arbitration are contained in ss. 216, 218.

<sup>2</sup> See p. 698, n. 1.

<sup>3</sup> For "grand jury" now read "county council" (Local Government (Ir.) Act, 1898, s. 4).

"Abutting" is a question of fact (Barnett v. Covell (1903), 20 T.L.R. 134; Wakefield L.B. v. Lee (1876), 1 Ex.D. 336). and it is immaterial that the owner has no means of access from the premises to the street (Williams v. Wandsworth B. of W. (1884), 13 Q.B.D. 211). A house not facing a street but having access thereto from the rear has been held (within the meaning of the English Act, 18 & 19 Vict. c. 120, s. 105) to "form part" of the street (London School B. v. St. Mary, Islington (1875), 1 Q.B.D. 65), and consequently, it is submitted, "abuts" thereon. A house with its front and only entrance in A street, but with the dead wall at the end of its back garden forming part of the line of B street, "abuts" on B street (Paddington Vestry v. Bramwell (1880), 44 J.P. 815). A railway running under a street does not "bound or abut on" the street (G. E. R. v. Hackney Board (1883), 8 A.C. 687).

"Owner" is the person receiving the rack rent on his own account or as agent (Act of 1878, s. 2). A mortgagor, where the mortgagee is in possession, is not an owner (Maguire v. Leigh-on-Sea U.D.C. (1906), 95 L.T. 319). Trustees in receipt of rents have been held to be owners (Harrison v. Barney (1894), 3 Ch. 562); and an agent is an owner whether he has money in hands or not (Mayor of St. Helens v. Kirkham (1885), 16 Q.B.D. 403). The person owning the premises when the works are completed is liable for the expenses, though he may have ceased to be owner when the demand is served (Millard v. Balby U.D.C. (1905), 1 K.B. 60).

When the authority have chosen to treat the expenses as private improvement expenses they cannot subsequently recover them summarily (Gould v. Bacup L.B. (1881), 50 L.J.M.C. 44).

The justices may not review the decision of the sanitary authority, as to the necessity for the works (Stroud v. Wandsworth B. of Works (1894), 2 Q.B. 1), nor can they inquire whether the defendant has been charged for more frontage than he owns, as that point should be raised on the apportionment (Midland R. Co. v. Watton (1886), 17 Q.B.D. 30).

BUILDINGS AND STREETS.

As to dangerous buildings in a town, see TOWNS IMPROVEMENT, Buildings and streets.

"Any person who in any urban district, without the written consent of the urban authority (1) causes any building to be newly erected over any sewer<sup>1</sup> of the urban authority; or (2) causes any vault, arch, or cellar to be newly built or constructed under the carriage-way of any street, shall forfeit to the urban authority the sum of £5 and a further sum of 40s. for every day during which the offence is continued after a written notice in this behalf from the urban authority; and the urban authority may cause any building, vault, arch, or cellar, erected or constructed in contravention of this section to be altered, pulled down, or otherwise dealt with as they may think fit and may recover in a summary manner

<sup>1</sup> For definition of sewer, see p. 696, ante.

Buildings and streets. any expenses incurred by them in so doing from the offender" (Act of 1878, s. 29).

"Street" includes any highway and any public bridge and any road, lane, footway, square, court, alley or passage, whether a thoroughfare or not" (s. 2). The word includes places whether they are public property or private property and whether the public have any rights over them or not (Taylor v. Corporation of Oldham (1876), 4 C.D. 395; Hill v. Wallasey L.B. (1894), 1 Ch. 133; see also p. 700).

Buildings not to be brought forward.

"It shall not be lawful in any urban district, without the written consent of the urban authority, to erect<sup>1</sup> or bring forward any house or building forming part of any street, or any part thereof, beyond the front wall of the house or building on either side thereof, nor to build any addition thereto beyond the front of the house or building on either side of the same"—Penalty, not exceeding 40s. for every day during which the offence is continued after written notice from the urban authority (Act of 1878, s. 40).

The section applies only to buildings of a permanent character and does not apply to a portable structure of canvas and wood (Dublin Corporation v. Irish Church Mission (1901), 1 N.I.J.R. 28), nor to a wooden advertisement hoarding (Dublin Corporation v. Allen (1904), 38 I.L.T.R. 78). Where it was sought to prevent a new house from being built nearer to the road than two houses already built, which were 62 feet from the road, it was held that in such a case there could be no question of a building line and that the section was inapplicable (R. v. Fulwood (1895), 72 L.T. 592).

A resolution of the authority approving plans is a "written consent" (Mullis v. Hubbard (1903), 2 Ch. 431).

It would seem that the section is only applicable to a roadway where the houses on one side are so contiguous as to be substantially one continuous row (R. v. Fullford (1864), 9 Cox 453).

The section does not apply to buildings belonging to a railway company and used for the purpose of such railway under any Act of Parliament (Act of 1878, s. 41).

BYE-LAWS.

Bye-laws.

Power of S.A. to make :

Streets.

Structure, &c., of buildings.

"Every sanitary authority may make bye-laws with respect to the following matters, that is to say : (1) With respect to the level, width, and construction of a new street<sup>2</sup> and the provisions for the sewerage thereof and the preventing of the opening thereof for public use until such bye-laws have been complied with : (2) with respect to the structure, and description and quality of the substances used in the construction of new buildings for securing stability and prevention of fires, and for purposes of health : (3) with respect to the sites of houses, buildings, and other erections, and the mode in which, and the materials with which, such foundations and sites shall be made, formed, excavated, filled up, prepared, and completed for securing stability, the prevention of fires and for purposes of health. For the purposes of this Act, the term 'foundations' shall mean the space immediately beneath the footings of a wall. The term 'site' in relation to a house, building, or other erection shall mean the whole space to be occupied by such house, building, or other erection between the level of the bottom of the foundations and the level of the base of the walls: (4) with respect to the sufficiency of the space about buildings to secure a free circulation of air and with respect to the ventilation of buildings: (5) with respect to the drainage of buildings, to water-closets, earth-closets, privies, ashpits, and cess-pools in connection with buildings, and to the closing of buildings or parts of buildings unfit for human habitation and to prohibition of their use for such habitation. And they may further provide for the observance of such bye-laws by enacting therein such provisions as they think necessary as to the giving of notices, as to the deposit of plans and sections by persons intending to lay out streets or to construct buildings, as to inspection by the sanitary authority, and as to the power of such authority, subject to the provision of this Act, to remove, alter, or pull down any work begun or done in contravention of such bye-laws: provided that no bye-law made under this section shall affect any building erected before the passing of this Act" (Act of 1878, s. 41). Sections 39, 40, and 41 do not apply to buildings belonging to a railway company and used for the purposes of the railway under any Act of Parliament (s. 41).

<sup>1</sup> The words in italics were inserted by the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1896, s. 26, in consequence of the decision in Williams v. Wallasey L.B. (1886), 16 Q.B.D. 718, in which it was held that s. 40, as originally enacted, did not apply to the erection of new buildings on land never before built on.

<sup>2</sup> A new street includes a road which, formerly used as a public thoroughfare, becomes a street by building adjoining houses along one or both sides (Robinson v. Barton L.B. (1884), 8 A.C. 798).

Bye-laws made in pursuance of an Act of Parliament, as here, must be reasonable and within the powers given by the section. If they are unreasonable or ultra vires the justices should not convict (R. v. Wood (1855), 5 E. & B. 49; see p. 337, ante, as to cases on reasonableness of bye-laws). In Dublin Corporation v. Irish Church Mission (1901), 1 N.I.J.R. 28, it was held by the K.B.D. (Barton, J., dissenting) that a temporary portable mission-hall made of canvas and wood was not within a bye-law under this section which required new buildings to be surrounded by walls of incombustible material, and that if the bye-law was intended to apply to such structures it was unreasonable, but see Salt v. Scott Hall (1903), 2 K.B. 245; Pomeroy v. Malvern U.D.C. (1903), 89 L.T. 555, noted p. 101, ante. A bye-law which required whirligigs and swings to be separated from the public road by a wall 14 inches thick was held to be unreasonable as requiring a permanent structure to avoid a temporary danger, where a temporary structure would suffice (Enniscorthy U.D.C. v. Field (1904), 2 I.R. 518, 38 I.L.T.R. 86).

The penalty fixed for breach of a bye-law must not exceed £5 for each such offence and, in the case of a continuing offence, a further penalty of 40s. for every day after written notice of the offence from the sanitary authority (s. 220); all bye-laws must be under the common seal of the sanitary authority (s. 219).

A copy of a bye-law signed and certified by the clerk of the sanitary authority is prima facie evidence of the due making, confirmation, and evidence of the bye-law without further proof (s. 223).

WORKS CONTRARY TO BYE-LAW.

"Where a notice, plan, or description of any work is required by any bye-law made by a sanitary authority to be laid before that authority, the sanitary authority shall within one month after the same has been delivered or sent to their clerk signify in writing their approval or disapproval of the intended work to the person proposing to execute the same; and if the work is commenced after such notice of disapproval, or before the expiration of such month without such approval, and is in any respect not in conformity with any bye-law of the sanitary authority, the sanitary authority may cause so much of the work as has been executed to be pulled down or removed. Where a sanitary authority incur expenses in or about the removal of any work executed contrary

Bye-laws.

Ventilation, etc., of buildings.Drainage, &c.,
of buildings.Observance of bye-laws.Reasonableness of bye-laws.Penalty for breach of bye-law.Evidence of bye-law.Works contrary to bye-law.

Removal.

Works contrary to bye-law.

to any bye-law, such authority may recover in a summary manner the amount of such expenses, either from the person executing the works removed or from the person causing the works to be executed at their discretion (Act of 1878, s. 42).

Continuing offence.

"Where a sanitary authority may under this section pull down or remove any work begun or executed in contravention of any bye-law, or where the beginning or the execution of the work is an offence in respect whereof the offender is liable in respect of any bye-law to a penalty, the existence of the work during its continuance in such a form and state as to be in contravention of the bye-law shall be deemed to be a continuing offence, but a penalty shall not be incurred in respect thereof after the expiration of one year from the day when the offence was committed or the bye-law was broken" (s. 42).

Owner must be heard.

The sanitary authority must not pull down the building unless they first give the owner an opportunity of being heard (Hopkins v. Smethwick L.B. (1890), 24 Q.B.D. 712), and must be able to show not only that plans were not submitted, or were disapproved of, but that the building in itself violates some particular bye-law or statute (Robinson v. Barton L.B. (1883), 8 A.C. 798, at p. 803).

SANITARY ACCOMMODATION.

Sanitary
accommodation.

Building houses
without.

"It shall not be lawful newly to erect any house, or to rebuild any house pulled down to or below the ground floor, without sufficient water-closet, earth-closet, or privy accommodation, and an ashpit furnished with proper doors and coverings. Any person who causes any house to be erected or rebuilt in contravention of this enactment shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £20" (Act of 1878, s. 44). "Ashpit" includes "any ash-tub or other receptacle for the deposit of ashes, faecal matter, or refuse" (Act of 1890, s. 11).

It is not necessarily a breach of the section to provide one privy for two houses (Clutton Union v. Pointing (1879), 4 Q.B.D. 340). It is lawful for any person erecting a house to exercise his option as to which class of sanitary convenience he prefers (Molloy v. Gray (1889), 24 L.R.I. 258, at p. 277; see also Public Health Act, 1907, post, p. 749).

Enforcing sanitary accommodation.

"If a house within the district of a sanitary authority appears to such authority to be without sufficient water-closet, earth-closet, or privy accommodation, and a properly constructed ashpit, the sanitary authority shall, by written notice, require the owner or occupier of the house, within a reasonable time therein specified, to provide sufficient water-closet, earth-closet, or privy accommodation, and an ashpit constructed as aforesaid or either of them as the case may require. If such notice is not complied with, the sanitary authority may, at the expiration of the time specified in the notice, do the work thereby required to be done, and may recover in a summary manner from the owner the expenses incurred by them in so doing, or may by order declare the same to be private improvement expenses:<sup>1</sup> Provided that where a water-closet, earth-closet, or privy has been and is used in common by the inmates of two or more houses, or if, in the opinion of the sanitary authority, a water-closet, earth-closet, or privy may be so used, they need not require the same to be provided for each house" (Act of 1878, s. 45).

Once the sanitary authority have decided that the existing accommodation is insufficient and have served the prescribed notice, the justices merely act ministerially under this section, and cannot inquire whether the premises were without sufficient accommodation, but are bound to make the order for the recovery of the expenses of putting in whatever kind of accommodation the sanitary authority have thought fit to put in (Bogle v. Sherborne L.B. (1880), 46 J.P. 675; see also the Public Health Acts Amendment Acts, 1890, and 1907, post). Sanitary accommodation.

<sup>1</sup> See p. 698, n. 1.

"Where it appears to any sanitary authority that any house is used or intended to be used as a factory or building in which persons of both sexes are employed or intended to be employed at one time, in any manufacture, trade or business, the sanitary authority may, if they think fit, by written notice, require the owner or occupier of such house within the time therein specified, to construct a sufficient number of ashpits, and of water-closets, earth-closets, or privies for the separate use of each sex. Any person who neglects or refuses to comply with any such notice shall be liable for each default to a penalty not exceeding £20 and to a further penalty not exceeding 40s. for every day during which the default is continued" (Act of 1878, s. 48). Factories.

Section 48 of the Act of 1878 "shall apply to the portions of a mine which are above ground and in which girls and women are employed . . . with the substitution of 'those portions of the mine' for the house in the said section mentioned" (Coal Mines Regulation Act, 1887, ss. 74, 77). Mines.

REMOVAL OF HOUSE REFUSE AND CLEANSING OF STREETS.

"Every sanitary authority may, and when required by order of the Local Government Board shall, themselves undertake or contract for—the removal of house refuse from premises; the cleansing of earth-closets, privies, ashpits, and cesspools; either for the whole or any part of their district: Moreover, every urban authority and any rural authority invested by the Local Government Board with the requisite powers may, and when required by order of the said Board shall, themselves undertake or contract for the proper cleansing of streets, and may also themselves undertake or contract for the proper watering of streets for the whole or any part of their district. . . . If any person removes, or obstructs the sanitary authority or contractor in removing, any matters by this section authorised to be removed by the sanitary authority he shall for each offence be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5. Provided that the occupier of a house within the district shall not be liable to such penalty in respect of any such matters which are produced on his own premises and are intended to be removed for sale or for his own use, and are in the meantime kept so as not to be a nuisance" (Act of 1878, s. 52). Removal of house refuse and cleansing of streets.
Sanitary authority may undertake.

"House refuse" means only such refuse as arises from the domestic use of a house (Lydon v. Standbridge (1857), 2 H. & N. 57). Clinkers produced in the furnace of a steam laundry have been held not to be house refuse within the identical English section, Public Health (E.) Act, 1875, s. 42 (London & Provincial Steam Laundry v. Willesden Board (1892), 2 Q.B. 277). The ordinary refuse of a hotel, comprising such things as ashes from the grates, sawdust, empty bottles and tins, straw packing cases, tea leaves, waste paper, egg shells, lemon peel, dirt from the rooms and staircases is "house refuse,"<sup>1</sup> within s. 41 of the Public Health (London) Act, 1891, 54 & 55 Vict. c. 76 (Mayor of Westminster v. Gordon Hotels (1906), 2 K.B. 39).

"If a sanitary authority who have themselves undertaken or contracted for the removal of house refuse from premises, or the cleansing of earth-closets, privies, ashpits, and cesspools, fail without reasonable Obligation on sanitary authority as to refuse, &c.

<sup>1</sup> "House refuse" is defined by the Public Health (London) Act, 1891, s. 41, to mean ashes, cinders, breeze, rubbish, night-soil, and filth, but not to include "trade refuse," which means the refuse of any trade, manufacture, or business, or of any building materials. "Street refuse" is defined by the same section to mean dust, dirt, rubbish, mud, road-sweepings, ice, snow, and filth.

Removal of house refuse and cleansing of streets.

excuse, after notice in writing from the occupier of any house within their district requiring them to remove any house refuse, or to cleanse any earth-closet, privy, ashpit, or cesspool belonging to such house or used by the occupiers thereof, to cause the same to be removed or cleansed, as the case may be, within seven days, the sanitary authority shall be liable to pay to the occupier of such house a penalty not exceeding 5s. for every day during which such default continues after the expiration of the said period" (Act of 1878, s. 53).

Power to make bye-laws.

"Where the sanitary authority do not themselves undertake or contract for the cleansing of footways, and pavements adjoining any premises, the removal of house refuse from any premises, the cleansing of earth-closets, privies, ashpits, and cesspools belonging to any premises, they may make bye-laws imposing the duty of such cleansing or removal at such intervals as they think fit, on the occupier of any such premises. An urban authority may also, and when required by Order of the Local Government Board shall, make bye-laws for the prevention of nuisances arising from snow, filth, dust, ashes, and rubbish, and for the regulation of the keeping of animals on any premises, or for the prevention of such keeping so as to be injurious to health" (Act of 1878, s. 54).

As to bye-laws, see p. 702, ante. As to what are reasonable bye-laws with respect to the keeping of animals, see Wanstead L.B. v. Wooster (1873), 38 J.P. 21; Lutton v. Doherty (1885), 16 L.R.I. 493; Heap v. Burnley Rural S.A. (1884), 12 Q.B.D. 617; Tong Street L.B. v. Seed (1874), 39 J.P. 278. See the Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1890, post.

PURIFICATION OF HOUSES.

Purification of houses.

"Where on the certificate of the medical officer of health or of any two medical practitioners, it appears to any sanitary authority that any house or part thereof is in such a filthy or unwholesome condition that the health of any person is affected or endangered thereby, or that the white-washing, cleansing, or purifying of any house or part thereof would tend to prevent or check infectious disease, the sanitary authority shall give notice in writing to the owner or occupier of such house or part thereof to whitewash, cleanse, or purify the same, as the case may require. If the person to whom notice is so given fails to comply therewith within the time therein specified, he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding 10s. for every day during which he continues to make default; and the sanitary authority shall cause such house or part thereof to be white-washed, cleansed, or purified, and may recover in a summary manner the expenses incurred by them in so doing from the person in default" (Act of 1878, s. 56). As to disinfection, see also p. 726, and as to unsanitary dwellings, see pp. 704, 712.

NUISANCES, GENERALLY.

What are, p. 706; bye-laws to prevent nuisances in dwelling-houses, p. 707; abatement of nuisance, p. 708; information as to nuisance, p. 708; notice to abate, p. 708; summons, on non-abatement, p. 708; order for abatement, p. 709; order closing house unfit for habitation, p. 709; penalty for non-abatement of nuisance, p. 709; sale of manure, &c., p. 710; entry of sanitary authority, p. 710; expenses of execution of provisions, p. 710; complaint by individual of nuisance, p. 711; authority to police to enter, p. 711; proceedings by police, p. 711; offender not to be twice punished, p. 712.

Nuisances, generally.
What are nuisances.

"For the purposes of this Act: (1) any premises in such a state as to be a nuisance or injurious to health: (2) any pool, ditch, gutter, water-course, privy, urinal, cesspool, drain or ashpit so foul or in such a state as to be a nuisance or injurious to health: (3) any animal so kept as to be a nuisance or injurious to health: (4) any accumulation or deposit which is a nuisance or injurious to health : (5) any house or part of a house so overcrowded as to be dangerous or injurious to the health of the inmates, whether or not members of the same family :<sup>1</sup> (6) any factory, workshop, or work place not kept in a cleanly state or not ventilated in such a manner as to render harmless, as far as practicable, any gases, vapours, dust or other impurities generated in the course of the work carried on therein that are a nuisance or injurious to health, or so overcrowded while work is carried on as to be dangerous or injurious to the health of those employed therein : (7) any fireplace or furnace which does not as far as practicable consume the smoke arising from the combustible used therein, and which is used for working engines by steam, or in any mill, factory, dye-house, brewery, bakehouse, or gaswork, or in any manufactory or trade process whatsoever ; and (8) any chimney<sup>2</sup> (not being the chimney of a private dwelling-house)<sup>3</sup> sending forth black smoke in such quantity as to be a nuisance ; shall be deemed to be nuisances liable to be dealt with summarily in manner provided by this Act ; provided : First : That a penalty shall not be imposed on any person in respect of any accumulation or deposit necessary for the effectual carrying on any business or manufacture if it be proved to the satisfaction of the court that the accumulation or deposit has not been kept longer than is necessary for the purposes of the business or manufacture, and that the best available means have been taken for preventing injury thereby to the public health. Secondly : That where a person is summoned before any court in respect of a nuisance arising from a fireplace or furnace<sup>4</sup> which does not consume the smoke arising from the combustible used in such fireplace or furnace, the court shall hold that no nuisance is created within the meaning of this Act and dismiss the complaint, if it is satisfied that such fireplace or furnace is constructed in such manner as to consume as far as practicable, having regard to the nature of the manufacture or trade, all smoke arising therefrom, and that such fireplace or furnace has been carefully attended to by the person having the charge thereof ” (Act of 1878, s. 107).

“ A tent, van, shed or similar structure used for human habitation which is in such a state as to be a nuisance or injurious to health or which is so overcrowded as to be injurious to the health of the inmates, whether or not members of the same family, shall be deemed to be a nuisance within the meaning of ” section 107 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, “ and the provisions of that Act shall apply accordingly ” (Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1885, ss. 9 (1), 15).

The unfenced shaft of an abandoned coal-mine, if within fifty yards of a road or footpath or in open or unenclosed ground, is within the section (Coal Mines Regulation Act, 1887, ss. 37, 77).

The words “ nuisance or injurious to health ” include a state of things which, though offensive, is not injurious to health (Malton Board of Health v. Malton Manure Co. (1879), 4 Ex.D. 302) ; Bishop Auckland L. Board v. Bishop Auckland Iron Co. (1882), 10 Q.B.D. 138).

“ Where the sanitary authority do not themselves undertake or contract for the cleansing of footways and pavements adjoining any premises, the removal of house refuse from any premises, the cleansing of earth-closets,

Bye-laws to prevent nuisances in connection with dwell-ing-houses.

<sup>1</sup> See s. 125, post. “ House ” includes schools and also factories and other buildings in which persons are employed, whatever their number may be (s. 2). A free shelter (R. v. Mead (1895), 64 L.J. 169), and a day school where no one resides (Wimbledon U.D.C. v. Hastings (1902), 87 L.T. 118), have been held to be within the corresponding English section.

<sup>2</sup> The chimney of a steam-tug is within the section (Tough v. Hopkins (1904), 1 K.B. 804).

<sup>3</sup> A club is not a private dwelling-house (M. Nair v. Baker (1904), 1 K.B. 208).

<sup>4</sup> This proviso does not relate to chimneys sending forth black smoke in such quantity as to be a nuisance (Weekes v. King (1885), 53 L.T. 51).

Nuisances,
generally.

privies, ashpits, and cesspools belonging to any premises, they may make bye-laws imposing the duty of such cleansing or removal, at such intervals as they think fit, on the occupier of any such premises. An urban authority may also, and when required by order of the Local Government Board shall, make bye-laws for the prevention of nuisances arising from snow, filth, dust, ashes, and rubbish, and for the regulation of the keeping of animals on any premises, or for the prevention of such keeping so as to be injurious to health" (Act of 1878, s. 54).

As to bye-laws and the penalties attaching to breach thereof, see ss. 219–223 of the Act, noted ante, p. 703.

Abatement of nuisance.

Every sanitary authority is to have their district inspected from time to time, to ascertain what nuisances exist calling for abatement, and to enforce the Act with regard to them, and to compel furnaces and fire-places to consume their own smoke (s. 108).

Information
as to nuisance.

"Information of any nuisance under this Act in the district of any sanitary authority may be given to such sanitary authority by any person aggrieved thereby, or by any two inhabitant householders of such district, or by any officer of such authority, or by the relieving officer, or by any constable or officer of the police force of such district" (s. 109).

Notice to abate
nuisance.

"On the receipt of any information respecting the existence of a nuisance, the sanitary authority shall, if satisfied of the existence of a nuisance, serve a notice on the person by whose act, default, or sufferance the nuisance arises or continues, or if such person cannot be found, on the owner or occupier of the premises on which the nuisance arises, requiring him to abate the same within a time to be specified in the notice, and to execute such works and do such things as may be necessary for that purpose: provided: First: That where the nuisance arises from the want or defective construction of any structural convenience, or where there is no occupier of the premises, notice under this section shall be served on the owner. Secondly: That where the person causing the nuisance cannot be found, and it is clear that the nuisance does not arise or continue by the act, default, or sufferance of the owner or occupier of the premises, the sanitary authority may themselves abate the same without further order" (s. 110). For form, see p. 764.

The notice should specify the works to be done (R. v. Llewellyn (1884), 13 Q.B.D. 681): but this will not apply to cases where the nuisance is not of such a nature as necessarily to require the execution of any works, e.g. keeping animals, factory sending forth black smoke, or the like (Millard v. Wastall (1898), 1 Q.B. 342).

As to who are persons by whose act, default, or sufferance the nuisance arises or continues, see Brown v. Bussell (1868), L.R. 3 Q.B. 251; Francomb v. Freeman (1868), L.R. 3 Q.B. 251; Draper v. Sperring (1861), 10 C.B. (N.S.) 113; Proprietors of Margate Pier v. Margate Town Council (1869), 20 L.T. (N.S.) 564. In this last case the town council, who were the owners of the harbour, were held to be liable to abate a nuisance caused by a natural accumulation of seaweed in the harbour.

As to liability of a master for the act or default of his servant, see p. 296.

Summons if notice not complied with.

"If the person on whom a notice to abate a nuisance has been served makes default in complying with any of the requisitions thereof within the time specified, or if the nuisance, although abated since the service of the notice, is, in the opinion of the sanitary authority, likely to recur on the same premises, the sanitary authority shall cause a complaint relating to such nuisance to be made before a justice, and such justice shall thereupon issue a summons requiring the person on whom the notice was served to appear before a court of summary jurisdiction" (Act of 1878, s. 111). For form of summons, see p. 765.

“If the court is satisfied that the alleged nuisance exists or that although abated it is likely to recur on the same premises, the court shall make an order on such person requiring him to comply with all or any of the requisitions of the notice, or otherwise to abate the nuisance within a time specified in the order, and to do any works necessary for that purpose; or an order prohibiting the recurrence of the nuisance and directing the execution of any works necessary to prevent the recurrence; or an order both requiring abatement and prohibiting the recurrence of the nuisance. The court may by their order impose a penalty not exceeding £5 on the person on whom the order is made and shall also give directions as to the payment of all costs incurred up to the time of the hearing or making the order for abatement or prohibition of the nuisance” (Act of 1878, s. 112). For form, see p. 765.

Nuisances,
generally.
Order for abatement.

Where A let part of a house to B who used it as a stable in such a manner as to create a nuisance. Held, that the justices were wrong in ordering A to abate the nuisance, as he could not do so without either terminating the tenancy or committing a trespass (Ballymena U.D.C. v. M-Kay (1901), 1 N.I.J.R. 48 (Co. Court): see also R. v. Trimble (1877), 36 L.T. 508; Scarborough v. Scarborough (1876), 1 Ex. D. 344; but cf. Parker v. Inge (1886), 17 Q.B.D. 584).

The justices must specify in the order what works are necessary (Ex p. Saunders (1883), 11 Q.B.D. 191; R. v. Inhabitants of Kent (1885), 1 T.L.R. 539, overruling Ex p. Whitechurch (1881), 6 Q.B.D. 545), and an order which does not do so has been held to be bad (R. v. Wheatley (1885), 16 Q.B.D. 34; R. v. Horrocks (1900), 19 Cox 529; R. (Clarke) v. Meath JJ. (1900), 34 I.L.T.R. 47). This, however, will not apply where no works are necessary to abate the nuisance, e.g. keeping animals, factory sending forth black smoke, or the like (see Millard v. Wastall (1898), 1 Q.B. 342). The justices may order more or less than appears in the notice (Whitaker v. Derby S.A. (1885), 55 L.J. (M.C.) 8). Where defendants raised a point before justices as to the sufficiency of the notice, but after twice applying for and obtaining adjournments of the case, accepted from the complainants further specifications of the required works, they were held to have abandoned their right to object (R. (Sherlock) v. Cork JJ. (1908), 42 I.L.T.R. 247). The order under the section is apparently of a criminal nature, so that the decision of the King's Bench Division on any question arising thereon cannot be the subject of appeal (Ex parte Schofield (1891), 2 Q.B. 428).

“Where the nuisance proved to exist is such as to render a house or building, in the judgment of the court, unfit for human habitation, the court may prohibit the using thereof for that purpose until, in its judgment, the house or building is rendered fit for that purpose, and on the court being satisfied that it has been rendered fit for that purpose the court may determine its previous order by another, declaring the house or building habitable, and from the date thereof such house or building may be let or inhabited” (Act of 1878, s. 113).

Order for closing of house unfit for habitation.

“Any person not obeying an order to comply with the requisitions of the sanitary authority or otherwise to abate the nuisance shall, if he fails to satisfy the court that he has used all due diligence to carry out such order, be liable to a penalty not exceeding 10s. per day during his default; and any person knowingly and wilfully acting contrary to an order of prohibition shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding 20s. per day during such contrary action; moreover the sanitary authority may enter the premises to which any order relates and abate the nuisance, and do whatever may be necessary in execution of such order and recover in a summary manner the expenses incurred by them from the person on whom the order is made” (Act of 1878, s. 114).

Penalty for non-abatement of nuisance.

Nuisances,
generally.

Where there were several summonses for several acts in allowing smoke to issue from a chimney on several days, each act was held to be a separate offence (R. v. Waterhouse (1872), L.R. 7 Q.B. 545).

A sanitary authority were held to be within their rights in pulling down a ruinous mud hut, where there was an order to abate the nuisance and quit the hut until it was fit for habitation, which order was not complied with (Brown v. Biggleswade Union, Times newspaper, 19th May 1879).

"Where any person appeals against an order to the court of quarter sessions in manner provided<sup>1</sup> by this Act, no liability to penalty shall arise nor shall any proceedings be taken or work be done under such order, until after the determination of such appeal, unless such appeal ceases to be prosecuted" (Act of 1878, s. 115).

"Whenever it appears to the satisfaction of the court of summary jurisdiction that the person by whose act or default the nuisance arises, or the owner or occupier of the premises is not known or cannot be found, then the order of the court may be addressed to and executed by the sanitary authority" (Act of 1878, s. 116). For form, see p. 766.

Sale of manure, &c.

The sanitary authority may sell manure, &c., removed in abating a nuisance and pay the balance to the owner after deducting their expenses (Act of 1878, s. 117).

Entry of sanitary authority.

"The sanitary authority, or any of their officers, shall be admitted into any premises for the purpose of examining as to the existence of any nuisance thereon, or of enforcing the provisions of any Act in force . . . requiring fireplaces and furnaces to consume their own smoke, at any time between . . . 9 A.M. and 6 P.M. or in the case of a nuisance arising in respect of any business, then at any hour when such business is in progress or is usually carried on. Where under this Act a nuisance has been ascertained to exist, or an order of abatement or prohibition has been made, the sanitary authority, or any of their officers, shall be admitted from time to time into the premises between the hours aforesaid, until the nuisance is abated, or the works ordered to be done are completed, as the case may be. Where an order of abatement or prohibition has not been complied with or has been infringed, the sanitary authority, or any of their officers, shall be admitted . . . at all reasonable hours, or at all hours during which business is in progress or is usually carried on, into the premises where the nuisance exists, in order to abate the same. If admission to premises for any of the purposes of this section is refused, any justice on complaint thereof on oath by any officer of the sanitary authority (made after reasonable notice in writing of the intention to make the same has been given to the person having custody of the premises) may by order under his hand require the person having custody of the premises to admit the sanitary authority or their officer into the premises during the hours aforesaid, and if no person having custody of the premises can be found, the justice shall, on oath made before him of that fact, by order under his hand, authorise the sanitary authority or any of their officers to enter such premises during the hours aforesaid. Any order made by a justice for admission of the sanitary authority, or any of their officers, on premises shall continue in force until the nuisance has been abated, or the work for which the entry was necessary has been done" (Act of 1878, s. 118). For form of order, see p. 767, post.

"Any person who refuses to obey an order of a justice for admission of the sanitary authority, or any of their officers, on any premises shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5" (Act of 1878, s. 119).

Expenses of execution of provisions as to nuisances.

"All reasonable costs and expenses incurred in making a complaint, or giving notice, or in obtaining any order of the court or any justice in relation to a nuisance under this Act, or in carrying the same into effect, shall be deemed to be money paid for the use and at the request of the Nuisances, person on whom the order is made ; or if the order is made on the sanitary generally. authority, or if no order is made but the nuisance is proved to have existed when the complaint was made or the notice given, then of the person by whose act or default the nuisance was caused ; and in case of nuisances caused by the act or default of the owner of premises such costs and expenses may be recovered from any person who is for the time being owner of such premises : Provided that such costs and expenses shall not exceed in the whole one year's rackrent of the premises. Such costs and expenses, and any penalties incurred in relation to any such nuisance, may be recovered in a summary manner or in the Civil Bill Court or in any superior court ; and the court shall have power to divide costs, expenses, and penalties between persons by whose acts or defaults a nuisance is caused as to it may seem just. Any costs and expenses recoverable under this section by a sanitary authority from an owner of premises may be recovered from the occupier for the time being of such premises ; . . . provided that no such occupier shall be required to pay any further sum than the amount of rent for the time being due from him, or which, after demand of such costs or expenses from such occupier, and after notice not to pay his landlord any rent without first deducting the amount of such costs or expenses, becomes payable by such occupier, unless he refuses, on application to him by the sanitary authority, truly to disclose the amount of his rent and the name and address of the person to whom such rent is payable ; but the burden of proof that the sum demanded from any such occupier is greater than the rent due by him at the time of such notice, or which has since accrued shall lie on such occupier ; ”<sup>1</sup> . . . (Act of 1878, s. 120).

<sup>1</sup> Supra, p. 695.

“ Complaint may be made to a justice of the existence of a nuisance under this Act on any premises within the district of any sanitary authority by any person aggrieved thereby, or by any inhabitant of such district, or by any owner of premises within such district, and thereupon the like proceedings shall be had with the like incidents and consequences as to making of orders, penalties for disobedience of orders, appeal, and otherwise, as in the case of a complaint relating to a nuisance made to a justice by the sanitary authority. Provided that the court may, if it thinks fit, adjourn the hearing or further hearing of the summons for an examination of the premises where the nuisance is alleged to exist, and may authorise the entry into such premises of any constable or other person for the purposes of such examination : Provided also, that the court may authorise any constable or other person to do all necessary acts for executing an order made under this section, and to recover the expenses from the person on whom the order is made in a summary manner. Any constable or other person authorised under this section shall have the like powers and be subject to the like restrictions as if he were an officer of the sanitary authority authorised under the provisions of this Act relating to nuisances to enter any premises and do any act thereon ” (Act of 1878, s. 121).

Complaint by individual.

Authority to constable, &c., to enter.

“ Where it is proved to the satisfaction of the Local Government Board that a sanitary authority have made default in doing their duty in relation to nuisances under this Act, the Local Government Board may authorise any officer of police or constabulary acting within the district of the defaulting authority to institute any proceeding which the defaulting authority might institute with respect to such nuisances, and such officer may recover in a summary manner, or in the civil bill or any superior court, any expenses incurred by him, and not paid by the person Proceedings by police.

<sup>1</sup> The section goes on to declare that it shall not affect the liabilities inter se of landlord and tenant.

Nuisances,
generally.

proceeded against from the defaulting authority. But such officer of police or constabulary shall not be at liberty to enter any house or part of a house used as the dwelling of any person without such person's consent, or without the warrant of a justice for the purpose of carrying into effect this enactment" (Act of 1878, s. 122).

Offender not to be twice punished.

"No person shall be punished for the same offence both under . . . this Act relating to nuisances and under any other law or enactment" (Act of 1878, s. 127).

NUISANCES. PARTICULAR.

Keeping swine, p. 712; stagnant water, p. 712; overflowing water-closet, p. 712; offensive ditches, p. 712; collection of matter, p. 713; removal of manure, p. 713; examination of drains, &c., p. 713; two convictions for overcrowding, p. 714; ships, p. 714; tents and vans, p. 714.

Nuisances,
particular.

Keeping swine.

Stagnant
water.

Overflowing water-closet,
&c.

"Any person who in any sanitary district (1) keeps any swine or pig-stye in any dwelling-house or so as to be a nuisance to any person; or (2) suffers any waste or stagnant water to remain in any cellar or place within any dwelling-house for twenty-four hours after written notice to him from the sanitary authority to remove the same; or (3) allows the contents of any water-closet, privy or cesspool to overflow or soak therefrom, shall, for every such offence, be liable to a penalty not exceeding 40s., and to a further penalty not exceeding 5s. for every day during which the offence is continued, and the sanitary authority shall abate or cause to be abated every such nuisance and may recover in a summary manner the expenses incurred by them in so doing from the occupier or in the case of houses let to weekly or monthly tenants, or in separate apartments, from the owner of the premises on which the nuisance exists" (Act of 1878, s. 57).

Either keeping swine in a particular place or in a particular mode may be an offence under the section (Digby v. West Ham Board (1858), 6 W.R. 468). A state of things may be a nuisance though not proved to be injurious to health (Banbury S.A. v. Page (1881), 8 Q.B.D. 97). If a dealer in pigs habitually receives each morning a number of pigs and sends them off by rail each evening he "keeps" swine within the meaning of the section (Steers v. Manton (1893), 57 J.P. 584).

Offensive
ditches.

"Where any watercourse or open ditch lying near to or forming the boundary between the district of any sanitary authority and any adjoining district is foul and offensive, so as injuriously to affect the district of such sanitary authority, any justice having jurisdiction in such adjoining district may, on the application of such sanitary authority, summon the sanitary authority of such adjoining district to appear before a court of summary jurisdiction to show cause why an order should not be made by such court for cleansing such watercourse or open ditch, and for executing such permanent or other structural works as may appear to such court to be necessary; and such court after hearing the parties, or ex parte in case of the default of any of them to appear, may make such order with reference to the execution of the works, and the persons by whom the same shall be executed, and by whom and in what proportions the costs of such works shall be paid, and also as to the amount thereof, and the time and mode of payment, as to such court may seem reasonable" (Act of 1878, s. 58).

The justices may order a sanitary authority to cleanse a ditch which is adjoining to, but not in, their district, if the nuisance is caused by offensive matter flowing from the district of that sanitary authority (Woburn S.A. v. Newport Pagnell S.A. (1887), 51 J.P. 694). The time for appeal against the order runs from the decision (St. Albans S.A. v. Barnet S.A. (1876), 1 Q.B.D. 558).

"Where in any urban district it appears to the inspector of nuisances or sanitary officer that any accumulation of manure, dung, soil, or filth, or other offensive or noxious matter ought to be removed, he shall give notice to the person to whom the same belongs, or to the occupier of the premises whereon it exists, to remove the same; and if such notice is not complied with within twenty-four hours from the service thereof, the manure, dung, soil, or filth, or matter referred to, shall be vested in and be sold or disposed of by the urban authority, and the proceeds thereof shall be applied in payment of the expenses incurred by them in the execution of this section; and the surplus (if any) shall be paid on demand to the owner of the matter removed. The expenses of removal by the urban authority of any such accumulation, if and so far as they are not covered by the sale thereof, may be recovered by the urban authority in a summary manner from the person to whom the accumulation belongs, or from the occupier of the premises, or (where there is no occupier) from the owner" (Act of 1878, s. 59).

Nuisances,
particular.

Collection of matter.

"Notice may be given by any urban authority (by public announcement in the district or otherwise) for the periodical removal of manure or other refuse matter from mews, stables, or other premises; and where any such notice has been given, any person to whom the manure or other refuse matter belongs who fails so to remove the same or permits a further accumulation, and does not continue such periodical removal at such intervals as the urban authority direct, shall be liable without further notice to a penalty not exceeding 20s. for each day during which such manure or other refuse matter is permitted to accumulate" (Act of 1878, s. 60).

Removal of manure.

"On the written application of any person to a sanitary authority, stating that any drain, water-closet, earth-closet, privy, ashpit, or cesspool on or belonging to any premises within their district is a nuisance or injurious to health (but not otherwise), it shall be lawful for any sanitary officer duly authorised in writing in that behalf by such sanitary authority, after twenty-four hours' written notice to the occupier of such premises or in case of emergency without notice to enter such premises, with or without assistants, and cause the ground to be opened, and examine such drain, water-closet, earth-closet, privy, ashpit, or cesspool. If the drain, water-closet, earth-closet, privy, ashpit, or cesspool on examination is found to be in proper condition, he shall cause the ground to be closed, and any damage done to be made good as soon as can be and the expenses of the works shall be defrayed by the person making the above-mentioned written application. If the drain, water-closet, earth-closet, privy, ashpit, or cesspool on examination appear to be in bad condition, or to require alteration or amendment, the sanitary authority shall forthwith cause notice in writing to be given to the owner or occupier of the premises requiring him forthwith or within a reasonable time therein specified to do the necessary works; and if such notice is not complied with, the person to whom it is given shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding 10s. for every day during which he continues to make default, and the sanitary authority may, if they think fit, execute such works, and may recover in a summary manner from the owner the expenses incurred by them in so doing, or may by order declare the same to be private improvement expenses, as well as the expenses incurred in the previous examination" (Act of 1878, s. 51).

Examination of drains, &c.

The giving of the notice before entry is not a condition precedent to recovering expenses (Bromley B.C. v. Cheshire (1908), 1 K.B. 680). The justices have no jurisdiction to consider whether the works were necessary or not (Hargreaves v. Taylor (1863), 3 B. & S. 613).

"Where two convictions against the provisions of any Act relating

Nuisances, particular.

Two convictions for overcrowding.

to the overcrowding of a house<sup>1</sup> have taken place in respect of the same house within a period of three months (whether the persons convicted were or were not the same) a court of summary jurisdiction may, on the application of the sanitary authority . . . direct the closing of the house for such period as the court may deem necessary" (Act of 1878, s. 125). Section 107 (5) of the Act of 1878 relates to overcrowding.

Nuisances in ships.

"For the purpose of the provisions of this Act relating to nuisances any ship or vessel lying in any river, harbour, or other water within the district of a sanitary authority shall be subject to the jurisdiction of that authority in the same manner as if it were a house within such district; and any ship or vessel lying in any river, harbour, or other water not within the district of a sanitary authority shall be deemed to be within the district of such sanitary authority as may have been or may be prescribed by the Local Government Board, and where no sanitary authority has been prescribed, then of the sanitary authority whose district nearest adjoins the place where such ship or vessel is lying. The master or other officer in charge of any such ship or vessel shall be deemed for the purpose of the said provisions to be the occupier of such ship or vessel. This section shall not apply to any ship or vessel under the command or charge of any officer bearing H.M. Commission, or to any ship or vessel belonging to any foreign government" (Act of 1878, s. 126).

The various port sanitary districts are laid down in the Order of the Local Government Board of 6th November 1890.

Tents and vans.

A sanitary authority may make bye-laws as to tents, vans, &c.; tents, vans, &c., may be entered and inspected by any person authorised by sanitary authority or justice of the peace—Penalty on obstruction, not exceeding 40s. (Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1885, 48 & 49 Vict. c. 72, s. 9).

WATER SUPPLY.

Supply by sanitary authority, p. 714; duty of sanitary authority as to meters, p. 714; meter evidence, p. 714; injuring meter, p. 714; abstracting, &c., water, p. 714; owner may be required to take water, p. 715; power to close polluted wells, p. 715; incorporation of Waterworks Clauses Acts, 1847 and 1863, p. 715; offences, &c., under Act of 1847, p. 715; offences, &c., under Act of 1863, p. 716.

Water supply.Supply by sanitary authority.Duty of sanitary authority as to meters.Meter evidence.Injuring meter, &c.Abstracting, &c., water.

Under the Act of 1878 the sanitary authority may supply water to any premises by agreement (Act of 1878, ss. 61–65), and may recover water rents and other moneys payable under such agreements in a summary manner (s. 66). Where they agree to supply by measure, they must keep all meters in proper order for registering the supply of water, and if they do not do so they are not entitled to any rent while the default continues (Act of 1878, s. 68). The register of the meter is prima facie evidence of the amount of water consumed and any dispute is to be determined by a court of summary jurisdiction who have full jurisdiction over the costs of the proceedings (Act of 1878, s. 69). "If any person wilfully or by culpable negligence injures or suffers to be injured any meter or fittings belonging to a sanitary authority, or fraudulently alters the index to any meter, or prevents any meter from duly registering the quantity of water supplied or fraudulently abstracts or uses water of the sanitary authority, he shall without prejudice to any other right or remedy of the sanitary authority be liable to a penalty not exceeding 40s. and the sanitary authority may in addition thereto recover the amount of any damage sustained. The existence of artificial means, under the control of the consumer, for causing any such alteration, prevention, abstraction or use shall be evidence that the consumer has fraudulently effected the same" (Act of 1878, s. 70).

<sup>1</sup> See Act of 1878, s. 107 (5), ante, p. 706, s. 91, post, p. 717.

Where any house within the district is without a proper supply of water and such supply can be furnished at a cost which the Local Government Board consider reasonable, the sanitary authority may require the owner in writing to obtain such supply within a specified time, and in default may do the work themselves and recover the expense in a summary manner, and may also levy a water rate as if the owner had demanded a supply (Act of 1878, s. 72).

"On the representation of any person to any sanitary authority that within their district the water in any well, tank, or cistern, public or private, or supplied from any public pump, and used or likely to be used by man for drinking or domestic purposes, or for manufacturing drinks for the use of man, is so polluted as to be injurious to health, such authority may apply to a court of summary jurisdiction for an order to remedy the same; and thereupon such court shall summon the owner or occupier of the premises to which the well, tank, or cistern, belongs, if it be private, and in the case of a public well, tank, cistern, or pump, any person alleged in the application to be interested in the same, and may either dismiss the application or may make an order directing the well, tank, cistern, or pump to be permanently or temporarily closed, or the water to be used for certain purposes only or such other order as may appear to them to be requisite to prevent injury to the health of persons drinking the water. The court may, if they see fit, cause the water complained of to be analysed at the cost of the sanitary authority applying to them under this section. If the person on whom an order under this section is made fails to comply with the same, the court may, on the application of the sanitary authority, authorise them to do whatever may be necessary in the execution of the order, and any expenses incurred by them may be recovered in a summary manner from the person on whom the order is made" (Act of 1878, s. 79).

For the purpose of enabling any sanitary authority to supply water there is incorporated with the Public Health Act, 1878, the Waterworks Clauses Act, 1863, and the following provisions of the Waterworks Clauses Act, 1847. With respect to the breaking up of streets for the purpose of laying pipes (ss. 28-34); to the communication pipes to be laid by the undertakers (ss. 44-47); and by the inhabitants (ss. 48-53); to the waste or misuse of the water supplied by the undertakers (ss. 54-60); to the provisions for guarding against fouling the water of the undertakers (ss. 61-67), and to the payment and recovery of the water rates (ss. 68-74). Any dispute authorised or directed by any of the incorporated provisions to be settled by an inspector or two justices shall be settled by a court of summary jurisdiction (Act of 1878, s. 67).

The principal sections of the above Waterworks Clauses Acts are as follows:—Service pipes may not be removed by the proprietors without giving six days' notice in writing—Penalty, forfeiture to the undertakers of a sum not exceeding £5 (Waterworks Clauses Act, 1847, s. 51). If by the special Act it be provided that the water need not be constantly laid on at high pressure, every person shall, when required, provide a proper cistern and pipe, ball or stop-cock, and keep the same in good repair so as to prevent waste of water (s. 54); and every person who shall suffer any such cistern, pipe, ball or stop-cock to be out of repair so that water shall be wasted shall forfeit to the undertakers a sum not exceeding £5 (s. 55). Every owner or occupier of any tenement who shall supply to any other person or wilfully permit him to take any water from any cistern or pipe in any tenement unless to extinguish a fire, or unless he be supplied with water by the undertakers and his pipes be, without his default, out of Water supply.

Owner may be required to take water.

Power to close polluted wells.

Incorporation of Waterworks Clauses Acts, 1847 and 1863.

Offences under Waterworks Clauses Act, 1847.

Water supply.

repair, shall forfeit to the undertakers a sum not exceeding £5 (s. 58). Every person taking water supply without agreement shall forfeit to the undertakers a sum not exceeding £10 (s. 59). Every person who shall wilfully or carelessly break, injure, or open, any lock, cock, valve, pipe, work, or engine belonging to the undertakers, or who shall flush or draw off the water from the reservoirs or other works of the undertakers, or shall do any other wilful act whereby such water shall be wasted, shall forfeit to the undertakers a sum not exceeding £5 (s. 60). Every person who shall bathe in any stream, reservoir, aqueduct or other waterworks belonging to the undertakers, or wash, throw, or cause to enter therein, any dog or other animal, or throw any rubbish, dirt, filth, or other noisome thing into any such stream, reservoir, &c., or wash or cleanse therein any cloth, wool, leather, or skin of any animal, or any clothes, or other thing, or cause the water of any sink, sewer, or drain, steam-engine, boiler, or other filthy water belonging to him or under his control, to run or be brought into any stream, reservoir, aqueduct, or other waterworks belonging to the undertakers, or shall do any other act whereby the water of the undertakers shall be fouled, shall forfeit to the undertakers a sum not exceeding £5 and 20s. for each day the last mentioned offence (causing the water of any sink, &c.) is continued (s. 61). Sections 61–67 deal with the fouling of water by persons making gas.

Offences under !
Waterworks
Clauses Act, 1863.

If any person wilfully and negligently causes or suffers any pipe, valve, cock, cistern, bath, soil pan, water-closet, or other apparatus to be out of repair, or to be so used as to cause waste or contamination of water he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 (Waterworks Clauses Act, 1863, s. 17). If any person not having a supply of water for other than domestic purposes<sup>1</sup> uses for other than domestic purposes any water supplied to him, or having a supply of water for other than domestic purposes, uses it for any purpose other than those for which he is entitled—Penalty not exceeding 40s. (s. 18). Altering pipes, &c., without consent—Penalty not exceeding £5 (s. 19). If any person not being supplied with water by the undertakers wrongfully<sup>2</sup> takes or uses any water from any reservoir, watercourse, conduit, or pipe belonging to the undertakers, or from any pipe leading to or from such reservoir, &c., he shall for every such offence be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 (s. 20). There are also provisions for the recovery of water rates and rents for water meters, as to which see CIVIL JURISDICTION, p. 165, ante.

CELLAR DWELLINGS.*Prohibition of occupation of cellar
dwellings.<sup>1</sup>

The occupation of cellar dwellings is prohibited, save in the case of such dwellings as were let and occupied as dwellings on the 8th August 1878, and in such cases only subject to a variety of restrictions (Act of 1878, ss. 82, 83). Penalties are provided (s. 84), and in case of two convictions within three months the closing of the premises may be ordered (Act of 1878, s. 86).

<sup>1</sup> A supply for domestic purposes does not include a supply for cattle or horses, or washing horses or carriages where such horses or carriages are kept for sale or hire, or by a common carrier, or a supply for any trade, manufacture, or business, or for watering gardens, or for fountains, or any ornamental purpose (s. 12). A swimming bath for a school is not a domestic purpose (Barnard Castle U.D.C. v. Wilson (1902), 2 Ch. 746). But the washing of a car used by a doctor for professional purposes is a domestic purpose (Harrogate Corporation v. McKay (1907), 2 K.B. 611). See Pidgeon v. Great Yarmouth Waterworks Co. (1902), 1 K.B. 310; S.W. Suburban Water Co. v. Marylebone Guardians (1904), 2 K.B. 174. See also CIVIL JURISDICTION, ante, p. 166.

<sup>2</sup> Using water from a public fountain contrary to the regulations of the authority supplying them is an offence under this section (Hildreth v. Adamson (1860), 8 C.B., N.S., 587), but not taking water from a tap in an empty house (Piercy v. Pope (1881), 45 L.T., N.S., 477).

COMMON LODGING-HOUSES.

Notice over door, p. 717; miscellaneous offences, p. 717; water supply, p. 717; limewashing, p. 717; bye-laws, p. 717; inspection, p. 717; disqualification on third conviction, p. 718.

"The keeper of every common lodging-house<sup>1</sup> shall affix and keep undefaced and legible a notice with the words 'Registered Lodging-house' in some conspicuous place on the outside of such house. The keeper of any such house, who, after requisition in writing from the sanitary authority, refuses or neglects to affix or renew such notice shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5. and to a further penalty of 10s. for every day that such refusal or neglect continues after conviction" (Act of 1878, s. 90). Common lodging-houses. Notice over door.

"Any keeper of a common lodging-house who (1) receives any lodger in such house without the same being registered under this Act,<sup>2</sup> or (2) fails to make a report after he has been furnished by the sanitary authority with schedules for the purpose, in pursuance of this Act, of the persons resorting to such house,<sup>3</sup> or (3) fails to give the notices required by this Act where any person has been confined to his bed in such house by fever or other infectious disease,<sup>4</sup> shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5, and in the case of a continuing offence to a further penalty not exceeding 40s. for every day during which the offence continues" (Act of 1878, s. 97). Miscellaneous offences.

Where a common lodging-house can be, but is not, provided with a water supply at a reasonable rate for the use of lodgers, the sanitary authority may serve a notice requiring a supply to be provided; and if such notice be not complied with the house may be removed from the register (Act of 1878, s. 92). Water supply to lodging-house.

"The keeper of a common lodging-house shall, to the satisfaction of the sanitary authority, limewash the walls and ceilings thereof in the first week of each of the months of April and October in every year, and shall, if he fails to do so, be liable to a penalty not exceeding 40s., and in the event of such failure the work may be executed by the sanitary authority and the cost recovered in a summary manner" (Act of 1878, s. 93). Lime-washing.

"Every sanitary authority shall from time to time make bye-laws (1) for fixing and from time to time varying the number of lodgers who may be received into a common lodging-house, and for the separation of the sexes therein; and (2) for promoting cleanliness and ventilation in such houses; and (3) for the giving of notices and the taking precautions in the case of any infectious disease; and (4) generally for the well ordering of such houses" (Act of 1878, s. 91). Bye-laws.

"The keeper of a common lodging-house, and every other person having or acting in the care or management thereof, shall, at all times, when required by any officer of the sanitary authority, give him free access to such house or any part thereof; and any such keeper or person Inspection.

<sup>1</sup> A common lodging-house is defined by sec. 2 as "a house in which, or in any part of which, persons are harboured or lodged for hire for a single night or for less than a week at a time." Lord Hatherly and Cockburn, L.C.J., as law officers, in 1853 advised that the term did not include hotels, inns, public-houses, or lodgings let to the upper or middle classes. (See Lumley's Public Health, 7th ed., p. 151.)

<sup>2</sup> The Act provides for the registration of lodging-houses by the sanitary authority (s. 87).

<sup>3</sup> The sanitary authority have power to require in writing the keeper of a common lodging-house to report to them, or to such person as they direct, every person who resorted to such house during the preceding day or night (s. 94).

<sup>4</sup> The keeper of a common lodging-house shall when a person is ill of fever or any infectious disease give immediate notice thereof to an officer of the sanitary authority and also to the poor law relieving officer of union in which the common lodging-house is situated (s. 95).

Common lodging-houses.

Disqualification on third conviction.

who refuses such access shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5" (Act of 1878, s. 96).

"Where the keeper of a common lodging-house is convicted of a third offence against any of the provisions of this Act relating to common lodging-houses, the court before whom the conviction for such third offence takes place may, if it thinks fit, adjudge that he shall not at any time within five years after the conviction, or within such shorter period after the conviction as the court thinks fit, keep a common lodging-house without the previous licence in writing of the sanitary authority, which licence the sanitary authority may withhold or grant on such terms and conditions as they think fit" (Act of 1878, s. 99).

There is no power to cancel the licence except under this section, or when the owner or keeper neglects to supply the house with water after notice from the sanitary authority under s. 92. Accordingly, even though the house is of bad repute, the authority cannot withdraw the licence (Blake v. Kelly (1887), 52 J.P. 263). But where the Act of 1907 is operative, see p. 756, post.

HOUSES LET IN LODGINGS.*Houses let in lodgings.

Every sanitary authority "shall be empowered to make bye-laws for the following matters:—

"(1) For fixing, and from time to time varying the number of persons who may occupy a house or part of a house which is let in lodgings or occupied by members of more than one family, and for the separation of the sexes in a house so let or occupied; (2) for the registration of houses so let or occupied; (3) for the inspection of such houses; (4) for enforcing drainage and the provision of privy accommodation for such houses, and for promoting cleanliness and ventilation in such houses; (5) for the cleansing and limewashing at stated times of the premises, and for the paving of the courts and courtyards thereof; (6) for the giving of notices and the taking of precautions in case of any infectious disease" (Act of 1878, s. 100, as amended by Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1885, s. 8).

The above section does not apply to common lodging-houses (Act of 1878, s. 101). The section applies even where there is only one lodger beside the owner (Roots v. Beaumont (1886), 50 J.P. 244; 51 J.P. 197).

SLAUGHTERHOUSES.

Urban authority may provide, p. 718; bye-laws, p. 718; notice on premises, p. 719; suspension, &c., of licences, p. 719; inspection and seizure of unsound meat, p. 719; obstructing inspector, p. 720; provisions of Act of 1890, p. 720.

Slaughter-houses.

Urban authority may provide. Bye-laws.

"Any urban authority may, if they think fit, provide slaughterhouses, and they shall make bye-laws with respect to the management and charges for the use of any slaughterhouses so provided. For the purpose of enabling any urban authority to regulate slaughterhouses within their district, the provisions of the Towns' Improvement Clauses Act, 1847, with respect to slaughterhouses<sup>1</sup> shall be incorporated with this Act. Nothing in this section shall prejudice or affect any rights, powers, or privileges of any persons incorporated by any local Act in force at the time of the passing of this Act for the purpose of making and maintaining slaughterhouses. Any urban authority may make bye-laws for the decent and seemly conveyance of meat through the public thoroughfares" (Act of 1878, s. 105).

<sup>1</sup> These incorporated sections (ss. 125–131) are:—Power to commissioners to license (s. 125). Licence required unless for existing and continuously used premises; penalty on using unlicensed premises, £5, and £5 a day (s. 126). Slaughterhouse or knackers' yard to be registered; penalty not exceeding £5 and 10s. a day (s. 127). Power to make bye-laws for licensing, registration, and inspection, and preventing cruelty, and for keeping clean, and for providing with sufficient water, subject to maximum penalties of £5 and 10s. a day (s. 128). Power to justice, on conviction, to revoke or suspend licence (s. 129). Penalty for slaughtering during suspension of licence (s. 130). Power to officers to enter and

"'Slaughterhouse' includes the buildings and places commonly called slaughterhouses and knackers' yards, and any building or place used for slaughtering cattle, horses, or animals of any description for sale" (Act of 1878, s. 2). The term includes "premises in use with the actual slaughterhouse for processes connected with the slaughtering" (Hides v. Littlejohn (1896), 18 Cox 219).

"The owner or occupier of any slaughterhouse licensed or registered under this Act shall, within one month from the licensing or registration of the premises, affix, and shall keep undefaced and legible on some conspicuous place on the premises a notice with the words 'Licensed Slaughterhouse,' or 'Registered Slaughterhouse' as the case may be. Any person who makes default in this respect, or who neglects or refuses to affix or renew such notice after requisition in writing from the urban authority, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 for every such offence, and of 10s. for every day during which such offence continues after conviction" (Act of 1878, s. 106).

On conviction of killing or dressing any cattle contrary to the Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847, or the Act with which that Act is incorporated, or of the non-observance of any of the bye-laws or regulations made under either of such Acts, the licence may be suspended for any period not exceeding two months; if defendant be the owner or proprietor, slaughtering may be forbidden for any period not exceeding two months; on conviction for subsequent like offence, licence may be revoked, or if defendant be the owner or proprietor, slaughtering may be absolutely forbidden (Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1854, s. 129). Using slaughterhouse after suspension, &c., of licence—Penalty, not exceeding £5, and a further penalty of £5 a day for every day after conviction for first offence (Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847, s. 130).

"The inspector of nuisances, the officer of health, or any other officer appointed by the commissioners for that purpose, may at all reasonable times, with or without assistants, enter into and inspect any building or place whatsoever within the said limits kept or used for the sale of butchers' meat or for slaughtering cattle and examine whether any cattle or the carcase of any such cattle is deposited there, and in case such officer shall find any cattle or the carcase or part of the carcase of any beast which appears unfit for the food of man, he may seize and carry the same before a justice, and such justice shall forthwith order the same to be further inspected and examined by competent persons; and in case upon such inspection and examination such cattle, carcase, or part of a carcase be found to be unfit for the food of man, such justice shall order the same to be immediately destroyed, or otherwise disposed of in such way as to prevent the same being exposed for sale or used for the food of man; and such justice may adjudge the person to whom such cattle, carcase, or part of a carcase belongs, or in whose custody the same is found, to pay a penalty not exceeding £10 for every such animal, or carcase, or part of a carcase so found; and the owner or occupier of any building or place kept or used for the sale of butchers' meat, or for slaughtering cattle, and every other person, who obstructs or hinders such inspector inspect and seize and destroy carcases unfit for food (s. 131). Section 131 is given verbatim, post. In Collman v. Mills (1897), 1 Q.B. 396, it was held that bye-laws might be made so as to make a master responsible for the acts of his servant, though done without his knowledge, and against his orders.

Slaughter-houses.

Obstructing inspector.

or other officer from entering into and inspecting the same, and examining, seizing, or carrying away such animal, or carcase, or part of a carcase, so appearing to be unfit for the food of man, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 for each offence" (Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847, s. 131; see also Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, ss. 132, 135).

The owner of the cattle, &c., need not receive notice of the examination, and an order under the section other than an order inflicting the penalty may be made behind his back (see White v. Redfern (1879), 5 Q.B.D. 15; Thomas v. Van Os (1900), 2 Q.B. 448). the reason of this exceptional course being the urgency of the matter in the public interest (see observations of Lord Alverstone, L.C.J., in Ex parte Francis (1903), 1 K.B. 275).

Provisions of Act of 1890, as to slaughter-houses.

Where Part III. of the Public Health Amendment Act, 1890, has been adopted under s. 3 of that Act by the local authority in urban districts, the following sections are applicable: Licences for slaughterhouses granted after such adoption shall be in force for such time only, not being less than twelve months, as the urban authority shall think fit (Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1890, s. 29). Notice of any change of occupation of slaughterhouses is to be given by the new owner within one month—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (s. 30). If the owner of any building licensed as a slaughterhouse for the killing of animals intended as human food is convicted by a court of summary jurisdiction of selling or exposing for sale, or having in his possession or on his premises, the carcase of any animal or any piece of meat or flesh diseased or unsound, or unwholesome or unfit for the use of man as food, the court may revoke the licence (s. 31).

HOUSING OF THE WORKING CLASSES ACTS.

Report by medical officer of health, p. 720; order for closing, p. 720; order for demolition, p. 720; disobeying closing order, p. 721; obstructing operation of Acts, p. 721; lodging-houses owned by local authority, p. 721; recovery of penalty, p. 722; form of summons, p. 722; form of closing order, p. 722.

Housing of the Working Classes Acts.

Report by medical officer of health.

Order for closing.

Order for demolition.

Under the Housing of the Working Classes (Ir.) Acts, 1890 to 1908,<sup>1</sup> powers as to dealing with houses unfit for human habitation are given to the sanitary authorities. The medical officer is to report on dwellings which are unfit for human habitation (Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890, ss. 30 and 31), and the sanitary authority is then to take steps under ss. 107, 110, 111, 112, and 113 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878 (see p. 708); and any such proceedings may be taken for the purpose of causing any such dwelling to be closed whether occupied or not, and upon such proceedings the court of summary jurisdiction may impose a penalty not exceeding £20 and make a closing order in the form in the Fourth Schedule to the Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890 (see p. 733) or to the like effect, and the enactments respecting an appeal from a closing order shall apply to the imposition of such penalty as well as to a closing order (Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890, 53 & 54 Vict. c. 70, s. 32 (2)).

Where proceedings are taken by the local authority under section 32 of the Act of 1890<sup>2</sup> for the purpose of causing a dwelling-house to be closed, the court, in addition to or instead of making an order under that section, may order such dwelling-house to be demolished, unless, within such period as may be prescribed in the order, such dwelling-house be rendered fit, to the satisfaction of the local authority, for human habitation; and where such demolition order has been made, and the dwelling-house is not within the time prescribed by the order rendered fit to the satisfaction of the local authority for human habitation, the order shall be carried into effect in the manner provided by section 34 of the said Act: <sup>1</sup> provided that, where proceedings are taken against the occupier, notice of such proceedings shall be served on the owner. Section 33 of the said Act shall be repealed so far as it is inconsistent with this section" (Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1908, 3 Ed. 7, c. 39, s. 9). Section 9 of the Act of 1903 (relating to recovery of expenses of demolition) is extended to Ireland by s. 10 of the Housing of the Working Classes Act of 1908.

<sup>1</sup> Collective title given by the Housing of the Working Classes (Ir.) Act, 1908, to the following statutes:—Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890 (53 & 54 Vict. c. 70), Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1893 (56 & 57 Vict. c. 33), Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1894 (57 & 58 Vict. c. 55), Housing of the Working Classes (Ir.) Act, 1896 (59 & 60 Vict. c. 11), and Housing of the Working Classes (Ir.) Act, 1908 (8 Ed. 7, c. 61).

<sup>2</sup> The Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890.

Housing of the Working Classes Acts.

"Where a closing order has been made as respects any dwelling-house, the local authority shall serve notice of the order on every occupying tenant of the dwelling-house, and within such period as is specified in the notice, not being less than seven days after the service of the notice, the order shall be obeyed by him, and he and his family shall cease to inhabit the dwelling-house, and in default he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding 20s. a day during his disobedience to the order. Provided that the local authority may make to every such tenant such reasonable allowance, on account of his expenses in removing, as may have been authorised by the court making the closing order, which authority the court is hereby authorised to give, and the amount of the said allowance shall be a civil debt due from the owner of the dwelling-house to the local authority, and shall be recoverable summarily" (Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890, s. 32 (3)).

Disobeying closing order.

"(1) If any person being the occupier of any dwelling-house prevents the owner thereof, or being the owner or occupier of any dwelling-house prevents the medical officer of health, or the officers, agents, servants, or workmen of such owner or officer, from carrying into effect with respect to the dwelling-house any of the provisions of this part of this Act,<sup>2</sup> after notice of the intention so to do has been given to such person, any court of summary jurisdiction on proof thereof may order such person to permit to be done on such premises all things requisite for carrying into effect, with respect to such dwelling-house, the provisions of this part of this Act. (2) If at the expiration of ten days after the service of such order such person fails to comply therewith, he shall for every day during which the failure continues be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £20: Provided that if any such failure is by the occupier, the owner, unless assenting thereto, shall not be liable to such fine" (Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890, s. 51).

Obstructing operation of Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890.

"Where any person obstructs the medical officer of health, or any officer of the local authority, or of the confirming authority mentioned in Part I. of this Act, in the performance of anything which such officer or authority is by this Act required or authorised to do, such person shall, on summary conviction, be liable to a fine not exceeding £20" (Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890, s. 89).

A local authority may purchase and manage existing or erect new lodging-houses (Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890, ss. 58, 59, 61). The local authority may make bye-laws for the management, use, and Lodging-houses owned by local authority.

<sup>1</sup> Which provides that "where an order for the demolition of a building has been made, the owner thereof shall within three months after service of the order proceed to take down and remove the building, and if the owner fails therein, the local authority shall proceed to take down and remove the building and shall sell the materials, and after deducting the expenses incident to such taking down and removal, pay over the balance of money (if any) to the owner."

<sup>2</sup> Part II., dealing with unhealthy dwellings.

Housing of the Working Classes Acts.
Recovery of penalty.

regulation of their lodging-houses (s. 62), and ss. 219–223 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, shall apply to such bye-laws (ss. 84, 98).

Offences under the Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890, punishable on summary conviction, may be prosecuted and fines recovered in manner provided by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts <sup>1</sup> (Act of 1890, s. 90).

Form of summons.

FORM OF SUMMONS FOR CLOSING ORDER.

(See Sch. 4 (Form B), Act of 1890.)

To the owner or occupier of [describe the premises] situated at [insert such a description as may be sufficient to identify the premises].

County of [or borough, &c.
of
or district of or as the case may be]
to Wit.

You are required to appear before [describe the court of summary jurisdiction] at the petty sessions [or court] holden at _____ on the _____ day of _____ next at the hour of _____ in the _____ noon to answer the complaint this day made to me by _____ that the premises above mentioned are used as a dwelling-house, and are in a state so dangerous or injurious to health as to be unfit for human habitation.

Given under my hand and seal this _____ day of _____ 19 _____.

Form of closing order.

FORM OF CLOSING ORDER.

(See Sch. 4 (Form C), Act of 1890.)

To the owner [or occupier] of [describe the premises] situated [give such description as may be sufficient to identify the premises].

County of _____ [or borough &c. of
or district of
or as the case may be].

Whereas on the _____ day of _____ complaint was made before _____ Esquire one of H.M. Justices of the Peace acting in and for the county [or other jurisdiction] stated in the margin [or as the case may be] by _____ that certain premises situated at _____ in the district under the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, of [describe the Local Authority] were in a state so dangerous or injurious to health as to be unfit for human habitation.

And whereas _____ the owner [or occupier] within the meaning of the said Public Health Act, 1878, hath this day appeared before us [or me, describing the court] to answer the matter of the said complaint [or, in case the party charged do not appear say] and whereas it hath been this day proved to our [or my] satisfaction that a true copy of the summons requiring the owner [or occupier] of the said premises [or the said A. B.] to appear this day before us [or me] hath been duly served according to the said Act and the Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890:

Now on proof here had before us [or me] that the said premises are in a state so dangerous or injurious to health as to be unfit for human habitation we [or I] in pursuance of the said Acts do prohibit the using of the premises for the purpose of human habitation until in our [or my] judgment they are rendered fit for that purpose.

Given under the hands and seals of us [or the hand and seal of me, describing the Court], this day of _____ 19 _____

J. P. (L. S.)

J. P. (L. S.)

OFFENSIVE TRADES.

Offensive
trades.
Prohibition of.

"Any person who . . . establishes within the district of an urban authority without their consent in writing any offensive trade, that is to say the trade of blood' boiler, or bone boiler, or fellmonger, or soap boiler, or tallow melter, or tripe boiler, or gut manufacturer, or any other noxious or offensive trade, business or manufacture" <sup>2</sup>—Penalty, not exceeding £50 for the establishment and not exceeding 40s. a day for every day the offence is continued, whether there has or has not been a conviction in respect of the establishment thereof (Act of 1878, s. 128). Offensive trades.

<sup>1</sup> Which (see the Interpretation Act, 1889) means as regards Ireland the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Acts, as to which see p. 335.

<sup>2</sup> Where s. 51 of the Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1907, 7 Ed. 7, c. 53, is applied, the words "any other trade, business, or manufacture which the local authority declare by order confirmed by the L.G.B. and published in such manner as the Board direct to be an offensive trade" shall be substituted for the words "any other nuisance or offensive trade, business, or manufacture," in the above section (Act of 1907, ss. 14, 15).

Bone steaming, as distinguished from bone boiling, is not necessarily within the section (Cardiff Manure Co. v. Cardiff Guardians (1890), 54 J.P. 661). A trade other than those specifically mentioned, to come within the section must be both (1) necessarily noxious or offensive (Wanstead Local Board v. Hill (1863), 13 C.B., N.S., 479), and not merely carried on in such a manner as to be noxious or offensive, as fish frying (Braintree L.B. v. Boyton (1884), 52 L.T. 99), or dealing in artificial manures (Cardell v. New Quay L.B. (1875), 39 J.P. 742), and (2) ejusdem generis with the trades specified (Passey v. Oxford L.B. (1879), 43 J.P. 622). A smallpox hospital accordingly does not come within the section (Withington L.B. v. Manchester Corp. (1893), 2 Ch. 19).

“Where any candle house, melting house, melting place, or soap house, or any slaughter house, or any building or place for boiling offal or blood, or for boiling, burning, or crushing bones, or any manufactory, building, or place used for any trade, business, process, or manufacture causing effluvia, is certified to any urban authority by their medical officer of health, or by any two legally qualified medical practitioners or by any ten inhabitants of the district of such urban authority, to be a nuisance or injurious to the health of any of the inhabitants of the district, such urban authority shall direct complaint to be made before a justice, who may summon the person by or on whose behalf the trade so complained of is carried on to appear before a court of summary jurisdiction. The court shall inquire into the complaint and if it appears to the court that the business carried on by the person complained of is a nuisance, or causes any effluvia which is a nuisance or injurious to the health of any of the inhabitants of the district, and unless it be shown that such person has used the best practicable means for abating such nuisance, or preventing or counteracting such effluvia, the person so offending (being the owner or occupier of the premises, or being a foreman or other person employed by such owner or occupier) shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 nor less than 40s., and on a second and any subsequent conviction to a penalty double the amount of the penalty imposed for the last preceding conviction,” but not to exceed £200. “The court may suspend its final determination on condition that the person complained of undertakes to adopt, within a reasonable time, such means as the court may deem to be practicable and order to be carried into effect for abating such nuisance, or mitigating or preventing the injurious effects of such effluvia, or if such person gives notice of appeal to the court of quarter sessions in manner provided by this Act” (Act of 1878, s. 130). Nuisance from trades.

The effluvia, if a nuisance, need not necessarily be injurious to health, as the smell of frying fish (Houldershaw v. Martin (1885), 1 T.L.R. 323, and see cases cited in Vanston's Public Health, 1st ed., p. 135). The above sections (129 and 130) apply also where the business is carried on outside the district, but is a nuisance or injurious to the health of persons within the district. The summary proceedings must be had in the place where the business is situate (see Act of 1878, s. 131).

“Every urban authority shall from time to time, with the sanction of the Local Government Board, make bye-laws with respect to any offensive trades established with their consent . . . in order to prevent or diminish the noxious or injurious effects thereof” (s. 129). Bye-laws.

UN SOUND MEAT AND OTHER ARTICLES INTENDED FOR FOOD.

Power of inspection, &c., by medical officer of health, p. 724 ; destruction may be ordered, p. 724 ; hindering officer, p. 725 ; search warrant, p. 725 ; who may prosecute, 725.

Unsound meat and food.

Power of medical officer of health to inspect meat,
&c.

" Any sanitary officer of the sanitary authority may, at all reasonable times, inspect and examine any animal, carcase, meat, poultry, game, flesh, fish, fruit, vegetables, corn, bread, flour, milk, or butter exposed or being conveyed for sale, or deposited in any place for the purpose of sale or of preparation for sale, and intended for the food of man, the proof that the same was not exposed or being conveyed or deposited for any such purpose, or was not intended for the food of man, resting with the party charged ; and if any such animal, carcase, meat, poultry, game, flesh, fish, fruit, vegetables, corn, bread, flour, milk, or butter appears to such sanitary officer to be diseased, or unsound, or unwholesome, or unfit for the food of man, he may seize and carry away the same himself, or by an assistant, in order to have the same dealt with by a justice ; and, should he seize the same in a public thoroughfare, may require the person conveying the same to give his own name and address and that of the owner of the articles seized, and in default, or if the officer have reasonable ground for suspecting the names or addresses so given to be false, may detain such person and give him into custody until his real name and address be ascertained. Any person giving a false name or address to any officer authorised to demand the same under this section shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 " (Act of 1878, s. 132).

It should be noted that all foods are not included in the section.<sup>1</sup> Sunday is not necessarily, but may be, an unreasonable time (Small v. Bickley (1875), 32 L.T. 726).

Diseased meat placed on a cart, when passing along the streets from a slaughterhouse to a place for the manufacture of preserved meat, was held to be " exposed for sale " within 26 & 27 Vict. c. 117, s. 2 (Daly v. Webb (1869), I.R. 4 C.L. 309). The word " place " is not confined to places ejusdem generis with those specifically mentioned, but is used generally (Young v. Gratbridge (1868), L.R. 4 Q.B. 166).

Power of justice to order destruction of unsound meat, &c.

" If it appears to the justice that any animal, carcase, meat, poultry, game, flesh, fish, fruit, vegetables, corn, bread, flour, milk, or butter so seized is diseased, or unsound, or unwholesome, or unfit for the food of man, he shall condemn the same, and order it to be destroyed or so disposed of as to prevent it from being exposed for sale or used for the food of man ; and the person to whom the same belongs or did belong at the time of exposure or conveyance for sale, or in whose possession or on whose premises the same was found, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £20 for every animal, carcase, or fish, or piece of meat, flesh, or fish, or any poultry or game, or for the parcel of fruit, vegetables, corn, bread, or flour, or for the milk or butter so condemned, or at the discretion of the justice, without the infliction of a fine, to imprisonment for a term of not more than three months. The justice who, under this section, is empowered to convict the offender may be either the justice who may have ordered the article to be disposed of or destroyed or any other justice having jurisdiction in the place " (Act of 1878, s. 133).

The justice has two functions under this section. Firstly, when proceedings are taken for condemnation of the article, he has merely to inquire whether the article is unsound, unwholesome, or unfit for the food of man, and, if he so finds, it is his duty to condemn the article, and he is not entitled to consider whether it is intended for the food of man (White v. Redfern (1879), 5 Q.B.D. 15 ; Vinter v. Hind (1882), 10 Q.B.D. 63 ; Thomas v. Van Os (1900), 2 Q.B. 448) ; and secondly, when proceedings are taken for the penalty, he should then inquire both whether it is unfit for the food of man and also intended for the food of man, &c. (Vinter v. Hind, supra). The condemnation need not be on the same day as the seizure, if reasonable diligence is used (Burton v. Bradley (1886), 51 J.P. 118). The order condemning the meat, &c., may be made ex parte (White v. Redfern (1879), 5 Q.B.D. 15), but the justice, if he thinks fit, may hear evidence tendered by the owner (Re Bater (1893), 2 Q.B. 77). It has been held by the Recorder of Portsmouth that live animals come within the section (Moody v. Leach (1880), 44 J.P. 459).

<sup>1</sup> The Act of 1890, where applicable, extends the definition to all food. See post, p. 737.

Unsound
meat and food.

In proceedings for the penalty, the meat, &c., must be both (1) exposed, or being conveyed for sale, or deposited in a place for the purpose of sale or of preparation for sale, and (2) intended for the food of man (Vinter v. Hind, supra). A cart is a place (Daly v. Webb (1869), I.R. 4 C.L. 309). Actual knowledge that the meat, &c., is unfit for human food is unnecessary for a conviction, for, under the sections, a vendor sells unsound meat at his peril (Hobbs v. Winchester Corporation (1910), 102 L.T.J. 841; Blaker v. Tillstone (1894), 1 Q.B. 345). Even though the justice has condemned the meat under the first part of the section, the defendant, in a prosecution for the penalty, is entitled to bring evidence to show that the meat was sound (Waye v. Thompson (1885), 15 Q.B.D. 342). The exposing of each piece of meat is a distinct offence (Re Hartley (1862), 26 J.P. 438). It is an offence to have unsound meat intended for the food of man in one's possession though it is not exposed for sale (Mallinson v. Carr (1891), 1 Q.B. 48), provided that it is deposited for sale (Rendell v. Hemmingway (1894), 14 T.L.R. 436). As to evidence that it was deposited for sale, see Wieland v. Butler-Hogan (1904), 20 Cox 630. It has been held that the deposit for purpose of sale on premises of another is not sufficient for a conviction (Barlow v. Terrett (1891), 2 Q.B. 107; Firth v. McPhail (1905), 2 K.B. 300).

"Any person who in any manner prevents any sanitary officer, or other person duly authorised by the sanitary authority of the sanitary district, from entering any premises in such district and inspecting any animal, carcase, meat, poultry, game, flesh, fish, fruit, vegetables, corn, bread, flour, milk, or butter exposed or deposited for the purpose of sale or of preparation for sale, and intended for the food of man, or who obstructs or impedes any such officer or person when carrying into execution the provisions of this Act, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5" (Act of 1878, s. 134). There was held to be no obstruction in refusing to open a butcher's shop some distance away, out of business hours (Small v. Bickley (1875), 32 L.T. 726).

Hindering officer.

"On complaint made on oath by a sanitary officer, or other person duly authorised by a sanitary authority, any justice may grant a warrant to any such officer or person to enter any building or part of a building in which such officer or person has reason for believing that there is kept or concealed any animal, carcase, meat, poultry, game, flesh, fish, fruit, vegetables, corn, bread, flour, milk, or butter which is intended for sale for the food of man, and is diseased, unsound, or unwholesome, or unfit for the food of man; and to search for, seize, and carry away any such animal or other article in order to have the same dealt with by a justice under the provisions of this Act. Any person who obstructs any such officer or person in the performance of his duty under such warrant shall, in addition to any other punishment to which he may be subject, be liable to a penalty not exceeding £20" (Act of 1878, s. 135).

Search warrant may be granted by a justice.

As to compensation for loss of meat seized, see p. 732. As to L.G.B. regulations as to importation, &c., of food, see note 2 p. 727, post.

S. 257 is applicable; therefore a police constable cannot prosecute without the consent of the Attorney-General (Dodd v. Pearson (1911), 27 T.L.R. 376).

Who may prosecute.

INFECTIOUS DISEASES.

Causing premises to be cleansed and disinfected, p. 726; ordering removal of infected person to hospital, p. 726; exposure of infected persons and things, p. 726; failing to disinfect public conveyance, p. 727; letting houses in which infectious persons have been lodging, p. 727; landlord making false statements, p. 727; infection in schools, p. 727; regulations of L.G.B., p. 727; notification of infectious diseases under Infectious Diseases (Notification) Act, 1889, p. 728; notification of infectious diseases under Infectious Diseases (Prevention) Act, 1890, p. 729.

Infectious diseases.

Causing premises to be cleansed and disinfected.

"Where any sanitary authority are of opinion, on the certificate of their sanitary officer, or of any legally qualified medical practitioner,<sup>1</sup> that the cleansing and disinfecting of any house or part thereof, and of any articles therein likely to retain infection, would tend to prevent or check infectious disease, it shall be the duty of such authority to give notice in writing to the owner or occupier of such house or part thereof, requiring him to cleanse and disinfect such house or part thereof and articles within a time specified in such notice. If the person to whom notice is so given fails to comply therewith, he shall be liable to a penalty of not less than 1s. and not exceeding 40s. for every day during which he continues to make default; and the sanitary authority shall cause such house or part thereof and articles to be cleansed and disinfected, and may recover the expenses incurred from the owner or occupier in default in a summary manner. Where the owner or occupier of any such house or part thereof is, from poverty or otherwise, unable, in the opinion of the sanitary authority, effectually to carry out the requirements of this section, such authority may, without enforcing such requirements on such owner or occupier, with his consent, cleanse and disinfect such house or part thereof and articles and defray the expenses thereof" (Act of 1878, s. 137).

Ordering removal of infected person to hospital.

Removal of infected persons without proper lodging or accommodation to hospital may be ordered by justices on certificate of registered medical practitioner and consent of superintending body of hospital. Wilfully disobeying or obstructing the execution of such order—Penalty, not exceeding £10 (Act of 1878, s. 141). It has been held that the English section, which is almost identical, empowers justices to make an order for removal to hospital in a case where the sick person, though occupying a separate room, is a source of danger to the other inhabitants of the house (Warwick v. Graham (1899), 2 Q.B. 191). The order may be made ex parte, and the justices cannot, on proceedings for the recovery of the penalty, go into grounds on which it was made (R. v. Davey (1899), 2 Q.B. 301).

Exposure of infected persons and things.

"Any person who (1) while suffering from any dangerous infectious disorder wilfully exposes himself without proper precautions against spreading the said disorder in any street, public place, shop, inn, or public conveyance, or enters any public conveyance without previously notifying to the owner, conductor, or driver thereof that he is so suffering; or (2) being in charge of<sup>2</sup> any person so suffering, so exposes such sufferer; or (3) gives, lends, sells, transmits, or exposes, without previous disinfection, any bedding, clothing, rags, or other things which have been exposed to infection from any such disorder; or (4) exposes or conveys without proper precaution the body of any person who has died of any dangerous infectious disorder; or (5) wakes or permits to be waked in any house, room, or place, over which he has control, the body of any person who has died of any dangerous infectious disorder, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5; and a person who, while suffering from any such disorder, enters any public conveyance without previously notifying to the owner or driver that he is so suffering, may be summarily ejected therefrom and shall, in addition, be ordered by the court to pay such owner and driver the amount of any loss and expense they may incur in carrying into effect the provisions of this Act with respect to disinfection of the conveyance. Provided that no proceeding under this section shall be taken against persons transmitting with proper precautions any bedding, clothing, rags or other things for the purpose of having the same disinfected" (Act of 1878, s. 142).

<sup>1</sup> That is, a registered medical practitioner (21 & 22 Vict. c. 90, s. 34).

<sup>2</sup> As to what is "in charge" see Tunbridge Wells Board v. Bishopp (1877), 2 C.P.D. 187. Irrespective of this section, it is an indictable offence to expose a person suffering from an infectious disease (R. v. Vantandillo (1815), 4 M. & S. 73).

Infectious diseases.

"Every owner or driver of a public conveyance shall immediately provide for the disinfection of such conveyance after it has to his knowledge conveyed any person suffering from a dangerous infectious disorder, or any bedding, clothing, rags or other things which have been exposed to infection from such disorder, and which have not been previously disinfected, and if he fails to do so he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5, but no such owner or driver shall be required to convey any person so suffering, or any such bedding, clothing, or other things until he has been paid a sum sufficient to cover any loss or expense incurred by him in carrying into effect the provisions of this section" (Act of 1878, s. 143).

Failing to disinfect public conveyance.

"Any person who knowingly lets for hire any house, room, or part of a house in which any person has been suffering from any dangerous infectious disorder without having such house, room, or part of a house and all articles therein liable to retain infection, disinfected to the satisfaction of a legally qualified medical practitioner<sup>1</sup> as testified by a certificate signed by him, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £20. For the purpose of this section, the keeper of an inn or school shall be deemed to let for hire part of a house to any person admitted as a guest into such inn or school respectively" (Act of 1878, s. 144).

Letting houses in which infectious persons have been lodging.

"Any person letting for hire, or showing for the purpose of letting for hire, any house or part of a house, who, on being questioned by any person negotiating for the hire of such house or part of a house as to the fact of there being or within three months previously having been therein any person suffering from any dangerous infectious disorder, or any person hiring or negotiating for the hire of any house or part of a house, who, on being questioned by any person letting, or showing for the purpose of letting, such house or part of a house as to the fact of any of the persons for whose use the said house or part of the house is about being hired being, or within three months previously, having been affected by any dangerous infectious disorder, knowingly makes a false answer to such question"—Penalty, not exceeding £20, or imprisonment with or without hard labour not exceeding one month (s. 145).

Landlord making false statements.

"Any person who shall knowingly or negligently send a child to school who, within the space of three months, has been suffering from any dangerous infectious disorder, or who has been resident in any house in which such dangerous infectious disorder shall have existed within the space of six weeks, without a certificate from some duly qualified medical practitioner that such child is free from disease and infection, and unless his or her clothes have been properly disinfected"—Penalty, not exceeding 40s. (Act of 1878, s. 146).

Infection in schools.

The Local Government Board may make regulations for preventing the spread of epidemic, endemic, or infectious disorders<sup>2</sup> to be published Regulations of Local Government Board.

<sup>1</sup> Registered under 21 & 22 Vict. c. 90, s. 34.

<sup>2</sup> The power is extended to making regulations as to importation, preparation, and storage of articles of food or drink by the Public Health (Regulations as to Food) Act, 1907.

Infectious diseases.

in the Dublin Gazette, a copy of which shall be sufficient evidence (s. 148)—Penalty for non-observance or obstruction, not exceeding £100; and daily penalty, not exceeding £50 a day (Public Health Act, 1896, 59 & 60 Vict. c. 19, s. 1 (3)). They may also make special regulations “where any part of Ireland appears to be threatened by any formidable epidemic, endemic, or infectious disease” (s. 149)—Penalty for wilful violation of any such regulation, or wilful obstruction of any person acting thereunder, not exceeding £5 (s. 154).

Notification of infectious diseases
under Infectious Diseases (Notification)
Act, 1889.

“(1) Where an inmate of any building used for human habitation within a district to which this Act extends is suffering from an infectious disease to which this Act applies, then, unless such building is a hospital in which persons suffering from an infectious disease are received, the following provisions shall have effect, that is to say: (a) the head of the family to which such inmate (in this Act referred to as the patient) belongs, and in his default the nearest relatives of the patient present in the building, or being in attendance on the patient, and in default of such relatives every person in charge of or in attendance on the patient, and in default of any such person the occupier of the building, shall, as soon as he becomes aware that the patient is suffering from an infectious disease to which this Act applies, send notice thereof to the medical officer of health of the district: (b) every medical practitioner attending on or called in to visit the patient shall forthwith, on becoming aware that the patient is suffering from an infectious disease to which this Act applies, send to the medical officer of health for the district a certificate stating the name of the patient, the situation of the building, and the infectious disease from which, in the opinion of such medical practitioner, the patient is suffering. (2) Every person required by this section to give a notice or certificate who fails to give the same, shall be liable on summary conviction in manner provided by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts to a fine not exceeding 40s.: Provided that if a person is not required to give notice in the first instance, but only in default of some other person, he shall not be liable to any fine if he satisfies the court that he had reasonable cause to suppose that the notice had been duly given” (Infectious Diseases (Notification) Act, 1889, s. 3).

Extent of 52
& 53 Vict.
c. 72.

“This Act shall extend to any urban, rural, or port sanitary district after the adoption thereof” (s. 2).

Procedure
under 52 &
53 Vict. c. 72.

The court of summary jurisdiction must consist of two justices at Petty Sessions as provided by s. 249 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878 (s. 18 (3)).

Diseases to which 52 & 53 Vict. c. 72
refer.

The Act refers to the following diseases: Smallpox, cholera, diphtheria, membranous croup, erysipelas, scarlatina or scarlet fever, typhus, typhoid, enteric, relapsing, continued, or puerperal fevers, and any infectious diseases to which the Act has been applied by the local authority of the district (s. 6). “‘Occupier’ includes a person having the charge, management, or control of a building, or of the part of a building in which the patient is, and in the case of a house the whole of which is let out in separate tenements, or in the case of a lodging-house the whole of which is let to lodgers, the person receiving the rent payable by the tenants or lodgers either as<sup>1</sup> his own account or as the agent of another person and in the case of a ship, vessel, or boat the master or other person in charge thereof” (s. 16). The Act applies to ships, vessels, boats, tents, vans, sheds, or similar structures used for human habitation, but not to vessels of a foreign government (s. 13); and it does not extend to any building, ship, &c., belonging to the Crown, or to any inmate of such building, ship, &c. (s. 15).

By the Infectious Diseases (Prevention) Act, 1890, 53 & 54 Vict. c. 34, which—see s. 3 thereof—is only applicable where adopted by the sanitary authority, provisions are made for the prevention of the spread of infection. The principal provisions are as follows: The Act applies to the diseases specifically mentioned in s. 6 of the Infectious Diseases (Notification) Act, 1889 (s. 2). The medical officer, if in possession of evidence that any person in the district is suffering from infectious disease caused by milk supplied, may obtain from a justice an order to inspect the dairy<sup>1</sup> from which such milk comes and report thereon to the local authority, who may prohibit the supplying of milk by that dairy (s. 4). Supplying milk in contravention of such order—Penalty, not exceeding £5, and 40s. per day (ss. 4, 16). If the medical officer or any other registered medical practitioner certifies that the cleansing and disinfection of any house or of any article therein likely to retain infection would tend to prevent or check infectious disease, and if the owner or occupier after receipt of the prescribed notice from the local authority calling on him to cleanse and disinfect fails so to do, the local authority may themselves do so, and recover the expense summarily (s. 5). The medical officer may require the disinfection of bedding under a penalty not exceeding £10 (s. 6). Persons ceasing to occupy infected rooms without having them disinfected or giving notice to the owner or making false statements are liable to penalty not exceeding £10 (s. 7). Dead infected bodies are not to remain in dwelling-place, sleeping-place or workroom—Penalty, not exceeding £10 (s. 8). Bodies of infected persons in hospital to be removed only for purpose of burial—Penalty, not exceeding £10 (s. 9). Justices may order bodies of persons who have died from infectious disease to be buried (s. 10). Public conveyances if used for carrying dead bodies to be disinfected—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (ss. 11, 16). Justice may order infected person without proper accommodation to be detained in hospital (s. 12). Infectious rubbish not to be thrown into ashpits—Penalty, not exceeding £5 and 40s. a day (ss. 13, 16). Penalties are recoverable summarily only on information made by local authority or their officer (s. 18).

<sup>1</sup> Sic.

Infectious diseases.
Notification under Infectious Diseases (Prevention) Act, 1890.

BURIALS.

Establishment by sanitary authority of mortuaries, p. 729; removal and burial of dead bodies where infection, &c., p. 729; powers of L.G.B. as to burial grounds, p. 729; burying contrary to L.G.B. Order, p. 730; penalty on burying in private grave, p. 730; animals not to graze in burial ground, p. 730; L.G.B. regulations as to burial ground, p. 730; fencing of private burial grounds, p. 730; Cemeteries Clauses Act, p. 731; property in graves, p. 731; coroner's order and registrar's certificate for burial, p. 731.

A sanitary authority has power to provide mortuaries, and may make bye-laws for the regulation of the same and as to charges for the use thereof and may provide thereby for the interment of any body received into a mortuary at fixed charges (Act of 1878, s. 157). Justices may order removal and burial of body in case of death from any infectious disease or of retention of body in a living-room, or in such a state as to endanger health. Obstructing the execution of such order—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (Act of 1878, s. 158). The body of any person who has died of any dangerous infectious disease in any hospital or place for the treatment of the sick shall not be removed from such hospital until removed direct to a mortuary or cemetery, and any person violating, or any officer of a hospital or other person who knowingly permits the violation of this provision shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 (ib.). See also the INFECTIOUS DISEASES (PREVENTION ACT, 1890), post.

Burials.
Provision of mortuaries.
Removal and burial of dead bodies in certain cases.

The Local Government Board are authorised, for the protection of public health, &c., to restrain the opening of new burial grounds, and to Powers of L.G.B. as to burial grounds.

<sup>1</sup> "Dairy" includes any place from which milk is supplied, or in which milk is kept for purpose of sale (s. 2).

Burials. order discontinuance of burials in specified places (Act of 1878, s. 162). See also s. 163 (as to directing local inquiry). s. 164 (as to postponing or varying order). s. 165 (as to Quakers). s. 166 (as to French Protestants), s. 168 (as to special licence).

Burying contrary to L.G.B. Order. "If any person, after the time mentioned in any order under this Act for the discontinuance of burials, knowingly and wilfully buries any body, or in anywise acts or assists in the burial of any body, in or under any church, chapel, churchyard, burial ground, or place of burial, or elsewhere, as the case may be, within the limits in which burials have by such order been ordered to be discontinued, in violation of the provisions of any such order, every person so offending shall, upon conviction thereof before a court of summary jurisdiction, forfeit a sum not exceeding £10" (Act of 1878, s. 167).

Penalty on burying in private grave without consent. "Where by usage or otherwise any grave, vault, or place of interment in any burial ground or cemetery has been the burial place of and used as such by any family, no corpse of any person not having been a member of such family shall be buried in such grave, vault, or place of interment without the consent in writing of some immediate relative of the member of such family last interred therein; and if any person shall knowingly act or assist in any burial contrary to the provisions of this section, every such person shall be liable, on summary conviction before a court of summary jurisdiction, to a penalty not exceeding £10; and upon any complaint made under this section it shall be lawful for the court to make such order for the exhumation and re-interment of such corpse so buried as to such court shall seem fit" (Act of 1878, s. 170).

Animals not to graze in burial ground. "No animal of any description shall be allowed to graze or to be within the limits of any burial ground having a sufficient fence: and it shall be lawful for a court of summary jurisdiction to order the owners of any animal or animals so found within such burial ground to pay as a fine a sum not exceeding 2s. and not less than 1s. for each animal so found as aforesaid, and to levy and dispose of said fine in the same manner as fines for trespass of cattle are now levied and disposed of under the provisions of the law at present in force in Ireland" (Act of 1878, s. 171).

L.G.B. regulations as to burial ground. Fencing, &c., of private burial ground. By s. 181 of the Act of 1878 the Local Government Board may make regulations as to burial grounds and as to places of reception of bodies previous to interment.<sup>1</sup>

Where a burial ground, not being attached to or contiguous to any church, chapel, or place of worship, nor situate in a private demesne, is without a sufficient fence or is not kept in decent order, the Burial Board for the district<sup>2</sup> may by notice in writing to the owner require him to fence it or put it in order, and on default may do so themselves, and for that purpose may enter on any adjoining lands, and any person injured may be compensated (s. 185), the amount of such compensation, if not more than £20 is claimed, to be determined by a court of summary jurisdiction and, if more is claimed, by arbitration<sup>3</sup> (Act of 1878, s. 274).

<sup>1</sup> The Local Government Board in pursuance of the powers conferred on them by this section have made the following rules dated 6th July 1888, which only apply to burial grounds provided under the Public Health Act.

The following will give an idea of the subject-matter of the rules:—

(1) Fencing and draining; (2) Division of area into grave spaces, readily ascertainable; map; (3) Size of grave spaces; (4) Depth; (5) Regulations as to interment; (6) One body only to be buried in a grave at one time unless the bodies be those of members of the same family; (7) Restrictions on opening of graves; (8) Regulations as to coffins; (9) Registry book to be kept; copy of rules shall be kept constantly affixed to the registry book; (10) Entry in registry book; (11) Body not to be removed or exhumed; (12) Keeping registry book.

<sup>2</sup> That is to say, the sanitary authority of the sanitary district (Act of 1878, s. 160; Local Government (Ir.) Act, 1898, s. 28).

<sup>3</sup> As to arbitration, see ss. 216–218.

By s. 193 of the Act of 1878 the following sections of the Cemeteries Burials. Clauses Act, 1847, 10 & 11 Vict. c. 65, are incorporated with the Act of Incorporation of sections of Cemeteries Clauses Act, 1878, so far as concerns any burial ground under the Act: Injuring fence, wall, tree, or plant in cemetery, daubing or destroying wall thereof, injuring, &c., monument, tablet, inscription, or gravestone, doing any wilful damage therein—Penalty, forfeiture to the Burial Board not exceeding £5 (s. 58): playing at games or discharging firearms in cemetery (save at a military funeral), or disturbing persons assembled in the cemetery for the purpose of burying any body therein or committing any nuisance within the cemetery—Penalty, forfeiture to the Burial Board not exceeding £5 (s. 59).

The property and possession in a Roman Catholic Burial Board are Property in the parish priest (per Palles, C.B. (1897), 31 I.L.T.R. 142, Cir. Cas.). graves. A family may acquire by prescription a right to bury in a particular grave (Jennings v. McCarthy (Cir. Cas.), per Palles, C.B., 42 I.L.T.R. 217).

As to disturbing funerals or riotous behaviour in a churchyard, see DISTURBING CHURCH, ante.

On holding an inquest a coroner may give a written order authorising the burial. As to necessity for registrar's certificate, to be handed to person burying, see REGISTRATION OF DEATHS. As to burying still-born children, and notice when coffin contains more than one body, see same subject. Coroner's order and registrar's certificate for burial.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Entry on lands, p. 731; obstructing execution of Public Health Acts, p. 732; injuring works of sanitary authority, p. 732; compensation for damage done by sanitary authority, p. 732.

"Whenever it becomes necessary for a sanitary authority or any of their officers to enter, examine, or lay open, any lands or premises for the purpose of making plans, surveying, measuring, taking levels, making, keeping in repair, or examining works, ascertaining the course of sewers or drains, or ascertaining or fixing boundaries, and the owner or occupier of such lands or premises refuses to permit the same to be entered upon, examined, or laid open, for the purposes aforesaid, or any of them, the sanitary authority may, after written notice to such owner or occupier, apply to a court of summary jurisdiction for an order authorising the sanitary authority to enter, examine, and lay open the said lands and premises for the purposes aforesaid, or any of them. If no sufficient cause is shown against the application the court may make an order accordingly, and on such order being made the sanitary authority or any of their officers may, at all reasonable times between the hours of 9 A.M. and 6 P.M. enter, examine, or lay open, the lands or premises mentioned in such order, for such of the said purposes as are therein specified, without being subject to any action or molestation for so doing; provided that except in case of emergency no entry shall be made or works commenced under this section unless at least twenty-four hours' notice of the intended entry, and of the object thereof, be given to the occupier of the premises intended to be entered" (Act of 1878, s. 271). For form of order, see p. 767, post.

The justices have a discretionary power to grant a licence to enter, and cannot state a case under 20 & 21 Vict. c. 43 as to whether they are justified or not, there being no point of law involved (Diss U.S.A. v. Aldrich (1877), 2 Q.B.D. 179). The justices cannot consider whether the sanitary arrangements are in fact sufficient (Robinson v. Mayor of Sunderland (1899), 1 Q.B. 751), but are entitled to consider whether the conditions precedent have been complied with (ib.; and see Vines v. N. London Collegiate School (1899), 63 J.P. 244).

Entry on lands for purposes of Act of 1878.

Obstructing execution of Act.

"Any person who wilfully obstructs any member of the sanitary authority, or any person duly employed in the execution of this Act, or who destroys, pulls down, injures, or defaces any board on which any bye-law, notice, or other matter is inscribed, shall, if the same was put up by authority of the Local Government Board or of the sanitary authority, be liable for every such offence to a penalty not exceeding £5. Where the occupier of any premises prevents the owner thereof from obeying or carrying into effect any provisions of this Act, any justice to whom application is made in this behalf shall, by order in writing, require such occupier to permit the execution of any works required to be executed, provided that the same appear to such justice to be necessary for the purpose of obeying or carrying into effect the provisions of this Act; and if within twenty-four hours after the making of the order such occupier fails to comply therewith, he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 for every day during the continuance of such non-compliance. If the occupier of any premises when requested by or on behalf of the sanitary authority to state the name of the owner of the premises occupied by him, refuses or wilfully omits to disclose or wilfully mis-states the same, he shall (unless he shows cause to the satisfaction of the court for his refusal) be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5" (Act of 1878, s. 272). This section is extended by ss. 12, 48 of the Public Health Act, 1890, post, as regards districts in which Part III. of that Act has been adopted. Actual physical violence is not necessary for "wilful obstruction" (Borrow v. Howland (1896), 60 J.P. 391). No one, whether members of the local authority or their officers, can enter premises against the will of the owner without a magistrate's order (Consett U.D.C. v. Crawford (1903), 2 K.B. 183). For form of order, see p. 766, post.

Injuring works of sanitary authority.

"Any person who wilfully damages any works or property belonging to any sanitary authority shall, in cases where no other penalty is provided by this Act, be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5" (Act of 1878, s. 273). See also the Malicious Damage Act, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 97.

Compensation for damage by sanitary authority.

"Where any person sustains any damage by reason of the exercise of any of the powers of this Act, in relation to any matter as to which he is not himself in default, full compensation shall be made to such person by the sanitary authority exercising such powers; and any dispute as to the fact of damage or amount of compensation shall be settled by arbitration, in manner provided by this Act, or if the compensation claimed does not exceed the sum of £20, the same may, at the option of either party, be ascertained by and recovered before a court of summary jurisdiction" (Act of 1878, s. 274).

In order to bring a case within the doctrine of compensation three things must occur: (1) The Act must be a lawful exercise of statutory powers; (2) the damage must be such as would be actionable but for the Act of Parliament (Hall v. Mayor of Bristol (1867), L.R. 2 C.P. 322); (3) the damage must arise from the execution of the works and not merely from the use of them after they have been constructed (per Wills, J., in Ashford v. Dover Harbour Board, Times, April 2, 1898, cited in Lumley's Public Health, 7th ed., p. 653). Consequently, where the damage is caused by work not authorised by the Act the section does not apply (R. v. Darlington L.B. (1865), 6 B. & S. 562). The justices should take into account both the damage which has actually happened and which will happen in the future in assessing compensation (Re Dudley Corporation (1881), 8 Q.B.D. 86). It is doubtful if there is any time limit to a claim under this section (see Pettward v. Metropolitan Board of Works (1865), 19 C.B., N.S., 489). Where a magistrate refuses to condemn meat under s. 133, ante, the owner is entitled under this section to recover his costs and expenses, and even if it has been condemned it has been held that the arbitrator may investigate the fact as to whether it was sound or not (Walshaw v. Mayor of Brighouse (1899), 2 Q.B. 286). In addition to the compensation the court should allow the costs of the application (Corporation of Huddersfield v. Shaw (1890), 54 J.P. 724). The expressions "damage" and "full compensation" do not include trade loss caused to the owner of an article intended for the food of man by reason of the publicity of proceedings brought by the sanitary authority (Re Smith and Belfast Corporation (1910), 2 I.R. 285; see also Hobbs v. Winchester Corporation (1910), 102 L.T. 841; Fitzgerald v. Leonard (1893), 32 L.R.I. 675). Full compensation includes party and party costs (Avery v. Wood (1891), 3 Ch. 115), but not solicitor and client costs (Barnett v. Eccles Corporation (1900), 2 Q.B. 423). As to the functions of the arbitrator in dealing with "the fact of damage," see Brierley Hill Case (1884), 9 A.C. 595; Walshaw v. Brighouse Corporation (1899), 2 Q.B. 286; Smith and Belfast Corporation, supra; Hobbs v. Winchester Corporation, supra.

Compensation for damage by sanitary authority.

PUBLIC HEALTH ACTS AMENDMENT ACT, 1890.

[Of Limited Application only, see infra.]

	PAGE		PAGE
Construction and application . . .	733	Unsound meat and food . . .	737
Sewers and drains . . .	734	Slaughterhouses . . .	737
Sanitary conveniences . . .	735	Common lodging-houses . . .	738
Erecting buildings on ground filled up with offensive matter . . .	737	Buildings . . .	738
Bye-laws for certain sanitary purposes . . .	737	Places of public resort . . .	739
Cleansing common courts and passages . . .	737	Miscellaneous . . .	740
		Music and dancing . . .	740
		Procedure . . .	742

The Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1890, is to be construed as one with the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878 (ss. 2, 12 (7)).

Part I. (which relates merely to procedure, definitions, &c.) applies to Ireland generally (s. 2 (2)), except s. 5, which (see s. 12 (1)) does not apply to Ireland.

The rest of the Act is applicable as, and to the extent, shown in the following table:—

Construction of Act of 1890.
Application of Act of 1890.

WHAT AUTHORITY MAY APPLY.	PORTIONS OF ACT THAT MAY BE APPLIED.
URBAN SANITARY AUTHORITY (see ss. 2 (2), 3 (1)).	All or any of Parts II., III., IV., V. ( i.e. ss. 13–52, except s. 41, which—see s. 12 (1)—does not apply to Ireland).
RURAL SANITARY AUTHORITY (see ss. 2 (2), 3 (2), 50).	The following sections of Part III., ss. 16, 17, 18, 19, 21, so much of s. 23 (relating to the extension of s. 157 of the Act of 1878) as applies to rural authorities, ss. 25, 26 (2), 28, 32, 33, 47, 48, 49, 50.

Act of 1890 THE FOLLOWING PROVISIONS ARE THEREFORE IN FORCE WHERE
—of limited APPLIED ACCORDING TO THE ACT :—

application (In the sections hereinafter set forth the modifications effected by s. 12
—seep. 733. for the purpose of applying them to Ireland are in each case made in the text.)

SEWERS AND DRAINS.

Injurious matter, &c., not to pass into, p. 734; local authority making communications, &c., with sewers, p. 734; examination of drains on complaint of nuisance, p. 735.

Sewers and drains.

Injurious matter not to pass into sewers.

“(1) It shall not be lawful for any person to throw, or suffer to be thrown, or to pass into any sewer of a local authority or any drain communicating therewith, any matter or substance by which the free flow of the sewage or surface or storm water may be interfered with, or by which any such sewer or drain may be injured. (2) Every person offending against this enactment shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £10, and to a daily penalty not exceeding 20s.” (Act of 1890, s. 16).

Chemical refuse, steam, &c., not to be turned into sewers.

“(1) Every person who turns or permits to enter into any sewer of a local authority or any drain communicating therewith—(a) Any chemical refuse, or (b) any waste steam, condensing water, heated water, or other liquid (such water or other liquid being of a higher temperature than one hundred and ten degrees of Fahrenheit), which, either alone or in combination with the sewage, causes a nuisance or is dangerous or injurious to health, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £10, and to a daily penalty not exceeding £5. (2) The local authority, by any of their officers either generally or specially authorised in that behalf in writing, may enter any premises for the purpose of examining whether the provisions of this section are being contravened, and if such entry be refused, any justice, on complaint on oath by such officer, made after reasonable notice in writing of such intended complaint has been given to the person having custody of the premises, may by order under his hand require such person to admit the officer into the premises, and if it be found that any offence under this section has been or is being committed in respect of the premises, the order shall continue in force until the offence shall have ceased or the work necessary to prevent the recurrence thereof shall have been executed. (3) A person shall not be liable to a penalty for an offence against this section until the local authority have given him notice of the provisions of this section, nor for an offence committed before the expiration of seven days from the service of such notice, provided that the local authority shall not be required to give the same person notice more than once” (s. 17).

Provision as to local authority making communications with or altering, &c., drains and sewers.

“(1) Where the owner or occupier of any premises is entitled to cause any sewer or drain from those premises to communicate with any sewer of the local authority, the local authority shall, if requested to do so by such owner or occupier, and upon the cost thereof being paid in advance to the local authority, themselves make the communication and execute all works necessary for that purpose. (2) The cost of making such communication (including all costs incidental thereto) shall be estimated by the surveyor of the local authority, but in case the owner or occupier of the premises, as the case may be, is dissatisfied with such estimate, he may, if the estimate is under £50, apply to a court of summary jurisdiction to fix the amount to be paid for such cost, and if the estimate is over £50 have the same determined by arbitration in manner provided by the Public Health Acts. (3) A local authority may agree with the owner of any premises that any sewer or drain which such owner is required, or desires, to make, alter, or enlarge, or any part of such sewer Act of 1890 or drain, shall be made, altered, or enlarged by the local authority" (s. 18). —of limited

"(1) Where two or more houses belonging to different owners are application connected with a public sewer by a single private drain, an application —see p. 733.
may be made under s. 51 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878 (relating Examination to complaints as to nuisances from drains), and the local authority may of drains on recover any expenses incurred by them in executing any works under the complaint of powers conferred on them by that section from the owners of the houses nuisance.
in such shares and proportions as shall be settled by their surveyor or (in case of dispute) by a court of summary jurisdiction. (2) Such expenses may be recovered summarily or may be declared by the urban authority to be private improvement expenses under the Public Health Acts, and may be recovered accordingly. (3) For the purposes of this section the expression 'drain' includes a drain used for the drainage of more than one building" (s. 19).

SANITARY CONVENIENCES.

For public accommodation, p. 735; used in common, p. 735; for factories, p. 736; bye-laws as to, p. 736; rooms over privies not to be used as dwelling or sleeping rooms, p. 736.

"(1) Where an urban authority provide and maintain for public Sanitary accommodation any sanitary conveniences, such authority may—(i.) make conveniences.
regulations with respect to the management thereof and make bye-laws Sanitary con- as to the decent conduct of persons using the same; (ii.) let the same from veniences time to time for any term not exceeding three years at such rent and for public subject to such conditions as they may think fit; (iii.) charge such fees accommoda- for the use of any water-closets provided by them as they may think tion.
proper. (2) No public sanitary convenience shall, after the adoption of this part of this Act, be erected in or accessible from any street without the consent in writing of the urban authority, who may give such consent upon such terms as to the use thereof or the removal thereof at any time, if required by the urban authority, as they may think fit. (3) Any person who erects a sanitary convenience in contravention of this enactment, and after a notice in writing to that effect from the urban authority does not remove the same, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5, and to a daily penalty not exceeding 20s. (4) Nothing in this section shall extend to any sanitary convenience now or hereafter to be erected by any railway company within their railway station yard or the approaches thereto"
(s. 20).

"With respect to any sanitary convenience used in common by the Sanitary con- occupiers of two or more separate dwelling-houses, or by other persons, veniences the following provisions shall have effect:—(1) If any person injures or used in improperly fouls any such sanitary convenience, or anything used in common.
connection therewith, he shall for every such offence be liable to a penalty not exceeding 10s. (2) If any sanitary convenience or the approaches thereto, or the walls, floors, seats, or fittings thereof is or are in the opinion of the urban authority or of the inspector of nuisances or medical officer of health of such authority in such a state or condition as to be a nuisance or annoyance to any inhabitant of the district for want of the proper cleansing thereof, such of the persons having the use thereof in common as aforesaid as may be in default, or in the absence of proof satisfactory to the court as to which of the persons having the use thereof in common is in default, each of those persons shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding 10s., and to a daily penalty not exceeding 5s." (s. 21).

"(1) Every building, used as a workshop or manufactory, or where

Act of 1890
—of limited
application
—see p. 733.

Sanitary conveniences.

For factories.

Power to make bye-laws.

Rooms over privies, &c., not to be used as dwelling or sleeping rooms.

persons are employed or intended to be employed in any trade or business, whether erected before or after the adoption of this part of this Act in any district, shall be provided with sufficient and suitable accommodation in the way of sanitary conveniences, having regard to the number of persons employed in or in attendance at such building, and also where persons of both sexes are employed, or intended to be employed, or in attendance, with proper separate accommodation for persons of each sex. (2) Where it appears to an urban authority on the report of their surveyor that the provisions of this section are not complied with in the case of any building, the urban authority may, if they think fit, by written notice, require the owner or occupier of any such building to make such alterations and additions therein as may be required to give such sufficient, suitable, and proper accommodation as aforesaid. (3) Any person who neglects or refuses to comply with any such notice shall be liable for each default to a penalty not exceeding £20, and to a daily penalty not exceeding 40s. (4) Where this section is in force, s. 48 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, shall be repealed" (s. 22).

"(1) Section 41 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, shall be extended so as to empower every urban authority to make bye-laws with respect to the following matters; that is to say:—The keeping water-closets supplied with sufficient water for flushing; the structure of floors, hearths, and staircases, and the height of rooms intended to be used for human habitation; the paving of yards and open spaces in connection with dwelling-houses; and the provision in connection with the laying out of new streets of secondary means of access where necessary for the purpose of the removal of house refuse and other matters. (2) Any bye-laws under that section as above extended with regard to the drainage of buildings, and to water-closets, earth-closets, privies, ashpits, and cesspools, in connection with buildings, and the keeping water-closets supplied with sufficient water for flushing, may be made so as to affect buildings erected before the times mentioned in the said section. (3) The provisions of the said section (as amended by this Act), so far as they relate to bye-laws with respect to the structure of walls and foundations of new buildings for purposes of health, and with respect to the matters mentioned in sub-sections (3) and (4) of the said section, and with respect to the structure of floors, the height of rooms to be used for human habitation, and to the keeping of water-closets supplied with sufficient water for flushing, shall be extended so as to empower rural authorities to make bye-laws in respect to the said matters, and to provide for the observance of such bye-laws and to enforce the same as if such powers were conferred on the rural authorities by virtue of an order of the Local Government Board made on the day when this part of this Act is adopted; and s. 42 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, shall also apply to any such authority, and shall be in force in every rural district where this part of this Act is adopted. (4) Every local authority may make bye-laws to prevent buildings which have been erected in accordance with bye-laws made under the Public Health Acts from being altered in such a way that if at first so constructed they would have contravened the bye-laws" (s. 23).

"(1) Where any portion of a room extends immediately over any privy (not being a water-closet or earth-closet), or immediately over any cesspool, midden, or ashpit, that room, whether built before or after the adoption of this part of this Act, shall not be occupied as a dwelling-place, sleeping-place or workroom, or place of habitual employment of any person in any manufacture, trade, or business during any portion of the day or night. (2) Any person who after the expiration of one month after the adoption of this part of this Act, and after notice from the local authority of not less than seven days, so occupies, and any person who suffers to be so occupied, any such room, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding 40s., and to a daily penalty not exceeding 10s." (s. 24).

*Act of 1890
—of limited
application
—see p. 733.*

"(1) It shall not be lawful to erect a new building on any ground which has been filled up with any matter impregnated with faecal, animal, or vegetable matter, or upon which any such matter has been deposited, unless and until such matter shall have been properly removed by excavation or otherwise, or shall have been rendered or have become innocuous. (2) Every person who does or causes, or wilfully permits to be done any act in contravention of this section shall for every such offence be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5, and a daily penalty not exceeding 40s." (s. 25).

Erecting buildings on ground filled up with offensive matter.

"(1) An urban authority may make bye-laws in respect of the following matters, namely:—(a) For prescribing the times for the removal or carriage through the streets of any faecal or offensive or noxious matter or liquid, whether such matter or liquid shall be in course of removal or carriage from within or without or through their district: (b) For providing that the vessel, receptacle, cart, or carriage used therefor shall be properly constructed and covered so as to prevent the escape of any such matter or liquid: (c) For compelling the cleansing of any place whereon such matter or liquid shall have been dropped or spilt in such removal or carriage. (2) Where a local authority themselves undertake or contract for the removal of house refuse they may make bye-laws imposing on the occupier of any premises duties in connection with such removal so as to facilitate the work which the local authority undertake or contract for" (s. 26).

Bye-laws for certain sanitary purposes.

"(1) Where any court, or where any passage leading to the back of several buildings in separate occupations, and not being a highway repairable by the inhabitants at large, is not regularly and effectually swept and kept clean and free from rubbish or other accumulation to the satisfaction of the urban authority, the urban authority may, if they think fit, cause to be swept and cleaned such court or passage. (2) The expenses thereby incurred shall be apportioned between the occupiers of the buildings situated in the court or to the back of which the passage leads in such shares as may be determined by the surveyor of the urban authority, or (in case of dispute) by a court of summary jurisdiction, and in default of payment any share so apportioned may be recovered summarily from the occupier on whom it is apportioned" (s. 27).

Cleansing
common courts and passages.

"(1) Sections 132 to 135 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878 (relating to unsound meat), shall extend and apply to all articles intended for the food of man, sold or exposed for sale, or deposited in any place for the purpose of sale, or of preparation for sale within the district of any local authority. (2) A justice may condemn any such article, and order it to be destroyed or disposed of, as mentioned in s. 133 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, if satisfied on complaint being made to him that such article is diseased, unsound, unwholesome, or unfit for the food of man, although the same has not been seized as mentioned in s. 132 of the said Act" (s. 28).

Unsound meat and food.

"Licences granted after the adoption of this part of this Act for the use and occupation of places as slaughterhouses shall be in force for such time or times only, not being less than twelve months, as the urban authority shall think fit to specify in such licences" (s. 29).

Slaughterhouses.

Duration of licences.

"(1) Upon any change of occupation of any building within an urban sanitary district registered or licensed for use and used as a slaughterhouse, the person hereupon becoming the occupier or joint occupier shall give notice in writing of the change of occupation to the inspector of

Notice of change of occupation of slaughter-
house.

Act of 1890 nuisances. (2) A person who fails or neglects to give such notice within one month after the change of occupation occurs shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5. (3) Notice of this enactment shall be endorsed on all licences granted after the adoption of this part of this Act" (s. 30).
—of limited application
—see p. 733.

Revocation of licence on conviction for sale of meat unfit for food. "If the occupier of any building licensed as aforesaid to be used as a slaughterhouse for the killing of animals intended as human food is convicted by a court of summary jurisdiction of selling or exposing for sale, or for having in his possession, or on his premises, the carcase of any animal, or any piece of meat or flesh diseased or unsound, or unwholesome or unfit for the use of man as food, the court may revoke the licence" (s. 31).

Common lodging-houses. "Any keeper of a common lodging-house who fails to give the notice required by s. 95 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding 40s., and to a daily penalty not exceeding 5s." (s. 32).

Buildings. Buildings described in deposited plans otherwise than as dwelling-houses not to be used as such. "(1) Where the plan of a building has been, either before or after the adoption of this part of this Act in any district, deposited with a local authority in pursuance of any Act of Parliament or bye-law, and that building is described therein otherwise than as a dwelling-house, any person who wilfully uses or knowingly permits to be used such building or any part thereof for the purposes of habitation by any person other than the person placed therein to take care thereof, and the family of such person, shall be guilty of an offence under this section, and shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5, and to a daily penalty not exceeding 40s. (2) Provided that if such building has in the rear thereof and adjoining and exclusively belonging thereto such an open space as is required by any Act of Parliament or bye-law for the time being in force with respect to buildings intended to be used as dwelling-houses, and if such part of the building as is intended to be used as a dwelling-house has undergone such structural alterations, if any, as are necessary in the opinion of the local authority to render it fit for that purpose, the owner may use the same as a dwelling-house" (s. 33).

Hoads to be set up during progress of buildings, &c. "(1) Every person intending to build or take down any building, or to alter or repair the outward part of any building in any street or court, shall—(a) before beginning the same, unless the urban authority otherwise consent in writing, cause close boarded hoards or fences to the satisfaction of the urban authority to be put up in order to separate the building from the street or court; (b) if the urban authority so require, make a convenient covered platform and handrail to serve as a footway for passengers outside of such hoard or fence; (c) continue such hoard or fence with such platform and handrail as aforesaid standing and in good condition to the satisfaction of the urban authority during such time as they may require; (d) if required by the urban authority, cause the same to be sufficiently lighted during the night; (e) remove the same when required by the urban authority. (2) Every person who fails to comply with any of the provisions of this section shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5, and to a daily penalty not exceeding 40s. (3) Where this part of this Act is adopted the eightieth section of the Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847, shall be repealed, and this section shall be deemed to be substituted therefor" (s. 34).

As to repair of cellars under streets. "(1) All vaults, arches, and cellars under any street, and all openings into such vaults, arches, or cellars in the surface of any street, and all cellar-heads, gratings, lights, and coal holes in the surface of any street, and all landings, flags, or stones of the path or street supporting the same respectively, shall be kept in good condition and repair by the owners or occupiers of the same, or of the houses or buildings to which the same respectively belong. (2) Where any default is made in complying with the provisions of this section, the urban authority may, after twenty-four hours' notice in that behalf, cause anything in respect of which such default is made to be repaired or put into good condition, and the expenses of so doing shall be paid to the urban authority by such owner or occupier respectively, or in default may be recovered in a summary manner" (s. 35).

"(1) Every building which, after the adoption of this part of this Act in any urban district, is used as a place of public resort, shall, to the satisfaction of the urban authority, be substantially constructed and supplied with ample, safe, and convenient means of ingress and egress for the use of the public, regard being had to the purposes for which such building is intended to be used, and to the number of persons likely to be assembled at any one time therein. (2) The means of ingress and egress shall during the whole time that such building is used as a place of public resort be kept free and unobstructed to such extent as the urban authority shall require. (3) An officer authorised in writing by the urban authority, and producing his authority if so required, may at all reasonable times enter any such building to see that the provisions of this section are carried into effect. (4) Any person who being the occupier or manager, or in the case of a building let for any period less than one year the owner of any building used as aforesaid, uses the same or suffers the same to be used in contravention of this section, or fails to comply with the provisions of this section in respect thereof, shall for every such offence be liable to a penalty not exceeding £20. (5) Where any alteration in the building is required in order to give proper means of ingress or egress, the court may refuse to inflict a penalty for an offence under this section until a reasonable time has been allowed for making such alteration, but the court may make such order as they think fit for the closing, or otherwise, of the building during such time. (6) For the purposes of this section the expression 'place of public resort' means a building used or constructed or adapted to be used either ordinarily or occasionally as a church, chapel, or other place of public worship (not being merely a dwelling-house so used), or as a theatre, public hall, public concert-room, public ball-room, public lecture-room, or public exhibition room, or as a public place of assembly for persons admitted thereto by tickets or by payment, or used, or constructed, or adapted to be used, either ordinarily or occasionally for any other public purpose, but shall not include a private dwelling-house used occasionally or exceptionally for any of those purposes. Provided that this section shall not extend to any building used as a church or chapel or other place of public worship before or at the time of the adoption of this part of this Act" (s. 36).

"(1) Whenever large numbers of persons are likely to assemble on the occasion of any show, entertainment, public procession, open-air meeting, or other like occasion, every roof of a building, and every platform, balcony, or other structure or part thereof let or used or intended to be let or used for the purpose of affording sitting or standing accommodation for a number of persons, shall be safely constructed or secured to the satisfaction of the surveyor of the urban authority. (2) Any person who uses or allows to be used in contravention of this section, any roof of a building, platform, balcony, or structure not so safely constructed or secured, or who neglects to comply with the provisions of this section in respect thereof, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £50" (s. 37).

"An urban authority may make bye-laws for the prevention of danger from whirligigs and swings when such whirligigs and swings are driven by steam power, and from the use of firearms in shooting ranges and galleries" (s. 38).<sup>1</sup>

"(1) An urban authority may from time to time provide, maintain,

Act of 1890
—of limited
application
—see p. 733.

Places of public resort.
Means of ingress to and egress
from.

Safety of platforms,
&c., erected or used on public occasions.

Bye-laws as to whirligigs, shooting-galleries, &c.

<sup>1</sup> See Enniscorthy U.D.C. v. Field (1904), 2 I.R. 518, noted ante, p. 340.

Act of 1890 and remove in or near any street in their district suitable erections for —of limited the use, convenience, and shelter of drivers of hackney carriages, and application such other persons as the urban authority may permit to use the same.
—see p. 733. (2) The urban authority may from time to time make regulations for shelters.

Cabmen's

prescribing the terms and conditions and the fees (if any) to be charged for the use of such places of shelter, and may make bye-laws for regulating the conduct of persons using the same" (s. 40).

Parks and pleasure grounds.

"(1) An urban authority may on such days as they think fit (not exceeding twelve days in any one year, nor four consecutive days on any one occasion) close to the public any park or pleasure ground provided by them or any part thereof, and may grant the use of the same, either gratuitously or for payment, to any public charity or institution, or for any agricultural, horticultural, or other show, or any other public purpose, or may use the same for any such show or purpose; and the admission to the said park or pleasure ground, or such part thereof, on the days when the same shall be so closed to the public may be either with or without payment, as directed by the urban authority, or, with the consent of the urban authority, by the society or persons to whom the use of the park or pleasure ground, or such part thereof, may be granted: Provided that no such park or pleasure ground shall be closed on any Sunday or public holiday. (2) An urban authority may either themselves provide and let for hire, or may license any person to let for hire, any pleasure-boats on any lake or piece of water in any such park or pleasure ground, and may make bye-laws for regulating the numbering and naming of such boats, the number of persons to be carried therein, the boathouses and mooring places for the same, and for fixing rates of hire and the qualifications of boatmen, and for securing their good and orderly conduct while in charge of any boat" (s. 44).

Throwing cinders, &c.,
into streams.

"(1) It shall not be lawful for any person to throw or place or suffer to be thrown or placed into or in any river, stream, or watercourse within any district in which this part of this Act is adopted, any cinders, ashes, bricks, stone, rubbish, dust, filth, or other matter which is likely to cause annoyance. (2) Every person offending against this enactment shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding 40s. for every such offence" (s. 47).

Injuring board, &c.

"So much of s. 272 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, as imposes penalties on persons who destroy, pull down, injure, or deface any board on which any bye-law, notice, or other matter is inscribed, shall apply to persons who destroy, pull down, injure, or deface any advertisement, placard, bill, or notice put up by or under the direction of a local authority" (s. 48).

Expenses of rural authorities.

"The Local Government Board may by order on the application of any rural authority declare any expenses incurred by such authority to be special expenses within the meaning of ss. 229 and 230 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878" (s. 49).

Where Part IV. of the Public Health Amendment Act, 1890, has been adopted a licence from justices for the use of premises for public music and dancing is necessary under the following sections of that Act.

Music and dancing.
Licences required.

"For the regulation of places ordinarily used for public dancing or music, or other public entertainment of the like kind, the following provisions shall have effect (namely): 1. After the expiration of six months from the adoption of this part of this Act, a house, room, garden, or other place, whether licensed or not for the sale of wine, spirits, beer, or other fermented or distilled liquors, shall not be kept or used for public dancing, singing, music, or other public entertainment of the like kind without a licence for the purpose or purposes for which the same respectively is to be used first obtained from the justices assembled at the annual licensing quarter sessions of the place in which the house, room, garden, or place is situate, and for the registration thereof a fee of 5s. shall be paid by the person applying therefor: 2. Such justices may, under the hands of a majority of them assembled at their annual licensing quarter sessions or at any adjournment thereof or at any petty sessions convened with fourteen days' previous notice, grant licences to such persons as they think fit to keep or use houses, rooms, gardens, or places for all or any of the purposes aforesaid upon such terms and conditions, and subject to such restrictions as they by the respective licences determine, and every licence shall be in force for one year or for such shorter period as the justices on the grant of the licence shall determine, unless the same shall have been previously revoked as hereinafter provided: 3. Such justices may from time to time at any such petty sessions aforesaid transfer any such licence to such person as they think fit: 4. Each person shall in each case give fourteen days' notice to the person who keeps the register of licences and to the district inspector of the district in which the house, room, garden, or place is situated or in his absence to the head constable, of his intention to apply for any such licence or for the transfer of any such licence: 5. Any house, room, garden, or place kept or used for any of the purposes aforesaid without such licence first obtained shall be deemed a disorderly house, and the person occupying or rated as occupier of the same shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 for every day on which the same is kept or used for any of the purposes last aforesaid: 6. There shall be affixed and kept up in some conspicuous place on the door or entrance of every house, room, garden, or place so kept or used and so licensed as aforesaid, an inscription in large capital letters in the words following: 'Licensed in pursuance of Act of Parliament for _____' with the addition of words showing the purpose or purposes for which the same is licensed: 7. Any house, room, garden, or place so kept or used, although so licensed as aforesaid, shall not be opened for any of the said purposes except on the days and between the hours stated in the licence: 8. The affixing and keeping up of such inscription as aforesaid, and the observance of the days and hours of opening and closing, shall be inserted in and made a condition of every such licence: 9. In case of any breach or disregard of any of the terms or conditions upon or subject to which the licence was granted, the holder thereof shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £20, and to a daily penalty not exceeding £5, and such licence shall be liable to be revoked by the order of a court of summary jurisdiction: 10. No notice need be given under sub-s. 4 of this section when the application is for a renewal of any existing licence held by the applicant for the same premises: 11. The justices in any petty sessions may, if and as they think fit, grant to any person applying for the same a licence to keep or use any house, room, garden, or place for any purpose within the meaning of this section for any period not exceeding fourteen days which they shall specify in such licence, notwithstanding that no notices shall have been given under sub-s. 4 of this section" (s. 51, as varied in its application to Ireland by s. 12 (9)).

A skating-rink where music is played is within the section (R. v. Tucker (1877), 2 Q.B. 417).

Neither a room in which public dancing takes place on isolated occasions (Gregory v. Tuffs (1833), 6 C. & P. 271), nor a dancing school to which only subscribers and ladies introduced by them are admitted is "kept for public dancing" (Bellis v. Burghall (1799), 2 Esp. 722). It is not necessary that money should be charged for admission to bring a place within the definition (Archer v. Willingrace (1802), 4 Esp. 186). Where a licensed victualler had in the public smoke-room of his house a piano on which customers were in the habit of playing for the amusement of themselves and others resorting thereto, but made no extra charge

Act of 1890
—of limited
application
—see p. 733.

Music and dancing.

Act of 1890 either for the use of the piano or for the entertainment thus afforded, —of limited and did not pay or encourage the performers, it was held that the room application was not within the section (Brearley v. Morley (1899), 2 Q.B. 121). —see p. 733. Prosecutions under this Act are governed by the procedure sections Procedure. of the Public Health (Ir.) Acts, 1878 (ss. 2, 6), as to which see p. 694.

Act of 1907 : PUBLIC HEALTH ACTS AMENDMENT ACT, 1907.

ss. 1–14

of general application.

(Of Limited Application only, see infra.)

	PAGE		PAGE
Construction of . . . . .	742	Common lodging-houses . . . . .	756
Application of . . . . .	742	Recreation grounds . . . . .	758
Procedure . . . . .	742	Police . . . . .	759
Streets and buildings . . . . .	743	Fire brigade . . . . .	761
Sanitary provisions . . . . .	748	Sky signs . . . . .	762
Infectious diseases . . . . .	753	Miscellaneous . . . . .	763

General construction of Act.

The Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1907, 7 Edw. 7, c. 53, is to be construed as one with the Public Health (Ir.) Acts, 1878 to 1900 (Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1907, ss. 2, 14).

Application of Act of 1907.

Part I. of the Act, which part comprises ss. 1 to 14 inclusive, applies generally throughout Ireland (s. 2). All or any of Parts II.–VI. and Part X., or any section of any of those parts, shall extend to any district to which they are applied by an order of the Local Government Board for Ireland (ss. 2, 3 (1)), and Parts VII.–IX., or any section of those parts, shall extend to any district to which they are applied by the Chief Secretary (ss. 2, 3 (4)).

In the sections hereinafter set forth the modifications effected by s. 14 for the purpose of applying them to Ireland are in each case made in the text.

Procedure. Generally.

“Offences under this Act or under any bye-law made under the powers of this Act or under the powers of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, or any enactment amending or extending that Act, may be prosecuted, and penalties, forfeitures, costs, and expenses recovered, in like manner and subject to the same provisions as offences which may be prosecuted, and penalties, forfeitures, costs, and expenses which may be recovered, in a summary manner under the Public Health (Ir.) Acts, 1878 to 1900” (s. 6).

Appeal.

“(1) Except where this Act otherwise expressly provides any person aggrieved—(a) By any order, judgment, determination, or requirement of a local authority under this Act; (b) by the withholding of any order, certificate, licence, consent, or approval, which may be made, granted, or given by a local authority under this Act; (c) by any conviction or order of a court of summary jurisdiction under any provision of this Act; may appeal, in manner provided by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts, to a court of quarter sessions. (2) Where any person deems himself aggrieved by the decision of the local authority in any case in which the local authority, under this Act, are empowered to recover in a summary manner any expenses incurred by them, or to declare the expenses to be private improvement expenses, s. 268 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, shall apply as it applies to cases under that Act, and sub-s. (1) of this section shall not apply in any such case, whether arising under the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, or under this Act; but nothing in this sub-section shall extend to any case in which an appeal to a court of summary jurisdiction in relation to any requirement of a local authority, or to any such expenses, is expressly authorised by this Act" (s. 7).

"Any information, complaint, warrant or summons made or issued for the purpose of this Act or of the Public Health (Ir.) Acts, 1878 to 1900, may contain in the body thereof or in a schedule thereto several sums"<sup>1</sup> (s. 8).

Act of 1907:
ss. 1-14
of general application.
More than one sum in one summons.

PART II.—STREETS AND BUILDINGS.

Deposit of plan, p. 743; new streets, p. 743; crossing for cattle over footways, p. 744; urgent repairs to private streets, p. 744; damages to footways by excavations, p. 745; altering names of streets, p. 745; buildings at corners of streets, p. 745; what deemed new buildings, p. 745; height of chimneys, p. 745; yards to be paved, p. 745; entrances to courts, p. 746; temporary buildings, p. 746; removal of materials from streets, p. 747; excavations, &c., in streets, p. 747; dangerous places to be repaired or enclosed, p. 747; fencing lands adjoining streets, p. 747; hoardings to be securely erected, p. 748; exemption of railway buildings, p. 748.

Act of 1907
—of limited application
—see p. 742.

"The deposit of any plans or sections of any street or building, in pursuance of any bye-law in force in the district, may by notice in writing to the person by whom the plans or sections have been deposited be declared by the local authority to be of no effect if the work to which the plans or sections relate is not commenced—As to plans and sections deposited before the commencement of this section, within three years from that date; as to plans and sections deposited on or after the commencement of this section, within three years of the deposit of the plans and sections. When the deposit of any plans and sections has been declared to be of no effect, a fresh deposit shall be necessary before the work to which they relate is commenced. The local authority shall give notice of the provisions of this section to every person intending to lay out a new street or erect a new building in relation to which plans and sections have been deposited before the commencement of this section, but the laying out of which street or erection of which building shall not have been commenced, and shall attach a similar notice to the approval of every such intended work in relation to which plans and sections have been deposited subsequent to the commencement of this section" (s. 15).

Streets and buildings.

Deposit of plan to be of no effect after certain intervals.

"The local authority may retain any drawings, plans, elevations, sections, specifications, and written particulars, descriptions or details, deposited with and approved by them in pursuance of any enactment for the time being in force in the district or of any bye-law thereunder" (s. 16).

As to plans deposited with local authority.

"(1) The local authority may, on the deposit of a plan and sections of a new street in pursuance of a bye-law in force in the district, by order vary the intended position, direction or termination, or level of the new street so far as is necessary for the purpose of securing more direct, easier, or more convenient means of communication with any other street or intended street or for the purpose of securing an adequate opening at either end of the new street, or of securing compliance with any enactment or bye-law in force in the district for the regulation of streets and buildings. The local authority may also by their order fix the points at which the new street shall be deemed to begin or end, and the limits of the new street as determined by the points so fixed shall have effect for the purposes of the Public Health (Ir.) Acts, 1878 to 1907, and of any bye-laws made under those Acts and in force within the district. (2) The powers of the local authority under this section shall not be exerciseable in any case in which it is shown, to their satisfaction, that compliance with their

Power to vary position or direction and to fix beginning and end of new streets.

<sup>1</sup> "Sums" here clearly means charges.

Act of 1907 order will entail the purchase of additional lands by the owner of the —of limited lands on which the new street is intended to be laid out, or the execution of works elsewhere than on those lands. (3) Where the local authority application make an order under this section a person shall not lay out or construct the new street otherwise than in compliance with the order. If any person Streets and buildings. acts in contravention of this provision, he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5, and to a daily penalty not exceeding 40s. (4) The local authority shall pay compensation to any person injuriously affected by the exercise by the local authority of their powers under this section" (s. 17).

Crossing for cattle, &c., over foot-ways.

"The provision and use of new means of access for any cattle, any beast of draught or burden, any waggon, cart, or other wheeled carriage exceeding four feet in width or two hundredweight in weight, to or from any premises fronting, adjoining, or abutting on any street which has become a highway repairable by the inhabitants at large, may, where that provision involves passage across or interference with any such part of the street as comprises a kerbed or paved footway, be allowed by the local authority subject to the following conditions (that is to say):—(a) Every person who intends to provide the new means of access shall give notice in writing of his intention to the local authority, and shall at the same time submit, for the approval of the local authority, a plan showing the position, gradient, and mode of construction of the intended means of access; (b) when the plan, with or without amendment, has been approved by the local authority, the person may, upon receiving notice of their approval, proceed to execute the necessary works, but those works shall be executed under the supervision and to the reasonable satisfaction of the local authority, and in accordance with the plan as approved by the local authority; (c) after the completion of the works the new means of access may be used, subject to the conditions which, in pursuance of any provisions of the law relating to highways, attach to the use for the like purpose of any carriage way forming part of a highway repairable by the inhabitants at large" (s. 18).

As to urgent repairs to private streets.

"(1) Where repairs are required in the case of any street, not being a highway repairable by the inhabitants at large, to obviate or remove danger to any passenger or vehicle in the street, the local authority may give notice in writing to the owners of the lands and premises fronting, adjoining, or abutting on the street, and may require the owners to execute, within a time to be specified in the notice, such repairs as are described in the notice. (2) If, within the time specified in the notice, the repairs described in the notice are not executed, the local authority may execute the repairs, and may recover summarily, as a civil debt, the cost of the repairs so executed from the owners in default, and the amount recoverable from each owner shall be in the proportion which the extent of his lands and premises fronting, adjoining, or abutting on the street, bears to the total extent of all lands and premises so fronting, adjoining, or abutting. (3) Where the name or place of abode of an owner cannot be found by the local authority, a copy of the notice shall be sent by post to or left with the occupier of the lands and premises to which the notice relates, or, if there be no such occupier, shall be affixed upon some conspicuous part of the lands and premises. (4) In every case in which, within the time specified in the notice, the majority in number or rateable value of owners of lands and premises in the street by a notice in writing, require the local authority to proceed, in relation to the street, under s. 28 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878 . . . the local authority shall so proceed; and where the local authority so proceed they shall, on the completion of the necessary works, forthwith declare the street to be a highway repairable by the inhabitants at large, and on and after the date of the declaration the street shall become a highway so repairable" (s. 19).

"If the footway of any street repairable by the inhabitants at large be injured by or in consequence of any excavations or other works on lands adjoining thereto the local authority may repair or replace the footway so injured, and all damages and expenses of or arising from such injury and repair or replacement shall be paid to the local authority by the owner of the lands on which such excavations or other works have been made, or by the person causing or responsible for the injury." (s. 20).

Act of 1907
—of limited
application
—see p. 742.

Streets and buildings.

"The local authority may, with the consent of two-thirds in number and value of the ratepayers in any street, alter the name of such street or any part of such street. The local authority may cause the name of any street or of any part of any street to be painted or otherwise marked on a conspicuous part of any building or other erection. Any person who shall wilfully and without the consent of the local authority, obliterate, deface, obscure, remove, or alter any such name, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding 40s." (s. 21).

Damage to footways by excavations.
Power to alter names of streets.

"The local authority may require the corner of any building intended to be erected at the corner of two streets to be rounded off or splayed off to the height of the first storey or to the full height of the building, and to such extent otherwise as they may determine, and for any loss which may be sustained through the exercise of the powers by this section conferred upon the local authority they shall pay compensation" (s. 22).

Buildings at corner of streets.

"For the purposes of this Act and the Public Health (Ir.) Acts, 1878 to 1900, and any bye-laws made thereunder, each of the following operations, namely:—(a) The re-erection, wholly or partially, of any building of which an outer wall is pulled down or burnt down to or within ten feet of the surface of the ground adjoining the lowest storey of the building, and of any frame building so far pulled down or burnt down as to leave only the framework of the lowest storey; (b) the conversion into a dwelling-house of any building not originally constructed for human habitation, or the conversion into more than one dwelling-house of a building originally constructed as one dwelling-house only; (c) the re-conversion into a dwelling-house of any building which has been discontinued as or appropriated for any purpose other than that of a dwelling-house; (d) the making of any addition to an existing building by raising any part of the roof, by altering a wall, or making any projection from the building, but so far as regards the addition only; and (e) the roofing or covering over of an open space between walls or buildings; shall be deemed to be the erection of a new building" (s. 23).

What to be deemed new buildings.

"Section 41 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, shall be extended so as to empower the local authority to make bye-laws—with respect to the height of chimneys of buildings and with respect to the height of buildings; and with respect to the structure of chimney shafts for the furnaces of steam engines, breweries, distilleries, or manufactories. If any yard in connection with, and exclusively belonging to, a dwelling-house shall not be so formed, flagged, asphalted, or paved, or shall not be provided with such works on, above, or below the surface of the yard, as to allow of the effectual drainage of the subsoil or surface of the yard by safe and suitable means to a proper outfall, the local authority may, by notice in writing, require the owner of the dwelling-house, within twenty-one days after the service of the notice, to execute all such works as are necessary for the effectual drainage of the subsoil or surface of the yard to a proper outfall. If, within the said period of twenty-one days, the owner has failed to complete the execution of the works specified in the notice, the local authority may execute the works, and may recover from the owner in a summary manner as a civil debt the expenses incurred by the local authority in the execution of the works" (s. 25).

Bye-laws as to height of chimneys, &c.

Yards to be paved, &c.

"After the commencement of this section the entrances to any court

Act of 1907 shall not, except with the consent of the local authority, be closed or
--of limited narrowed or otherwise altered or affected by any permanent structure so application as to impede the free circulation of air, and the height of any such entrance —see p. 742. shall not, except with that consent, be lowered. The consent of the local Streets and authority under this section may be given subject to compliance with buildings. such conditions as the local authority by their consent prescribe with Entrances to respect to the formation or provision of any other sufficient opening or courts, &c., means of access, or with respect to the provision of other sufficient means not to be of securing free circulation of air throughout the court. Nothing in this closed. section shall have effect in relation to any court which by reason of its situation, use, architectural features, or other characteristics is, either wholly or in part, necessary for or ancillary to the ornament or amenity of any lands or premises. Any person offending against this section shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5. and to a daily penalty not exceeding 20s." (s. 26).

As to tem- " (1) Before any person erects or sets up a temporary building he porary build- shall apply to the local authority for permission so to do. The applicaings. tion shall be accompanied by a plan and sections of the proposed building drawn to a scale of not less than one inch to every eight feet, and a block plan, drawn to a convenient scale, showing the intended situation and surroundings of the proposed building, together with a specification describing the materials proposed to be used in the construction of the building, and the purpose for which the building is intended. (2) The local authority shall, within one month after the delivery of the plans and sections and specification, signify in writing their approval or disapproval of the building to the person proposing to erect or set up the building. (3) The local authority may attach to their approval any condition which they deem proper with regard to the sanitary arrangements of the building, the ingress thereto and the egress therefrom, protection against fire, and the period during which the building shall be allowed to stand. (4) If any such building is begun, erected, or set up without such application accompanied by such plan, sections, and specification as this section requires, or after the disapproval of the local authority or before the expiration of one month without their approval, or is in any respect not in conformity with any condition attached by the local authority to their approval, the person who began, erected, or set up the building, or, if any such building is not removed within the period allowed by the local authority, the owner of the building shall for every such offence be liable to a penalty not exceeding 40s., and to a daily penalty not exceeding the like amount; and the local authority may cause the building to be pulled down or removed, and any expense incurred by them in and about the pulling down or removal of the building may, at their discretion, be recovered summarily as a civil debt from the owner of the building or from the person erecting or setting up the building. (5) Where any such building is pulled down or removed by the local authority under the powers of this section the local authority may sell the materials or any part of the materials, and shall apply the proceeds of the sale in or towards payment of the costs and expenses incurred by them in relation to the pulling down or removal of the building, and shall pay the balance to the owner of the building. (6) The following buildings shall be exempt from the operation of this section:—(a) Any building expressly exempt from the operation of the Public Health (Ir.) Acts, 1878 to 1900, or the bye-laws made under those Acts and in force for the time being within the district; (b) any building erected or set up for the purpose of protecting or of preventing the acquisition of rights to light; (c) any temporary building set up as part of the plant to be used in or about or in connection with the construction, alteration, or repair of any building or other work; but so far as regards only so much of Act of 1907

this section as relates to plans, sections, and specifications" (s. 27). —of limited

"The local authority may remove, appropriate, use, and dispose of application all old materials existing in any street at the time of the execution by the —see p. 742.
local authority of any works in such street unless the owners of buildings Streets and and lands in such street within forty-eight hours after notice so to do buildings.
served on them by the surveyor remove such materials or their respective Removal of proportions thereof, and the local authority shall allow such sum as may materials be the reasonable value thereof to such owners for any materials which in streets.
have been used or removed by the local authority, and in case of dispute the amount to be allowed shall be settled in the manner provided by the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, with respect to compensation for damage sustained by reason of the exercise of any powers of that Act" (s. 28).

"It shall not be lawful for any person without the consent of the local Deposit of authority in writing first obtained to lay any building materials, rubbish, building or other thing, or make any excavation on or in any street repairable materials or by the inhabitants at large, and when with such consent any person lays excavations any building materials, rubbish, or other thing, or makes any excavation not to be on or in any street, he shall, at his own expense, cause the same to be made without sufficiently fenced and a sufficient light to be fixed in a proper place on or consent.
near the same and to be continued every night from sunset to sunrise, and shall remove such materials, rubbish, or thing or fill up such excavation (as the case may be) when required by the local authority; and, if any person fails to comply in any respect with the requirements of this enactment, he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 and to a daily penalty not exceeding 40s., and the local authority may remove any such materials, rubbish, or thing, or fill up such excavation (as the case may be), and recover the expenses from the offender summarily as a civil debt" (s. 29).

"With respect to the repairing or enclosing of dangerous places the Dangerous following provisions shall have effect (namely):—(1) If in any situation places to be fronting, adjoining, or abutting on any street or public footpath, any repaired or building, wall, fence, steps, structure or other thing, or any well, excavation, enclosed.
reservoir, pond, stream, dam or bank is, for want of sufficient repair, protection, or enclosure dangerous to the persons lawfully using the street or footpath, the local authority may by notice in writing served upon the owner, require him, within the period specified in the notice and hereinafter in this section referred to as the 'prescribed period,' to repair, remove, protect, or enclose the same so as to prevent any danger therefrom: (2) If, after service of the notice on the owner, he shall neglect to comply with the requirements thereof within the prescribed period, the local authority may cause such works as they think proper to be done for effecting such repair, removal, protection, or enclosure, and the expenses thereof shall be payable by the owner, and may be recovered summarily as a civil debt" (s. 30).

"If any land (other than land forming part of any common) adjoining Fencing any street is allowed to remain unfenced or if the fences of any such lands adjoining land are allowed to be or remain out of repair, and such land is, owing to streets.
the absence or inadequate repair of any such fence, a source of danger to passengers, or is used for any immoral or indecent purposes, or for any purpose causing inconvenience or annoyance to the public, the Local Government Board for Ireland on the application of the local authority may by order empower the local authority to proceed under this section, and, in that case, at any time after the expiration of fourteen days from the service upon the owner or occupier of notice in writing by the local authority requiring the land to be fenced or any fence of the land to be repaired, the local authority may cause the land to be fenced or may cause

Act of 1907 the fences to be repaired in such manner as they think fit, and the reasonable expenses thereby incurred shall be recoverable from such owner or occupier summarily as a civil debt " (s. 31).
—of limited application
—see p. 742.

Streets and buildings.

Hoardings.

Exemption of buildings of railway companies and others.

" (1) A person shall not use any hoarding or similar structure which is in, or abuts on, or adjoins any street, for any purpose, unless it is securely fixed to the satisfaction of the local authority. (2) If any person acts in contravention of this section he shall be liable, in respect of each offence, to a penalty not exceeding £5 and to a daily penalty not exceeding 20s." (s. 32).

"Nothing in this Part or in any bye-laws to be made under any enactment extended by this Part shall apply to a building (other than a dwelling-house) belonging to a railway company, or to any company or other public body authorised to construct, maintain, or improve a harbour, pier or dock, or to the owners of any canal or inland navigation, and used by the company, public body, or owners as a part of or in connection with their railway, harbour, pier, dock, canal or inland navigation " (s. 33).

PART III.—SANITARY PROVISIONS.

Examination on complaint of nuisance, p. 748 ; provisions as to nuisances, p. 748 ; rain-pipe not to be used as soil-pipe, p. 748 ; water-pipe, &c., not to be used as ventilating shaft, p. 748 ; examination of old drains, p. 749 ; provision and conversion of closet accommodation, p. 749 ; payment for works of common benefit, p. 750 ; expenses, p. 750 ; private improvement expenses, p. 750 ; entry on premises, p. 750 ; appeals, p. 750 ; removal, or alteration of urinals, p. 751 ; urinals in refreshment-houses and licensed premises, p. 751 ; testing drain on report of defects, p. 751 ; filling up cesspools, p. 751 ; public conveniences and lavatories, p. 752 ; removal of trade refuse, p. 752 ; sinks and drains for buildings, p. 752 ; declaring business to be offensive, p. 752.

Sanitary provisions.

Examination on complaint of nuisance.

"Section 51 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, shall have effect as if for the words ' (but not otherwise) ' there were substituted the words ' or where on the report in writing of their surveyor or inspector of nuisances the local authority have reason to suspect that any such drain, water-closet, earth-closet, privy, ashpit, or cesspool is a nuisance or injurious to health " (s. 34).

As to nuisances.

"For the purposes of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878 :—(1) Any cistern used for the supply of water for domestic purposes so placed, constructed, or kept as to render the water therein liable to contamination, causing or likely to cause risk to health ; (2) any gutter, drain, shoot, stack-pipe, or down-spout of a building which by reason of its insufficiency or its defective condition shall cause damp in such building or in an adjoining building ; and (3) any deposit of material in or on any building or land which shall cause damp in such building or in an adjoining building so as to be dangerous or injurious to health ; shall be deemed to be a nuisance within the meaning of the said Act " (s. 35).

Rain-water pipes not to be used as soil-pipes.

"No pipe used for the carrying off of rain water from any roof shall be used for the purpose of carrying off the soil or drainage from any privy or water-closet. Any person who shall offend against this section shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5, and to a daily penalty not exceeding 40s." (s. 36).

Water or stack pipes not to be used as ventilating shafts.

"No water-pipe, stack-pipe, or down-spout in existence at the commencement of this section, used for conveying surface water from any premises, shall be used or be permitted to serve or to act as a ventilating shaft to any drain. Any person who shall offend against this section after fourteen days from the service upon him by the local authority of notice of such offence shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding 40s. and to a daily penalty not exceeding 20s." (s. 37).

"Before any drain existing at the commencement of this section and then not communicating with any sewer of the local authority shall be made to communicate with any sewer of the local authority, the local authority may require the same to be laid open for examination by the surveyor, and no such communication shall be made until the surveyor shall certify that such drain may be properly made to communicate with such sewer" (s. 38).

"In this section unless the context otherwise requires—The expression 'closet accommodation' includes a receptacle for human excreta, together with the structure comprising such receptacle and the fittings and apparatus connected therewith; the expression 'pail-closet' means closet accommodation including a moveable receptacle for human excreta; the expression 'water-closet' means closet accommodation used or adapted or intended to be used in connection with the water carriage system, and comprising provision for the flushing of the receptacle by means of a fresh water supply, and having proper communication with a sewer; the expression 'slop-closet' means closet accommodation used or adapted or intended to be used in connection with the water carriage system, and comprising provision for the flushing of the receptacle by means of slops or waste liquids of the household or rain water, and having proper communication with a sewer; the expression 'a sufficient water supply and sewer' means a water supply and a sewer which are sufficient and reasonably available for use in, or in connection with, the efficient flushing and cleansing of, and the efficient removal of excreta from such number of proper and sufficient water-closets and slop-closets, or from such one or more of either class of closet as, in pursuance of this section, may be required to be provided in any particular case. (2) Within one month after the deposit of any plan by a person intending to erect a new building, the local authority, where there are a sufficient water supply and sewer, may by written notice to that person require the new building to be provided with such number of proper and sufficient water-closets and slop-closets, or with such one or more of either class of closet as the circumstances of the case may render necessary. Any person who fails to comply with any requirement of the local authority under this subsection shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5, and to a daily penalty not exceeding 40s. (3) If, on the report of the medical officer or the surveyor or the inspector of nuisances, the local authority are satisfied that sufficient closet accommodation has not been provided at or in connection with a building and the case is not one in which sufficient closet accommodation can be provided by the alteration of any existing closet accommodation in pursuance of this section, the local authority, where there are a sufficient water supply and sewer, may by written notice to the owner or owners of the building require the building to be provided with such number of proper and sufficient water-closets and slop-closets, or with such one or more of either class of closet as the circumstances of the case may render necessary. If the owner or owners of the building fail to comply with any requirement of the local authority under this subsection, the local authority may at the expiration of a time which shall be specified in the notice and shall be not less than fourteen days after the service of the notice, do the work required by the notice, and may recover summarily as a civil debt from the owner or owners the expenses incurred by the local authority in so doing. (4) The local authority, where there are a sufficient water supply and sewer, may by written notice to the owner or owners of a building require any existing closet accommodation (other than a water-closet or a slop-closet) provided at or in connection with the building to be altered, so as to be converted into a water-closet or slop-closet. If the owner or owners of the building fail to comply with any requirement of the local authority under this subsection, the local

Act of 1907
—of limited
application
—see p. 742.

Sanitary provisions.

Opening old drains for examination.
Provision and conversion of closet accommodation.

Act of 1907 authority may, at the expiration of a time which shall be specified in the
—of limited notice and shall not be less than fourteen days after the service of the application notice, do the work required by the notice. Where in pursuance of this —see p. 742. subsection any work of alteration is done by the local authority in default Sanitary of the owner or owners in respect of a pail-closet, the expenses of the work provisions. shall be borne by the local authority, and where in pursuance of this subsection any work of alteration is done by the local authority in default of the owner or owners in respect of any existing closet accommodation other than a pail-closet, one half of the expenses of the work shall be borne by the local authority, and the remainder of the said expenses shall be borne by the owner or owners and shall be recoverable summarily as a civil debt. Every notice in pursuance of this subsection shall state the effect of the subsection. (5) Nothing in this section shall have effect with respect to a slop-closet, unless or until the Local Government Board for Ireland have been satisfied by the local authority, and have by order declared that the circumstances of the district of the local authority are such as to render it necessary or expedient that this section shall have effect with respect to a slop-closet. Any order in pursuance of this subsection shall be published in such manner as the Local Government Board for Ireland direct" (s. 39).

Payment for " (1) Where under s. 39 of this Act the local authority do any work works of for the common benefit of two or more buildings belonging to different common owners, the expenses which under that section are recoverable by the benefit. local authority from the owners shall be paid by the owners of those buildings in such proportions as shall be determined by the surveyor, or in case of dispute by a court constituted in accordance with the provisions of s. 249 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878. (2) Any moneys expended by the local authority for the purposes of s. 39 of this Act shall, so far as they are not recoverable from the owner or owners, be part of the expenses of the local authority in the execution of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878. (3) The local authority may by order declare any expenses incurred by them under s. 39 of this Act, which are recoverable summarily as a civil debt from the owner or owners, to be expenses to which the provisions of s. 255 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, shall apply, and thereupon those provisions shall apply, with the necessary modifications, as if they were herein re-enacted and in terms made applicable to the said expenses" (s. 40).

Expenses. Private improvement expenses. " Any person duly authorised in writing by the local authority shall, on production of his authorisation, be admitted into any premises for the purposes of s. 39 of this Act, and the provisions of ss. 118 and 119 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, shall, with the necessary modifications, apply to his admission" (s. 41).

Entry on premises. Appeals. " (1) Where any person deems himself aggrieved by any requirement of the local authority under s. 39 of this Act, or objects to the reasonableness of any expenses wholly, or partially recoverable from him under that section, that person may, within fourteen days after the service of notice of the requirement or of a demand for payment of the expenses, appeal to a court of summary jurisdiction, and the court may make such order in the matter as to them may seem equitable, and the order so made shall be binding and conclusive on all parties: Provided nevertheless that the right of appeal, subsequent to the service of a demand for payment, shall be restricted to the ground of the reasonableness of the amount of the expenses, and the appellant shall be precluded from raising at that stage any other question. (2) Pending the decision of the court upon the appeal the local authority shall not be empowered to execute any works to which the notice relates, and any proceeding which may have been commenced for the recovery of the expenses shall be stayed" (s. 42).

“(1) If any urinal or other sanitary convenience opening on any street (whether erected before or after the commencement of this section) is so placed or constructed as to be a nuisance or offensive to public decency, the local authority, by notice in writing, may require the owner to remove it within a reasonable time fixed by the local authority. (2) If the owner fails to comply with the notice, he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding 20s. and to a daily penalty not exceeding 10s.” (s. 43).

“(1) Where any inn, public-house, beer-house, eating-house, refreshment-house, or place of public entertainment, whether built before or after the commencement of this section, has no urinal belonging or attached thereto, the local authority may, by notice in writing, require the owner of the premises to provide and maintain thereon one or more proper and sufficient urinals in a suitable position. (2) If the owner fails within a reasonable time to comply with a notice under this section he shall be liable in respect of each offence to a penalty not exceeding 20s. and to a daily penalty not exceeding 10s.” (s. 44).

“(1) If the medical officer, surveyor, or inspector of nuisances reports to the local authority that he has reasonable grounds for believing that any drains of any building are so defective as to be injurious or dangerous to health, the local authority may authorise their medical officer, surveyor, or inspector of nuisances to apply the smoke or coloured water test, or other similar test (not including a test by water under pressure), to the drains, subject to the condition that either the consent of the owner or occupier of the building must be given to the application of the test, or an order of a court of summary jurisdiction having jurisdiction in the place where the building is situated must be obtained, authorising the application of the test. (2) If on the application of the test the drains are found to be defective, the local authority may, by notice specifying generally the defect, require the owner of the premises to do all works necessary for remedying it within a reasonable time named in the notice, and if the owner fails so to do the work the local authority may themselves do the work, and the expense of so doing the work may either be recovered from the owner of the building summarily as a civil debt or may be declared by the local authority to be private improvement expenses, and may be recoverable accordingly. (3) The owner and occupier of any building shall give all reasonable facilities for the application of any test which has been consented to or authorised in pursuance of this section, and, if the owner or occupier fails to do so, he shall be liable in respect of each offence to a penalty not exceeding 40s. and to a daily penalty not exceeding 20s.” (s. 45).

“If it shall appear to the local authority by the report of the medical officer, surveyor, or inspector of nuisances that any cesspool or other receptacle used or formerly used as a receptacle for excreta or other obnoxious matter, or for the whole or any part of the drainage of a house, or that any ashpit or any well or disused well belonging to any such house or part of a house is prejudicial to health, or otherwise objectionable for sanitary reasons, and that it is desirable that the same should be filled up or removed, or so altered as to remove any such objection as aforesaid, the local authority may, if they think fit, by notice in writing, require the owner or occupier of such house or part of a house within a reasonable time, to be specified in the notice, to cause such cesspool, receptacle, ashpit, or well to be filled up or removed, and any drain communicating therewith to be effectually disconnected, destroyed, or taken away, or to cause such cesspool, receptacle, ashpit, or well to be so altered as to remove any such objection as aforesaid. Where it appears that any such cesspool, receptacle, ashpit, or well is used in common by the occupiers of two or more houses, or parts of houses, the notice for filling

Act of 1907
—of limited application
—see p. 742.

Sanitary provisions.

Local authority may require removal or alteration of urinals.

Urinals in refreshment-houses and licensed premises.

Testing drains on report of defects.

Provision for filling up cesspools, &c.

Act of 1907 up or removal of any such cesspool, receptacle, ashpit, or well may be —of limited served on any one or more of the owners or occupiers of such houses, application and it shall not be necessary to serve such notice on all such owners or —see p. 742. occupiers. If default is made in complying with the requisitions of a notice under this section the local authority may themselves carry out the requisitions, and may recover the expenses incurred by them in so doing from the owners or occupiers in default in a summary manner as a civil debt, or, where the owners are the persons liable, as private improvement expenses are recoverable under the Public Health (Ir.) Acts, 1878 to 1900" (s. 46).

Sanitary
provisions.

Public con- "The local authority may provide and maintain in proper and con*veniences and* venient situations sanitary conveniences in or under any street repairable lavatories. by the inhabitants at large, and may provide and maintain in proper and convenient situations lavatories in or under any such street for the use of the public, and may employ and pay attendants and make reasonable charges for the use of any sanitary conveniences (other than a urinal) or of any lavatory so provided. The local authority may make bye-laws for the management of the sanitary conveniences and lavatories, and as to the conduct of persons frequenting the same. The local authority may let any such sanitary conveniences and any such lavatories for such periods, at such rents, and subject to such conditions as to the charges to be made for the use thereof and otherwise, as they think proper" (s. 47).

Removal of "If the local authority are required by the owner or occupier of any trade refuse. premises to remove any trade refuse (other than sludge), the local authority shall do so, and the owner or occupier shall pay to them for doing so a reasonable sum, to be settled in case of dispute by order of a court of summary jurisdiction; and if any question arises in any case as to what is to be considered as trade refuse, that question may be decided on the complaint of either party by a court of summary jurisdiction, whose decision shall be final" (s. 48).

Summary "In addition to all other powers vested in a local authority, the power to local authority, if it shall appear to them on the report of the surveyor, provide sinks medical officer, or inspector of nuisances, that any building built before and drains or after the commencement of this section of this Act is not provided for buildings. with a proper sink or drain or other necessary appliances for carrying off refuse water from such building, may give notice in writing to the owner or occupier of such building requiring him in the manner and within the time to be specified in such notice, not being less than twenty-eight days, to provide such sink, drain, or other appliances. If the owner or occupier makes default in complying with such requirement to the satisfaction of the local authority within the time specified in such notice he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 and to a daily penalty not exceeding 40s., and in case of default the local authority may, if they think fit, themselves provide such sink, drain, or other appliances, and the expenses incurred by them in so doing shall be repaid to them by such owner or occupier, and may be recovered summarily as a civil debt" (s. 49).

Power to "(1) The words 'any other trade, business, or manufacture, which declare a the local authority declare by order confirmed by the Local Government business to Board for Ireland, and published in such manner as the Board direct, be an offen- to be an offensive trade,' shall be substituted for the words 'any other sive business. noxious or offensive trade, business, or manufacture,' in s. 128 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878. (2) The local authority may make bye-laws with respect to any trade which is an offensive trade under s. 128 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, as amended by this Act, whether established before or after the commencement of this Act, in order to prevent or diminish any noxious or injurious effects of the trade" (s. 51).

PART IV.—INFECTIOUS DISEASES.

Act of 1907
—of limited
application
—see p. 742.

Infected person not to carry on occupation, p. 753; dairymen may be required to furnish sources of supply, p. 753; dairymen to notify infectious diseases, p. 753; infected clothes not to be sent to laundry, p. 753; filthy and dangerous articles to be purified, p. 753; child suffering from infectious disease not to be sent to school, p. 754; list of scholars to be furnished where scholar in school is suffering from infectious disease, p. 754; provisions as to library books, p. 754; removal of person from infected premises, p. 754; exposure of infectious persons and things, p. 755; conveyance of infected persons in public vehicles prohibited, p. 755; driver of infected person to give notice, p. 755; removal to hospital, p. 755; cleansing and disinfecting of premises, p. 756; prohibition of wake over infectious body, p. 756.

“(1) If any person knows that he is suffering from an infectious disease, he shall not engage in any occupation or carry on any trade or business unless he can do so without risk of spreading the infectious disease. (2) If any person acts in contravention of this section, he shall be liable in respect of each offence to a penalty not exceeding 40s.” (s. 52).

“(1) If the medical officer certifies to the local authority that any person in the district is suffering from infectious disease which the medical officer has reason to suspect is attributable to milk supplied within the district, the local authority may require the dairyman supplying the milk to furnish to the medical officer within a reasonable time fixed by them a complete list of all the farms, dairies, or places from which his supply of milk is derived or has been derived during the last six weeks, and, if the supply, or any part of it, is obtained through any other dairyman, may make a similar requisition upon that dairyman. (2) The local authority shall pay to the dairyman for every list furnished by him under this section the sum of sixpence, and, if the list contains not less than twenty-five names, a further sum of sixpence for every twenty-five names contained in the list. (3) Every dairyman shall comply with the requisition of the local authority under this section, and, if he fails to do so, shall be liable in respect of each offence to a penalty not exceeding £5 and a daily penalty not exceeding 40s.” (s. 53).

“(1) Every dairyman supplying milk within the district of the local authority from premises whether within or beyond the district aforesaid shall notify to the medical officer all cases of infectious disease among persons engaged in or in connection with his dairy as soon as he becomes aware or has reason to suspect that such infectious disease exists. (2) Any dairyman who shall fail to comply with this section shall for every such offence be liable to a penalty not exceeding 40s.” (s. 54).

“(1) A person shall not take or send to any public washhouse or to any laundry, for the purpose of being washed, any bedding, clothes, or other things which he knows to have been exposed to infection from any infectious disease, unless they have been disinfected by or to the satisfaction of the local authority or their medical officer, or of a legally qualified medical practitioner, or are sent to a laundry with proper precautions for the purpose of disinfection, with notice that they have been exposed to infection. (2) If any person acts in contravention of the foregoing provision of this section he shall be liable in respect of each offence to a penalty not exceeding 40s. (3) The local authority may, on the application of any person, pay the expenses of the disinfection of any such bedding, clothes, or other things, if carried out by them or under their direction” (s. 55).

“Where the local authority on the certificate of the medical officer are satisfied that the cleansing, purification, or destruction of any article in a dwelling-house is, by reason of the filthy condition of the article, necessary to prevent injury or to remove or obviate risk of injury to the health of any person in the dwelling-house, the local authority may cause

Infectious diseases.

Infected person not to carry on occupation.

Power to require dairymen to furnish list of sources of supply.

Dairymen to notify infectious diseases existing among their servants.

Infected clothes not to be sent to laundry.

Filthy and dangerous articles to be purified.

Act of 1907 the article to be cleansed, purified, or destroyed at their expense. Where —of limited a person sustains damage in consequence of the exercise by the local application authority of their powers under this section, and the condition of the —see p. 742. article with respect to which those powers have been exercised is not attributable to his act or default, the local authority shall make reasonable compensation to that person" (s. 56).

Infectious diseases.

Child suffering from infectious disease not to attend school.

"(1) No person being the parent or having the care or charge of a child within the district of the local authority who is or has been suffering from infectious disease or has been exposed to infection shall, after a notice from the medical officer that the child is not to be sent to school, permit such child to attend school without having procured from the medical officer a certificate (which shall be granted free of charge upon application) that in his opinion such child may attend without undue risk of communicating such disease to others. (2) Any person who shall offend against this section shall for every such offence be liable to a penalty not exceeding 40s." (s. 57).

List of scholars to be furnished where scholar in a school is suffering from an infectious disease.

"(1) The principal of a school in which any scholar is suffering from an infectious disease shall, if required by the local authority, furnish to them within a reasonable time fixed by them a complete list of the names and addresses of the scholars in or attending at the school or any specified department thereof other than boarders. (2) The local authority of the district shall pay to the principal of the school for every list furnished by him under this section the sum of sixpence, and, if the list contains not less than twenty-five names, a further sum of sixpence for every twenty-five names contained in the list. (3) If the principal of a school fails to comply with any of the provisions of this section he shall be liable in respect of each offence to a penalty not exceeding 40s. (4) In this section the expression 'the principal' used in relation to a school means the person in charge of the school, and includes, where the school is divided into departments and there is no single person at the head of the whole school, as respects each department the head of that department" (s. 58).

Provisions as to library books.

"(1) If any person knows that he is suffering from an infectious disease he shall not take any book or use or cause any book to be taken for his use from any public or circulating library. (2) A person shall not permit any book which has been taken from a public or circulating library, and is under his control, to be used by any person whom he knows to be suffering from an infectious disease. (3) A person shall not return to any public or circulating library any book which he knows to have been exposed to infection from any infectious disease, or permit any such book which is under his control to be so returned, but shall give notice to the local authority that the book has been so exposed to infection, and the local authority shall cause the book to be disinfected and returned to the library, or to be destroyed. (4) The local authority shall pay to the proprietor of the library from which the book is procured the value of any book destroyed under the power given by this section. (5) If any person acts in contravention of or fails to comply with this section, he shall be liable in respect of each offence to a penalty not exceeding 40s." (s. 59).

Removal of person from infected
premises.

"(1) The local authority may exercise the powers of s. 15 of the Infectious Disease (Prevention) Act, 1890.<sup>1</sup> whether that section has or has not been adopted in the district, and, where the local authority so determine, those powers may be exercised for providing temporary shelter or house accommodation with any necessary attendants for any person who, in any case to which this section applies, leaves a house after any infectious disease has appeared therein, and the local authority may borrow, subject to the provisions of the Public Health (Ir.) Acts, 1878 to 1900, for the purpose of providing shelter or house accommodation under s. 15 of the Infectious Disease (Prevention) Act, 1890, or under this section. Where the local authority in pursuance of the aforesaid powers have provided a temporary shelter or house accommodation, they may, on the appearance of any infectious disease in a house, and on the certificate of the medical officer, cause any person who is not himself sick and who consents to leave the house, or whose parent or guardian (where the person is a child) consents to his leaving the house, to be removed therefrom to any such temporary shelter or house accommodation, and in the like case on the like certificate may cause any such person who does not consent to leave the house to be removed therefrom to any such temporary shelter or house accommodation, where two justices, on the application of the local authority and on being satisfied of the necessity of the removal, make an order for the removal, subject to such conditions (if any) as are imposed by the order. The local authority shall in every case cause the removal to be effected and the conditions of any order to be satisfied without charge to the person removed or to the parent or guardian of that person. (2) Any person who wilfully disobeys or obstructs the execution of an order under this section, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5. (3) For the purpose of this section the word 'house' includes any tent, van, shed, or similar structure used for human habitation or any boat lying in any canal or other water within the district of the local authority and used for the like purpose" (s. 61).

<sup>1</sup> That section is as follows: "The local authority shall from time to time provide, free of charge, temporary shelter or house accommodation with any necessary attendants for the members of any family in which any infectious disease has appeared who have been compelled to leave their dwellings for the purpose of enabling such dwellings to be disinfected by the local authority."

Act of 1907
—of limited
application
—see p. 742.

Infectious diseases.

"Paragraph two of s. 142 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878 (which imposes a penalty on the exposure of infected persons and things), shall be read as if the words 'or causes or permits such sufferer to be so exposed' were added after the word 'sufferer'" (s. 62).

Exposure of infectious persons and things.

"The owner or driver of a public vehicle within the district of the local authority used for the carrying of passengers at separate fares shall not knowingly convey or any other person shall not knowingly place in any such public vehicle a person suffering from any infectious disease, or a person suffering from any such disease shall not enter any such vehicle, and every person who shall offend against this section shall for every such offence be liable to a penalty not exceeding 40s." (s. 63).

Prohibiting conveyance of infected persons in public vehicles.

"(1) If any person suffering from any infectious disease is conveyed in any public vehicle within the district of the local authority the owner or driver thereof as soon as it comes to his knowledge shall give notice to the medical officer, and shall cause such vehicle to be disinfected, and, if he fails so to do, he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5, and the owner or driver of such vehicle shall be entitled to recover in a summary manner from the person so conveyed, or from the person causing that person to be so conveyed, a sufficient sum to cover any loss and expense incurred by him in connection with such disinfection. (2) It shall be the duty of the local authority when so requested by the owner or driver of such public vehicle to provide for the disinfection of the same free of charge, except in cases where the owner or driver conveyed a person knowing that he was suffering from infectious disease" (s. 64).

Driver, &c.,
of infected person to give notice.

"Section 141 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, shall extend and apply to all cases of persons suffering from any dangerous infectious disease, and being in or upon any house or premises where such persons cannot be effectually isolated so as to prevent the spread of the disease" (s. 65).

Removal to hospital.

Act of 1907
—of limited
application
—see p. 742.

Infectious diseases.

Cleansing and disinfecting of premises, &c.

"(1) If the medical officer, or any other legally qualified medical practitioner certifies that the cleansing and disinfecting of any house, or part of a house, and of any articles therein likely to retain infection, or the destruction of those articles would tend to prevent or check any dangerous infectious disease, the local authority shall serve notice on the master, or, where the house or part is unoccupied, on the owner of the house or part, that the house or part, and any such articles therein, will be cleansed and disinfected or (as regards the articles) destroyed, by the local authority unless he informs the local authority within twenty-four hours from the receipt of the notice that he will cleanse and disinfect the house or part and any such articles, or destroy the articles to the satisfaction of the medical officer or of any other legally qualified medical practitioner within a time fixed in the notice. (2) If either—(a) within twenty-four hours from the receipt of the notice the person on whom the notice is served does not inform the local authority as aforesaid; or (b) having so informed the local authority, he fails to have the house or part thereof and any such articles disinfected, or the articles destroyed as aforesaid, within the time fixed in the notice; or (c) the master or owner without any such notice gives his consent; the house or part and articles shall be cleansed and disinfected, or the articles destroyed by the officers and at the cost of the local authority under the superintendence of the medical officer. (3) For the purpose of carrying into effect this section the local authority may enter by day on any premises. (4) When the local authority have disinfected any house, part of a house, or article, under the provisions of this section, they shall compensate the master or owner of the house, or part of a house, or the owner of the article, for any unnecessary damage thereby caused to the house, part of a house, or article; and when the local authority destroy any article under this section they shall compensate the owner thereof, and the amount of any such compensation shall be recoverable in a summary manner. (5) The expression 'master' means the person in occupation of or having the charge, management, or control of the house or part of a house, and where the house is wholly let out in separate tenements, or is a lodging-house wholly let to lodgers, includes the person receiving the rent payable by the tenants or lodgers either on his own account, or as the agent of another person; and the expression 'by day' means during the period between six o'clock in the morning and the succeeding nine o'clock in the evening" (s. 66).

Wake not to be held over body of person dying of infectious disease.

"It shall not be lawful to hold any wake over the body of any person who has died of infectious disease, and the occupier of any house or premises or part of a house or premises who permits or suffers any such wake to take place in such house or premises, or part of a house or premises, and every person who attends to take part in such wake shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding 40s." (s. 68).

PART V.—COMMON LODGING-HOUSES.

Registration, p. 756; obligations of keeper, p. 757; deputy lodging-house keepers, p. 757; cancelling registration on conviction, p. 757; unregistered lodging-house keepers, p. 757; sanitary convenience, p. 757; notice of commencement of Part V., p. 757.

Common lodging-houses.

Registration.

"(1) The local authority may, at their discretion, refuse to register any person as a common lodging-house keeper, unless they are satisfied of his character and of his fitness for the position. (2) The registration of a person as a common lodging-house keeper shall, if that person is newly registered after the commencement of this section, remain in force only for such time not exceeding one year as may be fixed by the local authority, but may be renewed from time to time by the local authority" (s. 69). Act of 1907 —of limited application —see p. 742.

"(1) Either the keeper of a common lodging-house or a deputy registered under this Act shall manage and control the lodging-house and exercise supervision over those using it, and either the keeper or the deputy so registered shall be and remain at the lodging-house between the hours of nine in the evening and six in the morning of the following day. (2) If any provision of this section is not complied with in the case of any common lodging-house, the keeper of the house shall, unless he shows to the court that there was a reasonable excuse for the non-compliance, be liable in respect of each offence to a penalty not exceeding 40s., and to a daily penalty not exceeding 20s." (s. 70). Common lodging-houses. Control of.

"(1) The local authority shall keep a register for the purposes of this section, and shall enter therein the name of any person whose name is submitted to them by a common lodging-house keeper as his deputy, and who is approved by them for the purpose. (2) The local authority may register more than one deputy for any common lodging-house keeper. (3) The local authority, if at any time they are of opinion that any person registered as a deputy of a common lodging-house keeper is not a fit person for the purpose, may cancel the registration" (s. 71). Deputy lodging-house keepers.

"Where the keeper of a common lodging-house is convicted of any offence against any provision of the Public Health (Ir.) Acts, 1878 to 1900, or this Act relating to common lodging-houses, or of any bye-law made thereunder, the court before whom he is convicted may cancel his registration as a common lodging-house keeper, and he shall cease to be registered accordingly" (s. 72). Cancelling registration on conviction.

"If a person keeps a common lodging-house he shall, although he is not registered as a common lodging-house keeper under s. 88 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, be liable to the penalties imposed under s. 97 of that Act for the offences named therein" (s. 73). Unregistered lodging-house keepers.

"(1) Every common lodging-house, whether registered before or after the commencement of this section, shall be provided—(a) with sufficient and suitable sanitary conveniences, having regard to the number of persons who may be received in that house, and also, where persons of both sexes are received in the common lodging-house, with proper separate accommodation for persons of each sex; and (b) with a water supply laid on sufficient for flushing any water-closets or urinals which are used in the house. (2) If it appears to the local authority that, in the case of any common lodging-house, default is made in any respect in complying with the provisions of this section, the local authority may, by notice in writing specifying the default, require the keeper of the common lodging-house to remedy the default. (3) If within twenty-eight days of the notice being served the default is not remedied to the satisfaction of the local authority, they may themselves do the work required to be done; and may recover in a summary manner from the keeper of the common lodging-house the expenses incurred by them in so doing, or may by order declare these expenses to be private improvement expenses" (s. 74). Sanitary conveniences.

"(1) At a time not less than one month before the commencement of this Part of this Act the local authority shall give notice of the fact to the keeper of every common lodging-house in their district. (2) On and after the commencement of this Part of this Act s. 89 from the words 'and the local<sup>1</sup> authority may' to the end of the section, and s. 99 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, shall be repealed as far as relates to the district" (s. 75). Notice of commencement of Part V. and repeal.

<sup>1</sup> The word in the Irish section is "sanitary."

Act of 1907
—of limited
application
—see p. 742.

Recreation grounds.

Powers as to parks and pleasure gardens.

PART VI.—RECREATION GROUNDS.

" (1) The Local Government Board, for the purposes of this section, may make rules prescribing restrictions or conditions subject to which any powers conferred by the section shall with respect to any area in a public park or pleasure ground be exercisable in relation to the enclosure or setting apart of the area or in relation to the use of the area as the site of a building or convenience. Subject to the restrictions or conditions prescribed by rules made under this section, the local authority shall, in addition to any powers under any general Act, have the following powers with respect to any public park or pleasure ground provided by them or under their management and control, namely, powers—(a) To enclose during time of frost any part of the park or ground for the purpose of protecting ice for skating, and charge admission to the part enclosed, but only on condition that at least three-quarters of the ice available for the purpose of skating is open to the use of the public free of charge; (b) to set apart any such part of the park or ground as may be fixed by the local authority, and may be described in a notice board affixed or set up in some conspicuous position in the park or ground, for the purpose of cricket, football, or any other game or recreation, and to exclude the public from the part set apart while it is in actual use for that purpose; (c) to provide any apparatus for games and recreations, and charge for the use thereof, or let the right of providing any such apparatus for any term not exceeding three years to any person; (d) to provide or contribute towards the expenses of any band of music to perform in the park or ground; (e) to enclose any part of the park or ground, not exceeding one acre, for the convenience of persons listening to any band of music, and charge admission thereto; (f) to place, or authorise any person to place, chairs or seats in any such park or ground, and charge for, or authorise any person to charge for, the use of the chairs so provided; (g) to provide and maintain any reading rooms, pavilions, or other buildings and conveniences, and to charge for admission thereto, subject in the case of reading rooms to the limitation that such a charge shall not be made on more than twelve days in any one year, nor on more than four consecutive days; (h) to let any pavilion or other building so provided by them to any person for the purpose of entertainments, and authorise that person to charge for admission thereto; (i) to provide and maintain refreshment rooms in any such park, and either manage them themselves, or, if they think fit, let them to any person for any term not exceeding three years. (2) Any expenses of the local authority incurred in the exercise of the powers given to them by this section shall be defrayed out of the fund or rate out of which the expenses of the park or ground as to which the powers are exercised are payable, and any receipts arising from the exercise of any such powers shall be carried to the credit of the same fund or rate. (3) The expenses incurred by the council in the exercise of their power under this section to provide or contribute to a band shall not in any one year exceed an amount equal to that which would be produced by a rate of an amount which shall be approved by the Local Government Board and shall not exceed a penny on the property liable to be assessed for the purpose of the rate out of which the expenses of the park or ground are payable, as assessed for the time being for the purposes of that rate. (4) No power given by this section shall be exercised in such a manner as to contravene any covenant or condition subject to which a gift or lease of a public park or pleasure ground has been accepted or made, without the consent of the donor, grantor, lessor, or other person or persons entitled in law to the benefit of such covenant or condition " (s. 76).

PART VII.—POLICE.

Act of 1907

Regulations as to street traffic, p. 759; dangerous riding and driving, p. 759; leading and driving animals, p. 759; "public place," "public street," p. 759; bye-laws as to seashore, p. 760; bye-laws as to promenades, p. 760; licences to porters, p. 760; registries for servants, p. 760; registration of marine store dealers, p. 761.

—of limited application
—see p. 742.

"The local authority may from time to time make regulations with respect to such streets, to be specified in the regulations, as are specially liable to be obstructed by reason of the amount and nature of the traffic :— (a) Prescribing the line to be kept at any street crossing by all persons riding or driving; (b) requiring the drivers of heavy and slow-moving vehicles to keep their vehicles to a particular portion of the street. All regulations under this section shall be subject to the approval of the Chief Secretary. Any person who shall contravene any such regulation after warning given by word or signal by a police constable stationed in the street to direct the traffic shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding 40s." (s. 78).

Police.
Regulations as to street traffic.

"Every person who shall ride or drive so as to endanger the life or limb of any person or to the common danger of the passengers in any thoroughfare shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding 40s., and may be arrested without warrant by any constable who witnesses the offence" (s. 79).

Dangerous riding and driving.

"The local authority may, by order, prescribe the streets in which, and the manner according to which, the leading or driving of animals shall be permitted within their district, provided that the route or routes which it shall be lawful for the local authority so to prescribe shall not be such as would prevent the passage of cattle between any market on the one hand, and any railway station or landing wharf in the district, or any place beyond the district, on the other hand, when such animals are merely passing between such market and railway station, landing wharf, or other place aforesaid, and the local authority shall be bound to allow at all times a reasonably short and efficient route or routes for the passage of such animals. Provided also that any such order shall only operate between the hours of nine in the morning and nine in the evening, and shall not prevent the owner of any animals driving the same to or from his own premises, and nothing in this enactment contained shall authorise the local authority to interfere with the leading or driving of any animals to any duly licensed slaughter-house" (s. 80).

As to leading or driving animals.

"Any place of public resort or recreation ground belonging to, or under the control of the local authority, and any unfenced ground adjoining or abutting upon any street in an urban district shall for the purpose of the Vagrancy Act, 1824,<sup>1</sup> and of any Act for the time being in force altering or amending the same, be deemed to be an open and public place, and shall be deemed to be a street for the purposes of s. 29 of the Town Police Clauses Act, 1847,<sup>2</sup> and also for the purposes of so much of s. 28 of that Act and of s. 72<sup>2</sup> of Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, as relates to the following offences :—Every person who suffers to be at large any unmuzzled ferocious dog, or urges any dog or other animal to attack, worry, or put in fear any person or animal: Every person who rides or drives furiously any horse or carriage, or drives furiously any cattle: Every common prostitute or night walker loitering and importuning passengers for the purpose of prostitution: Every person who wilfully and indecently exposes his person: Every person who publicly offers for sale or distribution, or exhibits to public view,

Extending definition of public place and street for certain purposes.
5 Geo. 4, c. 83.
10 & 11 Vict. c. 89.

<sup>1</sup> Sec. 4 of the Vagrancy Act, 1824, was extended to Ireland by the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, s. 15. See PREVENTION OF CRIME.

<sup>2</sup> See TOWNS IMPROVEMENT.

Act of 1907<sup>1</sup> any profane, indecent, or obscene book, paper, print, drawing, painting, —of limited or representation, or sings any profane or obscene song or ballad, or uses application any profane or obscene language: Every person who wantonly discharges any firearm or discharges any missile or makes any bonfire: —see p. 742. Every person who throws or lays any dirt, litter, ashes, or night soil, or any carrion, fish, offal, or rubbish, on any street" (s. 81).

Bye-laws as to seashore. "The local authority for the prevention of danger, obstruction, or annoyance to persons using the seashore may make and enforce bye-laws to—(1) Regulate the erection or placing on the seashore, or on such part or parts thereof as may be prescribed by such bye-laws, of any booths, tents, sheds, stands, and stalls (whether fixed or movable), or vehicles for the sale or exposure of any article or thing, or any shows, exhibitions, performances, swings, roundabouts, or other erections, vans, photographic carts, or other vehicles, whether drawn or propelled by animals, persons, or any mechanical power, and the playing of any games on the seashore, and generally regulate the user of the seashore for such purposes as shall be prescribed by such bye-laws; (2) regulate the user of the seashore for riding and driving; (3) regulate the selling and hawking of any article, commodity, or thing on the seashore; (4) provide for the preservation of order and good conduct among persons using the seashore. Provided that no bye-laws affecting the foreshore below high-water mark shall come into operation until the consent of the Board of Trade has been obtained" (s. 82); but for them as well as for all other bye-laws under the section confirmation by the Chief Secretary is required (s. 9).

Bye-laws as to promenades. "The local authority may, for the prevention of danger, obstruction, or annoyance to persons using the esplanades or promenades within the district, make bye-laws prescribing the nature of the traffic for which they may be used, regulating the selling and hawking of any article, commodity, or thing thereon, and for the preservation of order and good conduct among the persons using the same" (s. 83). Such bye-laws must be confirmed by the Chief Secretary (s. 9).

Licences to porters. "(1) The local authority may from time to time grant to any person whom they think fit a licence to carry on the calling of a luggage porter, light porter, public messenger, or commissionaire, and may charge a fee of one shilling for any such licence. (2) The local authority may from time to time make bye-laws for regulating the conduct of any persons so licensed and for fixing the charges to be made by them. (5) If any person while unlicensed represents himself to be licensed, or wears any badge for the purpose of representing himself as licensed to carry on any of the callings specified in this section, he shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding 20s." (s. 84). Bye-laws made under this section must be confirmed by the Chief Secretary (s. 9).

Registries for servants. "(1) Every person who shall carry on for the purpose of private gain the trade or business of keeper of a female domestic servants' registry shall register his name and place of abode, and also the premises in which such trade or business is carried on, in a book to be kept at the offices of the local authority for the purpose. (2) The local authority may make bye-laws prescribing the books to be kept and the entries to be made therein, and any other matter which the local authority may deem necessary for the prevention of fraud or immorality in the conduct of such trade or business and for regulating any premises used for the purposes of or in connection with such trade or business. (3) The person registered shall keep a copy of the bye-laws made by the local authority under this section hung up in a conspicuous place in the registered premises. (4) Any officer of the local authority or other person duly authorised in writing in that behalf by the local authority, and if so required exhibiting his authority, shall at all reasonable times be afforded by the person registered full and free power of entry into the registered premises for the purpose of inspecting the registered premises and the books required to be kept by such person. (5) Any person carrying on such trade or business as aforesaid whose name, place of abode, and premises in which such trade or business is carried on have not been registered in accordance with sub-s. 1 of this section, or whose registration has been cancelled or suspended as hereinafter provided, or acting in contravention of any of the provisions of this section or of any bye-law made thereunder, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 and to a daily penalty not exceeding 40s., and the court may (in lieu of or in addition to imposing a penalty) order the suspension or cancellation of the registration. (6) The local authority shall give public notice of the provisions of this section by advertisement in two newspapers circulating in the district, and by handbills and otherwise in such manner as they think sufficient" (s. 85). Bye-laws made under this section must be confirmed by the Chief Secretary (s. 9).

"(1) Every person who shall carry on business as a dealer in old metal or as a marine store dealer shall register his name and place of abode and every place of business, warehouse, store, and place of deposit occupied or used by him for the purpose of such business, in a book to be kept for the purpose at the offices of the local authority. (2) Every person carrying on business as aforesaid shall correctly enter in a book to be kept by him for that purpose the description and price of all articles purchased or otherwise acquired by him, and the name, address, and occupation of the person from whom the same were purchased or otherwise acquired. (3) Every person who shall carry on such business without having so registered or without keeping such book and making such entries as required by this section shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 and to a daily penalty not exceeding 40s. (4) Any officer of the local authority or other person duly authorised in writing in that behalf by the local authority, and if so required exhibiting his authority, shall have free access at all reasonable times to every such place of business, warehouse, store, and place of deposit, to inspect the same and the books by this section required to be kept, and every person who shall prevent, hinder, or obstruct any officer or person so authorised in the execution of his duty under this subsection shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5. (5) The local authority shall give public notice of the provisions of this section by advertisement in two newspapers circulating in the district, and by handbills and otherwise in such manner as they think sufficient" (s. 86).

*Act of 1907
—of limited
application
—see p 742.*

As to dealers in old metal and marine stores.

PART VIII.—FIRE BRIGADE.

"Any police constable acting under the orders of his superior officer, and any member of the fire brigade of the local authority being on duty, and any officer of the local authority, may enter and if necessary break into any building in the district being or reasonably supposed to be on fire, or any building or land adjoining or near thereto, without the consent of the owner or occupier thereof respectively, and may do all such acts and things as they may deem necessary for extinguishing fire in any such building or for protecting the same or rescuing any person or property therein from fire" (s. 87).

Fire brigade.

Power to police constable to enter and break open premises in case of fire.

"The officer in charge of the police at any fire in the district shall have power to stop or regulate the traffic in any street whenever in his opinion it is necessary or desirable to stop or regulate such traffic for the purpose of extinguishing the fire or for the safety or protection of life

Power to police officer to control street traffic at fires.

Act of 1907 or property, and any person who wilfully disobeys any order given by
—of limited such officer in pursuance of this section shall be liable to a penalty not application exceeding £5" (s. 88).

—see p. 742.

Fire brigade.

Control of operations.

"The captain or superintendent of the fire brigade of the local authority or other officer of such fire brigade for the time being in charge of the engine or other apparatus for extinguishing fires attending at any fire within the district shall from the time of his arrival and during his presence thereat have the sole charge and control of all operations for the putting out of such fire, whether by the fire brigade of the local authority or any other fire brigade, including the fixing of the positions of fire engines and apparatus, the attaching of hose to any water pipes or water supply, and the selection of the parts of the building on fire or of adjoining buildings against which the water is to be directed" (s. 89).

PART IX.—SKY SIGNS.

Sky signs.

"(1) (a) It shall not be lawful to erect or fix to, upon, or in connection with any building or erection any sky sign, and it shall not be lawful to retain any existing sky sign so erected or fixed for a longer period than three years after the commencement of this section, nor during that period except with the licence of the local authority, and in the event of such licence being granted then only for such period not exceeding three years from the commencement of this section and under and subject to such terms and conditions as shall be therein prescribed. (b) Provided that in any of the following cases a licence of the local authority under this subsection shall become void (namely):—(i.) If any addition to any sky sign be made except for the purpose of making it secure under the direction of the surveyor: (ii.) if any change be made in the sky sign or any part thereof: (iii.) if the sky sign or any part thereof fall either through accident, decay, or any other cause; (iv.) if any addition or alteration be made to or in the house, building, or structure on, over, or to which any sky sign is placed or attached if such addition or alteration involves the disturbance of the sky sign or any part thereof; or (v.) if the house, building, or structure over, on, or to which the sky sign is placed or attached become unoccupied or be demolished or destroyed.

"(c) Provided also that if any sky sign be erected or retained contrary to the provisions of this Act, or after the licence for the erection, maintenance, or retention thereof for any period shall have expired or become void, it shall be lawful for the local authority to take proceedings for the taking down and removal of the sky sign in the same manner and with the same consequence as to recovery of expenses and otherwise in all respects as if it were an obstruction within the meaning of s. 69 (future projections of houses, &c., to be removed on notice) of the Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847, 10 & 11 Vict. c. 34."

"(2) Any person acting in contravention of any of the provisions of this section, or of the terms and conditions (if any) of any approval, licence, or consent under this section, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 and to a daily penalty not exceeding 20s. (3) For the purposes of this section—'Sky sign' means—Any word, letter, model, sign, device, or representation in the nature of an advertisement, announcement, or direction supported on or attached to any post, pole, standard, frame-work, or other support wholly or in part upon, over, or above any house, building or structure which or any part of which sky sign shall be visible against the sky from some point in any street or public way, and includes all and every part of any such post, pole, standard, frame-work, or other support; the expression 'sky sign' shall also include—Any balloon, parachute, or other similar device employed wholly or in part for the purposes of any advertisement or announcement on, over, or above any house, building, structure, or erection of any kind, or on or over any street or public way; but shall not include—(a) any flagstaff, pole, vane, or weathercock unless adapted or used wholly or in part for the purpose of any advertisement or announcement; (b) any sign or any board, frame, or other contrivance securely fixed to or on the top of the wall or parapet of any building, or on the cornice or blocking course of any wall, or to the ridge of a roof: Provided that such board, frame, or other contrivance be of one continuous face and not open work, and do not extend in height more than three feet above any part of the wall or parapet or ridge to, against, or on which it is fixed or supported; (c) any word, letter, model, sign, device, or representation as aforesaid relating exclusively to the business of a railway or canal company, and placed wholly upon or over any railway, canal, railway station, wharf, quay, yard, platform, or station or wharf or quay approach belonging to a railway or canal company, and so placed that it cannot fall into any street or public place” (s. 91).

PART X.—MISCELLANEOUS.

Bye-laws as to bathing, p. 763; life-saving apparatus, p. 763; licensing pleasure boat, p. 763; power to purchase lands, p. 764.

“The local authority—(a) may make bye-laws with regard to any public bathing, whether from bathing machines or not, for any of the purposes mentioned in s. 69 of the Town Police Clauses Act, 1847, and also for the purpose of regulating the hours of bathing and enforcing the provision and maintenance of any life-saving apparatus or other means of protecting bathers from danger by persons providing accommodation for public bathing: and (b) may, if they think fit, provide and maintain on or at any place within their district which abuts on the sea or any river, bathing-sheds or other conveniences with all necessary appliances, and may charge for the use thereof” (s. 92). Bye-laws made under this section must be confirmed by the Chief Secretary (s. 9).

“The local authority of any district may provide and maintain life-saving appliances at any place in their district where they think those appliances are likely to be of use” (s. 93).

“(1) The local authority may grant upon such terms and conditions as they may think fit licences for pleasure boats<sup>1</sup> and pleasure vessels to be let for hire or to be used for carrying passengers for hire, and to the boatmen or persons assisting in the charge or navigation of such boats and vessels, and may charge annual fees for such licences, for a boat or vessel a fee not exceeding the sum of five shillings, and for a boatman or other person a fee not exceeding the sum of one shilling. (2) Any such licence may be granted for such period as the local authority may think fit, and may be suspended or revoked by the local authority whenever they shall deem such suspension or revocation to be necessary or desirable in the interests of the public: Provided that the existence of the power to suspend or revoke the licence shall be plainly set forth in the licence itself. (3) No person shall let for hire any pleasure boat or pleasure vessel not so licensed or at any time during the suspension of the licence for the boat or vessel, nor shall any person carry or permit to be carried passengers for hire in any pleasure boat or vessel not so licensed or at any time during the suspension of the licence for the boat or vessel.

<sup>1</sup> As to what is a pleasure boat, form of summons, evidence as to district, see Featoun v. Warrenpoint U.D.C. (1910), 44 I.L.T.R. 265.

Miscellaneous.
Bathing places.

Provision of life-saving appliances.

Power to license pleasure boats.

Act of 1907 (4) A licence under this section shall not be required for any boat or — of limited vessel duly licensed by or under any regulations of the Board of Trade.
application (5) No person shall carry or permit to be carried in any pleasure boat — see p. 742. or pleasure vessel a greater number of passengers for hire than shall be specified in the licence applying to such boat or vessel, and every owner of any such boat or vessel shall, before permitting the same to be used for carrying passengers for hire, paint or cause to be painted, in letters and figures not less than one inch in height and three-quarters of an inch in breadth, on a conspicuous part of the said boat or vessel, his own name and also the number of persons which it is licensed to carry, in the form 'Licensed to carry persons.' (6) Every person who shall act in contravention of the provisions of this section shall for each offence be liable to a penalty not exceeding 40s. (7) Any person deeming himself aggrieved by the withholding, suspension, or revocation of any licence under the provisions of this section may appeal to a petty sessional court held after the expiration of two clear days after such withholding, suspension, or revocation: Provided that the person so aggrieved shall give twenty-four hours' written notice of such appeal, and the ground thereof, to the clerk, and the court shall have power to make such order as they see fit and to award costs, such costs to be recoverable summarily as a civil debt" (s. 94).

Miscellaneous.

Power to purchase lands.

"The powers of a local authority under ss. 202 and 203 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, shall extend to highway purposes, and notwithstanding anything in s. 175 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, or any general provision in any local Act, any lands acquired by a local authority and not required for the purposes for which those lands have been acquired may be appropriated for any purpose approved by the Local Government Board for Ireland, subject, nevertheless, to any special covenant or condition affecting the use of the lands attached thereto at the time of the purchase by the local authority, or to any special provision affecting the use of the lands contained in any local Act: Provided that the local authority shall not, on any lands so appropriated, create or permit any nuisance; and that the local authority shall not, on any such lands, sink any well for the public supply of water, or construct any cemetery, burial ground, destructor, station for generating electricity, sewage farm, or hospital for infectious disease, unless after local inquiry and consideration of any objections made by persons affected, the Local Government Board for Ireland, subject to such conditions as they think fit, authorise the work or construction.

"Nothing in this section shall affect any rights acquired before the commencement of this section under any judgment or order of a court of competent jurisdiction, or under any agreement in writing, but if a dispute, one of the parties to which is a local authority, arises under such an agreement as to any such right, the dispute shall, if either party so require, be settled by the Local Government Board for Ireland as if it were a doubt or difference within the meaning of s. 304 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, and the Local Government Board may for that purpose deal by Order with any matters which may be dealt with by an Order or Provisional Order under the said section" (s. 95).

FORMS.

(As set out in Schedule C of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878.)

Notice requiring abatement of nuisance.

(Under s. 110 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878: see p. 708.)

To [person causing the nuisance, or owner or occupier of the premises whereon the nuisance exists, as the case may be].

Take notice that under the provisions of the Public Health (Ireland) Act, 1878, the [describe the sanitary authority], being satisfied of the existence of a nuisance at [describe premises or place where the nuisance exists], arising from [describe the cause of nuisance, for instance, want of a privy or drain; or for instance, a ditch or drain so foul as to be a nuisance or injurious to health; or for further instance, swine kept so as to be a nuisance or injurious to health], do hereby require you within from the service of this notice to abate the same, and for that purpose to [state any things required to be done or works to be executed].

If you make default in complying with the requisitions of this notice, or if the said nuisance, though abated, is likely to recur, a summons will be issued requiring your attendance to answer a complaint which will be made to a court of summary jurisdiction for enforcing the abatement of the nuisance, and prohibiting a recurrence thereof, and for recovering the costs and penalties that may be incurred thereby.

Dated this day of 18 .

Signature of officer of } sanitary authority }

Summons.

(Under s. 111 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878; see p. 708.)

To the owner or occupier of [describe premises], situated at [insert such a description as may be sufficient to identify the premises], or to A. B of

County of [or borough of, &c., or district of
or as the case may be] to wit. } You are required to appear before [describe the court of summary jurisdiction], at the petty sessions [or court] holden at on the day of next, at the hour of in the noon, to answer the complaint this day made to me by that in or on the premises above mentioned [or in or on certain premises situated at No. in the street in the parish of or such other description or reference as may be sufficient to identify the premises], in the district, under the Public Health Act (Ireland), 1878, of [describe the sanitary authority], the following nuisance exists [describing it, as the case may be], and that the said nuisance is caused by the act or default of the occupier [or owner] of the said premises, or by you A. B. [or in case the nuisance be discontinued, but likely to be repeated, say, there existed recently, to wit, on or about the day of on the premises, the following nuisance [describe the nuisance], and that the said nuisance was caused [d.c.], and although the same has since the said last mentioned day been abated or discontinued, there is reasonable ground to consider that the same or the like nuisance is likely to recur on the said premises].

this day of 18 .

(Signed)

Justice.

Order for abatement or prohibition of nuisance.

(Under s. 112 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878; see p. 709.)

To the owner [or occupier] of [describe the premises], situated [give such description as may be sufficient to identify the premises], or to A. B. of

County of [or borough of, &c., or district of
or as the case may be]. { WHEREAS on the day of complaint was made before Esquire, one of Her Majesty's justices of the peace acting in and for the county [or other jurisdiction] stated in the margin, [or as the case may be,] by that in or on certain premises situated at in the district under the Public Health Act (Ireland), 1878, of [describe the sanitary authority] the following nuisance then existed [describing it]; and that the said nuisance was caused by the act or default of the owner [or occupier] of the said premises [or was caused by A. B.] [If the nuisance have been removed, say, the following nuisance existed on or about [the day the nuisance was ascertained to exist], and that the said nuisance was caused, &c., and although the same is now removed, the same or the like nuisance is likely to recur on the same premises.]

And whereas the owner [or occupier] within the meaning of the said Public Health Act (Ireland), 1878, [or the said A. B.,] hath this day appeared before us [(or me) describing the court], to answer the matter of the said complaint [or in case the party charged do not appear, say, and whereas it hath been this day proved to our (or my) satisfaction, that a true copy of a summons requiring the owner [or occupier] of the said premises [or the said A. B.] to appear this day before us [or me]] hath been duly served according to the said Act.

Now on proof here had before us [or me] that the nuisance so complained of doth exist on the said premises, and that the same is caused by the act or default of the owner [or occupier] of the said premises [or by the said A. B.,] we [or I], in pursuance of the said Act, do order the said owner [or occupier or A. B.] within [specify the time] from the service of this order or a true copy thereof according to the said Act [here specify any things required to be done or works to be executed, as, for instance, to provide for the cleanly and wholesome keeping of, or, to remove the animal kept so as to be a nuisance or injurious to health; or, for further instance, to cleanse, whitewash, purify, and disinfect the said dwelling-house; or, for further instance, to construct a privy or drain, &c.; or, for further instance, to cleanse or to cover or to fill up the said cesspool, &c.], so that the same shall no longer be a nuisance or injurious to health as aforesaid.

[And if it appear to the court that the nuisance is likely to recur on the premises, say, [And we] [or I] being satisfied that, notwithstanding the said cause or causes of nuisances may be removed under this order, the same is or are likely to recur, do therefore prohibit the said owner [or occupier or A. B.] from [here insert the matter of the prohibition, as, for instance] from using the said house or building for human habitation until the same, in our [or my] judgment, is rendered fit for that purpose.]

In case the nuisance were removed before complaint, say, Now, on proof here had before us [or me] that at or recently before the time of making the said complaint, to wit, on as aforesaid, the cause of nuisance complained of did exist on the said premises, but that the same hath since been removed, yet, notwithstanding such removal we [or I], being satisfied that it is likely that the same or the like nuisance will recur on the said premises, do hereby prohibit [order of prohibition]; and if this order of prohibition be infringed, then we [or I] [order on sanitary authority to do works].

Given under the hands of us [or the hand of me, describing the court].

This day of 18 .

J. S.
J. P.

Order for abatement of nuisance by sanitary authority.

(Under s. 116 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878 : see p. 710.)

To the Town Council, &c., as the case may be.

County, &c., { WHEREAS [recite complaint of nuisance as in last form].
to wit.

And whereas it hath been now proved to our [or my] satisfaction that such nuisance exists, but that no owner or occupier of the premises, or person causing the nuisance, is known or can be found [as the case may be]; Now we [or I], in pursuance of the said Act, do order the said [sanitary authority naming it] forthwith to [here specify the works to be done].

Given, &c. (as in last form).

Order to permit execution of works by owner.

(Under s. 272 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878 : see p. 732.)

County of { WHEREAS complaint hath been made to me, E. F., Esquire, [or borough, &c.] { one of Her Majesty's justices of the peace in and for the to wit. county [or other jurisdiction, &c.] of by A. B., owner within the meaning of the Public Health Act (Ireland), 1878, of certain premises [describe situation of premises so as to identify them], that C. D., the occupier of the said premises, doth prevent the said A. B. from obeying and carrying into effect the provisions of the said Act in this, to wit, that he the said C. D. doth prevent the said A. B. from [here describe the works generally, according to circumstances, for instance, thus: constructing and laying down, in connection with the said house, a covered drain, so as to communicate with a sewer, which the sanitary authority under the said Act of the district of _____ are entitled to use, such sewer being within one hundred feet of the said premises]: And whereas the said C. D., having been duly summoned to answer the said complaint, and not having shown sufficient cause against the same, and it appearing to me that the said works are necessary for the purpose of enabling the said A. B. to obey and carry into effect the provisions of the said Act, I do hereby order that the said C. D. do permit the said A. B. to execute the same in the manner required by the said Act.

Given under my hand, this day of 18 .

J. S.

Order of justice for admission of officer of sanitary authority.

(Under ss. 118, 271 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878: see pp. 710, 731.) _

WHEREAS [describe the sanitary authority] have by their officer [naming him] made application to me, A. B., one of Her Majesty's justices of the peace having jurisdiction in and for [describe the place], and the said officer has made oath to me that demand has been made pursuant to the provisions of the Public Health Act (Ireland), 1878, for admission to [describe situation of premises so as to identify them], for the purpose of [describe the purpose, as the case may be], and that such demand has been refused.

Now, therefore, I the said A. B. do hereby require you [name the person having custody of the premises] to admit the said [name the sanitary authority], [or the officer of the said sanitary authority], to the said premises, for the purpose aforesaid.

Given, &c. (as in last form).

PUBLIC MEETINGS.

"(1) Any person who at a lawful public meeting acts in a disorderly manner for the purpose of preventing the transaction of the business for which the meeting was called together shall be guilty of an offence, and if the offence is committed at a political meeting held in any parliamentary constituency between the date of the issue of a writ for the return of a member of parliament for such constituency, and the date at which a return to such writ is made, he shall be guilty of an illegal practice within the meaning of the Corrupt and Illegal Practices Prevention Act, 1883, and in any other case shall on summary conviction be liable to a fine not exceeding £5 or to imprisonment not exceeding one month. (2) Any person who incites others to commit an offence under this section shall be guilty of a like offence" (Public Meeting Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 66, s. 1). As to punishment for illegal practices, see ELECTION OFFENCES, p. 431.

A public meeting is not necessarily unlawful by reason of being held upon the highway (Burden v. Rigler (1911), 1 K.B. 337).

As to obstruction by public meeting, see HIGHWAY.

As to meetings illegal by force of the Criminal Law and Procedure (Ir.) Act, 1887, see that statute, APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

As to meetings illegal at common law, see INDICTABLE OFFENCES.

Disturbing public meeting.

RAILWAYS.

	PAGE		PAGE
Offences by passengers . . . . .	768	Miscellaneous offences ( continued )—
False declaration as to goods . . . . .	769	Sending dangerous goods . . . . .	771
Offences by railway servants . . . . .	769	Offences by company—
Miscellaneous offences—		Level crossings . . . . .	771
Trespass . . . . .	770	Locomotives . . . . .	771
Obstruction . . . . .	770	Prize-fights . . . . .	771
Injuring notice-boards . . . . .	770	Passenger tickets . . . . .	771
Omitting to shut gate . . . . .	770	Bye-laws . . . . .	771
Communication cord . . . . .	771	Procedure . . . . .	772

Offences by passengers.*Refusal to leave carriage.<sup>a</sup>*Production of ticket.*Detention of passenger.*Frauds by passengers.

If any person knowingly and wilfully refuse or neglect, on arriving at the point to which he has paid his fare, to quit a railway carriage—Forfeiture to the company, not exceeding 40s. (Railway Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, 8 & 9 Vict. c. 20, s. 103).

“(1) Every passenger by a railway shall, on request by an officer or servant of a railway company, either produce, and if so requested, deliver up, a ticket showing that his fare is paid, or pay his fare from the place whence he started, or give the officer or servant his name and address; and in case of default shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding 40s. (2) If a passenger having failed either to produce, or if requested, to deliver up, a ticket showing that his fare is paid, or to pay his fare, refuses, on request by an officer or servant of a railway company, to give his name and address, any officer of the company or any constable may detain him until he can be conveniently brought before some justice or otherwise discharged by due course of law. (3) If any person (a) travels or attempts to travel on a railway without having previously paid his fare, and with intent to avoid payment thereof; or (b) having paid his fare for a certain distance, knowingly and wilfully proceeds by train beyond that distance, without previously paying the additional fare, for the additional distance, and with intent to avoid payment thereof; or (c) having failed to pay his fare, gives in reply to a request by an officer of a railway company a false name or address, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding 40s., or in the case of a second or subsequent offence, either to a fine not exceeding £20, or in the discretion of the court to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month. (4) The liability of an offender to punishment under this section shall not prejudice the recovery of any fare payable by him” (Regulation of Railways Act, 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 57, s. 5).

The word “ticket” throughout this section includes a season ticket (Woodard v. E.C. Ry. Co. (1861), 4 L.T. 336). The detention of a passenger who has neither produced his ticket nor paid his fare, but who has given his correct name and address, even though his conduct was such when giving his name and address as to give reasonable and probable cause for believing such name and address to be false, is not legal under subsection 3 (Knights v. L.C. & D. Ry. Co. (1893), 62 L.J.Q.B. 378), nor is the removal of a passenger who has not produced his ticket, but who has in fact paid his fare and who has given his correct name and address (Butler v. M.S. & L. Ry. Co. (1888), 21 Q.B.D. 207).

To constitute an offence under subsection 3 there must be an intent to defraud. Thus a person who buys from the original purchaser and travels upon the return half of a return ticket marked “not transferable” commits an offence under the section (Langdon v. Howells (1879), 4 Q.B.D. 337); so also does a person who, upon a ticket for any given class, travels by a superior class with intent to defraud (Gillingham v. Walker (1881), 44 L.T. 715); but a person who so travels without intent to defraud, does not commit an offence under the section (Bentham v. Hoyle (1878), 3 Q.B.D. 289). Even where there is in fact an intent to defraud, an offence within the terms of the section must be strictly proved, and accordingly where a man attempted fraudulently to leave a railway station without delivering up his "workman's ticket," which was undated and capable of being used again if retained, it was held that he could not be convicted under the section (Caledonian Railway v. Raper (1908), S.C. (J.) 69, Ct. of Just.).

A contract by a railway company to carry a passenger from one station to another does not, in the absence of special terms, entitle the passenger to break the journey at an intermediate station (Ashton v. L. & Y.R. Co. (1904), 2 K.B. 313), and consequently a bye-law imposing a penalty on a passenger so doing is valid.

Every person being the owner or having the care of any carriage or goods passing or being on a railway shall on demand, give to the collector of tolls for the railway an exact account in writing signed by him of the number or quantity of goods conveyed by any such carriage and of the point on the railway from which such carriage or goods have set out or are about to set out and at what point the same are intended to be unloaded or taken off the railway; and, if such goods be liable to different tolls, then such person shall specify the numbers and quantities thereof liable to different tolls (Railway Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, 8 & 9 Vict. c. 20, s. 98), and any such person failing so to do, or to produce his way-bill or bill of lading to such collector or other servant of the company demanding the same, or giving a false account, or unloading, with intent to avoid payment of any tolls, any part of such goods at any place other than that mentioned in such account—Forfeiture to company of sum not exceeding £10 for every ton of goods, or for any parcel not exceeding one hundredweight, and so on in proportion for any less quantity of goods than one ton, or for any parcel exceeding one hundredweight (s. 99).

These sections apply to cases where the railway company themselves act as carriers; the collector of tolls includes the railway official who receives goods for carriage at the rates charged by the company; the word tolls means such rates; and the course of business under which a railway company will receive goods for carriage only when accompanied by a consignment note containing an exact account of such goods is to be taken as implying a demand by the company, whenever goods are delivered to it, for an account within the meaning of these sections (Barr v. L. & N.W.R. (1905), 2 K.B. 113).

Any officer or attendant of a railway company or any special constable duly appointed, and all such persons as they may call to their assistance, may seize or detain any engine driver, guard, porter, or other servant in the employ of such company, or employed by any other person or company in conducting traffic on the railway belonging to the said company, or in repairing and maintaining the works of the said railway, who shall be found drunk while so employed upon the said railway or commit any offence against any bye-laws, rules, or regulations of such company, or shall wilfully, maliciously, or negligently do or omit to do any act whereby the life or limb of any person passing along, or being upon the railway belonging to such company, or the works thereof respectively, shall be or might be injured or endangered, or whereby the passage of any of the engines, carriages, or trains shall be, or might be obstructed or impeded, and to convey such person before a justice of the peace; and every person so offending, and every person counselling, aiding, or assisting therein shall on conviction before such justice<sup>1</sup> be liable to imprisonment with declaration as to goods.

False

Offences by railway servants.

<sup>1</sup> The power of one justice to convict out of sessions is now, however, taken away by s. 8 (2) of the Petty Sessions (Ir.) Act, 1851, and even two justices can so convict only if the accused is unable to give bail.

or without hard labour for any term not exceeding two calendar months, or shall forfeit to the Crown a sum not exceeding £10 (Regulation of Railways Act, 1840, 3 & 4 Vict. c. 97, s. 13; Regulation of Railways Act, 1842, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 55, s. 17).

Miscellaneous offences.

Trespassing on railway.

“If any person shall be or pass upon any railway, except for the purpose of crossing the same at any authorised crossing, after having once received warning<sup>1</sup> by the company which works such railway, or by any of their agents or servants, not to go or pass thereon; every person so offending shall forfeit and pay any sum not exceeding 40s. for every such offence” (Regulation of Railways Act, 1868, 31 & 32 Vict. c. 119, s. 23, as amended by Regulation of Railways Act, 1871, 34 & 35 Vict. c. 78, s. 14). This section does not make it an offence to pass across or along a railway along a right-of-way existing before the construction of the railway and not extinguished by the special Act under which the railway was constructed (Cole v. Miles (1889), 60 L.T. 145). A trespasser cannot be convicted under this section of trespassing elsewhere than upon the actual railway track (Thomson v. Great N. of S. Ry. Co. (1899), 37 Sc.L.R.). A trespasser elsewhere can, however, be convicted under s. 16 of the Act of 1845, infra.

Any person wilfully trespassing upon any railway station, or premises and refusing to quit the same upon the request of any officer or agent of the company may be seized and detained until he can conveniently be brought before a justice—Penalty, payable to the Crown, not exceeding £5<sup>2</sup> (Regulation of Railways Act, 1840, 3 & 4 Vict. c. 97, s. 16). Where the complainants charged the defendant at petty sessions with trespassing on their yard and premises at Dundalk, and for refusing to leave when requested to do so, and the justices refused to convict, on the ground that the complainants had no legal right to exclude him and dismissed the charge on the merits. Held, on a case stated, that the magistrates must convict (G.N.R. Co. v. Gonnolly (1902), 2 N.I.J.R. 63). This case was decided upon the authority of Perth General Station Committee v. Ross (1897), A.C. 479). A cabman who refuses to leave because other cabmen are allowed to remain can be convicted under this section (Foulger v. Steadman (1872), L.R. 8 Q.B. 65; see also L.B. & S.C. Ry. Co. v. Fairbrother (1900), 16 T.L.R. 167), and justices cannot dismiss a charge against a car-driver under this section, if such driver is excluded whilst others are admitted, on the ground that such exclusion constitutes an undue preference within the meaning of the Railway and Canal Traffic Acts, the remedy for any such undue preference being an application to the Railway Commissioners (Hole v. Digby (1879), 27 W.R. 884). But as to such claim of right as will oust the jurisdiction of justices, see Wilkinson v. Goffin (1876), 33 L.T. 824.

Obstruction.

Any person wilfully obstructing or impeding an officer or agent of any railway company in the execution of his duty upon any railway or in or upon any premises connected therewith, may be seized and detained until he can be conveniently brought before a justice—Penalty, payable to the Crown, not exceeding £5 (Regulation of Railways Act, 1840, 3 & 4 Vict. c. 97, s. 16).

Injuring notice-boards.

Pulling down, injuring, or defacing boards on which bye-laws or penalties are published—Penalty, not exceeding £5, with payment of expenses (Railway Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, 8 & 9 Vict. c. 20, s. 144). Pulling down, defacing, or destroying toll boards or mile-stones—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (s. 95).

Omitting to shut gates.

“If any person omit to shut and fasten any gate set up at either side of the railway for the accommodation of the owners or occupiers of the adjoining lands, as soon as he and the carriage, cattle, or other animals under his care have passed through the same"—Penalty, not exceeding 40s. (Railway Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, 8 & 9 Vict. c. 20, s. 75).

<sup>1</sup> Under many private railway Acts warning is not necessary.

<sup>2</sup> See note to s. 13 on p. 769.

"Every company shall provide, and maintain in good working order, in every train worked by it which carries passengers, and travels more than twenty miles without stopping, such efficient means of communication between the passengers and the servants of the company in charge of the train as the Board of Trade may approve"—Penalty on default, not exceeding £10 for each case of default (Regulation of Railways Act, 1868, 31 & 32 Vict. c. 119, s. 22). "Any passenger who makes use of the said means of communication without reasonable and sufficient cause"—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (ib.).

Sending by railway any aqua fortis, oil of vitriol, gunpowder, lucifer matches, or other goods of dangerous nature, without distinctly marking their nature on the outside of the package, or otherwise giving notice in writing to the book-keeper or other servant of the company—Penalty, forfeiture of £20 to company (Railway Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, 8 & 9 Vict. c. 20, s. 105).<sup>1</sup> Guilty knowledge is necessary to support a conviction for sending dangerous goods (Hearne v. Garton (1859), 2 El. & El. 66).

Where a railway crosses a public carriage road on the level the company must provide gates to be kept shut across such road except traffic on such road requires them to be opened (unless the Board of Trade directs them to be kept shut across the railway except when the passage of railway traffic requires them to be opened), and must provide gate-keeper to open and shut such gates—Penalty on gate-keeper for non-observance, not exceeding 40s. (Railway Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, 8 & 9 Vict. c. 20, s. 47).

Locomotives using coal or other fuel emitting smoke, to be constructed on the principle of consuming and so as to consume their own smoke—Penalty on company for non-observance, £5 a day for each locomotive (s. 114).

Railway companies are subject to a penalty, recoverable summarily, not exceeding £500 nor less than £200, if they run trains to facilitate prize-fighting (Regulation of Railways Act, 1868, 31 & 32 Vict. c. 119, s. 21).

From and after a date to be fixed by order of the Board of Trade,<sup>2</sup> and subject to such exceptions, if any, as may be allowed by such order, every passenger ticket<sup>3</sup> issued by any railway company in the United Kingdom to have fare printed or written upon its face—Penalty, not exceeding 40s. for every ticket issued in contravention of this section (Regulation of Railways Act, 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 57, s. 6).

A railway company may make (subject to disallowance by the Board of Trade under the Railway Regulation Act, 1840, ss. 7-9) bye-laws, not repugnant to the general law, for the prevention of nuisances in or upon its carriages, stations, or premises and generally for regulating the travelling upon or using and working of the railway (Railway Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, 8 & 9 Vict. c. 20, ss. 108, 109), and also for maintaining order in, and regulating the approach to railway stations, and the approaches thereto (Regulation of Railways Act, 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 57, s. 7), such bye-laws to be published on boards at every wharf or station (Railway Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, s. 110). It is sufficient proof of publication that a printed paper or painted board, containing a copy of the bye-laws, was affixed and continued in the manner prescribed, and in case of its being displaced or damaged, then that such paper or board was replaced as soon as conveniently might be (s. 111)—Penalty for breach of such bye-law, not exceeding £5 (s. 109). Such bye-laws are provable by examined and certified copies (Motteram v. E.C. Ry. Co. (1859), 7 C.B., N.S., 58. See also p. 279).

<sup>1</sup> Railway and canal companies are empowered to make, subject to the approval of the Board of Trade, bye-laws as to the conveyance, loading, &c., of gunpowder (Explosive Substances Act, 1875, 38 & 39 Vict. c. 17, s. 35) and other explosives (s. 39). See EXPLOSIVES.

<sup>2</sup> Fixed as Jan. 1, 1891, by order of the same date (St. R. & O., Rev. 1904, XI., Railways).

<sup>3</sup> The order of exemption made under this section includes excursion tickets.

Procedure.

In proceedings under the Regulation of Railways Act, 1840, 3 & 4 Vict. c. 97, only one justice is required, as will be seen from the wording of the various sections by which the offences under that Act above set forth are created, and the Petty Sessions Act—see p. 41—entirely governs the procedure.

In proceedings under the Railway Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, 8 & 9 Vict. c. 20, or under the special Act of any company, or under any bye-law made in pursuance thereof, two justices (s. 145) are required, and the Petty Sessions Act—see again p. 41—governs the proceedings, except that, where the application of any penalty or forfeiture is not otherwise provided for,<sup>1</sup> the justices may award not more than one half thereof to the informer,<sup>2</sup> “and shall award the remainder to the overseers of the poor of the parish in which the offence shall have been committed, to be applied in aid of the poor rate of such parish” (s. 150); but it is submitted that this enactment as to the remainder of the penalty or forfeiture cannot be given effect to in Ireland.

Penalties under the Regulation of Railways Act, 1868, 31 & 32 Vict. c. 119, are (s. 40) to be recovered and applied in like manner as penalties under the Railway Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, as to which see supra. Proceedings under the Regulation of Railways Act, 1889, which (except as regards s. 4) is silent as to procedure, are governed by the Petty Sessions Act in manner set out at p. 41, to which reference should be made, and only one justice is required in cases under ss. 5 and 6, as to which see pp. 768, 771.

As to indictable offences, see CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES, under RAILWAYS.

As to matters in which justices have a civil jurisdiction regarding railways, see pp. 183–185.

Refreshment houses.

REFRESHMENT HOUSES.

Any house, room, shop, or building left open for public refreshment, resort, and entertainment at any time between 10 P.M. and 7 A.M. (and not being duly licensed for the sale of beer, cider, wine, or spirits) is deemed a refreshment house, and a refreshment house licence is necessary therefor (Refreshment Houses (Ir.) Act, 1860, 23 & 24 Vict. c. 107, s. 9). A temperance hotel kept open after 10 o'clock and supplying refreshments to the public (Kelleway v. MacDougal (1880), 45 J.P. 207), a small shop in which ginger-beer and lemonade are sold during the hours aforesaid (Howes v. Board of Inland Revenue (1876), 1 Ex. D. 385), are refreshment houses within the section.

Keeping a refreshment house without a licence—Penalty, £20 (Refreshment Houses (Ir.) Act, 1860, s. 9).

A wine retailer's licence is very frequently taken out by the keepers of refreshment houses; see, for offences relating thereto, INTOXICATING LIQUORS.

<sup>1</sup> No provision is made in s. 109 for penalties for breaches of bye-laws, or in ss. 75, 114, 144, for offences against those sections.

<sup>2</sup> That is, the person who prosecutes (Powell v. Castletown (1891), 30 L.R.I. 93).

REGISTRATION OF BIRTHS AND DEATHS.

	PAGE		PAGE
Officials, districts, &c. . . . .	773	Registration of deaths ( continued )—
Registration of births—		Registrar to ascertain and
Particulars to be given to		register deaths . . . . .	774
registrar . . . . .	773	Registration twelve months
Registrar may call for par-		after death . . . . .	774
ticulars . . . . .	773	Burials—
Deserted infants . . . . .	773	Without coroner's order or Registration three months		registrar's certificate . . . . .	775
after birth . . . . .	774	Of deceased child as still-
Registration in district other		born . . . . .	775
than that in which birth		Of still-born child . . . . .	775 took place . . . . .	774	Of more than one body in
Notification of Births Act, 1907 .	774	one coffin . . . . .	775
Registration of deaths—		Non-delivery of medical certi-
Where death occurs in a		cate of death . . . . .	775 house . . . . .	774	False statement as to births or Where death occurs else-		deaths . . . . .	775
where . . . . .	774	Certificates evidence . . . . .	775
Where medical certificate is		No penalty where default not given . . . . .	774	wilful . . . . .	776
Registrar may call for par-		Procedure . . . . .	776
ticulars . . . . .	774	Births and deaths at sea . . . . .	776

The registration of births and deaths is provided for in Ireland by the Registration of Births and Deaths (Ir.) Act, 1863, 26 & 27 Vict. c. 11, and the Births and Deaths Registration (Ir.) Act, 1880, 43 & 44 Vict. c. 13, which Acts are to be construed together (Act of 1880, s. 42).

The Act of 1863 provides for the appointment of a Registrar-General of Births and Deaths (s. 4); for the creation of superintendent registrars' districts, which consist of the several poor law unions (s. 17), and of registrars' districts, which, except where a dispensary district is subdivided, consist of the several dispensary districts (s. 18); and for the appointment of superintendent registrars (s. 22) and of registrars (s. 23).

The Acts of 1836 and 1880 provide for the appointment of assistants to superintendent registrars and registrars respectively, and for the appointment of interim superintendent registrars and registrars respectively (Act of 1863, s. 26; Act of 1880, ss. 21, 22).

Certain persons specified in s. 1 of the Act of 1880 are to give to the registrar, within forty-two days next after the birth of any child born, the particulars relating to such birth required by that section, and to sign the register, under a penalty for non-compliance not exceeding £2 (Act of 1880, ss. 1, 7, 29). The persons so specified are:—the father and mother of the child, and in default of the father and mother, the occupier of the house in which to his knowledge the child is born, and each person present at the birth, and the person having charge of the child.

If such particulars be not given within such period, the registrar may, by notice in writing, require any such person to give him information regarding such birth; and such person, if he fail to give such information within the time specified in such notice, pursuant to s. 2 of the Act of 1880, and to sign the register, is liable to a penalty not exceeding £2 (Act of 1880, ss. 2 and 29).

Any person finding or having charge of any new-born living child that has been found exposed is to give to the registrar, within seven days after the finding of such child, any information that he possesses as to the birth—Penalty for non-compliance, not exceeding £2 (ss. 3 and 29).

The registrar is to inform himself of every birth that takes place in his district, and to register such birth within three months after the birth

Registration of births. occurs or a deserted child is found (Act of 1880, s. 4). Any person registering or procuring the registration of any birth more than three months after such birth shall have taken place is liable, unless such registration be made subject to the conditions specified in s. 5 of the Act of 1880, to a penalty not exceeding £10 (s. 5).

Registration more than three months after birth. District other than that in which birth takes place. Notification of births under Act of 1907. A person required under the Act to register a birth, who has removed after the birth to another district, may, by declaration made pursuant to s. 5 of the Act of 1880, register the birth in such other district (s. 6).

In places where the Notification of Births Act, 1907, 7 Edw. 7, c. 40, has been put in force, either by the local authority with the consent of the Local Government Board, or by the Local Government Board alone, notification of every birth, including still-born births, must be made, within thirty-six hours of the same taking place, to the local medical officer of health by the persons and in the manner prescribed by that Act under a penalty, on summary conviction, not exceeding £1 (Notification of Births Act, 1907).

Registration of deaths. Where a death occurs in a house, certain persons specified in s. 10 of the Act of 1880 are, within the five days next following such death, to give to the registrar the particulars relating thereto required by that section and to sign the register, under a penalty not exceeding £2 (Act of 1880, ss. 10, 16, 29). The persons so specified are:—the nearest relatives of the deceased present at the death, or in attendance during the last illness; or in default of such relatives, every other relative dwelling or being in the same district as the deceased; and in default, each person present at the death, and the occupier of the house in which, to his knowledge, the death took place; in default of the foregoing, each inmate of the house and the person causing the body to be buried. Where a death occurs or a dead body is found elsewhere than in a house, certain persons specified in s. 11 of the same Act are, within the five days next after such death or finding, to give to the registrar the particulars relating thereto required by that section (ss. 11, 16, 29). The persons specified in s. 11 are:—every relative having knowledge of the particulars required, and in default of such relative every person present at the death, and any person finding, and any person taking charge of the body, and the person causing the body to be buried. Where written notice of the occurrence of a death, accompanied by a medical certificate of the cause of death, as prescribed in s. 20 of the Act of 1880, is given to the registrar, the particulars specified in ss. 10 and 11 may be given within the fourteen days next after the death (s. 12).

Where death occurs in a house. Deaths elsewhere. Deaths as to which a medical certificate is given. Registrar may call for particulars. Where the particulars of a death have not been given, the registrar may, not less than fourteen days or more than twelve months after a death occurs or a body is found elsewhere than in a house, by notice in writing, require any person who under ss. 10 or 11 of the Act of 1880 is required to give particulars, to give him such particulars; and such person, if he fail to comply with such notice within the time specified therein in accordance with s. 13 of the Act of 1880, is liable to a penalty not exceeding £2 (ss. 13, 29).

The registrar is to inform himself of every death that happens in his district, and to register every such death within twelve months after such death occurs or a dead body is found (s. 14).

After the expiration of the twelve months next following any death or the finding of a body elsewhere than in a house, any person registering or procuring the registration of such death is liable, unless such registration is made subject to the conditions specified in s. 14 of the Act of 1880, to a penalty not exceeding £10 (s. 15).

Burials. Any person who buries, or performs any funeral or religious service for the burial of any dead body in respect of which there has not been delivered to him a coroner's order or registrar's certificate for burial (respectively given pursuant to s. 17 of the Act of 1880), and who does not, except in the case specially excepted in that section, within seven days after the burial, give notice in writing of such non-delivery to the registrar or the Registrar-General, is liable to a penalty not exceeding £10 (s. 17). Any person wilfully burying, or procuring to be buried, any deceased child as if such child were still-born, or any person who has control over, or ordinarily buries bodies in, any burial ground, permitting such child to be so buried therein, or burying or permitting to be buried therein any still-born child before delivery to him of either such medical certificate, such declaration, or such coroner's order as is specified in s. 18 of the Act of 1880, is liable to a penalty not exceeding £10 (s. 18). The undertaker or other person in charge of any coffin brought for burial which contains the body of more than one person, or the body of a still-born child, failing to deliver to the person who buries or performs any funeral or religious service for the burial of such bodies or body, notice in writing, signed by such undertaker, &c., containing the particulars specified in s. 19 of the Act of 1880, or any person to whom such notice is delivered, and who fails within five days from the day of burial to forward the same to the registrar or the Registrar-General, as the Local Government Board may from time to time direct, is liable to a penalty not exceeding £10 (s. 19).

Registration more than twelve months after death.

Burials.

Burial without coroner's order or registrar's certificate.

Burial of deceased child as still-born.

Burial of still-born child.

More than one body in one coffin.

Any person who under ss. 10 or 11 of the Act of 1880 is bound to give information as to a death, and who fails, within five days of the receipt from any registered medical practitioner who has attended the deceased person in his last illness of a medical certificate as to the cause of death, to deliver such certificate to the registrar, is liable to a penalty not exceeding £2 (s. 20); and any such medical practitioner failing to give such certificate is liable to the like penalty (ss. 20, 29).

Non-delivery of medical certificate as to death.

"Any person who commits any of the following offences, that is to say: (1) wilfully makes any false answer to any question put to him by a registrar relating to the particulars required to be registered concerning any birth or death, or wilfully gives to a registrar any false information concerning any birth or death, or the cause of any death; or (2) wilfully makes any false certificate or declaration under or for the purposes of this Act, or forges or falsifies any such certificate or declaration, or any order under this Act, or, knowing any such certificate, declaration, or order to be false or forged, uses the same as true, or gives or sends the same as true, to any person; or (3) wilfully makes, gives, or uses any false statement or representation as to a child born alive having been still-born, or as to the body of a deceased person or a still-born child in any coffin, or falsely pretends that any child born alive was still-born; or (4) makes any false statement with intent to have the same entered in any register of births or deaths, shall for each offence be liable, on summary conviction, to a penalty not exceeding £10, and on conviction on indictment to fine," or to imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for a term not exceeding two years, or to penal servitude for a term not exceeding seven years and not less than three years (s. 30, as modified by the Penal Servitude Act, 1891, 54 & 55 Vict. c. 69, s. 1).

False statement, &c., as to births or deaths.

"All certified copies of entries purporting to be sealed or stamped with the seal of the General Register Office (which seal it shall not be necessary to prove), shall be admissible as evidence in all parts of Her Majesty's dominions of the birth or death to which the same relates, without any further or other proofs of such entry, and no certified copy purporting to be given in the said office shall be of any force or effect which is not sealed or stamped as aforesaid" (Act of 1863, s. 5).

Certificates evidence.

No penalty in respect of any failure to comply with the provisions

No penalty where failure is not wilful.
Procedure.

Births and deaths at sea.

of either the Act of 1863 or the Act of 1880 is to be imposed if it appear to the court that such failure was not wilful (Act of 1863, s. 64).

Proceedings must be commenced within three months (Act of 1880, s. 36). The Summary Jurisdiction Acts<sup>1</sup> are applicable (Act of 1880, s. 35; Act of 1863, s. 65).

As to registration of births and deaths at sea, see Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, ss. 254, 339.

REGISTRATION OF MARRIAGES.

	PAGE		PAGE
Marriages not solemnised by Roman Catholic priest—		Marriages solemnised by Roman Catholic priest—
Acts as to registration of . . .	776	Certificate of such marriage . . .	777
Registration by person before whom solemnised . . .	776	Registration by registrar of births, deaths, and marriages . . .	778
Registration by husband . . .	777	Returns by registrar . . .	778
Injury to register . . .	777	Injury to register . . .	778
Duty of registrar of births, deaths, and marriages . . .	777	Procedure . . .	778
Procedure generally . . .	777	Correction of errors in register . . .	778

Marriages not solemnised by Roman Catholic priest.

Acts as to registration of.

The only offences in connection with marriages in respect of which justices have any summary jurisdiction are those relating to registration. The registration of all marriages solemnised in Ireland otherwise than by a Roman Catholic priest is provided for by the Marriages (Ir.) Act, 1844, 7 & 8 Vict. c. 81; the Marriages Law (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1863, 26 & 27 Vict. c. 27; the Matrimonial Causes and Marriage Law (Ir.) Act, 1870, 33 & 34 Vict. c. 109; the Matrimonial Causes and Marriage Law (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1871, 34 & 35 Vict. c. 49; and the Marriage Law (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1873, 36 & 37 Vict. c. 16, all which Acts are to be construed as one (Act of 1873, s. 3).

Registration by person before whom solemnised.

Every registering officer of the Society of Friends, as defined in the Act of 1844, must register in manner required by s. 64 of that Act every marriage solemnised according to the usages of the Society of Friends in the district of which he is registering officer; every marriage between two Jews must be registered by the Secretary of the Synagogue, as defined in that Act, to which the husband belongs; every registrar of marriages appointed in pursuance of that Act must register in manner provided by that Act every marriage solemnised before him in his office pursuant to that Act; every Presbyterian minister must register every marriage solemnised by him pursuant to that Act in manner provided by that Act; and every clergyman of any Protestant Episcopal Church, as defined in the Act of 1870, must register every marriage solemnised by him pursuant to the Acts of 1844, 1863, and 1870 in manner provided by the Act of 1844 (Act of 1844, s. 64). Any person who refuses, or without reasonable cause omits, to register any marriage that he is so required to register is liable to a penalty not exceeding £50 (Act of 1844, s. 74).

Every minister of any religious community other than the Society of Friends, the Jews, the Presbyterian Church, any Protestant Episcopal Church, or the Roman Catholic Church,<sup>2</sup> whether such community does or does not describe itself as Protestant, is to register every marriage solemnised by him pursuant to the Acts of 1844 and 1863 in manner provided by the Act of 1863 under a penalty for non-compliance not exceeding £40, for which any one may sue (s. 10 of the Act of 1863).

<sup>1</sup> As to meaning of which, see p. 335.

<sup>2</sup> Roman Catholic clergymen are not obliged by law to register marriages solemnised by them. As to the obligation of the husband to notify every such marriage, see a subsequent paragraph of this article.

When any marriage is to be solemnised under a special licence granted pursuant to s. 36 of the Act of 1870 by a bishop of the Church of Ireland, or under a special licence granted pursuant to s. 37 of the same Act by any licensing authority, as therein described, of the various Presbyterian, Congregational, Methodist, and Baptist communities, therein described, or of the Society of Friends, the parties about to contract any such marriage must produce to the clergyman or minister celebrating the same, or, in case the parties are members of the Society of Friends, to the registering officer of that Society for the district in which the marriage is to be solemnised, the certificate specified in s. 22 of the Act of 1871 (which the person to whom the same is so produced is required, though not under any penalty, to fill up), and must forward the same (signed by such clergyman, minister, or registering officer, and by the parties and by two witnesses) by post within three days thereafter to the Registrar-General of Marriages appointed in pursuance of the Act of 1844; a penalty for non-compliance not exceeding £10 is imposed on the husband, such penalty to be recovered in like manner as penalties under the Registration of Marriages (Ir.) Act, 1863<sup>1</sup> (Act of 1871, s. 22).

Marriages not solemnised by Roman Catholic priest.

Registration by husband.

Every person having the custody of any register-book issued pursuant to the Act of 1844 or the Acts to be read as one therewith, in which marriages other than those solemnised by a Roman Catholic priest are registered, or of a certified copy thereof, or of any part thereof, who carelessly loses or injures the same, or carelessly allows the same to be injured whilst in his keeping, is to forfeit for every such offence a sum not exceeding £50 (Act of 1844, s. 74).

Careless injury to register of such marriages.

Pursuant to the Act of 1844 and s. 2 of the Act of 1863, a notice, in the form set forth in the last-named section, of every intended marriage, other than one to be solemnised by a Roman Catholic priest, is to be sent to the registrar (appointed under the Act of 1844) who is concerned, and he is to take such steps with regard to such notice as are specified in s. 3 of the Act of 1863, as amended by s. 41 of the Act of 1870, under a penalty for non-compliance not exceeding £40 (Act of 1863, s. 3; Act of 1870, s. 41). All the penalties mentioned in the preceding part of this article are recoverable (Act of 1844, s. 77) before two or more justices of the peace. As the result of the application of the Petty Sessions (Ir.) Act, 1851 (see p. 41), procedure in all other respects is governed by that Act subject to such modifications as to imprisonment in default of payment of penalties as are made in the Petty Sessions Act (see p. 64) by the Small Penalties (Ir.) Act, 1873, 36 & 37 Vict. c. 82.

Duty of registrar of births, deaths, and marriages.

Procedure generally.

The registration of marriages not provided for by the Act of 1844 and the Acts to be read as one therewith, that is to say, of marriages solemnised by a Roman Catholic priest, is provided for by the Registration of Marriages (Ir.) Act, 1863, 26 & 27 Vict. c. 90.

Marriages solemnised by Roman Catholic priest.

The parties about to contract any such marriage must produce to the clergyman celebrating the same the certificate<sup>2</sup> specified in s. 11 of the Registration of Marriages (Ir.) Act, 1863, which is to be signed by the parties contracting the marriage and by two witnesses and by the clergyman, and the husband; if such certificate be not within three days thereafter delivered or sent by post to the registrar of marriages appointed under the Act for the district wherein the marriage has been solemnised, the husband is liable to a penalty not exceeding £10 (s. 11). Every such registrar, on receipt of such certificate, is to register the Certificate of such marriage.

<sup>1</sup> For which see a subsequent paragraph of this article.

<sup>2</sup> The certificate is a form of certificate of the marriage.

Marriages
solemnised
by Roman Catholic priest.

Registration
by registrar.
Returns by registrar.

Injury to register of Roman Catholic
marriages.
Procedure.
Correction of errors in register.

particulars thereof in the register for such marriages, and, if he refuses, or without reasonable cause omits, either so to do or to fill up any such certificate for the parties about to contract such marriage, he is liable to a penalty not exceeding £10 (ss. 13, 24).

Any such registrar failing to send to his superintendent-registrar (for whose appointment see the Act) every quarter a certified copy of such marriages registered by him during the preceding quarter and the register-books of such marriages when filled, or any superintendent-registrar failing to send to the Registrar-General every quarter all such certified copies received by him from his registrars in respect of the preceding quarter, is liable to a penalty not exceeding £10 (ss. 14, 15, 25). Any person having the custody of any register of such marriages who carelessly loses or injures the same, or allows the same to be injured, is liable to a penalty not exceeding £10 (s. 24). Penalties under this Act are recoverable subject and according to the provisions of the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Acts<sup>1</sup> (s. 26).

Any justice or justices sitting in petty sessions, or in the Dublin metropolitan police district, a divisional justice, may order the registrar to correct errors made in the entry of Roman Catholic marriages in the register thereof (s. 13).

RIOT.

The offence of riot or unlawful assembly is punishable summarily by imprisonment, with or without hard labour, not exceeding six months under the Criminal Law and Procedure (Ir.) Act, 1887, 50 & 51 Vict. c. 20, ss 2 (3), 11. The offence is, however, cognisable only by a court of summary jurisdiction constituted under the Act, and the procedure is now rarely availed of. See STATUTE, APPENDIX of STATUTES.

As to RIOT and UNLAWFUL ASSEMBLY, see under those heads in CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES.

ROYAL ARMS.

See PATENTS.

SECRET SOCIETIES.

	PAGE		PAGE
Societies that are unlawful in		Criminal Law and Procedure (Ir.)
Ireland . . . . .	778	Act, 1887 . . . . .	779
Penalties . . . . .	779	Indictable offences . . . . .	780 Permitting unlawful meetings in
house . . . . .	779

Societies that are unlawful in Ireland.

“Any and every society, association, brotherhood, committee, lodge, club, or confederacy whatsoever, now established or hereafter to be established in Ireland, of the nature hereinafter described, shall be and be deemed and taken to be and is hereby declared to be an unlawful combination and confederacy; that is to say, any and every society, association, brotherhood, committee, lodge, club, or confederacy, the members whereof shall, according to the rules thereof or to any provision or agreement for that purpose, be required or admitted or permitted to take any oath or engagement which shall be an unlawful oath or engagement within the intent and meaning of the said recited Act of the fiftieth year of his late Majesty's reign,<sup>1</sup> or to take any oath not required or authorized by law; and any and every society, association, brotherhood, committee, lodge, club, or confederacy, the members whereof or any of them shall take or in any manner bind themselves by any such oath or engagement upon becoming or in consequence of being members of such society, association, brotherhood, committee, lodge, club, or confederacy; and any and every society, association, brotherhood, lodge, club, or confederacy, the members whereof shall take, subscribe, or assent to any test or declaration not required by law; and any and every society, association, brotherhood, lodge, club, or confederacy, of which the names of the members, or any of them shall be kept secret from the society at large, or which shall have any committee or select body chosen or appointed in such manner that the members constituting the same may not be known by the society at large to be members of such committee or select body, or which shall have any president, treasurer, secretary, delegate, or other officer, chosen or appointed in such manner that the election or appointment of such persons to such offices may not be known to the society at large, or of which the names of all the members and of all committees or select bodies of members, and of all presidents, treasurers, secretaries, delegates, and other officers shall not be entered in a book or books to be kept for that purpose and to be open to the inspection of all the members of such society; and all such societies, associations, brotherhoods, committees, lodges, clubs, and confederacies as aforesaid are hereby declared to be unlawful combinations and confederacies; and every person who shall become a member of any such society, association, brotherhood, committee, lodge, club, or confederacy as aforesaid, and every person who shall directly or indirectly maintain correspondence or intercourse with any such society, association, brotherhood, committee, lodge, club, or confederacy, or with any division, branch, lodge, committee, or other select body, president, treasurer, secretary, delegate, or other officer or member thereof as such, or who shall by contribution of money or otherwise, aid, abet, or support any such society, association, brotherhood, committee, lodge, club, or confederacy, or any member or officer thereof as such, shall be deemed guilty of an unlawful combination and confederacy" (Unlawful Oaths (Ir.) Act, 1823, 4 Geo. 4, c. 87, s. 1).

<sup>1</sup> As to which, see p. 335.

Societies that are unlawful in Ireland.

The Act shall not extend to declarations of societies if approved of by two justices, and registered with the Clerk of the Peace (s. 2).

Offenders against s. 1 may be proceeded against before two justices or by indictment. Persons convicted before justices may be imprisoned for three months or fined £20 (s. 3). Justices may reduce the period of imprisonment or the fine to not less than one-third (s. 4).

Penalties

One moiety of any penalty imposed is to be paid to the informer<sup>2</sup> (s. 8).

Offenders may be indicted under previous Acts that apply if not prosecuted under this Act (s. 6).

Persons permitting meetings of unlawful societies in their houses are liable to a penalty, for a first offence, of £5, and for any subsequent offence to the penalties provided by ss. 3 and 4 (s. 7).

Permitting unlawful meetings in house.

The Criminal Law and Procedure (Ir.) Act, 1887, 50 & 51 Vict. c. 20, also provides for a proclamation by the Lord-Lieutenant putting in force the provisions of that Act relating to dangerous associations. See that statute, APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

<sup>1</sup> The preamble recites 50 Geo. 3, c. 102.

<sup>2</sup> That is to say, to the person in whose name the prosecution is brought (Powell v. Castletown (1891), 30 L.R.I. 93).

Indictable offences.

As to indictable offences relating to secret societies, see CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES.

SHERIFFS.

Sheriff or sub-sheriff not to act as justice of the peace in the same county where he is sheriff or sub-sheriff during the tenure of his office—Penalty, £20 (7 Wm. 3, c. 13 (Ir.), s. 3).<sup>1</sup> Sheriff, bailiff, &c., demanding or receiving from any person on or in respect of the execution of any decree any money or gratuity other than the poundage fees legally payable—Penalty, not exceeding £20, payable to any person who may sue for the same by civil bill (Civil Bill Courts Procedure Amendment (Ir.) Act, 1864, 27 & 28 Vict. c. 99, s. 17).

SHIPS.

	PAGE		PAGE
Miscellaneous offences under Merchant Shipping Acts . . .	780	Timber and grain . . .	781
Deserters, stowaways, discipline .	781	Procedure under Merchant Shipping Acts . . .	781
Sending dangerous goods . . .	781	Offences by master of ship . . .	781

Miscellaneous offences under Merchant Shipping Acts.

Draught.

The Merchant Shipping Acts, 1894, 1906, and 1907 (all of which are to be construed as one Act—see s. 86 of the Act of 1906 and s. 4. of the Act of 1907), enact penalties recoverable summarily in respect of the following offences.

Where under s. 436 (1) ships' draught is required to be marked, marking such draught inaccurately on bow or stern, or altering correct marking, &c.—Penalty, not exceeding £100 (Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, 57 & 58 Vict. c. 60, s. 442).

False certificate by builder.

Improperly retaining certificate.

Willfully making a false statement in a builder's certificate given pursuant to s. 10—Penalty, not exceeding £100 (s. 10 (3)). Refusing in contravention of s. 15 to deliver up a certificate of registry issued pursuant to s. 14—Penalty, not exceeding £100 (s. 15). Failing to deliver up as required by s. 18 provisional certificate granted under that section—Penalty, not exceeding £50 (s. 18). Master failing to deliver up certificate to registrar on ship changing owners—Penalty, not exceeding £50 (s. 20 (4)). Owner or master failing to deliver up certificate of ship lost or ceasing to be British owned—Penalty, not exceeding £100 (s. 21). Changing name of ship without permission of Board of Trade—Penalty, not exceeding £100 (s. 47). Non-compliance with requirements as to registration of name and address of ship's commanding officer, owner or manager—Penalty each time the ship leaves port, not exceeding £100 (s. 59).

Unauthorised change of name.

Registration of name of ship and of master.

Non-registration of altered ship.

Owner making default in registering anew a ship that has been altered so as not to correspond with particulars already registered, or in registering alteration—Penalty, not exceeding £100, and £5 for each day of continuance of default after conviction (s. 48, as amended by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1906, 6 Edw. 7, c. 48, s. 53).

Failure to send notices as to alteration of ship to master.

Managing owner failing to transmit notice of alteration in ship already registered, and of particulars of alteration of register of such ship to master, or master failing to produce same to registrar of port where he first arrives after receipt of notice—Penalty, not exceeding £50 (Merchant

<sup>1</sup> It would seem that this penalty is only recoverable by action.

Shipping Act, 1907, 7 Edw. 7, c. 52, s. 3; which Act is to be construed as one with the Act of 1894).

The Act of 1894 provides that fraudulent alteration of the register book, dealer's certificate, surveyor's certificate, certificate of registry, declaration, bill of sale, instruments of mortgage or certificate of mortgage or sale under Part I. of the Act or of any entry or indorsement in any of these documents shall be a felony (s. 66), and that making a false declaration in presence of, &c., registrar (s. 67), or the forging, &c., of certificate of competency (s. 104), shall be misdemeanours.

Fraudulent alteration of documents, &c.

Desertion—Penalty, forfeiture of wages, and, except in the United Kingdom, imprisonment not exceeding twelve weeks with or without hard labour (Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, s. 221 (a)). Failing to join ship, or absence without leave—Penalty, forfeiture of two days' pay for every twenty-four hours' absence, and also (except in the United Kingdom) imprisonment not exceeding ten weeks with or without hard labour (s. 221 (b)). Provisions as to arrest, &c., of deserters (ss. 222–224). General offences against discipline (s. 225). False statement by seaman as to name or as to last ship—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (s. 227).

Deserters, stowaways, discipline.

Failure to join ship or desertion by seaman who has been lawfully engaged and has received under his agreement an advance note—Penalty, not exceeding £5 or twenty-one days' imprisonment, and Board of Trade have power to direct the withholding of offender's certificates of discharge (Merchant Shipping Act, 1906, 6 Edw. 7, c. 48, s. 65).

Enticing seamen to desert ship—Penalty, not exceeding £10; harbouring deserter—Penalty, not exceeding £20 (Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, s. 236). Stowaway—Penalty, not exceeding £20 or four weeks' imprisonment with or without hard labour and to be subject to ship's discipline (s. 237). Harboursing deserters from ships of foreign country to which the section has been applied by Order in Council—Penalty, not exceeding £10 (s. 238). Misconduct endangering life or limb or ship; misdemeanour (Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, s. 220).

Carriage of explosives or dangerous cargo in emigrant ship forbidden, under penalty of £300 (Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, s. 301). Sending or attempting to send dangerous goods in British or foreign vessel without marking same as prescribed—Penalty, not exceeding £100 (s. 446). Misdescription of dangerous goods—Penalty, not exceeding £500 (s. 447). Sections 448 and 449 are concerned with power to open goods suspected of being dangerous, and forfeiture of goods improperly carried.

Sending dangerous goods.

For regulations as to loading of timber see the Merchant Shipping Act, 1906, s. 10; and for regulations as to grain, see the Act of 1894, ss. 452–456, and the Act of 1906, ss. 3, 6, 11.

Timber and grain.

All the foregoing penalties are recoverable under the Summary Jurisdiction Acts<sup>1</sup> (Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, 57 & 58 Vict. c. 60, s. 681 (1)), with, it is submitted, such right of appeal as is given by the Petty Sessions (Ir.) Act, 1851.

Procedure under Merchant Shipping Acts.

Person, whether master,<sup>2</sup> or pilot, in charge of any ship which on arrival at any port does not proceed direct to proper place of mooring, or does not bring to at the Custom House boarding place, or which without authority from the Customs removes from the proper place of mooring to any other place—Forfeiture of £20 (Revenue Act, 1883, 46 & 47 Vict. c. 55, s. 5).

Offences by master of ship.

Master of any ship who fails to provide sleeping accommodation for

<sup>1</sup> For the meaning of which term, see p. 335, ante.

<sup>2</sup> "Master" means the person having or taking charge or command (Customs Consolidation Act, 1876, s. 284).

<sup>3</sup> This Act is to be construed as one with the Customs Consolidation Act, 1876 (s. 11).

Offences by master of ship.

Customs officer stationed on board, or on whose ship any Customs seals, &c., affixed on her arrival in port are broken, or from whose ship whilst in port any stores sealed by the Customs are secretly taken away—Forfeiture of £20 (ib., ss. 6, 7). Master of any ship failing to make, or making falsely, required report on arrival in port—Forfeiture of £100 (Customs Consolidation Act, 1876, 39 & 40 Vict. c. 36, s. 50, modified by the Revenue Act, 1898, 61 & 62 Vict. c. 46, s. 2).

Master of any ship arriving from abroad failing to answer truly questions put by Customs or having broken bulk or altered stowage, &c., after coming within four leagues of coast of United Kingdom except for cause allowed as satisfactory by Customs—Forfeiture of £100 (Revenue Act, 1883, 46 & 47 Vict. c. 55, s. 5). Master of ship bound foreign with goods failing to comply with required provisions as to delivery of certificate of last voyage inwards or coastwise, or of entry outwards, &c.—Forfeiture of £100 (Customs Consolidation Act, 1876, 39 & 40 Vict. c. 36, s. 101). Master of ship bound foreign in ballast departing without being duly cleared—Forfeiture of £100 (Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 15, s. 6). If seals put by Customs, on goods taken without duty being paid as stores for ship foreign bound be wilfully broken, &c., or such goods removed from ship before such ship finally departs, master to forfeit £20 (Customs Consolidation Act, 1876, 39 & 40 Vict. c. 36, s. 135). Any ship leaving port not bringing to at Customs station—Forfeiture by master of £20 (s. 136). Any such ship carrying off Customs officer, &c., without his consent—Forfeiture by master of £100 (ib.). Coasting ships not confining themselves to coasting—Forfeiture of £100 by master (s. 142). Coasting ships unshipping or shipping goods except at specified times and places; forfeiture of goods and forfeiture of £50 by master (Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1881, 44 & 45 Vict. c. 12, s. 10). Master of coasting ship not duly keeping cargo book—Forfeiture of £20 by master (Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1879, 42 & 43 Vict. c. 21, s. 9). Unlading goods from coasting ships in contravention of the section, forfeiture of £20 by master and forfeiture of goods (Customs Consolidation Act, 1876, 39 & 40 Vict. c. 36, s. 146). As to the manner in which forfeitures are to be recovered and procedure generally, see p. 80.

SHOP CLUBS.

See Shop Clubs Act, 1902, 2 Edw. 7, c. 21, APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

SHOPS.

N.B.—At the time when this portion of the volume is going to press, a Bill is before Parliament making radical changes in the law relating to shop assistants. In its present form, the Bill (inter alia) repeals the Shop Hours Act, 1892, and the Shop Hours Act, 1895, except so far as they relate to persons who are not shop assistants within the meaning of the Bill. It also entirely repeals the Seats for Shop Assistants Act, 1899, and the Shop Hours Act, 1904. Therefore the reader, before relying upon this article, should consult the Appendix of Statutes, which will contain the Act if it has become law before publication.

	PAGE		PAGE
Shop Hours Acts, 1892 and 1895—		Shop Hours Act, 1904—
Hours of employment in shops	783	Closing order by local authority	784
Exemption of members of same family . . . . .	783	Contents and effects of closing order . . . . .	784
Notice of hours to be exhibited . . . . .	783	Penalty	785
Penalty . . . . .	783	Definition of "local authority," "central authority," "shop" . . . . .	785
Exemption of occupier on conviction of actual offender .	784	Procedure for making closing order . . . . .	785
Procedure . . . . .	784	Revocation of closing order .	785
Seats for Shop Assistants Act, 1899—		Local inquiry . . . . .	785
Seats to be provided for female assistants . . . .	784	Regulations by central authority . . . . .	785
Penalty . . . . .	784
Procedure . . . . .	784

"(1) No young person shall be employed in or about a shop for a longer period than seventy-four hours, including meal times, in any one week. (2) No young person shall, to the knowledge of his employer, be employed in or about a shop having been previously on the same day employed in any factory or workshop as defined by the Factory and Workshop Act, 1878,<sup>1</sup> for the number of hours permitted by the said Act, or for a longer period than will, together with the time during which he has been so previously employed, complete such number of hours" (Shop Hours Act, 1892, 55 & 56 Vict. c. 62, s. 3).

"Shop" means retail and wholesale shops, markets, stalls, and ware-houses in which assistants are employed for hire, and includes licensed public-houses and refreshment houses of any kind. "Young person" means a person under the age of eighteen years" (s. 9). A building which is used solely as a hotel and restaurant, and which has no bar, and is not in the ordinary sense of the term a public-house, is a "shop" (Savoy Hotel Co. v. London C.C. (1900), 1 Q.B. 665; cf. Smith v. Kyle (1902), 1 K.B. 286, infra).

"Nothing in this Act shall apply to a shop where the only persons employed are members of the same family, dwelling in the building of which the shop forms part or to which the shop is attached, or to members of the employer's family so dwelling, or to any person wholly employed as a domestic servant" (Shop Hours Act, 1892, s. 10). A page-boy in a hotel, who sleeps on the premises, and who is principally employed as a messenger, but partly also in assisting to dust the reception rooms, is not a "domestic servant" (Savoy Hotel Co. v. London C.C. (1900), 1 K.B. 665).

"In every shop in which a young person is employed a notice shall be kept exhibited by the employer in a conspicuous place referring to the provisions of this Act, and stating the number of hours in the week during which a young person may lawfully be employed in that shop" (s. 4)—Penalty, not exceeding 40s. (Shop Hours Act, 1895, 58 & 59 Vict. c. 5, s. 1).

A railway bookstall, formed with a board and trestles, and put up each morning, was held not to be a shop within s. 4 of the Shop Hours Act, 1892 (Smith v. Kyle (1902), 1 K.B. 286). "I think, subject to any argument that might be addressed to me upon the point, that the structure would be clearly a stall and a shop for the purpose of s. 3, which limits the hours of employment of young persons in or about shops" (ib., per Lord Alverstone, C.J.).

"Where any young person is employed in or about a shop contrary to the provisions of this Act, the employer shall be liable to a fine not exceeding £1 for each person so employed" (Shop Hours Act, 1892, s. 5).

<sup>1</sup> This will now mean the Factory and Workshop Act, 1901 (see Interpretation Act, 1889, s. 38).

Shop Hours
Acts, 1892
and 1895.

A newsagent, occupying a shop for the purposes of his business, employed a boy whose work was done partly inside the shop, and partly away from the shop fetching newspapers and delivering them to the customers. Held. that the whole employment was "in or about" the shop within the Act (Collman v. Roberts (1896), 1 Q.B. 457).

Exemption of occupier on conviction of actual offender.

"Where the employer of any young person is charged with an offence against this Act, he shall be entitled upon information duly laid by him to have any other person whom he charges as the actual offender brought before the court at the time appointed for hearing the charge; and if, after the commission of the offence has been proved, the said employer proves to the satisfaction of the court that he has used due diligence to enforce the execution of the Act, and that the said other person has committed the offence in question without his knowledge, consent, or connivance, the said other person shall be summarily convicted of such offence, and the occupier<sup>1</sup> shall be exempt from any fine" (Shop Hours Act, 1892, s. 6).

Procedure.

Offences are to be prosecuted and penalties recovered in accordance with ss. 143-146 (as applied to Ireland by s. 160) of the Factory and Workshop Act, 1901, 1 Edw. 7, c. 22; and so much of s. 147 of that statute as relates to evidence of age applies (s. 7; Interpretation Act, 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 63, s. 88).

Seats for Shop Assistants Act, 1889.

"In all rooms of a shop, or other premises where goods are actually retailed to the public, and where female assistants are employed for the retailing of goods to the public, the employer carrying on business in such premises shall provide seats behind the counter, or in such other position as may be suitable for the purpose, and such seats shall be in the proportion of not less than one seat to every three female assistants employed in each room" (Seats for Shop Assistants Act, 1889, 62 & 63 Vict. c. 21, s. 1).

Seats for female assistants.*Penalty.

"Any person failing to comply with the provisions of this Act"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £3; subsequent offence, not less than £1 and not exceeding £5 (s. 2).

Procedure.

The Act is to be construed as one with the Shop Hours Act, 1892 (s. 4); and the procedure under it is consequently the same as the procedure under that Act.

Shop Hours
Act, 1904.*Closing order by local authority.

"An order (in this Act referred to as a 'closing order') made by a local authority and confirmed by the central authority, in manner provided by this Act, may fix the hours on the several days of the week at which, either throughout the area of the local authority or in any specified part thereof, all shops or shops of any specified class are to be closed for serving customers" (Shop Hours Act, 1904, 4 Edw. 7, c. 31, s. 1).

The closing order may relate to one or more days in the week without affecting the other days (A.G. v. Brighton Corporation (1908), 77 L.J. (Ch.) 603).

Contents and effect of order.

"(1) The hour fixed by a closing order (in this Act referred to as 'the closing hour') shall not be earlier than seven o'clock in the evening on any day of the week, except that on one specified day in the week it may be an hour not earlier than one o'clock in the afternoon. (2) A closing order may prohibit, either absolutely, or subject to such exemptions and conditions as may be contained in the order, the carrying on of any retail trade after the closing hour in any place, not being a shop, within the area to which the order applies, for the carrying on of which it would be unlawful to keep a shop open after that hour. (3) The order may (a) define the shops and trades to which the order applies; and (b) authorise sales after the closing hour in cases of emergency, and in such other circumstances as may be specified or indicated in the order; and

<sup>1</sup> Sic. The word "occupier" must be read as meaning employer.

(c) contain any incidental, supplemental, or consequential provisions which may appear necessary or proper. (4) Nothing in a closing order shall apply to any fair lawfully held or a bazaar for charitable purposes, nor to any shop where the only trade or business carried on is one or more of the trades or businesses mentioned in the schedule to this Act.<sup>1</sup> (5) Where several trades and businesses are carried on in the same shop, and any of those trades or businesses are of such a nature that if they were the only trades or businesses carried on in the shop the closing order would not apply to the shop, the shop may be kept open after the closing hour for the purposes of those trades and businesses alone, but on such terms and under such conditions as may be specified in the order: Provided that the terms and conditions as respects post-office business shall be subject to the approval of the Postmaster-General" (Shop Hours Act, 1904, s. 2).

"If any person contravenes the provisions of a closing order he shall be liable on conviction under the Summary Jurisdiction Acts<sup>2</sup> to a fine not exceeding in the case of a first offence £1, in the case of a second offence £5, and in the case of a third or subsequent offence £20, provided that nothing in this Act or in any order shall render a person liable to any penalty for serving after the closing hour any customer who was in the shop before the closing hour" (Shop Hours Act, 1904, s. 5).

The "local authority" means the council of any municipal borough, or the commissioners of any town or township (see s. 8 (1)). The "central authority" is the Lord-Lieutenant (s. 8 (2)). "Shop" includes any premises or place where retail trade (including the business of a barber) is carried on (s. 8 (3)).

When a local authority are satisfied that a prima facie case is made out for making a closing order, they shall give public notice, in the prescribed manner, &c., of their intention to make the order, and if they are satisfied that it is expedient to make the order and that the occupiers of at least two-thirds in number of the shops to be affected approve of the order, they may make the order, which must be confirmed by the central authority (s. 3).

The central authority may, on the application of a local authority, revoke the order either absolutely or so far as it affects any particular class of shops, and if at any time it is made to appear to the satisfaction of the local authority that the occupiers of a majority of any class of shops to which a closing order applies are opposed to the continuance of the order, the local authority shall apply to the central authority to revoke the order so far as it affects that class of shops, but any such revocation shall be without prejudice to the making of any new closing order (s. 4).

The central authority, &c., may cause a local inquiry to be held (s. 6).

The central authority may prescribe regulations generally for carrying into effect the provisions of the Act (s. 7).

<sup>1</sup> That is, post-office business; sale of medicines and medical and surgical appliances; sale by retail of intoxicating liquors for consumption on or off the premises; sale of refreshments for consumption on the premises; sale of tobacco and other smokers' requisites; sale of newspapers; the business carried on at a railway bookstall or at a railway refreshment room.

<sup>2</sup> As to which, see p. 335.

SMUGGLING.

	PAGE		PAGE
Procedure . . . . .	786	Rescuing goods . . . . .	787
Boats to be marked with name of ship, &c. . . . .	786	Rescuing persons . . . . .	787
Dutiable goods—		Assaulting or obstructing Customs officers . . . . .	787
Illegal unshipment . . . . .	786	Searching suspected smugglers . . . . .	787
Illegal removal from warehouse . . . . .	786	Improperly searching . . . . .	787
Illegal shipment . . . . .	786	Denying possession of smuggled goods . . . . .	787
Concealment of . . . . .	786	Illegal importation of goods . . . . .	788
Burthen of proof . . . . .	786	Assembling to run goods . . . . .	788
Smuggling vessels . . . . .	786	Pretending that goods are smuggled, &c. . . . .	788
Persons on smuggling vessels . . . . .	787	Deficiency of dutiable goods on ship . . . . .	788
Innocent persons on smuggling vessels . . . . .	787	Indictable offences . . . . .	788
Ships not bringing to . . . . .	787

Procedure.

The principal enactments as to smuggling are contained in the Customs Consolidation Act, 1876, 39 & 40 Vict. c. 36. As the provisions of the Petty Sessions Act, 1851, do not apply to prosecutions for offences against the Customs or Revenue (Petty Sessions Act, s. 42), prosecutions with regard to smuggling and kindred offences are governed by the law relating to the Customs, as to which see p. 80, ante.

The following is a brief summary of the most important sections with which justices are concerned: for the full text of the statutes, see Highmore's "CUSTOMS LAWS."

All summonses under the Customs Acts may be served on the defendant either personally or by leaving the same at the last known place of abode in the United Kingdom or on board any ship or vessel to which he may belong or may have lately belonged (Customs Consolidation Act, 1876, 39 & 40 Vict. c. 36, s. 227).

Boats to be marked with name of ship.

All boats if belonging to a ship are to have thereon the name of the vessel, port, and master (s. 175), and if not belonging to a ship are to have the name of the owner and port thereon—Penalty, forfeiture of such boat (s. 176); but the latter section is not to apply to any fishing boat entered in the fishing boat register (Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, 57 & 58 Vict. c. 60, s. 373). All goods liable to the payment of duties, if removed from any ship, quay, wharf, or other place previous to examination by Customs officer; and all warehoused goods which have been illegally removed; and all goods the exportation of which is prohibited, if put on board any ship or boat with intent to be laden or shipped for exportation, or if brought to any quay, wharf, or other place in order to be put on board any ship for the purpose of being exported; and all dutiable goods and goods prohibited from being imported which are concealed on board any vessel within the limits of any port, and which shall be found either before or after landing to have been so concealed; are to be forfeited together with any goods which have been packed with or used in concealing them (Customs Consolidation Act, 1876, 39 & 40 Vict. c. 36, s. 177). All goods the importation of which is in any way restricted, which are of a description admissible to duty, and which shall be found or seized under the Customs Acts, shall be deemed to be goods liable to, and unshipped without payment of, duties unless the contrary is found (ib., s. 178). Any vessel<sup>1</sup> being within three leagues of the coast if belonging wholly or in part to British subjects or having half the persons on board subjects of His Majesty, or within one league if not British, having on board any secret or disguised place adapted for concealing goods or any hole, tube,

Dutiable goods:

Illegal unshipment.

Illegal removal from warehouse.

Illegal shipment.

Concealment of.

Burthen of proof.

Smuggling vessels.

<sup>1</sup> Under 250 tons (Customs Consolidation Act, 1890, 53 & 54 Vict. c. 56, s. 1).

or device adapted for running goods, or having on board, or in any manner attached thereto, or conveying or having conveyed any spirits, tobacco, or snuff in packages of any size and character in which they are prohibited to be imported, or any spirits, tobacco, or snuff imported contrary to the Customs Acts, or any tobacco stalks, tobacco stalk flour, or snuff work, which shall be found or which shall be discovered to have been within three leagues of any part of the coast and from which any goods shall have been thrown overboard, or staved or destroyed to prevent seizure—Penalty, forfeiture of vessel and goods and packages containing same, and everything packed therein, and cordage for slinging small casks, and casks, containing less than twenty gallons, of the description used for smuggling spirits : and every person found or discovered to have been on board any vessel liable to forfeiture as aforesaid, within three leagues if a British subject, within one league if a foreigner, or on board any vessel in His Majesty's service, or on board any foreign post-office packet employed in carrying mails between any foreign country and the United Kingdom having on board any spirits or tobacco in such packages as aforesaid, or any tobacco stalks, tobacco stalk flour, or snuff work, shall forfeit a sum not exceeding £100, and every such person may be detained and taken before a justice (Customs Consolidation Act, 1876, 39 & 40 Vict. c. 36, s. 179). If the vessel is over 250 tons different provisions apply, for which see the Customs Consolidation Act, 1890, 53 & 54 Vict. c. 56, s. 2. No person shall be liable to conviction under s. 179 of the Act of 1876 unless there shall be reasonable cause to believe that such person was concerned in, or privy to, the illegal act or thing proved to have been committed (Customs Consolidation Act, 1890, s. 1). Ships belonging wholly or in part to His Majesty's subjects, or having one half of the persons on board subjects of His Majesty, not bringing to when required by signal from any vessel in the service of His Majesty or of the revenue, or if any person on board shall throw overboard during chase or before such vessel any part of her lading or destroy or stave any goods—Penalty, forfeiture of ship (Customs Consolidation Act, 1876, 39 & 40 Vict. c. 36, s. 180). If any ship or boat liable to examination under Customs Act does not bring to when required master shall forfeit £20 (s. 181). Staving, breaking, or destroying any goods to prevent seizure or securing of goods seized, rescuing any person liable to apprehension or preventing the apprehension of any such person, assaulting or obstructing any officer of Customs or other person employed for the preventing of smuggling in the execution of his duty, or abetting, or attempting, or causing any of the above offences—Penalty, not exceeding £100 (Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1881, 44 & 45 Vict. c. 12, s. 12). It is not necessary to prove that the officer was known to the defendant to be in the execution of his duty; it is enough that he actually was in the execution of his duty (R. v. Forbes (1865), 10 Cox 362). Before any person shall be searched he may require to be taken before a justice or superior officer of Customs, who shall, if he shall see no reasonable cause for search, discharge such person, but if otherwise direct that he shall be searched, and if a female only by a female; if any officer shall cause any person to be searched without reasonable ground, he shall forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding £10; if any person on being questioned by a person duly employed for the prevention of smuggling denies that he has any foreign goods upon his possession or in his baggage, and such goods are afterwards discovered in his possession or in his baggage, such goods shall be forfeited and such person shall forfeit £100 or treble the value of the goods at the election of the Commissioners of Customs (Customs Consolidation Act, 1876, 39 & 40 Vict. c. 36, s. 185).

Smuggling vessels.

Persons on smuggling vessels.

Innocent persons on smuggling vessels.

Ships not bringing to when required by H.M. ships.

Rescuing goods.

Rescuing persons.

Assaulting or obstructing Customs officers.

Searching suspected smugglers.

Improperly so doing.

Denying possession of smuggled goods.

Illegally importing any prohibited goods or goods the importation of which is restricted, whether unshipped or not, or unshipping or removing goods from quay before examination by Customs officer, or carrying goods into warehouse without authority, or harbouring such goods, or being in any way knowingly concerned in dealing with any such goods with intent to defraud His Majesty of any duties due thereon, or to evade any prohibition or restriction applicable to such goods—Penalty, treble value of goods including duty thereon,<sup>1</sup> or £100 at the election of the Commissioners of Customs (s. 186). Assembling to the number of three or more for the purpose of unshipping, landing, carrying, or concealing any prohibited, restricted, or uncustomed goods<sup>2</sup>—Penalty, not exceeding £500 nor less than £100 (Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1879, 42 & 43 Vict. c. 21, s. 10).

Illegal importation of goods.

Assembling to run goods.

Cutting adrift or injuring any boat or buoy belonging to the Customs—Penalty, £10 (Customs Consolidation Act, 1876, 39 & 40 Vict. c. 36, s. 195).

Pretending that goods are prohibited or smuggled.

Offering for sale any goods under pretence that the same are prohibited, or that the same have been smuggled—Penalty, even though such goods are neither prohibited nor smuggled, forfeiture of such goods and also of treble their value<sup>1</sup> (s. 201).

Deficiency of dutiable goods on ship.

If a ship that cleared foreign with dutiable goods returns to the United Kingdom with a deficiency therein in excess of the quantity that, in the opinion of the Commissioners of Customs, might fairly have consumed on the voyage, the master shall forfeit the amount of the duty that would have been charged on the deficiency on importation, and also a penalty not exceeding £20 (Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 15, s. 4).

Indictable offences.

As to indictable offences relating to smuggling, see "SMUGGLING" in INDICTABLE OFFENCES.

SOLICITOR.

Pretending to be solicitor, &c.

"Any person who wilfully and falsely pretends to be, or takes or uses any name, title, addition, or description implying that he is duly qualified to act as a solicitor, or that he is recognised by law as so qualified, shall be guilty of an offence under this Act"—Penalty, not exceeding £10 for each offence. Any offence under this section may be prosecuted before a court of summary jurisdiction in manner provided by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts<sup>3</sup> (s. 53).

An unqualified person was convicted upon complaint of the Incorporated Law Society before justices. Held, the fact that one of the justices was a member of the Society did not disqualify him from acting as justice (R. v. Burton (1897), 2 Q.B. 468).

The above is the only summary procedure applicable to persons wrongfully acting as solicitors. The following penalties are recoverable by action: practising without certificate or making false statement on application for certificate—Penalty, £50 (Stamp Act, 1891, 54 & 55 Vict. c. 39, s. 43); unqualified persons preparing instruments for or in expectation of fee, gain, or reward—Penalty, £50 (ib., s. 44), recoverable by information in the name of the Attorney-General (ib., s. 121). Solicitor not to act as agent for person not duly qualified, &c., and may be committed by judge of the High Court for a term not exceeding one year <sup>1</sup> This means three times the value of the goods without duty, and three times the amount of the duty thereon (s. 214).

<sup>2</sup> There must be a deliberate assembling (R. v. Hutchinson (1784), 1 Leach 339).

<sup>3</sup> As to the meaning of which, see p. 335, ante.

(Solicitors (Ir.) Act, 1898, 61 & 62 Vict. c. 17, s. 51). Acting as solicitor without being admitted and enrolled—Penalty, payable to the Incorporated Law Society, £50, recoverable with full costs of suit by action brought with the sanction of the Attorney-General in the name of the Incorporated Law Society in the High Court or in any county court (s. 52).

STAMPS.

“(1) If any person (a) fraudulently removes or causes to be removed from any instrument any adhesive stamp, or affixes to any other instrument or uses for any postal purpose any adhesive stamp which has been so removed, with intent that the stamp may be used again; or (b) sells or offers for sale, or utters, any adhesive stamp which has been so removed, or utters any instrument having thereon any adhesive stamp which has to his knowledge been so removed as aforesaid; he shall, in addition to any other fine or penalty to which he may be liable, incur a fine of £50. (2) The expression ‘instrument’ in this section includes any post letter as defined by the Post Office Protection Act, 1884,<sup>1</sup> and the cover of any post letter” (Stamp Act, 1891, 54 & 55 Vict. c. 39, s. 9).

Frauds in relation to adhesive stamps.

The fine provided by this section is recoverable summarily. See p. 80, ante.

STEAM WHISTLES.

Using or employing in any manufactory or any other place any steam whistle or steam trumpet for the purpose of summoning or dismissing workmen without sanction of the sanitary authority—Penalty, not exceeding £5, and 40s. for each day during which offence continues (Factories Steam Whistles Act, 1872, 35 & 36 Vict. c. 61, s. 2).

The expression steam whistle or steam trumpet means a whistle or trumpet from which a sound is produced by the passage through it, not merely of steam, but of anything such as compressed air, or, it would seem, the exhaust from an internal combustion engine (Herbert v. Leigh Mills Co. (1889), 53 J.P. 679).

The expression sanitary authority is defined by s. 3 of the Act to mean the authority at the time being empowered to execute the Nuisance Removal Acts, as defined and extended by the Sanitary Act, 1866. The Nuisance Removal Acts have been repealed as regards Ireland by s. 294 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 52; and, for the reasons given at p. 488 of Vanston's “PUBLIC HEALTH,” it would seem that the expression “sanitary authority” must be taken now to mean the sanitary authority within the meaning of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878.

STOLEN GOODS, RESTITUTION OF

“It shall be lawful for the justices by whom any person is convicted under this Act to order restitution of the property stolen, taken, or obtained by false pretences in those cases in which the court before whom the person convicted would have been tried but for this Act may be by law authorized to order restitution" (Criminal Justice Act, 1855, 18 & 19 Vict. c. 126, s. 8).

Criminal Justice Act, 1855.

<sup>1</sup> In s. 19. That section is now repealed by the Post Office Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 48, s. 92, sch. 2; and s. 74 of the Post Office Act, 1908, which defines “post letter,” now takes the place of s. 19 of the Act of 1884 (Interpretation Act, 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 63, s. 38).

Larceny Act, 1868.

"All the provisions of the Criminal Justice Act, 1855, shall extend and be applicable to the offence of embezzlement by clerks or servants, or persons employed for the purpose or in the capacity of clerks or servants, and the said Act shall henceforth be read as if the said offence of embezzlement had been included therein" (Larceny Act, 1868, 31 & 32 Vict. c. 116, s. 2).

Larceny Act, 1861.

"If any person guilty of any such felony or misdemeanour as is mentioned in this Act, in stealing, taking, obtaining, extorting, embezzling, converting, or disposing of, or in knowingly receiving, any chattel, money, valuable security, or other property whatsoever, shall be indicted for such offence by or on the behalf of the owner of the property, or his executor or administrator, and convicted thereof, in such case the property shall be restored to the owner or his representative; and in every case in this section aforesaid the court before whom any person shall be tried for any such felony or misdemeanour shall have power . . . to order the restitution thereof in a summary manner; Provided that if it shall appear before any . . . order made that any valuable security shall have been bona fide paid or discharged by some person or body corporate liable to the payment thereof, or being a negotiable instrument shall have been bona fide taken or received by transfer or delivery, by some person or body corporate, for a just and valuable consideration, without any notice or without any reasonable cause to suspect that the same had by any felony or misdemeanour been stolen, taken, obtained, extorted, embezzled, converted, or disposed of, in such case the court shall not . . . order the restitution of such security; Provided also, that nothing in this section contained shall apply to the case of any prosecution of any trustee, banker, merchant, attorney, factor, broker, or other agent intrusted with the possession of goods or documents of title to goods for any misdemeanour against this Act" (Larceny Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, s. 100). The order for restitution under this section may be either of the property or the proceeds thereof (R. v. London Co. JJ. (1908), 72 J.P. 513).

For the cases of larceny or embezzlement, which but for the Criminal Justice Act, 1855, and the Larceny Act, 1868, would be triable only on indictment, but in which justices by virtue of those two Acts can now convict summarily, see LARCENY, pp. 585-6.

Summary Jurisdiction
(Ir.) Act,
1851.

As to the power of justices to order restitution in the case of persons not over fourteen convicted summarily of larceny or any offence punishable as simple larceny, see the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1851, 14 & 15 Vict. c. 92, s. 6, in APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

Police (Property) Act, 1897.

"(1) Where any property has come into the possession of the police in connection with any criminal charge or under section 103 of the Larceny Act, 1861<sup>1</sup> . . . a court of summary jurisdiction may, on application, either by an officer of police, or by a claimant of the property, make an order for the delivery of the property to the person appearing to the magistrate or court to be the owner thereof, or, if the owner cannot be ascertained, make such order with respect to the property as to the magistrate or court may seem meet" (Police (Property) Act, 1897, 60 & 61 Vict. c. 30, s. 1). See the statute, APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

Shipwrecked
goods.

Under s. 65 of the Larceny Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, a justice has power to order that any goods, from a vessel wrecked or stranded, &c., which are found in the possession of any person brought or summoned before such justice and unable to satisfy such justice that he came honestly by such goods, be delivered to the rightful owner.

Stolen goods
pawned.

As to the power of justices in Dublin and Belfast to order the restitution of stolen goods that have been pledged with pawnbrokers, see p. 663.

<sup>1</sup> As to which, see p. 589.

SUICIDE.

Summary jurisdiction is given in Dublin in cases of attempted suicide by the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1871, 34 & 35 Vict. c. 76, verbatim APPENDIX OF STATUTES. Elsewhere, the offence is not triable summarily. See CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES.

SUNDAY.

	PAGE		PAGE
Prohibition of certain callings on Sunday . . . .	791-3	Committal of dangerous lunatic	794
Legal process . . . .	793-4	Computation of time . . . .	794
		Christmas Day . . . .	795

N.B.—The Shops Bill, at present before Parliament, contains provisions altering the law as to carrying on businesses on Sunday, and amending the Sunday Observance Act, 1895. Therefore, before relying on that portion of this article “Prohibition of certain callings on Sunday,” the reader should consult the APPENDIX OF STATUTES, where the Act will be found, if it becomes law before publication.

“No tradesman, artificer, workman, labourer, or other person whatsoever, shall do or exercise any worldly labour, business, or work of their ordinary callings upon the Lord’s day or any part thereof, works of necessity and charity only excepted: and every person being of the age of fourteen years or upwards offending in the premises, shall, for every such offence, forfeit the sum of 5s.; and no person or persons whatsoever shall publicly cry, show forth, or expose to sale, any wares, merchandises, fruit, herbs, goods, or chattels whatsoever, upon the Lord’s day or any part thereof, upon pain that every person so offending shall forfeit the same goods so cried, or showed forth, or exposed to sale” (Sunday Observance Act, 1795, 7 Wm. 3, c. 17 (Ir.), s. 1). The English Act, 29 Chas. 2, c. 7, contains similar provisions. The offences mentioned have reference to acts done in the ordinary pursuit of the offender’s ordinary calling. A sale made upon Sunday but not made in the exercise of the ordinary calling of the vendor is not avoided at common law or under the Act (Drury v. Defontaine (1808), 1 Taunt. 131); but a horse-dealer cannot sue for warranty of a horse under a contract made upon Sunday, such contract being in the exercise of his ordinary calling (Fenell v. Ridler (1826), 5 B. & C. 406).

Prohibition of certain callings, &c., on Sunday.

Ordinary callings.

The word “tradesman” means a person carrying on a trade, buying and selling; an “artificer” means a person who makes something; a “workman” or “labourer” means persons in employment (per Channel, J., in Palmer v. Snow (1900), 1 Q.B. 725, at p. 727). The words “or other person” must be applied to persons ejusdem generis with those specifically enumerated in the preceding part of the section (R. v. Silvester (1864), 33 L.J.M.C. (N.S.) 79). When general words follow particular the rule is to construe them as applying to persons ejusdem generis (per Lord Tenterden in Sandiman v. Breach (1827), 7 B. & C. 96, at p. 100). A barber (Palmer v. Snow, supra) or a farmer (R. v. Silvester, supra) is not within the section. Query, does the Act apply to an agricultural labourer (per Mellor, J., in R. v. Silvester, supra)? A person licensed under s. 6, but not under s. 7, of the Refreshment Houses Act, 1860, 23 & 24 Vict. c. 27,<sup>1</sup> who sold confectionery for consumption off his

<sup>1</sup> These sections are respectively re-enacted verbatim in ss. 6 and 7 of the Refreshment Houses (Ir.) Act, 1860, 23 & 24 Vict. c. 107.

Prohibition of certain callings, &c., on Sunday. premises was held within the English Act of Charles 2 (Duffell v. Curtis (1877), 35 L.T. 853). A married woman carried on business in selling sweets in a shop, which, with the business thereof, was the property of her husband, but in which the business was always carried on by the wife in the absence of her husband, who managed a similar business in a shop in another street. Held, that the woman had committed an offence against the English Act of Charles 2 (Billingham v. Mehinick (1909), 73 J.P. 384). An information and summons under the section need not allege that the defendant was fourteen years of age, or that the alleged labour, &c., was within the defendant's ordinary calling (Connor v. Quest (1907), 71 J.P. 62). It has been held by justices at Brighton that the crying out of newspapers by a boy was an offence against s. 2. and an order was made for the forfeiture of the papers (Law Journal. Notes (1890), p. 292).

A soldier can enlist on Sunday (Wolton v. Gavin (1850). 16 Q.B. 48).

A person can commit but one offence on the same day by exercising his ordinary calling on a Sunday no matter how many sales are effected (Crepps v. Durden (1776), 2 Cowp. 640).

Carriers, &c. "No drover, horse courser, waggoner, carrier, butcher, higler, their or any of their servants shall travel or come into his or their inn or lodging upon the Lord's Day or any part thereof"—Penalty, £1 (Ir.) (Sunday Observance Act, 1695, 7 Wm. 3, c. 17 (Ir.), s. 2). The Act does not apply to stage-coaches (Sandiman v. Breach (1827), 7 B. & C. 96, at p. 100), but van-drivers, being carriers, are included in the section (Ex parte Middleton (1824), 3 B. & C. 164).

Games. "No person or persons whatsoever shall play, use, or exercise any hurling, commoning, football playing, cudgels, wrestling, or any other games, pastimes, or sports on the Lord's Day or any part thereof"—Penalty, 12d. (Ir.) for every such offence; levy by distress (Sunday Observance Act, 1695, s. 3). It is submitted that as the preamble to the section declares the enactment to be for the prevention of breaches of the peace and disorders arising from tumultuous and disorderly meetings under pretence of hurling, &c., any "other game or pastime" must be ejusdem generis and calculated to bring together a tumultuous crowd. This effect of the preamble would probably exclude golf from the operation of the statute.

It is to be noted that the penalty here provided is for each offence. It would therefore seem that an offender could under this section be fined for several offences committed on the same day (see, however, Crepps v. Durden (1877), Cowp. 640).

Exemptions. "Provided that nothing in this Act contained shall extend to the prohibiting of dressing meat in families, or dressing or selling of meat in inns, cooks shops, or victualling houses for such as otherwise cannot be provided; nor the crying or selling of milk or fish before 10 o'clock A.M., or after 4 P.M., nor to the using of hackney coaches in or about the city of Dublin" (Sunday Observance Act, 1695, 7 Wm. 3, c. 17 (Ir.), s. 3). Baking provisions or the like on Sundays is not an offence under the Act of 29 Car. 2, c. 7. the English Act containing similar provisions and exceptions (R. v. Cox (1759), 2 Burr. 786, followed in R. v. Younger (1793), 5 T.R. 449). But see special provisions as to bread, p. 388, ante. A chipped potato dealer who cuts up, cooks, and fries potatoes and sells the same warm, sometimes alone and sometimes with fish, to the poor working classes for consumption on or off premises, is dressing or selling meat in a "cooks shop" for such as cannot be otherwise provided and therefore within the exemption<sup>1</sup> (Bullen v. Ward (1905), 21 T.L.R. 753). A police constable finding a milkman selling milk during prohibited hours called upon him to desist. The milkman refused, under orders from his employer. The constable seized the milk without the milkman's permission. The justices convicted the milkman and issued a warrant to seize and sell the milk. The Queen's Bench Division upheld the conviction (Fuller v. Jackson, reported in Times newspaper, 8th December 1896).

<sup>1</sup> "The Sabbath would be much more generally observed by a baker staying at home to bake the dinners of a number of families than by his going to church and those families or their servants staying at home to dress dinners for themselves" (per Lord Mansfield in R. v. Cox, supra).

Prohibition of certain callings, &c., on Sunday.

"No person . . . shall be impeached, prosecuted, or molested for any offence before mentioned in this Act, unless he . . . be prosecuted for the same within ten days after the offence committed" (Sunday Observance Act, 1695. 7 Wm. 3. c. 17 (Ir.), s. 4). But query whether this enactment is not replaced by s. 10 (4) of the Petty Sessions Act, as to which see p. 51. ante.

Procedure.

By an old statute. 27 Hy. 6, c. 5, still in force, the holding of fairs is prohibited on Sundays (except the four Sundays in harvest), Ascension Thursday, Corpus Christi, the Feast of the Assumption, All Saints' Day, and Good Friday—Penalty, forfeiture of goods.

Fairs.

Apart from statute, judicial acts cannot be done on Sunday, but ministerial acts may be (Mackalley's case (1611), 9 Co. Rep. 65, b). For instance, justices cannot hear a case of summary jurisdiction on Sunday.

Legal process.

Judicial acts.

" . . . No person or persons upon the Lord's Day, commonly called Sunday, shall serve, or execute, or cause to be served or executed, any writ, process, warrant, order, judgment, or decree (except in cases of treason, felony, or breach of the peace); but that the service of every such writ, process, warrant, order, judgment, or decree, shall be void to all intents and purposes whatsoever; and the person and persons so serving or executing the same shall be as liable to the suit of the party grieved, and to answer damage to him for doing thereof, as if he or they had done the same without any writ, process, warrant, order, judgment, or decree at all" (Sunday Observance (Ir.) Act, 1695, 7 Wm. 3, c. 17 (Ir.), s. 7).<sup>1</sup>

7 Wm. 3, c. 17.

A warrant to enforce appearance in the case of any indictable offence may be issued or executed on Sunday (Petty Sessions Act, 1851, 14 & 15 Vict. c. 93, s. 11). And it follows that the preliminary hearing of any indictable offence may take place on that day, and the prisoner remanded or admitted to bail (see Rawlins v. Ellis (1849), 16 M. & W. 172).

Warrant to enforce appearance and preliminary hearing of indictable offence.

In the cases mentioned in 7 Wm. 3, c. 17 (Ir.)—treason, felony, and breach of the peace—a warrant of commitment in execution may be executed on Sunday (see Rawlins v. Ellis (1849), 16 M. & W. 172). It seems to be considered that a contempt of court is a breach of the peace within the section (Nun and Walsh, 2nd ed., p. 100 n. (a); Anon. (1744), Willes, 459; Ex parte Whitchurch (1749), 1 Atk. 55). The prohibition in 7 Wm. 3, c. 17 (Ir.), will apply only to an original taking, so that a party who has wrongfully escaped from custody may be re-taken on a Sunday, under an escape warrant (Sir W. Moore's case (1704), 2 Ld. Raym. 1028), or without any warrant (ib.; Atkinson v. Jameson (1792), 5 T.R. 25; Featherstonehaugh v. Atkinson (1736), Barnes 373).

Warrants in execution.

(1) Treason, felony, breach of peace.

But a warrant of commitment for default of payment of a penalty (R. v. Myers (1786), 1 T.R. 265; Taylor v. Freeman (1757), Sel. N.P., 13th ed., p. 850; Re Ramsden (1846), 3 D. & L. 748; Ex parte Eggington (1853), 2 E. & B. 717), or, it is submitted, in any cases save those mentioned above, cannot be executed on Sunday.

(2) Other cases.

In the absence of express statutory provision, search warrants cannot be issued or executed on Sunday.<sup>2</sup>

Search warrants.

In cases of treason, felony, or breach of the peace, where arrest without warrant is permissible at common law (see p. 146, ante), such arrest may be made on Sunday, having regard to the exception in 7 Wm. 3, c. 17 (Ir.), s. 7; and under the various statutes, all passed since the Act of Arrest without warrant.

<sup>1</sup> The English section, 29 Car. 2, c. 7, s. 6, is identical in terms.

<sup>2</sup> For instances of such special statutory provisions, see p. 145, ante.

Legal process.

Sureties of the peace or for good behaviour.

Wm. 3, that are enumerated at pp. 147-9, an arrest without warrant can be made as well on Sunday as on any other day.

"The plaintiff being complained of to a justice of peace, he makes a warrant to the defendant to take the plaintiff, and to find sureties for the good behaviour; the defendant, being constable, executes the warrant upon a Sunday, and whether good within the late statute which says, that all process executed upon a Sunday other than for the peace shall be void. Resolved for the defendant, that a warrant for the good behaviour is a warrant for the peace and more; and this statute is to be favourably extended for the peace. This judgment<sup>1</sup> was affirmed in a writ of error in B.R. Trin., 32 Car. 2" (Johnson v. Colston (1678), Sir T. Raym. 250).<sup>2</sup> The defendant was arrested under a warrant, brought before a magistrate and ordered to give sureties for good behaviour, or, in default, to be imprisoned. The defendant refused, and a warrant was made out, under which he was committed to prison till he should find the sureties. All these proceedings took place on Sunday, and the warrant and entry in the sessions book bore date of that day. Held, that although the arrest might be good, the taking sureties and committal in default was a judicial act, and therefore void as being done on Sunday (R. v. Ramsay (1867), 16 W.R. 191).

Committal of dangerous lunatic.

A private person may, without a warrant, confine a person disordered in his mind, who seems disposed to do mischief to himself, or to any other person (Bac. Abr. Tit. Trespass, D. 3, p. 664). The Lunacy (Ir.) Act, 1867, 30 & 31 Vict. c. 118, ss. 10 and 11, giving power to justices to order the committal of a dangerous lunatic, contains no express power as to Sunday, but it is submitted that, inasmuch as the paramount object of the sections would appear to be the speedy seclusion<sup>3</sup> of a person dangerous to himself and to the community, this Act can be put into operation on Sunday.

Computation of time.

The general rule is that Sunday is to be included in the computation of the number of days, if nothing is said about its exclusion (per Blackburn, J., in Ex parte Simpkin (1860), 7 E. & E. 392). Instances of the rule are—Sunday counts in the three days within which an appellant is to transmit a case stated to the High Court (Pennell v. Uxbridge Overseers (1862), 5 L.T. 685), and in the three days for the application to justices to state a case (Peacock v. R. (1858), 4 C.B. (N.S.) 264); and in the two days allowed to an appellant under the Nuisances Removal Act (England), 18 & 19 Vict. c. 121, to enter into recognisances (see also Rouberry v. Morgan (1854), 9 Ex. 730).

But where the act is to be done by the court, and not by the party, e.g. the sealing of a writ, and the last day falls on Sunday, the act may be done on the following Monday.

As to notice of appeal, a recent English case seems contrary to the accepted opinion in Ireland. By s. 8 of the Mayor's Court of London Procedure Act, 1857, 20 & 21 Vict. (Local and Personal Acts) c. clvii., notice of appeal is to be given within "two days after such determination or direction." In a case under this section, where the two days expired on Sunday, a notice of appeal, served on the following Monday, was held

<sup>1</sup> For defendant, in an action of trespass and battery.

<sup>2</sup> The above report is verbatim. It does not appear when the order to find sureties was made; the only fact being clear is that the execution of the warrant to enforce it, a merely ministerial act, took place on Sunday.

<sup>3</sup> See observations of Field, J., in White v. Redfern (1879), 5 Q.B.D. 15, at p. 18, a case in reference to the destruction of unsound meat. It may also be questioned whether putting such an Act into operation is not quasi-ministerial (see Thomas v. Van Os (1900), 2 Q.B. 448; but see Hodson v. Pare (1899), 1 Q.B. 455). The committal would not, it is submitted, be "process" within 7 Wm. 3, c. 17 (Ir.), s. 7.

well served (Milch v. Frankau (1909), 2 K.B. 100). The decision seems to have been based upon the ground that, as service was "process" within 29 Car. 2, c. 7, s. 6 (identical with the Irish 7 Wm. 3, c. 17, s. 7), and therefore was prohibited on Sunday, such statutory prohibition prolonged the period for another day (see also R. v. Middlesex JJ. (1848), 17 L.J.M.C. 111; but see, contra, R. v. Middlesex JJ. (1843), 12 L.J.M.C. 59). The decision, however, is opposed to the Irish case of Blue v. Fullerton (1876), I.R. 10 C.L. 233, and cannot be safely relied on.

Christmas Day, apart from statute, is in the same category as any other day, so far as the execution of legal process is concerned; and there are no statutes as to Christmas Day which in any way affect the subject of this work. Accordingly, where the petty sessions fall on Christmas Day, it seems that the clerk should attend and adjourn the court. The same remarks apply to bank and other like holidays.

Christmas Day.

SWEARING.

"If any person or persons shall . . . profanely swear and curse in the presence or hearing of any justice of peace of the county, division, or of the mayor or other head officer or justice of peace for any city, or town corporate where such offence is or shall be committed or that shall be thereof convicted by the oath of one witness, or by the confession of the party offending before any justice of the peace of the county or mayor, or bailiff, or other chief officer, or justice of the peace of such city or town corporate where the said offence shall be committed"—Penalty, every servant, day labourer, common soldier, and common seaman, 1s.;<sup>1</sup> every other person, 2s.;<sup>1</sup> second offence, double fine; third offence, treble fine (7 Wm. 3, c. 9 (Ir.), s. 1).

Profane
swearing.

"If any justice of the peace or chief magistrate shall wilfully and willingly omit the performance of his duty in the execution of this Act"—Penalty, forfeiture of £5 (Ir.) (s. 3).

Section 5 provides a special time limit of ten days for prosecution of the offence; but quære, whether the time limit run is not that fixed by the Petty Sessions Act; see p. 51, ante.

A conviction under 19 Geo. 2, c. 21, s. 1, charged that the defendant did "profanely curse one profane curse" (setting it out) "twenty several times repeated," and adjudged him "for his said offence" to forfeit the sum of £2, being a cumulative penalty at the rate of 2s. for each repetition of the oath. Held, that the conviction was for one offence only, but that the justices were entitled to impose cumulative penalties under the statute, and that the conviction was therefore good (R. v. Scott (1863), 4 B. & S. 368).

See further, TOWNS IMPROVEMENT, p. 800, post.

<sup>1</sup> Irish currency.

TELEGRAPHS.

	PAGE		PAGE
Malicious injury to telegraphs . . . . .	796	Forging telegrams . . . . .	797
Obstructing telegrams . . . . .	796	Miscellaneous . . . . .	797
Obstructing Postmaster-General . . . . .	796	Wireless telegraphy . . . . .	797
Contravening privilege of Postmaster-General . . . . .	796	Wireless telegraphy on foreign ships . . . . .	797
Misconduct of servants . . . . .	796	Procedure . . . . .	798

Malicious injury to telegraphs.

Maliciously injuring any thing used or employed in or about any electric or magnetic telegraph<sup>1</sup> or in the working thereof. Misdemeanour, punishable on indictment; or, at the option of the justices, summarily, with a penalty not exceeding £10 or three months' imprisonment with or without hard labour (Malicious Damage Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 97, s. 37). Attempt to injure, like penalty (s. 38). Injuring telegraphic line of Postmaster-General; payment of expenses of making injury good (not recoverable summarily), and if the telegraphic communication is carelessly or wilfully interrupted, on summary conviction, daily penalty not exceeding £20, or at the option of the Postmaster-General, a fine not exceeding £50 in lieu of the daily penalty (Telegraph Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 76, ss. 8, 10).

Obstructing telegrams.

Maliciously preventing or obstructing the sending, conveyance, or delivery of any communication by telegraph; misdemeanour, punishable on indictment; or, at option of justices, summarily, with imprisonment with or without hard labour not exceeding three months or fine not exceeding £10 (Malicious Damage Act, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 97, s. 37). Attempt to so obstruct, like penalty (s. 38).

Obstructing Postmaster-General.

Obstructing Postmaster-General or his agents in repairing, &c., telegraph line—Penalty, on summary conviction, not exceeding £10 for every act of obstruction and daily penalty of £10 (Telegraph Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 76, ss. 9, 10).

Contravening privilege of Postmaster-General.

Transmitting, receiving, &c., "a communication or message by telegraph" in contravention of the exclusive privilege conferred on the Postmaster-General—Penalty, on summary conviction, not exceeding £5, and, where the person offending against the section is a servant or hired to do the act complained of, master or employer to be subject to the like penalty (Telegraph Act, 1869, 32 & 33 Vict. c. 73, s. 6). A telephone message is a "communication or message by telegraph" within the meaning of this section (Attorney-General v. Edison Telephone Co., London (1880), 6 Q.B.D. 244). A private telephone wire between a merchant's office and his private house is, under s. 5 of the Telegraph Act, 1869, excepted from the exclusive privilege of the Postmaster-General, but a telephone line connecting two or more separate and distinct persons or businesses is not, and the use of such last-mentioned line is an offence under s. 6 (Postmaster-General v. National Telephone Co., Ltd. (1909), A.C. 269).

Misconduct of servants.

Any person employed by a company authorised by special Act to construct and maintain telegraphs, delaying, &c., message or improperly divulging message—Penalty, on summary conviction, at the prosecution of the Postmaster-General, not exceeding £20 (Telegraph Act, 1863, 26 & 27 Vict. c. 112, s. 45; Telegraph Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. ss. 2, 10).

Any person employed by the Post Office improperly intercepting or divulging telegraphic message—indictable offence, punishable with imprisonment not exceeding twelve months (Telegraph Act, 1868, 31 & Misconduct of servants. 32 Vict. c. 110, s. 20).

<sup>1</sup> The word telegraph covers any instrument which employs electricity transmitted by a wire as a means of communication, and therefore includes telephones (A.-G. v. Edison Telephone Co. (1880), 6 Q.B.D. 244).

Any person employed by a telegraph company (i.e. a company carrying on the business of sending telegrams for the public) improperly divulging purport of telegram—Penalty, on summary conviction, not exceeding £20<sup>1</sup> (Post Office (Protection) Act, 1884, 47 & 48 Vict. c. 76, s. 11).

It would appear that s. 45 of the Telegraph Act, 1863, supra, does not apply to telephone companies registered under the Companies Act, 1862, and not authorised by special Acts to carry on business (Wandsworth B.W. v. United Telephone Co. (1884), 13 Q.B.D. 904); but s. 20 of the Telegraph Act, 1868, and s. 11 of the Post Office Protection Act, 1884, supra, would, it is submitted, apply to telephone messages under the decision in Attorney-General v. Edison Telephone Co., London (1880), 6 Q.B.D. 244, supra.

Forging or altering, &c., a telegram, whether offender had or had not an intent to defraud, misdemeanour—Penalty, on summary conviction, not exceeding £10<sup>1</sup> (Post Office (Protection) Act, 1884, 47 & 48 Vict. c. 76, s. 11). In order to constitute the offence under this section, there must be an intention to deceive the recipient. It would seem that if a telegram is sent in a false name with intent to deceive the recipient, it is immaterial whether the contents are true or false (R. v. Horner (1910), 74 J.P. 216).

The term "postal packet," as used in the Post Office Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 48, includes (s. 89) a telegram; and the various offences set out under "POST OFFICE" with regard to "postal packets," are therefore offences when committed in respect of telegrams.

The Wireless Telegraphy Act, 1904,<sup>2</sup> forbids the establishment, without licence of the Postmaster-General, of a wireless telegraph station in any place or on board a British ship, under a penalty on summary conviction under the Summary Jurisdiction Acts<sup>3</sup> not exceeding £10, or on conviction on indictment fine not exceeding £100 or imprisonment with or without hard labour not exceeding twelve months, with, in either case, forfeiture of apparatus; no proceedings to be taken against any person under this Act except by order of the Postmaster-General, the Admiralty, the Army Council, or the Board of Trade (Wireless Telegraphy Act, 1904, 4 Edw. 7, c. 24, s. 1). A warrant may be granted by a justice of the peace to enter and seize any apparatus used, or intended to be used, for wireless telegraphy, without a licence (ib.).

The working of any apparatus for wireless telegraphy installed on a foreign ship whilst that ship is in territorial waters, otherwise than in accordance with regulations made in that behalf by the Postmaster-General, is forbidden; and the Postmaster-General may, by any such regulations, impose penalties not exceeding £10 for each offence, recoverable summarily, for the breach of any such regulations, and may provide for the forfeiture of apparatus used in breach of such regulations. Save as aforesaid nothing in the Act shall apply to the working apparatus for wireless telegraphy installed on any foreign ship (s. 3).

By the Wireless Telegraphy (Foreign Ships) Regulations, 1908 (June 20, 1908), made in pursuance of the Act, the following regulations are made as regards wireless telegraphy on foreign ships: (1) Communications by wireless telegraphy between a foreign ship in territorial waters and a British station to be made under the rules of the station. (2) The apparatus for wireless telegraphy on board a foreign ship in territorial waters to be

<sup>1</sup> This offence is also indictable.

<sup>2</sup> By the Expiring Laws Continuance Act, 1910, 10 Edw. 7 and 1 Geo. 5, this Act has been continued until Dec. 31, 1911.

<sup>3</sup> As to the meaning of which term, see p. 335.

Wireless telegraphy on foreign ships.

worked so as not to interfere with naval signalling or the working of any wireless telegraphy station lawfully established in the British Islands or the territorial waters abutting on the coast thereof, or messages between wireless telegraphy stations and ships at sea. (3) No wireless telegraphy to be worked on board a foreign ship other than a ship of war in any harbour<sup>1</sup> of the British Islands without written permission of the Postmaster-General; and the use of wireless telegraphy on board a foreign warship in such a harbour to be subject to Admiralty regulations—Penalty, for breach of these regulations (on summary conviction), not exceeding £10. with or without forfeiture of the apparatus installed or worked (6 (1)). For the purposes of any proceedings under these regulations the master or person appearing to be in command or charge of any foreign ship shall be deemed to have authorised and to be responsible for the use and working of any apparatus on board such ship (6 (2)). Any summons or other document in any proceedings under these regulations shall be deemed to have been duly served on the person to whom the same is addressed by being left on board the ship on which the offence is charged to have been committed with the person being or appearing to be in command or charge of the ship (6 (3)). These regulations do not apply to signals of distress (7).

Procedure.

All fines and penalties under any of the Telegraph Acts (which expression includes, inter alia, the Acts of 1863, 1869, 1878, that are mentioned in this Article; see Act of 1878, s. 2), may be recovered by the Postmaster-General in manner provided by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts<sup>2</sup> before a court of summary jurisdiction, and for the purpose of this Act . . . court of summary jurisdiction means as respects Ireland any justice or justices or other magistrate, by whatever name called, having jurisdiction under the Summary Jurisdiction Acts.<sup>3</sup> All fines and penalties recovered in pursuance of any of the Telegraph Acts shall be paid into the Exchequer (Telegraph Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 76, s. 10).

As to indictable offences relating to telegrams, see CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES, under "POST OFFICE."

THEATRES.

Theatres in Dublin, Belfast, and Cork are subject to the provisions of the following statutes:—26 Geo. 3, c. 57 (1); 8 & 9 Vict. c. cxlii. ss. 167, 242; 31 & 32 Vict. c. xxxiii. s. 172. Elsewhere a theatre<sup>3</sup> is not subject to any statutory restrictions, and no licence is required therefor whether as to structure or otherwise.

As to licences for theatres in Dublin, Belfast, and Cork, see p. 117, ante.

As to licences for the sale of intoxicating liquor in theatres or other places of public entertainment, see p. 117.

As to Cinematographs, see Cinematograph Act, 1909, in APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

<sup>1</sup> Harbour, besides harbours proper, includes natural and artificial estuaries, navigable waters, piers, jetties, and other works in or at which ships can obtain shelter and unship goods or passengers (ib., 1).

<sup>2</sup> As to the meaning of which term, see p. 335.

<sup>3</sup> With few exceptions, e.g. obligation to supply urinals, if required by the local authority (Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1907, 7 Edw. 7, c. 53, s. 44), and the provisions as to dangerous and other performances by children.

TIMBER.

The proprietor of any holding for the purchase of which the Land Commission have after 3rd December 1909 made any advance under the Land Purchase Acts, shall not without the consent in writing in the prescribed form of the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction for Ireland, cut down or uproot, or permit to be cut down or uprooted, any tree (other than a fruit tree or osier) upon the holding which is necessary for the ornament or shelter of the holding, and if any such tree is cut down or uprooted in violation of this condition, the proprietor shall be guilty of an offence and shall be liable on summary conviction to a penalty not exceeding £5 for each tree so cut down or uprooted, unless he satisfies the court that he received the prescribed consent (Irish Land Act, 1909, 9 Edw. 7, c. 42, s. 32).

Timber on holdings purchased under Land Purchase Acts.

Where after the 3rd December 1909 a tenant enters into an agreement for the purchase of his holding under the said Acts, the foregoing condition with respect to the cutting and uprooting of trees shall, as from the date of the agreement, apply to the holding in like manner as if the advance had been made, unless and until the application for an advance is refused or withdrawn (s. 32 (2)).

TOBACCO.

The Finance Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 16, s. 3, enables tobacco to be grown and cured in Ireland, upon licence granted for the purpose.

Growing tobacco in Ireland.

“(1) If any manufacturer of tobacco has in his custody or possession fit for sale or tender for drawback, or if any dealer in or retailer of tobacco has in his custody or possession any tobacco containing a greater proportion of oil than 4 per cent., he shall incur an excise penalty of £50 and the tobacco shall be forfeited. (2) In calculating the proportion of oil for the purposes of this section any fatty or oily substance which is naturally present in the tobacco shall be included as oil. (3) In the section the expression fit for sale has the meaning assigned to it by s. 4 of the Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1887” (Oil in Tobacco Act, 1900, 63 & 64 Vict. c. 35, s. 1).

Oil in tobacco.

TOWNS IMPROVEMENT.

	PAGE		PAGE
Scope of Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854 . . . . .	800	Towns Improvements Act, 1854—
Chairman of town commissioners . . . . .	801	Offences in streets ( continued )—
Procedure . . . . .	801	(8) Leaving goods in street . . . . .	808
Incorporation of Towns Improvement Clauses Act . . . . .	802	(9) Placing lines across street . . . . .	808
Names and numbers of streets . . . . .	802	(10) Prostitutes . . . . .	808
Doors . . . . .	803	(11) Indecency . . . . .	808
Projections on houses . . . . .	803	(12) Obscene literature . . . . .	808
Cellar doors . . . . .	803	(13) Discharging firearms . . . . .	808
Ruinous or dangerous buildings . . . . .	803	(14) Ringing door bells . . . . .	808
Precautions during repairs . . . . .	804	(15) Flying kites : cleansing casks : laying stones, &c. . . . .	809
Hoardings . . . . .	804	(16) Shaking rugs : window boxes : throwing rubbish in streets . . . . .	809
Building materials and excavations . . . . .	804	(17) Leaving openings unguarded . . . . .	809
Sale of gunpowder . . . . .	805	(18) Laying dirt . . . . .	809
Slaughter-houses . . . . .	805	(19) Pig-styes . . . . .	809
Towns Improvement Act, 1854—		(20) Drunkenness and indecency . . . . .	809
Offensive trades . . . . .	805	Harbouring constables . . . . .	809
Obstructions to streets during public processions . . . . .	805	Harbouring prostitutes or thieves . . . . .	809
Straying cattle . . . . .	805	Baiting animals . . . . .	810
Offences in streets—		Swindlers . . . . .	810
(1) Exposing for sale : public shows . . . . .	807	Hackney carriages . . . . .	810
(2) Dangerous dogs . . . . .	807	Towns Police Clauses Acts, 1847 and 1889 . . . . .	810
(3) Slaughtering animals . . . . .	807	Constables . . . . .	810
(4) Offences as to driving . . . . .	807	Traffic regulations . . . . .	810
(5) Obstruction by vehicles . . . . .	807	Procedure . . . . .	810
(6) Timber on carts . . . . .	808
(7) Leading or driving cart or horse on footway . . . . .	808

Scope of the Towns Improvement Act, 1854.

The Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 103, though a public and general statute, affects only towns in which the provisions of the Act have been applied by the Local Government Board for Ireland. There are at present one hundred and five towns under the Act, namely : Antrim, Ardee, Arklow, Armagh, Athlone, Athy, Aughnacloy, Bagenalstown, Balbriggan, Ballina, Ballinasloe, Ballybay, Ballyclare, Ballymena, Ballymoney, Ballyshannon, Banbridge, Bandon, Bangor, Bantry, Belturbet, Birr, Boyle, Callan, Carlow, Carrickfergus, Carrickmacross, Carrick-on-Suir, Cashel, Castlebar, Castleblayney, Cavan, Clonakilty, Clones, Coleraine, Cookstown, Cootehill, Donaghadee, Downpatrick, Dromore, Dundalk, Dungannon, Dungarvan, Edenderry, Ennis, Enniscorthy, Fermoy, Fethard, Gilford, Gorey, Granard, Holywood, Keady, Kells, Killarney, Killiney and Ballybrack, Kilkee, Kilrush, Kinsale, Larne, Letterkenny, Limavady, Lisburn, Lismore, Listowel, Longford, Loughrea, Lurgan, Macroon, Mallow, Maryborough, Middleton, Monaghan, Mountmellick, Mullingar, Naas, Navan, Nenagh, Newbridge, Newcastle (Limerick), Newcastle (Down), New Ross, Newtownards, Omagh, Portadown, Portrush, Queenstown, Rathkeale, Roscommon, Skibbereen, Strabane, Tanderagee, Templemore, Thurles, Tipperary, Tralee, Trim, Tuam, Tullamore, Tullow, Warrenpoint, Westport, Wexford, Wicklow, Youghal. Those towns italicised are urban districts. The Act does not apply to Dublin, Cork, Limerick, Londonderry, or Belfast. The Act can only be applied to a town as defined by s. 1, that is, "a city, town corporate, borough, market-town, or other town in Ireland containing a population of 1500 inhabitants or upwards" according to the last census. A district comprising four or five rural townlands and a few hundred acres of slob lands and having a scattered population of 1108 inhabitants is not a town to which the Act can be applied (R. (Dixon) v. Local Government Board (1878), 2 L.R.I. 316). The provision as to a population of 1500 only applies to a town which is not a town corporate, or a borough or market-town (ib., per Fitzgerald, B., at p. 318).

The chairman of the town commissioners is ex officio a justice of the peace for the town during his term of office (Local Government (Ir.) Act, 1898, s. 26). Chairman of town commissioners.

His jurisdiction, however, is confined to offences against s. 72 of the Act and to charges of drunkenness (see p. 2, ante); and the law advisers in 1876 advised that a justice under the Act "cannot take declarations or do any magisterial act not necessary for the purposes of that Act."

The following is an epitome of the provisions as to procedure contained in ss. 90, 91, 92, 95 of the Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854. Procedure.

Any damages, costs, or expenses directed by the Act to be ascertained or recovered summarily, may be ascertained or recovered before one or more justices, together with such costs of proceedings as the justice or justices may think proper, and on default in payment of the sums adjudged, the same may be levied by distress and sale on warrant under the hands and seals of the justices making the adjudication. Any penalty imposed by the Act or any bye-law thereunder, the recovery of which is not otherwise provided for, may be recovered before one or more justices with such costs as the justices may think proper, and if the sums so adjudged be not paid, the same may be levied by distress and sale under warrant under the hands and seals of the justices making the adjudication. The justice or justices may order an offender convicted as last aforesaid to be detained in custody until return can be made to the warrant, unless he give security by way of recognisance or otherwise for appearance on the day appointed for return, such day not being more than eight days from the taking of the security. If before issue of the warrant, or on return thereto, the justices are satisfied that no sufficient distress can be had within their jurisdiction, the offender may be committed to gaol under warrant, to remain without bail for a term not exceeding three months unless such penalty and costs be sooner paid (Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, s. 90). The term of imprisonment is, however, now subject to the Small Penalties (Ir.) Act, 1873, noted p. 64, ante, and verbatim in APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

Damages, and recovery of penalties.
Recovery of penalties, &c.
Distress.
Imprisonment in default.

Where no mode of procedure is specially prescribed by the Act any one justice may summon the party charged to appear. Upon appearance or proof of service of the summons either personally or by leaving a copy at the defendant's last known place of abode or business, the matter is to be heard and determined, parties and witnesses to be examined on oath. Costs are in the discretion of the justices. Convictions drawn up in the form provided by the Act, or to the like effect, to be valid and effectual. Commissioners who are justices may exercise the jurisdiction given to justices by the Act (Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, s. 91).

No person other than the party grieved or the commissioners shall take proceedings to recover penalties under the Act without the consent of the Attorney-General. Proceedings to be taken within six months from the commission of the offence. One half of the penalty to go to the informer and the other to the commissioners, save where the latter are informers, when the whole penalty goes to them. Notwithstanding liability to penalty under the Act, a person shall not be relieved from any liability to which he would have been subject if the Act had not been passed (s. 92).

The expression "party grieved" is not a legal term, but a term in popular language. "The party grieved must be a person who has sustained a legal loss or liability by an act done in respect of which the penalty is given" (per Lush, L.J., in Robinson v. Currey (1881), 7 Q.B.D. 465, at p. 475). There must be some private and particular grief (Boyce v. Higgins (1853), 14 C.B. 1; Hollis v. Marshall (1857), 2 H. & N. 755). There cannot be a "grief" where the party assents to the act complained of (Harrop v. Bayley (1856), 6 El. & Bl. 218).

Party grieved.

Procedure.

Drunkenness.

But, having regard to s. 51 of the Licensing Act, 1872 (noted p. 579, ante; see also p. 44), a constable can prosecute in a charge of drunkenness as a common informer, though the consent of the Attorney-General has not been obtained (Cassidy v. Moore (1876), I.R. 10 C.L. 216; Stevenson v. O'Neill (1877), I.R. 11 C.L. 134; Coulter v. Martin (1879), I.R. 11 C.L. 477). Where a constable so prosecutes, half the penalty is payable to him as informer, and the other half to the commissioners (ib.).

Summons, stamps, and service.

When a case is brought to the town court, the use of petty sessions stamps is not required; the summons must be served by the summons server, and not by the police (Circular, No. 99).

Appeal.

Any person thinking himself aggrieved, where the penalty imposed or sum adjudged exceeds £1, may appeal to the next quarter sessions of the division, giving notice within fourteen days to the clerk of the commissioners and to the justice or justices appealed from, stating the intention to appeal, and the ground of appeal. The court of appeal may award costs against either party, and its decision is to be final and conclusive. Where there is no time to give the requisite notice for the next ensuing quarter sessions, notice is to be given for the next sessions but one. No grounds of appeal, other than those set out in the notice, can be gone into on appeal (s. 93).

There is no appeal from an acquittal (R. (Kane) v. Tyrone JJ. (1906), 40 I.L.T.R. 181; R. v. London JJ. (1890), 25 Q.B.D. 357; Stokes v. Mitcheson (1902), 1 K.B. 857). The time for appealing runs from the date at which the decision was pronounced (R. v. Barnett (1876), 1 Q.B.D. 558). The party appealed against is the real party interested, and not the justices, against whom costs cannot be given by the court of quarter sessions (R. v. Hants JJ. (1830), 1 B. & Ad. 654; R. v. Davidson (1871), 24 L.T. 22; R. v. Goodall (1874), L.R. 9 Q.B. 557).<sup>1</sup>

Evidence of adoption of Act.

It has been held that it is not necessary in prosecutions under the Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, s. 50, to produce a copy of the Dublin Gazette containing a notice of the adoption of the Act in the district, and that the justices may act upon the petty sessions book containing records of previous convictions under the statute (Leahy v. Reddy (1895), 1 I.W.L.R. 139).

Incorporation of Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847.

The Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, by ss. 38, 39 incorporates ss. 64-74 and 75-83 of the Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847, 10 & 11 Vict. c. 34.

Names and numbers of streets.

Destroying or altering name of street—Penalty, not exceeding 40s. (Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847, s. 64). For the same offence there is a like penalty under the Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1907, 7 Edw. 7, c. 53, s. 21 (p. 745, ante). Occupiers of houses and buildings in streets required to number houses. Failure to comply within one week from notice by the commissioners—Penalty, not exceeding 40s. (Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847, s. 65).

In Anderson v. Mayor of Dublin (1885), 15 L.R.I. 410, it was held that the local authority could not, arbitrarily, at all events, change the name of an existing street. Now, by the Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1907, 7 Edw. 7, c. 53, s. 21 (noted ante, p. 745), the local authority<sup>2</sup>

<sup>1</sup> This paragraph applies to appeals generally as well as to those under the Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854.

<sup>2</sup> Meaning an urban sanitary authority, an urban district council, or a rural district council may, with the consent of two-thirds in number and value of the rate-payers in any street, alter the name of such street or any part of said street. Where a landlord had laid out a new street and called it by a certain name and the local authority shortly afterwards put up a different name on the street which was defaced by the landlord, the latter was held rightly convicted under s. 64 of the Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847 (Collins v. Hornsey Urban Council (1901), 1 K.B. 180).

Incorporation of Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847.

Doors not to open outwards, except in the case of public buildings when allowed by the commissioners—Penalty, for neglect to alter within eight days of notice, not exceeding 40s., commissioners to make alteration and recover expenses (Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847, s. 71).

Doors.

Commissioners may give notice to occupier of building to remove or alter obstruction or projection erected after the passing of the special Act against or in front of any house or building within the limits of the special Act<sup>1</sup> and which is an obstruction to the safe and convenient passage along the street—Penalty, on failure to remove within fourteen days, not exceeding 40s. (s. 69).

Projections on houses.

Under a local Act forbidding projections to be made over or upon the pavement of any street except for shop fronts or for doorways, an oriel window of stone work, 14 or 15 feet above the footway, not interfering with the free use of the footway, was held not to be a projection to which the enactment applied (Goldstraw v. Duckworth (1880), 5 Q.B.D. 275). "The magistrate was right in thinking that the section is not intended to secure the free passage of light and air, but to secure the free passage of the public along the pavement" (ib., per Lush, J.; see also Pigott v. Goldstraw (1901), 19 Cox 621). Actual obstruction, however, need not be shown if the projection is calculated to obstruct safe and convenient passage (see Dawson v. Mackay (1904), 38 I.L.T.R. 163).

As to the words "against or in front of," see Le Neve v. Mile End Vestry (1857), 27 L.J.Q.B. 208, and Wilson v. Cunliffe (1876), 38 J.P. 251. As to the meaning of the word "street," see notes to s. 72 of the Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854 (post, p. 805).

The justices are not bound to accept the opinions of witnesses who are called to prove they have not been inconvenienced (Read v. Perrett (1876), 1 Ex. D. 349; see also Gabriel v. Vestry of St. James (1859), 23 J.P. 372).

Occupier of vault or cellar to make and maintain door or covering over same—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847, s. 73).

Cellar doors.

Buildings that are ruinous or dangerous to passengers or occupiers of neighbouring buildings to be taken down or secured, upon notice to the owner, if he be known and resident within the limits of the special Act,<sup>1</sup> otherwise upon notice to be posted on the premises or given to the occupier; on failure justices may order the owner or, in his default, the occupier, to take down, rebuild, repair, or otherwise secure the dangerous structure to the satisfaction of the surveyor within a time fixed; if order not complied with, or no owner or occupier can be found, commissioners may do the work, and expenses shall be paid by owner (Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847, s. 75), and may be levied by distress on warrant (s. 76); but if the owner cannot be found within the limits, or distress cannot be made, the commissioners, within twenty-eight days from the posting of a notice on the building, and provided the expenses be not tendered within the twenty-eight days, may take the building or land, making compensation to the owner under the Land Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, after deducting the expenses from the compensation (ss. 77, 78).

Ruinous or dangerous buildings.

Under s. 75 an order may be made against the owner of a building which, though not dangerous to persons actually in a neighbouring

"Dangerous."

<sup>1</sup> That is to say, the Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854.

Incorporation of Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847. building, is dangerous to persons who may be in the garden, &c., of a neighbouring building (Mellor v. Warden (1896), 40 S.J. 567).

"Owner." "Owner" is defined by s. 1 of the Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, as "the person for the time being entitled to receive, or who, if the lands and premises were let to a tenant at a rack rent, would be entitled to receive, the rack rent from the occupier thereof"; and "rack rent" is defined as "rent which is not less than two-thirds of the full net annual value of the property out of which the rent arises"; and "the full net annual value" (save as regards any valuation for poor rates or valuation for assessments under the Act) is "to be taken to be the rent at which the property ought reasonably to be expected to let from year to year free from all quit rent, head rent, ground rent, and usual tenant's rates and taxes and deducting therefrom the probable annual cost of the repairs, insurance, and other expenses (if any) necessary to maintain the same in a state to command such rent." It would seem that the incumbent of a church is not an "owner," so as to make him liable under this section (R. v. Lee (1878), 4 Q.B.D. 75).

Precautions during repairs. The commissioners, during the construction or repair of any of the streets vested in them . . . and of any sewers or drains, shall cause . . . bars or chains to be fixed across or in any of the streets . . . and shall cause any sewer or drain or other works during the construction or repair thereof by them to be lighted and guarded during the night so as to prevent accidents—Penalty, for removing bars or chains or extinguishing lights, not exceeding £5 (Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847, s. 79).

Hoardings. Where any street or footway will be obstructed or rendered inconvenient by building or repairing, a hoarding is to be put up and maintained with a convenient platform or rail, if there be room enough, to serve as a footway for passengers, during such time as the public safety or convenience requires, and shall, where necessary, be sufficiently lighted during the night—Penalty, for default under these provisions, or for failure to remove hoarding within reasonable time, not exceeding £5, and daily penalty not exceeding 40s. (Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847, s. 80).

Where Part III. of the Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1890, 53 & 54 Vict. c. 59, applies (as to which see p. 733, ante), the provisions of s. 34 of the latter Act, noted p. 738, ante, replace the provisions of s. 80 of the Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847.<sup>1</sup>

Fencing of building materials and excavations. When building materials, &c., are laid, or any hole is made in any street, whether by order of the commissioners or not, the person causing <sup>1</sup> "Where, under any power vested in them by any local or general Act, any corporation, board, vestry, urban sanitary or other authority shall grant a licence for the temporary erection of any hoard, gantry, scaffold, or other structure upon or over any part of any public highway, or upon or over any lands or hereditaments the property of such corporation, board, vestry, sanitary or other authority, such corporation, board, vestry, sanitary or other authority may include in such licence a condition or conditions prohibiting the affixing of any advertisement to any such hoard, gantry, scaffold, or other structure, or sanctioning the affixing of advertisements thereto upon payment of such sum and on such conditions as the corporation, board, vestry, sanitary or other authority granting the licence may determine. And any person using any such hoard, gantry, scaffold, or other structure otherwise than as permitted by such licence shall for every offence be liable to a penalty not exceeding £5, and a further sum not exceeding 40s. for every day during which such offence shall be continued after notice in writing to discontinue such use shall have been given to such person by such corporation, board, vestry, sanitary or other authority, which penalties may be recovered in a summary way by such corporation, board, vestry, sanitary or other authority" (Advertising Stations (Rating) Act, 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 27, s. 5). This statute provides for the rating of lands used for advertisements.

such materials or other things to be so laid or such hole to be made shall cause same to be lighted, fenced, and enclosed—Penalty, not exceeding £5, and daily penalty not exceeding 40s. (Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847, s. 81). Building materials, &c., not to remain for unnecessary time—Penalty, not exceeding £5, and daily penalty not exceeding 40s. (s. 82). Commissioners to fence buildings and holes near a street which are dangerous to passengers (s. 83). As to civil liability, see Wilson v. Mayor of Halifax (1868), L.R. 3 Ex. 114.

Incorporation of Towns Improvement Clauses Act. 1847.

As to sale of gunpowder, see EXPLOSIVES.

Sections 125–131, relating to slaughter-houses, of the Towns Improvement Clauses Act, 1847, 10 & 11 Vict. c. 34, which are incorporated by the Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 105, s. 47, are also incorporated with the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878. See PUBLIC HEALTH, p. 718, ante. See also ss. 29, 30, 31 of the Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1890, noted ante, p. 737, and which are applicable where that statute has been applied (as to which, see p. 733, ante).

Sale of gunpowder. Slaughter-houses.

The business of a blood boiler, bone boiler, slaughterer of cattle, horses or animals of any description, soap boiler, tallow melter, tripe boiler, or other noxious or offensive business, trade or manufacture, shall not be newly established in any building or place within the town without the consent of the commissioners—Penalty, not exceeding £20, and daily penalty not exceeding 40s. (Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, s. 50). Power to commissioners to make bye-laws (ib.). As to what are offensive trades, see PUBLIC HEALTH, p. 722, ante.

Towns Improvement Act, 1854. Offensive trades.

The commissioners may from time to time make orders for the route to be observed by all carts, carriages, horses, and persons, and for preventing obstruction of the streets of the town, in all times of public processions, rejoicing, or illuminations, and in any case when the streets are thronged or liable to be obstructed, and may also give directions to the constables and officers of the constabulary force for keeping order and preventing any obstruction of the streets in the neighbourhood of theatres and other places of public resort—Penalty, for wilful breach of any such order, not exceeding 40s. (Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, s. 70).

Obstructions to streets during public processions.

As to straying cattle, see CATTLE STRAYING OR TRESPASSING, p. 392, ante.

Straying cattle.

Section 72 of the Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, deals with a large number of offences and nuisances. The governing clause of the section and the several offences comprised in the section are separately treated below. The offences are epitomised from the Act, as the section is somewhat lengthy.

Street offences under s. 72.

“Every person who in any street, to the obstruction, annoyance, or danger of the residents or passengers, commits any of the following offences shall be liable to a penalty for each offence as hereinafter mentioned, and any constable or other officer appointed by virtue of this Act shall take into custody without warrant and forthwith convey before a justice or justices any person who within his view commits any such offence” (Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, s. 72).

Section 72.

This section is similar to s. 28 of the Towns Police Clauses Act, 1847, 10 & 11 Vict. c. 89, decisions on which are included in the authorities given in this note and the succeeding notes on the section.

The opening clause of s. 72 governs and controls every subsequent part of it (Stevenson v. O'Neill (1877), I.R. 11 C.L. 134, at p. 140, per Palles, C.B.), so that it is essential that the offence should be committed in a “street” and done to the obstruction, annoyance, or danger of residents or passengers (Stevenson v. O'Neill, supra; Nixon v. Rodgers (1869), I.R. 3 C.L. 614, per FitzGerald, B., at p. 619).

General operation of s. 72.

“Street” is defined by s. 1 of the Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, “Street.”

Towns Improvement
Act, 1854.
Street
offences
under s. 72.

1854, as extending to and including "any road, bridge, lane, square, court, alley, and thoroughfare or public passage."<sup>1</sup> "An interpretation clause of this kind is not meant to prevent the word receiving its ordinary, popular, and natural sense whenever that would be properly applicable" (Robinson v. Barton Local Board (1883), 8 A.C. 798, per Lord Selborne, at p. 801). "Street" in its ordinary sense refers to a roadway with buildings on either side (ib.: Mayor of Portsmouth v. Smith (1885), 10 A.C. 364, at p. 368, per Lord Blackburn), or with houses on one side (Taylor v. Corporation of Oldham (1876), 4 C.D. 395, per Jessel, M.R., at p. 408), or sites for houses (Mayor of Portsmouth v. Smith, supra), but there must be some contiguity (ib.: R. v. Fullford (1864), 9 Cox 453). A "street" does not embrace any place over which the public have no right of passage<sup>2</sup> (Curtis v. Embery (1872), L.R. 7 Ex. 369). In Hitchman v. Watt (1894), 58 J.P. 720, where under a statutory power a space was added to the footway in the rebuilding of houses fronting the street, it was held that the added portion was not part of the street; and in R. v. Wigan J.J. (1879), 43 J.P. 220, where a shopkeeper had for a lengthy period used for exposing his wares a cobbled strip lying between the shop front and the footway bounding the carriage road, it was held that the cobbled strip did not form portion of the highway. In Vestry of Chelsea v. Stoddart (1879), 43 J.P. 782 (a case decided on the Metropolitan Management Act, 1855), it was held that a mews in which the public had a right of passage for the purpose of using it as a mews, was not a "street" within the meaning of the Act. But an open square in front of, and let with, a hotel, over which the public passed freely for years except when the hotel proprietors' carriages stopped there, was held to be a street within the Town Police Clauses Act, 1847 (Marks v. Ford (1881), 45 J.P. 157). Cf. HIGHWAY, p. 524, ante.

Where Part IX. of the Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1907, has been applied (as to which see p. 742), a place of public resort or recreation ground belonging to, or under the control of, the local authority, and any unfenced ground adjoining or abutting upon any street in an urban district, shall be deemed to be a street for the purposes of so much of s. 72 of the Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, as relates to the offences mentioned in s. 81 of the Public Health Acts Amendment Act, 1907.<sup>3</sup>

"Obstruction, annoyance, or danger."

The offence must be to the obstruction, annoyance, or danger of residents or passengers and must be averred so to be in the summons and conviction (R. (Bunting) v. Antrim J.J. (1905), 39 I.L.T.R. 82). It is not necessary to show actual obstruction, &c., if the matters complained of are calculated to obstruct, &c. (see R. (Collins) v. Fermanagh J.J. (1883), 14 L.R.I. 50, in which goods were placed on a footpath; M-Kee v. Magrath (1892), 30 L.R.I. 41, in which the obstruction consisted of riding a bicycle on a footpath, both decided on the construction of s. 3 of the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1851). Where a shopkeeper used a signboard projecting into the street and was summoned under the Metropolitan Police Act, 1839, 2 & 3 Vict. c. 47, s. 60 (which forbids obstructions by projections from shop fronts), and the existence of the projection was not denied, the conviction was upheld, although the magistrate refused to hear witnesses to prove that they personally had not been incommoded (Read v. Perrett (1876), 1 Ex. D. 349).

A defendant was held rightly convicted of using obscene language to the annoyance of the inhabitants or passengers, though the words were spoken in the defendant's house, the door being open, and there was no evidence of annoyance save that of two constables in the street (Brabham v. Wookey (1901), 18 T.L.R. 99; see also Woolley v. Corbishley (1860), 24 J.P. 773). Under a bye-law which prohibited the making of any noise to the annoyance of inhabitants, a conviction was upheld though there was evidence of annoyance only to one person (Innes v. Newman (1894), 2 Q.B. 292). In Allen v. Baldock (1867), 31 J.P. 311, where the defendant was summoned for cleaning a car to the annoyance of passengers contrary to the provisions of 2 & 3 Vict. c. 47, s. 54, Cockburn, C.J., held it was necessary to prove some annoyance in fact or something necessarily calculated to be an annoyance. In Strickland v. Hayes (1896), 1 Q.B. 290, Lindley, J., held that a bye-law which prohibited the saying or reciting of profane or obscene ballads, was bad, as it did not provide that the acts should be done so as to cause annoyance; but this case was adversely commented on in Mantle v. Jordan (1897), 1 Q.B. 248 (see also Kruse v. Johnson (1898), 2 Q.B. 91, and other cases noted, p. 337 et seq., ante).

<sup>1</sup> This definition is the same as that given by the Towns Police Clauses Act, 1847, s. 3, except that in the latter Act the words "bridge" and "lane" are omitted.

<sup>2</sup> It is otherwise under the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878. See s. 2 of that Act under PUBLIC HEALTH, noted p. 700, ante.

<sup>3</sup> Noted ante, p. 759.

Towns Improvement Act, 1854.
Street offences under s. 72.

The following are the offences in the street mentioned in s. 72 of the Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854.

Every person who exposes for show, hire, or sale (except in a market, or market-place, or fair lawfully appointed for that purpose) any horse or other animal; or exhibits in a caravan or otherwise any show or public entertainment; or shoes, bleeds, or farries any horse or animal (except in cases of accident); or cleans, dresses, trains, or breaks, or turns loose any horse or animal; or makes or repairs any part of any cart or carriage (except in cases of accident where repair on the spot is necessary)—Penalty, not exceeding 10s.

Exposing for sale: public shows.

As to dangerous dogs, see Dogs, p. 422.

Every person who slaughters or dresses any cattle, except in the case of any cattle overdriven which may have met with any accident, and which for the public safety, &c., ought to be killed on the spot—Penalty, not exceeding 10s.<sup>1</sup>

Dangerous dogs.
Slaughtering animals.

Every person having the care of any waggon, cart, or carriage, who rides on the shafts; or who, without having and holding reins, rides upon such waggon, cart, or carriage, or on the animal drawing the same; or who is at such a distance as not to have due control over every animal drawing the same; or who does not keep to the left or near side; or who in passing any other carriage does not keep to the right or off side of the road (except in cases of actual necessity or some sufficient reason for deviation); or who, by obstructing the street, wilfully prevents any person or carriage from passing him—Penalty, not exceeding 10s.

Offences as to driving.

Every person who at one time drives more than two carts, and every person driving two carts or waggons, who has not the halter of the horse in the last cart or waggon securely fastened to the back of the first cart or waggon, or has such halter of a greater length than four feet from such fastening to the horse's head—Penalty, not exceeding 10s.

Every person who rides or drives furiously any horse, carriage,<sup>2</sup> or cattle—Penalty, not exceeding 20s.

Every person who causes any public carriage, barrow, &c., or any beast of burden, to stand longer than is necessary for loading or unloading goods, or for taking up or setting down passengers; and every person who, by means of any cart, or barrow, or any animal or other

Obstruction by vehicles.

<sup>1</sup> See also the Injured Animals Act, 1894, 57 & 58 Vict. c. 22, under ANIMALS, CRUELTY TO, p. 363, ante.

<sup>2</sup> A bicycle is a carriage (Taylor v. Goodwin (1879), 4 Q.B.D. 228; M'Kee v. Magrath (1892), 30 L.R.I. 41).

Towns Improvement Act, 1854.

Street offences under s. 72.

Timber on carts.

Leading or riding horse or cart on footway.

Leaving goods in street.

means, wilfully interrupts any public crossing or other public thoroughfare—Penalty, not exceeding 20s.<sup>1</sup>

Every person who causes any tree or timber, or iron beam, to be drawn in or upon any carriage, without having sufficient means of safely guiding the same—Penalty, not exceeding 20s.

Every person who leads or rides any horse or other animal, or draws or drives any cart, or barrow, &c., upon any footway of any street, or fastens any horse or other animal so that it stands across or upon any footway—Penalty, not exceeding 20s.

Every person who places or leaves any furniture, goods, wares, or merchandise, or any cask, tub, basket, pail or bucket, or places or uses any standing place, store, bench, stall, or showboard on any footway, or who places any blind, shade, covering, awning, or other projection over and along such footway, unless such blind, &c., is 8 feet in height at least in every part from the ground—Penalty, not exceeding 20s. Every person who places, hangs up,<sup>2</sup> or otherwise exposes to sale any goods, wares, merchandise, matter, or thing whatsoever so that the same projects into or over the footway, or beyond the line of any house, shop, or building at which the same are so exposed, so as to obstruct or incommode the passage of any person over or along such footway—Penalty, not exceeding 20s.

Every person who rolls or carries any cask, tub, hoop, or wheel, or any ladder, plant, pole, timber, or log of wood upon any footway, except for the purpose of loading or unloading any cart or carriage or of crossing the footway<sup>3</sup>—Penalty, not exceeding 20s.

Placing lines across street.

Every person who places any line, cord, or pole across any street or hangs or places any clothes thereon—Penalty, not exceeding 20s.

Prostitutes.

Every common prostitute or night walker loitering and importuning passengers for the purpose of prostitution or being otherwise offensive—Penalty, not exceeding 40s.<sup>4</sup>

Indecency.

Every person who wilfully and indecently exposes his person or who commits any act contrary to public decency—Penalty, not exceeding 40s.

Obscene literature.

Every person who publicly offers for sale or distributes or exhibits to the public view any profane, indecent, or obscene book, paper, print, drawing, painting or representation, or sings any profane or obscene song or ballad—Penalty, not exceeding 40s. See also ADVERTISEMENTS, p. 352, ante.

Discharging firearms.

Every person who wantonly discharges any firearm, or throws or discharges any stone or other missile, or makes any bonfire, or throws or sets fire to any firework—Penalty, not exceeding 10s.

Ring door bell: extinguishing lamp.

Every person who wilfully and wantonly disturbs any inhabitant by pulling or ringing any door bell or knocking at any door, or who wilfully and unlawfully extinguishes the light of any lamp<sup>5</sup>—Penalty, not exceeding 40s.

Every person who flies any kite or makes or uses any slide upon ice or snow. Every person who cleanses, hoops, fixes, washes, or scalds any <sup>1</sup> Attracting a crowd by selling goods by auction from a hawker's caravan in a market-place about three feet from the paved street is not an offence within this section (Ball v. Ward (1876), 33 L.T. 170), nor is standing or walking abreast on the footway so that passengers are forced to go off the footway into the road necessarily an offence under the section (R. v. Long (1888), 16 Cox 442; R. v. Williams (1891), 55 J.P. 406), but those acts would be obstructions to the highway. As to what is a reasonable use of the highway, see p. 525.

<sup>2</sup> Similar words in s. 65 of the Metropolitan Paving Act, 1817, 37 Geo. 3, c. xxix., have been held to refer only to things temporarily hung out and removable (Winsborrow v. London Joint Stock Bank (1903), 20 Cox 478).

<sup>3</sup> As to obstructing highway, see cases noted HIGHWAYS, p. 525.

<sup>4</sup> See also VAGRANCY.

<sup>5</sup> The knocking must be wanton, i.e. without due cause. The mere fact of being employed to deliver papers at a house is no excuse for knocking there at unreasonable hours (Clarke v. Hoggins (1862), 11 C.B. (N.S.) 545).

cask or tub, or hews, saws, bores, or cuts any timber or stone, or slacks, sifts, or screens any lime. Every person who throws or lays down any stones, coals, slate, shells, lime, bricks, timber, iron, or other materials (except building materials) so enclosed as to prevent mischief to passengers—Penalty, not exceeding 10s.

Every person who beats or shakes any carpet, rug, or mat (except rugs or mats beaten or shaken before 9 A.M.); every person who fixes or places any flower-pot or box or other heavy article in any window without sufficiently guarding the same against being blown down; every person who throws down from the roof or any part of the house or other building any slate, brick, wood, rubbish, or other thing, except snow thrown down so as not to fall on any passenger—Penalty, not exceeding 10s.

Every person who leaves open any vault or cellar, or the entrance from any street to any cellar or room underground, without sufficient fence or handrail, or leaves defective the covering of any vault, cellar, or area, or does not sufficiently fence or light after sunset any area, pit, or sewer left open—Penalty, not exceeding 10s.

Every person who throws or lays any dirt, dung, litter, ashes, night soil, carrion, fish, offal, or rubbish in any street, sea-beach, or strand within the boundaries of the town, or causes any offensive matter to run from any manufactory, brewery, slaughter-house, butcher's shop, or dunghill into any street—Penalty, not exceeding 10s. Laying sand in streets during frost to prevent accidents, or litter in case of sickness, is excepted from this provision.

Every person who keeps to the front of any street any pig-stye not shut out from such street by a sufficient wall or fence, or who keeps swine in or near any street so as to be a common nuisance—Penalty, not exceeding 40s.

Every person drunk in any street or guilty of any riotous or indecent behaviour in any street, police office, or petty sessions court or any police station-house within the town—Penalty, not exceeding 40s., or imprisonment not exceeding seven days.<sup>1</sup>

In Nixon v. Rodgers (1869), I.R. 3 C.L. 614, it was held (FitzGerald, B., diss.) that words alone do not constitute "behaviour" under this section; but in Re Hogan (1879), 13 I.L.T.R. 96, a conviction under this section for using indecent words of the complainant before his house was upheld. It is doubtful whether the word "bloody" is of such a character that a person using it abusively is guilty of indecent behaviour (Russon v. Dutton (No. 1) (1911), 27 T.L.R. 197).

Every victualler or keeper of any public house or person licensed to sell fermented or distilled liquors by retail to be drunk or consumed on the premises within the town who harbours or entertains in his public house or place of business any constable being on duty unless for the purpose of quelling any disturbance or restoring order—Penalty, not exceeding 20s. (Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, s. 74).

Every person keeping any place of public resort within the town for the sale or consumption of refreshments of any kind who knowingly suffers common prostitutes or reputed thieves to assemble and continue in his premises—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (ib.).

In Murphy v. Ahern (1869), I.R. 3 C.L. 586, decided on similar words in the Dublin Police Act, 5 Vict. c. 24, s. 7, it was held that the magistrate must find as a fact that the prostitutes were on the premises in the course of their vocation as prostitutes, or in furtherance of it, and that it was not sufficient to show that the women were prostitutes, and remained

Towns Improvement Act, 1854.

Street offences under s. 72.

Flying kites: cleansing casks: laying stones, &c.

Shaking rugs: dangerous window boxes: throwing rubbish into streets.

Leaving openings in streets unguarded.

Laying dirt in streets.

Pig-styes.

Drunkenness and indecency.

Harbouring constables.

Harbouring prostitutes or thieves.

<sup>1</sup> See 37 & 38 Vict. c. 69, s. 30, by which jurisdiction over offences under s. 12 of the Licensing Act, 1872. 35 & 36 Vict. c. 92, is given to the persons empowered to act as justices by the Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, or any Act incorporating the same, and see INTOXICATING LIQUORS.

- Towns Improvement Act, 1854. longer than was necessary for the consumption of refreshment, and that such assembly was likely to result in breaches of morality.
See also INTOXICATING LIQUORS, p. 555, and PREVENTION OF CRIME.
- Baiting animals. As to s. 75, dealing with the baiting of animals, of the Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, see ANIMALS, CRUELTY TO, p. 360, ante.
- Swindlers. "All thimblers, loaded-dice players, and other swindlers of that or any similar description who shall be found in possession of implements or articles for practising games of hazard, or who shall exhibit such implements or articles in order to induce or who shall induce any person to play at any game of hazard or who by any fraudulent art or device shall cozen, cheat, or attempt to cozen or cheat any person"—Penalty, imprisonment not exceeding thirty days and restoration of money or property obtained by means of any such offence, and in default of such restoration a further term not exceeding thirty days (Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, s. 76).
- Hackney carriages. "Every wheeled carriage, whatever may be its form or construction, used in standing or plying for hire in any street within four miles from the post office of the town, and every carriage standing upon any street within such distance having thereon any numbered plate required by this Act to be fixed upon a hackney carriage, or having thereon any plate resembling or intended to resemble any such plate as aforesaid, shall be deemed to be a hackney carriage within the meaning of this Act. . . . Provided that no stage coach used for the purpose of standing or plying for passengers to be carried for hire at separate fares and duly licensed for that purpose and having thereon the proper numbered plates required by law . . . shall be deemed to be a hackney carriage within the meaning of this Act" (Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, s. 78).
- As to licences, plying for hire without licence, misbehaviour of drivers, offences by passengers, &c., dealt with under the above section, see HIGHWAYS, ante, p. 528, where the authorities are collected.
- Towns Police Clauses Acts. The Towns Police Clauses Act, 1847, which is amended by the Towns Police Clauses Act, 1889. 52 & 53 Vict. c. 14, applies only to towns where it has been applied by a special Act. The greater number of offences punishable on summary conviction under the Towns Police Clauses Acts are dealt with by corresponding sections of the Towns Improvement (Ir.) Act, 1854, and therefore only the following offences under the Act of 1847 need be referred to.
- Constables. Unlawful possession of accoutrements, or assumption of dress, name, or character, of a town constable for any unlawful purpose—Penalty, not exceeding £10: the penalty to be in addition to any other punishment to which the offender is liable (Towns Police Clauses Act, 1847, 10 & 11 Vict. c. 89, s. 12). Neglect or violation of duty as a town constable—Penalty, not exceeding £10 (s. 16). Assaulting, or resisting, or aiding in assaulting or resisting a town constable in execution of his duty—Penalty, not exceeding £5, or imprisonment with or without hard labour not exceeding one month (s. 20).
- Regulation of traffic. Commissioners are empowered to make orders for regulating traffic during processions or times when the streets are liable to be crowded and in neighbourhood of places of public resort, and also for regulating route of carriages or cattle, or the manner of driving the same, in the neighbourhood of places of worship on Sunday, Christmas Day, Good Friday, or other fast or feast day—Penalty, not exceeding 40s. for a wilful breach of the order (ss. 21, 22).
- Procedure. The clauses of the Railway Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845, with respect to the recovery of damages not specially provided for and penalties, and to the determination of any matter referred to justices, are incorporated (s. 73). As to those clauses, see RAILWAYS, p. 772, ante.

TRADE BOARDS.

See the Trade Boards Act, 1909, 9 Edw. 7. c. 22, in APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

TRADE UNIONS.

	PAGE		PAGE
Trade Union Acts . . . . .	811	Offences as to trade unions ( contd. )—
Trade union, definition of . . . . .	811	Failure to furnish returns, &c. . . . .	813
Trade union not unlawful . . . . .	811	Circulating false rules . . . . .	813
Agreements, when enforceable . . . . .	811	Failure to give prescribed notice . . . . .	813
Registration and trustees . . . . .	812	Procedure . . . . .	813
Rules and offices . . . . .	812	Appeal . . . . .	813
Annual returns . . . . .	812	Justices who are disqualified . . . . .	814
Offences as to trade unions—		Trades Disputes Act, 1906 . . . . .	814
Officials withholding money . . . . .	812	Child insurance . . . . .	814
Non-establishment of office . . . . .	813

The Acts as to trade unions are the Trade Union Act, 1871, 34 & 35 Vict. c. 31, which by the Act of 1876, s. 1, is entitled the principal Act, the Trade Union Amendment Act, 1876, 39 & 40 Vict. c. 22, which two Acts are to be construed as one (Act of 1876, s. 1), and the Trades Disputes Act, 1906, 6 Edw. 7, c. 47, the three Acts being collectively entitled the Trade Union Acts, 1871 to 1906 (Act of 1906, s. 5 (1)).

“The term ‘trade union’ means any combination whether temporary or permanent, for regulating the relations between workmen and masters or between workmen and workmen, or between masters and masters, or for imposing restrictive conditions on the conduct of any trade or business, whether such combination would or would not if the principal Act had not been passed, have been deemed to have been an unlawful combination by reason of some one or more of its purposes being in restraint of trade” (Act of 1876, 39 & 40 Vict. c. 22, s. 16). This definition includes combinations between employers as well as between workmen, and also combinations between manufacturers to keep up prices (Urmston v. Whitelegg (1890), 63 L.T. 455; Mineral Water Bottle Exchange v. Booth (1887), 36 C.D. 465). But the Acts do “not affect:—(1) Any agreement between partners as to their own business; (2) any agreement between an employer and those employed by him as to such employment; (3) any agreement in consideration of the sale of the good-will of a business or of instruction in any profession, trade, or handicraft” (Act of 1871, 34 & 35 Vict. c. 31, s. 23).

The purposes of any trade union shall not, by reason merely that they are in restraint of trade, be deemed to be unlawful so as to render any member of such union liable to any criminal prosecution (Act of 1876, 39 & 40 Vict. c. 22, s. 2) or so as to render void or voidable any agreement or trust (ib., s. 3), including the rules of such union (Strick v. Swansea Tinplate Co. (1887), 36 C.D. 558).

Nothing in the Acts shall enable any court to entertain any legal proceeding, which before the passing of the Act they could not have entertained, that is, instituted with the object of directly enforcing or recovering damages for the breach of (1) agreements between the members of a trade union as such, concerning the conditions on which any members, as such, shall or shall not sell their goods, transact business, employ or be employed; (2) agreements to pay a subscription or penalty to a trade union; (3) agreements to apply trade union funds (a) to Trade Union Acts.

Definition of trade union.

Trade union not unlawful.

Trade union agreements, how far enforceable.

Trade union agreements, how far enforceable.

providing benefits for members. or (b) in furnishing contributions to an employer or workman in consideration of his conforming with its rules or resolutions, or (c) in paying a fine imposed on any person by any court; (4) agreements between one trade union and another; or (5) any bond to secure the performance of any of the foregoing agreements; none of which are, however, made unlawful by the section (Act of 1871, s. 4). The provisions of this section, it will be noted, apply only to agreements by or with a union which, as being in restraint of trade, would have been an unlawful combination but for the passing of the Act of 1871.

"It is a common mistake to suppose that every trade union is, apart from the Act of 1871, an unlawful combination" (per Cozens-Hardy, M.R., in Gozney v. Bristol Trade, &c., Society (1909), 1 K.B. (C.A.) 901. at p. 914). In the case of a trade union amongst whose objects the restraint of trade, or any other illegal or criminal object, is in no way directly or indirectly included—if such a trade union there be—it is beyond question that agreements by or with it can be enforced at law (ib., at pp. 906, 917). But if the general objects of a union are legal, the fact that some of its rules are illegal as being in restraint of trade does not make the union an illegal society or prevent a member from recovering a sum of money payable to him under a rule which is not illegal<sup>1</sup> (Suaine v. Wilson (1889), 24 Q.B.D. 252; Gozney v. Bristol Trade, &c., Society, supra).

Registration and trustees.

Sections 6 and 13 of the Act of 1871 provide for the registration of unions; s. 8 (as amended by s. 3 of the Act of 1876) provides for the vesting of the property of the union in trustees; and s. 9 that such trustees may, as such, sue or be sued in any proceeding relating to such property.

Rules and offices.

Section 14 and the first schedule of the Act of 1871 provide for the making of rules by a registered union, and s. 15 for the establishment, within seven days of the union being in operation, of a registered office and for the notification of its situation to the registrar, who (see s. 17) is the registrar of friendly societies.

Annual returns.

Annual balance sheet of union is to be furnished to registrar and to every member and depositor before June 1; and with it is to be furnished to the registrar copies of all additions to or alterations in the rules made during the year, the names of all new officers and a copy of the existing rules (s. 16).

Offences.*Union officials, &c., withholding money, &c.

"If any officer, member, or other person being or representing himself to be a member of a trade union registered under this Act, or the nominee, executor, administrator, or assignee of a member thereof, or any person whatsoever, by false representation or imposition obtain possession of any moneys, securities, books, papers, or other effects of such trade union, or, having the same in his possession, wilfully withhold or fraudulently misapply the same, or wilfully apply any part of the same to purposes other than those expressed or directed in the rules of such trade union, or any part thereof, the court of summary jurisdiction for the place in which the registered office of the trade union is situate, upon a complaint made by any person on behalf of such trade union . . . may, by summary order, order such officer, member, or other person to deliver up all such moneys, securities, books, papers, or other effects to the trade union, or to repay the amount of money applied improperly, and to pay, if the court think fit, a further sum of money not exceeding <sup>1</sup> There is nothing illegal in a strike, unless attended with circumstances, such as breach of contract or intimidation, making it illegal (Lyons v. Wilkins (1896), 1 Ch. 811, 822, 828); nor is there anything illegal in contributing for the support of strikers (Denaby v. Cadeby Main Collieries Co., Ltd. v. Yorkshire Miners' Association (1906), A.C. 384, 393, 406; Gozney v. Bristol Trade, &c., Society, supra, 916, 922).

£20, together with costs not exceeding 20s.; and, in default of such delivery of effects, or repayment of such amount of money, or payment of such penalty and costs as aforesaid, the said court may order the said person so convicted to be imprisoned, with or without hard labour, for any time not exceeding three months: Provided that nothing herein contained shall prevent the said trade union . . . from proceeding by indictment against the said party: Provided also that no person shall be proceeded against by indictment if a conviction shall have been previously obtained for the same offence under the provisions of this Act" (Act of 1871, 34 & 35 Vict. c. 31, s. 12).<sup>1</sup>

Failure to establish or notify situation of office in compliance with s. 15—Penalty, not exceeding £5 on union and every officer thereof for every day during which such failure continues (s. 15). Every union and every officer of a union failing to furnish returns and rules as required by s. 16—Penalty, not exceeding £5. Falsification of such returns or rules—Penalty, on person falsifying, not exceeding £50.

The circulation of false copies of rules, or of any rules falsely purporting to be the rules, of a registered union; misdemeanour, punishable with fine or imprisonment, or both (s. 18).

"A trade union which fails to give any notice or send any document which it is required by this Act to give or send, and every officer or other person bound by the rules thereof to give or send the same, or, if there be no such officer, then every member of the committee of management of the union, unless proved to have been ignorant of, or to have attempted to prevent the omission to give or send the same, is liable to a penalty of not less than £1 and not more than £5, recoverable at the suit of the chief or any assistant registrar of Friendly Societies or of any person aggrieved, and to an additional penalty of the like amount for each week during which the omission continues" (Act of 1876, 39 & 40 Vict. c. 22, s. 15). The chief notices required by the Act are: written notice of change of name signed by seven members and countersigned by the secretary with a statutory declaration that the provisions of the Act have been complied with (s. 13); written notice of amalgamation signed by seven members and countersigned by the secretary with a similar declaration (ib.); notice of dissolution signed by the secretary and seven members (s. 14).

All offences and penalties may be prosecuted and recovered in the manner provided by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts. Summary orders may be made and enforced on complaint before a court of summary jurisdiction in manner provided by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts; the court of summary jurisdiction hearing and determining the information or complaint shall be constituted in the police district of the Dublin Metropolis of a divisional magistrate and elsewhere of a Resident Magistrate; the description of an offence in the words of the statute is sufficient; any exception, exemption proviso, excuse, or qualification, whether accompanying the description of the offence or not, may be proved by the defendant and need not be specified or negatived in the information, but if so specified or negatived no proofs thereof shall be required on the part of the informer or prosecutor (Act of 1871, 34 & 35 Vict. c. 31, s. 19).

The jurisdiction conferred under the Act of 1871, s. 12, on the court of summary jurisdiction for the place in which the registered office of the trade union is situate may be exercised by that court or by a court of summary jurisdiction for the place in which the offence is committed (Act of 1876, 39 & 40 Vict. c. 22, s. 5).

A party aggrieved by an order or conviction of a court of summary Appeal.

Non-establishment of office. Failure to furnish annual returns, and copies of alterations and rules. Circulating false copies of rules. Failure to give prescribed notice.

Procedure.

<sup>1</sup> As to form of order under the section, see R. v. Truscott (1899), 19 Cox 379).

Offences.

jurisdiction under the Acts may appeal to the quarter sessions for the county or place in which the cause of appeal has arisen holden not less than fifteen days from the decision of the court appealed from. The appellant within seven days from the accrual of the cause of appeal must give notice to the other party and to the justices, with a statement of the grounds of the appeal, and enter into recognisances before a justice in the sum of £10 with two sureties in the sum of £10 conditioned personally to prosecute the appeal and abide the decision thereon and pay the costs if awarded against him. Quarter sessions may adjourn the appeal, and on the hearing may confirm, reverse, or modify the decision of the court below, or remit the decision with its opinion thereon or make any other order and award costs (Act of 1871, s. 20).

Justices who are disqualified.

A person who is a master or father, son, or brother of a master, in the manufacture, trade, or business in connection with which the offence has arisen, cannot sit as a member of the court of appeal or of summary jurisdiction (Act of 1871, s. 22). As to cases on bias, see p. 215.

Trades Disputes Act, 1906.

Justices as such are not concerned with the Trades Disputes Act, 1906. 6 Edw. 7. c. 47, except in so far as it amends the Conspiracy and Protection of Property Act, 1875, 38 & 39 Vict. c. 86, as to which see p. 612.

Child insurance.

The Friendly Societies Act, 1896, 59 & 60 Vict. c. 25, s. 84 (j), provides that it shall be an offence under that Act if any society, whether registered or unregistered, pays money on the death of a child under ten years of age otherwise than is provided by that Act. Any society or any officer or member thereof committing such offence is liable to a penalty not exceeding £5 (s. 89). Payment of any sum exceeding, along with any sum in which the child may be insured in any other society, £6 in the case of a child under five and £10 in the case of a child under ten (s. 62), or payment of such sum to any one except the parent or personal representative of the parent upon production of a certificate of death containing certain specified particulars (ss. 63, 64) is an offence punishable with fine not exceeding £5 (s. 89), except in the case of payment to a person having an insurable interest in the life of the child (s. 67). Any parent or personal representative of the parent of an insured child who in any way attempts to defeat the provisions of the Act as to payments on the death of children is liable to the like penalty (ss. 84 (g), 89).

The above penalties are recoverable by the registrar or any assistant registrar of friendly societies before a court of summary jurisdiction<sup>1</sup> (s. 91) sitting either at the place where the offence was committed, or in the case of a registered society or branch or an officer thereof at the place where the registered office of the society or branch is situated, or as regards prosecution against any other person at the place where such person resides when the prosecution is instituted (s. 92), and the proceedings are governed by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts<sup>1</sup> (ib.).

<sup>1</sup> As to the meaning of which term, see p. 335.

TRAMWAYS.

	PAGE		PAGE
Tramways made under special Acts	815	Tramways, &c. ( continued )—
Bye-laws of such tramways	815	Application to such tramways of certain railway Acts	816
Such tramways and rule of the road	815	Steam tramways	816
Tramways made under the Tramways Acts	816	Whistling, steam, and lights	816
		Speed	817
		Procedure	817

I. TRAMWAYS MADE UNDER SPECIAL ACTS.

Tramways in Ireland consist of two classes. The first class consists of those constructed otherwise than under the Tramways (Ir.) Acts—that is to say, of those constructed under special Acts. In this class are included the lines of the Dublin United Tramways Company, the Hill of Howth Tramway, and the tramways in the cities of Belfast, Cork, Galway, and Londonderry. The Act under which any such tramway is constructed usually contains sections creating offences in relation to such tramway (to which reference must be made in the case of each such tramway) and also in every case sections giving the owners power to make bye-laws with penalties, recoverable summarily, for any breach thereof.

The following decisions apply to such bye-laws:—

A bye-law requiring every passenger to deliver up (Heap v. Day (1886), 51 J.P. 213), or produce (Hanks v. Bridgman (1896), 1 Q.B. 253; Lowe v. Volp. (1896), 1 Q.B. 256) his ticket on demand, or else to pay the fare for the distance travelled by him is reasonable. The fact that the ticket has been lost affords no defence (Hunt v. Green (1907), 21 Cox 333). Where the appellant paid his fare, but declined to accept a ticket upon the ground that it bore an indorsement purporting to limit the liability of the tramway owners in case of accident or injury to passengers, and when the ticket inspector asked for it, pointed it out upon the floor of the tram-car, but refused to touch or pick it up, or to pay his fare a second time. Held, that the appellant could not be convicted under a bye-law requiring such passenger to deliver up his ticket when requested, or pay his fare, on the ground that there had been no refusal to deliver up the ticket (Wilson v. Fearnley (1905), 92 L.T. 647). A passenger has not the right to break the journey, and his alighting determines the contract, so that he is obliged to pay the legal fare a second time to continue the journey on another car (Bastable v. Metcalfe (1906), 2 K.B. 288). A passenger, where there is a bye-law requiring payment of fare on demand, is not entitled to withhold payment until he has completed the journey (Egginton v. Pearl (1875), 33 L.T. 428). Where the carrying of more than a specified number of passengers is prohibited under a bye-law imposing a penalty on the conductor for any breach, any person may prosecute for non-observance (Badcock v. Sankey (1890), 54 J.P. 564).

In the case of a single tram line which in parts of its route passes so near the kerb that there is no room for an ordinary vehicle to pass on its proper side, the drivers of both ordinary vehicles and tram-cars must act reasonably, drivers of ordinary vehicles, on the one hand, having no absolute right to insist upon keeping to their proper side at that particular part of the line, and thus put all tram-cars to great inconvenience; and tram-car drivers, on the other hand, having no absolute right to insist upon all other vehicles getting out of their way at whatever inconvenience (Hartley v. Chadwick (1904), 68 J.P. 512, per Lord Alverstone, L.C.J.).

Tramways
made under special Acts.

Bye-laws of such tramways.

Such tramways and rule of the road.

II. TRAMWAYS MADE UNDER THE TRAMWAYS (IR.) ACTS.

Tramways
made under the Tramways Acts.

Application of certain Railway Acts.

The other class of tramways in Ireland consists of those constructed under Orders in Council made pursuant to the Tramways (Ir.) Acts (for a list of which Acts see Vanston, "LOCAL GOVERNMENT," p. 767). This class includes such lines as the Dublin and Lucan Tramway, the Dublin and Blessington Steam Tramway, as well as many steam tramways and light railways.<sup>1</sup> Where, as is generally the case, the promoters of any such tramway desire that a joint-stock company shall be constituted for the purpose of constructing and carrying it on, the Order contains provisions as to the constitution of such company (Tramways (Ir.) Act, 1860, 23 & 24 Vict. c. 152, ss. 15-18); and a company incorporated in accordance with such provisions is known for the purposes of the Tramways (Ir.) Acts as a "tramway company" (s. 19). The Railway Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845,<sup>2</sup> 8 & 9 Vict. c. 20, applies to every tramway company, subject to the other provisions of the Tramways (Ir.) Act, 1860 (ib.); and s. 2 of the Tramways (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1871, 34 & 35 Vict. c. 114 (which, as appears from s. 5, is to be read as one with the Act of 1860), enacts that "the Regulation of Railways Acts, 1840-1871, so far as circumstances will admit, and subject to the provisions of this Act, shall apply to every tramway<sup>3</sup> to be worked by a locomotive engine or other mechanical power, as if such tramway were a railway; and, in the construction of the said Acts for the purpose of this Act, the term 'company' in the said Acts shall include the owner of such tramway." All tramways in Ireland made under the Tramways (Ir.) Acts are now worked by mechanical power: and the result of the application to such tramways of the Railway Acts above mentioned is that the acts, &c., specified in ss. 75, 98, 99, 103, 105, and 114 of the Railway Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845,<sup>4</sup> 8 & 9 Vict. c. 20, in the Regulation of Railways Act, 1840, 3 & 4 Vict. c. 97, ss. 13 (as amended by the Regulation of Railways Act, 1842, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 55, s. 17) and 16,<sup>4</sup> and in the Regulation of Railways Act, 1868, 31 & 32 Vict. c. 119, ss. 21, 23<sup>4</sup> (as amended in the case of s. 23<sup>5</sup> by the Regulation of Railways Act, 1871, 34 & 35 Vict. c. 78, s. 14), are offences when done, &c., in connection with such tramways as, and with the same penalties as, when done, &c., in connection with railways,<sup>6</sup> and that such "tramway company" has the same powers of making bye-laws as railway companies have under the Railway Clauses Consolidation Act, 1845. 8 & 9 Vict. c. 20, ss. 108, 109 (as extended by the Regulation of Railways Act, 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 57, s. 7). 110, and 111.

Steam
tramways.

Whistling, escaping steam, and head-lights.

"Every locomotive propelled by steam on any tramway in Ireland under the authority of this Act shall be worked according to the following rules and regulations, viz.: (1) The whistle of such locomotive shall not be sounded for any purpose whatever; nor shall the cylinder taps be opened within sight of any person riding, driving, leading, or in charge of a horse upon the road; nor shall the steam be allowed to attain a pressure such as to exceed the limit fixed by the safety-valve, so that no steam

<sup>1</sup> For the purposes of the Tramways (Ir.) Acts, the word "tramway" includes a light railway (Tramways and Public Companies (Ir.) Act, 1883, 46 & 47 Vict. c. 43, s. 25).

<sup>2</sup> The Tramways (Ir.) Order, 1883, made pursuant to the Tramways (Ir.) Acts, by Art. 38 (for which see Vanston, "LOCAL GOVERNMENT," p. 1301) exempts, inter alia, s. 47 of this Act out of this application (Gorman v. Waterford and Limerick Ry. Co. (1900), 2 I.R. 341).

<sup>3</sup> That is to say, every tramway made under the Tramways (Ir.) Acts.

<sup>4</sup> As to which sections, see RAILWAYS.

<sup>5</sup> This section obviously applies to a tramway only as regards such portions as completely diverge from the high-road and pass along a track constructed across country.

<sup>6</sup> As to such offences, see RAILWAYS.

shall blow off when the locomotive is upon the tramway. (2) Every Steam tramways. person in charge of such locomotive shall provide two efficient lights, to be affixed conspicuously one at each side on the front of the same, between the hours of one hour after sunset and one hour before sunrise"—Penalty, on the owner or owners of such locomotive for any non-observance, not exceeding £5, recoverable before two justices (Tramways (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1871, 34 & 35 Vict. c. 114, s. 3). There is no statutory limit to the speed of a steam-tram whilst being driven at a greater distance than 30 feet from the centre of a public road (Tramways and Public Companies (Ir.) Act, 1883, 46 & 47 Vict. c. 43, s. 23 (6)). The Board of Trade may, by order, authorise such tram to travel at a speed not exceeding twelve miles an hour, elsewhere than through a town or village (ib.). The Lord-Lieutenant, the county council, or other authority empowered under the Tramway Acts to grant permission for the construction of a tramway, may give permission for the running of a steam-tram at a speed not greater than ten, or, through a town or village, six, miles an hour (Tramways (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1881, 44 & 45 Vict. c. 17, s. 5). In any other case the driving of steam-tram at a greater speed than six, or through a town or village, three, miles an hour is punishable with a penalty, on the person driving, not exceeding £10, recoverable before one justice (Tramways (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1871, 34 & 35 Vict. c. 114, s. 4), and the same penalty is incurred by driving in excess of the speed allowed by any such order or permission as is above mentioned (ib.; Tramways and Public Companies (Ir.) Act, 1883, 46 & 47 Vict. c. 43, s. 23 (6); Tramways (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1881, 44 & 45 Vict. c. 17, s. 5). Speed of locomotive.

As to the procedure under the railway Acts that are, as above stated, Procedure. applied to tramways, see RAILWAYS. As the result of that application, in every case where a penalty would be payable to a railway company, if the offence were committed in connection with a railway, then any such penalty is payable to the tramway company when the offence is committed in respect of a tramway.

TRESPASS.

"... (1) Any person who shall wilfully trespass in any field, garden, pleasure ground, wood, plantation, or other place, and shall neglect or refuse to leave any such place after he shall have been warned to do so by the owner, or by the caretaker or servant of the owner, or by any person authorised in that behalf by the owner. (2) Any person who shall again trespass in any such place within three months from the time when such warning shall have been so given to him"—Penalty, not exceeding 10s., and in default of payment imprisonment not exceeding one week. "Provided always that nothing herein contained shall extend to any case where the party trespassing acted under a fair and reasonable supposition that he had a right to go into or upon any such place, nor to any trespass (not being wilful or malicious) committed in hunting, fishing, or the pursuit of game,<sup>1</sup> but nothing herein contained shall prevent any person from maintaining any civil action or suit for any such trespass, instead of proceeding under this Act" (Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1851, 14 & 15 Vict. c. 92, s. 8).

There must be a warning to leave, followed by a refusal. The posting of a notice by the owner of land warning off trespassers is not sufficient notice to sustain a conviction under the Summary Jurisdiction Act.<sup>2</sup>

<sup>1</sup> For trespass in pursuit of game, see "GAME LAWS."

<sup>2</sup> The notice "Trespassers will be prosecuted" has been well called "a wooden falsehood." See article 25 I.L.T. & S.J. 435.

Trespass.

To oust the jurisdiction of justices on the ground that the alleged trespass was made under a bona-fide question of title it is sufficient to show that the act complained of was done in the exercise of a supposed right which the alleged trespasser fairly and reasonably believed he possessed (Mathews v. Carpenter (1885), 16 L.R.I. 420). The justices should try whether the defendant entertained an honest and reasonable belief that he had a right to act as he did and not take upon themselves to decide the question of right, irrespective of the defendant's belief (per Dowse, B., ib.). Where the defendant was summoned for trespass to the complainant's fence and the complainant proved that he had been in possession of the ground in dispute for several years and the defendant had made no claim until about a year before the trespass, the Queen's Bench Division held that the magistrates were right in determining on the evidence before them that the defendant had no ground for believing that he had any claim to the ground, and the conviction was upheld (R. (Kealy) v. Louth JJ. (1901). 35 I.L.T.R. 43). The law as to ouster of jurisdiction under this section is discussed at p. 207, to which reference should be made.

The seashore is not a place within the meaning of s. 8 of the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1851 (R. (Sweeny) v. Cork JJ. (1890), 24 I.L.T. & S.J. 586). Where an assault and trespass were alleged to have taken place partly on the foreshore and partly on other land, and on the evidence the justices found as a fact that the assault and trespass took place on the other lands, the conviction was upheld (R. (Mahony) v. Cork JJ. (1908), 42 I.L.T.R. 237). Appellant was summoned for wilful trespass on a wall running from the end of Sligo quay some four miles into the sea marking the edge of the channel, and which was completely covered at high tide. Held, that the wall was not a place within the meaning of s. 8 (McGowan v. Sligo Harbour Commissioners (1899), 5 I.W.L.R. 26).

TRUCK ACTS.

	PAGE		PAGE
Truck Acts, 1831 to 1896 . . .	818	Deductions ( continued )—
Illegal contracts or payments—		For sharpening tools . . .	821
Penalty . . .	819	Fines . . .	821
What are illegal contracts . . .	819	For damaged goods . . .	822
Recovery of wages illegally		For materials . . .	822
deducted . . .	819	Audit of deductions . . .	823
No action in respect of goods		Liability of actual offender . . .	823 illegally given as wages . . .	819	Offences against Acts of 1887 and
Examples . . .	819	1896 . . .	823
Advance of wages . . .	820	Production of contract . . .	823
Agricultural labourers . . .	820	Procedure under Truck Acts . . .	824
Artificer to be paid in cash . . .	820	Hosiery manufacture . . .	824
Deductions—		Payment by county con-
Miscellaneous permissible de-		tractor . . .	824
ductions . . .	821

Truck Acts.

The object of the Truck Acts is to prevent the payment of workmen's wages otherwise than in money. The Truck Acts 1831 to 1896 are The Truck Act, 1831,<sup>1</sup> 1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 37 (the "principal Act"), the Truck Act Amendment Act, 1887, 50 & 51 Vict. c. 46, the Truck Act, 1896, 59 & 60 Vict. c. 44, all of which are (s. 12 of the Act of 1896) to be construed as one.

"Any employer of any artificer who shall by himself or by the agency of any other person or persons directly or indirectly enter into any contract or make any payment hereby declared illegal"—Penalty, first offence not exceeding £10 or less than £5, second offence not exceeding £20 or less than £10, third offence misdemeanour punishable by fine, Penalty. fines not to exceed £100 (Truck Act, 1831, 1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 37, s. 9).

<sup>1</sup> This Act (see s. 27) did not originally apply to Ireland, but by s. 18 of the Act of 1887 it was, subject to the enactments as to procedure noted at p. 824, applied to Ireland.

All contracts for the payment of wages otherwise than in coin<sup>1</sup> in certain enumerated trades, were made illegal by s. 1 of the Act of 1831, and now any such contract is illegal in the case of "any workmen as defined by the Employers and Workmen Act, 1875, s. 10" (Act of 1887, s. 2). All contracts as to the place or manner of expending wages are illegal (Act of 1831, s. 2; Act of 1887, s. 6). Sections 4 and 5 of the Act of 1831, and s. 5 of the Act of 1887, provide that a workman shall be entitled to recover, as servants' wages are recovered, the whole or any such portion of his wages as shall not have been paid in current coin; and in any proceeding for recovery of wages due the employer shall not be entitled to a set off for goods supplied by his or any shop in which he is interested, nor for goods supplied under any order or direction given by himself or his agent; and neither the employer nor any agent of the employer nor any person supplying goods by order of such employer or agent shall have a right of action in respect of goods so supplied on account of wages.

All masters, bailiffs, foremen, managers, clerks, and other persons engaged in hiring, employing, or superintending labour, are deemed to be "employers"; money or other thing paid or contracted to be paid, delivered or given as a recompense, reward, or remuneration for any labour done, or to be done, whether within a certain time and a certain amount or within a time and to an amount uncertain, shall be deemed to be "wages"; any agreement, device, contrivance, collusion, or arrangement on the subject of wages, written or oral, direct or indirect, to which the employer and artificer are parties or assent, or by which they are mutually bound to each other, or whereby either of them shall have endeavoured to impose an obligation on the other, shall be deemed to be a "contract" (Act of 1831, 1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 37, s. 25).

"The expression 'workman' does not include a domestic or menial servant, but save as aforesaid means any person who being a labourer, servant in husbandry, journeyman, artificer, handicraftsman, miner or otherwise engaged in manual labour whether under the age of twenty-one years or above that age has entered into or works under a contract with an employer whether the contract be made before or after the passing of this Act, be express or implied oral or in writing and be a contract of service or a contract personally to execute any work or labour" (Employers and Workmen Act, 1875, 38 & 39 Vict. c. 90, s. 10). The test of whether a person in any employment is or is not "engaged in manual labour" within the meaning of this section is:—is such labour the real and substantial part of his employment, or is it merely incidental or accessory to such employment (Bound v. Lawrence (1892), 1 Q.B. 226).

Held to be offences under s. 9 of the Act of 1831.

A workman engaged under a written agreement at a fixed rate of wages made a contemporaneous verbal agreement under which part of the wages was to be paid in cider (Jones v. Wasley (1902), 18 T.L.R. 418). Payment of wages by orders on a shop (Athersmith v. Drury (1852), 1 E. & E. 46). The illegal payment need not be made under a contract; the mere illegal payment is sufficient to constitute the offence, and the offence is not purged by subsequent payment in money whether made voluntarily or not (Wilson v. Cookson (1863), 13 C.B. (N.S.) 496). A workman <sup>1</sup> Payment in bank-notes or by drafts where consented to by the workman are not illegal (s. 8).

Illegal contract or payments.

What are illegal contracts.

Recovery of wages illegally deducted. No action in respect of goods illegally given as wages.

"Employer";

"wages";

"contract";

"workman."

Examples.
(1) Offences.

Illegal contracts or payments.

negligently damaged a piece of cloth, which the employer then delivered to him in payment of wages to the amount of its value (Smith v. Walton (1877), 3 C.P.D. 109). A brickmaker, who was also a licensed victualler, employed G. and two others as labourers in the brickyard; he supplied the men with liquor on credit to the extent of 3s. 10d., entering the supply to each in a book; in the evening of the first day he handed to one of the men 4s. for all of the men; the 4s. was handed back to the brickmaker, who thereupon returned 2d. as change; and next day the brickmaker paid the men in coin, less 4s., for two days' work (Gould v. Haynes (1889), 16 Cox 732). A deduction by an employer of a sum ordered by a court of summary jurisdiction to be paid by the workman for breaches of contract is an offence (Williams v. Norths Navigation Collieries (1906), A.C. 136). An agreement whereby portion of the wages was to be applied in payment of shares in the defendant company is void under the Truck Acts (Glasgow v. Independent Printing Co. (1901), 2 I.R. 305).

(2) Not offences.

Held not to be offences under s. 9 of the Act of 1831.

A contract by which it was agreed that the workman be paid according to the work done subject to certain deductions for standing room, the services of an assistant, and the use of tools and machines, is not a contract to pay part of the wages otherwise than in current coin; for the whole wage payable is the sum which remains after the deductions;<sup>1</sup> and the contract merely provides a mode for ascertaining that wage (Chawner v. Cummins (1846), 8 Q.B. 311; see also Archer v. James (1862), 2 B. & S. 61; and Hughes v. Bonella (1894), 10 T.L.R. 197). The deduction<sup>1</sup> of fines for spoilt work is mere non-payment, and is no offence (Redgrave v. Kelly (1890), 5 T.L.R. 477). B, engaged as overlooker in a factory, by the rules forfeited £1 if he employed a child before the child's name was registered. The employers deducted £1 for breach of the regulations. Held, there was nothing in the Truck Acts to prevent the deduction,<sup>1</sup> as the forfeiture was not a penalty but liquidated damages (Beetham v. Crewdson (1891), 55 J.P. 55). An employer who paid his workmen wages in full and handed them slips indicating sums at 2d. in the £1 of the wages, which sums were handed back to the employer's cashier as premiums for insurance under the Workmen's Compensation Act (Owner v. Hooper (1903), 20 Cox 518).

Advance of wages.

"Whenever by agreement, custom, or otherwise a workman is entitled to receive in anticipation of the regular period of the payment of his wages an advance as part or on account thereof, it shall not be lawful for the employer to withhold such advance or make any deduction in respect of such advance on account of poundage, discount, or interest, or any similar charge" (Truck Act Amendment Act, 1887, 50 & 51 Vict. c. 46, s. 3).

Agricultural labourers.

"Nothing in the principal Act or this Act shall render illegal a contract with a servant in husbandry for giving him food, drink, not being intoxicating, a cottage, or other allowances or privileges in addition to money wages as a remuneration for his services" (Truck Act Amendment Act, 1887, 50 & 51 Vict. c. 46, s. 4).

Artificer to be paid in cash.

"Where articles are made by a person at his own home or otherwise, without the employment of any person under him except a member of his own family, the principal Act and this Act shall apply as if he were a workman, and the shopkeeper, dealer, trader, or other person buying the articles in the way of trade were his employer, and the provisions of this Act with respect to the payment of wages shall apply as if the price of an article were wages earned during the seven days next preceding the date at which any article is received from the workman by the employer. This section shall apply only to articles under the value of five pounds knitted or otherwise manufactured of wool, worsted, yarn, stuff, jersey, linen, fustian, cloth, serge, cotton, leather, fur, hemp, flax, mohair, or silk, or of any combination thereof, or made or prepared of bone, thread, silk, or cotton lace, or of lace made of any mixed materials" (Truck Act Amendment Act, 1887, 50 & 51 Vict. c. 46, s. 10).<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> But as to the conditions under which, since the passing of the Act of 1896, such deductions are now legal, see ss. 1-3 of that Act at p. 822.

The following are permissible deductions :—

(1) Deductions for medicine or medical attendance, or fuel, or materials, tools, or implements to be used by the workman in his trade or occupation, if such workman be employed in mining, or any hay, corn, or other provender to be consumed by any beast of burden employed by the workman in his trade and occupation, or the rent of any tenement demised to the workman, or victuals prepared under the roof of the employer and there consumed by the workman, or money advanced to the workman for such purpose, provided that such stoppage or deduction shall not exceed the true value of the things supplied and shall not be in any case made from the wages of the workman unless the agreement or contract for such stoppage or deduction shall be in writing and signed by the workman (Truck Act, 1831, 1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 31, s. 23). Nothing in the Act shall prevent any employer from advancing to any workman any money to be by him contributed to any friendly society or savings bank, nor from advancing to any workman any money for his relief in sickness or for the education of any of his children, nor from deducting or contracting to deduct any sums of money from the wages of any workman for the education of any of his children (s. 24; see also Act of 1887, s. 7, as to equal treatment of all workmen in respect of deductions for education).

Deductions, made under a contract in writing, for contributions to a sick fund, paid to the treasurer of the fund by the employer, were held permissible (Hewlett v. Allen (1894), A.C. 383; see also Lamb v. G.N.R. Co. (1891), 2 Q.B. 281). It was held that under a contract in writing allowing stoppages to be made for medicine and medical attendance, the mine owner might legally deduct a weekly sum which by the practice of the mine was paid towards a club kept by the owner for providing such medicine and medical attendance as the miners required (Cutts v. Ward (1867), L.R. 2 Q.B. 357). An employer stopped part of the wages of an artificer as a contribution to funds established by him to provide medicine and medical aid to the artificers and education for their children. There was no written agreement. Held, that the artificer was entitled to recover the whole of the deduction (Pillar v. Llynvi Coal and Iron Co. (1869), L.R. 4 C.P. 752). Deductions made, not under a contract in writing, for a doctor's fund by an employer who became bankrupt, had not been paid over before bankruptcy. Held, that the amount deducted was payable to the workman (Ex parte Cooper (1884), 26 C.D. 693). A workwoman was entitled to 8s. a week wages with a 2s. bonus for full attendance. Under rules which were posted in the factory and read by the workwoman it was provided that the bonus should be deducted where there was absence from work without reason. Held, that a deduction made under the rules was not an offence under the Truck Acts (Deane v. Wilson (1906), 2 I.R. 405).

"No deduction shall be made from a workman's wages for sharpening or repairing tools, except by agreement not forming part of the condition of hiring" (Act of 1887, 50 & 51 Vict. c. 46, s. 8).

(1) An employer shall not make any contract with any workman for any deduction from the sum contracted to be paid by the employer to the workman, or for any payment to the employer by the workman.

<sup>1</sup> The operation of the section in a particular locality may be suspended by order in council (s. 10).

Deductions. for or in respect of any fine, unless :—(a) the terms of the contract are contained in a notice kept constantly affixed at such place or places open to the workmen and in such a position that it may be easily seen, read, and copied by any person whom it affects; or the contract is in writing, signed by the workman; and (b) the contract specifies the acts or omissions in respect of which the fine may be imposed, and the amount of the fine or the particulars from which that amount may be ascertained; and (c) the fine imposed under the contract is in respect of some act or omission which causes or is likely to cause damage or loss to the employer, or interruption or hindrance to his business; and (d) the amount of the fine is fair and reasonable having regard to all the circumstances of the case. (2) An employer shall not make any such deduction or receive any such payment, unless :—(a) the deduction or payment is made in pursuance of, or in accordance with, such a contract as aforesaid; and (b) particulars in writing showing the acts or omissions in respect of which the fine is imposed and the amount thereof are supplied to the workman on each occasion when a deduction or payment is made. (3) This section shall apply to the case of a shop assistant<sup>1</sup> in like manner as it applies to the case of a workman” (Truck Act, 1896, 59 & 60 Vict. c. 44, s. 1). One of the rules of a factory provided that “all workers shall observe good order and decorum in the factory and shall not do anything which may interfere with the proper and orderly conduct of the business thereof” and imposed fines not exceeding 6d. A fine of 2d. was imposed for an act interfering with the proper and orderly conduct of the business. Held, that the acts in respect of which the fine was to be imposed were sufficiently specified in the rule (Squire v. Bayer (1901), 2 K.B. 299).

Damaged goods.

“(1) An employer shall not make any contract with any workman for any deduction from the sum contracted to be paid by the employer to the workman, or for any payment to the employer by the workman for or in respect of bad or negligent work or injury to the materials or other property of the employer, unless :—(a) the terms of the contract are contained in a notice kept constantly affixed at such place or places open to the workmen and in such a position that it may be easily seen, read, and copied by any person whom it affects; or the contract is in writing, signed by the workman; and (b) the deduction or payment to be made under the contract does not exceed the actual or estimated damage or loss occasioned to the employer by the act or omission of the workman, or of some person over whom he has control, or for whom he has by the contract agreed to be responsible; and (c) the amount of the deduction or payment is fair and reasonable, having regard to all the circumstances of the case. (2) An employer shall not make any such deduction or receive any such payment unless :—(a) the deduction or payment is made in pursuance of, or in accordance with, such a contract as aforesaid; and (b) particulars in writing showing the acts or omissions in respect of which the deduction or payment is made and the amount thereof are supplied to the workman on each occasion when a deduction or payment is made” (Act of 1896, 59 & 60 Vict. c. 44, s. 2). This section applies only to persons coming within the definition of the term “workman” given in s. 10 of the Employers and Workmen Act, 1875, as to which see p. 158 (Squire v. Midland Lace Co. (1905), 1 K.B. 448).

Materials.

“(1) An employer shall not make any contract with any workman for any deduction from the sum contracted to be paid by the employer to the workman, or for any payment to the employer by the workman for or in respect of the use or supply of materials, tools, or machines, standing room, light, heat, or for or in respect of any other thing to be done or provided by the employer in relation to the work or labour of the workman unless :—(a) the terms of the contract are contained in a notice kept constantly affixed at such place or places open to workmen, and in such a position that it may be easily seen, read, and copied by any person whom it affects ; or the contract is in writing, signed by the workman ; and (b) the sum to be paid or deducted under the contract in respect of materials, tools, or machines, standing room, light, heat, or any other thing, does not exceed, in the case of materials or tools supplied to the workman, the actual or estimated cost thereof to the employer, or in the case of the use of machinery, light, heat, or any other thing in this section mentioned, a fair and reasonable rent or charge, having regard to all the circumstances of the case. (2) An employer shall not make any such deduction or receive any such payment unless :—(a) the deduction or payment is made in pursuance of, and in accordance with, such a contract as aforesaid ; and (b) particulars in writing showing the things in respect of which the deduction or payment is made and the amount thereof are supplied to the workman on each occasion when a deduction or payment is made” (Act of 1896, 59 & 60 Vict. c. 44, s. 3).

<sup>1</sup> The Truck Acts, except as regards this section, do not apply to shop assistants; see Bond v. Lawrence (1892), 1 Q.B. 226.

“Where deductions are made from the wages of any workmen for the education of children or in respect of medicine, medical attendance, or tools, once at least in every year the employer shall, by himself or his agent, make out a correct account of the receipts and expenditure in respect of such deductions, and submit the same to be audited by two auditors appointed by the said workmen, and shall produce to the auditors all such books, vouchers, and documents, and afford them all such other facilities as are required for such audit” (Act of 1887, 50 & 51 Vict. c. 46, s. 9).

“(1) Where an offence for which an employer is, by virtue of the principal Act or this Act, liable to a penalty has in fact been committed by some agent of the employer or other person, such agent or other person shall be liable to the same penalty as if he were the employer. (2) Where an employer is charged with an offence against the principal Act or this Act he shall be entitled, upon information duly laid by him, to have any other person whom he charges as the actual offender brought before the court at the time appointed for hearing the charge, and if, after the commission of the offence has been proved, the employer proves to the satisfaction of the court that he had used due diligence to enforce the execution of the said Acts, and that the said other person had committed the offence in question without his knowledge, consent, or connivance, the said other person shall be summarily convicted of such offence, and the employer shall be exempt from any penalty. When it is made to appear to the satisfaction of an inspector of factories or mines, . . . at the time of discovering the offence, that the employer had used due diligence to enforce the execution of the said Acts, and also by what person such offence had been committed, and also that it had been committed without the knowledge, consent, or connivance of the employer, then the inspector . . . shall proceed against the person whom he believes to be the actual offender in the first instance without first proceeding against the employer” (Act of 1887, 50 & 51 Vict. c. 46, s. 12).

Any infringement of the foregoing provisions of the Acts of 1887 and 1896 is punishable as an offence against s. 9 of the Act of 1831 (Act of 1887, s. 11 ; Act of 1896, s. 4).

“(1) Every employer who has made any contract purporting or intending to operate as a contract under this Act, shall, on demand in writing by one of His Majesty’s inspectors of factories or of mines, produce Deductions.

Audit of deductions.

Liability of actual offender.

Offences against Act of 1887 and 1896.

Production of contract.

Production of contract.

the contract or a true copy thereof at any convenient time and place to be named by the inspector, and the inspector shall be at liberty to take a copy of the same or of any part thereof, and the employer of any workman or shop assistant who is party to any such contract shall at the time of making the contract give the workman or shop assistant a copy of the contract or of the notice containing its terms. (2) A workman or shop assistant who is party to any such contract shall be entitled, on request, to obtain from his employer free of charge a copy of the contract or of the notice containing its terms. (3) Every employer who has made any contract purporting or intending to operate as a contract under s. 1 of this Act shall keep a register of deductions or payments, and shall enter therein every deduction or payment for or in respect of any fine purporting to be made under any such contract, specifying the amount and the nature of the act or omission in respect of which the fine was imposed, and this register shall be at all times open to inspection by one of His Majesty's Inspectors of Factories or of Mines"—Penalty, not exceeding 40s. (Act of 1896, 59 & 60 Vict. c. 44, s. 6).

Procedure.

The procedure under the Truck Acts is regulated by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts (as to meaning of which expression see p. 355), so that, however, no penalty exceeding that prescribed for a second offence shall be imposed summarily (Act of 1887, 50 & 51 Vict. c. 46, s. 13). No person shall be punished as for a second or any subsequent offence unless ten days at least shall have intervened between the conviction of such person for the last offence and the commission by such person of the second or any subsequent offence; each separate offence committed by such person before the expiration of the ten days is punishable by a separate penalty as if the same were the offence (first, second, or third as the case may be) of which the accused was last convicted; offences subsequent to a third offence are punishable as a third offence; if the person or persons preferring the information do not produce evidence of previous conviction or convictions, the offender shall be punished for each offence by a separate and distinct penalty as if each offence were a first or second offence as the case may be; no proceedings for a second or third offence are to be taken more than two years after the conviction for the last preceding offence (Truck Act, 1831, 1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 37, s. 10).

Hosiery manufacture.

By the Hosiery Manufacture Wages Act, 1874, 37 & 38 Vict. c. 48, ss. 2 and 3, in the hosiery trade wages are to be paid in current coin and all contracts to stop wages, and for frame rents and charges, are illegal and void.

Payment by county contractor.

"Every contractor for the execution of any county work shall pay his labourers or artificers in money, and at intervals of not more than fourteen days; and if any contractor shall directly or indirectly attempt to persuade or induce any labourer in the employment of such contractor to take goods in lieu of such wages, or to expend his wages in any particular shop or for any particular purpose, he shall be liable to be summoned before the justices assembled at any petty sessions, on complaint of the party aggrieved, or any other person, and such justices are hereby authorised to hear such complaint and adjudicate thereon; and if such contractor shall be convicted thereof he shall forfeit and pay such sum not exceeding £5 as to such justices shall seem fit; and if any contractor shall neglect to pay any labourer in his employment, at intervals of not more than fourteen days, all wages that may be due to him, save and except the wages of one whole week, he shall be liable to be summoned before the justices assembled at any petty sessions, on complaint of the party aggrieved, for recovery of any wages or money payable to any person employed by him in the execution of such works, so as the sum demanded shall not exceed £6, and such justices assembled as aforesaid are hereby authorised and required to hear such complaint and adjudicate thereon, and it shall be no defence to such complaint that such contractor has not himself received any payment on foot of his contract, and the decision of such justices shall be final; and the sum adjudged to be due shall be levied by warrant of distress, under hand and seal of any two such justices, off the goods and chattels of such contractor" (County Works (Ir.) Act, 1846, 9 & 10 Vict. c. 2, s. 20).

TUBERCULOSIS PREVENTION.

The following is a summary of the chief offences under the Tuberculosis (Ir.) Prevention Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 56 :—

"If a medical practitioner attending on any person within any district to which" Part I. of the "Act extends,<sup>1</sup> becomes aware that that person is suffering in any prescribed circumstances<sup>2</sup> from tuberculosis of any prescribed form, or any prescribed stage, the medical practitioner shall, within seven days after he becomes aware of the fact, send to the medical officer of health a certificate in the prescribed form, and containing the prescribed particulars" (s. 1 (1)), and on failure so to do, he shall be liable on summary conviction to a penalty not exceeding 40s. (s. 1 (4)).

Failure of medical practitioner to notify tuberculosis.

Obstructing or impeding any medical officer of health or other person duly authorised by the sanitary authority to take sample of milk or milk products—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £20; subsequent offence, £50 (s. 16).

Hindering the taking of samples of milk.

Obstructing or impeding officers acting in the destruction, &c., pursuant to the Act, of cow affected with tuberculosis—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £20; subsequent offence, £50 (s. 18).

Hindering the destruction of tuberculous cows.

All penalties to be recovered before a court of summary jurisdiction constituted in manner provided by s. 249 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1877,<sup>3</sup> s. 21.

Procedure.

TURF, STEALING OR DAMAGING.

"Any person who shall steal, or damage with intent to steal, . . . any turf or peat manufactured or partly manufactured for fuel, in case the value of such article or articles stolen or the amount of the injury done shall not exceed 40s."—Penalty, payment of value to party aggrieved and fine not exceeding £5 (Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1862, 25 & 26 Vict. c. 50, s. 5).

Where a tenant persists in cutting turf upon land which forms no part of his holding and to which he has no right, he can be convicted for malicious injury under the Malicious Damage Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 97, s. 52 (R. (M-Elgun) v. Fermanagh JJ. (1883), 17 I.L.T.R. 105), but not if the act was done under a fair and reasonable supposition of a right (Magee v. Montgomery (1883), 17 I.L.T.R. 92). It would be difficult to sustain a conviction for malicious injury against a tenant who wrongfully cut turf on his own holding (Magee v. Montgomery, supra).

<sup>1</sup> That is, to any urban or rural sanitary district, after the adoption of Part I. (s. 3).

<sup>2</sup> That is, as prescribed by the Local Government Board (s. 1 (2)).

<sup>3</sup> That is to say, before two or more justices at petty sessions or some magistrate or officer for the time being empowered by law to do alone any act authorised to be done by more than one justice of the peace sitting at some court or other place appointed for the administration of justice.

UNIFORMS.

Civilian wearing British military or naval uniform or dress having the appearance thereof without permission—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (Uniforms Act, 1894, 57 & 58 Vict. c. 45, s. 2). Not to extend to theatricals (ib.). Civilian wearing such naval or military uniform or dress having the appearance thereof in such a manner and under such circumstances as to be likely to bring contempt on such uniform, or employing another so to do—Penalty, not exceeding £10, or one month's imprisonment (s. 3).

VACCINATION.

	PAGE		PAGE
Vaccination (Ir.) Acts . . . . .	826	Production of child . . . . .	829
Child to be vaccinated within three months of birth . . . . .	826	Unlawful production of smallpox . . . . .	829
Failure to have child vaccinated or inspected . . . . .	827	Neglect to transmit certificate . . . . .	829
Proceedings by guardians to compel vaccination . . . . .	827	False certificate . . . . .	829
Certificate of exemption . . . . .	828	Duties of registrar . . . . .	829
Testing success of vaccination . . . . .	828	Neglect to vaccinate after regis- trar's notice . . . . .	829
Certificate of successful vaccina- tion . . . . .	828	Procedure—
Preventing the taking of lymph . . . . .	829	Under the Vaccination (Ir.) Acts . . . . .	830
		Under the Public Health (Ir.) Act . . . . .	830

Vaccination
(Ir.) Acts.

The law as to vaccination in Ireland, except such of it as is contained in the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, as to which see post, is to be found in the Vaccination (Ir.) Act, 1858, 21 & 22 Vict. c. 64, the Vaccination (Ir.) Act, 1863, 26 & 27 Vict. c. 52, the Vaccination Amendment (Ir.) Act, 1868, 31 & 32 Vict. c. 87, and the Vaccination Amendment (Ir.) Act, 1879, 42 & 43 Vict. c. 70, which Acts are collectively entitled the Vaccination (Ir.) Acts (Act of 1879, s. 12). The Act of 1868 is to be read as one with the Act of 1863 (Act of 1868, s. 2), and the Acts of 1863 and 1868 are to be read as one with the Act of 1879, which (see R. (Vint) v. Donegal JJ. (1904), 2 I.R. 1) is merely an Act to amend the Act of 1863.

Child to be vaccinated within three months of birth.

“The father or mother of every child born in Ireland, or in the event of the death, illness, absence, or inability of the father and mother, then the person who shall have the care, nurture, or custody of the said child, shall, within three months after the birth of such child, or as soon afterwards as may be practicable, take or cause to be taken the said child to the medical officer of the dispensary district in which the said child is resident for the purpose of being vaccinated,<sup>1</sup> unless he shall have been previously vaccinated by some duly qualified medical practitioner, and the vaccination duly certified; and the said medical officer shall, and he is hereby required thereupon, or as soon after as it may conveniently and properly be done, to vaccinate the said child: Provided that in the vaccination of children who are inmates of the workhouse or other public or charitable institution the master, matron, or chief officer of the workhouse or other such institution shall take the steps required to be taken under the provisions of this Act by the father or mother of the child, or other person having the care, nurture, or custody thereof. The father or mother or other person having the care, nurture, or custody of any child born elsewhere than in Ireland, but brought into Ireland after the passing of this Act without having been vaccinated shall be under the same obligation to have such child vaccinated as if the child had been born in Ireland on the day on which he was brought into Ireland" (Vaccination Amendment (Ir.) Act, 1879, 42 & 43 Vict. c. 70, s. 3).

<sup>1</sup> Vaccination is the putting into the body of a child lymph that has been derived from a cow or other animal of the cow class (Belfast Union v. Walker (1905), 39 I.L.T.R. 102).

"Every parent or person having the custody of a child, who neglects to take such child or to cause it to be taken to be vaccinated or after vaccination to be inspected according to the provisions of the Vaccination (Ir.) Acts, and does not render a reasonable excuse for his neglect," shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding 20s. (Act of 1879, s. 7). The "reasonable excuse" is to be rendered to the magistrates on the hearing of the case, and consequently the summons should contain the words "without having a reasonable excuse therefor" and not "and had not rendered a reasonable excuse therefor" (Belfast Union v. Walker (1905), 39 I.L.T.R. 102). This section does not create a new substantive offence, but merely amends s. 8<sup>1</sup> of the Vaccination (Ir.) Act, 1863. Where a person has been convicted under s. 8 of the Act of 1863 for not causing his child to be vaccinated, he cannot in respect of a continued failure to have it vaccinated be again prosecuted under that section, though repeated prosecutions for continued neglect can be brought by the sanitary authority, under the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 52, s. 147 (R. (Vint) v. Donegal J.J. (1904), 2 I.R.L.).

Failure to have child vaccinated or inspected.

"If any registrar, or any officer appointed by the guardians to enforce the provisions of the Acts relating to vaccination in Ireland, shall give information in writing to a justice of the peace that he has reason to believe that any child under the age of fourteen years, being within the union or district for which the informant acts, has not been successfully vaccinated, and that he has given notice<sup>2</sup> to the father or mother of the said child, or to the person having the care, nurture, or custody of such child, to procure its being vaccinated, and that this notice has been disregarded, the justice may summon such father or mother or person to appear with the child<sup>3</sup> before him at a certain time and place, and upon the appearance,<sup>4</sup> if the justice<sup>5</sup> shall find after such examination as he shall deem necessary, that the child has not been<sup>6</sup> vaccinated, nor has already had the smallpox, he may, if he see fit, make an order under his hand and seal directing such child to be vaccinated within a certain time; and if at the expiration of such time the child shall not have been so vaccinated, or shall not be shown to be then unfit to be vaccinated, or to be insusceptible of vaccination, the person upon whom such order shall have been made shall be proceeded against summarily, and unless he can show some reasonable ground<sup>7</sup> for his omission to carry the order into effect, shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding 20s.: Provided that if the justice shall be of opinion that the person is improperly brought Proceedings by guardians to compel vaccination.

<sup>1</sup> As to which, see p. 829.

<sup>2</sup> The notice must be in print or writing (s. 266); as to method of service, see s. 267 (see also Holloway v. Coster (1897), 1 Q.B. 346, decided on 30 & 31 Vict. 84, s. 31).

<sup>3</sup> It would seem from Dutton v. Atkins (1871), L.R. 6 Q.B. 373, decided upon precisely the same words in s. 31 of the English statute 30 & 31 Vict. c. 84, that if the child is not produced the justices may adjudicate and make an order upon such evidence as is adduced. As to the penalty incurred by the person who fails to produce the child, see p. 829.

<sup>4</sup> If the person served with the summons does not appear, the justices may, upon proof of service of the summons, make an order, if evidence to warrant their so doing is adduced (R. (Crawford) v. Cinque Ports J.J. (1886), 17 Q.B.D. 191).

<sup>5</sup> This need not be the justice who signed the summons (Southcombe v. Yeovil Guardians (1897), 1 Q.B. 343).

<sup>6</sup> This, it is submitted, means successfully vaccinated.

<sup>7</sup> An objection on general grounds to vaccination is not a reasonable ground, but a belief reasonably entertained that vaccination would be injurious to a particular child is a reasonable ground (Rutter v. Norton (1893), 57 J.P. 8).

before him, and shall refuse to make any order for the vaccination of the child, he may order the informant to pay to such person such sum of money as he shall consider to be a fair compensation for his expenses and loss of time in attending before the justice" (Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 52, s. 147). Under this section the vaccination of a child may be enforced by repeated convictions for non-compliance with repeated orders (R. (Vint) v. Donegal JJ. (1904), 2 I.R. 1). Although only one justice is required to make the order for vaccination (which, it should be noted, must, according to the section, be under seal, but as to the effect of making which otherwise than under seal, see p. 77. n.<sup>8</sup>), two justices are required for the summary proceedings for the recovery of the penalty (s. 249). The guardians of the union are the proper persons to direct proceedings; the medical officer of the district may be required to attend, and is entitled, in addition to his actual expenses, to such sum not exceeding one guinea a day as the court shall certify (Vaccination Amendment (Ir.) Act, 1879, s. 10).

Certificate of exemption.

If any medical officer or practitioner<sup>1</sup> shall be of opinion that any child is not in a fit and proper state to be successfully vaccinated, he shall thereupon deliver free to the father or mother or person having the care, nurture, or custody of such child a certificate to that effect in the form provided, and such certificate shall remain in force for two calendar months from such delivery. The child must be taken to the medical officer or practitioner within, or at the termination of, such period, who is to vaccinate it forthwith or deliver a fresh certificate, to be in force for another two months and so on. The production of the certificate shall be a sufficient defence to proceedings for failure to vaccinate (Vaccination (Ir.) Act, 1863, 26 & 27 Vict. c. 52, s. 4). If a medical practitioner is of opinion that any child that has been vaccinated by him is insusceptible of the vaccine disease, he shall deliver to the father or mother or person having the care, nurture, or custody of such child a certificate to that effect according to the form in the Act, and the production of such certificate shall be a sufficient defence against any complaint for non-compliance with provisions as to vaccination (s. 6).

Testing success of vaccination.

"Upon the same day of the week following the day on which any child has been vaccinated as aforesaid, the father or mother or other person having the care, nurture, or custody of the said child shall again take or cause to be taken the said child to the medical officer by whom the operation was performed, in order that such medical officer may ascertain by inspection the result of such operation, and if he see fit, take from such child lymph for the performance of other vaccinations; and in the event of the vaccination being unsuccessful, such parent or other person shall, if the medical officer so direct, cause the child to be forthwith again vaccinated and inspected as on the previous occasion" (Vaccination Amendment (Ir.) Act, 1879, s. 4).

Certificate of successful
vaccination.

Immediately on the successful vaccination of a child, the medical officer or practitioner who shall have performed the operation shall deliver to the father or mother or person having the care, nurture, or custody of the child a certificate of successful vaccination, in the form prescribed by the Act, and transmit a duplicate to the Registrar of Births of the district where the child was registered, or, if after due inquiry such district is not known, or if the birth of the child has not been registered, to the registrar of the district where the operation has been performed, but if the medical officer of any dispensary district is also the Registrar of Births of the district it shall be sufficient to sign one certificate to be delivered to the parent or other person as aforesaid and to register the fact of such vaccination (Vaccination Amendment (Ir.) Act, 1879, 42 & 43 Vict. c. 70, s. 5). Such certificate shall, without further proof, be admissible as evidence of the facts therein stated (ib.).

<sup>1</sup> This means a registered practitioner (Cromack v. Brennard (1873), 37 J.P. 276).

Every person who prevents any dispensary medical officer from taking from any child lymph, as provided by s. 4 of the Act,<sup>1</sup> shall be liable on summary conviction to a penalty not exceeding 20s. (Vaccination Amendment (Ir.) Act, 1879, 42 & 43 Vict. c. 70, s. 7). Preventing the taking of lymph.

Any parent or person having the custody of a child who fails to produce such child when required to do so by any summons under the Vaccination (Ir.) Acts shall be liable on summary conviction to a penalty not exceeding 20s. (ib.). Production of child.

"Any person who shall produce or attempt to produce in any person by inoculation with variolous matter or by wilful exposure to variolous matter, or to any matter, article, or thing impregnated with variolous matter, or wilfully by any other means whatsoever produce the disease of smallpox in any person, shall be guilty of an offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against summarily before two or more justices of the peace in petty sessions assembled, and upon conviction to be imprisoned for any term not exceeding six months" (Vaccination Amendment (Ir.) Act, 1868, 31 & 32 Vict. c. 87, s. 4). Unlawful production of smallpox.

"Every medical officer, parent, or person, as the case shall require, who shall neglect to transmit any certificate required of him by the provisions of the Vaccination (Ir.) Acts, completely filled up and legibly written, to the registrar within the time specified by the said Acts, and every medical officer who shall refuse to deliver the duplicate to the parent or other person, on request, or who shall refuse to fill up and sign the certificate of successful vaccination, shall be liable . . . to a penalty not exceeding 20s.; and every person who shall wilfully sign a false certificate or duplicate under this Act shall be guilty of a misdemeanour and punishable accordingly" (Vaccination Amendment (Ir.) Act, 1879, 42 & 43 Vict. c. 70, s. 8). Neglect to transmit certificate.
False certificate.

"The Registrar of Births and Deaths in the district in which the operation has been performed shall register the same in a register which he shall keep of the persons of whose successful vaccination a certificate shall have been transmitted to him . . . and of the persons whom he himself has successfully vaccinated" (Vaccination (Ir.) Act, 1863, 26 & 27 Vict. c. 52, s. 7); and "every registrar who shall fail to register as aforesaid the vaccination of any child successfully vaccinated, and duly certified to him to have been so vaccinated within his district, or who shall register the vaccination of any child which shall not have been successfully vaccinated, or certified to him to have been so vaccinated, shall forfeit a sum not exceeding 20s." (s. 10). Duties of registrar.

The registrar, immediately after the registration of the birth of any child who shall not have been certified to him as having been vaccinated within six months from birth, shall give notice to the father or mother, or in the event of their death, illness, absence, or inability from sickness or otherwise, then to the person upon whom the care, nurture, or custody of such child shall have devolved, requiring them in the form prescribed by the Act to have the child vaccinated, and shall together with such notice deliver another notice of the days, hours, and places within the district at which the medical officer will attend for the purpose of vaccination, and shall enter in a book a minute of his having duly given such notice; and if after such notice the parent or person having custody, &c., of the child shall not cause such child to be vaccinated or shall not on the eighth day after vaccination take or cause to be taken such child for inspection without reasonable excuse, then such father or mother or person Neglect to vaccinate after notice from registrar.

<sup>1</sup> As to which, see supra.

having the care, &c., of such child shall forfeit a sum not exceeding 10s. (Vaccination (Ir.) Act, 1863, s. 8).

Procedure :
Under the Vaccination
(Ir.) Acts.

Penalties under the Vaccination (Ir.) Acts are recoverable summarily in manner provided by the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Acts <sup>1</sup> (Vaccination (Ir.) Act, 1863, 26 & 27 Vict. c. 52, s. 12). In any prosecution under those Acts for neglect to procure the vaccination of a child, it shall not be necessary in support thereof to prove that the defendant had received notice from the registrar or any other officer of the requirements of the law in that respect, and on any such prosecution a certificate, or the entry in the register, of successful vaccination is a sufficient defence <sup>2</sup> (Vaccination Amendment (Ir.) Act, 1879, 42 & 43 Vict. c. 70, s. 9).

Under the Public Health
(Ir.) Act,
1878.

"The defendant in any proceedings under the Vaccination (Ir.) Acts may appear by any member of his family or any other person authorised by him in this behalf" (s. 7). Two justices are requisite in proceedings to recover a penalty under the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, and any such penalty is recoverable in manner provided by the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Acts <sup>3</sup> (Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 52, s. 249).

VAGRANTS.

Vagrancy,
begging, &c.

"Every person wandering abroad and begging or placing himself in any public place, street, highway, court, or passage, to beg or gather alms, or causing or procuring or encouraging any child or children so to do, and every person, who having been resident in any union in Ireland, shall go from such union to some other union, or from one electoral or relief district to another electoral or relief district in Ireland, for the purpose of obtaining relief in such last-mentioned union or district, shall on conviction . . . if the justice think fit, be committed" for any time not exceeding one calendar month with hard labour (Vagrancy (Ir.) Act, 1847, 10 & 11 Vict. c. 84, s. 3).

Persons punishable as rogues and vagrabonds.

"Every person committing any of the offences hereinbefore mentioned after having been convicted as an idle and disorderly person ; <sup>4</sup> every person pretending or professing to tell fortunes, or using any subtle craft, means, or device by palmistry or otherwise, to deceive and impose on any of His Majesty's subjects ; every person wandering abroad and lodging in any barn or outhouse, or in any deserted or unoccupied building, or in the open air, or under a tent, or in any cart or waggon, not having any visible means of subsistence, and not giving a good account of himself or herself ; every person wilfully exposing to view, in any street, road, highway, or public place, any obscene print, picture, or other indecent exhibition ; every person wilfully, openly, lewdly, and obscenely exposing his person in any street, road, or public highway, or in the view thereof, or in any place of public resort with intent to insult any female ; every

<sup>1</sup> As to which, see p. 335.

<sup>2</sup> See also s. 4 of the Act of 1863, p. 828.

<sup>3</sup> For the meaning of which expression, see p. 335.

<sup>4</sup> That is to say, convicted under s. 3, which enacts that every person being able to maintain himself and wilfully refusing or neglecting to do so, whereby he or she or any of his or her family become chargeable to any place, every pedlar wandering abroad and trading without being duly licensed, every common prostitute wandering in any place of public resort and behaving in a riotous or indecent manner, and every person placing himself on any public place to beg or gather alms or causing or encouraging any child so to do, shall be deemed an idle and disorderly person ; but s. 3, unlike s. 4, has not been extended to Ireland, and consequently the words in italics are of no effect in Ireland.

person wandering abroad and endeavouring by the exposure of wounds or deformities to obtain or gather alms; every person going about as a gatherer or collector of alms, or endeavouring to procure charitable contributions of any nature or kind, under any false or fraudulent pretence; every person running away and leaving his wife, or his or her child or children, chargeable, or whereby she or they or any of them shall become chargeable, to any parish, township, or place; every person playing or betting in any street, road, highway, or other open and public place, at or with any table or instrument of gaming, at any game or pretended game of chance; every person having in his or her custody or possession any picklock key, crow, jack, bit, or other implement, with intent feloniously to break into any dwelling-house, warehouse, coach-house, stable or outbuilding, or being armed with any gun, pistol, hanger, cutlass, bludgeon or other offensive weapon, or having upon him or her any instrument, with intent to commit any felonious act; every person being found in or upon any dwelling-house, warehouse, coach-house, stable or outhouse, or in any enclosed yard, garden, or area for any unlawful purpose; every suspected person or reputed thief, frequenting [or loitering about or in]<sup>1</sup> any river, canal, or navigable stream, dock, or basin, or any quay, wharf, or warehouse, near or adjoining thereto, or any street, highway, or avenue leading thereto, or any street [or any highway or any place adjacent to a street or highway]<sup>2</sup> with intent to commit felony; and every person apprehended as an idle and disorderly person, and violently resisting any constable, or other peace officer so apprehending him or her, and being subsequently convicted of the offence for which he or she shall have been so apprehended; <sup>3</sup> shall be deemed a rogue and vagabond . . . ; and it shall be lawful for any justice of the peace to commit such offender (being thereof convicted before him by the confession of such offender or by the evidence on oath of one or more credible witness or witnesses) to the house of correction, there to be kept to hard labour for any time not exceeding three calendar months; and every such picklock key, crow, jack, bit, and other implement, and every such gun, pistol, hanger, cutlass, bludgeon, or other offensive weapon, and every such instrument as aforesaid shall by the conviction of such offender become forfeited to the King's Majesty" (Vagrancy Act, 1824. 5 Geo. 4, c. 83, s. 4).

Persons punishable as rogues and vagabonds.

This section has been applied to Ireland by the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, s. 15, which also enacts as follows:—"In proving the intent to commit a felony it shall not be necessary to show that the person suspected was guilty of any particular act or acts tending to show his purpose or intent, and he may be convicted if from the circumstances of the case, and from his known character, as proved to the justice of the peace or court before whom or which he is brought, it appears to such justice or court that his intent was to commit a felony" (Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, 34 & 35 Vict. c. 112, s. 15).

As to penalty on vagrants wandering about and taking children with them, so that such children do not receive efficient education, see the Children Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 67, s. 118, APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

Vagrancy offences are triable out of sessions (Petty Sessions Act, 1851, Procedure. s. 8 (2)).

<sup>1</sup> The effect of the Penal Servitude Act, 1891, 54 & 55 Vict. c. 69, s. 7, is that s. 4 of the Vagrancy Act, 1824, is to be read as if the words in brackets had been inserted in it.

<sup>2</sup> The words in brackets are substituted for the words "highway or place adjacent" (which formed part of the section as originally enacted) by the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, 34 & 35 Vict. c. 112, s. 15.

<sup>3</sup> The words in italics are of no effect in Ireland. See p. 830, n.<sup>4</sup>

VETERINARY SURGEONS.<sup>1</sup>

	PAGE		PAGE
Statutes . . . . .	832	Obtaining registration by false representation . . . . .	833
Falsely pretending to be F.R.C.V.S. or M.R.C.V.S. . . . .	832	Wilful falsification of register . . . . .	833
Falsely pretending to be a veterinary surgeon . . . . .	832	Procedure . . . . .	833

Statutes.

The Acts relating to veterinary surgeons are the Veterinary Surgeons Act, 1881, 44 & 45 Vict. c. 62, and the Veterinary Surgeons Amendment Act, 1900, 63 & 64 Vict. c. 24, which (see s. 1 of the later Act) are to be read together.

Falsely pretending to be F.R.C.V.S. or M.R.C.V.S.

"If any person, not being a Fellow or a Member of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons, takes or uses any name, title, addition, or description, by means of initials or letters placed after his name, or otherwise, stating or implying that he is a Fellow or a Member of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding £20" (Act of 1881, 44 & 45 Vict. c. 62, s. 16).

Falsely pretending to be a veterinary surgeon.

"If any person, other than a person who for the time being is on the register<sup>2</sup> of veterinary surgeons, or who at the time of the passing of this Act, held the veterinary certificate of the Highland and Agricultural Society of Scotland (and who has not been deprived, pursuant to s. 2 of the Act of 1900, of the right to style himself a member of the veterinary profession),<sup>3</sup> takes or uses the title of Veterinary Surgeon, or Veterinary Practitioner, or any name, title, addition, or description stating that he is a Veterinary Surgeon, or a Practitioner of Veterinary Surgery or of any branch thereof, or is specially qualified to practise the same, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding £20" (s. 17 (1)).

The words "specially qualified" must now be taken to mean "possessing a special diploma or qualification," and not merely possession of skill or capacity (Bellerby v. Heyworth (1910), A.C. 377, noted p. 416).<sup>4</sup>

An unqualified person who described himself as a "pharmaceutical and veterinary chemist" was held to have committed no offence (College of Veterinary Surgeons v. Groves (1893), 57 J.P. 505).

The defendant company was incorporated with the object of carrying on business as, inter alia, veterinary surgeons. It was a one man company, the defendant C., who was not registered under the Veterinary Surgeons Act, 1881, being the sole director. On the front of the defendant company's business was the following statement: "Churchill's Veterinary Sanatorium, Limited. Dogs and Cats Boarded. Jas. Churchill, M.D., U.S.A., Specialist, Managing Director." In an action at the relation of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons to restrain the defendants from <sup>1</sup> The veterinary art includes the study of the anatomical structure of horses, cattle, sheep, dogs, and other domesticated animals, the diseases to which they are subject, and the remedies proper to be applied. See s. 20 of the Act of 1881, the charters granted to the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons in 1875 and 1877, and R.C.V.S. v. Collinson (1908), 2 K.B. 248.

<sup>2</sup> The register includes members of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons and also "existing practitioners"—that is, persons who procured registration by reason of having practised veterinary surgery for upwards of five years before the passing of the Act, but such persons are not deemed to be members of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons (Act of 1881, s. 15), though they can recover fees (s. 17).

<sup>3</sup> The words in italics show the effect of s. 2 of the Act of 1900.

<sup>4</sup> The cases of Veterinary College v. Robinson (1892), 1 Q.B. 557, where the defendant was held rightly convicted for describing his place of business as a "Veterinary Forge," and Veterinary College v. Collinson (1908), 2 K.B. 248, where the conviction of a defendant who described himself as "Canine Specialist: Dogs and Cats Treated for all Diseases," was upheld, must now be treated as over-ruled.

taking or using any name, title, addition, or description implying that they were specially qualified to practise the art of veterinary surgery or from holding out the said company as being qualified or being conducted by persons who were qualified to practise the said art. Held, that there was a representation by the defendants that C. was a practitioner of a branch of veterinary surgery, that he was described in a way which was contrary to the provisions of s. 17 of the Veterinary Surgeons Act, 1881, and that an injunction must be granted to restrain such representation being made (Attorney-General v. Churchill's Veterinary Sanatorium (Limited) and James Churchill (1910), 26 T.L.R. 630).

Wilfully procuring or attempting to procure registration by false certificate or representation, either in writing or otherwise, misdemeanour—Obtaining registration by false representation.
Penalty, on summary conviction, fine not exceeding £50 or twelve months' imprisonment with or without hard labour (Act of 1881, s. 11).

Wilful falsification of register by registrar, misdemeanour—Penalty, on summary conviction, fine not exceeding £50 or twelve months' imprisonment with or without hard labour (s. 12). Wilful falsification of register.

Fines and imprisonment under the Act may be recovered and imposed summarily in Ireland within the Dublin metropolitan police district according to the Dublin Police Acts; elsewhere in manner directed by the Petty Sessions Act, 1851 (s. 19). Prosecutions may be instituted by the Council of the Royal College of Veterinary Surgeons, but shall not be instituted by a private person without the written consent of the Council (ib.). Copies of the register published by the registrar pursuant to s. 3, are prima facie evidence that the persons named therein are on the register and that persons not therein named are not on the register; the registrar may give a certified copy of the entry of the name of a person on the register, which shall be evidence that such person is on the register (s. 9). Procedure.

WASTE TO LANDS.

Under s. 35 of the Landlord and Tenant (Ir.) Act, 1860, 23 & 24 Vict. c. 154, a justice of the peace may issue a precept to restrain a tenant, servant, or caretaker from committing or permitting waste, or from burning or breaking up any part of the soil, or removing same, or cutting down trees, &c. (see the section at p. 192, ante).

"If any person shall, after the service or posting of such precept, in disobedience thereto, without such leave and authority as aforesaid,<sup>1</sup> proceed with or continue to do the act prohibited by such precept, or wilfully aid, abet, or assist in so doing, he shall, on conviction thereof before two or more justices of the peace at petty sessions, be liable to be imprisoned for a period not exceeding one calendar month; and all the provisions of the Petty Sessions (Ir.) Act, 1851, respecting summary convictions before justices at petty sessions and respecting appeals therefrom, shall be applicable to every conviction under this section" (Landlord and Tenant (Ir.) Act, 1860, 23 & 24 Vict. c. 154, s. 36).

It is submitted that a right of appeal lies against every order for imprisonment under the section, even though such imprisonment does not exceed one month.

<sup>1</sup> That is, of the justice issuing the precept.

WATER.

By the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 52, s. 67, certain sections of the Waterworks Clauses Act, 1847, 10 & 11 Vict. c. 17, and the whole of the Waterworks Clauses Act, 1863, 26 & 27 Vict. c. 93, are incorporated. As to the offences under the sections so incorporated, see PUBLIC HEALTH at p. 715.

Procedure.

The foregoing penalties are to be recovered in manner provided by ss. 249–261 of the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 52 (Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1878, s. 278, as to which see p. 694).

As to recovery of water rates and rents for water meters, see CIVIL JURISDICTION, pp. 165–167.

As to larceny of water from pipes of persons supplying it for payment, see LARCENY.

WEEDS AND AGRICULTURAL SEEDS.

The Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction for Ireland have certain powers in reference to noxious weeds and taking samples of agricultural seeds under the Weeds and Agricultural Seeds (Ir.) Act, 1909, 9 Edw. 7, c. 31, printed verbatim, APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

WEIGHTS AND MEASURES.

	PAGE		PAGE
Statutes . . . . .	834	Sale of coal ( continued )—
Use in trade of weights and measures other than imperial standards . . . . .	835	Weighing instruments . . . . .	844
Price lists to be in imperial standards . . . . .	836	Power to require vehicle to be weighed . . . . .	845
Use and possession of unauthorised weights, measures, and weighing instruments . . . . .	836	Power to weigh coal in vehicle, &c. . . . .	845
Unjust weights . . . . .	837	False weight . . . . .	845
Fraud in use of weights, &c. . . . .	839	Obstructing inspector . . . . .	846
Manufacture or sale of false weights or measures . . . . .	839	Bye-laws and penalties . . . . .	846
Stamping and verification—		Offences intentionally fraudulent . . . . .	847
Necessity for . . . . .	839	Application of Acts to mines . . . . .	847
Use of unstamped weights and measures . . . . .	840	Application of Acts to factories . . . . .	847
Pewter and lead weights . . . . .	840	Procedure . . . . .	847
Weights for coin . . . . .	840	Appeal . . . . .	848
Forgery and alteration of stamps or weights, &c. . . . .	840	Offences as to market brands, &c.—
No deductions for tret, &c. . . . .	841	Counterfeiting market brands, &c. . . . .	848
Inspectors . . . . .	841	Fraudulently increasing weight of butter . . . . .	848
Examination of weights, &c. . . . .	841	Fraudulently increasing weight of wool . . . . .	848
Stamping weights in district of another inspector . . . . .	842	Procedure . . . . .	848
Misconduct of inspectors . . . . .	842	Weighing of cattle at markets and fairs—
Wrongfully acting as inspector . . . . .	843	Accommodation to be provided . . . . .	848
Sale of coal—		Cattle to be weighed . . . . .	848
By weight only . . . . .	843	Refusal to weigh cattle or give ticket . . . . .	848
Weight ticket, when required . . . . .	843	Fraud . . . . .	849
Neglect to deliver ticket . . . . .	843	Tolls . . . . .	849
Tare weight of vehicle . . . . .	844	Returns by market authority . . . . .	849
Fraud by driver . . . . .	844	Auction marts . . . . .	849
Deficiency in weight on small sales . . . . .	844

Statutes.

The law as to weights and measures is consolidated by the Weights and Measures Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 49, which has itself been amended by the Weights and Measures Act, 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 21, the Weights and Measures Act, 1893, 56 & 57 Vict. c. 19, the Weights and Measures Act, 1897, 60 & 61 Vict. c. 46, and the Weights and Measures Act, 1904, 4 Edw. 7, c. 28, as well as by an Act of 1892 which does not apply to Ireland. It is provided by the Acts of 1889, 1893, 1897, and 1904 that those Acts are to be read as one with the Act of 1878, which by the Act of 1889 is entitled "the principal Act"; and by the Act of 1904 the Acts of 1878, 1889, 1893, 1897, and 1904, as well as the Act of 1892, are collectively entitled the "Weights and Measures Acts, 1878 to 1904."

"No local or customary measures, nor the use of the heaped measure, shall be lawful. Any person who sells by any denomination of weight or measure other than one of the imperial weights or measures,<sup>1</sup> or some multiple or part thereof"—Penalty, not exceeding £2 for every such sale (Weights and Measures Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 49, s. 19).

Using weights and measures other than imperial standards.

"All articles sold by weight shall be sold by avoirdupois weight, except that (1) gold and silver, and articles made thereof, including gold and silver thread, lace, or fringe, also platinum, diamonds, and other precious metals or stones, may be sold by the ounce troy or by any decimal parts of such ounce . . . (2) drugs when sold by retail may be sold by apothecaries weight"—Penalty, for contravention of section, not exceeding £5 (Weights and Measures Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 49, s. 20).

"Nothing in this Act shall prevent the sale, or subject a person to a fine under this Act for the sale, of an article in any vessel, where such vessel is not represented as containing any amount of imperial measure, nor subject a person to a fine under this Act for the possession of a vessel where it is shown that such vessel is not used nor intended for use as a measure" (41 & 42 Vict. c. 49, s. 22).

The weights and measures dealt with by the above sections must be in use for "trade," which by s. 19 is defined as any "contract, bargain, sale, or dealing made or had in the United Kingdom for any work, goods, wares, merchandise or other thing which has been or is to be done, sold, delivered, carried, or agreed for by weight or measure." Any such "trade" transaction, if by weight or measure, shall be deemed to be made according to imperial weight or measure, and if made according to any other weight or measure<sup>2</sup> shall be void (s. 19). All tolls and duties charged or collected according to weight or measure must be charged and collected according to imperial weight and measure<sup>2</sup> (s. 19). The Acts therefore do not apply where the sale or other transaction is not upon the basis of weight or measure. A manufacturer and smelter of lead used a pair of beam scales for checking the weight of the "pigs" of lead produced by the works. The weights were entered in a book kept at the works, and when lead was delivered to purchasers, invoices were sent specifying the weight and, when the railway was used for forwarding the lead consignment, notes specifying the weight were sent. Held, the beam scales were used for trade (Crick v. Theobald (1895), 72 L.T. 807). Similarly in Horder v. Roberts (1880), 44 J.P. 256, a weighing machine used by iron foundries for checking the weight of iron delivered by consignees was held by quarter sessions to be "used for trade." Where vessels, not of imperial measure, are used to supply goods, but in fact the vessels are not used for measured quantities, no offence is committed. An alehouse keeper who used for trade a measure marked " $\frac{1}{3}$ rd of a gill" used it for selling threepence worth of spirits. Held, the vessel was not used as a measure under the Acts (Bellamy v. Pow (1896), 12 T.L.R. 527). So in Craig v. McPhee (1883), 10 Sess. Cas. (Just.), 4th Series, 51, it was held that no offence was committed where a licensed dealer ordinarily used

Use "in trade."

Use as measure.

<sup>1</sup> Including metric weights and measures (Act of 1897, s. 1).

<sup>2</sup> The use of metric weights and measures is legalised by the Act of 1897, s. 1.

Using weights and measures other than imperial standards.

glass vessels, not of imperial measure, of three sizes to supply three, six, and twelve pence worth of liquor, and no other quantity, such as two or four pence worth, was supplied in the vessels. In Robinson v. Golding (1910), 103 L.T. 248, a milk carrier, in the course of delivering milk at certain houses, took a can, which was an ordinary can with a lid used for delivering milk, and filled it from the tap of the churn. He then left the can containing the milk on the doorstep of a house where it had apparently been ordered by a purchaser. He was thereupon asked by an inspector what he had delivered to the purchaser, and he replied, "A pint of milk." The can was not stamped as a measure, but was of the correct capacity (a pint) when the lid was not closed. It was not completely filled when the inspector measured the milk, which was deficient by half an ounce. Held, that the can was being used as a measure for trade.

Multiple of standard.

The use of customary measures is forbidden, but it would seem that a customary denomination which is in fact a multiple of the standard unit is a legal measure. Thus, it was held under the similar provisions of repealed Acts that a sale by weight by the Welsh "nobbitt" was legal, the "nobbitt" being equal to 168 lbs. (Hughes v. Humphreys (1854), 3 E. & B. 954; see also Jones v. Giles (1854), 10 Ex. 119 (decided under 5 & 6 Wm. 4, c. 63, and 5 Geo. 4, c. 74), affirmed 11 Ex. 393).

Price lists to be in imperial standards.

"Any person who prints, and any clerk of a market or other person who makes, any return, price list, price current, or any journal or other paper containing price list or price current, in which the denomination of weights and measures quoted or referred to denotes or implies a greater or less weight or measure than is denoted or implied by the same denomination of the imperial weights and measures under this Act"<sup>1</sup>—Penalty, not exceeding 10s. for every copy published (Act of 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 49, s. 23).

Use and possession of unauthorised weights, measures, and weighing instruments.

"Every person who uses or has in his possession for use for trade a weight or measure which is not of the denomination of some Board of Trade standard"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £5; second offence, £10; weight or measure may be forfeited (Act of 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 49, s. 24).<sup>2</sup>

"Every person who uses or has in his possession for use for trade<sup>3</sup> any measure or weight not stamped as required by this section"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £5; second offence, £10; weight or measure may be forfeited (41 & 42 Vict. c. 49, s. 29).

"Every person who uses or has in his possession for use for trade<sup>3</sup> any weighing instrument not stamped as required by this Act"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £2; second offence, £5 (Act of 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 21, s. 1 (2)).

The stamp required under the Acts of 1878 and 1889 is a stamp of verification stamped by an inspector (Act of 1878, s. 29; Act of 1889, s. 1 (1)). If a weight, measure, or weighing instrument has been properly stamped and the stamp has become obliterated in the course of use, the person having such weight or instrument in his possession is not guilty of an offence if the weight, measure, or instrument is otherwise just (Starr v. Stringer (1872), L.R. 7 C.P. 383). An incorrect statement as to weight or measure of goods applied to the goods may be a false trade description within the meaning of the Merchandise Marks Act, 1887 (see MERCHANDISE MARKS).

"Every person who uses or has in his possession for use for trade any weight, measure, scale, balance, steelyard, or weighing machine, which is Unjust false or unjust"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £5, and forfeiture of weights. unjust weight, &c. (Act of 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 49, s. 25); second offence, not exceeding £20 and like forfeiture (Act of 1889, s. 3).

<sup>1</sup> Or of metric weights and measures (Act of 1897, s. 1).

<sup>2</sup> A prosecution for an offence under this section by a police constable as inspector is a constabulary prosecution and the summons can be served by the police (R. (Lawlor) v. King's Co. JJ. (1907), 41 I.L.T.R. 77).

<sup>3</sup> For definition of "trade," see Act of 1878, s. 19, p. 835, ante.

"If any person exercising or carrying on a trade or business under or subject to any law of excise and required to keep scales or weights or measures:—(a) in the weighing of his stock or any goods, uses or suffers to be used, any false, unjust, or insufficient scales or weight or measure with intent to defraud His Majesty of any duty of excise"—Penalty, £100, and forfeiture of scales, &c.<sup>1</sup> (Revenue Act, 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 42, s. 29).

G. was charged with having in his possession unjust weights. Use for trade. The facts proved were that G. had in his barn a pair of scales and two weights which were light. The inspector saw no produce in the place, and could not prove that G. kept or exposed for sale or weighed for conveyance or carriage any goods. Held, that there was no evidence to support the conviction (Griffiths v. Place (1869), 20 L.T. 484). Where coals were weighed and delivered out of a police station to the constables as part of their allowances and pay and the weights were false. Held, that the coals were not kept for sale nor weighed for conveyance under the repealed Act, 5 & 6 Wm. 4, c. 63, ss. 21, 28 (Wray v. Reynolds (1858), 1 E. & E. 165). Under the same Act earthenware vessels unstamped, but ordinarily used as containing a certain quantity according to imperial measures, were held to be measures within the Act and the user was held subject to penalties where the same were unjust<sup>2</sup> (R. (Burton) v. Aulton (1861), 3 E. & E. 568; Washington v. Young (1850), 5 Ex. 403). Churns used for conveying milk having gauges upon them indicating the quantity of milk in each are measures used for trade (Harris v. London County Council (1895), 1 Q.B. 240); but where a dairy company supplied churns to a farmer for sending the milk to their dairy and the churns were marked with discs intended to denote, but inaccurately denoting, "barn" gallons, and the farmer gave evidence that he used the discs as the basis of his bills, whilst the secretary of the company stated that he did not use the discs for measuring the quantity received, the refusal of the justices to convict the company for using unjust measures was upheld (Bellamy v. G.W. and Metropolitan Dairies (1908), 72 J.P. 284).

The term "barrel" in the beer trade means a cask of thirty-six "Barrel." gallons, and an invoice describing as a barrel a cask which contains less than thirty-six gallons is a false trade description within the Merchandise Marks Act, 1887, 50 & 51 Vict. c. 28, s. 2 (1) (d) (Budd v. Lucas (1891), 1 Q.B. 408).

Whether a weighing machine is or is not unjust is a question of fact "Unjust" (R. v. Baxendale (1880), 44 J.P. 763). A weighing machine is unjust if it does not hang true when there is nothing in either scale or when equal weights are put into the goods scale on one side and into the weights scale on the other side (London County Council v. Payne (2) (1905), 1 K.B. 410, at p. 416). Where wholesale tea merchants, in order to supply retailers who desired to have packets of tea of certain weights, the weight to include the bag, used scales for weighing tea for such orders specially adjusted either by placing in or under the goods scale a paper bag, or by affixing to the goods scale a metal disc of the same weight as the bag, it was held that such scales were unjust under s. 25 of the Act of 1878 (London County Council v. Payne (1) (1904), 1 K.B. 194; London County Council v. Payne, No. 2 (1905), 1 K.B. 410; and see Lane v. Rendall (1899), 2 Q.B. 673). But when honest scales are used with an adjustment of weights in the pans for a particular weighing process the scales are not unjust. Thus, where a coal merchant used in weighing coals an honest machine and for convenience of removal placed a barrow and sack weighing together seven pounds in the goods scale and an equivalent seven pounds weight in the weight scale the scales were held just (Withall v. Francis (1878), 42 J.P. 612). A weigh-bridge which required adjustment before use, and which was in fact always adjusted before use, is not an incorrect weighing instrument under 5 & 6 Wm. 4, c. 63, s. 28, though found untrue by an inspector who did not adjust it before use (L.N.W. Ry. v. Richards (1862), 2 B. & S. 326), but a machine, not normally requiring such adjustment, which has through use become inaccurate, is an unjust instrument (G.W. Ry. v. Bailie (1865), 5 B. & S. 928).

<sup>1</sup> By summary proceeding before two justices (7 & 8 Geo. 4, c. 53, ss. 3, 65; 51 & 52 Vict. c. 8, s. 8). See pp. 79-80.

<sup>2</sup> See Bellamy v. Pow, and Craig v. McPhee (ante, p. 835).

Unjust weights.

Use in government department.

A postmaster who carried on the business of a baker upon the post office premises was supplied by the Post Office with a pair of scales, the property of the Post Office, for use only in the business of the Post Office. The scales were untrue. Held, that the justices had no jurisdiction to hear an information under s. 25, the Act having no application to scales the property of a government department (R. v. Kent JJ. or Bromley JJ. (1889), 24 Q.B.D. 181).

Fraud of servant.

Where a servant in the course of an ingenious system of fraud used an unjust measure for purposes of his own, and not in the interest of his employers, and without their knowledge, it was held that the possession of the servant was not the possession of the employers<sup>1</sup> (Anglo-American Oil Co. v. Manning (1908), 1 K.B. 536).

The following cases relating to weights have been decided under ss. 2 (1) and 3 (a) of the Merchandise Marks Act, 1887:<sup>2</sup> 50 & 51 Vict. c. 28.

When a false trade description.

The appellant asked for two half pounds of tea, and was supplied with two packets each containing less than half a pound, but in each case weighing more than half a pound including the wrapper, on which in each case there was printed a notice that the weight, including the wrapper, was half a pound. Held, that there was no "application" to the goods of a false trade description (Langley v. Bombay Tea Co. (1900), 2 Q.B. 460). The respondent bought from the appellants a quarter of a pound of tea. The packet was ready made up in silver paper and tied up with string. The shopman put a ticket under the string, wrapped up the packet in brown paper, and delivered it to the respondent. On the silver paper was printed "Star Tea Co.'s Blend—Quarter pound gross weight." On one side of the ticket was printed "Star Tea Co. Ltd. Quarter pound 2s. 8d. tea ticket," and on the other side a notice to the effect that every purchaser of a quarter of a pound of tea and upwards was given some useful article or a check. The respondent was not shown the silver paper, nor was it handed to him to read. There were only three and three-quarter ounces of tea in the packet. Held, that the ticket was a "false trade description" within the meaning of the Merchandise Marks Act, 1887, s. 2 (1) (d) (Star Tea Co. v. Whitworth (1904), 20 Cox 658). The respondent ordered from the appellants a kilderkin of ale, and received a cask of ale together with an invoice which purported to be for a kilderkin. The cask contained only 17 gallons, 1 quart, and 1 pint, whereas a kilderkin should contain 18 gallons. The K.B. upheld a conviction under s. 2 (1) (d) of the Merchandise Marks Act, 1887 (N.E. Breweries Ltd. v. Gibson (1904), 20 Cox 706). The provisions of s. 2 (2) of the Merchandise Marks Act, 1887, make a master criminally liable for acts done by his servants in contravention of that section when acting within the general scope of their employment, although contrary <sup>1</sup> The court, however, said (per Channel, J., at p. 545) that this decision was not to govern any similar case. For a fuller note of the case, see p. 297.

<sup>2</sup> As to which, see MERCHANDISE MARKS.

to the orders of their master, unless the master can show he acted in good faith and did all that was reasonably possible to prevent the commission of offences by his servants (Coppen v. Moore (2) (1898), 2 Q.B. 306).

"Where any fraud is wilfully committed in the using of any weight, measure, scale, balance, steelyard, or weighing machine"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £5; second offence, £20, with liability to forfeiture of weight, &c. (Weights and Measures Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 49, s. 26; Weights and Measures Act, 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 21, s. 3).

Fraud in the use of weighing instruments, weights, and measures.

A. bought sugar, tea, and currants by weight from a grocer, and a paper bag was weighed with each article, the total deficiency being 46 drams. A. knew of the practice and did not complain. Held, that the grocer was wrongly convicted under s. 26 of the Act of 1878 (Harris v. Allwood (1893), 57 J.P. 7). A purchaser, acting on behalf of the inspector of weights and measures, entered a grocer's shop and asked for four ounces of tea. The grocer's assistant in the presence of the purchaser put tea into a paper wrapper, weighed the tea and the wrapper together, and handed both to the purchaser. The net weight of the tea was three drams less than four ounces. The scales were just and accurate. The grocer admitted that when the tea was made up in packets ready for sale and marked "Tea, net weight without the paper," the weight of the paper was not included, and that when tea was sold otherwise than in packets so marked, he had instructed his assistants to weigh the paper along with the tea. The justices refused to admit evidence that it was customary in the trade to weigh the paper with the tea. Held, that the weighing of tea and paper in the presence of the customer, in such a way that he knew that he was getting, in tea and paper, the weight for which he had asked, did not by itself constitute a wilful commission of fraud; held, also, that the evidence rejected was material to the question of fraud and should have been admitted (King v. Spencer (1904), 20 Cox 692). A grocer made up a number of packets of sugar; each packet was weighed by him or his assistants; and each contained one pound of combined sugar and paper. The scales were accurate. Held, no offence under s. 26 of the Act of 1878 (Stone v. Tyler (1905), 1 K.B. 290). In order to constitute a fraud under s. 26 there must be some fraud in connection with the use of the scales (per Lord Alverstone, C.J., in Stone v. Tyler, supra).

"A person shall not wilfully or knowingly make or sell, or cause to be made or sold, any false or unjust weight, measure, scale, balance, steelyard, or weighing machine"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £10; second offence, £50 (Weights and Measures Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 49, s. 27).

Manufacture or sale of false weights or measures.

A. bought a pair of scales from C. The scales appeared to be accurate when bought, but when tested they were found inaccurate under certain conditions. A. returned the scales to B. and received another pair guaranteed by B.'s shopman. The second pair had the same defect. Held, that there was some evidence to support a conviction of B. for an offence under the section (Henton v. Radford (1881), 45 J.P. 224).

Section 28 of the Weights and Measures Act, 1878, requires every weight, where its size admits, to be stamped upon the top or side in legible figures or letters with the denomination and (as amended by s. 13 (1) of the Act of 1904) requires every measure of length or capacity to be similarly stamped on the outside; s. 29 of the Act of 1878 requires every measure and weight used for trade to be verified and stamped by an inspector with a stamp of verification, under that Act; and s. 1 (1) of the Act of 1889 requires every weighing machine used for trade to be similarly verified and stamped under that Act.

Stamping and verification.

Necessity for.

"Every person who uses, or has in his possession for use for trade, any Stamping and verification. measure or weight not stamped as required by this section"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £5; second offence, £10; measure or weight may be forfeited (Weights and Measures Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 49, s. 29).

Use of unstamped weights, &c.

"Every person who uses, or has in his possession for use for trade, any weighing instrument not stamped as required by this Act"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £2; second offence, £5 (Weights and Measures Act, 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 21, s. 1 (2)).

Where weights and measures have once been duly stamped or sealed and the stamp or seal has become obliterated, the person using the weight, if the same is otherwise unobjectionable, is not liable to penalties under the Act (Starr v. Stringer (1872), L.R. 7 C.P. 383). Under s. 44 of the Act of 1878 the local authority is required to fix times and places at which inspectors are to attend to verify or stamp weights and measures. A local authority<sup>1</sup> are not precluded from prosecuting under s. 29 of the Act of 1878 a person for using an unstamped measure by reason of their having failed to fix times or places for verification and stamping under s. 44 of that Act (Hayley v. Taylor (1900), 19 Cox 538).

Pewter and lead weights.

"A weight made of lead or pewter, or of any mixture thereof, shall not be stamped with a stamp of verification or used for trade, unless it be wholly and substantially cased with brass, copper, or iron, and legibly stamped or marked 'cased.' Provided, that nothing in this section shall prevent the insertion into a weight of such a plug of lead or pewter as is bona fide necessary for the purpose of adjusting it and of affixing thereon the stamp of verification"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £5; second offence, £10 (Weights and Measures Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 49, s. 30).

Weights for coin.

"Every coin weight, not less in weight than the weight of the lightest coin for the time being current, shall be verified and stamped by the Board of Trade with a mark of verification under this Act, and otherwise shall not be deemed a just weight for determining the weight of gold and silver coin of the realm"—Penalty, not exceeding £50 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 49, s. 31).

Forgery and alteration of stamps or weights, measures, and weighing instruments.

"If any person forges or counterfeits any stamp used for the stamping under this Act of any measure or weight, or used before the commencement of this Act for the stamping of any measure or weight, under any enactment repealed by this Act, or wilfully increases or diminishes a weight so stamped"—Penalty, not exceeding £50 (41 & 42 Vict. c. 49, s. 32).

"Any person who knowingly uses, sells, utters, disposes of, or exposes for sale any measure or weight with such forged or counterfeit stamp thereon or a weight so increased or diminished"—Penalty, not exceeding £10; measures, &c., to be forfeited (ib.). The above section is applied to weighing instruments by s. 1 (4) of the Act of 1889.

"(1) Any person who removes a stamp from any weight, or measure, or weighing or measuring instrument,<sup>2</sup> and inserts the same into another

<sup>1</sup> This means, as regards counties, the county council, as regards boroughs, the town council, and as regards such portion of the police district of Dublin metropolis as is outside the borough of Dublin, the commissioners of the D.M.P. (Act of 1878, Sch. IV., and Adaptation of Irish Enactments Order, dated Jan. 30, 1899).

<sup>2</sup> "Weighing instrument" is defined by s. 35 of the Weights and Measures Act, 1889 (as amended by s. 16 of the Weights and Measures Act, 1904), as including scales, with the weights belonging thereto, scale-beams, balances, spring balances, steelyards, weighing machines and other instruments for weighing, and also weighing instruments constructed to also calculate and indicate the price in money. "Measuring instrument" includes any instrument for the measurement of length, capacity, volume, temperature, pressure, or gravity, or for the measurement and determination of electrical quantities (Act of 1889, s. 35).

weight, or measure, or weighing or measuring instrument, shall be deemed to forge or counterfeit a stamp within the meaning of s. 32 of the principal Act.<sup>1</sup> (2) Such of the provisions of the said section as impose penalties on any person, who wilfully increases or diminishes a weight after it has been stamped, or who knowingly uses, sells, utters, disposes of, or exposes for sale a weight so increased or diminished, shall apply to measures in like manner as they apply to weights" (Act of 1904, 4 Edw. 7. c. 28, s. 10).

"In Ireland every article sold by weight shall, if weighed, be weighed in full net standing beam, and for the purposes of every contract, bargain, sale or dealing, the weight so ascertained shall be deemed the true weight of the article, and no deduction or allowance for tret or beamage, or on any other account or under any other name whatsoever, the weight of any sack, vessel, or other covering in which such article may be contained alone excepted, shall be claimed or made by any purchaser on any pretext whatever"—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (Act of 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 49, s. 77).

No deduction for tret, &c.

By a local custom in the south of Ireland a deduction of four pounds was made from all live pigs sold by weight to represent wastage and a four pound weight was attached to the weight end of the balance to adjust the scales for the purpose of such deduction. Held, that the scales were unjust (Collins v. Denny (1897), 31 I.L.T.R. 167). The deductions prohibited are from weight and not from price (Megarry v. McCullagh (1863), 14 I.C.L.R. 151, which was decided upon s. 13 (practically identical with s. 77 of the Act of 1878) of the 25 & 26 Vict. c. 76).

Inspectors of weights and measures in Ireland are not appointed by the local authority,<sup>2</sup> except by the local authority<sup>2</sup> of the borough of Dublin (Act of 1878, s. 81). In the townships of Blackrock, Dalkey, Kingstown, Pembroke, and Rathmines and Rathgar such inspectors are appointed by the respective Township Commissioners (Act of 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 49, s. 81, and Act of 1889, s. 19 (1)). Elsewhere in Ireland head or other constables in each petty sessions district, selected by the Inspector-General with the approval of the Lord-Lieutenant, are ex officio inspectors of weights and measures under the Act, and perform their duties as such under the direction of the justices of the petty sessions; the justices have power within one month from the date of selection to signify disapproval of the constable selected and, if they so do, another selection must be made (Act of 1878, s. 81). An ex officio inspector may exercise without any authority from a justice of the peace the powers given to an inspector of weights and measures having such authority (ib.). In any part of the D.M.P. district not included in the city of Dublin or the townships of Blackrock, Dalkey, Kingstown, Pembroke, and Rathmines and Rathgar, such of the superintendents, inspectors, or sergeants of the said police as may be selected by the local authority<sup>2</sup> with the approval of the Lord-Lieutenant are ex officio inspectors of weights and measures within that district (Act of 1878, s. 81, as amended by the Act of 1889, s. 19).

Inspectors.

"Every inspector under this Act authorised in writing under the hand of a justice of the peace,<sup>3</sup> also every justice of the peace, may at all reasonable times inspect all weights, measures, scales, balances, steelyards, and weighing machines within his jurisdiction which are used or in the possession of any person or on any premises for use for trade, and may compare every such weight and measure with some local standard, and may seize and detain any weight, measure, scale, balance, or steelyard,

Examination of weights. &c.

<sup>1</sup> That is, the Act of 1878.

<sup>2</sup> As to the meaning of which term, see p. 840, n.<sup>1</sup>.

<sup>3</sup> A general authority is sufficient (Hutchings v. Reeves (1842), 9 M. & W. 747).

Examination of weights,
&c.

which is liable to be forfeited in pursuance of this Act, and may for the purpose of such inspection enter any place, whether a building or in the open air, whether open or enclosed, where he has reasonable cause to believe that there is any weight, measure, scale, balance, steelyard, or weighing machine, which he is authorised by this Act to inspect. Any person who neglects or refuses to produce for such inspection all weights, measures, scales, balances, steelyards, and weighing machines, in his possession or on his premises, or refuses to permit the justice or inspector to examine the same or any of them, or obstructs the entry of the justice or inspector under this section or otherwise obstructs or hinders a justice or inspector acting under this section"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £5; second offence, £10 (Act of 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 49, s. 48). The written authority is not necessary in the case of an ex officio inspector (Act of 1878, s. 81).

A servant left temporarily in charge of his master's premises and business during his master's absence is not liable to conviction under this section for neglecting to produce to an inspector weights and measures belonging to his master and on his master's premises (Smith v. Webb (1896), 12 T.L.R. 45).

Stamping weights in district of another inspector.

"An inspector appointed by the local authority for a county may enter a place within the district of an inspector appointed by any other local authority,<sup>1</sup> and there verify and stamp the weights and measures of any person residing within his own district, but if he knowingly stamp a weight or measure of any person residing in the district of an inspector legally appointed by another local authority"—Penalty, not exceeding £1 for every weight or measure so stamped (Weights and Measures Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 49, s. 44).

Section 48 of the Act of 1878 gives inspectors power to seize unjust weights, &c.

Misconduct of inspectors.

"If an inspector under this Act stamps a weight or measure in contravention of any provision of this Act, or without duly verifying the same by comparison with a local standard,<sup>2</sup> or is guilty of a breach of any duty imposed on him by this Act, or otherwise misconducts himself in the execution of his office<sup>3</sup> [or refuses or wilfully neglects to act in compliance with the Board of Trade regulations]"<sup>4</sup>—Penalty, not exceeding £5 for each offence (Act of 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 49, s. 49).

A coal carman was stopped by an inspector of weights and measures in order to weigh the coal carried in the van. The inspector noted that the weighing machine carried in the car gave variations. The inspector tried the weights carried by the carman with his official scale beam and found two half hundredweights defective; he informed the carman that he rejected the weights and, in exercise of powers given by local regulations made pursuant to s. 9 of the Act of 1889, defaced the official stamp on the light weights; but he did not seize the weights. Held, that there was no misconduct under this section by the inspector (Wedderburn v. Smith, No. 1 (1905), 20 Cox 355). The inspector then tested a weighing machine carried in the coal van with the half hundredweights that he had already tested and with nine small standard weights, found it to be unjust, and seized it. Held, no misconduct under the same section by the inspector (Wedderburn v. Smith, No. 2 (1905), 20 Cox 355).

"If any person not being an inspector duly appointed under the

<sup>1</sup> See p. 840, n.<sup>1</sup>.

<sup>2</sup> Provided by the local authority under s. 40 of the Act of 1878, s. 7 of the Act of 1889, and s. 13 (4) of the Act of 1904.

<sup>3</sup> Words in brackets are in effect inserted by the Weights and Measures Act, 1904, s. 5 (4).

<sup>4</sup> Made pursuant to ss. 5 and 6 of the Act of 1901.

Weights and Measures Acts as such inspector, or if any person having Wrongfully acting as inspector. been appointed an inspector after the commencement of the Act of 1889, acts as an inspector without having obtained a certificate either under s. 11 of that Act or under this section"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £10; second offence, £20 (Act of 1904, 4 Edw. 7, c. 28, s. 8 (3)).

"All coal shall be sold by weight only, except where, by the written Sale of coal. consent of the purchaser, it is sold by boat load, or by waggons or tubs By weight delivered from the colliery into the works of the purchaser"—Penalty, only, not exceeding £5 (Act of 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 21, s. 20).

In Fletcher v. Fields (1891), 1 Q.B. 790, it was held that "coke" was not "coal" within the meaning of s. 15 of the Metropolitan Streets Act, 1867, which prohibits the loading or unloading of "coal" across a footway.

"(1) Where any quantity of coal exceeding two hundredweight is Weight ticket on delivery of over two hundred-weight. delivered by means of any vehicle to a purchaser, the seller of the coal shall therewith deliver, or cause to be delivered or to be sent by post or otherwise, to the purchaser or to his servant, before any part of the coal is unloaded, a ticket or note according to the form in the Third Schedule to this Act, or according to a form to the like effect. (2) If default is made in complying with the requirements of this section with respect to the delivery or sending of a ticket or note, or if the quantity of coal delivered is less than the quantity expressed in the ticket or note"—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (Act of 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 21, s. 21).

"(3) If any person attending on any such vehicle, having received any such ticket or note for delivery to the purchaser, refuses or neglects to deliver it, as required by this section, or, on being requested so to do, to exhibit it to any inspector of weights and measures, or other officer appointed for the purpose by the local authority"—Penalty, on seller of the coal, not exceeding £5 (Act of 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 21, s. 21). Neglect of carter to deliver ticket.

The form of ticket in the schedule sets out the names of purchaser and vendor, the amount of coal, the separate weight of each sack, the aggregate weight of coal and vehicle, the tare weight of vehicle, and the net weight of coal. In the absence of fraud the requirements of the section are sufficiently complied with where the name inserted in the ticket is the trade name of the seller (Cameron v. Tyler (1899), 2 Q.B. 94). It is a sufficient compliance with the section if the ticket is filled up by the purchaser's servant on the purchaser's premises before any part of the coal is unloaded and the weight ascertained inserted at the purchaser's premises (Edwards v. Purnell (1899), 1 Q.B. 449). On a summons under the section, it appeared that the complainants, having ordered five tons of coal from the defendants, the carters of the latter came to the complainants' door with three cartloads, and handed in a weight ticket requesting the complainants to receive five tons best Wigan coal, which was in eighty sacks each purporting to contain one and a quarter hundredweight. The complainants' porter, however, demanded that the coal should be weighed, and accompanied the carters to the bridge of the local authority, where it appeared that the weight was short by seven and a half hundredweight. The carters brought back the coal to the complainants' house, and again tendered delivery, which the porter refused to accept. Held, on a case stated, that there was only constructive delivery or an attempt at delivery and that such was insufficient to bring the case within the section (Royal College of Surgeons v. Wallace Bros. Ltd. (1901), 35 I.L.T.R. 209). A truck load of coal was purchased by the ton, and was delivered by three carts, each taking two journeys. A ticket was delivered at the end of the second journey giving the weight of the truck load but not the weight of any of the cart loads. Held, that such ticket did not comply with the section (Stangoe v. Slatter (1896), 12 T.L.R. 335). But

Sale of coal. where coal is sold by weight and delivered under an order in several loads the vendor need not deliver a separate ticket for each load, the sending, with the first load, of one ticket for the whole quantity sold being sufficient (Kyle v. Dunsdon (1908), 2 K.B. 293). A ticket delivered by a coal dealer informed the purchaser that he was to receive therewith two tons of small coals in twenty sacks of two hundredweight each. After eleven sacks had been delivered an inspector weighed the nine as yet undelivered, and found seven deficient and two overweight. The magistrate found as a fact that two tons had been delivered, and dismissed the charge of delivering coal in less quantity than that expressed in the ticket: and the decision was upheld (Godfrey v. Radford (1896), 18 Cox 417). The vendor is responsible for the failure of his servant to comply with this section (see Baker v. Herd (1894), 58 J.P. 413).

Tare weight of vehicle where coal sold in bulk.

"(1) Where any quantity of coal exceeding two hundredweight is conveyed for delivery on sale in a vehicle in bulk, the seller of the coal shall, unless the vehicle is provided by the purchaser, cause the weight of the vehicle as well as of the coal contained therein to be previously ascertained by a weighing instrument stamped by the inspector of weights and measures, and being on or near to the place from which the coal is brought, and shall from time to time cause the tare weight of the vehicle to be marked thereon in such manner as the local authority<sup>1</sup> approve. (2) In any such case the seller of the coal shall insert or cause to be inserted in the ticket required by this Act to be given by him a statement of the correct weight of the vehicle or of the vehicle and of the animal drawing it where both are weighed together with the load, as well as of the correct weight of the coal contained in the vehicle"—Penalty for non-compliance, not exceeding £5 (Act of 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 21, s. 22).

This is a penal statute and should be construed strictly (per Lindley, L.J., in Smith v. Wood (1889), 24 Q.B.D. 23, at p. 26). The "correct weight" of the vehicle and the animal is the weight ascertained at the place from which the coal is brought, not the weight at the time of delivery. An inspector saw A.'s cart loaded with coal, witnessed the delivery, and then weighed the horse and cart. The weight of the two combined was less by twenty-eight pounds than the weight returned on the ticket. Held, that no offence under the section had been committed (Knowles v. Sinclair (1898), 1 Q.B. 170). It is not necessary that the waggon should be weighed immediately before each delivery. The true test is whether the justices had evidence before them that the waggon had been weighed so recently and under such circumstances that its correct weight previous to delivery had been determined (per Lord Alverstone, C.J., in Beardsley v. Pike (1904), 20 Cox 648).

Frauds by drivers of coal carts.

"If the person in charge of any vehicle in which coal is being carried wilfully makes any false statement as to the tare weight of the vehicle, or wilfully does any act by which either the seller or the purchaser of the coal is defrauded"—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (Act of 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 21, s. 23).

Deficiency in weight on small sales.

"If any person on the sale of coal in any quantity not exceeding two hundredweight fraudulently delivers to the purchaser a less quantity of coal than is agreed to be sold"—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (Act of 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 21, s. 24).

Weighing instrument to be kept at place where coal is sold by retail.

"Where coal is sold by retail for delivery at the place where it is kept for sale and there is not at or near such place any weighing instrument stamped by an inspector of weights and measures at which the coal can be weighed, the seller shall keep at that place a weighing instrument stamped as aforesaid, and shall, if so required by any purchaser, or by an inspector of weights and measures, or by any other officer appointed for the purpose by the local authority.<sup>1</sup> weigh any coal before the sale or delivery thereof"—Penalty for non-compliance with section, not exceeding, first offence, £2; second offence, £5 (Act of 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 21, s. 25). Sale of coal.

<sup>1</sup> See p. 840, n.<sup>1</sup>.

Section 26 (1) of the Act of 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 21, empowers the local authority<sup>1</sup> to erect and maintain fixed weighing instruments at convenient places for weighing coals and to provide portable instruments for the same purpose and to appoint persons as keepers.

"If the keeper of such fixed weighing instrument refuses, without reasonable excuse, to weigh or reweigh any vehicle or coal, or so weighs any vehicle or coal as wilfully to defraud either the seller or the purchaser of coal"—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (Act of 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 21, s. 26 (2)).

"(1) Any seller or purchaser of coal, person in charge of a vehicle in which coal is carried, inspector of weights and measures or other officer appointed for the purpose by the local authority,<sup>1</sup> may require that any coal, or any vehicle used for the carriage of coal in bulk, be weighed or reweighed by any weighing instrument stamped by an inspector of weights and measures. Provided as follows:—(a) No seller of coal or person in charge of a vehicle in which coal is carried shall be required under this section to carry coal beyond such distance, not exceeding half a mile, as may be prescribed in that behalf by the local authority;<sup>1</sup> (b) where any such coal or vehicle has at the instance of the purchaser been weighed or reweighed in pursuance of this section, and found to be of the weight stated in that behalf by the seller of the coal or the person in charge of the vehicle, the purchaser shall be liable to the payment of all reasonable costs actually incurred of and incidental to the weighing or reweighing.<sup>2</sup> (2) If any person obstructs any weighing or reweighing authorised by this section"—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (Act of 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 21, s. 27). Power to require weighing of vehicle, &c.

"(1) Any inspector of weights and measures or officer appointed for the purpose by the local authority may, at all reasonable times, enter any building or part of a building or other place in which coal is sold or kept or exposed for sale, and may stop any vehicle carrying coal for sale or for delivery to a purchaser, and may test any weights and weighing instruments found in any such place or vehicle, and may weigh any load, sack, or other less quantity of coal, found in any such place or vehicle, or which is in course of delivery to any purchaser. (2) If it appears to a court of summary jurisdiction that any load, sack, or less quantity so weighed is of less weight than that represented by the seller, the person selling or keeping or exposing the coal for sale, or the person in charge of the vehicle, as the case may be, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding £5"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £5; second offence, £10 (Act of 1889, s. 29). Power to weigh coal in coal vehicles, &c.

In order to convict a seller of coal of an offence under subs. 2 of this section there must be an actual representation by him as to the weight of the coal sold, and a representation made to an inspector by a servant in charge of a vehicle carrying coal for delivery to a purchaser is not of itself the representation of the master so as to make him liable under the subsection (Roberts v. Woodward (1890), 25 Q.B.D. 412). False weight.

A coal dealer engaged a contractor to execute orders for him. The contractor executed an order; the sacks were found to be short in weight; and the man in charge of the vehicle was the contractor's servant. Held,

<sup>1</sup> See p. 840, n.<sup>1</sup>.

<sup>2</sup> The Dublin Improvement Act, 1849, 11 & 12 Vict. c. 97, s. 97, contains provisions requiring hawkers of coal to carry with them weighing machines and to weigh the coal upon request. The section is not—at all events expressly—repealed.

Sale of coal. the coal dealer was rightly convicted under s. 29 (Baker v. Herd (1894), 58 J.P. 413). A servant who delivers coal to a purchaser and who has no knowledge of any shortage of weight in any sack is not liable as a "person in charge of a vehicle" (Paul v. Hargreaves (1908), 2 K.B. 289). Where a metal label was attached to a sack stating the weight as fifty-six pounds but it was found to weigh forty-nine pounds only, the Q.B.D. upheld the conviction, holding that there was a representation by the seller (Franklin v. Godfrey (1894), 63 L.J.M.C. 239).

Obstructing inspector. "Any person who obstructs or hinders an inspector acting under this section"—Penalty, not exceeding £5; second offence, not exceeding £10 (Act of 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 21, s. 293).

Bye-laws and penalties. "Any local authority<sup>1</sup> may from time to time make, revoke, and alter bye-laws (a) regulating for the purposes of this Act the sale of coal in quantities not exceeding two hundredweight; and (b) requiring, either generally or in specified classes of cases, a weighing instrument, of a form approved by the local authority, to be carried with any vehicle in which coal is carried for sale or delivery to a purchaser; and (c) prescribing the distance beyond which coal is not to be required to be carried for the purpose of being weighed or reweighed in pursuance of this Act; and (d) fixing the fees to be paid for the use of any weighing instrument maintained by the local authority;<sup>1</sup> and may by such bye-laws impose fines recoverable summarily and not exceeding in each case £5 for the breach of any such bye-law" (Act of 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 21, s. 28). The bye-laws are to be approved by the Board of Trade (s. 28 (2)).

A coal dealer was retailing coal from a cart, the coal being in bags purporting to contain a hundredweight and a half hundredweight, and he had a correct set of scales, but only a single weight weighing half a hundredweight. The local bye-law required him to carry a correct weighing instrument for the purpose of weighing any quantity of coal less than two hundredweight. The justices held that the bye-law had been sufficiently complied with, and dismissed the summons. The court of King's Bench held that the statute and the bye-law contemplated that the seller should have sufficient weights to enable any bag to be weighed at a single operation (Crick v. Nicholls (1905), 1 K.B. 501). A local bye-law required persons carrying coal for sale or delivery to a purchaser to have a weighing instrument with correct weights or counterpoises. Held, the absence of small weights to counterbalance the weight of the bags containing a ton of coal delivered in twenty bags was a breach of the bye-law (Houghton v. Andrews (1905), 1 K.B. 503 n.). A local bye-law required every coal dealer to carry a correct weighing instrument on every vehicle out of which coal was sold or delivered, and to reweigh such coal "upon being requested." A. was summoned for not having an instrument as required. It was contended that the bye-law was bad because of the provision as to reweighing, but, on case stated, the court held that the bye-law was valid as regards so much of it as required a weighing instrument to be carried, and that the justices should convict (Kent C.C. v. Humphrey (1895), 1 Q.B. 903). In this case the question as to the validity of a bye-law requiring a hawker of coal to weigh upon request was not considered. In a later case it was held that a bye-law requiring any person in charge of any vehicle carrying coal for sale in quantities less than two hundredweight to reweigh upon request by any purchaser or any one acting on behalf of a purchaser or by any inspector or by any constable was unreasonable, and therefore bad (Alty v. Farrell (1896), 1 Q.B. 636). A bye-law which provided that a person in charge of a vehicle carrying coal for sale or delivery to a purchaser should carry a weighing instrument of a "form approved" was held good (Martin v. Clark (1893), 9 T.L.R. 656). Any member of the public may lay an information for a breach of a bye-law under this section (Crabtree v. Bulman (1896), 12 T.L.R. 469).

<sup>1</sup> See p. 840, n.<sup>1</sup>.

"Where a person is convicted under any section of the principal Act or this Act<sup>1</sup> [of any] offence and the court by which he is convicted is of opinion that such offence was committed with intent to defraud"—Penalty, in addition to or in lieu of fine, imprisonment, with or without hard labour, not exceeding two months (Act of 1889, s. 4). Offences intentionally fraudulent.

The Weights and Measures Acts, 1878 to 1904, apply to weights, balances, scales, steelyards, and weighing machines used at any mine for determining the wages payable to any person employed in the mine according to the weight of the mineral gotten by him in like manner as those Acts apply to such weights, &c., when used in trade; an inspector is to inspect such weights, &c., half-yearly, and at such other times as he reasonably believes the same to be unjust; he is also to inspect measures and gauges in use at mines, and he has, without any authorisation from a justice, the same power of inspecting such weights, &c., as he would have under s. 48 of the Act of 1878 with regard to the same if they were used for trade and he were authorised by a justice in pursuance of that section (Coal Mines Regulation Act, 1887, 50 & 51 Vict. c. 58, s. 15). Application of Acts to mines.

The Acts also apply to weights, measures, scales, balances, steelyards, and weighing machines used in a factory or workshop in checking, &c., the wages of any person employed therein in like manner as if they were used in the sale of goods therein and such factory, &c., were a place where sold (Factory and Workshop Act, 1901, 1 Edw. 7, c. 22, s. 117, verbatim, APPENDIX OF STATUTES). Application of Acts to factories.

The Summary Jurisdiction Acts<sup>2</sup> are made applicable (Act of 1878, s. 56); the court to consist of two or more justices in petty sessions (ib.). The court may, if it thinks fit, order a conviction to be published in such manner as it deems desirable (Act of 1889, s. 14). Proceedings or convictions under the Acts are not to affect any civil remedy, or to exempt any person from proceedings at common law or under any other statute, provided a defendant cannot be twice convicted for the same offence; and the court before which an offender is brought may direct that, instead of proceedings under the Weights and Measures Acts, proceedings shall be taken at common law or under any other Act of Parliament (Act of 1889, s. 33). The description of an offence in the words of the statute is sufficient (Act of 1878, s. 57). Portion of the fine, not exceeding one half, may be paid to the informer<sup>3</sup> (ib.), unless the informer be an inspector (Act of 1904, s. 13 (2)). Forfeited articles are to be broken up and sold and the proceeds applied as fines (Act of 1878, s. 57). An offence is not to be treated as a second offence unless the conviction for a previous offence has taken place within the five years previous to the commission of the second offence (s. 58). Procedure.

"An inspector of weights and measures may, with the consent of the local authority, prosecute before a court of summary jurisdiction or justices any information, complaint, or proceeding arising under the Weights and Measures Acts or in the discharge of his duties as such inspector" (Weights and Measures Act, 1904, s. 14). A particular consent for each case is not required, a general consent being sufficient<sup>4</sup> (Tyler v. Ferris (1906), 1 K.B. 94).

<sup>1</sup> Substituted for "second or subsequent" by the Act of 1904, 4 Edw. 7, c. 28, s. 13 (3).

<sup>2</sup> For the meaning of which expression, see p. 335.

<sup>3</sup> That is to say, to the person in whose name the prosecution is brought (Powell v. Castletown (1891), 30 L.R.I. 93).

<sup>4</sup> The consent of the local authority must, it is submitted, be proved by proving the passing of the resolution by which such consent was given.

Appeal.

"Appeals from a court of summary jurisdiction shall lie in the manner and subject to the conditions and regulations prescribed in the twenty-fourth section of the Petty Sessions (Ir.) Act, 1851, and any Acts amending the same" (Weights and Measures Act, 1878, 41 & 42 Vict. c. 49, s. 84).

Offences as to market brands.
Counterfeiting.

Counterfeiting market brands with intent to defraud, or with like intent altering ticket specifying weight, or with like intent using, &c., false or counterfeit market stamp—Penalty, not exceeding £5 (Weights (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1862, 25 & 26 Vict. c. 76, s. 14).

Butter.

As to fraudulently increasing weight of butter, see BUTTER, p. 392.

Fraudulently increasing weight of wool.

"If any person shall wind or cause to be wound in any fleece any wool not being sufficiently rivered or washed, or wind or cause to be wound within any fleeces any deceitful locks, cotts, skin, or lamb's-wool, or any substance, matter, or thing whereby the fleece may be rendered more weighty to the deceit and loss of the buyer"—Penalty, 2s. for every fleece so fraudulently made up (25 & 26 Vict. c. 76, s. 16).

Procedure.

Penalties are recoverable summarily, subject and according to the Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Acts.<sup>1</sup> In petty sessions one justice can adjudicate. Proceedings must be commenced within three months after the commission of the offence, or, in the case of a continuing offence, within three months after such offence has ceased to be committed (s. 17). The Petty Sessions Act will apply as to appeals. As to weighing bread, see BREAD, pp. 387–388.

Weighing of cattle at markets and fairs.

Weighing accommodation to be provided.

Provisions as to the weighing of cattle in fairs and markets are contained in the Markets and Fairs (Weighing of Cattle) Act, 1887, 50 & 51 Vict. c. 27, and the Markets and Fairs (Weighing of Cattle) Act, 1891, 54 & 55 Vict. c. 70, which are to be read as one (Act of 1891, s. 6). The powers under ss. 8 & 9 of the Act of 1887, given to the Local Government Board for Ireland by s. 10 of the Act of 1887, are now vested in the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction by Order of the Lord-Lieutenant made pursuant to 62 & 63 Vict. c. 50, s. 2 (1) (d). Those Acts apply to all markets and fairs in which tolls are for the time being authorised to be taken and actually are taken by any company, corporation, or person (which company, &c., is called "the market authority") (Act of 1887, s. 2), and in these Acts the term "cattle" includes ram, wether, ewe, lamb, and swine (s. 3). The market authority of every fair and market to which the Acts apply shall, unless exempted by the Department, provide and maintain to the satisfaction of the Department sufficient and suitable accommodation for weighing cattle (Act of 1891, s. 2); and no market authority failing so to do can recover tolls in respect of any cattle brought to any fair or market where, and whilst, these provisions are not complied with (Act of 1887, s. 4).

"Market authority."

"Cattle."

"Weighing accommodation."

"Any person who demands or receives any toll in respect of cattle in any market or fair to which for the time being this Act applies, but in which the market authority have not complied with the provisions of this Act, shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £5" (ib.).

Cattle to be weighed at option of seller or buyer.

"Every person selling, offering for sale, or buying any cattle in a market or fair provided with accommodation for weighing cattle may require such cattle to be weighed, and the tolls payable in respect of the weighing shall be paid by the person requiring the cattle to be weighed to the person authorised by the market authority to receive the tolls" (Act of 1887, s. 5).

Refusal to weigh cattle or to give ticket, &c.

"Every person appointed by the market authority to weigh cattle sold in the market or fair, who—(a) refuses or neglects to weigh the same when required; or (b) refuses or neglects to deliver to the seller or buyer a ticket specifying the true weight of the cattle weighed ; or (c) gives to any person a false ticket or account of any cattle weighed ; shall be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding 40s. and not less than half a crown ” (s. 6). Weighing of cattle at markets and fairs.

<sup>1</sup> For the meaning of which term, see p. 335.

“ Every person who knowingly acts or assists in committing any fraud respecting the weighing of any cattle weighed in pursuance of this Act, shall for every such offence be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £5 ” (s. 7). Fraud.

“ The market authority may from time to time (unless otherwise expressly provided by any Act) demand and receive in respect of the weighing of cattle tolls not exceeding the amounts specified in the schedule to this Act,<sup>1</sup> or such other amounts as may be authorised by the Department to be taken by the market authority ; and sections 26 to 41 (both included) of the Markets and Fairs Clauses Act, 1847. shall apply to the tolls mentioned in this section, as if this Act were the special Act, and the market authority were the undertakers ” (s. 8). Tolls.

The market authority of Belfast, Cork, and Dublin<sup>2</sup> are required to furnish returns as prescribed as to number, weight, and price—Penalty in default, not exceeding £20, or in case of a continuing offence to a fine not exceeding £10 for every day during which the offence continues : false or fraudulent statement in any return is a misdemeanour (Act of 1891, s. 3). Returns by market authority.

“(1) An auctioneer shall not, unless exempted by order of the ‘ Department ’ from the requirements of this section, sell cattle at any mart where cattle are habitually or periodically sold, unless there are provided at that mart similar facilities for weighing cattle as are required by the principal Act and this Act in the case of cattle sold at a market or fair to which the principal Act<sup>3</sup> applies. (2) Every auctioneer who in any place from which returns are required to be made under this Act sells cattle at any such mart as aforesaid, shall, unless exempted as aforesaid, make the like returns to the ‘ Department ’ with respect to cattle entering weighed, and sold at that mart as are required by this Act to be made by a market authority, and shall be subject to the like penalty for making any false or fraudulent statement in any such return. (3) If any such auctioneer makes default in complying with the requirements of this section, the auctioneer, or, if he is in the employment of any person, the person by whom he is employed, shall for each offence be liable on summary conviction to a fine not exceeding £20, or in case of a continuing offence to a fine not exceeding £10 for every day during which the offence continues ” (s. 4). Auction marts.

<sup>1</sup> That is to say, not exceeding 2d. for every head of cattle other than sheep or swine, and not exceeding 1d. for every five or less number of sheep or swine.

<sup>2</sup> Or of any other place prescribed by the Department.

<sup>3</sup> The Act of 1887. See preamble to Act of 1891.

WHALE FISHING.

See Whale Fisheries (Ir.) Act. 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 51, in APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

WILD BIRDS PROTECTION.

	PAGE		PAGE
Close season . . . . .	850	Taking or destroying eggs . . . . .	854
Exemption . . . . .	851	Springs, traps, &c. . . . .	856
Orders by Lord-Lieutenant as to . . . . .		Demanding name and address of . . . . .
close season . . . . .	851	offender . . . . .	856
Orders of exemption . . . . .	852	Forfeitures . . . . .	856
Orders of Lord-Lieutenant as to . . . . .		Procedure . . . . .	856
eggs of wild birds . . . . .	853	Protection of sand grouse . . . . .	856

The Acts for the protection of wild birds (other than game) and their eggs are the Wild Birds Protection Acts, 1880, 43 & 44 Vict. c. 35; of 1881, 44 & 45 Vict. c. 51; 1894, 57 & 58 Vict. c. 24; 1896, 59 & 60 Vict. c. 56; 1902, 2 Edw. 7, c. 6; and 1904, 4 Edw. 7, c. 4, which (see s. 3 of the Act of 1881, s. 1 of the Act of 1894, s. 7 of the Act of 1896, s. 2 of the Act of 1902, and s. 3 of the Act of 1904) are all to be construed as one, and are collectively entitled (s. 3 of the Act of 1904) the Wild Birds Protection Acts, 1880 to 1904.

Close season. “Any person who between the first day of March and the first day of August in any year shall knowingly and wilfully shoot, or attempt to shoot, or shall use any boat for the purpose of shooting or causing to be shot, any wild bird, or shall use any lime, trap, snare, net, or other instrument for the purpose of taking any wild bird, or shall expose or offer for sale, or shall have in his control or possession after the fifteenth day of March, any wild bird recently killed or taken, shall, on conviction of any such offence before any two justices of the peace . . . in the case of any wild bird which is included in the schedule hereunto annexed, forfeit and pay for every such bird in respect of which an offence has been committed a sum not exceeding £1, and, in the case of any other wild bird, shall for the first offence be reprimanded and discharged on payment of costs, and for every subsequent offence forfeit and pay for every such wild bird in respect of which an offence is committed a sum of money not exceeding 5s., in addition to the costs. . . . This section shall not apply to the owner or occupier of any land, or to any person authorised by the owner or occupier of any land, killing or taking any wild bird on such land not included in the schedule hereto annexed” (Act of 1880, 43 & 44 Vict. c. 35, s. 3).

The following are the wild birds mentioned in the schedule :—American quail, auk, avocet, bee-eater, bittern, bonxie, colin, Cornish chough, coulteneb, cuckoo, curlew, diver, dotterel, dunbird, dunlin, eider-duck, fern-owl, fulmar, gannet, goatsucker, godwit, goldfinch, grebe, greenshank, guillemot, gull (except black-backed gull), hoopoe, kingfisher, kittiwake, lapwing, lark,<sup>1</sup> loon, mallard, marrot, merganser, murre, night-hawk, nightjar, nightingale, oriole, owl, oxbird, oyster-catcher, peewit, petrel, phalarope, plover, ploverspage, pochard, puffin, purre, razorbill, redshank, reeve or ruff, roller, sanderling, sandpiper, scout, sealark, seamew, sea-parrot, sea-swallow, shearwater, shelldrake, shoveller, skua, smew, snipe, solan goose, spoonbill, stint, stone curlew, stone hatch, summer snipe, tarrock, teal, tern, thickknee, tystey, whaup, whimbrell, widgeon, wild duck, willock, woodcock, woodpecker.

<sup>1</sup> Added by 44 & 45 Vict. c. 51, s. 2.

To face page 850.]

WILD BIRDS' PROTECTION ACT.

“ Any person who shall take or attempt to take any wild bird by means of a hook or other similar instrument shall be guilty of an offence, and shall be liable, on summary conviction, to a penalty not exceeding 40s., and for a second or subsequent offence to a penalty not exceeding £5 ” (Wild Birds' Protection Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 11, s. 1). The Wild Birds' Protection Act, 1908, is to be construed as one with the Wild Birds' Protection Acts, 1880 to 1901 (ib., s. 3).

"A person shall not be liable to be convicted under s. 3 of the Wild Birds Protection Act, 1880, of exposing or offering for sale, or having the control or possession of any wild bird recently killed, if he satisfies the court before whom he is charged either (1) that the killing of such wild bird, if in a place to which the said Act extends, was lawful at the time when and by the person by whom it was killed; or (2) that the wild bird was killed in some place to which the said Act does not extend, and the fact that the wild bird was imported from some place to which the said Act does not extend shall, until the contrary is proved, be evidence that the bird was killed in some place to which the said Act does not extend" (Act of 1881, 44 & 45 Vict. c. 51, s. 1).

G. during the prohibited season captured with a net several sparrows on lands where he had no authority or permission to make such capture. He sold the sparrows to a hotel manager and they were then brought in bags to a meadow held with the hotel and there put in traps from which they were released for the purpose of being shot at. The shooting was permitted by the hotel manager. Held, that neither G. nor those who shot at the sparrows came within the exception in s. 3 of the Act of 1880 (R. v. Gilham and others (1884), 15 Cox 719). Under the repealed exception in s. 3 of the Act of 1880:—"Unless such person shall prove that the said wild bird was either killed or taken or brought or received during the period in which such wild bird could be legally killed or taken or from some person residing out of the United Kingdom":—it was held that a poulterer, who proved that he had bought birds in respect of which he was prosecuted from a salesman, who had bought them from a person residing out of the United Kingdom, had not brought himself within the exemption which, it was held, contemplated a direct purchase or receipt from a person residing out of the United Kingdom (Taylor v. Rogers (1881), 50 L.J.M.C. 132); but this case is now covered by the exception in the Act of 1881 given above. In Green v. Carstang (1902), 20 Cox 92, a dealer was summoned for exposing for sale on 24th May ravens recently taken, which at that time were about six weeks old. The ravens had come into his possession from Holland on the 4th May. The magistrate dismissed the case on the ground that the birds having been three weeks in the dealer's possession were not "recently taken," and also on the ground that the Act of 1881 did not apply to live birds. It was held that the respondent could be convicted of exposing for sale wild birds recently taken but that the prosecutor must adduce evidence from which the magistrate could conclude that the birds were recently taken. In Hollis v. Young (1909), 1 K.B. 629, the defendant was charged with having in his possession on July 30 wild birds recently taken contrary to s. 3 of the Wild Birds Protection Act, 1880. The evidence showed that the defendant had in cages on his premises seven young larks which were very wild, beating themselves against the bars of the cages, and that the plumage of the birds was light in colour. The magistrate dismissed the summons, without calling on the defendant, on the ground that there was no evidence that the birds were recently taken. On a case stated it was held that there was evidence that the birds were recently taken and that the magistrate was wrong in dismissing the summons without calling on the defendant (Hollis v. Young (1909), 1 K.B. 629).

"The Lord-Lieutenant may . . ., upon application of the justices in quarter sessions assembled of any county, by order extend or vary the time during which the killing and taking of wild birds or any of them is prohibited by this Act; after the making of which order the penalties imposed by this Act in respect of such wild birds shall in such county apply only to offences committed during the time specified in such order; and the order

Orders by Lord-Lieutenant as to close season

Orders by Lord Lieutenant as to close season.

for the extension or variation of such time shall be published . . . in the Dublin Gazette and a copy of . . . the Dublin Gazette containing any order made under this Act shall be evidence of the same having been made" (Act of 1880, 43 & 44 Vict. c. 35, s. 8). On the like application the Lord-Lieutenant may exempt any county or part thereof from the operation of the Act as to all or any wild birds (s. 9).

The following orders have been made under s. 8 :—

Date.	Number of Gazette.	County.	Species of Bird.	Close Season.
25 April 1898	1898, v. i. 517 April 26	Down	Woodcock and Snipe	1st March to 1st October.
29 June 1898	1898, v. ii. 874 July 1	Longford	Woodcock and Snipe	1st March to 1st October.
20 Sept. 1898	1898, v. ii. 1269 Sept. 23	Tyrone	Snipe	1st March to 1st October.
28 Oct. 1898	1898, v. ii. 1433 Nov. 1	King's Co.	Snipe	1st March to 1st October.
22 Nov. 1898	1898, v. ii. 1625 Nov. 25	Tipperary	Woodcock and Snipe	1st March to 1st October.
26 Nov. 1898	1898, v. ii. 1669 Nov. 29	Monaghan	Woodcock and Snipe	1st March to 1st October.
28 June 1901	1901, v. ii. 937 July 2	Sligo	Woodcock and Snipe	1st March to 1st October.
13 Jan. 1906	1906, v. i. 57 Jan. 16	Dublin	Goldfinch, Sealark, Tern, Linnet, Bull- finch, Skylark, Siskin, Redpoll.	1st March to 1st December.
5 Feb. 1906	1906, v. i. 161 Feb. 9	Wicklow	{ Goldfinch, Sealark, Tern, Linnet, Sky- lark, Siskin, Red- poll	{ 1st March to 1st December.
3 Feb. 1910	1910, v. i. 203 Feb. 8	"
2 May 1906	1906, v. i. 581 May 8	Antrim	Woodcock and Snipe	1st March to 1st September.
28 Jan. 1907	1907, v. i. 129 Feb. 1	King's County	Goldfinch, Bullfinch, Siskin, Linnet, Redpoll, Green- finch, Skylark	1st March to 1st December.
7 Feb. 1907	1907, v. i. 173 Feb. 8	Mayo	Golden Eagle, Sea Eagle, Raven, Peregrine Falcon, Hen Harrier, Gold- finch, Linnet, Red- poll, Bullfinch, Skylark, Red- necked Phalarope, Chough, Fork- tailed Petrel, Red- throated Diver, Sandwich Tern, Common Tern, Arctic Tern, Little Tern, Roseate Tern, Blackheaded Gull	1st March to 1st December.
1 Mar. 1909	1909, v. i. 353 Mar. 9	Carlow, Cavan, Clare, Cork, Galway, Kerry, Kilkenny, Lime- rick, London- derry, Louth, Mayo, Queen's, Roscommon, Wexford, and Wicklow	Woodcock and Snipe	1st March to 1st October.
15 Nov. 1909	1909, v. ii. 1609 Nov. 19	Armagh, Kildare, Meath, Water- ford, West- meath	Woodcock and Snipe	1st March to 1st October.
15 Nov. 1909	1909, v. ii. 1609 Nov. 19	Donegal	Woodcock and Snipe	1st March to 1st September.

The following orders of exemption have been made under s. 9:—

Exemption
orders.

Species exempted from Acts.	County and Districts to which exemption extends.	Date of Order.	Volume of Dublin Gazette.
Mergansers . . .	County of Clare	7 March 1899	1899, v. i. 497
Cormorants . . .	County of Clare Townlands of Quinspool South, Parteen, Garraun, Fairyhill, Kilquane, Knockballynameath and Athlunkard (parish of St. Patricks); townlands of Cloon- carhy, Gilloge, Garraun, Sra- wickeen, Illaunyregan, Doonass Demsne, Summer Hill, Errina, Drummeen, and Kildoorus (parish of Kiltinanlea); town- lands of Ardataggle, and O'Brien's Bridge (parish of O'Brien's Bridge); townlands of Ardlooney, Cloonfadda, Moys and Shantraud (parish of Killaloe)	do.	10 March 1899. do.
	County of Limerick Townland of Monabraher (parish of Kileely); townland of Re- boge (parish of St. Patricks); townlands of Dromroe, Sree- lane, Newcastle, Castleroy (parish of Kilmurry); townlands of Rivers, Ballyvohlane, Prospect, New Garden N., Hermitage, Stradbally N., Coolbane, Cloon and Commons, Lacka, Port- crusha, Montpelier, Fairy Hill (parish of Stradbally)	7 March 1899	1899, v. i. 497 10 March 1899.
Blackheaded Gull .	Westmeath, the whole county	11 May 1905	1905, v. i. 665 May 12.

It would seem that an order made under s. 8 of the Act of 1880 varying the time for killing and taking certain wild birds makes it an offence to possess, in the district to which the order applies and during the close season specified in the order, any of the specified kinds of birds, though such were captured elsewhere under conditions which made such capture lawful at the place where made. By an order of July 1909, the time during which the taking or killing of larks was prohibited in the county of London was varied to the period between 31st August and 1st February. A dealer in birds received in November 1909 live larks lawfully captured at Cambridge. The magistrate held that the dealer was guilty of the offence of possessing wild birds contrary to s. 3 of the Act of 1880 and to the Order of 1909. The conviction was upheld (Flower v. Watts (1910), 2 K.B. 327).

"The Lord-Lieutenant may . . . upon application by the county council of any administrative county<sup>1</sup> [or of a county borough] by order prohibit (1) The taking or destroying of wild birds' eggs in any year or years in any place or places within that county<sup>1</sup> [or county borough]; or (2) the taking or destroying the eggs of any specified kind of wild birds within that county<sup>1</sup> [or county borough] or part or parts thereof, as recommended by the said county council<sup>1</sup> [or county borough council] and set forth in the said order. (3) The application by the county council<sup>1</sup> [or county borough council] shall specify the limits of the place or places or otherwise, the particular species of wild birds to which it is

Orders of Lord-Lieutenant as to taking or destroying eggs.

<sup>1</sup> See 61 & 62 Vict. c. 37, s. 21.

proposed that any prohibition in the order is to apply, and shall set forth the reasons on account of which the application is made" (Act of 1894, 57 & 58 Vict. c. 24, ss. 2, 7 (1)). "The Lord-Lieutenant may, on the representation of the council of any administrative county<sup>1</sup> [or of a county borough], order that the principal Act<sup>2</sup> shall apply, within that county<sup>1</sup> [or county borough] or any part or parts thereof, to any species of wild bird not included in the schedule of that Act, as if that species of wild bird were included in the schedule of that Act, and on the making of such order that Act shall apply accordingly" (Act of 1894, s. 3).

Section 4 of the Act of 1894 provides for the publication of such orders. The magistrates have jurisdiction to entertain an information for an offence against an order made under the above sections although no notice of the order has been given by the county council under s. 4 of the Act of 1894 (Duncan v. Knill and others (1907), 96 L.T. 911).

Taking or destroying
eggs.

"Any person who . . . shall take or destroy, or incite any other person to take or destroy—(a) the eggs of any wild birds within any area specified in such order, or (b) the eggs of any species of wild bird named in the order"—Penalty, on conviction before two justices, not exceeding £1 for every egg so taken or destroyed (Wild Birds Protection Act, 1894, 57 & 58 Vict. c. 24, s. 5; see also 27 Geo. 3, c. 15 (Ir.), s. 4, noted p. 494, ante, as to destroying eggs or nests of game birds).

The following orders made under the Act of 1894 as regards taking and destroying of eggs are now in force :—

County.	Birds.	Close Season for Eggs.	Date and Duration of Order.	Volume of Gazette.
Antrim . . . . .	Peregrine Falcon, Buzzard, Harriers (all species), Raven, Chough, Crossbill, King- fisher, Swan, Tern (all species)	1st March to 1st August	20 Aug. 1909 5 years from 1st Mar. 1910	V. ii., 1909, p. 1221 Aug. 24.
Donegal . . . . .	Golden Eagle, Raven, Chough, Phalarope (all species), Petrel (all species), Red- throated Diver, Tern (all species)	1st March to 1st August	25 April 1898 1909, 1910, 1911, 1912	V. i., 1908, p. 661 May 5.
Down (including Copeland Islands)	Bullfinch, Buzzard, Chough Crossbill, Goldfinch, Harrier (all species), King- fisher, Peregrine Falcon, Raven, Siskin, Swan, Tern (all species)	1st March to 1st August	22 Jan. 1910 5 years from 1st Mar. 1910	V. i., 1910, p. 145 Jan. 28.
Dublin (including Lambay and Ire- land's Eye)	Black Guillemot, Chough, Crossbill, Goldfinch, Kestrel, Kingfisher, Oyster Catcher, Owl (all species), Peregrine Falcon, Plover (all species), Raven, Shell-duck, Sky- lark, Tern (all species)	1st March to 1st August	13 Jan. 1910 5 years from 1st Mar. 1910	V. i., 1910, p. 109 Jan. 18.

<sup>1</sup> See 61 & 62 Vict. c. 37, s. 21.

<sup>2</sup> The Act of 1880 (Act of 1894, s. 1).

SUMMARY OFFENCES—WILD BIRDS PROTECTION. 855

County.	Birds.	Close Season for Eggs.	Date and Duration of Order.	Volume of Gazette.
Galway . . . . .	Golden Eagle, Peregrine Falcon, Woodcock, Sea Eagle, Red-necked Phalarope, Chough, Hen Harrier, Red-throated Diver, Tern, Raven, Fork-tailed Petrel, Mallard, Teal, Black-headed Gull, Mute Swan, Kingfisher.	1st March to 1st August	17 Aug. 1906 5 years from 1st Mar. 1907	V. ii., 1906, p. 1105 Aug. 21.
Kerry . . . . .	Golden Eagle, Sea Eagle, Peregrine Falcon, Merlin, Kestrel, Harriers (all species), Raven, Kingfisher, Owls (all species), Siskin, Goldfinch, Temo (all species), Petrel (all species), Woodcock, Snipe, Hoopoe, Phalarope (all species)	1st March to 1st August	23 Mar. 1909 1910, 1911, 1912, 1913	V. i., 1909, p. 445 Mar. 30.
Mayo . . . . .	Golden Eagle, Sea Eagle, Hen Horner, Raven, Peregrine Falcon, Red-necked Phalarope, Woodcock, Chough, Fork-tailed Petrel, Red-throated Diver, Tern	1st March to 1st August	15 Feb. 1906 5 years from 1st Mar. 1906	V. i., 1906, p. 221 Feb. 20.
Queen's Co. . . . .	Crossbill, Harriers (all species), Kingfisher, Swan	1st March to 1st August	18 Aug. 1909 5 years from 1st Mar. 1910	V. ii., 1909, p. 1221 Aug. 24.
Roscommon . . . . .	Crossbill, Harriers (all species), Kingfisher, Swan, Tern (all species)	1st March to 1st August	15 Dec. 1909 5 years from 1st Mar. 1910	V. ii., 1909, p. 1769 Dec. 17.
Waterford . . . . .	Golden Eagle, White-tailed Eagle, Peregrine Falcon, Merlin, Kestrel, Harriers (all species), Owls (all species), Goldfinch, Siskin, Crossbill, Chough, Raven, Kingfisher, Night-jar, Turtle Dove, Heron, Woodcock, Water-rail, Shelldrake, Shoveller Duck, Teal, Black Guillemot, Great Black-backed Gull, Tufted Duck	1st March to 1st August	20 Mar. 1909 1910, 1911, 1912, and 1913	V. i., 1909, p. 421 Mar. 26.
Wexford (Saltee and Keeragh Islands)	Any species	1st March to 1st August	21 Dec. 1905 5 years from 1st Mar. 1906	V. ii., 1905, p. 1637 Dec. 22.
Wicklow . . . . .	Chough, Crossbill, Eagle (all species), Peregrine Falcon, Black Guillemot, Harrier (all species), Kingfisher, Raven, Redstart, Swan, Tern (all species)	1st March to 1st August	1 Oct. 1909 5 years from 1 Mar. 1910	V. ii., 1909, p. 1373 Oct. 5.

Springs, traps, and gins.

"Every person who, on any pole, tree, or cairn of stones or earth, shall affix, place, or set any spring, trap, gin, or other similar instrument calculated to cause bodily injury to any wild bird coming in contact therewith, and every person who shall knowingly permit or suffer or cause any such trap to be so affixed, placed, or set, shall be guilty of an offence"—Penalty, not exceeding, first offence, £2; second offence, £5 (Act of 1904, 4 Edw. 7, c. 4, s. 1).

Name and address of offender may be demanded.

"Where any person shall be found offending against this Act,<sup>1</sup> it shall be lawful for any person to require the person so offending to give his Christian name, surname, and place of abode, and in case the person so offending shall, after being so required, refuse to give his real name or place of abode, or give an untrue name or place of abode"—Penalty, in addition to penalties imposed by s. 3 of the Act of 1880, not exceeding 10s. (Act of 1880, 43 & 44 Vict. c. 35, s. 4).

Forfeitures.

Where any person is convicted of an offence against the Wild Birds Protection Acts, 1880 to 1904,<sup>2</sup> the court may, in addition to any penalty that may therein be imposed, order any wild bird, or wild bird's egg, in respect of which the offence has been committed, to be forfeited and disposed of as the court shall think fit (Wild Birds Protection Act, 1904, 2 Edw. 7, c. 6, s. 1).

Procedure.

Offences against any of the Acts may be prosecuted and penalties recovered within the police district of Dublin Metropolis under the Dublin Police Acts and elsewhere before two justices in manner provided by the Petty Sessions (Ir.) Act,<sup>3</sup> 1851 (Act of 1880, 43 & 44 Vict. c. 35, s. 5). Offences committed within the jurisdiction of the Admiralty shall be punishable as if they had been committed in any place ashore in the United Kingdom in which the offender shall be apprehended, or be in custody, or be summoned; and in any information or conviction for any such offence the offence may be averred to have been committed "on the high seas." Where any offence is committed in or upon any waters forming the boundary between any two counties, districts of quarter sessions or petty sessions, such offence may be prosecuted before any justices of the peace in either of such counties or districts (Act of 1880, s. 7).

Protection of sand grouse.

Killing, wounding, or taking sand grouse, or exposing or offering for sale sand grouse—Penalty, on conviction before any justice, not exceeding £1, together with costs of conviction<sup>4</sup> (Sand Grouse Protection Act, 1888, 51 & 52 Vict. c. 55, s. 1).

WRECK.

	PAGE		PAGE
Duties of receiver of wreck . . . . .	856	Procedure under the Merchant
Right of passage over lands . . . . .	857	Shipping Act, 1894 . . . . .	857
Offences as to wreck . . . . .	857	Unlawful possession of goods
Warrant to search for concealed		from wreck . . . . .	857
wreck . . . . .	857

Duties of receiver of wreck.

The receiver of wreck<sup>5</sup> for the district in which a ship is wrecked, stranded, or in distress is given the duty of taking steps for the preserva-

<sup>1</sup> Or any of the other Acts to be read as one therewith. See p. 850.

<sup>2</sup> See p. 850.

<sup>3</sup> This probably gives such right of appeal as is provided by the Petty Sessions Act, see p. 131.

<sup>4</sup> The Act is silent as to procedure. As to procedure under such circumstances, see p. 41.

<sup>5</sup> "Wreck" includes jetsam, flotsam, lagan, and derelict found in or on the shores of the sea or any tidal water (s. 10 (1)).

Flotsam is when a ship is sunk or otherwise perished and the goods float on tion of the ship, shipwrecked persons, cargo, and apparel, and empowered to take command of all persons present—Penalty, for wilful disobedience to the receiver, not exceeding £50 (Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, 57 & 58 Vict. c. 60, s. 511). The receiver is also empowered, for the purpose of such preservation, to demand assistance from such persons as he thinks necessary, and from the master and crew of any vessel near at hand, and to demand the use of any waggon, cart, or horses near at hand—Penalty, for refusal, not exceeding £100 (s. 512).

Duties of receiver of wreck.

In the absence of the receiver of wreck the following persons in succession may act instead: chief officers of Customs, principal officer of coastguard, officer of Inland Revenue, sheriff, justice of the peace, commissioned officer on full pay in the Navy or Army (s. 516).

Persons rendering assistance to a ship are given right of passage over lands—Penalty, for obstructing such passage, preventing deposit of cargo, &c., not exceeding £100 (s. 513).

Right of passage over lands.

Failure to deliver to the receiver of the district wreck found—Penalty, not exceeding £100, as well as payment of double the value of wreck and forfeiture of claim to salvage (s. 518). Without leave of the master or the receiver of wreck, boarding ship in distress; impeding preservation of ship, secreting wreck, or carrying away parts of wrecked vessel—Penalty, not exceeding £50 (s. 536).

Offences as to wreck.

A justice may grant a warrant to the receiver of wreck authorising him to search for concealed wreck (s. 537).

Warrant to search for concealed wreck.

An offence made punishable with imprisonment not exceeding six months with or without hard labour or by fine not exceeding £100, shall be prosecuted summarily in manner provided by the Summary Jurisdiction Acts<sup>1</sup> (s. 680 (1 b)). As to admissibility of document as evidence, see s. 695; as to service of documents, see s. 696.

Procedure under Merchant Shipping Act.

Proceedings to be instituted within six months of commission of offence or arising of the cause of complaint; where either of the parties is out of the United Kingdom proceedings to be commenced in cases of summary conviction within two months after both happen to arrive or be at the same time in the United Kingdom (s. 683). For the purpose of giving jurisdiction under this Act, every offence shall be deemed to have been committed and every cause of complaint to have arisen either in the place in which the same actually was committed or arose, or in any place in which the offender or person complained against may be (s. 684). Justices of districts on the coast of the sea, or abutting or projecting into navigable waters, are given additional jurisdiction over ships in these waters (s. 685).

Person in possession of goods from wreck or offering such goods for sale, unless he can satisfy the justices that he came lawfully by the same—Penalty, imprisonment not exceeding six months with or without hard labour, or fine (over and above the value of the goods) not exceeding £20 (Larceny Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, ss. 65, 66).

Unlawful possession of goods from wreck

the sea. Jetsam is where the ship is in danger of being sunk, and to lighten the ship the goods are cast into the sea, and afterwards notwithstanding the ship perished. Lagan (vel potius ligam) is when the goods which are so cast into the sea, and afterwards the ship perishes and such goods cast are so heavy that they sink to the bottom, and the mariners to the intent to have them again, tie to them a buoy, or cork, or such other thing that will not sink so that they may find them again and dicitur lig a ligando (1601). Sir Henry Constable's case, 5 Coke 106 (vol. iii. Coke's Rep., p. 216).

<sup>1</sup> As to which, see p. 335.

NOTE AS TO VENUE.

Rule as to venue.
Exceptions.

At common law, the venue or place of trial of the offence must be laid where the offence is committed. But there are many statutory provisions enlarging the jurisdiction as to venue, e.g.:—(1) boundaries of counties (see p. 15, ante); (2) offences on journey or voyage (see p. 16, ante); (3) offences on ships, &c. (see p. 16, ante); (4) indictable offences under any of the Criminal Law Consolidated Acts, 1861, committed within the Admiralty jurisdiction (see pp. 14 u., 16, ante); (5) receiving goods knowing them to be stolen (see p. 17, ante); and (6) various other statutory provisions, e.g., offences against customs, excise, stamp laws, bigamy, perjury, &c., for which reference must be made in each case to the particular statute.

Further, the Petty Sessions Act, 1851, s. 10, gives jurisdiction where the offence is committed out of the justice's jurisdiction, but the defendant is within the justice's jurisdiction.

Where does offence take place?

The question as to where an offence takes place depends upon the nature of the offence.

It may be that there are several appropriate venues, e.g., in embezzlement, the accused may be charged either (a) where he refused to account, or (b) at any place where distinct acts of embezzlement are proved (R. v. Davison (1885), 7 Cox 158; R. v. Treadgold (1878), 14 Cox 220). So also, on a prosecution for sending a libellous threatening letter, the accused may be tried either where the letter was posted or where it was delivered (R. v. Burdett (1820), 4 B. & Ald. 95).

If a statute commands a thing to be done, the place where the thing should have been done is the place where the offence is committed (R. v. Milner (1846), 2 C. & K. 310).

No decision seems to have been given as to the place where a sale, forbidden by statute (e.g., under the Merchandise Marks Act), takes place. There is, of course, no difficulty where the sale and delivery are contemporaneous; but frequently the order, the acceptance, the appropriation of the goods and the delivery are not contemporaneous. It is submitted that, at any rate, the venue can be properly laid where the delivery takes place to the purchaser, but possibly also the venue may be laid where any other essential element of an executed sale takes place, e.g., the appropriation of the goods to the purchaser's order (see Pletts v. Beatty (1896), 1 Q.B. 519; Saunders v. Thorney (1898), 78 L.T. 627; Strickland v. Whittaker (1904), 20 T.L.R. 224; Noblett v. Hopkinson (1905), 2 K.B. 214).

The rules as to venue are less strict in the case of misdemeanour than in the case of felony (R. v. Ellis (1899), 1 Q.B. 230, per Bruce, J., at p. 242), which statement, it is submitted, is as applicable to misdemeanours triable summarily, as to misdemeanours triable on indictment.

PART III.

---

CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES.

INTRODUCTORY TO PART III.

PUNISHMENT OF OFFENDERS CONVICTED ON INDICTMENT.

THE punishments of the various offences enumerated in the CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES have been given fully, except in the case of offences, such as piracy, which are of infrequent occurrence, or where the complexity and the length of the Acts make it hopeless to attempt to enumerate, within the space that can be given to the subject, either the various offences or the punishments allotted to them. In the case of statutory offences, where the punishments have been varied by either the Punishment of Offences Act, 1837, 7 Wm. 4 and 1 Vict. c. 91 (which abolished the death penalty under several English and Irish statutes), or the Capital Punishment (Ir.) Act, 1842, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 28 (which did the same as regards a number of statutes of the Irish Parliament), such variation has been noted by a reference to whatever section of those two statutes applies.

Scheme of Part III. as regards punishment.

The punishment of any other indictable offence can be ascertained by referring to the section quoted with regard to it in the CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES and by bearing in mind (1) that the Penal Servitude Act, 1857, 20 & 21 Vict. c. 3, s. 2, substituted penal servitude for transportation in every case in which the latter punishment was authorised by any Act then in force, and (2) s. 1 of the Penal Servitude Act, 1891, 54 & 55 Vict. c. 69, which has altered the punishments authorised by a great many Acts previously enacted.

That section is as follows :—

“(1) Where under any enactment” in force on August 5, 1891, “a court has power to award a sentence of penal servitude, the sentence may, at the discretion of the court, be for any period not less than three years, and not exceeding either five years or any greater period authorised by the enactment. (2) Where under any Act “in force” on August 5, 1891, “or under any future Act, a court is empowered or required to award a sentence of penal servitude, the court may, in its discretion, unless such future Act otherwise provides, award imprisonment for any term not exceeding two years with or without hard labour.”

Penal Servitude Act, 1891.

The Penal Servitude Act, 1864, 27 & 28 Vict. c. 47, s. 9, as amended by s. 3 (3) of the Penal Servitude Act, 1891, 54 & 55 Vict. c. 69, provides that where any licence granted in the form set forth in Schedule A to the Act of 1864, or any form lawfully substituted for it, is forfeited by a conviction on indictment of any offence or is revoked in pursuance of any summary conviction under the Act of 1864 or any other Act, the licensee shall, after undergoing any other punishment to which he may be sentenced for the offence in consequence of which the forfeiture or revocation arises, further undergo a term of penal servitude equal to the portion of his term of penal servitude that remained unexpired at the time his licence was granted.<sup>1</sup> Under the above enactments power is taken away from the court of making the new sentence run concurrently

Inspection of “ticket of leave.”

<sup>1</sup> These provisions apparently do not apply to licences to habitual criminals on discharge from preventive detention (see HABITUAL CRIMINALS, post, and s. 14 (7) of 8 Edw. 7, c. 59).

with the remainder of the old (R. v. Hamilton (1908), Cr. App. Rep. 87), or to make the new sentence follow on the old (R. v. Smith; R. v. Wilson (1909), 2 K.B. 756; R. v. King (1897), 1 Q.B. 214).

The punishments now authorised are either set out fully after the offence, which is the course adopted where the punishment is unusual, or else some one of the letters distinguishing the various punishments in the following list has been used to indicate that the punishment set out in this article after such letter is the punishment appertaining to the offence :—

List of punishments.

A. Penal servitude for life or not less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour, and the offender may, in addition to such punishment, be required to enter into recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

B. Penal servitude for life or not less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour, and the offender may, if a male under sixteen, be once privately whipped with such instrument and number of strokes as the court specifies, and any prisoner may, in addition to such punishment, be required to enter into his own recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

C. Penal servitude for life or not less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour.<sup>1</sup>

D. Penal servitude not exceeding twenty nor less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour.<sup>1</sup>

E. Penal servitude not exceeding fourteen nor less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour, and the offender may, in addition to such punishment, be required to enter into his own recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

F. Penal servitude not exceeding fourteen nor less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour, and the offender may, if a male under sixteen, be once privately whipped with such instrument and number of strokes as the court specifies, and any prisoner may, in addition to such punishment, be required to enter into his own recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

G. Penal servitude not exceeding fourteen nor less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour.<sup>1</sup>

H. Penal servitude not exceeding ten nor less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour, and the offender may, in addition to such punishment, be required to enter into his own recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> A person convicted of any felony within the Criminal Law Consolidation Acts, 1861, may, in addition to any other punishment, be required to enter into recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace, and in default may be imprisoned for a term not exceeding a year. A person convicted of any misdemeanour (whether by statute or at common law) may, in addition to or in substitution for any other punishment, be required to enter into recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace and be of good behaviour (R. v. Dunn (1847), 12 Q.B. 1026); in cases within the Criminal Law Consolidation Acts, 1861, the term of imprisonment in default shall not exceed a year. A married woman may be ordered to enter into recognisances (Russell, 7th ed., p. 219).

I. Penal servitude not exceeding ten nor less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour, and the offender may, if a male under sixteen, be once privately whipped with such instrument and number of strokes as the court specifies, and any offender may, in addition to such punishment, be required to enter into his own recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

J. Penal servitude not exceeding ten nor less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour, and the offender may, in addition to or in lieu of such punishment, be fined and be required to enter into his own recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace and be of good behaviour, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

K. Penal servitude not exceeding ten nor less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour.<sup>1</sup>

L. Penal servitude not exceeding seven nor less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour, and the offender may, in addition to such punishment, be required to enter into his own recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

M. Penal servitude not exceeding seven nor less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour, and the offender may, if a male under sixteen, be once privately whipped with such instrument and number of strokes as the court specifies, and any offender may, in addition to such punishment, be required to enter into his own recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

N. Penal servitude not exceeding seven nor less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour, and the offender may, in addition to or in lieu of such punishment, be fined and be required to enter into recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace and be of good behaviour, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

O. Penal servitude not exceeding seven nor less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour, and the offender may, if a male under sixteen, be once privately whipped with such instrument and number of strokes as the court specifies, and any offender may, in addition to or in lieu of such punishment, be fined and be required to enter into his own recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace and be of good behaviour, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

P. Penal servitude not exceeding seven nor less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour.<sup>1</sup>

Q. Penal servitude not exceeding five nor less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour, and the offender may, in addition to such punishment, be required to enter into his own recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

R. Penal servitude not exceeding five nor less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour, and the offender may, if a male under sixteen, be once privately whipped with such instrument and number of strokes as the court specifies, and any prisoner may, in addition to such punishment, be required to enter into his own recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> See p. 862, n.

S. Penal servitude not exceeding five nor less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour, and the offender may, in addition to or in lieu of such punishment, be fined and be required to enter into recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace and be of good behaviour, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

T. Penal servitude not exceeding five nor less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour.<sup>1</sup>

U. Imprisonment not exceeding three years with or without hard labour.<sup>1</sup>

V. Imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour, and the offender may, in addition to such punishment, be required to enter into his own recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

W. Imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour, and the offender may, if a male under sixteen, be once privately whipped with such instrument and number of strokes as the court specifies, and any offender may, in addition to such punishment, be required to enter into his own recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

X. Imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour, and the offender may, in addition to such punishment, be fined and be required to enter into his own recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

Y. Imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour, and the offender may, in addition to or in lieu of such punishment, be fined and be required to enter into his own recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace and be of good behaviour, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

Z. Imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour, and the offender may, if a male under sixteen, be once whipped with such instrument and number of strokes as the court specifies, and any offender may, in addition to or in lieu of such punishment, be fined and be required to enter into his own recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace and be of good behaviour, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

AA. Imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour.<sup>1</sup>

BB. Imprisonment not exceeding eighteen months with or without hard labour, and the offender may, in addition to or in lieu of such punishment, be fined and be required to enter into his own recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace and be of good behaviour, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

CC. Imprisonment not exceeding one year with or without hard labour, and the offender may, in addition to or in lieu of such punishment, be fined and be required to enter into his own recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace and be of good behaviour, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

DD. Imprisonment not exceeding one year with or without hard labour.<sup>1</sup>

EE. Imprisonment not exceeding one year without hard labour.<sup>1</sup>

FF. Imprisonment not exceeding six months with or without hard labour, and the offender may, in addition to or in lieu of such punishment, be fined and be required to enter into his own recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace and be of good behaviour, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> See p. 862, n.

GG. Imprisonment not exceeding six months with or without hard labour, and the offender may, if a male under sixteen, be once privately whipped with such instrument and number of strokes as the court specifies, and any offender may, in addition to or in lieu of such punishment, be fined and be required to enter into his own recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace and be of good behaviour, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

HH. Imprisonment not exceeding six months with or without hard labour.<sup>1</sup>

II. Imprisonment not exceeding three months with or without hard labour, and the offender may, in addition to or in lieu of such punishment, be fined and be required to enter into his own recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace and be of good behaviour, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year.<sup>1</sup>

JJ. Fine, or imprisonment with or without hard labour, or both.<sup>1</sup>

KK. Fine, or imprisonment without hard labour, or both, and the offender may, in addition to or in lieu of such punishment, be fined and be required to enter into his own recognisances, with or without sureties, to keep the peace and be of good behaviour, and on failure to find sureties may be imprisoned for not more than one year with hard labour.<sup>1</sup>

LL. Fine, or imprisonment without hard labour, or both.<sup>1</sup>

There is no statute fixing any general maximum term of imprisonment or any minimum term of penal servitude. But under 9 Geo. 4, c. 54, s. 15, it is provided that in cases of felonies where no punishment is provided the convict shall be punished by transportation not exceeding seven years or imprisonment not exceeding two years. Transportation is now replaced by an equivalent term of penal servitude, so that, for all felonies created by statutes passed before 5th August 1891, and providing no punishment, the punishment is punishment P. by force of the 9 Geo. 4, c. 54, s. 15, 20 & 21 Vict. c. 3, s. 2, and 54 & 55 Vict. c. 69, s. 2 (1). There are several statutes under which imprisonment with hard labour for three years is allowed, for which see this catalogue, post, and s. 11 of the Forgery Act, 1861,<sup>2</sup> although most statutes allow a maximum of only two years; but where imprisonment without hard labour is inflicted under a common law power (R. v. Castro (1880), 5 Q.B.D. 490, per Bramwell, L.J., at p. 509), or under any statute that does not specify any term, there is no limit to the amount that may be imposed. In every case except one, which is noted hereafter, the minimum term of penal servitude that is authorised by any statute is three years.

Hard labour can be ordered only where some statute expressly authorises it, and cannot be ordered for offences which are such only at common law (R. v. Mallon (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 216). Where a statute authorises only imprisonment with hard labour, imprisonment without hard labour cannot be ordered.<sup>3</sup>

Under the Criminal Procedure Act, 1851, 14 & 15 Vict. c. 100, s. 29, it is provided that imprisonment with hard labour for any term "now

Penal servitude and imprisonment.

Hard labour.

<sup>1</sup> This is the punishment for any misdemeanour, whether statutory or at common law, to which no punishment has been assigned by statute (Russell, 7th ed., p. 249). As to requiring recognisances in such cases, see p. 862. n warranted by law" may be imposed on conviction on indictment for the following misdemeanours. (1) Cheat or fraud at common law. (2) Conspiracy to (a) cheat or defraud, (b) extort, (c) falsely accuse of crime, (d) pervert or defeat the course of justice. (3) Public selling or exposure of obscene books, &c., or any indecent exhibition.

<sup>2</sup> As to punishment for smuggling offences, see note to title SMUGGLING, post.

<sup>3</sup> At p. 212 of Russell, 7th ed., the opinion is expressed that a sentence of hard labour is never obligatory on the court. No authority is quoted for the statement. See, as to summary jurisdiction, p. 90, n.<sup>2</sup>, ante.

Fine. Where a fine is imposed under a common law power or under a statute which does not limit the amount (such as the five Criminal Law Consolidation Acts of 1861, that is to say, those relating to Forgery, Larceny, Malicious Injuries. Offences against the Person, and Coinage) there appears to be no limit to the amount of the fine that may be imposed, except in so far as Magna Charta and the Bill of Rights prohibit unreasonable fines.

A fine cannot be imposed at common law for felony (Russell, 7th ed., p. 217). Under s. 5 of 24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, power to impose a fine in case of conviction for manslaughter is expressly given.

Solitary confinement. The power given by many statutes passed in the early part of the last century to order solitary confinement has never been taken away by any general enactment, but except in a few cases, such as those specified hereafter, the power has been taken away by the repeal of the particular words that conferred the power. Solitary confinement is now, however, never ordered. All imprisonment has for many years practically involved solitary confinement.

Whipping. The punishment of whipping cannot be inflicted on women (Whipping Act, 1820, 1 Geo. 4, c. 57). It can be inflicted upon adult males under the Treason Act, 1842, s. 2, under the Larceny Act, 1861, and under the Offences against the Person Act, 1861; and there appears to be nothing except the good sense of the court to prevent its being inflicted upon adult males convicted under the Tumultuous Risings (Ir.) Act, 1831, ss. 2-6, or the 15 & 16 Geo. 3, c. 21 (Ir.), ss. 2, 5. Under the Larceny Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, s. 101, it may be inflicted on a male whose age does not exceed eighteen; but, in cases other than those above mentioned, it can be inflicted only on males under sixteen. Under the Whipping Act, 1862, 25 & 26 Vict. c. 18, s. 1, it is provided that where whipping is ordered by a court of summary jurisdiction the order must specify the number of strokes and the instrument, and in case of an offender under fourteen the instrument is to be a birch rod and the number of strokes not to exceed twelve. This section is incorporated as to offences against girls under thirteen, by offenders under sixteen, by s. 4 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885, 48 & 49 Vict. c. 69. No offender shall be whipped more than once for the same offence (Whipping Act, 1862, s. 2).

Probation of Offenders Act, 1907. As to the power of the court to discharge convicted persons on probation, instead of inflicting punishment, see the Probation of Offenders Act, 1907, 7 Edw. 7, c. 17, verbatim, APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

Youthful offenders. The law relating to the punishment of persons under sixteen has been materially altered by the Children Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 67. No such person can now be sentenced to death or to penal servitude (ss. 102 (1), (2), 103, and 131). If under fourteen he cannot be imprisoned at all (ss. 102 (1), 131), and if between fourteen and sixteen only under exceptional circumstances (ss. 102 (3) and 108). For the methods in which persons under sixteen and their parents may be punished, reference should be made to Parts IV. and V. of the Act. The following is a table of punishments applicable to children under the Children Act, 1908:—

Punishment not applicable to children.	SECTION		SECTION
	A child means a person under the age of 14 years . . . . .	131	No child can be sentenced to imprisonment . . . . .	102
	No child can be sentenced to death . . . . .	103	No child can be committed to prison in default of payment of a fine, damages, or costs . . . . .	102
	No child can be sentenced to penal servitude . . . . .	102

OFFENCES.

PUNISHMENTS APPLICABLE TO A CHILD.

Capital offences . . . . No. I.—The Court must sentence the child to Punishments be detained during His Majesty's pleasure. The place and conditions of such detention are to be directed by the Secretary of State (in Ireland by the Chief Secretary). (Children Act, 1908, s. 103.)

Offences punishable in adults with penal servitude or imprisonment. No. II.—The Court may discharge the child on his entering into a recognisance, with or without sureties, to be of good behaviour and to appear for sentence when called on at any time during a specified period not exceeding three years: and may impose a further condition that the child be under the supervision of any person named in the Order (for probation purposes). The Court may also order payment of damages for injury, compensation for loss, or costs. (Children Act, 1908, s. 107; Probation of Offenders Act, 1907, ss. 1 (2) (3), 2.)

Or,

No. III.—If the child appear to be under 12 years, the Court, if satisfied on inquiry that it is expedient so to deal with the child, may order him to be sent to a certified Industrial School for such time (specified in the Order) as to the Court may seem proper, not extending beyond the time when the child will attain 16 years. Such offenders, after the expiration of the period of detention, remain under the supervision of the managers of the school up to the age of 18. (Children Act, 1908, ss. 58 (2), 65 (b), 68 (2).)

Or,

No. IV.—If the child appear to be under 12 years, the Court may make an Order for the committal of the child to the care of a relative or other fit person named by the Court, with or without the supervision of a probation officer. (Children Act, 1908, ss. 58 (7), 60.)

Or,

No. V.—If the child is, in the opinion of the Court, over 12 years, the Court may, in addition to or in lieu of other sentence, order the child to be sent to a certified Reformatory School for a time to be specified in the Order, being not less than 3 or more than 5 years. (Children Act, 1908, ss. 57 (1), 65.)

Or,

No. VI.—The Court, if it consider that none of the other methods in which the case may be legally dealt with is suitable, may commit the child to custody in a Place of Detention provided by the police authorities, and named in the Order, for such term as may be specified in the Order, not exceeding that for which but for the Children Act, 1908, he might have been committed to prison, and in no case exceeding one month. (Children Act, 1908, s. 106.)

Or,

When the offence so punishable is either: No. VII.—The Court in these cases, if of opinion that no other authorised punishment is sufficient, may sentence a child to be detained for a period to be specified in the sentence. The place and conditions of such a detention are to be directed by the Secretary for State (in Ireland by the Chief Secretary). (Children Act, 1908, s. 104.)

- (1) Manslaughter;
- (2) Wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm; or,
- (3) Attempt to murder.

Any offence for the commission of which a fine, damages, or costs may be imposed on an adult. No. VIII.—If of opinion that the case would be best so met, the Court may impose a fine, damages, or costs, with or without other punishment. The amount awarded must be ordered to be paid by the parent or guardian of the child, unless the Court is satisfied (1) that such parent or guardian cannot be found, or (2) that he has not conduced to the commission of the offence by neglecting to exercise due care of the child. (Children Act, 1908, s. 99 (1).)

Or,

If the child appear to be under 12 years, the Court may apply Punishments III. or IV.

Any offence which would in the case of an adult render him liable to be imprisoned in default of payment of any fine, damages, or costs.

The Court may apply Punishment No. VI. Or, where the child is under 12, Punishment III. or Punishment IV.

The Children Act makes no change in the law as to Whipping. Whipping is now ordered only when authorised by statute. No female can be whipped. There are a few offences for which adult males can be whipped. The statutes authorising the whipping of males under 16 years are numerous.

The Court is given general power to order the parent or guardian of a child offender to give security for the good behaviour of such child. (Children Act, 1908, s. 99 (2).)

Young offender.
Borstal system.

The Prevention of Crime Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 59, aims at the reformation of offenders not less than sixteen nor more than twenty-one years of age by providing for their detention in places known as Borstal institutions. Where any such person is convicted on indictment of an offence for which penal servitude or imprisonment may be imposed, he may, if it appears to the court expedient by reason of his criminal habits, tendencies, or association with persons of bad character, in lieu of any such punishment, be ordered to be detained in a Borstal institution for not more than three years nor less than one year; provided that the court, before passing such a sentence, shall consider any report or representations which may be made to it by or on behalf of the General Prisons Board as to the suitability of the case for treatment in a Borstal institution, and shall be satisfied that the character, state of health, and mental condition of the offender and other circumstances of the case are such that the offender is likely to profit by such instruction and discipline as aforesaid (Prevention of Crimes Act, 1908, s. 1).

The Lord-Lieutenant may make an order extending the Act to persons apparently under the age of twenty-one and not exceeding the age of twenty-three as provided by the order (ss. 1 (2), 18 (a)). The Act makes no provision as to the proof of age.

In determining whether or not to pass a sentence upon a prisoner of detention under penal discipline in a Borstal institution, the judge, although he has to consider any report of the prison governor as to the suitability of the prisoner for the Borstal treatment, is not bound to come to the same conclusion as that stated in the report, and in a proper case he may sentence a prisoner to be dealt with under that system, even although the prison governor has reported that the particular prisoner is not suited for treatment under it (R. v. Wilkins, Smallwood, and Jones (C.C.A.) (1910), 26 T.L.R. 581).

In fixing the length of sentence to be imposed, the judge may properly take into consideration the treatment the prisoner is to receive. The judge may therefore give a longer sentence than might otherwise be proper in order that the prisoner may receive the benefit of the Borstal system (R. v. Kirkpatrick (1908), 73 J.P. 29; 25 T.L.R. 66, C.C.A.).

As to the cases in which the court may order offenders to be subject to the supervision of the police after the expiration of the sentence passed by the court, see PREVENTION OF CRIMES, p. 682.

Where an alien is convicted of felony or misdemeanour, the court may recommend his expulsion from the United Kingdom, and thereupon the Secretary of State for the Home Department may give effect to such recommendation<sup>1</sup> (Aliens Act, 1905, 5 Edw. 7, c. 13, s. 3 (1)).

As to habitual criminals, see HABITUAL CRIMINALS.

As to habitual drunkards, see p. 514.

<sup>1</sup> As to the powers of a court of summary jurisdiction under this Act, see p. 354.

Length of sentence determined by the treatment prisoner is to receive.

Police supervision.

Deportation of aliens.

Habitual criminals.

Habitual drunkards.

CATALOGUE OF INDICTABLE OFFENCES.

ABDUCTION.

Abduction of females over eighteen :

TAKING away or detaining against her will from motives of lucre,<sup>1</sup> any woman of any age who has any interest of any nature in real or personal property or who is a presumptive heiress or next of kin with intent to marry or carnally know her or to cause her to be married or carnally known by any person ; or fraudulently alluring, taking away, or detaining. such woman, being under the age of twenty-one years, out of the possession and against the will of any person having lawful care or charge of her with like intent<sup>2</sup>—Felony, punishment E, as to which see p. 862 (Offences against the Person Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, ss. 53 and 71).

By force taking away or detaining against her will any woman of any age with like intent—Felony, like punishment (ss. 54 and 71).

of children under fourteen :

Unlawfully, either by force or fraud, taking away or detaining any child under the age of fourteen years with intent to deprive any person having lawful care or charge of such child of the possession of such child, or to steal any article upon or about its person,<sup>3</sup> or with like intent receiving or harbouring any such child knowing it to have been by force or fraud so taken away or detained—Felony, punishment M, as to which see p. 863 (ss. 56, 70, 71). Strict proof of the age of the child is required where that age is material to the prosecution (Lockwood v. Walker (1910), S. C. Just. 3).

of girl under sixteen ;

Unlawfully taking or causing to be taken any unmarried girl under the age of sixteen years out of the possession and against the will of any person having lawful care or charge of her<sup>4</sup>—Misdemeanour, punishment X, as to which see p. 864 (ss. 55, 71).

of girl under eighteen.

Taking or causing to be taken any unmarried girl under the age of eighteen years, with intent that she shall be unlawfully and carnally known, out of the possession and against the will of any person having lawful care or charge of her<sup>5</sup>—Misdemeanour, punishment AA, as to which see p. 864 (Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885, 48 & 49 Vict. c. 69, s. 7).

<sup>1</sup> No offence is committed under this part of the section unless the defendant acted from motives of lucre (R. v. Barratt (1840), 9 C. & P. 387).

<sup>2</sup> The woman, even though married to the offender, is a competent witness against him (R. v. Wakefield (1827), 2 Lew. 279).

<sup>3</sup> No one is liable to conviction for this offence who has claimed any right to the possession of the child, or who is the mother, or, in the case of an illegitimate child, who shall have claimed to be the father of the child (24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, s. 56) ; but the mother may, it seems, be convicted of conspiracy with some other person to commit the offence (R. v. Duguid (1906), 21 Cox 200 ; R. v. Crossman (1908), 98 L.T. 760).

<sup>4</sup> The fact that the defendant believed upon reasonable grounds that the girl was sixteen years of age is no defence (R. v. Prince (1875), L.R. 2 C.C.R. 154) ; but apparently no offence is committed if the defendant is ignorant of the fact that the girl is under the lawful care or charge of any person (R. v. Hibbert (1869), L.R. 1 C.C.R. 184).

<sup>5</sup> The section makes it a sufficient defence that the defendant had reasonable cause to believe that the girl was eighteen years of age. This offence is within the Vexatious Indictments Act.

ABORTION.

Any woman with child unlawfully administering to herself any noxious thing or using any instrument or other means with intent to procure her own miscarriage,<sup>1</sup> or any person unlawfully administering to or causing to be taken by any woman, whether with child or not, anything with intent to procure her miscarriage, or using any instrument or other means with like intent<sup>2</sup>—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (Offences against the Person Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, ss. 58, 71).

Any person supplying or procuring any noxious thing or any instrument or thing, knowing that it is intended to be unlawfully used with intent to procure the miscarriage of a woman, whether she be with child or not—Misdemeanour, punishment S, as to which see p. 864 (ss. 59, 71).

ACCESSORIES.

See CRIMES, PRINCIPALS AND ACCESSORIES.

ACCOUNTS, FALSIFICATION OF.

Clerk, officer, or servant, or person acting in any of these capacities. (1) wilfully and with intent to defraud, destroying, altering, mutilating, or falsifying any book, paper, writing, valuable security, or account belonging to or in the possession of his employer, or received by him for or on behalf of his employer, or (2) wilfully and with intent to defraud making, or concurring in making, false entry or omitting or altering material particular from or in such book, &c.<sup>3</sup>—Misdemeanour, punishment N, as to which see p. 864 (Falsification of Accounts Act, 1875, 38 & 39 Vict. c. 24, ss. 1 and 3; Larceny Act, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, s. 117).

Destruction, mutilation, alteration, or falsification of books, papers, or securities, or making or being privy to making any false or fraudulent entry in any register, account, or document of a company being wound up, by any director, officer, or contributory of such company, with intent to defraud—Misdemeanour, punishment AA, as to which see p. 864 (Companies Consolidation Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 69, s. 216). Other similar offences by directors are dealt with by the Larceny Act, 1861, ss. 82, 83, 84, as to which see LARCENY. See also BANKRUPTCY, OFFENCES RELATING TO, and ASSURANCE COMPANIES.

AFFRAY.

Two or more persons fighting in a public place to the terror of His Majesty's subjects—Misdemeanour, at common law, punishment LL, as to which see p. 865 (Russell, 7th ed., 427; see R. v. O'Neill (1871), 1 R. 6 C.L. 1).

<sup>1</sup> It has been held by Darling, J., that if a woman with child takes, with intent to procure her miscarriage, a substance, harmless in fact but believed by her to be noxious, the common law offence of attempting to procure abortion has been committed (R. v. Brown (1899), 63 J.P. 790).

<sup>2</sup> To prove the intent with which the noxious thing was administered or the instrument used, evidence showing that the accused had on previous occasions used similar means with the avowed intention of procuring abortion, or had previously admitted having done the same thing, is admissible (R. v. Bond (1906), 2 Q.B. 389).

<sup>3</sup> That is, book, &c., belonging to or in possession of the employer, or received by defendant for the employer (R. v. Palin (1906), 1 K.B. 7).

A prize-fight carried out in a private place or in a place where no one except those who come to see the fight are in fact likely to see it is not an affray (R. v. Hunt (1845), 1 Cox 177). The law as to boxing matches is as follows :—

“ In cases where life and limb are exposed to no serious danger in the common course of things, I think that consent is a defence to a charge of assault, even when considerable force is used, as, for instance, in cases of wrestling, singlestick, sparring with gloves, football, and the like; but in all cases the question whether consent does nor does not take from the application of force to another its illegal character, is a question of degree depending upon circumstances ” (per Stephen, J., in R. v. Coney (1882), 8 Q.B.D. 534, at p. 549). “ But the injuries given and received in prize-fights are injurious to the public, both because it is against the public interest that the lives and the health of the combatants should be endangered by blows, and because prize-fights are disorderly exhibitions, mischievous on many obvious grounds ” (ib., see also judgments of Cave, J., at p. 539; Matthew, J., 547; Hawkins, J., 553; Denman, J., 567). The ordinary prize-fight, therefore, in which each combatant means to knock out the other, if he can, is illegal; and the wearing of gloves does not make a fight a sparring match (R. v. Orton (1878), 14 Cox 226). All who are present at a prize-fight for the purpose of promoting or assisting at the fight are guilty of unlawful assembly (R. v. Billingham (1825), 2 C. & P. 234), or may be convicted of assault (R. v. Coney, supra). Mere accidental presence at a prize-fight is no offence (ib.; see R. v. Rankin (1841), 7 State Tr., N.S., 711, at p. 789); but mere presence is some evidence to go to the jury of assisting or promoting the fight (R. v. Coney, supra); and it is submitted that the presence of a person who pays for entrance is assisting at a prize-fight.

ARMED, GOING.

Going armed by night or day in such a manner as to terrify the King's subjects; discharging firearms in the public street is within the statute (R. v. Meade (1903), 19 T.L.R. 540). So also, it is submitted, is the displaying or discharging of firearms at public meetings. A man is liable to punishment if he makes himself a public nuisance by firing a revolver in a public place with the result that the public are frightened and terrified, and in such a case justices are within their rights in sending the case for trial instead of dealing summarily with it (per Wills, J., in R. v. Meade, supra)—Misdemeanour, punishment LL, as to which see p. 865 (2 Edw. 3, c. 3, and Common Law).

Being armed by night with any dangerous or offensive weapon or instrument with intent to break or enter into a dwelling-house or building and commit a felony therein—Misdemeanour, punishment S, as to which see p. 863 (Larceny Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, ss. 58 and 117). On conviction of misdemeanour under s. 58 after previous conviction for felony or such misdemeanours, punishment J, as to which see p. 863 (ib., ss. 59 and 117).

ARSON.

See MALICIOUS INJURIES TO PROPERTY, and SHIPS.

ASSAULT.

An assault is an attempt or offer to apply force of any kind to another person, by striking, touching, or moving him or otherwise applying any direct or indirect force to him, as by striking at another with a stick or other weapon, or without a weapon, though the party striking misses his aim. So drawing a sword or bayonet, or even holding up a fist in a menacing manner, throwing a bottle or glass with intent to wound or strike, presenting a gun at a person who is within the distance to which the gun will carry, pointing a pitchfork at a person who is within reach, or any other similar act, accompanied with such circumstances as denote at the time an intention, coupled with an actual or apparent present ability, of using actual force against the person of another, will amount to an assault (Russell, 7th ed., 879). If force, however slight, be actually applied, the assault becomes a battery (1 Hawk, c. 62, s. 5). Mere words can never amount to an assault (1 Hawk, c. 15, s. 1). Consent is no defence where the act charged amounts to a breach of the peace, or directly tends to a breach of the peace, or is in itself dangerous (R. v. Coney (1882), 8 Q.B.D. 534, at pp. 539, 549).

Wounding with intent to do grievous bodily harm—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (Offences against the Person Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, ss. 18, 71). Malicious wounding—Misdemeanour, punishment S, as to which see p. 863 (ib., ss. 20, 71). Common assault<sup>1</sup>—Misdemeanour, punishment CC, as to which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 47, 71). Assault occasioning actual bodily harm—Misdemeanour, punishment S, as to which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 47, 71). Obstructing or assaulting clergyman or minister in discharge of his duties—Misdemeanour, punishment X, as to which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 36, 71). Assaulting magistrate, peace officer, &c., on account of his preserving wreck—Misdemeanour, punishment N, as to which see p. 863 (ib., ss. 37, 71). Assault with intent to commit felony, or assaulting or obstructing peace officer in execution of his duty,<sup>2</sup> or assault on a person acting in aid of such officer—Misdemeanour, punishment X, as to which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 38, 71). Assault with attempt to commit sodomy, or indecent assault on a male person—Misdemeanour, punishment J, as to which see p. 863 (ib., ss. 62, 71).<sup>3</sup> Assault with intent to rob—Felony, punishment Q, as to which see p. 863 (Larceny Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, ss. 42, 117).

<sup>1</sup> A person driving a vehicle (which includes a bicycle or motor-car) furiously, wantonly, or negligently, in such a way as to cause bodily injury to another, cannot be convicted of a common or any other assault (Ackroyd v. Barrett (1894), 11 T.L.R. 115), but he may be convicted under s. 35 of the Offences against the Person Act, 1861, for which see OFFENCES AGAINST THE PERSON.

<sup>2</sup> Merely giving notice to motorists that the police are timing cars with a view to prosecuting under the Motor Cars Acts, 1898 and 1903, and by such notice preventing motorists from exceeding the legal speed on such part of a road as the police are timing cars on, is not an offence within this section (Bastable v. Little (1907), 1 K.B. 59). But if it can be proved that at the time the notice was given the motorists who received such notice were exceeding the legal speed, and then slowed down whilst passing over the part of the road on which the police were operating, so that the operations of the police were rendered futile, the person giving such notice may be convicted of obstructing the police in the execution of their duty (Betts v. Stevens (1910), 1 K.B. 1).

If it is proved that the accused has not merely assaulted, but has either resisted or wilfully obstructed, or that, without assaulting, he has either resisted or wilfully obstructed, a constable in the execution of his duty, the justices have no summary jurisdiction (R. v. Kilkenny J.J. (1871), I.R. 5 C.L. 394).

It is an offence against this section to collect a crowd and refuse to leave when requested by the police (Pankhurst v. Jarvis (1909), 74 J.P. 64; and see Despard v. Wilcox (1910), 74 J.P. 115).

<sup>3</sup> As to indecent assaults on females, see p. 897.

Assault on a deer-keeper—Felony, punishment Z, as to which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 16, 117, 119).

For summary jurisdiction in cases of (1) common assault, see p. 379; of aggravated assault on female or boy under fourteen, see p. 380; of assault on peace officer, see p. 381. A certificate of dismissal (given under the 24 & 25 Vict. c. 100. s. 44), or of conviction before justices for assault, is (ib., s. 45) a bar to any indictment for any charge except manslaughter (R. v. Morris (1867), L.R. 1 C.C.R. 90), or it would seem murder, where the person assaulted afterwards dies.

ASSEMBLY, UNLAWFUL.

An unlawful assembly is an assembly of three or more persons with intent either to commit a crime by open force, or to carry out a common purpose, either lawful or unlawful, in such a manner as to give firm and courageous persons in the neighbourhood of such assembly reasonable grounds to apprehend a breach of the peace (Stephen, Dig. Criminal Law, 6th ed., 55).

Taking part in an unlawful assembly—Misdemeanour, at common law, punishment LL, as to which see p. 865.

An assembly which was originally lawful may become unlawful if a proposal is made at such meeting to do any act of violence to the disturbance of the public peace and if such proposal is acted on (Redford v. Birley (1822), 3 Stark 76; R. v. Vincent (1839), 9 C. & P. 91). Persons assembled for an innocent purpose and with no intention of carrying it out unlawfully are not guilty of unlawful assembly merely because they have reason to believe (Beatty v. Gillbanks (1882), 9 Q.B.D. 308; R. v. Clarkson (1892), 17 Cox 483) that other persons will, as the result of such assembly, commit a breach of the peace, but they are guilty of unlawful assembly if they are determined to carry out their purpose by force (R. v. Cunningham Graham and Burns (1886), 16 Cox 420). A meeting lawfully assembled may become unlawful if during its course seditious words are spoken of such a nature as to produce a breach of the peace (R. v. Burns and others (1886), 16 Cox 355). As to a prize-fight, see AFFRAY, p. 871. There is no summary jurisdiction in cases of unlawful assembly except under the Criminal Law and Procedure (Ir.) Act, 1887, 50 & 51 Vict. c. 20, s. 2 (3), for which see APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

ASSURANCE COMPANIES ACT, 1909, 9 Edw. 7, c. 49.

Signing any account, balance-sheet, abstract, statement, or other document required by the Assurance Companies Act, 1909, which is false to the knowledge of the person signing it—Misdemeanour, punishable on indictment with LL (see p. 865), or on summary conviction with fine not exceeding £50 (Assurance Companies Act, 1909, 9 Edw. 7, c. 49, s. 24). Penalties imposed by the Act to be recovered and applied in the same manner as penalties imposed by the Companies (Consolidation) Act, 1908 (ib., s. 25). See p. 410.

ATTEMPT TO COMMIT A CRIME.

Every attempt to commit any act that is either a felony or a misdemeanour either at common law or by statute is itself an indictable misdemeanour at common law, punishment LL, as to which see p. 865

(Russell, 7th ed., 140). The proof of the physical impossibility of committing the crime attempted is not enough to excuse the attempt (R. v. Brown (1889), 24 Q.B.D. 357; R. v. Ring (1892), 17 Cox 491). Many attempts are punishable by statute, as felonies or misdemeanours, as to which see under various titles, passim. Any attempt to procure the commission of a crime by another is punishable as an attempt to commit a crime whether the crime be committed or not (R. v. Higgins (1801), 2 East 5; R. v. Quail (1866), 4 F. & F. 1076; R. v. Ransford (1874), 13 Cox 9; R. v. De Kromme (1892), 17 Cox 492). The attempt may be made by matter published in a newspaper or otherwise addressed merely to the public in general (R. v. Most (1880), 7 Q.B.D. 244). It must be proved that the persons intended to be incited were reached by the communication; the purchase of a newspaper which contains the incitement is some evidence that the persons to be incited were reached (R. v. M'Carthy (1903), 2 I.R. 146). If, as the result of such attempt to procure the commission of a crime, such crime is actually committed, the person procuring the commission is, if the crime be felony, guilty of felony as an accessory before the fact, whereas in the case of a misdemeanour the person procuring its commission is guilty of misdemeanour as a principal. The following definition of an attempt was accepted in R. v. Laitwood (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 248: "An attempt to commit an offence is an act done or committed with intent to commit the offence, forming part of a series of acts or omissions which would have constituted the offence if such series of acts or omissions had not been interrupted either by the voluntary determination of the offender not to complete the offence or by some other cause."

BAIL.

As to admitting to bail, see pp. 29–31.

BANKRUPTCY, OFFENCES RELATING TO.

Any person adjudged bankrupt, or having presented petition for arrangement, (1) failing to truly discover, to the best of his knowledge or belief, property;<sup>1</sup> (2) failing to deliver up property; (3) failing to deliver up books, documents, &c., in his custody or control; (4) after presentation of a bankruptcy or arrangement petition, or within four months next before such presentation, concealing any property to the value of £10, or any debt; (5) within the same period fraudulently removing property to the value of £10 or upwards;<sup>2</sup> (6) making any material omission in any statement relating to his affairs; (7) failing for the period of one month to give information of falsehood of debt which he knows or believes to have been proved against him; (8) after presentation of a bankruptcy or arrangement petition, preventing the production of any document affecting or relating to his property or affairs; (9) after presentation of petition as above, or within four months next before such presentation, concealing, destroying, falsifying, &c., any such document, or being privy thereto; (10) within the same period making false entry in such document or being privy thereto; (11) within the same period fraudulently parting with, altering, or making any omission, in any such document, or being privy thereto; (12) within the same period attempting to account for any part of his property by any fictitious losses or expenses; (13) having within four months before the presentation of a petition obtained by fraud property on credit and not having paid for the same;<sup>1</sup> (14) within same period, being a trader, having obtained property on credit under false pretence of ordinary trade dealing; (15) within same period, being a trader, disposing otherwise than in the ordinary way of trade of any property obtained by him on credit and not paid for; (16) obtaining agreement of creditors by false representation or other fraud (unless—in offences 1-6, 14, 15—the jury is satisfied that he had no intent to defraud, or—in offences 8, 10—the jury is satisfied he had no intent to conceal the state of his affairs or to defeat the law)—Misdemeanour, punishment AA, as to which see p. 864 (Debtors Act (Ir.), 1872, 35 & 36 Vict. c. 57, s. 11).

<sup>1</sup> A bankrupt commits an offence by not disclosing after acquired property (R. v. Michell (1880), 14 Cox 490).

<sup>2</sup> The property must have been the property of the prisoner at the date of its removal; so that no offence is committed under this section where the prisoner, who had assigned the goods under a bill of sale, was merely in possession of them at the date of their removal (R. v. Creese (1874), L.R. 2 C.C.R. 105).

Any person whatever obtaining credit by false pretences or any other fraud,<sup>2</sup> making gift, delivery, transfer of, or charge upon his property with intent to defraud his creditors, or with like intent concealing or removing property since or within two months before the date of unsatisfied judgment or order for payment of money, or wilfully concealing property of any bankrupt or arranging debtor, and not having within forty-two days after filing of petition discovered such estate—Misdemeanour, punishment DD, as to which see p. 864 (ib., s. 13).

Any creditor wilfully and with intent to defraud making false claim or any proof, declaration, or statement of account untrue in a material particular in bankruptcy or arrangement or composition—Misdemeanour, punishment DD, as to which see p. 865 (ib., s. 14).

Bankrupt or arranging debtor, after adjudication or petition, or within four months before, absconding, or preparing to abscond, with property amounting to £20 or upwards, and by law divisible amongst creditors, unless the jury is satisfied that he had no intent to defraud—Felony, punishment AA, as to which see p. 864 (ib., s. 12).

Prosecutions under ss. 11, 13, and 14 of the 35 & 36 Vict. c. 57 are subject to the Vexatious Indictments Act, 1859, 22 & 23 Vict. c. 17, and in any prosecution under those sections the justices are to take into consideration any evidence tending to show that the act charged was not committed with a guilty intent (ib., s. 18).

Knowingly and wilfully resisting or obstructing messenger of bankruptcy court—Misdemeanour, punishment HH, as to which see p. 865 (Irish Bankrupt and Insolvent Act, 1857, 20 & 21 Vict. c. 60, s. 389).

Officer of the court fraudulently demanding or taking unauthorised fees or reward other than is allowed by the Act, liable to forfeit £500, and is incapable of ever holding any office or place under the Crown (ib., s. 395).

Forging signature of judge or officer or the seal of court; tendering in evidence a document with such false signature or seal, knowing the same to be forged—Felony, punishment P, as to which see p. 863 (ib., s. 397).

Inserting unauthorised advertisement as to bankruptcy—Misdemeanour, punishment LL, as to which see p. 865 (ib., s. 396).

Gaoler suffering persons committed in bankruptcy to escape—Penalty, £500 (ib., s. 398).

As to perjury in bankruptcy proceedings, see PERJURY.

<sup>1</sup> On an indictment under this section it is not necessary to allege or prove intent to defraud (R. v. Dyson (1894), 2 Q.B. 176; R. v. Brownlow (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 131).

Where the goods are obtained by letter the indictment may be laid in the county where the letter was written and to which the goods were sent (R. v. Peters (1886), 16 Q.B.D. 636; R. v. Ellis (1899), 1 Q.B. 230).

<sup>2</sup> An intention to defraud is an essential ingredient in the offence created by the foregoing words of this section (R. v. Muirhead (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 189; R. v. Brownlow (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 131).

BETTING.

Street betting, &c., after the accused has been twice convicted of like offence, or where in committing such offence he has any betting transaction with a person under sixteen—Misdemeanour, fine not exceeding £50, or imprisonment not exceeding six months with or without hard labour (Street Betting Act, 1906, 6 Edw. 7, c. 43, s. 1 (1) (c)).<sup>1</sup>

Inviting infant to bet or borrow money or unlawfully soliciting infant to make affidavit in connection with loan—Misdemeanour, imprisonment not exceeding three months with or without hard labour, or fine not exceeding £100, or both (Betting and Loans (Infants) Act, 1892, 55 & 56 Vict. c. 4, ss. 1, 2, 4).<sup>2</sup> Knowledge of infanc y is presumed where the circular, &c., is sent to a person who is an infant at a university, college, school, or other place of education, unless the person sending such circular, &c., prove reasonable ground for belief that the person to whom it was sent was of full age (s. 3).

BIGAMY.

See MARRIAGE, OFFENCES RELATING TO.

BIRTH, CONCEALMENT OF.

“If any woman shall be delivered of a child, every person who shall by any secret disposition of the dead body of the child, whether such child died before, at, or after its birth, endeavour to conceal the birth thereof”—Misdemeanour, punishment Y, as to which see p. 864 (Offences against the Person Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, ss. 60, 71). “If any person tried for the murder of a child shall be acquitted thereof, it shall be lawful for the jury . . . to find, in case it shall so appear in evidence, that the child had recently been born, and that such person did, by some secret disposition of the body of such child, endeavour to conceal the birth thereof, and thereupon the court may pass such sentence as if such person had been convicted upon an indictment for the concealment of the birth” (ib., s. 60).

To constitute the offence it must be proved :—(1) That a woman has been delivered of something more than a foetus which had not reached the stage of development at which it could have been born alive (R. v. Hewett (1866), 4 F. & F. 1101). (2) That the dead body was found and had been identified as that of the child the concealment of whose birth is charged (R. v. Williams (1871), 11 Cox 684).<sup>3</sup> (3) That there was some definite act of concealment.<sup>4</sup> (4) That the child was dead when concealed.<sup>5</sup> (R. v. Bell, I.R. 8 C.L. 542).

<sup>1</sup> Any person who appears to the court to be under the age of sixteen shall be deemed to be under that age till the contrary is proved, or unless the person charged satisfies the court he had reasonable ground for believing otherwise (s. 1 (3)). As to summary jurisdiction under the Act, see p. 504.

<sup>2</sup> As to summary jurisdiction under this Act, see p. 404.

<sup>3</sup> Unless in cases where from the evidence it appears that the finding of the body was rendered impossible by circumstances such as those in R. v. Kersey (1908), 21 Cox 690, where a woman was convicted of concealment of birth on her own confession that she had killed her child and cremated the body.

<sup>4</sup> Neither the mere leaving of the body in the place where the confinement took place (R. v. Derham (1843), 1 Cox 56), nor the mere denial of the fact of the birth (R. v. Turner (1839), 8 C. & P. 755), nor leaving on the public street (R. v. Clark (1883), 15 Cox 171), is such an act. But putting the body under the bolster of a bed (R. v. Perry (1855), Dears 471), or putting the body entirely exposed in some secluded place where no one would be likely to find it (R. v. Brown (1870), L.R. 1 C.C.R. 244), is such an act.

<sup>5</sup> A person who conceals a living child which, as the result of such concealment, is caused either suffering or injury, or dies, is obviously guilty either of cruelty to children, or of murder or manslaughter, as the case may be.

BLASPHEMY.

Any person speaking or printing and publishing any blasphemous words is guilty of a misdemeanour at common law, punishment LL, as to which see p. 865. Opinions differ as to what constitutes the crime of blasphemy: "The gist of the offence is not now considered to be in holding an opinion contrary to the general tenets of Christianity, or to the doctrines of the Church of England, but in the mode of expressing it" (Russell, 7th ed., 395; but see Stephen's Dig. Criminal Law, 6th ed., 125).

BRIBERY AND CORRUPTION.

As to bribery at Elections, see ELECTIONS, OFFENCES AS TO.

Corruptly soliciting or receiving, &c., any gift, &c., as an inducement to or reward for any member, officer, or servant of a public body as defined by the Act, doing or forbearing to do anything in respect of any matter in which such public body is concerned, or corruptly giving, promising, or offering such inducement or reward—Misdemeanour, punishment AA, as to which see p. 864, or £500 fine, or both, and the accused is liable to pay to such public body value of such gift received, and incurs certain disqualifications as to office (Public Bodies Corrupt Practices Act, 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 69, ss. 1, 2). Public body means any council of a county, city, or town, or municipal borough, any board, &c., having power to act for local government, public health, poor law, or to administer money raised by public rates (ib., s. 7). No prosecution under ss. 1 and 2 can be instituted without the leave of the Attorney-General or Solicitor-General for Ireland (ib., s. 4).

Under the Prevention of Corruption Act, 1906, 6 Edw. 7, c. 34, s. 1 (1), any agent corruptly accepting or obtaining, or attempting to so obtain from any person, any gift or consideration as inducement or reward for doing or forbearing to do, or having after the passing of the Act done or forborne to do any act, or for showing or forbearing to show favour or disfavour to any person in relation to his principal's affairs or business, is guilty of misdemeanour, punishable by AA (see p. 865), or fine of £500, or both, on indictment.<sup>1</sup> Any person giving, agreeing to give, or offering any such inducement as above—Misdemeanour, same punishment (ib.). Any person knowingly giving to any agent; any agent knowingly using with intent to deceive his principal, any receipt or account or other document containing false, erroneous, or defective statement in material particular to his knowledge intended to deceive his principal—Misdemeanour, same punishment (ib.).<sup>2</sup>

BURGLARY.

Common law.

Burglary is:—(1) at common law, breaking and entering the dwelling-house of another in the night-time with intent to commit any felony therein, whether such intent be executed or not (1 Hawk, c. 38, s. 1);

<sup>1</sup> For summary jurisdiction, see p. 389.

<sup>2</sup> "Consideration" means valuable consideration of any kind (ib., s. 1 (2)). "Agent" includes any person employed by or acting for another or serving under the Crown, a corporation, municipal borough, county, or district council or board of guardians (ib., s. 1 (2), (3)): "principal" includes employer (ib., s. 1 (2)).

A prosecution for an offence under the Act cannot be instituted except by leave of the Attorney or Solicitor General (ib., s. 2).

The Vexatious Indictments Act, 1859, 22 & 23 Vict. c. 17, applies to prosecutions under the Act.

(2) by statute, where any person shall enter the dwelling-house of another with intent to commit any felony therein or being in such dwelling-house shall commit any felony therein, and shall in either case break out of such house in the night (Larceny Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, ss. 51, 52). The offence in either case is—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 52, 117). Statutory.

Night-time begins at 9 P.M. and ends at 6 A.M. (24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, s. 1). Both the breaking and the entry must be in the night-time (1 Hale 551). If either or both of the acts is committed in the day the offence is HOUSE-BREAKING.<sup>1</sup> The breaking may be effected in one night and the entry on another night (R. v. Smith (1820), Russ. & Ry. 417); and the breaking may be by one person and the entry by a confederate, in which case each is guilty of burglary (R. v. Jordan (1836), 7 C. & P. 432). Dwelling-house means a permanent building (1 Hale 557; 1 Hawk, c. 38, s. 17) (as distinguished from such a structure as a tent), in which the owner (R. v. Bridges (1845), 1 Cox 261, in which case a tenant at will was held to be an owner) or his family, including his domestic servants (R. v. Gibbons (1821), Russ. & Ry. 442; R. v. Stock (1810), Russ. & Ry. 185; R. v. Westwood (1822), ib. 495), are in the habit of sleeping (R. v. Harris (1795), 2 Leach 701; R. v. Thompson (1796), ib. 771; R. v. Martin (1806), Russ. & Ry. 108; R. v. Smith (1833), 1 Mood & R. 256), even during portion only of the year (1 Hawk, c. 8, s. 11; R. v. Nutbourn (1750), Fost. 76; R. v. Murry (1698), 2 East P.C. 496; R. v. Smith (1833), 1 Mood & R. 256), and any building communicating either internally, or by a covered and enclosed passage, with such dwelling-house, and held with it by the same owner (R. v. Jenkins (1812), Russ. & Ry. 244), is deemed to be part thereof (24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, s. 53). "Night-time."
"Dwelling-house."

The breaking must be in respect of some part of the dwelling-house itself, as above defined. Thus it is not burglary to break the gate of the yard of a house (R. v. Bennett (1815), Russ. & Ry. 289), or an area gate (R. v. Davis (1817), Russ. & Ry. 322), or chests, &c., in a house (1 Hale 553), or a shutter case outside a shop (R. v. Paine (1834), 7 C. & P. 135). The breaking may be either actual or constructive. Actual breaking includes opening by any means, any outer or inner (1 Hale 553; 1 Hawk, c. 38; R. v. Johnson (1786), 2 East P.C. 488) door or window or cellar flap, which is completely closed (1 Hale 552), e.g. by lifting a latch (Pugh v. Griffith (1838), 7 A. & E. 827), but does not include the further opening of a door, &c., already partly open (R. v. Smith (1827), 1 Mood C.C. 178); or entering through a hole in a cellar window (R. v. Lewis (1827), 2 C. & P. 628), or through a hole in the roof (R. v. Spriggs (1834), 1 Mood & R. 357). Constructive breaking includes an entry by fraud (1 Hawk, c. 38, s. 9), or by fraudulent conspiracy (R. v. Farre (1665), Kel. 43), or by threats (R. v. Swallow (1813), noted Russell, 7th ed., p. 1070). The entry must be the consequence of the breaking (R. v. Davis (1854), 6 Cox 369). The entry of any part of the body (1 Hale 553), or the insertion of any part of any instrument (1 Hale 555) or weapon (1 Hawk, c. 38, s. 7), if such insertion be for the purpose of committing any felony, is deemed to be an entry. If a breaking is proved, but an entry is not proved, the accused may be convicted of attempt to commit burglary (R. v. Spanner (1872), 12 Cox 155). "Breaking."
"Entering."

As to attempts to commit burglary, see ATTEMPT TO COMMIT A CRIME, p. 874.

<sup>1</sup> As to which, see post.

CENSUS OF PRODUCTION.

Unlawfully publishing or disclosing individual return made for the purposes of the Census of Production Act, 1906—Misdemeanour, punishable with imprisonment (with or without hard labour) not exceeding two years, or fine, or both (Census of Production Act, 1906, 6 Edw. 7, c. 49, s. 6 (1)).

Any person, having possession of any information knowing the same to have been disclosed in contravention of the Act, publishing or communicating such information—Misdemeanour, punishable with imprisonment (with or without hard labour) not exceeding two years, or fine, or both (ib., s. 6 (5)).<sup>1</sup>

CHEAT.

Any deceitful or illegal practice, not amounting to felony, which directly affects or may affect the public—Misdemeanour at common law, punishment LL, as to which see p. 865 (Stephen, Dig. C.L., 6th ed., 306. See R. v. Brailsford (1905). 2 K.B. 730; R. v. Vreones (1891), 1 Q.B. 360).

As to cheating at cards, &c., see p. 895.

CHEMISTS.<sup>2</sup>

Any person who shall wilfully procure or attempt to procure registration under the Pharmacy Act (Ir.), 1875, or any person aiding or abetting such procuring or attempt, or any registrar of the Pharmaceutical Society wilfully falsifying or causing to be falsified any register kept pursuant to that Act—Misdemeanour, punishable with imprisonment not exceeding twelve months (Pharmacy (Ir.) Act, 1875, 38 & 39 Vict. c. 57, s. 28).

CHILDREN, OFFENCES AS TO.

Cruelty to children and young persons, including suffocation of infants by over-laying as the result of drunkenness—Misdemeanour, fine not exceeding £100, or alternatively, or in default of payment thereof, or in addition thereto, imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour (Children Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 67, ss. 12 and 13).<sup>3</sup> The fine may be increased under the circumstances specified in s. 12 (5), to an amount not exceeding £200. Allowing children or young persons to be in brothels—Misdemeanour, fine not exceeding £25, or alternatively, or in default of payment thereof, or in addition thereto, imprisonment not exceeding six months with or without hard labour (ib., s. 16).

Abandoning or exposing<sup>4</sup> child under two so as to endanger its life or health—Misdemeanour, punishment S, as to which see p. 863 (Offences against the Person Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, ss. 27, 71).

See also ABDUCTION, and FEMALES, OFFENCES AGAINST AND RELATING TO.

<sup>1</sup> As to summary jurisdiction, see p. 394.

<sup>2</sup> As to summary jurisdiction, see p. 395.

<sup>3</sup> These two misdemeanours are by s. 35 of the Children Act, 1908, made subject to the Vexatious Indictments Act. As to summary jurisdiction with regard to them, see p. 406.

<sup>4</sup> To prove an offence of exposure under this section it is not necessary to prove that the child was actually taken and placed in some place with intent to injure, and there was held to be exposure within the meaning of the section where a man unnecessarily tramped many miles with his children during a wet and cold night (R. v. Williams (1910), 26 T.L.R. 290, 4 Cr. App. Rep. 89).

CHURCHES, OFFENCES AS TO.

See HOUSEBREAKING, PUBLIC WORSHIP, and MALICIOUS INJURIES.

COINAGE OFFENCES.<sup>1</sup>

Counterfeiting current gold or silver coin<sup>2</sup>—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (Coinage Offences Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 99, ss. 2, 38). Colouring, &c., coin or metal with intent to make them pass for current gold or silver coin, or colouring or altering genuine coin with intent to make it pass for a higher coin—Felony, punishment A, for which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 3, 38). Impairing, diminishing, or lightening current gold or silver coin with intent to pass same for current gold or silver coin—Felony, punishment E, for which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 4, 38). Unlawful possession of filings, &c., produced or obtained from lightening, &c., of current gold or silver coin, knowing the same to be so produced—Felony, punishment L, for which see p. 863 (ib., ss. 5, 38). Buying or selling without lawful authority, &c., counterfeit current gold or silver coin for less than face value—Felony, punishment A, for which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 6, 38).<sup>3</sup> Importing without lawful authority or excuse counterfeit gold or silver coin—Felony, punishment A, for which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 7, 38). Exporting, &c., without lawful authority or excuse, counterfeit current coin—Misdemeanour, punishment Y, for which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 8, 38). Knowingly tendering, uttering, or putting off<sup>4</sup> counterfeit gold or silver coin—Misdemeanour, punishment CC, for which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 9, 38). Knowingly tendering, uttering, or putting off counterfeit current gold or silver coin either whilst in possession of other counterfeit current gold or silver coin, or when the first tendering, &c., is followed by a second tendering, &c., within ten days—Misdemeanour, punishment Y, for which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 10, 38). Possession of three or more counterfeit current gold or silver coins, with intent to utter—Misdemeanour, punishment S, for which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 11, 38). Repetition of offences against ss. 9, 10, or 11—Felony, punishment A, for which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 12, 38). Uttering, as current gold or silver coin, coin not current, medals, &c.—Misdemeanour, punishment CC, for which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 13, 38). Counterfeiting current copper coin, making or mending instruments for counterfeiting copper coin without lawful authority,<sup>5</sup> buying copper coin for lower value than its denomination—Felony, punishment L, for which see p. 863 (ib., ss. 14, 38). Uttering, &c., counterfeit current copper coin, or possessing three or more pieces thereof—Misdemeanour, punishment CC, for which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 15, 38). Defacing gold, silver, <sup>1</sup> For summary jurisdiction in cases of (1) tendering defaced coin, (2) making or issuing coins or tokens, (3) possession of more than five counterfeit foreign gold or silver coins, see p. 408.

<sup>2</sup> False or counterfeit coin includes current coin gilt, washed, &c., so as to resemble current coin of a higher denomination (24 & 25 Vict. c. 99, s. 1). A genuine sovereign off which the milled edge has been ground, a new milling being then put on, is false and counterfeit, because it resembles, but is not in fact, what a sovereign ought to be (R. v. Hermann (1879), 4 Q.B.D. 284). Any credible witness may prove that the coin is counterfeit (24 & 25 Vict. c. 99, s. 29).

<sup>3</sup> The onus of proof of lawful authority is on the accused in all cases.

<sup>4</sup> Offering, whether the offer be accepted or not (R. v. Welch (1851), 4 Cox 432), and whether without legal consideration, as for charity (R. v. Ion (1852), 2 Den. 475), or for an illegal consideration, as to a prostitute for her prostitution (R. v. — (1845), 1 Cox 250), is uttering.

<sup>5</sup> Proof whereof lies on party charged.

or copper coin, by stamping words thereon—Misdemeanour, punishment CC, for which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 16, 38).<sup>1</sup> Making counterfeit foreign gold or silver coin—Felony, punishment L, for which see p. 863 (ib., ss. 18, 38). Importing counterfeit foreign gold or silver coin without lawful authority or excuse<sup>2</sup>—Felony, punishment L, for which see p. 863 (ib., ss. 19, 38). Uttering counterfeit foreign gold or silver coin—Misdemeanour, punishment FF, for which see p. 865 (ib., ss. 20, 38). Like offence after a previous conviction for such offence—Misdemeanour, punishment Y, as to which see p. 864, except that the court may order the imprisonment to be with solitary confinement<sup>3</sup> (ib., ss. 21, 38). Like offence after two previous convictions for such offences—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 21, 38). Making counterfeit foreign copper coin—Misdemeanour, first conviction, punishment CC, as to which see p. 864; second conviction, punishment N, as to which see p. 863 (ib., ss. 22, 38). Knowingly and without lawful authority or excuse<sup>4</sup> making or possessing instruments for counterfeiting gold or silver coin<sup>5</sup>—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 24, 38). Conveying coinage tools out of Mint without lawful authority or excuse<sup>6</sup>—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 25, 38). Principal in the second degree or accessory before the fact in or to any felony under the Act shall be punishable as principal in first degree (ib., s. 35). Accessory after the fact to any felony under the Act, punishment AA, as to which see p. 864 (ib., s. 35). Selling, &c., medals resembling current coin—Misdemeanour, punishment CC, as to which see p. 864 (Counterfeit Medals Act, 1883, 46 & 47 Vict. c. 45, s. 2).

COMMON NUISANCE.

Common nuisances may be defined as offences against the public, either by doing a thing which tends to the annoyance of all the King's subjects, or by neglecting to do a thing which the common good requires (1 Hawk, c. 32, s. 4).

The following are a few instances of common nuisances:—Exposing in the public thoroughfare a person suffering from a dangerous infectious disease (R. v. Vantandillo (1815), 4 M. & S. 73), or a horse suffering from glanders (R. v. Henson (1852), Dears 24); the owner of a house adjoining the highway allowing it to become ruinous and dangerous to passers-by (R. v. Watson (1705), 2 Ld. Raym. 856); blasting in a quarry so as to throw stones on the public road (R. v. Mutters (1864), L. & C. 491); polluting water to the danger of the public health (R. v. Medley (1834), 6 C. & P. 292); any unauthorised obstruction of a highway (R. v. Train (1862), 31 L.J. (N.S.), (M.C.) 169); selling food unfit for consumption (R. v. Dixon (1814), 3 M. & S. 11). It should be noted that many acts, &c., which at common law are common nuisances are now the subject of legislation, giving in most instances summary powers to justices, but, such legislation notwithstanding, the right to indict at common law for a common nuisance remains in each instance. A common nuisance is a misdemeanour at common law, punishment LL, as to which see p. 865.

<sup>1</sup> Tendering coin so defaced is an offence triable summarily. See p. 408.

<sup>2</sup> Proof whereof lies on the accused (ib.).

<sup>3</sup> The courts have ceased since the passing of the Prison Act, 1865, 28 & 29 Vict. c. 126, to order solitary confinement, as that Act by s. 17 made any such order superfluous.

<sup>4</sup> Proof whereof lies on the accused (ib.).

<sup>5</sup> If a workman in good faith makes the instrument, believing it to be for an innocent purpose, the person who employed him to make it can be convicted of making (R. v. Bannen (1844), 2 Mood C.C. 309).

<sup>6</sup> Proof whereof lies on the accused (ib.).

COMPANIES (CONSOLIDATION) ACT, 1908.

Any director, manager, or officer of company wilfully concealing name of any creditor entitled to object to reduction, or wilfully misrepresenting claim of any creditor, or director or manager being privy, &c., to such concealment or misrepresentation—Misdemeanour, punishable with LL, as to which see p. 865 (Companies (Consolidation) Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 69, s. 54). Any person wilfully making a statement false in any material particular, knowing it to be false, for the purposes referred to in s. 281 of the Companies (Consolidation) Act, 1908—Misdemeanour, punishment AA (see p. 864), or fine, or both <sup>1</sup> (ib., s. 281). See also FORGERY and PERSONATION.

COMPOUNDING OFFENCES.

The compounding of a felony is a misdemeanour at common law, punishment LL, as to which see p. 865. The offence is committed where any person <sup>2</sup> agrees <sup>3</sup> in consideration of any advantage not to prosecute the person who has committed the felony (1 Hale 534). It seems to be doubtful whether an agreement to compromise a misdemeanour is an offence (Russell, 7th ed., 580). Corruptly taking any reward, directly or indirectly, under pretence of helping any person to recover any property which has been stolen, &c., by any felony or misdemeanour unless the person taking such reward shall have used due diligence to cause the offender to be brought to trial—Felony, penal servitude, not exceeding seven nor less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour, and if a male under eighteen with or without whipping (Larceny Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, s. 101). Corruptly taking any reward, under pretence of aiding any person to recover a dog stolen or in the possession of any person not being the owner—Misdemeanour, punishable with imprisonment not exceeding eighteen months with or without hard labour (ib., s. 20). The reward is taken corruptly if the person taking it has no intention to detect or disclose the offender (R. v. King (1844), 1 Cox 36; R. v. Pascoe (1849), 3 Cox 462). It is not necessary, in order to bring a case within the Acts, that the money paid for procuring the return of stolen property should be paid before the property is returned, provided the money was paid in pursuance of a previous agreement on the subject (R. v. O'Donnell (1857), 7 Cox 337).

The public advertisement of a reward for lost or stolen property, intimating that no questions will be asked or no inquiries made, or promising to return to pawnbroker, &c., any sum advanced on such property, subjects the person so advertising to a forfeiture of £50 to be recovered by a common informer in an action of debt (ib., s. 102), which must be brought within six months, and cannot be brought without the consent of the Attorney-General or Solicitor-General (Larceny Advertisements Act, 1870, 33 & 34 Vict. c. 65, s. 3).

CONSPIRACY.

Criminal conspiracy consists in an unlawful combination of two or more persons to do that which is contrary to law, or to cause a public mischief, or to do that which is wrongful and harmful towards another person, or to do a lawful act for an unlawful end, or by unlawful means, or wrongfully to prejudice a third person <sup>1</sup> (Russell, 7th ed., 146); and see judgment of Lord Brampton in Quinn v. Leatham (1901), A.C., at p. 528). The offence is at common law a misdemeanour, punishment LL, for which see p. 865. A husband and wife cannot be convicted of conspiracy with one another, although they, or either of them, may be convicted of conspiracy with another person or other persons (1 Hawk P.C., c. 27, s. 8; R. v. Cope (1719), 1 Stra. 144).

<sup>1</sup> For summary jurisdiction under this and other sections of the Act, see p. 408.

<sup>2</sup> A person may be convicted of compounding a larceny though he is not the owner of the stolen goods (R. v. Burgess (1885), 16 Q.B.D. 141).

<sup>3</sup> It is immaterial whether the person who has made the agreement does or does not subsequently prosecute (R. v. Burgess, supra, which impliedly overrules R. v. Stone (1830), 4 C. & P. 379).

The gist of the offence lies not in doing the act, or effecting the purpose for which the conspiracy is formed, nor in attempting to effect such purpose nor in inciting others to do so, but in the forming of the scheme or agreement between the parties (Russell, 7th ed., 147; 1 East 462).

A combination to injure a third party or a class without just cause or excuse is a criminal conspiracy, although the wrong intended if done by an individual would be a wrong and not a crime (R. v. Parnell (1881), 14 Cox 508, 513). To refrain from dealing with a person is lawful; but an agreement between several to so refrain and to induce and compel others to so refrain is a criminal conspiracy (ib.).

But no agreement or combination by two or more persons to do or procure to be done any act in contemplation or furtherance of a trade dispute between employers and workmen is punishable as conspiracy, if such act, committed by one person, would not be punishable as a crime (39 & 40 Vict. c. 86, s. 3; 6 Edw. 7, c. 47, ss. 1, 5).

For seditious conspiracy, see OFFENCES AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT; for conspiracy to murder, see OFFENCES AGAINST THE PERSON; for conspiracy to commit a crime, see ATTEMPT TO COMMIT A CRIME.

CONSPIRACY AND PROTECTION OF PROPERTY ACT, 1875, 38 & 39 Vict. c. 86.<sup>2</sup>

By s. 9 of the Act the following offences are triable on indictment, if the accused objects to being tried by a court of summary jurisdiction:—breach of contract by persons employed in supply of gas or water (s. 4); breach of contract involving injury to person or property (s. 5); neglect by master to provide food, clothing, &c., for apprentice or servant (s. 6); intimidation or annoyance by violence or otherwise (s. 7). Each of the offences under ss. 4, 5, and 7 is punishable with a fine not exceeding £20, or imprisonment not exceeding three months with or without hard labour. Offences under s. 6 are punishable with a fine not exceeding £20, or imprisonment not exceeding six months.

CONSTABLES, OFFENCES BY AND RELATING TO.

As to resisting or assaulting constable, see ASSAULT; as to bribery of constable, &c., see OFFICERS, OFFENCES BY AND RELATING TO PUBLIC; as to larceny by constable, &c., see LARCENY; and as to refusing to assist a constable, see POLICE, REFUSING TO ASSIST.

<sup>1</sup> Where any sentence for the common law misdemeanours of conspiracy to cheat or defraud, or to extort money or goods or falsely to accuse of any crime, or to obstruct, prevent, pervert, or defeat the course of public justice, is, or includes, imprisonment, such imprisonment may be with or without hard labour (Criminal Procedure Act, 1851, 14 & 15 Vict. c. 100, s. 29). This offence is within the Vexatious Indictments Act, 22 & 23 Vict. c. 17. There is no summary jurisdiction with regard to it except under the Criminal Law and Procedure (Ir.) Act, 1887, for which see APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

As to an agreement made bona fide in the protection and defence of one's own interests, see Mogul Steamship Company v. McGregor, Gow, & Co. (1889), (1892), A.C. 25.

<sup>2</sup> For summary jurisdiction, see p. 610.

CONVICT AT LARGE.

Any person sentenced to penal servitude, who without lawful excuse is at large within the United Kingdom before the expiration of his sentence—Felony, punishment C, as to which see p. 862 (Criminal Law (Ir.) Act, 1828, 9 Geo. 4, c. 54, s. 16; Capital Punishment (Ir.) Act, 1842, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 28, s. 12).

CRIME, DEFINITION OF.

A crime may be defined as an unlawful act or default which is an offence against the public, and renders the person guilty of such act or default liable to legal punishment (Stephen, Hist. Crim. Law, vol. i. p. 1). As to criminal capacity, see p. 255; as to distinction between felonies and misdemeanours, see infra; as to bail, see pp. 29–31.

CRIMES: PRINCIPALS AND ACCESSORIES.

There are no accessories in treasons or misdemeanours. All who would be deemed accessories either before or after the fact if the crime were a felony are in treason deemed principals. In misdemeanours all who would be accessories before the fact if the crime were a felony are deemed principals, and are punishable as such (Accessories and Abettors Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 94, s. 8).

In felonies those concerned in the crime are divided into principals and accessories. Principals are divided into principals in the first degree and principals in the second degree. A principal in the first degree is he who commits the crime either himself or through an innocent person. A principal in the second degree is he who is actually or constructively present at the commission of the crime, aiding and abetting the principal in the first degree.

Accessories are divided into accessories before the fact and accessories after the fact. An accessory before the fact is one who directly or indirectly procures by any means the commission of any felony. An accessory after the fact is one who, knowing a felony to have been committed and not being the wife of the felon, in any way whatever secures or attempts to secure the escape of the felon whether by harbouring him or otherwise. Such an act is no offence in the case of a misdemeanour. Accessories before the fact and all principals in the second degree are liable to whatever punishment is assigned by law to the felony in which they are implicated, and may be convicted even though the principal felon has not been convicted or arrested, or even though he has been acquitted (Stephen, Dig. Cr. Law, p. 36).

An accessory after the fact to murder is guilty of felony, punishable with A, as to which see p. 862 (Offences against the Person Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, ss. 67, 71), and any accessory after the fact to any other felony under that Act, is guilty of felony, punishable with X, as to which see p. 864 (ib., ib.). Accessories after the fact to any felony (1) under the Larceny Act, 1861, except receivers of stolen property,<sup>1</sup> are guilty of felony, punishable with X (see p. 864) (24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, ss. 98, 117), or (2) under the Malicious Damage Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 97, are guilty of felony, with like punishment (ss. 56, 73), or (3) under the Forgery Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 98, are guilty of felony, with like punishment (ss. 49, 51), or (4) under the Coinage Offences Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 99, are guilty of felony, with like punishment (ss. 35, 38).

<sup>1</sup> As to whom, see post.

It is not, however, easy to understand why these special sections in these five Acts as to accessories in offences other than murder were inserted. For in the Accessories and Abettors Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 94, passed on precisely the same day as these five Acts, it provided that every accessory after the fact to any felony (except where it is otherwise specially enacted), whether the same be a felony at common law or by virtue of any Act is guilty of felony (ib., s. 3), may be convicted whether the principal felon shall or shall not have been previously convicted or shall or shall not be amenable to justice, and may be sentenced to punishment X (see p. 864) (ib., s. 4), which seems to have been a sufficient dealing with the matter.

DEAD BODY OF HUMAN BEING, OFFENCES RELATING TO.<sup>1</sup>

Common law.

The following are misdemeanours at common law, punishment LL, for which see p. 865. Destroying or disposing of a dead body, in order to prevent an inquest being held or in contempt of the authority of the coroner in case where it is lawful to hold an inquest (R. v. Price (1884), 12 Q.B.D. 247; R. v. Stephenson (1884), 13 Q.B.D. 331; R. v. Beeton (1910), Times newspaper, 22nd June 1910; Anon (1702), 7 Mod. Rep. 10);<sup>2</sup> any person whose duty it is to dispose of a dead body,<sup>3</sup> and having the means to discharge such duty, failing to discharge the same (R. v. Vann, (1851), 2 Den. 325; R. v. Stewart (1840), 12 A. & E. 773); preventing a dead body from being buried (R. v. Scott (1842), 2 Q.B. 248 n.); disinterment without lawful authority (R. v. Lynn (1788), 2 T.R. 733)<sup>4</sup> for any purpose or from any motive whatever (R. v. Cundick (1822), 1 D. & R. (M.C.) 356; R. v. Jacobson (1880), 14 Cox 522; R. v. Sharpe (1857), 1 D. & B. 160); sale by an undertaker for purposes of dissection, of a <sup>1</sup> The Cremation Act, 1902, 2 Edw. 7, c. 8, empowering burial authorities to provide and regulate crematoria, does not apply to Ireland. To burn a dead body is not an offence, unless done in such a manner as to cause a public nuisance (R. v. Price (1884), 12 Q.B.D. 247), or, where an inquest may lawfully be held, in order to prevent an inquest being held. A dead body is not capable of being stolen (R. v. Haynes (1614), 12 Co. Rep. 113, 2 East P.C. 652), but this case does not apply to skeletons or parts thereof prepared for educational purposes.

<sup>2</sup> When any dead body shall be found, or any case of sudden death, or of death attended with suspicious circumstances shall occur, the coroner of the district may, if he thinks fit, hold an inquest (9 & 10 Vict. c. 37, s. 22). In the case of the execution of sentence of death (31 & 32 Vict. c. 24, s. 5), or the death of any prisoner within a prison (40 & 41 Vict. c. 49, s. 56), the coroner must hold an inquest.

<sup>3</sup> Amongst these are executors (2 Bl. Com. 508); a husband (Bradshaw v. Beard (1862), 12 C.B. (N.S.) 344); a parent of a minor (R. v. Vann (1857), 2 Den. 325); any householder on whose premises the body is (R. v. Stewart (1840), 12 A. & E. 778).

<sup>4</sup> The statute 20 & 21 Vict. c. 81, s. 25, which deals with the question of disinterment, does not apply to Ireland. In Ireland under the common law a body, wheresoever interred, may be disinterred (1) on an order from a coroner issued within a reasonable time after death for the purpose of holding an inquest, or of holding a further inquest where the first was insufficient; (2) where an inquisition has been quashed, by order of the High Court made for the purpose of the holding of another inquisition (Jarvis on Coroners, 6th ed., p. 27); (3) on an order of the Chief Secretary to the Lord-Lieutenant made for any reason that seems to him fit. No authority whether at common law or under any statute can be quoted as regards such last-named order, but such order has in various instances been made and acted on. It is also submitted that a body interred in any graveyard vested in the Representative Body of the Church of Ireland may be disinterred on a faculty granted from the court of the bishop (of that Church) in whose diocese such graveyard is situate, but only for the purpose of the removal of such body from one place of interment in any such graveyard to another. The view so submitted is undoubtedly in accordance with the settled law as existing prior to the Irish Church Act, 1869.

dead body entrusted to him for burial (R. v. Cundick (1822), 1 D. & R. (M.C.) 356); exposing a dead body on or near the public highway where it may be seen by the public, and in such manner as to shock public decency (R. v. Clark (1833), 15 Cox 171).

As to summary jurisdiction relating to burial, see p. 774.

DEATHS, REGISTRATION OF.

See REGISTRATION OF BIRTHS AND DEATHS, p. 773.

DECENCY, OFFENCES AGAINST.<sup>1</sup>

Any act done in public in such a way as to offend modesty or cause scandal or injure the morals of the community—Misdemeanour at common law, punishment LL,<sup>2</sup> for which see p. 865. Such acts include wilful exposure of the naked person (R. v. Sedley (1663), 1 Sid. 168; R. v. Harris (1871), L.R. 1 C.C.R. 282); bathing unclothed (R. v. Crunden (1809), 2 Camp. 89; R. v. Reed (1871), 12 Cox 1) near and in sight of any place along which the public habitually pass as of right, or permissively (R. v. Wellard (1884), 14 Q.B.D. 63; but see R. v. Farrell (1862), 9 Cox 446); keeping an indecent or disgusting exhibition which the public can see or are invited to enter (R. v. Saunders (1875), 1 Q.B.D. 15); public selling or exposing for sale or to public view any obscene book, print, or picture (R. v. Hicklin (1868), L.R. 3 Q.B. 360; R. v. Barraclough (1906), 1 K.B. 201); procuring with intent to publish such indecent book, &c. (but not the mere possession thereof) (R. v. Hicklin (1868), L.R. 3 Q.B. 360; Steele v. Brannan (1872), L.R. 7 C.P. 261).

Sending indecent matter by post—Misdemeanour, punishment DD, as to which see p. 865 (Post Office Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 48, s. 63); also punishable summarily (see p. 680).

Unnatural offences (sodomy or bestiality)—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (Offences against the Person Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, ss. 61, 71). Assault with intent to commit sodomy, or any indecent assault on a male person<sup>3</sup>—Misdemeanour, punishment J, as to which see p. 863 (ib., ss. 62, 71). Soliciting to sodomy—Misdemeanour at common law, punishment LL, as to which see p. 865 (R. v. Ransford (1874), 13 Cox 9). Gross indecency between males or procuring or attempting to procure such offence—Misdemeanour, punishment AA, as to which see p. 864 (Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885, 48 & 49 Vict. c. 69, s. 11). Keeping a disorderly house<sup>4</sup>—Misdemeanour at common law, punishment LL, as to which see p. 865 (Co. Inst. 205). The term disorderly house includes a bawdy house, a common gaming house, a common betting house, and a disorderly place of entertainment (Steph., Dig. Cr. Law, 3rd ed., p. 122).

<sup>1</sup> For summary jurisdiction as to such offences, see—

(1) VAGRANTS, p. 839.

(2) TOWNS IMPROVEMENT, p. 800.

(3) ADVERTISEMENTS, p. 352.

(4) OBSCENE BOOKS, PICTURES, &c., p. 650.

<sup>2</sup> Where the sentence imposed for the common law misdemeanours of public and indecent exposure of the person, or any public selling or exposing for public sale or to public view of any obscene book, print, picture, or other indecent exhibition, is or includes imprisonment, such imprisonment may be with or without hard labour (Criminal Procedure Act, 1851, 14 & 15 Vict. c. 100, s. 29).

<sup>3</sup> By 43 & 44 Vict. c. 45, s. 2, the consent of the person assaulted is no defence if such person be under thirteen; and the consent of any person of any age is never a defence to any charge under 48 & 49 Vict. c. 69, s. 11.

A charge of indecent assault under this section appears to be within the Vexatious Indictments Act.

<sup>4</sup> This offence is within the Vexatious Indictments Act.

DRILLING, UNLAWFUL.

Attending unlawful meetings for the purpose of drilling others, or aiding or assisting therein—Misdemeanour, punishment P, as to which see p. 864 (Unlawful Drilling Act, 1819, 60 Geo. 3 and 1 Geo. 4, c. 1, s. 1).

Attending unlawful meetings for the purpose of being drilled—Misdemeanour, punishment, fine and imprisonment not exceeding two years, at discretion of court. Prosecutions under this Act must be commenced within six months after the commission of the offence (ib., s. 7). It may be observed that a meeting is not for the purposes of this Act unlawful if held under lawful authority either from the king, or from the lieutenant or any two justices of the county or riding where such meeting is held (ib., s. 1).

DWELLING-HOUSES, OFFENCES RELATING TO.

Unroofing dwelling-house, with intent to dispossess any person actually dwelling there, except where necessary to allow the sheriff, &c., to enter—Misdemeanour, punishment LL, as to which see p. 865 (Eviction (Ir.) Act, 1848, 11 & 12 Vict. c. 47, s. 7). For other offences as to dwelling-houses, see BURGLARY, HOUSEBREAKING, LARCENY, and MALICIOUS INJURIES TO PROPERTY.

ELECTIONS. OFFENCES RELATING TO.

By Order in Council dated 22nd December 1898, and made pursuant to the Local Government (Ir.) Act, 1898, 61 & 62 Vict. c. 37, s. 104, sch. 4, it is provided that at all elections held under rules framed under that order by the Local Government Board, the Ballot Act, 1872, 35 & 36 Vict. c. 33, the Municipal Elections (Corrupt and Illegal Practices) Act, 1884, 47 & 48 Vict. c. 70, and ss. 56, 74, and 75, and Part IV. of the Municipal Corporations Act, 1882, 45 & 46 Vict. c. 50, as amended by the Municipal Elections (Corrupt and Illegal Practices) Act, 1884 (including the penal provisions of those Acts), shall, subject to alterations, &c., not affecting those penal provisions, apply in like manner as in the case of a municipal election. By s. 20 of the Ballot Act the penal provisions of that Act apply as well to municipal as to parliamentary elections; and consequently those provisions now, by virtue of the above-quoted order, apply to all elections held under rules framed as above mentioned (see Vanston, Loc. Govt., pp. 170, 171, 172).

Such rules have been framed in respect of elections of aldermen and councillors of county boroughs (ib., p. 205), urban district councillors (including aldermen and councillors of boroughs other than county boroughs), and of town commissioners (ib., p. 243), guardians in urban districts (ib., p. 374), and county councillors and rural district councillors (ib., p. 411).

A "corrupt practice" means any one of the following offences:—(1) bribery; (2) treating; (3) undue influence; (4) personation, or aiding, abetting, counselling, and procuring personation; (5) knowingly making falsely the declaration as to election expenses required to be made under the Corrupt and Illegal Practices Prevention Act, 1883, s. 33 (Corrupt and Illegal Practices Prevention Act, 1883, 46 & 47 Vict. c. 51, ss. 3, 33 (7)).

Every corrupt practice, other than personation, or aiding, abetting, counselling, or procuring personation, is a misdemeanour punishable with DD, as to which see p. 864, or a fine of £200 (ib., s. 6 (1)). Personation is a felony punishable by imprisonment not exceeding two years with hard labour (ib., s. 6 (2)). Knowingly making falsely the declaration required to be made by s. 33 of the Corrupt and Illegal Practices Prevention Act, 1883, is a misdemeanour punishable as wilful and corrupt perjury<sup>1</sup> with punishment LL (see p. 865), or punishment P (see p. 863) (ib., s. 33 (7)). Persons convicted on indictment of a corrupt practice are also under disabilities as to voting, being elected to and holding public offices (ib., s. 6 (3)). Prosecutions for these offences must be commenced within one year after the offence was committed, or, if in connection with an election that led to an election inquiry, then within three months after the report made on such inquiry, whichever period expires last (ib., s. 51). As to costs, see R. v. Law (1900), 1 Q.B. 605.

EMBEZZLEMENT.<sup>2</sup>

Embezzlement is committed when a clerk or servant wrongfully appropriates to his own use property entrusted to him for his employer before such property has reached the actual or constructive possession of his employer. Embezzlement was not punishable as larceny at common law; but now a clerk or servant who embezzles any chattel, money, or valuable security shall be deemed to have feloniously stolen the same—Punishment F, as to which see p. 862 (Larceny Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, ss. 68, 117, 119).

If upon the trial of a person for embezzlement the facts proved amount to larceny, the accused may be convicted of larceny, and vice versa (ib., s. 72).

All the provisions of the Criminal Justice Act, 1855, shall extend and be applicable to the offence of embezzlement by clerks or servants, or persons employed for the purpose or in the capacity of clerks or servants, and the said Act shall henceforth be read as if the said offence of embezzlement had been included therein (Larceny Act, 1868, 31 & 32 Vict. c. 116, s. 2). As to the summary jurisdiction given by this enactment, see p. 585.

Any person being a member of any co-partnership, or being one of two or more beneficial owners of any money, goods, or effects, bills, notes, &c., stealing or embezzling such property belonging to such co-partnership or beneficial owners shall be liable to be tried, and convicted and punished as if he was not a member of such co-partnership or such beneficial owners (ib., s. 1).<sup>3</sup>

EMBRACERY.

By any means whatever, except the production of evidence and argument in open court, attempting to influence or instruct any jurymen or to incline him to be more favourable to the one side than to the other in any judicial proceeding, whether any verdict is given or not, and whether such verdict, if given, is true or false (Stephen's Dig. Cr. Law, 6th ed., p. 99), or giving a reward to a juror for anything done by him as a jurymen though there has been no previous promise to pay it (1 Hawk,

<sup>1</sup> See PERJURY.

<sup>2</sup> For summary jurisdiction, see p. 586.

<sup>3</sup> Where the co-partnership is not for gain but for mental recreation it is not within the Act (R. v. Robson (1885), 16 Q.B.D. 137). An association illegal under the Companies Acts appears to be a co-partnership to which the Act applies (R. v. Tankard (1894), 1 Q.B. 548). A member of a fete committee guaranteeing the expenses may be a "beneficial owner" of the gate-money (R. v. Neat (1899), 19 Cox 424).

c. 85. s. 3), or for a jurymen at any time to receive any money, &c., for, or in contemplation of, anything that he has done or may do as a jurymen (ib., c. 27, ss. 1-4)—Misdemeanour at common law, punishment LL, as to which see p. 865.

The Juries (Ir.) Act, 1871, 34 & 35 Vict. c. 65. s. 49, provides that, notwithstanding anything in the Act, the offence of embracery by any person, and the offence of a juror wilfully and corruptly consenting to embracery, shall be punishable on indictment or information by fine and imprisonment in like manner as before the passing of the Act. This provision keeps alive the provisions contained in s. 48 of the Jurors (Ir.) Act, 1833, 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 91, which provided that any person guilty of embracery, or any juror wilfully or corruptly consenting thereto, should be guilty of misdemeanour—Punishment LL, for which see p. 865.

ESCAPE.

Escape.

This offence is committed where any prisoner in lawful custody on a criminal charge escapes therefrom without force, but by artifice or similar means, or where any person whatsoever, having the custody of such prisoner, either voluntarily or negligently permits him to escape.

The offence when committed by the prisoner is a common law misdemeanour (2 Hawk, c. 17, s. 5), punishable with fine or imprisonment, and if the prisoner be in custody on a criminal charge, with or without hard labour, or both (Criminal Procedure Act, 1851, 14 & 15 Vict. c. 100, s. 29).

An officer having custody of the prisoner and voluntarily committing the offence is liable to be fined (2 Hawk, c. 19, s. 31), whilst a private person, guilty of the same offence, is liable to fine and imprisonment, or both (2 Hawk, c. 20, s. 6). If a prisoner in custody escapes therefrom, the person having such custody is deemed to have been negligent until the contrary is proved (1 Hale 595; 2 Hawk, c. 20).

Aiding a prisoner to escape.

Aiding a prisoner to escape from lawful custody on civil process—Misdemeanour at common law, punishment LL,<sup>1</sup> for which see p. 865 (R. v. Allan (1841), C. & M. 295). Aiding a prisoner of war to escape—Felony, punishment C, for which see p. 862 (52 Geo. 3, c. 156, s. 1).

Allowing or aiding convicts to escape.

Any person having the custody of a convict in or during his conveyance to or from a convict prison knowingly and wilfully allowing such convict to escape or, even though such convict does not escape, aiding any such convict to escape—Felony, punishment P, as to which see p. 863 (Convict Prisons (Ir.) Act, 1854, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 76, s. 18). Any person having such custody of a convict carelessly permitting such convict to escape—Misdemeanour, punishment LL,<sup>1</sup> as to which see p. 865 (ib.).

See PRISON BREACH and RESCUE.

EXPLOSIONS, ETC.

Causing explosion likely to endanger life or property—Felony, punishment C, as to which see p. 862 (Explosive Substances Act, 1883, 46 & 47 Vict. c. 3, s. 2). Attempt to cause explosion, or making or keeping explosive substance<sup>2</sup> with intent to endanger life or property—Felony, punishment <sup>1</sup> It is doubtful whether this offence is within the Criminal Procedure Act, 1851, 14 & 15 Vict. c. 100, s. 29.

<sup>2</sup> This term includes any materials for making any explosive substance, also any apparatus, machine, implement, or materials used or intended to be used or adapted for causing or aiding in causing any explosion in or with any explosive substance, also any part of such machine, apparatus, or implement (ib., s. 6).

D, and the explosive substance shall be forfeited (ib., s. 3). Making or having explosive substance without lawful object<sup>1</sup>—Felony, punishment G, as to which see p. 862, and the explosive substance shall be forfeited (ib., s. 4 (1)). Being accessory to any crime under the Act—Felony, as if a principal (ib., s. 5).

Destroying or damaging a house with gunpowder or other explosive substance, any person being therein or whereby the life of any person may be endangered—Felony, punishment B, as to which see p. 862 (Malicious Damage Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 97, ss. 9, 73, 75). Attempting to destroy buildings with gunpowder or other explosive substance—Felony, punishment F, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 10, 73, 75). Placing gunpowder or other explosive substance with intent to damage ship—Felony, punishment F, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 45, 73, 75).

Making or possessing any explosive substance, or any dangerous or noxious thing<sup>2</sup> for the purpose of committing any of the felonies mentioned in the Act—Misdemeanour, punishment Z, as to which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 54, 73, 75).

Destroying or damaging buildings with explosives with intent to murder—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (Offences against the Person Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, ss. 12, 71). Doing grievous bodily harm by explosion—Felony, punishment B, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 28, 70, 71). Causing explosion, sending explosive to, or throwing corrosive fluid on, a person with intent to do grievous bodily harm—Felony, punishment B, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 29, 70, 71). Placing explosives on vessels or buildings with like intent—Felony, punishment F, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 30, 70, 71).

See also MALICIOUS INJURY TO PROPERTY.

EXTORTION BY THREATS.

Sending, delivering, or uttering, or directly or indirectly causing to be received any letter or writing<sup>3</sup> (the contents of which are known to the person sending, &c.), demanding of any person with menaces and without reasonable or probable cause<sup>4</sup> any valuable thing—Felony, punishment B, as to which see p. 862 (Larceny Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, ss. 44, 117, 119). Sending, &c., any letter or writing demanding with menaces or by force any valuable thing of any person with intent to steal the same—Felony, punishment S, as to which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 45, 117). Sending, &c., any letter, &c., accusing or threatening to accuse any person of any crime punishable with death or with not less than seven years' penal servitude, or of any assault with intent to commit a rape, or of any attempt to commit a rape, or of any infamous crime,<sup>5</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Proof of the lawfulness of the object is imposed by the section upon the accused, who or whose wife or husband is a competent witness for the defence (ib., s. 4 (2)).

<sup>2</sup> Boiling water may be a dangerous thing within the section (see R. v. Crawford (1845), 2 C. & K. 129).

<sup>3</sup> Leaving such a letter, &c., where the person for whom it is intended is likely to find it is a sending within the meaning of the Act (R. v. Wagstaff (1819), Russ. & Ry. 398).

<sup>4</sup> "Reasonable or probable cause" for the menaces is no defence. Those words relate to the demand (R. v. Hamilton (1843), 1 C. & K. 212).

<sup>5</sup> "Infamous crime" includes sodomy or bestiality, assault with intent to commit, attempt to commit, and solicitation, &c., to commit or permit the same (24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, s. 46), but it does not include the offence (under 48 & 49 Vict. c. 69, s. 11) of indecency with a male person (R. v. Gilgannon (1899), 63 J.P. 457).

with intent to obtain thereby any valuable thing from any person—Felony, punishment B, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 46, 117, 119). Accusing or threatening<sup>1</sup> to accuse any person of like offence with like intent—Felony, like punishment (ib., ss. 47, 117, 119). With intent to defraud or injure, compelling or inducing any person, by any unlawful violence to or restraint of any person, or by accusing or threatening to accuse any person of any treason, felony, or infamous crime<sup>2</sup> to execute, &c., alter, or destroy any valuable security, or to write, &c., any name, &c., on any paper, &c., in order that the same may be made into, &c., any valuable security—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 48, 117).

<sup>1</sup> With intent to extort, publishing, or threatening to publish, or proposing to abstain from publishing anything—Misdemeanour, punishment U, as to which see p. 864 (Libel Act, 1843, 6 & 7 Vict. c. 96, s. 3).

FALSE PRETENCES.

Obtaining
goods, &c., by false
pretence.

By any false pretence to obtain from any other person any chattel, money, or valuable security with intent to defraud—Misdemeanour, punishment S, for which see p. 864 (Larceny Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, ss. 88, 117).<sup>3</sup>

Of what the offence
consists.

To constitute the offence there must be (1) a false pretence that some fact exists or has existed, made by the accused to some other person; (2) knowledge by the accused that such pretence is false; (3) an actual obtaining as the result of such pretence of something that is the subject of larceny at common law; and (4) an intent by the accused to defraud (see R. v. Aspinall (1876), 2 Q.B.D. 48).

On a prosecution for the offence the indictment must allege, and the evidence must show, that the accused knew the pretence to be false (R. v. Dunleavy (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 240). The fact that the accused was guilty of the false pretence charged cannot be shown by proving that he has been guilty of swindling on other occasions by false pretences not in any way connected with the particular offence charged (R. v. Fisher (1910), 1 K.B. 149; R. v. Ellis (1910), 2 K.B. 746; see also EVIDENCE, p. 263, ante, and the cases there cited).

False
pretence,
what is.

There must be a false pretence that some fact exists or has existed. A false pretence or an untrue promise that something will occur or be done in the future is not sufficient, unless there be also a false pretence that some fact exists or has existed. A. and B. took two bicycles to a sale; they parted company before coming to the sale. A. went to the sale and put a reserve price on each machine. B. then came and bid the reserve price for each. Before B. paid, A. went to the auctioneer, and according to the latter's practice obtained the money bid before it was received from B. A. and B. then left. The bicycles were worthless, and B. never paid any money. Held, that, as the auctioneer intended to part not only with the possession of, but also with the property in, the money, an indictment for larceny by a trick was bad, but that the evidence might support a verdict on an indictment for false pretences (R. v. Fisher (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 102). Thus there was held to be a false pretence as to a fact that existed or had existed where the accused obtained a certain sum by falsely alleging that he owed a society that sum and was going to pay it, the fact being that he owed a much smaller sum (R. v. Woolley (1850), 1 Den. 559); whilst in another case where a man who actually did owe £10 for rent, obtained that sum by saying that he was going to pay it to his landlord but did not intend to so pay it, and never in fact so paid it, there was held to be no such false pretence (R. v. Lee (1863), L. & C. 309). And where the accused informed tradesmen that he was intending to bring out a directory and that "everything was in order," and as the result of such representations obtained from them cash for advertisements to be inserted in the directory which, as is to be gathered from the report, he did not in fact bring out, he was held rightly convicted on the ground that he had falsely represented that everything was in order for publication (R. v. Bancroft (1909), 26 T.L.R. 10). In this case Lord Alverstone, L.C.J., cited with approval the dictum in Archbold, 24th ed., p. 686, cited from R. v. Giles (1865), L. & C. 502, that "a promise to do a thing in future may involve a false pretence that the promisor has the power to do that thing, for which false pretence the promisor may be indictable."

<sup>1</sup> The preceding section deals with written threats. This section with any threat.

<sup>2</sup> "Infamous crime" includes sodomy or bestiality, assault with intent to commit, attempt to commit, and solicitation, &c., to commit or permit the same (24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, s. 46),<sup>1</sup> but it does not include the offence (under 48 & 49 Vict. c. 69, s. 11) of indecency with a male person (R. v. Gilgannon (1899), 63 J.P. 457).

<sup>3</sup> Justices have no summary jurisdiction in any case under this section. The Summary Jurisdiction Acts, 1879 and 1899, under which in England there is summary jurisdiction under the section, do not apply to Ireland. The Probation of Offenders Act, 1907, does not apply, because there is no summary jurisdiction under the section. All prosecutions under the section are within the Vexatious Indictments Act.

A false pretence as to a fact that exists or has existed may be made by words, writing, or conduct. Such false pretences were held to have been made in the following cases, which are a few only of those on the subject.

Where the accused falsely pretended that he had been sent by a customer for goods (R. v. Burnsides (1860), 30 L.J. (M.C.) 42); where the accused knowingly passed off a £1 note as a £5 note (R. v. Jessop (1858), Dears & B. 442); where the accused falsely pretended that he was connected with a wealthy man (R. v. Archer (1855), Dears 449); where the accused passed off the notes of a bank that he knew had stopped payment (R. v. Dowey (1868), 37 L.J. (M.C.) 52); where the accused obtained cash for a cheque upon a bank at which he had never had an account,<sup>1</sup> although he made no pretence, otherwise than by saying that he wanted to cash a cheque, that the cheque would be paid (R. v. Garratt (1893), 10 T.L.R. 167); where the accused, not being a member of the University of Oxford, represented himself to be such by wearing an undergraduate cap or gown (R. v. Barnard (1837), 7 C. & P. 784); and where the accused falsely pretended that he was a dealer in potatoes in a large way of business and in a position to pay for large quantities thereof by writing the following letter:—"Please send me one truck of Regents and one truck of Rocks as sample, at your price named in your letter. Let them be of good quality, and then I am sure a good trade will be done for both of us. I will remit you the cash on arrival of goods and invoices. I may say, if you use me well, I shall be a good customer" (R. v. Cooper (1877), 2 Q.B.D. 510). A person obtaining goods by forwarding half a note, having parted with the other half to a third party, is guilty of a false pretence (R. v. Murphy (1876), I.R. 10 C.L. 508, 13 Cox 298).

Although a false promise to pay for goods on delivery is not by itself a false pretence (R. v. Hall (1821), Russ. & Ry. 463), yet the person making such promise may easily commit a punishable offence. Thus where two <sup>1</sup> But if the prisoner can prove that he expected that the cheque would be paid on presentation, there is no false pretence (R. v. Walne (1870), 11 Cox 647).

False
pretence,
what is.

False
pretence.
what is.

persons ordered goods promising to pay for them on delivery, and on obtaining delivery got the owner to sign a receipt for the agreed price, but refused either to pay the money or to return the goods, they were held to be guilty of larceny (R. v. Slowly (1873), 12 Cox 269); and where the accused went into a restaurant and without saying anything as to his ability to pay, ordered and obtained a meal without having money to pay for it, it was held that, though he could not be convicted of obtaining by false pretence, he was guilty of obtaining credit by fraud within the Debtors Act, 1869, s. 13 (1), which is verbatim the same as s. 13 (1) of the Debtors (Ir.) Act, 1872, as to which see p. 876 (R. v. Jones (1898), 1 Q.B. 119). Cf. R. v. Wyatt (1904), 1 K.B. 188. The credit alleged to have been fraudulently obtained must have been obtained by and given to the person charged in order to justify a conviction under s. 13 (1) of the Debtors Act, 1869 (R. v. Steel (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 289), there being as regards this offence no enactment corresponding to s. 89 of the Larceny Act, 1861, as to which see infra.

The precise line of demarcation dividing the offence of obtaining by false pretences from larceny can be ascertained only by collating a very large number of decided cases, and no general rule can safely be laid down on the subject. The distinction between the two offences is, however, of minor importance so far as justices are concerned.<sup>1</sup> If they are satisfied that either the one offence or the other has been committed, they can commit the prisoner for either offence and leave the rest to the court above; for s. 88 of the Larceny Act, 1861, provides that if a prisoner be indicted for obtaining by false pretences he may be convicted of larceny if the latter be the offence that is in fact proved.<sup>2</sup> It may be observed that there is no correlative enactment to the effect that if the prisoner be indicted for larceny he may be convicted of obtaining by false pretences (see R. v. Fisher (1910), 26 T.L.R. 589).

Obtaining,
what is.

The obtaining need not in fact be by the person guilty of the false pretence, for s. 89 of the Larceny Act, 1861, provides that any person who shall by any false pretence cause or procure any money to be paid, or any chattel or valuable security to be delivered, to any other person for the use or benefit of the person making such false pretence, or of any other person with intent to defraud, shall be deemed to have obtained such money, &c., within the meaning of s. 88 of that Act.

To "obtain" means to get possession of the goods, &c., other than money, with intent to deprive the owner permanently of them. Thus where a man obtained the use of a horse for a day with the intention of returning it, and did in fact return it, he was held not to be guilty of obtaining by false pretences (R. v. Kilham (1870), L.R. 1 C.C.R. 261), but to obtain the loan of money by false pretences is within the statute (R. v. Burgon (1856), Dears & B. 11).

It is immaterial whether the goods, &c., are obtained in the course of trade or as a gift (R. v. Jones (1851), 1 Den. 551). There is not an offence of obtaining by a false pretence where the person who parts with the goods, &c., knows that the pretence is false (R. v. Mills (1857), Dears & B.

<sup>1</sup> The distinction laid down by Lord Coleridge, C.J., in R. v. Russett (1892), 2 Q.B. 312, is as follows: "If the possession of the money or goods said to have been stolen has been parted with, but the owner did not intend to part with the property in them, so that part of the transaction is incomplete, and the parting with the possession has been obtained by fraud—that is larceny."

This distinction has been accepted by the Court of Criminal Appeal in R. v. Fisher (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 102.

<sup>2</sup> The Court of Criminal Appeal refused to set aside a verdict where it was doubtful whether the evidence justified a conviction for false pretences but where it clearly proved either obtaining by fraud or larceny (R. v. Armitage (1910), 74 J.P. 48).

205). The false pretence must be the means, or one of the means, by which the goods, &c., were obtained. Thus where the accused falsely pretended to a pawnbroker that a chain was made of silver, and the pawnbroker, without paying any attention to the statement of the accused, made an advance upon the chain after himself testing it with an acid, it was held that the prisoner was wrongly convicted of obtaining by false pretences, but that he was rightly convicted of an attempt to obtain by false pretences (R. v. Roebuck (1856), Dears & B. 24). It is immaterial, that the person who parted with the goods, &c., was influenced by matters which were not in law false pretences as well as by matters that were. Thus where a married man got £8 from a woman by the combined effect of telling her that he was unmarried (which was in law a false pretence), that he would marry her and that he would furnish a house with the money (the two latter representations being mere promises), he was held to be rightly convicted (R. v. Jennison (1862), Le. & Ca. 157).

As the thing must be the subject of larceny at common law (see LARCENY, post), it follows that the obtaining of a dog by false pretences is not within the statute (R. v. Robinson (1859), Bell 34). It would seem that the obtaining by false pretences of a railway ticket or pass is within the statute (R. v. Boulton (1849), 1 Den. 508; R. v. Chapman (1910), 4 Cr. App. Rep. 276).

There is held to be an intent to defraud where the accused obtains goods, &c., by false pretences, but intending to pay for them afterwards if he can (R. v. Naylor (1865), L.R. 1 C.C.R. 4). Proof that the pretence was false and that the accused knew it to be false is prima facie evidence of intent to defraud; but the accused may show that there was in fact no such intent, as where a servant by a false pretence obtained goods from a person who owed, but would not pay, money to his master, and it was proved that such obtaining was with intent to enable the master to enforce payment of the debt (R. v. Williams (1836), 7 C. & P. 354).

The attempt to obtain goods, &c., by false pretences is a misdemeanour at common law (R. v. Roebuck (1856), Dears & B. 24; R. v. Hensler (1870), 11 Cox 570)—Punishment LL, for which see p. 865.<sup>1</sup>

Any one, with intent to defraud or injure any other person, by false pretence causing any other person to execute, &c., or destroy any valuable security, &c.<sup>2</sup>—Misdemeanour, punishment S, as to which see p. 864 (Larceny Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, ss. 90, 117).

Any person winning money or valuables by unlawful device or ill practice in playing with cards, dice, tables,<sup>3</sup> or other game, or in bearing a part in the stakes, &c., or in wagering on the event of any game, sport, pastime, or exercise, shall be deemed to have obtained such money, &c., by false pretence with intent to defraud (Gaming Act, 1845, 8 & 9 Vict. c. 109, s. 17). The Vexatious Indictments Act applies to prosecutions under this section, which are in effect prosecutions under s. 88 of the Larceny Act, 1861.

Any person by false certificate, false representation, false document, false statement, or other fraudulent means, obtaining or attempting to

<sup>1</sup> See ATTEMPT TO COMMIT A CRIME. The offence of attempting to obtain by false pretences is not within the Vexatious Indictments Act (R. v. Burton (1875), 13 Cox 71).

<sup>2</sup> This offence does not appear to be within the Vexatious Indictments Act.

<sup>3</sup> "Tables" means backgammon (see Murray, New Eng. Dict. sub verb.). "Pitch and toss" is a "pastime or exercise" within the meaning of the section (R. v. O'Connor (1881), 15 Cox 3). To constitute the offence there must be actual fraud, &c., in the course of the game, &c., itself. Mere fraudulent, &c., inducing to play is not sufficient (R. v. Bailey (1850), 4 Cox 390). This offence is not within the Vexatious Indictments Act.

Obtaining,
what is.

Intent to defraud.
what is.

Attempt to obtain by false pretences.
Obtaining execution of security, &c.,
by false
pretence.

Cheating at cards, &c.

Obtaining
army pay or pension
by false
pretences.

obtain for himself or any other person, the grant, increase, or payment of any military pay or pension payable, or any privilege or advantage obtainable in pursuance of any warrant, order, or regulation of His Majesty or a Secretary of State—Misdemeanour, punishment AA, as to which see p. 864 (Pensions and Yeomanry Act, 1884, 47 & 48 Vict. c. 55, s. 3 (1)). The Vexatious Indictments Act, 22 & 23 Vict. c. 17, would seem to apply to the offence of actually obtaining money in contravention of this section.

False statements,
promises, &c.,
by money-lender.

Money-lender, or manager, agent, or clerk of money-lender, or director, manager, or officer of corporation carrying on business of money-lending, by false, misleading, or deceptive statement, representation, or promise, or dishonest concealment of any material facts, fraudulently inducing or attempting to induce any person to borrow money or to agree to the terms on which money is to be borrowed—Misdemeanour, punishment AA, as to which see p. 864, or £500 fine, or both (Money-lenders Act, 1900, 63 & 64 Vict. c. 51, s. 4). It should be noted that the section is not confined to such false representations as are false pretences within s. 88 of the Larceny Act, 1861. There is no summary jurisdiction under the section. The Vexatious Indictments Act does not apply.

As to obtaining credit by false pretences, see BANKRUPTCY.

FEMALES, OFFENCES AGAINST AND RELATING TO.

Rape.

The crime of rape consists in having unlawful carnal knowledge of a woman without her consent, that is, her free and conscious permission (Russell, 7th ed., 931), and is a felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (Offences against the Person Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, ss. 48, 71). A husband cannot under any circumstances be convicted as a principal in the first degree (see p. 885) for a rape upon his wife, but if present, aiding, &c., another person to commit the offence upon her he may be convicted as a principal in the second degree (1 Hale 629; Lord Audley's Case (1631), 3 State Trials, 401); and a woman aiding, &c., in a rape may also be convicted as a principal in the second degree (R. v. Ram (1893), 17 Cox 609), and so may a boy under fourteen under similar circumstances (R. v. Eldershaw (1828), 3 C. & P. 396).

Proof of any penetration, however slight, is sufficient (R. v. Lines (1844), 1 C. & K. 393; R. v. Stanton (1844), 1 C. & K. 415). If penetration cannot be proved the accused may be convicted of attempted rape (see ATTEMPT TO COMMIT A CRIME) or of indecent assault (Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885, 48 & 49 Vict. c. 69, s. 9).

A boy under fourteen cannot be convicted of rape (R. v. Groombridge (1836), 7 C. & P. 582), nor of any other offence for the commission of which capacity to have carnal knowledge is required, such as the offence of carnal knowledge of a girl under thirteen (R. v. Waite (1892), 2 Q.B. 600), or of the attempt to commit such offence (R. v. Eldershaw (1828), 3 C. & P. 396);<sup>1</sup> but he may be found guilty of indecent assault (R. v. Brimilow (1840), 9 C. & P. 366; R. v. Williams (1893), 1 Q.B. 320).

<sup>1</sup> But see the remarks of Hawkins and Cave, JJ., in R. v. Williams (1893), 1 Q.B. 320, and compare R. v. Ring (1892), 17 Cox 491, where it was held that a pickpocket who with intent to steal had put his hand into an empty pocket, could be convicted of attempting to steal, and R. v. Brown (1889), 24 Q.B.D. 357, where the Court for Crown Cases Reserved declared that R. v. Collins (1864), L. & C. 471, in which it was held a man could not be convicted of attempting to steal from an empty pocket, was no longer law.

The consent of a girl under thirteen is no defence<sup>1</sup> (Criminal Law Rape Amendment Act, 1885, 48 & 49 Vict. c. 69, s. 4), nor is the fact that the woman did not object because she was drunk (R. v. Camplin (1845), 1 Cox 22), or asleep (R. v. Mayers (1872), 12 Cox 311; R. v. Young (1878), 14 Cox 114), or because she did not know or mistook, as the result of the fraud of the accused, the nature of the act (R. v. Flattery (1877), 2 Q.B.D. 410; R. v. Case (1850), 4 Cox 220); or because the accused personated her husband (48 & 49 Vict. c. 69, s. 4). The question as to whether an idiot or imbecile girl, known by the accused to be such, did or did not consent, is not, so far as justices are concerned, of much practical importance in view of s. 5 (2) of the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885, 48 & 49 Vict. c. 69, which provides that the defilement of an idiot or imbecile<sup>2</sup> under circumstances which do not amount to rape, but which prove that the offender knew that the woman was an imbecile or idiot, shall be a misdemeanour, punishment AA, as to which see p. 864. When the woman is a lunatic, and the accused a person in charge of her, the fact that she consented is no defence (Lunacy Act, 1890, 53 & 54 Vict. c. 5, s. 324; Lunacy (Ir.) Act, 1901, 1 Edw. 7, c. 17, s. 2).

Any manager, officer, nurse, attendant, &c., employed in an institution for lunatics, including any asylum for criminal lunatics, carnally knowing or attempting to know any female inmate—Misdemeanour, punishment AA, as to which see p. 864 (Lunacy Act, 1890, s. 324; Lunacy (Ir.) Act, 1901, s. 2).

Indecent assault upon any female<sup>3</sup>—Misdemeanour, punishment Y. Indecent assault. as to which see p. 864 (Offences against the Person Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, ss. 52, 71). The consent of a girl under thirteen is no defence (Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1880, 43 & 44 Vict. c. 45, s. 2).

Any person who (1) procures or attempts to procure any girl or woman under twenty-one, not being a common prostitute or of known immoral character, to have unlawful carnal connection either within or without the King's dominions with any other person or persons,<sup>4</sup> or (2) procures or attempts to procure any woman or girl to become<sup>5</sup> either within or without the King's dominions a common prostitute, or (3) procures or attempts to procure any woman or girl to leave the United Kingdom with intent that she shall become an inmate of a brothel elsewhere, or (4) procures or attempts to procure any woman or girl to leave her usual place of abode in the United Kingdom (such place of abode not being a brothel), with intent that she may, for the purposes of prostitution, become an inmate of a brothel within or without the King's dominions—Misdemeanour, punishment AA, as to which see p. 864 (Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885, 48 & 49 Vict. c. 69, s. 2).

<sup>1</sup> Except by way of establishing that the accused, instead of being liable to the punishment prescribed in case of rape, is liable to the practically identical punishment provided by s. 4 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885.

<sup>2</sup> As to the difference between an idiot and an imbecile, see R. v. F. (1910), 74 J.P. 384.

<sup>3</sup> This offence is within the Vexatious Indictments Act.

<sup>4</sup> Under s. 2 (1) of the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885, 48 & 49 Vict. c. 69, a person cannot be convicted of procuration if the female is procured to have connection with himself (R. v. C. (1910), 74 J.P. 208).

<sup>5</sup> No prosecution under this subsection can be successfully instituted in respect of the exportation from the United Kingdom of a woman who is already a prostitute, in order that she may be a prostitute abroad; for she cannot "become" what she already is (R. v. Gold & Cohen (1907), 71 J.P. 360). In such case, however, subsection 3 will clearly apply if it be intended that she shall become an inmate of a brothel abroad.

<sup>6</sup> No conviction under this section can take place on the evidence of one witness unless such evidence is corroborated in some material particular by evidence implicating the accused (ib., s. 2). All prosecutions for misdemeanours under the Act are by s. 17 made subject to the Vexatious Indictments Act.

Defilement of females
by threats, fraud, or drugs.<sup>1</sup>

Any person who (1) by threats or intimidation procures or attempts to procure any woman or girl to have any unlawful carnal connection<sup>1</sup> either within or without the King's dominions, or (2) by false pretences or false representations<sup>2</sup> procures any woman or girl not being a common prostitute or of known immoral character to have any unlawful carnal connection<sup>3</sup> either within or without the King's dominions, or (3) applies, administers to, or causes to be taken by any woman or girl, any drug, matter, or thing with intent to stupefy or overpower, so as thereby to enable any person to have unlawful carnal connection with such woman or girl<sup>4</sup>—Misdemeanour, punishment AA, as to which see p. 864 (ib., s. 3).

Defilement of girl under thirteen.

Any person who unlawfully and carnally knows any girl under thirteen—Felony, punishment C, as to which see p. 862, but any prisoner under sixteen may in lieu of such punishment be once privately whipped with such instrument and number of strokes as the court specifies (ib., s. 4). Any person attempting to commit the like offence—Misdemeanour, punishment AA, as to which see p. 864, but any prisoner under sixteen may in lieu of such punishment be once privately whipped with such instrument and number of strokes as the court specifies (ib., s. 4).<sup>5</sup>

Defilement of girl between thirteen and sixteen or idiot, &c.

Any person who (1) unlawfully and carnally knows or attempts to have unlawful carnal knowledge of any girl of or above the age of thirteen and under the age of sixteen, or (2) unlawfully and carnally knows or attempts to have unlawful carnal knowledge of any female idiot or imbecile woman or girl, under circumstances which do not amount to rape, but which prove that the offender knew at the time of the commission of the offence that the woman or girl was an idiot or imbecile<sup>6</sup>—Misdemeanour, punishment AA, for which see p. 864 (ib., s. 5).

If upon the trial of any indictment for rape, or of any offence made

<sup>1</sup> Either with the accused or any other man (R. v. Williams (1898), 62 J.P. 310).

<sup>2</sup> Seduction under promise of marriage and by means of such promise by a man already married is within the section (R. v. Williams, supra).

<sup>3</sup> Either with the accused or any other man (R. v. Williams, supra).

<sup>4</sup> No conviction under this section can take place on the evidence of one witness unless such evidence is corroborated in some material particular by evidence implicating the accused (ib., s. 2). All prosecutions for misdemeanours under the Act are by s. 17 made subject to the Vexatious Indictments Act.

<sup>5</sup> As to the parts of this section that have been repealed, see s. 134 of the Children Act, 1908. Consent is no defence to a charge under this section, nor is the fact that the prisoner believed the girl to be thirteen. The evidence of any child of tender years who in the opinion of the court is unable to understand the nature of an oath may in any prosecution under this Act be admitted without oath, subject to the provisions of s. 30 of the Children Act, 1908, for which see APPENDIX OF STATUTES. Such unsworn evidence requires to be corroborated, as provided in that section. In no other instance does the evidence of a witness on a charge under this section require corroboration. As to the Vexatious Indictments Act, see note<sup>6</sup>, p. 897. As to the incapacity of a boy under fourteen to commit an offence under this section, see p. 896. In R. v. Waite (1892), 2 Q.B. 600, the judges doubted whether he could be convicted of the attempt, but see note<sup>1</sup>, p. 896. From the grounds of the decision in R. v. Tyrrell (1894), 1 Q.B. 710 (as to which see note to s. 5), it would seem that it is not a criminal offence for a girl under thirteen to aid and abet a male person in having, or to incite him to have, carnal knowledge of her.

<sup>6</sup> The section provides that a reasonable belief by the prisoner that the girl was sixteen is a defence to a charge under subsection 1. Consent is no defence to any charge under the section, which does not require any evidence to be corroborated (see R. v. Graham (1910), 74 J.P. 246). No prosecution under the section can be commenced more than six (s. 27 of the Prevention of Cruelty to Children Act, 1904) months after the commission of the offence, but this time limit is subject to the decision in R. v. West (1898), 1 Q.B. 174, where it was held that a man could be convicted of the misdemeanour under this section if within the time limit he had been prosecuted for rape, although the prosecution only became a prosecution for the misdemeanour when at the assizes, after the time limit had expired, a bill for the felony by s. 4 of this Act, the jury shall be satisfied that the defendant is guilty of an offence under ss. 3, 4, or 5 of this Act or of an indecent assault, but are not satisfied that the defendant is guilty of the felony charged in such indictment, or of an attempt to commit the same, the jury may acquit the defendant of such felony, and find him guilty of such offence as aforesaid or of an indecent assault (ib., s. 9). The defendant may, where indicted under s. 4 for felony, be convicted of indecent assault although the unsworn evidence of a child is received against him, and although apart from such evidence there is no other sufficient evidence against him (R. v. Wealand (1888), 20 Q.B.D. 827).<sup>1</sup> The defendant, whether indicted for rape or under s. 4 of this Act, cannot be convicted of common assault (R. v. Catherall (1875), 13 Cox 109), nor if he has been indicted for rape and acquitted of that offence can he be convicted under s. 5, unless the prosecution for rape was commenced within the six months mentioned in that section as amended by s. 27 of the Prevention of Cruelty to Children Act, 1904 (R. v. Cotton (1896), 60 J.P. 824, which was decided before the section was so amended).

Power on indictment for rape or defilement of children under thirteen.

Any person who, being the owner or occupier of any premises, or having, or acting or assisting in the management or control thereof, induces or knowingly suffers<sup>2</sup> any girl of such age as in this section mentioned to resort to or be in or upon such premises for the purpose of being unlawfully and carnally known by any man or men whatever :

Householder permitting defilement of girls.

(1) If such girl is under thirteen—Felony, punishment C, as to which see p. 862.

(2) If such girl is of or over the age of thirteen and under sixteen—Misdemeanour, punishment AA, as to which see p. 864 (ib., s. 6).<sup>3</sup>

Unlawful detention of any woman against her will upon any premises that she may be carnally known by any man or men whatever or in any brothel—Misdemeanour, punishment AA, as to which see p. 864 (ib., s. 8).

Unlawful detention for immoral purposes.

Any person having the custody, charge, or care of a girl under sixteen causing or encouraging the seduction or prostitution<sup>4</sup> [or unlawful carnal knowledge] of that girl—Misdemeanour, punishment AA, as to which see p. 864 (Children Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 67, s. 17).<sup>5</sup>

Encouraging prostitution.

A person shall be deemed to have caused or encouraged such seduction or prostitution if the person so seduced or prostituted was sent up to the grand jury. The court, in fact, held that the prosecution for the greater offence involved the prosecution for the less. For special provisions as to the evidence of children of tender years, of other children under fourteen, and of young persons between fourteen and sixteen, see ss. 29, 30, 131, of the Children Act, 1908, and also EVIDENCE. As to the incapacity of a boy under fourteen to commit an offence under this section, see p. 896. It is not a criminal offence for a girl of or above the age of thirteen and under sixteen to aid and abet a male person in having, or to incite him to have, unlawful carnal knowledge of her (R. v. Tyrrell (1894), 1 Q.B. 710). Any person indicted under s. 5 can be convicted of common assault if in the indictment there is a separate count for common assault (R. v. Bostock (1893), 17 Cox 700).

<sup>1</sup> In this case the unsworn evidence was admitted under the repealed part of s. 4, which as regards the part beginning, "Where upon the hearing"—and ending—"duty of speaking the truth" is re-enacted and expanded by s. 30 of the Children Act, 1908.

<sup>2</sup> A parent who on one occasion permitted a man to have illicit intercourse in her house with her daughter (whom he had previously seduced) for the purpose of obtaining evidence against him was held not to have "knowingly suffered" (R. v. Merthyr Tydvil JJ. (1894), 10 T.L.R. 375).

<sup>3</sup> It is a defence to any charge under this section if the accused had reasonable cause to believe that the girl was of or above sixteen years of age. A father or mother with whom the girl is living may be convicted under this section (R. v. Webster (1885), 16 Q.B.D. 134).

<sup>4</sup> Words in brackets added by the Children Act Amendment Act, 1910, 10 Edw. 7, and 1 Geo. 5, c. 25, s. 1.

<sup>5</sup> Prior to the passing of the amending Act, 10 Edw. 7, and 1 Geo. 5, c. 25, it was held that in this section the word "seduction" means inducing a girl to or prostitution or unlawful carnal knowledge, if he has knowingly allowed the girl to consort with, or to enter or continue in the employment of, any prostitute or person of known immoral character (ib.).

As to offences with regard to lunatics, see LUNATICS, OFFENCES RELATING TO; as to abduction, see ABDUCTION.

FISHERIES.

As to the statutory misdemeanour (punishable with LL, as to which see p. 865) of constructing a dam or weir that does not permit the free passage of salmon or other fish, see FISHERIES in CATALOGUE OF SUMMARY OFFENCES, p. 445.

FOOD AND DRUGS, OFFENCES RELATING TO.<sup>1</sup>

Mixing injurious ingredients with food, &c., or selling food, &c., so adulterated after a previous conviction for like offence, punishable with imprisonment not exceeding six months with hard labour (Sale of Food and Drugs Act, 1875, 38 & 39 Vict. c. 63, s. 3).<sup>2</sup>

Forging or uttering, knowing it to be forged, for the purposes of the Act any certificate or writing purporting to contain a warranty—Misdemeanour, punishable with imprisonment not exceeding two years with hard labour (ib., s. 27).

FORCIBLE ENTRY.

Forcible entry<sup>3</sup> or forcible detainer of lands is an indictable misdemeanour at common law and under various statutes (punishment LL, as to which see p. 865) (5 Rd. 2, c. 7; 15 Rd. 2, c. 2; 8 Hy. 6, c. 9), and a felony under an Irish statute (punishment P, as to which see p. 863), 26 Geo. 3, c. 24, s. 64).

An entry is deemed to be forcible if effected either by actual violence to the person of another, or by threats of such violence, or by breaking into a house, or by going to the lands, &c., under such circumstances as to show that entry will be effected by violence (1 Hawk, c. 28, ss. 26, 27; Stephen, Dig. Cr. Law, 6th ed., p. 61; Milner v. Maclean (1825), 2 C. & P. 17). Forcible detainer is committed where any person being wrongfully in possession of lands, &c., retains possession thereof by such actual or threatened violence as would make an entry an offence as above defined (Stephen, Dig. Cr. Law, 6th ed., p. 61).

surrender her chastity for the first time; and therefore, where a father, having the custody of his daughter, a girl under sixteen who had already been seduced, subsequently encouraged illicit sexual intercourse between the girl and her seducer, it was held that he did not thereby encourage her seduction (R. v. Moon (1910), 1 K.B. 818); but he could (R. v. Webster (1885), 16 Q.B.D. 124) have been convicted under s. 6 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885, and now, in a similar state of facts, he could be convicted under s. 17 of the Act of 1908, as amended by the Act of 1910.

<sup>1</sup> For summary jurisdiction as to such offences, see FOOD AND DRUGS, p. 456.

<sup>2</sup> For notes upon this section, see FOOD AND DRUGS, p. 457.

<sup>3</sup> Justices have power under 15 Rich. 2, c. 2, to convict summarily on their own view in cases only of forcible detainer where there had been a previous forcible entry, and in cases of unlawful entry and forcible detainer under 8 Hen. 6, c. 9, but instances of the exercise of this jurisdiction are rare (see Russell, 7th ed., p. 444).

It is no defence to prove that the accused had a right to possession, or a right to enter, for he must assert his right otherwise than by forcible entry (Newton v. Harland (1840), 1 M. & G. 644), so that a forcible entry, even by the owner as against a tenant at will, is within the statutes (Russell, 7th ed., 445, n.<sup>o</sup>). But this does not apply where the person in possession is a mere custodian or bailiff for the person who enters<sup>1</sup> (Bac. Abr. "Forcible Entry" (D)), or a mere trespasser (Scott v. Mathew Brown & Co. (1884), 51 L.T. 746).

The entry must be with intent to take possession of the land, &c. A mere coming upon the land with any other intent cannot be forcible entry (R. v. Blake (1765), 3 Burr. 1731; R. v. Wilson (1799), 8 T.R. 357). It is doubtful whether a person under twenty-one can be convicted of the offence (1 Hale P.C. 21; 4 Bac. Abr. "Infancy," 7th ed., p. 352).

FOREIGN ENLISTMENT ACT.

The Foreign Enlistment Act, 33 & 34 Vict. c. 90, provides penalties for enlisting, &c., in the service of any foreign country during the existence of hostilities between such country and any other foreign country with which Great Britain is at peace. For the various offences and penalties under the Act reference should be made thereto.

FORGERY.

Forgery may be defined as the fraudulent making or alteration of a writing to the prejudice of another man's right (4 Bl. Com. 245), and in a modern case has been defined as the fraudulent making of a written instrument which purports to be what it is not (Ex parte Windsor (1865), 10 Cox 118, at pp. 123, 124). Every fraudulent alteration of a genuine instrument, whether of a name, date, figure, or clause or in any other way, provided that such alteration has a material effect on the rights of the parties affected by the instrument, is forgery of the whole instrument (Dawson's Case (1717), 2 East P.C. 978; R. v. Teague (1802), Russ. & Ry. 33; R. v. Ritson (1869), L.R. 1 C.C.R. 200). Fraudulent means with intent to defraud, and such intent is necessary in order to constitute the offence (2 East P.C. 853). The forgery must be of some instrument.<sup>2</sup> Thus fraudulently to affix a painter's name to a picture is not forgery<sup>3</sup> (R. v. Closs (1858), Dears & B. 460). It is doubtful whether one who by fraud induces another to execute an instrument is guilty of forgery (see the dicta of Rolfe, B., in R. v. Collins (1843), 2 Mood & R. 461, and in R. v. Chadwick (1844), 2 Mood & R. 545, as cited pp. 1605-6, of Russell on Crimes, 7th ed.). But the person so procuring the execution, &c., of any instrument which is a valuable security is now punishable under s. 90 of the Larceny Act, 1861, as to which see p. 895. To constitute the offence of forgery it is not necessary that the forged instrument should be uttered (R. v. Elliott (1777), 1 Leach 175; R. v. Crocker (1805), Russ. & Ry. 97).

An instrument is deemed to be uttered when any attempt, whether successful or not, is made to obtain money or credit by means of it (R. v. Uttering.

<sup>1</sup> A caretaker is such a mere custodian, and though the person for whom he is caretaker may get him out under s. 86 of the Landlord and Tenant (Ir.) Act, 1860, 23 & 24 Vict. c. 154, yet that section in no way affects the pre-existing law, except in so far as it gives a simple and inexpensive legal process for recovering possession.

<sup>2</sup> A telegram is an instrument (R. v. Riley (1896), 1 Q.B. 309).

<sup>3</sup> But such act is punishable summarily under the Fine Arts Copyright Act, 1862, 25 & 26 Vict. c. 68, s. 7.

Ion (1852), 2 Den. 475; R. v. Sharman (1854), Dears C.C. 285). Either forgery as above defined, or the uttering of any instrument which within the above definition has been forged (R. v. Sharman, supra) is at common law a misdemeanour, punishable with LL, as to which see p. 865; but if any one be actually defrauded, then the accused may be convicted of a common law cheat and sentenced to JJ, as to which see p. 865 (R. v. Hamilton (1901), 1 K.B. 740; Criminal Procedure Act, 1851, 14 & 15 Vict. c. 100, s. 29).

A very large number of statutory forgeries are punishable under the Forgery Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 98, and other statutes. Within the space available in this work, it is impossible to set out or even to enumerate all these offences.

For summary jurisdiction with regard to forgery and cognate offences, see CATALOGUE OF SUMMARY OFFENCES under various heads.

FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT ON SALE OF PROPERTY.

Seller or mortgagor of land, or of any chattels, real or personal, or choses in action conveyed or assigned to a purchaser<sup>1</sup> or the solicitor or agent of such seller or mortgagor, concealing settlement, deed, will, or other instrument material to the title, or any incumbrance, from the purchaser,<sup>1</sup> or falsifying any pedigree upon which the title does or may depend, in order to induce the purchaser to accept the title offered, with intent to defraud—Misdemeanour, punishment JJ, as to which see p. 865, or fine, or both, and the offender is also liable in an action for damages. No prosecution is to be brought without sanction of Attorney-General, or Solicitor-General, such sanction not to be given without such previous notice of the application for leave to prosecute the alleged offender as the Attorney-General or Solicitor-General shall direct (Law of Property Amendment Act, 1859, 22 & 23 Vict. c. 35, s. 24).

GAME.

As to indictable offences relating to game, see LARCENY, post, p. 908, and GAME (pp. 484–486), in CATALOGUE OF SUMMARY OFFENCES.

HABITUAL CRIMINALS, PREVENTIVE DETENTION OF.

The Prevention of Crimes Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 59, Part II., provides for the preventive detention of habitual criminals. For the purposes of the Act a habitual criminal means a person who, after attaining the age of sixteen years, has been three or more times convicted either before or after the passing of the Act of the following crimes or some one or more of them; namely, any felony, the offences of uttering false or counterfeit coin, of possessing counterfeit gold or silver coin, of obtaining goods or money by false pretences, of conspiracy to defraud,<sup>2</sup> or any misdemeanour under the Larceny Act, 1861, and who is proved to have been<sup>1</sup> leading persistently a dishonest or criminal life,<sup>2</sup> or any person who on any such previous conviction has been found to be a habitual criminal and sentenced to preventive detention under the Act (s. 10 (2)). When such habitual criminal is convicted on an indictment charging him with any of such specified crimes, and also with being a habitual criminal (which latter charge cannot be inserted in the indictment without leave of the Attorney-General for Ireland (s. 10 (4) (a), and s. 18 (e)), and unless not less than seven days' notice has been given to the proper officer of the court by which the offender is to be tried, and to the offender, of intention to insert the charge (s. 10 (4) (b)), he may, where he is convicted of any such specified crime and of being a habitual criminal, and sentenced to a term of penal servitude in respect of such specified crime, be further sentenced to be detained, as from the expiration of such term of penal servitude, for not more than ten nor less than five years (ss. 10 and 13). Where a person is sentenced to penal servitude for five years or upwards, if, after three years of same have been served, he appears to the Lord-Lieutenant to have been a habitual criminal, the sentence of penal servitude may be commuted to one of preventive detention (ss. 12, 18 (a)). If a person is sentenced to a term of penal servitude exceeding five years, but no charge is made of his being a habitual criminal, this section cannot be applied (R. v. Flicker (1910), 26 T.L.R. 540).

<sup>1</sup> Or mortgagee (23 & 24 Vict. c. 38, s. 8).

<sup>2</sup> Conspiracy to defraud is not punishable by penal servitude. The Act provides for preventive detention in case of sentence of penal servitude only. And it would therefore appear that a sentence of preventive detention cannot be passed upon conviction for this crime.

When the accused is being tried on the charge of being an habitual criminal, evidence of character may be admitted by the court for the purpose of showing the accused has or has not led persistently a dishonest or criminal life (s. 10 (5)). The provisions of the Crown Cases Act, 1848. 11 & 12 Vict. c. 78, apply to the trial of a person as a habitual criminal (s. 18 (f)).

It is the duty of the clerk of the crown or clerk of the peace, before sending up to the grand jury any bill containing a charge of being a habitual criminal, to satisfy himself that the Attorney-General, pursuant to ss. 10 (4) (a) and 18 (e), has consented to that charge being inserted (R. v. Waller (1910), 1 K.B. 364). The consent of the Attorney-General need not be proved at the trial unless the fact of such consent having been given is challenged by the accused (ib.), in which case it may be proved by a person who has been in communication with the Attorney-General on the subject, and who states that he has in the ordinary course of business received a document giving such consent (R. v. Turner (1910), 1 K.B. 346).

A person charged with being a habitual criminal must be tried separately on that charge from any other person (R. v. Blake (1910), W.N. 123). There is no objection to the jury that tries the charge of being a habitual criminal being sworn as if to try a felony, but it is sufficient if they are sworn as if for the trial of a misdemeanour (R. v. Turner (1910), 1 K.B. 346).

The seven days' notice prescribed by s. 10 (4) (b), means a seven clear days' notice. The fact of its having been given to the officer of the court must be proved by some person, not necessarily the officer of the court, who can testify to the fact of its receipt. If such notice, given to the accused in pursuance of s. 10 (4) (b), is not produced at the trial, secondary evidence may be given of its contents (R. v. Turner (1910), 1 K.B. 346). The notice given to the accused need not, in addition to specifying the previous convictions of the accused, also set out other grounds for the charge, unless the prosecution proposes to rely upon grounds other than the previous convictions (R. v. Waller (1910), 1 K.B. 364); but if the prosecution propose to rely upon other grounds such other grounds must be stated, and it is not enough to say merely that the accused is persistently leading a dishonest or criminal life (R. v. Turner (1910), 1 K.B. 346).

<sup>1</sup> This means between the expiration of his last sentence and the commission of the offence for which he is indicted (R. v. Baggott (1910), 26 T.L.R. 266).

<sup>2</sup> The fact that he spends some portion of his time in doing legitimate work does not take him out of this definition of a habitual criminal (R. v. Jennings (1910), 26 T.L.R. 339. See also R. v. Martin (1910), 5 Cr. App. Rep. 31).

The evidence intended to prove that the accused is persistently leading a dishonest or criminal life must be brought down to the date of the particular crime with which the accused is charged, and whether such evidence can extend to any time preceding his last conviction is a question which in each case must be decided upon the circumstances of the case (R. v. Turner (1910), 1 K.B. 346). In R. v. Baggott (1910), 26 T.L.R. 266, the conviction of the accused as a habitual criminal was quashed because there was no evidence that, between the expiration of the last sentence and the commission of the crime charged, the accused had been leading a dishonest or criminal life. And in R. v. Kelly (1910), 26 T.L.R. 193, a similar conviction was quashed because there was no evidence as to the course of life of the prisoner during the nine months between his last coming out of prison and the commission of the crime charged, and also because the jury had not been sufficiently directed whether, in the circumstances of the case, the prisoner's previous convictions justified the finding that he was a habitual criminal.

Unless it is obvious that the accused must have been over sixteen at the date of the three convictions relied on by the prosecution, evidence must be given that he was on that date over the age of sixteen; and for this purpose evidence of a statement by the accused is sufficient (R. v. Turner (1910), 1 K.B. 346).

Where a prisoner is charged with a crime and also with being a habitual criminal, and is convicted of, or pleads guilty to, the crime, sentence for the crime should not be passed before the question whether he is or is not a habitual criminal has been decided (R. v. Walker (1910), 27 T.L.R. 51; R. v. Turner (1910), 1 K.B. 346).

As to the principles governing the length of the term of penal servitude that should precede the term of preventive detention, see R. v. Smith (1909), W.N. 235.

HARBOURING, ETC., ANY FELON.

See CRIMES, p. 885.

HOUSEBREAKING.<sup>1</sup>

Breaking and entering any church, chapel, or place of divine worship and committing felony, or being in church, &c., and committing felony—Felony, punishment A. as to which see p. 862 (Larceny Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, ss. 50, 51, 117). Breaking and entering any building and committing any felony therein, such building being within the curtilage<sup>2</sup> of a dwelling-house and occupied therewith, but not being part thereof,<sup>3</sup>

<sup>1</sup> For distinction between burglary and housebreaking, see BURGLARY, p. 878, and for meaning of (1) breaking, (2) entering, (3) dwelling-house, (4) part of dwelling-house, (5) night-time, see p. 879.

<sup>2</sup> Curtilage means the enclosed area attached to and containing a dwelling-house and its outbuildings. See Murray, New Eng. Dict.

<sup>3</sup> No building, although within the same curtilage with any dwelling-house, and occupied therewith, shall be deemed to be part of such dwelling-house, for any of the purposes of this Act, unless there shall be a communication between such building and dwelling-house, either immediate or by means of a covered and enclosed passage leading from one to the other (s. 53).

or being in any such building and committing felony therein and breaking out of same—Felony, punishment E, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 55, 117). Breaking and entering any dwelling-house, school-house, shop,<sup>1</sup> warehouse,<sup>2</sup> or counting-house,<sup>3</sup> and committing any felony therein, or, being therein, committing felony and breaking out thereof—Felony, punishment E, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 56, 117). Breaking and entering any dwelling-house, church, &c., or building within the curtilage, school-house, shop, warehouse, or counting-house with intent to commit any felony therein—Felony, punishment L, as to which see p. 863 (ib., ss. 57, 117). Stealing in any dwelling-house<sup>4</sup> to the total value of £5 or more—Felony, punishment E, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 60, 117). Stealing any chattel, &c., in any dwelling-house, and by menace or threat putting any one therein in bodily fear—Felony, punishment E, as to which see p. 862 (ss. 61, 117). Being found at night (a) armed with any dangerous, &c., weapon, &c., with intent to break or enter any building and commit any felony therein, or (b) in possession<sup>5</sup> without lawful excuse (proof of which excuse must be made by the accused) of any implement of house-breaking,<sup>6</sup> or disguised with intent to commit any felony, or by night in any building with intent to commit any felony therein—Misdemeanour, punishment S, as to which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 58, 117).

INCEST.

Carnal knowledge by any male person of his granddaughter, daughter, sister, or mother (he knowing her to be such)—Misdemeanour, punishment P, as to which see p. 863, unless it is alleged in the indictment and proved that the female was under thirteen, in which case punishment C, as to which see p. 862 (Punishment of Incest Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 45, s. 1).<sup>7</sup> Attempt by any male person to commit such offence as aforesaid—Misdemeanour, punishment AA, as to which see p. 864 (ib.). Any female person of or over the age of sixteen permitting her grandfather, father, brother, or son (she knowing him to be such) to have carnal knowledge of her—Misdemeanour, punishment P, as to which see p. 863 (ib., s. 2).

On indictment for rape, the jury, if not satisfied that the prisoner is guilty of rape, may find him guilty of an offence under the Punishment of Incest Act, 1908. On indictment under that Act the prisoner may be

<sup>1</sup> Shop includes a workshop (R. v. Carter (1843), 1 C. & K. 173).

<sup>2</sup> Warehouse means a place where goods not immediately wanted for sale are kept (R. v. Hill (1843), 2 Mood & R. 458).

<sup>3</sup> Includes a solicitor's office (Re Creek (1863), 3 B. & S. 459).

<sup>4</sup> The owner of the house may himself commit the offence (R. v. Bowden (1843), 2 Mood C.C. 285).

<sup>5</sup> If several persons are together for the common purpose of housebreaking, all are constructively in possession of implements of housebreaking, which are, in fact, in the possession of only one of such persons (R. v. Thompson (1869), 11 Cox 362).

<sup>6</sup> Any implement capable of an innocent use is an implement of house-breaking if the accused had it in his possession for the purpose of housebreaking (R. v. Oldham (1852), 2 Den. 472).

<sup>7</sup> If the female is proved to be under thirteen the punishment is as provided by s. 4 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885, and therefore the offender, if under sixteen, can be sentenced to be whipped, as prescribed by the Whipping Act, 1862, 25 & 26 Vict. c. 18, instead of being sentenced to any term of imprisonment. "Brother" and "sister" include "half-brother" and "half-sister," and apply whether the relationship is through lawful wedlock or not (s. 3).

The Vexatious Indictments Act, 1859, 22 & 23 Vict. c. 17, applies to offences under the Act.

acquitted of an offence under that Act, and convicted of an offence under s. 4 or s. 5 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1885 (ib., s. 4 (3)).

No prosecution for any offence under the Act can be commenced without the sanction of the Attorney-General (ib., s. 6).

All proceedings under the Act must be in camera (ib., s. 5).

LARCENY.<sup>1</sup>

This article deals not only with larceny, but also with robbery, embezzlement, and cognate offences.

By s. 72 of the Larceny Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, it is provided that any person indicted for larceny may be convicted of embezzlement and vice versa, so that in any case it is immaterial whether the accused is returned for trial for larceny or embezzlement.

What is larceny.

Larceny is the wrongful or fraudulent taking and carrying away<sup>2</sup> by any person of the mere personal goods of another<sup>3</sup> from any place, with a felonious intent<sup>4</sup> to convert them to his own use<sup>5</sup> and make them his own property, without the consent<sup>6</sup> of the owner (2 East P.C. 553). In

<sup>1</sup> For summary jurisdiction in cases of larceny, &c., see LARCENY AND EMBEZZLEMENT, p. 585; GAME, p. 486.

<sup>2</sup> There may be sufficient carrying away without entire removal of the thing stolen from the physical possession of the owner. Thus, a conviction for larceny was held good where the prisoner took a purse in the prosecutor's pocket, but in pulling out the purse caught it in the prosecutor's belt, whereupon the prosecutor seized the purse and put it back again (R. v. Taylor (1910), 6 Cr. App. Rep. 12).

<sup>3</sup> But a man may be convicted of stealing his own goods when they are in the possession of a bailee (e.g. a pawnbroker) who, as against the owner, has for the time a right to the possession of them. See Russell on Crimes, 7th ed., p. 1282, note f, and authorities there cited. A person cannot be convicted of larceny of his own goods which have been seized by the sheriff and retaken by the owner (R. v. Knight (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 186). And by 31 & 32 Vict. c. 116, s. 1, any person being a member of a partnership, or one of two or more beneficial owners of property, may be convicted of stealing any property of such partnership or of such beneficial owners, as if he were not such partner or owner. As to the circumstances under which a wife may be convicted of stealing the goods of her husband, and a husband of stealing the goods of his wife, see the Married Woman's Property Act, 1882, 45 & 46 Vict. c. 75, ss. 12, 16, noted p. 530.

<sup>4</sup> Felonious intent means with intent to steal, and the term does not include taking unlawfully but under a bona fide claim of right (2 East P.C. 659; 1 Hale 506, 509; R. v. Hall (1828), 3 C. & P. 409; R. v. Wade (1869), 11 Cox 549).

<sup>5</sup> This means a permanent conversion. In R. v. Crump (1825), 1 C. & P. 658, wrongfully taking a horse from a stable, riding it a long distance, and leaving it at another stable was held not to be larceny. This case is directly in point as regards the offence popularly known as "cattle-driving," the parties concerned in which are, however, guilty of conspiracy, unlawful assembly, or riot, or of several or all of those offences as the case may be.

<sup>6</sup> As to where the consent of the owner is obtained by a false pretence, see p. 892. There is not consent within the meaning of the above-stated definition of the offence where property to a greater amount than a person is entitled to receive is, by a mistake of the owner of such property, known at the time of receipt to the person receiving such property, delivered to such person so receiving; and the person so receiving such greater amount is guilty of larceny if he fraudulently appropriates the same (R. v. Middleton (1873), L.R. 2 C.C.R. 38; R. v. Flowers (1886), 16 Q.B.D. 643). Where, however, the person receiving such greater amount through the mistake of the owner, is at the time unaware of the mistake, but afterwards fraudulently appropriates to his own use such greater amount, a question of much difficulty arises, which in R. v. Ashwell (1885), 16 Q.B.D. 190, was left undecided, but the question was finally the subject of an authoritative decision in 1895 under the following circumstances:—The prosecutor owed the prisoner the sum of £2, 8s. 9d. for work done in his employment. The prosecutor, intending to discharge the debt, handed to the prisoner 9s. in silver and two notes, both of which were believed, alike by prosecutor and prisoner, to be £1 notes. One of these was a £10 note. There was evidence that after receiving this note the prisoner discovered its true value, and fraudulently appropriated it to his own use. On this evidence the jury larceny the property has reached the actual or constructive possession of the owner. In EMBEZZLEMENT (for which see p. 889), the wrongful taking occurs before the property has reached such possession. Thus, the wrongful taking by a shopman of money that he has received for his master before it has gone into the till is embezzlement, but such taking of such money by the shopman after he has put it into the till is larceny (R. v. Bazeley (1799), 2 Leach 835). Larceny is either simple or compound. Simple larceny is any offence that merely fills the definition above given. Compound larceny is larceny from the person or from a house. Robbery is larceny from the person effected by either violence or intimidation.

Simple larceny.

Compound larceny.

Robbery.

Larceny is an offence both at common law and by statute. At common law, trees, crops, fruit, vegetables, &c., whilst still growing,<sup>1</sup> dogs,<sup>2</sup> wild animals not in captivity, wild animals kept in captivity for any purpose except food or profit, ore from a mine, or fixtures, cannot be the subject of larceny. Larceny at common law.

The common law recognises as the subject of larceny only something which is a movable chose in possession (such as money, goods, merchandise, or chattels), which is of some definite value, and in which the common law recognised property.<sup>3</sup>

The following are some of the statutory provisions as to the punishment on indictment of larceny and other offences involving fraud or dishonesty:— Statutory provisions.

Simple larceny, or any felony made punishable as simple larceny— Simple Felony, punishment R, as to which see p. 863 (Larceny Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, ss. 4, 117, 119). Bailee<sup>4</sup> fraudulently converting chattel, money, or valuable security to his own use or the use of any person, though not breaking bulk or otherwise determining bailment, to be deemed guilty of larceny (ib., s. 3). Simple larceny, or any offence by this Act made larceny by a person previously convicted (whether on indictment or under the Criminal Justice Act, 1855<sup>5</sup>) of any felony— Felony, punishment I, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 7, 117, 119). Simple larceny, or any offence by this Act made punishable as such after a previous conviction of any indictable misdemeanour punishable under this Act— Felony, punishment M, as to which see p. 863 (ib., ss. 8, 117, 119). Simple larceny, or any offence by this Act made punishable as such after two summary convictions either under this Act or under the Malicious Damage Act, 1861— Felony, punishment M, as to which see p. 863 (ib., ss. 9, 117, 119).

Larceny after previous conviction.

Stealing horse, cattle, sheep, &c.— Felony, punishment E, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 10, 117). Killing any animal (the stealing whereof would be felony) with intent to steal the carcase, skin, or any part thereof Animals.

convicted the prisoner of larceny. Held, by Sir Peter O'Brien, L.C.J., Palles, C.B., O'Brien, Andrews, and Johnson, JJ. (disc. Murphy, Holmes, Gibson, and Madden, JJ.), that the subsequent fraudulent misappropriation of the £10, previously innocently acquired, did not amount to larceny, and that the conviction should be quashed (R. v. Hehir (1895), 2 I.R. 709; 29 I.L.T.R. 119, in which case R. v. Ashwell, supra, and all the law and all the authorities on the subject were exhaustively considered).

<sup>1</sup> 1 Hale 510; 1 Hawk, c. 38, s. 21.

<sup>2</sup> R. v. Robinson (1859), 28 L.J. 58.

<sup>3</sup> This excludes treasure-trove. It also excludes a corpse (2 East P.C. 652; 1 Hawk, c. 33, s. 4-6). But water (Ferens v. O'Brien (1883), 11 Q.B.D. 21) and gas (R. v. White (1853), Dears C.C. 203) supplied through pipes for money are included. As to electricity, see p. 909.

In R. v. Clinton (1869), I.R. 4 C.L. 6, the taking of ungathered seaweed lying between high and low water mark was held not to be larceny.

<sup>4</sup> A bailee is a person to whom property has been entrusted for a specific purpose without there being any intention that the ownership should be transferred to him.

<sup>5</sup> As to which see p. 585.

—Felony, like punishment as for stealing the animal (ib., s. 11). Unlawfully and wilfully coursing, hunting, snaring, &c., killing, wounding, or attempting to kill or wound, any deer kept in any ground not enclosed, after previous conviction of an offence relating to deer<sup>1</sup> for which a pecuniary penalty shall have been imposed—Felony, punishment W, as to which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 12, 117, 119). Unlawfully and wilfully coursing, &c., any deer kept or being in enclosed ground where usually kept—Felony, like penalty (ib., ss. 13, 117, 119). Assaulting, &c., deer-keeper—Felony, like penalty (ib., ss. 16, 117, 119). Dog-stealing, after previous conviction<sup>2</sup> therefor<sup>1</sup>—Misdemeanour, punishment BB, as to which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 18, 117). Unlawful possession of stolen dog, or skin thereof, knowing same to have been stolen, after previous conviction<sup>1</sup> for such offence—Misdemeanour, like penalty (ss. 19, 117). Taking money to restore dogs—Misdemeanour, same penalty (ss. 20, 117).

Fish.

Taking or destroying fish in water situate in land adjoining, &c., a dwelling-house, &c., otherwise than by angling—Misdemeanour, punishment KK, as to which see p. 865 (ib., ss. 24, 117). Stealing oyster, &c., from oyster bed, &c., the property of another, and sufficiently marked out to be known as such—Felony, punishable as simple larceny (ib., s. 26). Unlawfully using dredge within limits of oyster-bed or fishery, or dragging with any instrument upon the ground or soil of such fishery—Misdemeanour, punishment II, as to which see p. 865 (ib., ss. 26, 117).

Documents.

Stealing, or for any fraudulent purpose destroying, &c., valuable security, &c.,<sup>3</sup> other than document of title to land—Felony, punishable in same manner as the larceny of the money or property thereby secured (ib., s. 27). Stealing, or for any fraudulent purpose destroying, &c., documents of title to land—Felony, punishment Q, as to which see p. 863 (ib., ss. 28, 117). Stealing, or for any fraudulent purpose destroying, &c., wills or codicils—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 29, 117). Stealing, or unlawfully and maliciously destroying, &c., records or other legal documents—Felony, punishment Q, as to which see p. 863 (ib., ss. 30, 117).

Fixtures.

Stealing or cutting, &c., with intent to steal, metal, glass, wood, &c., fixed to house or land, or any public place or graveyard, &c.—Felony, punishable as simple larceny (ib., s. 31). Stealing or cutting,

Trees.

&c., with intent to steal tree, &c., over value of £1 in pleasure ground, &c., or tree, &c., elsewhere over the value of £5—Felony, punishable as simple larceny (ib., s. 32). Stealing tree, &c., anywhere of any value after two previous convictions for such offence<sup>1</sup>—Felony, punishable as simple larceny (ib., s. 33).

Fruit.

Stealing fruit, &c., from garden, &c., after previous conviction for such offence<sup>1</sup>—Felony, punishable as simple larceny (s. 36).

Ore.

Stealing ore, &c., from mine—Felony, punishment V, as to which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 38, 117). Miners removing ore, &c., with intent to defraud—Felony, like penalty (s. 39).

Larceny from the person.
Assault with intent to rob.
Robbery under arms.
&c.

Robbery or stealing from the person<sup>4</sup>—Felony, punishment E, as to which see p. 862 (ss. 40, 117). Assault with intent to rob—Felony, punishment (except where a greater punishment is provided by this Act) Q, as to which see p. 863 (ss. 42, 117). Robbery or assault with intent to rob by person armed, or by two or more persons, or robbery and wounding—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 43, 117). and the prisoner may also be whipped in accordance with the Garrotters Act,

<sup>1</sup> Either against this or any former Act of Parliament (ib.).

<sup>2</sup> First offence punishable summarily.

<sup>3</sup> A money order is a valuable security within the meaning of this section (8 Edw. 7, c. 48, s. 59 (1)).

<sup>4</sup> A person indicted for this offence may be convicted of assault with intent to rob (s. 41).

1863. 26 & 27 Vict. c. 44, to which reference should be made. Stealing Textiles. textiles in process of manufacture—Felony, punishment E, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 62, 117). Stealing from ships, docks, wharfs, or from From ships, ship in distress—Felony, like penalty<sup>1</sup> (ib., ss. 63, 64, 117). Larceny by &c. clerks or servants—Felony, punishment F, as to which see p. 862 (ib., Servants. ss. 67, 117, 119). Embezzlement by clerk or servant, to be deemed felonious stealing—like penalty (ib., s. 68). Larceny by person in King's service, or police—Felony, punishment E, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 69. 117). Embezzlement by person in King's service, or police, to be deemed Persons in H.M. service. felonious stealing—like penalty (ib., s. 70). Embezzlement by officers of Bank of England or Ireland—Felony, punishment A, as to which see Officers of Bank of Ireland. p. 862 (ib., ss. 73, 117). Tenants or lodgers stealing chattel or fixture, let to hire with house or lodgings—Felony, punishment W, as to which see p. 864, or if value of the chattel, &c., exceeds five pounds, punishment M. Tenants. as to which see p. 863 (ib., ss. 74, 117, 119). Holders of powers of attorney fraudulently selling property entrusted to them<sup>2</sup>—Misdemeanour, punishment N, as to which see p. 863 (ib., ss. 77, 117; Larceny Act, 1901, 1 Edw. 7, c. 10, ss. 1, 2). Factor or agent fraudulently pledging, &c., property of principal, or clerk, &c., knowingly assisting in such offence<sup>2</sup>—Misdemeanour, like punishment (ib., ss. 78, 117; Larceny Act, 1901, 1 Edw. 7, c. 10, ss. 1, 2). Trustees fraudulently disposing of property<sup>2</sup>—Misdemeanour, like punishment (ib., ss. 80, 117). Directors of companies fraudulently disposing of property<sup>2</sup>—Misdemeanour, like punishment (ib., ss. 81, 117; Larceny Act, 1901, 1 Edw. 7, c. 10, s. 1). Directors of companies falsifying accounts<sup>2</sup>—Misdemeanour, like punishment (ib., ss. 82, 117). Directors of companies destroying books of account<sup>2</sup>—Misdemeanour, like punishment (ib., ss. 83, 117). Directors of companies publishing fraudulent statement<sup>2</sup>—Misdemeanour, like punishment (ib., ss. 84, 117). As to s. 90. see FALSE PRETENCES. Fraudulent Misappropriation of property—Misdemeanour, penal servitude not exceeding seven years<sup>3</sup> or imprisonment not exceeding two years, with or without hard labour (Larceny Act, 1901, 1 Edw. 7, c. 10, s. 1). Any Electricity. one fraudulently abstracting electricity, &c., shall be deemed guilty of simple larceny (Electric Lighting Act, 1882, 45 & 46 Vict. c. 56, s. 22). As to gas and water, see p. 907, n.<sup>3</sup>

See also EMBEZZLEMENT, FALSE PRETENCES, RECEIVING STOLEN GOODS, CHEATING, EXTORTION BY THREATS, BURGLARY, HOUSEBREAKING, POST OFFICE.

LIBEL.<sup>4</sup>

The publication of matter defamatory of any living private person or definite class of living persons, is an indictable misdemeanour at common law (punishment LL, as to which see p. 865) if effected by writing or print or by signs or effigies<sup>5</sup> or pictures. Such matter is usually referred to as "libel." Words spoken, however defamatory, are not the subject of Libel on individuals.

<sup>1</sup> The offender may be tried either in the county or place where the offence was committed or in any county adjoining (ib.).

<sup>2</sup> Section 86 provides that offences under ss. 77 to 85 (ss. 75 and 76 have been repealed by the Larceny Act, 1901) are triable only at Assizes. A prosecution under s. 80 cannot be commenced without the sanction of a judge or the Attorney-General.

<sup>3</sup> This Act is not within s. 1 (1) of the Penal Servitude Act, 1891 (for which see p. 861), and consequently the minimum term of penal servitude that the court may inflict is not three years, but may, for instance, be six months. It is, however, submitted that it is inadvisable to inflict any less term than three years.

<sup>4</sup> Any charge of libel of any kind is within the Vexatious Indictments Act.

<sup>5</sup> See Monson v. Tussauds Ltd. (1894), 1 Q.B. 671.

indictment unless they directly tend to a breach of the peace, e.g. by conveying a challenge to fight, or are seditious, or blasphemous, or perhaps obscene, or constitute an incitement to the commission of an indictable offence (Russell, 7th ed., p. 1021).

Maliciously publishing any defamatory libel, knowing same to be false—Misdemeanour, punishment, imprisonment not exceeding two years without hard labour and fine (Libel Act, 1843, 6 & 7 Vict. c. 96, ss. 4, 5). Maliciously publishing any defamatory libel—Misdemeanour, punishment, imprisonment not exceeding one year without hard labour, or fine, or both (ib., s. 5). As to summary jurisdiction in cases of libel, see p. 591.

At common law, the proprietor of a newspaper or other publication was deemed criminally responsible for any libel contained in it, though published without his authority or knowledge (see R. v. Holbrook (1878), 4 Q.B.D. 42, at p. 46), but now it is a defence, in a criminal proceeding, to show that the publication was made without the authority, consent, or knowledge of the accused, and that the publication did not arise from want of due care or caution on his part (Libel Act, 1843, 6 & 7 Vict. c. 96, s. 7). And now also, no criminal proceeding can be commenced against any proprietor, publisher, editor, or any person responsible for the publication of a newspaper for any libel published therein without the order of a Judge at Chambers (Law of Libel Amendment Act, 1888, 51 & 52 Vict. c. 64, s. 8).

Generally, wherever proof of malice is necessary to constitute any offence, it is not necessary to prove spite or ill-will against any particular person, or generally. There is held to be malice wherever an unlawful act is wilfully done (see M'Pherson v. Daniels (1829), 10 B. & C. 263, 272; R. v. Harvey (1823), 2 B. & C. 257, 258). See also p. 602.

In libel, the publication is malicious in every case that does not fall within some one or more of the following cases:—

(1) Where the libel is true and its publication is shown to be for the public benefit (Libel Act, 1843, 6 & 7 Vict. c. 96, s. 6). (2) Where the person publishing it believed it to be true, and if the relation between the parties by and to whom the publication is made is such that the person publishing it is under any duty to so publish the libel, provided that such publication does not either in extent or manner exceed the requirements of the occasion, and is not made for any indirect motive. (3) Where the libel is fair criticism of a public man, or of actors, books, &c. (4) Where the libel is contained in a report of the proceedings of either House of Parliament. (5) Where the libel is within the Law of Libel Amendment Act, 1888, 51 & 52 Vict. c. 64, ss. 3 and 4. (6) Where the libel consists of anything published in a judicial proceeding by either judge, counsel, witness, or any party, or of anything whatever published in the discharge of a military duty. (7) Where the libel is an accurate and fair report of the proceedings of any court of justice.<sup>1</sup>

Seditious libel is the publication with a seditious intention of anything capable of being a libel; <sup>2</sup> blasphemous libel is the publication of any blasphemous matter (as to meaning of which see p. 878); and both offences are Misdemeanours, punishable with LL, as to which see p. 865.

<sup>1</sup> This statement is condensed from Stephen, Dig. Cr. Law, 6th ed., pp. 231–238.

<sup>2</sup> Seditious intention means an intention to bring into hatred or contempt or to excite disaffection against the Sovereign, or the Constitution, or either House of Parliament, or the administration of justice, or to excite the public to attempt to bring about otherwise than by lawful means the alteration of any matter by law established, or to incite any person to commit any crime in disturbance of the peace, or to raise discontent or disaffection amongst his Majesty's subjects, or to promote ill-will and hostility between different classes of such

LINEN.

Any person purchasing or taking in pawn or otherwise receiving linen, &c., yarn or tools, &c., for manufacturing the same, knowing that such linen, &c., yarn or tools are being fraudulently disposed of, or any person selling, pawning, or otherwise disposing of the same, knowing that the same have been fraudulently disposed of, or attempting so to do—Misdemeanour, punishment LL, as to which see p. 865 (Textile Manufactures (Ir.) Act, 1840, 3 & 4 Vict. c. 91, ss. 3 and 4, as amended by the Textile Manufactures (Ir.) Act, 1867, 30 & 31 Vict. c. 60).

LUNATICS, OFFENCES RELATING TO.

Wilfully making or causing to be made false statement in return or notice transmitted to registrar in lunacy, punishable as perjury with punishment LL or punishment P, as to which see pp. 863, 865 (Lunacy (Ir.) Act, 1871, 34 & 35 Vict. c. 22, s. 7). Forging signature or seal of registrar—Felony, punishment P, as to which see p. 863 (ib., s. 50). Ill-treatment of lunatic by person having charge<sup>1</sup>—Misdemeanour, punishment LL, as to which see p. 865 (Lunacy Act, 1890, 53 & 54 Vict. c. 5, s. 322; Lunacy (Ir.) Act, 1901, 1 Edw. 7, c. 17, s. 2). Carnal knowledge or attempted carnal knowledge of female lunatic by person having charge—Misdemeanour, punishment AA, as to which see p. 864 (Lunacy Act, 1890, s. 324; Lunacy (Ir.) Act, 1901, s. 2).

MALICIOUS INJURIES TO PROPERTY.

The Malicious Damage Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 97, provides for the punishment, either summarily (as to which see p. 601), or on indictment, of malicious injuries to property.<sup>2</sup> Setting fire to a church, &c., or to dwelling-house, any person being therein, or to house, &c., with intent to injure or defraud, or to railway station, &c., or to public buildings—Felony, punishment B, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 1–5, 73, 75). Setting fire to other building<sup>3</sup> or to goods in building, or attempting to commit any of the foregoing offences—Felony, punishment F, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 6–8, 73, 75). As to damaging building with explosive or placing explosive therein<sup>4</sup> (ss. 9, 10), see EXPLOSIONS. Damage by rioters (ss. 11, 12), see RIOT. Tenants damaging buildings—Misdemeanour, punishment KK, as to which see p. 865 (ib., ss. 13, 73). De-

Malicious Damage
Act, 1861.

Buildings or goods therein.

Damage by tenants.

subjects (Stephen, Dig. Cr. Law, 6th ed., pp. 70, 71). This definition was cited with approval by Lord O'Brien, L.C.J., in R. v. M'Hugh (1901), 2 I.R. 569, which related to an attack in the defendant's newspaper on jurors for bringing in a certain verdict.

<sup>1</sup> For summary jurisdiction as to this offence, see p. 593.

<sup>2</sup> By s. 60, where it shall be necessary to allege and prove an intent to injure or defraud, it is sufficient to allege and prove that the accused did the act with intent to injure or defraud, as the case may be, without alleging or proving an intent to injure or defraud any particular person. As to malice, see p. 601.

<sup>3</sup> For a man to burn any building that is his property and in his possession is no offence (see n.<sup>3</sup>, p. 912), unless it be done with intent to defraud or so as to set contiguous houses on fire, in which case it is felony, punishment P, as to which see p. 863 (R. v. Isaac (1799), 2 East P.C. 1031; see also R. v. Kirby, noted at p. 912), or unless such building be contiguous to others, in which case it is a misdemeanour, punishment LL, as to which see p. 865 (R. v. Probert (1799), 2 East P.C. 1030), or unless the act constitutes an offence under ss. 2 or 3 of this Act.

<sup>4</sup> It would appear that under circumstances on all fours with those in R. v. Kirby (as to which, see n.<sup>3</sup>, p. 912), an owner cannot be convicted under either of these sections. But if the act charged be done with intent to defraud, or so as to injure or expose to injury other buildings or any person, then it would appear from R. v. Isaac and R. v. Probert, supra, that such owner can be convicted under these sections.

Goods in process of manufacture or machinery.	stroying goods in process of manufacture, certain machinery. &c.— Felony , punishment B. as to which see p. 862 ( ib. , ss. 14, 73, 75). Destroying other machinery— Felony , punishment M. as to which see p. 862 ( ib. , ss. 15, 73, 75). Setting fire to crops— Felony , punishment F. as to which see p. 862 ( ib. , ss. 16, 73, 75). Setting fire to stacks of corn, &c.— Felony , punishment B. as to which see p. 862 ( ib. , ss. 17, 73, 75). Attempting to set fire to crops, stacks of corn, &c.— Felony , punishment M. as to which see p. 863 ( ib. , ss. 18, 73, 75). Destroying hopbinds— Felony , punishment F. as to which see p. 862 ( ib. , ss. 19, 73, 75). Destroying or damaging trees, shrubs, &c., exceeding value of £1 in pleasure ground; or trees, shrubs, &c., growing elsewhere exceeding value of £5— Felony , punishment R. as to which see p. 863 ( ib. , ss. 20, 21, 73, 75). Destroying or damaging trees, shrubs, &c., to value of 1s. growing anywhere (after two previous convictions <sup>1</sup> for such offence)— Misdemeanour , punishment Z. as to which see p. 864 ( ib. , ss. 22, 73, 75). Destroying or damaging fruit or vegetable product in garden, &c. (after two previous convictions <sup>1</sup> for such offence)— Felony , punishment R. as to which see p. 863 ( ib. , ss. 23, 73, 75). Setting fire to coal-mine— Felony , punishment B. as to which see p. 862 ( ib. , ss. 26, 73, 75). Attempting to set fire to coal-mine— Felony , punishment F. as to which see p. 862 ( ib. , ss. 27, 73, 75). Flooding any mine, obstructing shaft, &c.— Felony , punishment M. as to which see p. 863 ( ib. , ss. 28, 73, 75). Destroying or damaging apparatus for working any mine— Felony , punishment M. as to which see p. 863 ( ib. , ss. 28, 29, 73, 75). Destroying sea-bank or sea-wall or wall of canal— Felony , punishment B. as to which see p. 862 ( ib. , ss. 30, 73, 75). Removing the piles of any sea-bank, &c., or doing any damage so as to obstruct the navigation of river or canal— Felony , punishment M. as to which see p. 863 ( ib. , ss. 31, 73, 75). Breaking down dam of fishery, &c., or poisoning fish— Misdemeanour , punishment O. as to which see p. 863 ( ib. , ss. 32, 73, 75). Injury to public bridge, &c.— Felony , punishment B. as to which see p. 862 ( ib. , ss. 33, 73, 75). Placing obstruction, &c., on railway with intent to obstruct or overthrow any engine, &c.— Felony , punishment B. as to which see p. 862 ( ib. , ss. 35, 73, 75). Obstructing engines, &c., on railway— Misdemeanour , punishment Y. as to which see p. 864 ( ib. , ss. 36, 73). Injuring telegraphs, &c. <sup>2</sup> — Misdemeanour , punishment Y. as to which see p. 864 ( ib. , ss. 37, 73). Destroying articles in museums, &c.— Misdemeanour , punishment GG. as to which see p. 865 ( ib. , ss. 39, 73, 75). Killing, maiming, or wounding cattle, &c.— Felony , punishment E. as to which see p. 862 ( ib. , ss. 40, 73). Malicious injuries to and acts relating to ships: see (as to ss. 42–44, and 46, 49) SHIPS, and (as to s. 45) EXPLOSIONS. As to letter threatening malicious injury (s. 50), see MENACES. Committing malicious injury to an amount exceeding £5, not provided for in previous sections <sup>3</sup> — Misdemeanour , punishment Y, as to which see p. 864, or, if the Crops, &c.
Trees, &c.
Fruit, &c.
Mines, &c.
Sea-walls, &c.
Fish, &c.
Bridges.
Trains, &c.
Telegraphs.
Museums.
Letter threatening injury.

<sup>1</sup> Under this or any former Act of Parliament (ib.).

<sup>2</sup> For summary jurisdiction as to attempt to commit this offence, see p. 604.

<sup>3</sup> Where a defendant himself cut off the tail of his own cow, and then informed the police that he had seen one W. M. cut off the tail and asked them to arrest W. M., the county court judge of Limerick told the jury that they ought to convict the defendant, if they believed that he had wounded the cow with intent to injure W. M. by falsely charging him with the wounding and having him arrested, whereupon the jury convicted. It was held by Sir Peter O'Brien, L.C.J., Palles, C.B., Andrews, Johnson, Holmes, Gibson, and Madden, J.J., that the conviction must be quashed. Sir P. O'Brien, L.C.J., referred to s. 58 and said: "I think . . . that the animal must be the property of some person other than the person causing the injury." Palles, C.B., gave the reason for his decision as follows: "I think the Act constituting the corpus delicti within the section must be a wrong, or injuria, against the owner of the animal" (R. v. Kirby (1897), 31 I.L.T.R. 46). This decision would appear to govern any charge made under ss. 6, 9, 10, 14–29, 41, 42, 45, 46, or 51 of this Act.

offence be committed between 9 P.M. and 6 A.M. next morning, punishment S, as to which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 51, 73). Injuring electric line or works with intent to cut off supply—Felony, punishment T, as to which see p. 864 (Electric Lighting Act, 1882, 45 & 46 Vict. c. 56, s. 22). In any way wilfully injuring any works, &c., erected, &c., for the purposes of the Drainage (Ir.) Act, 1842, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 89<sup>1</sup>—Felony, punishment P, as to which see p. 863 (Drainage (Ir.) Act, 1842, s. 133).

Malicious injuries generally.
Electric works, &c.
Drainage works.

MARRIAGE, OFFENCES RELATING TO.

A person is guilty of bigamy who, being married, marries any other person during the life of the former husband or wife, whether the second marriage shall have taken place in England or Ireland, or elsewhere—Felony, punishment L, as to which see p. 863 (Offences against the Person Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, ss. 57, 71). Provided that nothing in the section shall extend (1) to any second marriage contracted elsewhere than in England or Ireland by any other than a subject of His Majesty; or (2) to any person marrying a second time whose husband or wife shall have been continually absent<sup>2</sup> from such person for the space of seven years then last past, and shall not have been known by such person to be living within that time; or (3) to any person who, at the time of such second marriage, shall have been divorced from the bond of the first marriage;<sup>3</sup> or (4) to any person when the former marriage shall have been declared void by the sentence of any court of competent jurisdiction (ib., s. 57).

Bigamy.

The person, not being married, who contracts a bigamous marriage is punishable as a principal in the second degree, if aware at the time of the celebration of such bigamous marriage that the previous marriage was still subsisting (R. v. Brown (1843), 1 C. & K. 144).

To sustain the charge of bigamy, the prosecution must prove the actual celebration of the previous marriage. It is not sufficient to prove cohabitation or reputation of marriage (Morris v. Millar (1767), 4 Burr 2057; Catherwood v. Caslon (1844), 13 M. & W. 261); or the admission by the prisoner of the previous marriage (R. v. Truman (1795), 1 East P.C. 470; R. v. Savage (1876), 13 Cox 178; R. v. Flaherty (1847), 2 C. & K. 782; R. v. Lindsay (1902), 66 J.P. 505). The prosecution must also prove that the first wife or husband of the accused was alive at the time of the celebration of the alleged bigamous marriage (R. v. Lumley (1869), L.R. 1 C.C.R. 196; R. v. Willshire (1881), 6 Q.B.D. 366),<sup>4</sup> and the prosecution must also prove that the accused is the person who contracted the previous marriage. Any satisfactory

<sup>1</sup> As to summary jurisdiction under this Act, see p. 424.

<sup>2</sup> The fact that the absence was the effect of desertion by the accused is immaterial (R. v. Faulkes (1903), 19 T.L.R. 250). Once the absence has been proved the charge cannot be sustained, unless it be proved that the accused knew the first wife or husband to have been alive (R. v. Heaton (1863), 3 F. & F. 819; R. v. Curgerwen (1865), L.R. 1 C.C.R. 1), and it is not sufficient to prove merely that the accused had the means of such knowledge (R. v. Briggs (1856), Dears & B. 98).

<sup>3</sup> This does not apply where there has been merely a divorce a mensa et thoro, or a decree for judicial separation, or a decree nisi not yet made absolute (Norman v. Villars (1877), 2 Ex. D. 359; Stanhope v. Stanhope (1886), 11 P.D. 103). Divorce a mensa et thoro is all that can be obtained in the Irish court; but this can be enlarged by private Act of Parliament into a divorce a vinculo.

<sup>4</sup> Where the husband and wife have been separated for less than seven years the prosecution need not prove that the accused knew that the husband or wife was alive at the date of the second marriage (R. v. Jones (1869), 11 Cox 358).

evidence of identity is sufficient (1 East P.C. 472). A photograph has been admitted as evidence (R. v. Tolson (1864), 4 F. & F. 103).

Where a woman bona fide believed, on reasonable grounds, in the death of her husband at the time of the second marriage, this was held to afford a good defence, though seven years' absence had not elapsed (R. v. Tolson (1889), 23 Q.B.D. 168).

It is immaterial where the second marriage took place (2 Hale 692). The fact that the first marriage is void because of blood-relationship, or affinity through the marriage of relatives, or lunacy, or any other reason, is a defence (see R. v. Chadwick (1847), 11 Q.B. 205). The fact that the second marriage, even if not bigamous, would be otherwise invalid, because, for instance, of its being within the prohibited degrees, is no defence if the second marriage be by a form recognised by the law as capable of producing a valid marriage between parties capable of contracting between them any valid marriage (R. v. Allen (1872), L.R. 1 C.C.R. 367, disapproving of the Irish case R. v. Fanning (1866), 17 I.C.L.R. 289); but such fact is a defence if the second marriage be (as in Burt v. Burt (1860), 2 Sw. & Tr. 88) by a form not so recognised by the law.

Other
offences relating to marriage.

Solemnisation of any marriage in contravention of 12 Geo. 1, c. 3 (Ir.), s. 1<sup>1</sup>—Felony, punishment P, as to which see p. 863 (12 Geo. 1, c. 3 (Ir.), s. 1; Capital Punishment (Ir.) Act, 1842, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 28, s. 1 (see p. 861)). Solemnisation or registration of marriage, &c., in contravention of 7 & 8 Vict. c. 81, ss. 45, 46, 47—Felony, punishment P, as to which see p. 863 (Marriages (Ir.) Act, 1844,<sup>2</sup> 7 & 8 Vict. c. 81, ss. 45, 46, 47; Criminal Law (Ir.) Act, 1828, 9 Geo. 4, c. 54, s. 15). Solemnisation of marriage in contravention of the 26 & 27 Vict. c. 27, s. 7—Felony, punishment P, as to which see p. 863 (Marriage Law (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1863, 26 & 27 Vict. c. 27, s. 7; Criminal Law (Ir.) Act, 1828, 9 Geo. 4, c. 54, s. 15). Forging, &c., register of marriages—Felony, punishment L, as to which see p. 863 (Forgery Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 98, ss. 35, 51). Forging, &c., certificate of marriage—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 36, 51). Falsely making any declaration, &c., required by the 7 & 8 Vict. c. 81, or by the 26 & 27 Vict. c. 27, for the purpose of procuring any marriage—Misdemeanour, punishment LL or punishment P, as to which see pp. 863, 865 (Marriages (Ir.) Act, 1844, s. 44; Marriage Law (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1863,<sup>3</sup> s. 15). Falsely pretending to be, or to act on behalf of, a person having power to forbid the issue of a registrar's certificate pursuant to the Marriages (Ir.) Act, 1844—Misdemeanour, with like punishment (Marriages (Ir.) Act, 1844, s. 44). Supplying false particulars required by the Marriages (Ir.) Act, 1844, for insertion in register of marriages—Misdemeanour, with like punishment (ib., s. 73). Wilfully making or causing to be made for the purpose of insertion in any register of marriages any false statement touching the particulars required by the Registration of Marriages (Ir.) Act, 1863, to be known and registered—Misdemeanour, with like punishment (see pp. 863, 865) (Registration of Marriages (Ir.) Act, 1863, 26 & 27 Vict. c. 90, s. 22). Sections 35 and 36 of the Forgery Act, 1861, are by s. 23 of the Registration of Marriages (Ir.) Act, 1863, incorporated therewith.

<sup>1</sup> Part of this section is repealed by 3 & 4 Wm. 4, c. 102, s. 1, and other parts of it have been varied by 33 & 34 Vict. c. 110, ss. 38–40. Reference should be made to those Acts.

<sup>2</sup> As to summary jurisdiction under this Act, see p. 776.

This Act does not apply to marriages celebrated by a Roman Catholic priest. It is amended by the Marriage Law (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1863, 26 & 27 Vict. c. 27, and both Acts are amended by the Matrimonial Causes and Marriage Law (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1870, 33 & 34 Vict. c. 110.

<sup>3</sup> As to summary jurisdiction under ss. 11, 22, 24, 25, and 26 of this Act, see p. 777.

MEDICAL PRACTITIONERS.

Obtaining or attempting to obtain registration as a medical practitioner by false pretences, or aiding and abetting such obtaining or attempt—Misdemeanour, punishable with imprisonment not exceeding twelve months (Medical Act, 1858, 21 & 22 Vict. c. 90, s. 39).

As to registration, practising of unqualified persons, see CATALOGUE OF SUMMARY OFFENCES, MEDICAL PRACTITIONER, p. 615.

MENACES.

Sending, &c., letter threatening to murder—Felony, punishment I, as to which see p. 862 (Offences against the Person Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, ss. 16, 70, 71).

Sending, &c., letter threatening to burn house, building, ship, &c.—Felony, punishment I, as to which see p. 862 (Malicious Damage Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 97, ss. 50, 73, 75). See also EXTORTION, and WHITEBOY ACTS.

MERCHANDISE MARKS.

Offences under the Merchandise Marks Act, 1887, are punishable, at the option of the accused, either summarily or on indictment. The subject is treated at p. 616, ante. All indictable misdemeanours under the Act are subject to the Vexatious Indictments Act (Merchandise Marks Act, 1887, 50 & 51 Vict. c. 78, s. 13). Accessories are liable as principals (ib., s. 11).

MERCHANT SHIPPING.

The Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, 57 & 58 Vict. c. 60, consolidates the law as to merchant shipping, and is itself amended by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1906, 6 Edw. 7, c. 48, and by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1907, 7 Edw. 7, c. 48.

The three Acts occupy over three hundred pages of the statute book, and it is impossible, in the space here available, to deal with the various offences created by them. The following may, however, be noted.

All offences termed misdemeanours under the Acts for which no punishment is otherwise provided are punishable by imprisonment not exceeding two years with or without hard labour on indictment, but may be prosecuted summarily and punished on summary conviction by imprisonment not exceeding six months, or fine not exceeding £100 (Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, s. 680).

The following offences are misdemeanours punishable as above under s. 680 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894 :—

(a) Registration : Master or owner using for navigation a certificate improperly granted (Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, 57 & 58 Vict. c. 60, s. 16).

(b) Making, assisting in making, procuring false statement before registrar (ib., s. 67).

(c) Concealing, or being privy to concealing, the British character or assumed foreign character of a ship (ib., s. 70).

Discharging or leaving seamen abroad without proper sanction (Merchant Shipping Act, 1906, 6 Edw. 7, c. 48, ss. 30 and 36); forcing seamen ashore or abandoning them (ib., s. 43).

Misconduct of masters, seamen, or apprentices. Wilful breach or neglect of duty tending to immediate loss or damage to ship or endanger life or limb of persons belonging thereto, or refusal or omission to do any lawful act requisite for the preservation of the ship from total loss or any person from danger to life or limb (Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, 57 & 58 Vict. c. 60, s. 220).

Taking money for apprenticeship in sea-fishing service (ib., s. 398).<sup>1</sup>

Failure by master to assist vessel, &c., in case of a collision (ib., s. 422). Preventing service of documents under the Act (ib., s. 96 (2)).

The following misdemeanour, punishable under s. 680 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, is punishable only on indictment :—

Sending, attempting to send, &c., a British ship to sea in such unseaworthy state that the life of any person therein may be endangered, unless such person prove he took all reasonable means to secure the seaworthy state of such ship, or that her going to sea in unseaworthy state was otherwise unjustifiable, or master of a British ship knowingly taking her to sea in an unseaworthy condition (s. 457). It need not be alleged in respect of sending an unseaworthy ship to sea that the defendant knew of the vessel's condition (R. v. Freeman (1875), I.R. 9 C.L. 527). As to unseaworthiness, see The Diamond (1906), P. 282.<sup>2</sup>

The following is a felony punishable with T (see p. 864) :—

Taking wreck found on or near the coast of the United Kingdom, or any part of the cargo of a wrecked vessel, into a foreign port (ib., s. 535).

The following misdemeanour is punishable with imprisonment without hard labour and fine of £100, or is indictable as a common nuisance :—

Failing to comply with notice of lighthouse authority as to extinguishing false or misleading lights (s. 667 (3)).<sup>3</sup>

See also SHIPS.

OATHS, UNLAWFUL.

Administering, or causing to be administered, any unlawful oath—Felony, punishment C, as to which see p. 862 (27 Geo. 3. c. 15 (Ir.), s. 6). Taking any such oath—Felony, punishment P, as to which see p. 863 (ib.). Administering, &c., oath or engagement to belong to seditious society, or to disturb the peace, or to injure person or property, or to compel any person to do, &c., any act, or to obey order of unlawful authority, or not to give evidence against any person, &c., or as to taking of such oath, &c.—Felony, punishment C, as to which see p. 862 (Unlawful Oaths (Ir.) Act, 1810, 50 Geo. 3, c. 102, s. 1). Taking any such oath—Felony, punishment P, as to which see p. 863 (ib.). Persons compelled to administer or take such oath to be excused on giving full information to a justice, on oath within ten days, or if prevented by sickness or force from so doing then within seven days after such sickness or force shall cease (ib., s. 2). Proceedings to be commenced within six months of the offence (ib., s. 10).

Any person without legal authority administering an oath, whether such oath be harmless or not, is guilty of misdemeanour, punishable with LL. as to which see p. 865 (3 Co. Inst. 165; R. v. Eadon (1813), 31 St. Tr. 1064, 1069).

The Statutory Declarations Act, 1835, 5 & 6 Wm. 4, c. 62, s. 13, makes it unlawful for any justice of the peace or other person to administer or cause, or allow to be administered, or to receive or cause or allow to be received, any oath, affidavit, or solemn affirmation touching any matter or thing whereof such justice or other person hath not jurisdiction or cognisance by statute in force at the time being, and any person acting in contravention of this section commits a misdemeanour, punishable with LL, as to which see p. 865.

<sup>1</sup> Applies to fishing vessels of the tonnage of twenty-five tons and upwards.

<sup>2</sup> And see the Marine Insurance Gambling Policies Act, 1909, 9 Edw. 7, c. 12.

<sup>3</sup> The lighthouse authorities in Ireland are the Commissioners of Irish Lights (Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, 57 & 58 Vict. c. 60, s. 634).

See also SOCIETIES, UNLAWFUL; and WHITEBOY ACTS.

OFFENCES AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT.

High-treason consists in (1) compassing or imagining the death of the King, Queen, or heir-apparent; (2) levying war against the King in his realm; (3) adhering to the King's enemies; (4) killing the King's wife or son; (5) violating the King's companion or eldest daughter or the wife of the heir-apparent; (6) killing the Lord Chancellor, treasurer, or judges while in their places doing their office, &c. (25 Edw. 3, st. 5, c. 2). The punishment of treason is death. Every person who in the case of felony would be an accessory before or after the fact is in the case of high-treason a principal traitor. High-treason.

Treason felony consists in an intention to depose the Sovereign or levy war against the Sovereign, to compel the Sovereign to change measures or counsels, or to terrorise the Houses of Parliament, or to move any foreigner with force to invade the King's dominions, coupled with an expression of such intention by any publication or by open or advised speech or by overt act; punishment C, as to which see p. 862 (Treason Felony Act, 1848, 11 & 12 Vict. c. 12, s. 3). Treason felony.

Discharging, or attempting to discharge, or aiming or attempting so to do, firearms, or throwing any offensive matter, or striking or attempting to strike at with any weapon, with intent to break the public peace or to injure or alarm the King. Having near the person of the King any arm or explosive with intent to injure or alarm—High misdemeanour, punishment P, as to which see p. 863, and the prisoner may be whipped not more than three times whilst imprisoned<sup>1</sup> (Treason Act, 1842, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 51, s. 2). Assaults on person of the Sovereign.

Seditious conspiracy consists in agreeing with some other person (not being the wife or husband of the accused) to do any act for the furtherance of a common seditious purpose,<sup>2</sup> and is a misdemeanour at common law, punishable with LL, as to which see p. 865. Seditious conspiracy.

Endeavouring to seduce any of the King's seamen or soldiers from their duty—Felony, punishment C, as to which see p. 862, and if such punishment be imprisonment the court may order that the offender be kept in solitary confinement<sup>3</sup> (37 Geo. 3, c. 40 (Ir.). s. 1; Punishment of Offences Act, 1837, 7 Wm. 4, and 1 Vict. c. 91). Mutiny, inciting to.

OFFENCES AGAINST THE PERSON.

Homicide is the killing of one human being by another, and the law presumes every homicide to be murder till the contrary is proved. Manslaughter is unlawful homicide without malice aforethought (Stephen, Dig. of Cr. Law, p. 182)—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862, Man-slaughter.

<sup>1</sup> See, however, s. 2 of the Whipping Act, 1862, noted p. 866.

<sup>2</sup> See Stephen's Dig. Crim. Law, 6th ed., pp. 70, 71. For the meaning of the term seditious, see p. 910, n.<sup>3</sup>.

<sup>3</sup> Such order is, however, never made now. See p. 866.

and the offender may be fined in addition to or substitution for such punishment (Offences against the Person Act, 1861, ss. 5, 71).

Murder.

Murder is the unlawful killing by any person of sound memory and discretion of any person under the King's peace with malice aforethought either express or implied by law (Russell, 7th ed., 655)—Punishment, death (Offences against the Person Act, 1861, s. 1).

The precise distinction between murder and manslaughter is governed by a great volume of case law which it is unnecessary to set out, inasmuch as justices in any case of unlawful homicide will return the accused for trial. It may, however, be stated generally that manslaughter is either (1) unlawful homicide upon such provocation (which, however, can never be given by mere words), as would naturally lead to the act that caused death; or (2) where a person doing an unlawful act or a felony not likely to cause danger kills another unintentionally; or (3) where any person being under an obligation to perform any duty tending to preserve life, either negligently fails to perform, or negligently performs, such duty, and thereby, as the direct result of such negligence, causes the death of another person. Cases coming within this third class are R. v. Dalloway (1847), 2 Cox 273 (driver not holding reins of cart); R. v. Salmon (1880), 6 Q.B.D. 79 (firing a rifle in a thickly inhabited neighbourhood); R. v. Lowe (1850), 3 C. & K. 123 (leaving in charge of steam-engine working a lift in a mine a boy whom accused knew to be incompetent); R. v. Haines (1847), 2 C. & K. 368 (neglecting to ventilate mine); R. v. Dant (1865), Le. & Ca. 567 (turning out dangerous animal where people were likely to be); R. v. Stevenson (1861), 3 F. & F. 106 (selling diseased meat); R. v. Curtis (1885), 15 Cox 746 (relieving officer failing to relieve destitute person). As to treating diseases, compounding medicines, and performing operations, the medical man or other person acting as such must have acted either with the grossest ignorance or the most criminal carelessness in order to substantiate the charge of manslaughter (R. v. Williamson (1807), 3 C. & P. 635).

It has been held that frightening a person to death by threatened assault is manslaughter (R. v. Hayward (1908), 21 Cox 692).

No person can be convicted of murder or manslaughter unless the person in respect of whose death the charge is made died within a year and a day after the stroke received or cause of death administered, in the computation of which time the whole day upon which the hurt was done is to be reckoned the first (R. v. Dyson (1908), 2 K.B. 454).

Murder or manslaughter committed by a British subject on land in any place whatever outside the United Kingdom is triable in any county, &c., in Ireland where the accused may be apprehended or in custody (24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, s. 9). Murder or manslaughter (as well as any other offence) committed on any British ship that is on the high seas is deemed to have been committed on British territory, and is triable at any place within the King's dominions where the offender is found (57 & 58 Vict. c. 60, s. 686). If any injury, &c., be inflicted at any place outside England or Ireland and death ensues in Ireland, or vice versa, then the person inflicting the injury, &c., is triable in any county, &c., in Ireland where either the injury was inflicted or the death occurred<sup>1</sup> (24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, s. 10).

Being accessory after the fact to murder—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 67, 71).

<sup>1</sup> This section notwithstanding, a foreign subject who stabbed in any place outside the King's dominions other than a British ship on the high seas, a man who within a year and a day died at any place within the King's dominions, could not by any means be tried and punished in this country (see R. v. Keyn (1876), 2 Ex.D. 63).

Conspiracy to murder—Misdemeanour, punishment J, as to which see p. 863 (Offences against the Person Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, ss. 4, 71). Attempt to murder<sup>1</sup>—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 11, 14, 15, 70). As to s. 12, see EXPLOSIONS, and as to s. 13, see SHIPS. As to s. 16, see MENACES. As to s. 17, see SHIPS. Unlawful wounding with intent to maim, or do grievous bodily harm, resist arrest, &c.<sup>2</sup>—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 18, 71). Unlawfully wounding, &c., with whatever intent<sup>3</sup>—Misdemeanour, punishment S, as to which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 20, 71). Attempts to choke, &c., with intent to commit indictable offence—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 21, 71), and the offender may also be whipped in accordance with the Garrotters Act, 1863, 26 & 27 Vict. c. 44, to which reference should be made. Administering drugs with like intent<sup>4</sup>—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 22, 71). Administering poison or other destructive or noxious thing so as to endanger life—Felony, punishment H, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 23, 71). Maliciously administering poison, &c., with intent to injure, aggrieve, or annoy—Misdemeanour, punishment S, as to which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 24, 71). Ill-treating apprentices, so as to endanger life or health—Misdemeanour, like punishment (ib., ss. 26, 71). As to s. 27, see CHILDREN. Setting, or permitting to be set, spring-guns, &c., with intent to inflict grievous bodily harm (but not to extend to traps for vermin, or man-traps at night in a dwelling-house for protection thereof)—Misdemeanour, punishment S, as to which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 31, 71). Maliciously doing any act with intent to endanger railway passengers—Felony, punishment B, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 32, 70, 71). Maliciously casting stones, &c., on railway train with intent to endanger safety of passengers—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 33, 70). By unlawful act or negligence endangering any railway passenger—Misdemeanour, punishment Y, as to which see p. 864 (ib., ss. 34, 71). By furious, negligent, &c., driving of vehicle causing bodily harm, like penalty (ib., ss. 35, 71).

Conspiracy to murder.
Attempt to murder.
Other offences against the person.

See also ASSAULT, CHILDREN, OFFENCES AS TO, EXPLOSIONS, and SHIPS.

OFFICIAL SECRETS, DISCLOSURE OF.

For the purpose of wrongfully obtaining information, entering fortress, &c., or when in such fortress, &c., wrongfully obtaining document, sketch, &c., or when outside such fortress, &c., wrongfully taking sketch or plan of such fortress, &c.; or, being in possession of any document, sketch, &c., obtained in contravention of the Act, wrongfully communicating the same, or having been entrusted with any document, sketch, &c., wrongfully communicating the same—Misdemeanour, punishment DD, as to which see p. 865, or fine, or both (Official Secrets Act, 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 52, s. 1 (1)). Any person having possession of document, Disclosure, &c., of information.

<sup>1</sup> Where a man put cyanide of potassium in a glass with intent that his mother should drink it, and where she did not drink it, but died from heart failure caused by finding the poison in the glass, it was held that the prisoner was rightly convicted under s. 14 of this Act, and rightly sentenced to punishment A (R. v. White (1910), 2 K.B. 124).

<sup>2</sup> If there be any intent to wound, &c., any person whatever, the question as to what particular person is wounded, &c., is immaterial (R. v. Fretwell (1864), Le. & Ca. 443), which was a case of firing into a crowd.

<sup>3</sup> If any person unlawfully and maliciously does any act as the direct result of which another is injured, he may be convicted under this section of causing grievous bodily harm. See R. v. Martin (1881), 8 Q.B.D. 54; R. v. Latimer, 17 Q.B.D. 359; R. v. Fretwell, supra; R. v. Chapin (1910), 74 J.P. 71.

<sup>4</sup> See also FEMALES, OFFENCES AGAINST AND RELATING TO, for a somewhat similar offence.

sketch, &c., relating to any fortress, &c., or military or naval affairs of the King, wilfully communicating same to person to whom the same ought not to be communicated—Misdemeanour, like penalty (ib., s. 1 (2)), and the offence is felony punishable with C (see p. 862) if offender communicate or intend to communicate to a foreign state (ib., s. 1 (3)).

Breach of official trust. Breach to a foreign state of official trust—Felony, punishment C, as to which see p. 862 (ib., s. 2). Breach otherwise than to a foreign state of official trust—Misdemeanour, punishment DD, as to which see p. 865, or fine, or both (ib., s. 2). Inciting to such offences.—Misdemeanour, same punishment as committing such offence (ib., s. 3).

PARTNERSHIPS, LIMITED.

Every person making, signing, sending or delivering for purpose of registration under the Limited Partnership Act, 1907, any false statement known by him to be false—Misdemeanour, punishable with imprisonment not exceeding two years with hard labour<sup>1</sup> (Limited Partnership Act, 7 Edw. 7, c. 24, s. 12).

PERJURY AND SIMILAR OFFENCES.<sup>1</sup>

Perjury.

Perjury is the making on oath or affirmation, before a competent court or authority in the course<sup>2</sup> of a judicial proceeding,<sup>3</sup> of any assertion, material<sup>4</sup> to the matter in question in such proceeding, which to the knowledge of such person is false, or which, whether true or false, he does not believe to be true, or as to which he knows himself to be ignorant (1 Hawk, c. 27, s. 1; Stephen, Dig. Cr. Law, 6th ed., 106). Subornation of perjury is the procuring of another to take any oath or affirmation that is perjury or punishable as perjury (1 Hawk, c. 27, s. 10; Stephen, Dig. Cr. Law, 6th ed., 106; 2 Chit., Cr. L., 317). Both perjury and subornation of perjury are common law misdemeanours, punishable with LL, as to which see p. 865, and both offences are also under 3 Geo. 2, c. 4, s. 2, punishable alternatively with P, as to which see p. 863. Any person swearing falsely on any affidavit taken before any commissioner for oaths appointed pursuant to the Commissioners for Oaths (Ir.) Act, 1872, is guilty of perjury and may be indicted and tried for perjury as if such affidavit had been sworn in the county of the city of Dublin (Commissioners for Oaths (Ir.) Act, 1872, 35 & 36 Vict. c. 75, s. 5). Any person upon examination or in any affidavit in proceedings under the Common Law Procedure Amendment (Ir.) Act, 1856, wilfully and corruptly asserting anything that is false is punishable as for perjury (Common Law Procedure Amendment (Ir.) Act, 1856, 19 & 20 Vict. c. 102, s. 92). Any person wilfully and corruptly giving false evidence before a naval court-martial is guilty of

Subornation of perjury.

False oaths made perjuries by statute :—

- (1) In affidavits before commissioner;
- (2) Before arbitrator;
- (3) Before naval court-martial;

<sup>1</sup> The offences of perjury and subornation of perjury are subject to the Vexatious Indictments Act, 1859, 22 & 23 Vict. c. 17, and any Act amending the same. See the Act in the APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

<sup>2</sup> False swearing in an affidavit made in view of, and for the purpose of, an action in respect of which the writ has not yet been issued is perjury (King v. R. (1849), 14 Q.B. 31).

<sup>3</sup> Proceedings in an arbitration before a county court judge under the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1906, are judicial proceedings (R. v. Crossley (1909), 1 K.B. 411); evidence taken before a grand jury is taken in a judicial proceeding (R. v. Hughes (1844), 1 Car. & Kir. 519).

<sup>4</sup> Answers to questions affecting only the credibility of the witness, or of any other witness, are material (R. v. Gibbon (1862), Le. & Ca. 109; R. v. Baker (1895), 1 Q.B. 797).

perjury (Navy Discipline Act, 29 & 30 Vict. c. 109, s. 67). Any person not subject to military law wilfully and corruptly giving false evidence before a military court-martial is punishable as for perjury (Army Act, 1881, 44 & 45 Vict. c. 58, s. 126 (2)). Making a false affidavit for the purposes of the Bills of Sale (Ir.) Act, 1878, is perjury (Bills of Sale (Ir.) Act, 1879, 42 & 43 Vict. c. 50, s. 17). Any person upon examination or in any affidavit, &c., in proceedings in bankruptcy wilfully and corruptly asserting anything that is false is guilty of perjury (Bankruptcy (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1872, 35 & 36 Vict. c. 58, s. 123). "If any person on examination on oath authorised under this Act, or in any affidavit or deposition in or about the winding up of any company or otherwise in or about any matter arising under this Act, wilfully and corruptly gives false evidence, he shall be liable to the penalties of wilful perjury" (Companies Consolidation Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 69, s. 218).

To sustain a charge of perjury there must be either (1) two witnesses who prove the falsity of the statement alleged to be false<sup>1</sup> (R. v. Yates (1841), Car. & M. 132; R. v. Parker (1842), Car. & M. 639), or (2) one witness whose evidence to the like effect is corroborated by independent proof of some other material fact. (See R. v. Boulter (1852), 3 C. & K. 236; R. v. Braithwaite (1859), 8 Cox 254, both of which cases show that there must be some real corroboration).<sup>2</sup> A justice may (under the 14 & 15 Vict. c. 100, s. 19) commit for trial to the next assizes any person appearing to such justice to have committed perjury before him. See the section. Kennedy, J., according to a reported case in 64 J.P. 370, told the Grand Jury at Dorchester Summer Assizes, 1900, that this procedure was practically obsolete. It has, however, never been so regarded in Ireland.

Wilfully making a false statutory declaration—Misdemeanour, punishment LL, as to which see p. 865 (Statutory Declaration Act, 1835, 5 & 6 Wm. 4, c. 62, s. 21). The taking of a false oath, before any one who has authority to administer an oath, but not in the course of a judicial proceeding, is a misdemeanour at common law, punishment LL, as to which see p. 865, if such oath be taken with an illegal object and in a matter in which the public are interested (R. v. Chapman (1849), 1 Den. 432, where the object was to obtain a marriage licence). The taking of a false oath before an arbitrator under the Railways (Ir.) Act, 1851, 14 & 15 Vict. c. 70 (s. 6 whereof gives the arbitrator authority to swear witnesses), or under article 30 of the second schedule to the Housing of the Working Classes Act, 1890, 53 & 54 Vict. c. 70 (which by the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1896, 59 & 60 Vict. c. 54, s. 8, is extended to the taking of lands compulsorily under the Public Health (Ir.) Acts, 1878 to 1890, and is by the Public Health (Ir.) Act, 1896, s. 8 (2), and the Local Government (Ir.) Act, 1898, 61 & 62 Vict. c. 37, s. 10 (1) (2), extended to the taking of lands compulsorily under the Local Government (Ir.) Act, 1898), is certainly such misdemeanour, such arbitrator having power under the Evidence Act, 1851, 14 & 15 Vict. c. 99, s. 16, to administer oaths, although it is doubtful whether such false oath is perjury (see R. v. Crossly (1909), 1 K.B. 411).

(4) Before military court-martial;
(5) In affidavit for filing bill of sale;
(6) In bankruptcy proceedings;
(7) In proceedings under the Companies Consolidation Act, 1908.

Misdemeanour cognate to perjury:

(1) In statutory declarations;
(2) In non-judicial proceedings.

Including arbitrations other than those under the Common Law Procedure Amendment (Ir.) Act, 1856.

<sup>1</sup> False evidence given by a person who is not a competent witness is not perjury (R. v. Clegg (1868), 19 L.T. 47; R. v. Sullivan (1874), I.R. 8 C.L. 404).

<sup>2</sup> R. v. Webster (1859), 1 F. & F. 515, where one witness was held to have corroborated himself by a memorandum that he himself had made, is not likely to be followed. Knill v. Knill (1822), 5 B. & Ald. 929 (n.) (where it was held that proof that the accused had on a former occasion made a statement upon oath contradictory of the statement in respect of which he was indicted was sufficient by itself to prove the charge) is also an authority unlikely to be followed, as appears from the remarks of Pollock, C.B., in R. v. Hook (1858), Dears & B. 606, at p. 614.

PERSONATION.<sup>1</sup>

Personation generally.

Personation of another, if amounting to a cheat (as to which see p. 880), is a misdemeanour at common law, punishable with LL, as to which see p. 865 (2 East P.C. 1010; Chit., Cr. L., 1081).

Personation of owner of shares, &c.

Personation of owner of various kinds of stocks, funds, and shares, share certificates, share coupons, &c., with intent to receive money, &c., due to such owner—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (Forgery Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 98, ss. 3, 51; Forgery Act, 1870, 33 & 34 Vict. c. 58, ss. 2, 4). Personation of owner of any share or interest in any company established under the Companies Consolidation Act, 1908, or of any share, warrant, or coupon issued under that Act—Felony, punishment C, as to which see p. 862 (Companies Consolidation Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 69, s. 38 (1)). Personation with intent to obtain land or any other property—Felony, punishment C, as to which see p. 862 (False Personation Act, 1874,<sup>2</sup> 37 & 38 Vict. c. 36, s. 1). Personation with intent to obtain army pay, pension, prize-money, &c.—Felony, punishment C, as to which see p. 862 (Chelsea and Kilmainham Hospitals Act, 1826, 7 Geo. 4, c. 16, s. 38; Army Prize Money Act, 1832, 2 & 3 Wm. 4, c. 53, s. 49).

Personation with intent to obtain land, &c.

Personation with intent to obtain army pay, &c.

Personating bail.

Personation for the purpose of entering into recognisances—Felony, punishment L, as to which see p. 863 (Forgery Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 98, s. 34).

Personation with intent to obtain naval pay, &c.

Personation with intent to obtain naval pay, pension, &c.—Misdemeanour, punishment T, as to which see p. 864 (Admiralty Powers, &c., Act, 1865, 28 & 29 Vict. c. 124, s. 8).<sup>3</sup>

As to personation at elections, see ELECTIONS.

PIRACY.

Piracy jure gentium.

Piracy by the law of nations may be defined shortly as the unlawful taking on the high seas of a ship or anything belonging to, or in it, in a way that would amount to robbery if done in a harbour within the United Kingdom, and is a felony, punishable with C, as to which see p. 862 (Stephen, Dig. Crim. Law, 6th ed., p. 78; Piracy Act, 1837, 7 Wm. 4, and 1 Vict. c. 88, s. 3).

Piracy jure gentium "is only a sea-term for robbery, piracy being robbery within the jurisdiction of the Admiralty" (R. v. Dawson (1696), 13 State Tr. 454).

Piracy by statute.

Many offences as well as that above specified are now piracies under various Acts, which in view of their number and the exigencies of space are not here set forth. In all of these cases the punishment is C, except unless, perhaps, in case an assault with intent to murder or wounding, &c., so as to endanger life, forms part of the act charged as piracy, as to which case it is provided by the Piracy Act, 1837, 7 Wm. 4, and 1 Vict.

<sup>1</sup> For summary jurisdiction in case of—

Personation of factory inspector, see the Factory Act, 1901, 1 Edw. 7, c. 22, s. 139, in APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

Personation of soldier in order to get billet (44 & 45 Vict. c. 58, s. 121), see ARMY, p. 376.

Personation of soldier to get pay, &c. (44 & 45 Vict. c. 58, s. 142 (3), see ARMY, p. 376.

Personation of constable, see p. 676.

<sup>2</sup> Not triable at quarter sessions (ib., s. 2). As to summary jurisdiction under this section and the Army Act, 1881, s. 142 (3), where the offence is committed with intent to obtain military pay, &c., from the military authorities, see p. 376.

<sup>3</sup> The offence is also punishable on summary conviction before one justice with imprisonment not exceeding six months with or without hard labour (ib.).

c. 88, s. 2, that the offence is punishable with death. It is certainly so punishable in England, but by the Capital Punishment (Ir.) Act, 1842, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 28, s. 16, it is provided that "Whosoever shall be convicted of any offence which by any Act or Acts in force in Ireland amounts to the crime of piracy, and is thereby made punishable with death, shall not suffer death or have sentence of death awarded against him," and it is submitted these words impliedly repeal s. 2 of the Piracy Act, 1837, so far as Ireland is concerned, although they were probably aimed at the 11, 12, and 13 Ja. 1, c. 2 (Ir.).

Where the offence charged is piracy by the law of nations the King's courts have jurisdiction over the offence wherever committed, and whether by a subject or member of a nation at peace with the Sovereign (1 Hawk, c. 20, s. 1). In the case of piracy by statute the offence is punishable by a British court only when committed by a British subject or within the King's dominions or the Admiralty jurisdiction (Halsbury, vol. ix. p. 524, note m).

PLATE.

Changing, altering, or defacing names, numbers, &c., on watches, or crests, &c., thereon, or names, cyphers, crests, &c., on gold or silver plate, without the consent in writing of the owner or of some person authorised to sell, unless such watches or plate have been bought at public auction—Misdemeanour, punishable, as receiving stolen goods, with LL, as to which see p. 865 (28 Geo. 3, c. 49 (Ir.), s. 7).

POACHING BY NIGHT.<sup>1</sup>

Unlawfully taking game or rabbits by night (after two previous convictions for the like offence)—Misdemeanour, punishment P, as to which see p. 863 (Night Poaching Act, 1828, 9 Geo. 4, c. 69, s. 1). Assaulting, &c., with offensive weapon persons lawfully arresting persons unlawfully taking game or rabbits by night—Misdemeanour, punishment P, as to which see p. 863 (ib., s. 2). Three or more armed by night unlawfully entering on lands for purpose of unlawfully taking game or rabbits—Misdemeanour, punishment G, as to which see p. 862; not triable at quarter sessions (ib., s. 9). All prosecutions under this Act must be commenced within one year after the commission of the offence (ib., s. 4).

Night under this Act is to be considered as commencing at the expiration of one hour after sunset, and concluding at the beginning of the last hour before sunrise (ib., s. 12). This would seem to mean the actual time of sunset and sunrise at the place where the offence is committed. See p. 484.

POLICE, REFUSAL TO ASSIST.

Refusing to assist a constable or other peace officer is a misdemeanour at common law, punishable with LL, as to which see p. 865 (R. v. Sherlock (1866), L.R. 1 C.C.R. 20; R. v. Brown (1841), 1 C. & M. 314). In order to support the charge it must be proved (1) that a breach of the peace occurred or was threatened in the presence of the constable; (2) that there was a reasonable necessity for his calling other persons to his assistance; (3) that he called on the accused; (4) that the accused did not assist; (5) and that the accused was physically able to obey and had no lawful excuse for failing to obey (R. v. Brown, supra). The fact that the assistance would have been useless is immaterial (R. v. Brown, and R. v.

<sup>1</sup> For summary jurisdiction, see GAME, p. 484.

Sherlock, supra). Private persons are under no legal duty to afford physical assistance to a constable in effecting arrest, except in the case of an actual or threatened breach of the peace in the presence of the constable, in either of which cases, the assistance which the constable is entitled to demand includes assistance to arrest (2 Hawk, c. 63, s. 14). But as to the right of private persons to arrest for felony, see p. 147.

POST OFFICE, OFFENCES RELATING TO.<sup>1</sup>

Stealing mail-bags, or stealing from mail-bag or post office or officer of Post Office or mail, any postal packet<sup>2</sup> in course of transmission by post, or stealing any chattel, money, or valuable security from such packet, or stopping mail with intent to rob or search—Felony, punishment C, as to which see p. 862 (Post Office Act, 1908, 8 Edw. 7, c. 48, s. 50). Unlawfully taking away or opening mail-bag sent by mail vessel employed by post office—Felony, punishment G, as to which see p. 862 (ib., s. 51). Receiving mail-bag, postal packet, &c., stolen, &c., in such way as to be a felony under the Act, is a felony punishable in the same way as such stealing, &c. (ib., s. 52).<sup>3</sup> Fraudulently or wilfully retaining or secreting, keeping or detaining, neglecting or refusing, when required by an officer of the Post Office, to deliver (a) any postal packet in course of transmission by post, and which ought to have been delivered to some other person, or (b) any such postal packet found by the offender or other person—Misdemeanour, punishment, fine and imprisonment with or without hard labour (ib., s. 53). Any one not a postal official wilfully and maliciously with intent to injure, opening letter which ought to be delivered or otherwise diverting due delivery of letters from addressee—Misdemeanour, punishable with HH, as to which see p. 865, or fine not exceeding £50<sup>4</sup> (ib., s. 54). Officer of the Post Office destroying, secreting, or embezzling postal packet—Felony, punishment P (see p. 863), or if such packet contains any chattel, money, or valuable security, C (see p. 862) (ib., s. 55). Officer of the Post Office unlawfully opening or procuring to be opened, or wilfully delaying or causing to be delayed, postal packet—Misdemeanour, punishment JJ, as to which see p. 865 (ib., s. 56). Officer of Post Office issuing money-order with fraudulent intent—Felony, punishment P, as to which see p. 863 (ib., s. 58).<sup>5</sup> The forging or stealing of a money-order is to be deemed to be the forging or stealing of an order for the payment of money and of a valuable security within the meaning of this Act, the Forgery Act, 1861, and the Larceny Act, 1861 (s. 59 (1)).

Any person fraudulently altering crossing of money-order, or uttering money-order so altered—Felony, punishable with A, as to which see p. 862, as if the order were a cheque<sup>6</sup> (ib., s. 59 (2)). Application to postal orders of penal enactments regarding stamp duties (ib., s. 60). Placing injurious substance, &c., in or against post office letter-box or sending by post explosive, inflammable, or deleterious substance or indecent prints, words, &c.—Misdemeanour, punishment DD, as to which see p. 865 (ib., ss. 61,

<sup>1</sup> For summary jurisdiction under the Post Office Act, 1908, see p. 678.

<sup>2</sup> Throughout this Act the expression "postal packet" includes a telegram (s. 89).

<sup>3</sup> The offender may be indicted whether the principal offender has been tried or indicted or not, or is or is not amenable to justice (ib.).

<sup>4</sup> The section does not apply to parents or persons in loco parentis. No prosecution under this section to be instituted without direction or consent of the Postmaster-General (ib.).

<sup>5</sup> Reissuing a money-order previously paid is issuing with fraudulent intent within this section (ib., sub-s. 2).

<sup>6</sup> As to this, see ss. 25, 51, of the Forgery Act, 1861.

63). Endeavouring to procure commission of any offence that is indictable under this Act—Misdemeanour, punishment AA, as to which see p. 864 (ib., s. 69).

For the only indictable offence relating solely to wireless telegraphy, see p. 797. Wireless telegraphy.

PRINCIPAL.

See CRIMES (ACCESSORIES AND PRINCIPALS).

PRISON BREACH.

Any person is guilty of this offence who, whilst in lawful custody for any cause, whether criminal or civil, and if for a criminal cause whether before or after conviction, whether he be in prison or not, escapes from such custody by the use of any force (2 Hawk, c. 18, s. 21 (4); R. v. Haswell (1821), Russ. & Ry. 458). The offence of prison breaking by a person lawfully in custody for treason or felony is a felony—Misdemeanour, punishment P, as to which see p. 863 (9 Geo. 4, c. 54, s. 15). Prison breach by a person lawfully in custody otherwise than for felony—Misdemeanour, punishment JJ, as to which see p. 865 (2 Hawk, c. 18, ss. 1, 8, 15, 16; Criminal Procedure Act, 1851, 14 & 15 Vict. c. 100, s. 29).

See also ESCAPE and RESCUE.

PUBLIC BODIES (CORRUPT PRACTICES) ACT, 1889, 52 & 53 Vict. c. 69.

See BRIBERY AND CORRUPTION.

PUBLIC OFFICERS, OFFENCES BY AND RELATING TO.

The offence of extortion by a public officer who under colour of his office takes any valuable thing that is not at the time of such taking due to him, is a common law misdemeanour,<sup>1</sup> punishable with LL, as to which see p. 865. Extortion by bailiff or assistant bailiff acting under civil bill decree, or under colour of process of county court—Misdemeanour, punishment DD, as to which see p. 865, or fine, or both (Civil Bill Courts Procedure Amendment Act (Ir.), 1864, 27 & 28 Vict. c. 99, s. 18). Extortion.

For extortion by bankruptcy officer, see BANKRUPTCY.

The common law misdemeanour of oppression is committed by any public officer who under colour of his office and from an improper motive inflicts any bodily harm, imprisonment, or any injury<sup>2</sup>—Punishment LL, as to which see p. 865. Oppression.

Any public officer committing any fraud or breach of trust<sup>3</sup> in a matter

<sup>1</sup> Co. Litt. 368 b; Dive v. Manningham (1550), 1 Plowd. 60, at p. 68. A mere taking in mistake does not constitute the offence (see Lee v. Dangar, Grant, & Co. (1892), 2 Q.B. 337; Shoppee v. Nathan & Co. (1892), 1 Q.B. 245; Woolfords Est. v. Levy (1892), 1 Q.B. 772).

<sup>2</sup> Stephen, Dig. Crim. Law, 6th ed., p. 88; Bac. Abr. tit. Offices and Officers N. A mere mistake on the part of the officer is not sufficient (R. v. Badger (1843), 4 Q.B. 468).

Where justices of the peace refused licences to publicans because the publicans refused to vote as the justices wished, the offence was held to have been committed (R. v. Williams (1762), 3 Burr. 1317).

<sup>3</sup> As when a public officer makes a contract for the supply of stores for the public service on condition that the contractor is to divide the profits with him (R. v. Jones (1809), 31 St. Tr. 251).

Breach of trust or fraud by public officer. affecting the public is guilty of a common law misdemeanour, punishable with LL, as to which see p. 865.

Selling offices under the Crown. Selling or buying, &c., any office under the Crown, or receiving or paying any reward in connection with the obtaining of such office—Misdemeanour, punishment LL, as to which see p. 865 (Sale of Offices Act, 1809, 49 Geo. 3, c. 126, s. 3). Making interest for offices for reward—Misdemeanour, like punishment (ib., s. 4). Trafficking in commissions in the army—Misdemeanour, punishable with fine not exceeding £100, or imprisonment not exceeding six months with hard labour (Army Act, 1881, 44 & 45 Vict. c. 58, s. 155).

Refusal to perform duty. Public officer wilfully refusing to perform any duty imposed on him by law,<sup>1</sup> where the danger attending the performance of such duty is not calculated to deter a man of average firmness—Misdemeanour at common law, punishable with LL, as to which see p. 865.

Refusing to serve in public office after due notice of appointment is a misdemeanour at common law, punishable with LL,<sup>2</sup> as to which see p. 865.

Bribes, taking or offering. Judge, magistrate, or other judicial officer taking any bribe offered to influence him in the discharge of his duty,<sup>3</sup> or any person offering such bribe to such judge, &c., common law misdemeanour, punishable with LL, as to which see p. 865. Attempting to induce any public officer other than a judicial officer to do, or omit to do, any act, which act or omission is to the knowledge of the person making such attempt in violation of the duty of such officer, common law misdemeanour,<sup>4</sup> punishable with LL, as to which see p. 865.

Illegal billeting. Billeting in contravention of the Army Act, 1881—Misdemeanour, punishable LL, as to which see p. 865 (Army Act,<sup>5</sup> 1881, 44 & 45 Vict. c. 58, s. 111).

As to offences by post office officials, see POST OFFICE.

As to bribery of member or servant of any public body, see BRIBERY AND CORRUPTION.

PUBLIC STORES.

Unauthorised application of marks used to distinguish property of His Majesty<sup>6</sup>—Misdemeanour, punishment Y, as to which see p. 864 (Public Stores Act, 1875, 38 & 39 Vict. c. 25, ss. 4, 12). Obliteration of such marks with intent to conceal His Majesty's property in the objects bearing them<sup>6</sup>—Felony, punishment L, as to which see p. 863 (ss. 5, 12).

PUBLIC WORSHIP.

Obstructing burial service held under 31 & 32 Vict. c. 103—Misdemeanour, punishment LL, as to which see p. 865 (Burial (Ir.) Act, 1868, 31 & 32 Vict. c. 103, s. 1). Assaulting or obstructing clergyman in execution of his duty, see ASSAULT. For summary jurisdiction (under 23 & 24 Vict. c. 32) as to disturbing public worship, see DISTURBANCE IN CHURCHES, p. 418.

<sup>1</sup> As where a constable wilfully refuses to arrest for a felony committed in his view (5 Hawk 129), or a justice refrains from reading the Riot Act when it is his duty to read it (R. v. Kennett (1781), 5 C. & P. 282, n.).

<sup>2</sup> Russell, 7th ed., p. 617.

<sup>3</sup> 1 Hawk, c. 67; Stephen, Dig. Cr. Law, 6th ed., p. 97.

<sup>4</sup> Stephen, Dig. Cr. Law, 6th ed., p. 97.

<sup>5</sup> As to summary jurisdiction under this Act, see p. 374.

<sup>6</sup> Section 12 of the Act does not give justices summary jurisdiction as to this offence. As to summary jurisdiction regarding other offences under the Act, see p. 606.

RAILWAYS, OFFENCES RELATING TO.<sup>1</sup>

See MALICIOUS INJURIES TO PROPERTY and OFFENCES AGAINST THE PERSON. Misconduct of railway servants (triable summarily under the 3 & 4 Vict. c. 97, s. 13, but indictable if the justices wish to send the accused to quarter sessions for trial)<sup>2</sup>—Misdemeanour, punishment AA, as to which see p. 864 (Railways Regulation Act, 1840, 3 & 4 Vict. c. 97, s. 14).

RECEIVING STOLEN GOODS.<sup>3</sup>

Receiving stolen goods knowing them to be such—Misdemeanour at common law, punishable with LL, as to which see p. 865 (1 Hale 620). Receiving any chattel, &c., the stealing, &c., whereof amounts to felony either at common law or under the Larceny Act, 1861,<sup>4</sup> 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, knowing the same to have been feloniously stolen, &c.<sup>5</sup>—Felony, punishment F, as to which see p. 862 (Larceny Act, 1861, ss. 91, 117, 119). Receiving or possessing without lawful excuse any chattel, &c., the stealing whereof is made a felony by the Larceny Act, 1896<sup>6</sup>—Punishment L, as to which see p. 863 (Larceny Act, 1896, 59 & 60 Vict. c. 52, s. 1 (1 and 4); see R. v. Graham (1901), 65 J.P. 248). Receiving any chattel, &c., the obtaining, &c., whereof is a misdemeanour under the Larceny Act, 1861, knowing the same to have been unlawfully obtained, &c.—Misdemeanour, punishment O, as to which see p. 863 (Larceny Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, ss. 95, 117, 119). Receiving or possessing without lawful excuse any chattel, &c., the stealing whereof is made a

<sup>1</sup> For summary jurisdiction, see p. 768.

<sup>2</sup> This Act is applied to tramways in Ireland (subject to certain modifications) by the 23 & 24 Vict. c. 152, s. 46.

<sup>3</sup> For summary jurisdiction of justices in cases of receiving stolen goods, see p. 586. And as to the power under the 5 Vict. c. 24, s. 53, of convicting summarily within the police district of Dublin metropolis, persons failing satisfactorily to account for the possession of goods suspected to have been stolen, see that statute, APPENDIX OF STATUTES.

<sup>4</sup> Larceny by one partner or joint-owner from another is an offence created by the Larceny Act, 1868, 31 & 32 Vict. c. 116, s. 1. Consequently no charge of feloniously receiving goods so stolen can be sustained (R. v. Smith (1870), L.R. 1 C.C.R. 266). It is, however, submitted that in such case the accused may be convicted of the common law misdemeanour of receiving stolen goods knowing them to be such. It was held in R. v. Payne (1906), 1 K.B. 97, that a person may be convicted of the common law misdemeanour of receiving stolen goods with respect to goods stolen by a wife from her husband (such stealing being a felony under the Married Woman's Property Act, 1882, s. 16, in the circumstances set forth in that section), although in R. v. Streeter (1900), 2 Q.B. 601, it was held that the person so receiving could not be convicted under the Larceny Act, 1861, of feloniously receiving. It is also submitted that a person may be convicted of the common law misdemeanour in respect of receiving goods stolen by a husband from his wife (see s. 12 of the Married Woman's Property Act, 1882), for the reasons upon which R. v. Payne, supra, was decided clearly apply to this case also. A person charged with receiving under the Larceny Act, 1861, may be tried wherever in the United Kingdom he either receives or has in his possession the stolen property (24 & 25 Vict. c. 96, s. 114).

<sup>5</sup> A person may under this section be charged either as an accessory after the fact to the felony committed by the thief, &c., or with the substantive felony of receiving the stolen &c., chattel, &c., well knowing when he received the same that it has been feloniously stolen, &c. (ib.).

<sup>6</sup> This Act relates to property stolen, &c., in a place outside the United Kingdom. A person charged under it may be tried anywhere in Ireland where he has or has had the goods in respect of which he is charged (s. 1 (1)). The offence is felony or misdemeanour, according as the act committed outside the United Kingdom would have been a felony or misdemeanour if committed in Ireland (ib., s. 1 (3)).

misdemeanour by the Larceny Act, 1896—Felony, punishment L, as to which see p. 863 (Larceny Act, 1896, 59 & 60 Vict. c. 52, s. 1 (1 and 4)).

As to receiving goods stolen from the Post Office, see POST OFFICE, OFFENCES RELATING TO.

It is unnecessary to prove that the accused actually knew the goods to have been stolen, &c., it being sufficient to show by satisfactory evidence that he believed the goods to have been stolen, &c. (R. v. White (1859), 1 F. & F. 655). As to the facts which, in the circumstances set forth in s. 19 of the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871, are to be regarded as evidence of guilty knowledge by a receiver, see p. 268. Receiving cannot take place unless the goods have reached the actual or constructive possession of the accused. It is unnecessary to prove physical possession of the goods by the accused, it being sufficient to prove that they were under his control (R. v. Smith (1855), Dears C.C. 494; R. v. Hobson (1854), Dears C.C. 400; R. v. Miller (1853), 6 Cox 353), as, for instance, in the hands of his innocent agent or bailee, &c. (R. v. Cryer (1857), Dears & B. 324; R. v. Rogers (1868), L.R. 1 C.C.R. 136). On the trial of the prisoner for receiving goods knowing the same to be stolen it was proved that he had pawned the goods with a pawnbroker on the day preceding his arrest. Held, the goods were "found in his possession" within the meaning of s. 19 of the Prevention of Crimes Act, 1871 (R. v. Rowland (1910), 1 K.B. 458; R. v. Drage (1878), 14 Cox 85, and R. v. Carter (1884), 12 Q.B.D. 522, not followed). Mere knowledge of where the goods are is not constructive possession (R. v. Orris (1908), 1 Cr. App. Rep. 199, 73 J.P. 15). A husband can be convicted of receiving from his wife (R. v. Macathey (1862), Le. & Ca. 250). But a wife cannot be convicted of receiving from her husband (R. v. Brooks (1853), Dears C.C. 184; R. v. Archer (1826), 1 Mood C.C. 143; R. v. Wardroper (1860), 8 Cox 284). The possession may be joint and several (R. v. Payne (1909), 3 Cr. App. Rep. 259). The goods at the time of the receiving must not have been recovered by their owners; so, where the owner or some one on his behalf gets back the goods and then lets the receiver get them in order to make a case against him, the receiver cannot be convicted (R. v. Dolan (1855), 6 Cox 449; R. v. Schmidt (1866), L.R. 1 C.C.R. 15; R. v. Hancock (1878), 14 Cox 119; R. v. Villensky (1892), 2 Q.B. 597). In these cases the owners or their agents had caused the property to be delivered to the receiver in order to make a case against him.

If any general dealer, after receiving information of the theft, &c., of any metals, &c., melts, &c., or causes to be melted any metals, &c., answering to the description of the stolen property without the written authorisation of a justice, and if it is found that the metals, &c., so melted were stolen, &c., by any person, then it shall be held that the general dealer knew that the said metals, &c., were stolen, embezzled, or fraudulently obtained (General Dealers (Ir.) Act, 1903, 3 Edw. 7, c. 44, s. 7; as to which see further, p. 508).

REGISTRATION OF BIRTHS AND DEATHS.

See p. 775 for the only indictable offence (except forgery, as to which see 24 & 25 Vict. c. 98, ss. 36 & 37, and 26 & 27 Vict. c. 11, s. 56) in relation to registration of births and deaths.

RESCUE.

Rescue of prisoners.

The offence known to the law as rescue is committed when any person by force frees another in lawful custody, whether of a constable, gaoler, or private person, and whether the person so freed is in prison or not (Halsbury, vol. ix. p. 511). If the person rescued is in the custody of a private person, the offender must have notice of the fact that the person rescued is in such custody (Stephen. Dig. Cr. Law, 6th ed., p. 116). The rescue of a person in custody for high-treason, felony, or misdemeanour is high-treason, felony, or misdemeanour respectively at common law (ib.).

Rescue or attempted rescue of any person committed for or convicted of murder—Felony, punishment C. as to which see p. 862, and if the punishment be imprisonment the court may order the offender to be kept in solitary confinement<sup>1</sup> (31 Geo. 3. c. 17 (Ir.), s. 10; Punishment of Offences Act, 1837, 7 Wm. 4, and 1 Vict. c. 91, ss. 1 and 2).

Rescue of any person in custody for felony—Felony, penal punishment P, as to which see p. 863 (Rescue Act, 1821, 1 & 2 Geo. 4, c. 88, s. 1). Rescue of any person committed for treason, felony, or any offence declared to be punishable with transportation by the 1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 44, before such person is lodged in gaol—Misdemeanour, punishment, penal servitude for life or not less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding three years with or without hard labour, and the offender if a male may be not more than three times whipped (Tumultuous Risings (Ir.) Act, 1831, 1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 44, s. 5). Rescue of a person in lawful custody on any criminal charge—Misdemeanour, punishable with fine or imprisonment with or without hard labour, or both (Criminal Procedure Act, 1851, 14 & 15 Vict. c. 100, s. 29). Rescue or attempted rescue of convict from, or during his conveyance to or from, a convict prison—Felony, punishment T, as to which see p. 864 (Convict Prisons (Ir.) Act, 1854, 17 & 18 Vict. c. 76, s. 18). Rescue of convicts.

Rescuing a distress for rent<sup>2</sup>—Misdemeanour, punishable with fine, and in default of payment, imprisonment not exceeding one month without hard labour, followed by imprisonment not exceeding six or less than three months with hard labour (4 Geo. 1, c. 5 (Ir.), s. 1).<sup>3</sup> Rescuing or liberating animal from pound or breaking a pound<sup>4</sup> if the justices think fit to abstain from adjudicating summarily—Misdemeanour, punishable with fine not exceeding £10, and the prisoner may be ordered to pay the amount of the injury done (Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1851, 14 & 15 Vict. c. 92, s. 19 (10)).<sup>5</sup> Rescue, other than of a prisoner.

Rescuing or attempting to rescue, or by force, &c., compelling sheriff or bailiffs to abandon, anything seized under a civil bill decree—Misdemeanour, punishment HH, as to which see p. 865 (Civil Bill Courts Procedure Amendment (Ir.) Act, 1864, 27 & 28 Vict. c. 99, s. 26). Rescuing goods lawfully distrained for rates—Misdemeanour at common law, punishable with LL (R. v. Brennan (1854), 6 Cox 381; 69 Jur., O.S., 307; R. v. Westropp (1851), 2 I.C.L.R. 217). Rescuing anything in the legal custody of any officer of the law (which of course includes the rescue of goods seized under an execution by the sheriff)—Misdemeanour

<sup>1</sup> But such order is never made now. See p. 866.

<sup>2</sup> This appears to be also a misdemeanour indictable at common law. See R. v. Noonan (1876), I.R. 10 C.L. 505; R. v. Walshe, ib., p. 511; Thomas v. Harries, 1 Man. & G. 695, at p. 704, note (a).

<sup>3</sup> The words of the section are: "Shall be committed in execution by the Court . . . for such fine as the Court shall deem reasonable to impose; and in case the party so convicted shall not pay to the sheriff of the county such fine . . . within one month after such commitment, the party so convicted shall be conveyed by the sheriff of the county to the house of correction . . . in the said county and there detained and kept at hard labour for any time not less than three months, and not exceeding six months, according to the discretion of the judge or justice before whom such offender shall be convicted."

<sup>4</sup> For summary jurisdiction, see p. 682.

<sup>5</sup> Pound breach is also a common law misdemeanour (Green v. Duckett (1883), 11 Q.B.D. 275).

at common law, punishment LL, as to which see p. 865 (R. v. Beauchamp (1827), 5 L.J., O.S., M.C. 66).

See ESCAPE AND PRISON BREACH.

RIOT.

A riot is an unlawful assembly (as to which see p. 874) which has actually begun to execute the purpose for which it assembled, by a breach of the peace and to the terror of the public, and the offence is also committed if persons lawfully assembled form an unlawful purpose and proceed to execute such purpose to the terror of the public (Stephen, Dig. Cr. Law, 56). It is sufficient if the assembly acts to the terror of only one person (R. v. Phillips (1842), 2 Mood C.C. 252; Field v. Receiver of Met. Police (1907), 2 K.B. 853). The offence is at common law a misdemeanour, punishable with LL, as to which see p. 865. Remaining together to the number of twelve or more for one hour after the reading of the proclamation specified in 27 Geo. 3, c. 15 (Ir.), s. 2, or obstructing, &c., the reading of such proclamation<sup>1</sup>—Felony, punishment C, as to which see p. 862 (27 Geo. 3, c. 15 (Ir.), ss. 2 & 3; Capital Punishment (Ir.) Act, 1842, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 28, s. 6). Rioters interfering with the storage, carriage, or export of corn, flour, &c., or potatoes, or destroying or attempting to destroy buildings, or goods manufactured or unmanufactured, or the engine of colliery or mine—Felony, punishment P, as to which see p. 863 (23 & 24 Geo. 3, c. 20 (Ir.) ss. 1, 7, 8; Capital Punishment (Ir.) Act, 1842, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 28, s. 5). Rioters demolishing buildings, &c.—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (Malicious Damage Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 97, ss. 11, 73). Rioters injuring buildings, &c.—Misdemeanour, punishment N, as to which see p. 863 (ib., ss. 12, 73).

As to refusal of a justice to read the Riot Act, see PUBLIC OFFICERS OF, BY, AND RELATING TO. As to refusal to assist a peace officer in suppressing a riot, see POLICE, REFUSAL TO ASSIST.

There is no summary jurisdiction as to riot except under the Criminal Law and Procedure (Ir.) Act, 1887, 50 & 51 Vict. c. 20.

ROBBERY.

See LARCENY.

SEDITIONOUS WORDS, SPEAKING.

This offence consists in the speaking with a seditious intention of any words whatever,<sup>2</sup> and is a misdemeanour at common law, punishable with LL, as to which see p. 865. For the meaning of "seditious intention," see p. 910, n.<sup>2</sup>.

SHIPS, OFFENCES RELATING TO.<sup>3</sup>

Unlawfully and maliciously setting fire to, casting away, or destroying ship,<sup>4</sup> or vessel, whether in finished or unfinished

<sup>1</sup> Any prosecution under this Act must be commenced within twelve months of the commission of the offence charged (ib., s. 12). In this section "month" means calendar month (Lacon v. Hooper (1795), 6 T.R. 224, at p. 226; Bruner v. Moore (1904), 1 Ch. 305).

<sup>2</sup> Stephen, Dig. Crim. Law, 6th ed., p. 70.

<sup>3</sup> For summary jurisdiction as to offences relating to ships, see p. 780.

<sup>4</sup> In R. v. Bowyer (1831), 4 C. & P. 559, Pattison, J., held that a boat only eighteen feet long was a vessel for the purposes of this section, whilst in R. v. Smith, ib., 569, Alderson, B., doubted whether a barge came within the section.

state<sup>1</sup>—Felony, punishment B, as to which see p. 862 (Malicious Damage Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 97, ss. 42, 73, 75).

Unlawfully and maliciously setting fire to, casting away, or destroying ship with intent to defraud underwriter or prejudice owner or owners of ship or goods on same<sup>2</sup>—Felony, like punishment (ib., ss. 43, 73, 75). Attempting to commit any offence under ss. 42 or 43—Felony, punishment F, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 44, 73, 75). As to s. 45, see EXPLOSIONS. Unlawfully and maliciously damaging ship, complete or unfinished, with intent to destroy, otherwise than by fire or explosion—Felony, punishment M, as to which see p. 863 (ib., ss. 46, 73, 75).

Unlawfully altering, masking, or removing lights, &c., or unlawfully exhibiting false lights, &c., with intent to endanger ship, or unlawfully doing anything to bring ship, vessel, or boat in danger—Felony, punishment B, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 47, 73, 75).<sup>3</sup> Unlawfully and maliciously cutting away, &c., or unlawfully doing act with intent to cut away, &c., buoys, &c., intended for guidance of seamen—Felony, punishment M, as to which see p. 863 (ib., ss. 48, 73, 75). Unlawfully and maliciously destroying any part of a ship in distress or articles belonging thereto—Felony, punishment E, as to which see p. 862 (ib., ss. 49, 73). Setting fire to ship or tackle or furniture thereof, or casting away or destroying ship with intent to commit murder or preventing the saving of life from shipwreck—Felony, punishment A, as to which see p. 862 (Offences against the Person Act, 1861, 24 & 25 Vict. c. 100, ss. 13, 17, 71).

Unlawfully sending ship to sea in such an unseaworthy state as to endanger life, or master unlawfully taking such a ship to sea—Misdemeanour, punishable with fine or CC, as to which see p. 864 (Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, 57 & 58 Vict. c. 60, ss. 457, 680). Upon any charge under this section it need not be proved that the accused knew the vessel to be unseaworthy (R. v. Freeman (1875), I.R. 9 C.L. 539).

See also EXPLOSIONS, LARCENY, and MENACES.

SMUGGLING.<sup>4</sup>

Smuggling is the bringing on shore, or the carrying from the shore, of any dutiable goods for which duty has not been paid, or of any goods the importation of which is prohibited (1 Hawk, c. 30, s. 1).

Signalling, &c., smuggling vessels in contravention of section 190 of the Customs Consolidation Act, 1876—Misdemeanour, punishable with forfeiture of £100, or imprisonment not exceeding one year with hard labour (39 & 40 Vict. c. 36, s. 190).<sup>5</sup> Maliciously shooting at King's <sup>1</sup> Where the master of a yacht, acting in concert with the owner, set fire to her in order to defraud the underwriters, it was held by Bigham, J., that the master could be convicted under this section as well as under s. 43 (R. v. Guy (1902), July, Hunts Assizes, cited in Archbold, 24th ed., at p. 746, and cf. note to s. 6 of this Act on p. 911). A part-owner may be convicted of an offence under the section (R. v. Philp (1830), 1 Mood C.C. 263; see also R. v. Wallace (1841), C. & Mar. 200).

<sup>2</sup> A sailor on a ship went, for the purpose of stealing rum, to the place where rum was stowed. While tapping a cask he made use of a lighted match, which ignited the rum from the cask and fired and destroyed the vessel. Held, a conviction under s. 43 could not be upheld (R. v. Faulkner (1877), I.R. 11 C.L. 8).

<sup>3</sup> For penalties under the Merchant Shipping Act, 1894, ss. 667–680 (1), for misleading lights, see MERCHANT SHIPPING.

<sup>4</sup> As to summary jurisdiction, see p. 786.

<sup>5</sup> The offence must be committed between sunset and sunrise between the 21st September and 1st April, or between 8 P.M. and 6 A.M. during any other time of the year (ib.). It is not necessary to prove the presence of any vessel off the coast (ib.). The onus of proof as to intent lies on the defendant (ib., s. 191).

ship, &c., or coastguard, &c., engaged in preventing of smuggling, or aiding or abetting in such shooting—Felony, penal servitude for life or for not less than three years, or imprisonment without hard labour not exceeding three years, or imprisonment with hard labour not exceeding two years<sup>1</sup> (ib., s. 193). Procuring any person to assemble for purpose of smuggling—Misdemeanour, punishable with U, as to which see p. 864 (ib., s. 189). Being armed or disguised when smuggling—Misdemeanour, punishable with imprisonment not exceeding three years with or without hard labour (ib.). Persons to the number of three or more assembling to run, &c., uncustomed goods—Penalty, fine not exceeding £500 or less than £100 (Customs and Inland Revenue Act, 1879, 42 & 43 Vict. c. 21, s. 10). This section to be read in place of s. 188 of the 39 & 40 Vict. c. 36 (ib., s. 14). Proceedings under the Customs Consolidation Act, 1876, must be commenced within three years of the offence being committed (Customs Consolidation Act, 1876, 38 & 39 Vict. c. 36, ss. 190, 257).

SOCIETIES, UNLAWFUL.

Belonging to any society whose members take oaths which are declared unlawful by the Unlawful Oaths (Ir.) Act, 1810, 50 Geo. 3, c. 102, or to any secret society<sup>2</sup>—Misdemeanour, punishable with P, as to which see p. 863 (Unlawful Oaths (Ir.) Act, 1823, 4 Geo. 4, c. 87, ss. 1, 2, and 3).

See OATHS, UNLAWFUL; and WHITEBOY OFFENCES.

SUICIDE.

Attempt to commit suicide is a misdemeanour at common law, punishable with LL, as to which see p. 865 (R. v. Doody (1854), 6 Cox 463). Inciting to commit suicide, where suicide is actually committed, is murder, and an agreement to commit suicide, where one person commits suicide and the other survives, is murder as regards the survivor (R. v. Dyson (1823), Russ. & Ry. 523; R. v. Alison (1838), 8 C. & P. 418; R. v. Jessop (1877), 16 Cox 204; R. v. Stormouth (1897), 61 J.P. 729; R. v. Abbott (1903), 67 J.P. 151).

TELEGRAPHS AND TELEGRAMS.

See under POST OFFICE.

TRADE MARKS ACT, 1905.

Making or causing to be made a false entry in the register kept under this Act, or a writing falsely purporting to be a copy of an entry in such register, or producing or tendering or causing to be produced or tendered in evidence any such writing, knowing the entry or writing to be false—Misdemeanour, punishment LL, as to which see p. 865 (Trade Marks Act, 1905, 5 Edw. 7, c. 15, s. 66).

<sup>1</sup> These, it is submitted, are the various alternative sentences that may be passed under this section, read along with the Penal Servitude Act, 1891, 54 & 55 Vict. c. 69, s. 1 (see Stephen, Dig. Cr. Law, 6th ed., pp. 1, 195). See, however, Archbold, 24th ed., p. 964; Russell, 7th ed.; Halsbury, vol. ix. p. 522.

<sup>2</sup> For summary jurisdiction under this Act, see p. 778. For summary jurisdiction as to illegal assemblies on licensed premises under 6 & 7 Wm. 4, c. 38, ss. 8–9, see INTOXICATING LIQUOR, p. 548.

TREASURE-TROVE.

Treasure-trove is gold or silver, in coin, plate, or bullion, hidden in ancient times, of which no person can prove himself to be the owner (3 Co. Inst. 132; Terms de la Ley, 565).

Finding treasure-trove and concealing it is a misdemeanour at common law, punishable with LL, as to which see p. 865 (see R. v. Toole (1867), I.R. 2 C.L. 36, and R. v. Thomas (1863), Le. & Ca. 313).

There cannot be larceny of treasure-trove (1 Hale 510; 1 Hawk, c. 33, s. 38).

TRUCK ACTS.

Employer entering into any contract with, or making any payment to, any artificer in contravention of the Truck Act, 1831, after having been twice convicted summarily of such offence—Misdemeanour, fine not exceeding £100 (Truck Act, 1831, 1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 37, s. 9). This section is extended by the Truck Acts, 1887 (50 & 51 Vict. c. 46) and 1896 (59 & 60 Vict. c. 44), and all three Acts are to be construed as one (Act of 1896, s. 12).

For summary jurisdiction under these Acts, see p. 818.

VACCINATION.

As to the only indictable offence relating to vaccination, see p. 829.

WATER.

As to stealing water, see p. 907, n.<sup>3</sup>.

WHITEBOY OFFENCES.

Assembling by day or night, to the terror of His Majesty's subjects, armed or disguised, &c.—Misdemeanour, offenders may be fined, imprisoned, whipped, and ordered to find sureties for good behaviour at the discretion of the court (15 & 16 Geo. 3, c. 21 (Ir.), s. 2; 40 Geo. 3, c. 96 (Ir.), s. 4). Forcibly, &c., tendering any unlawful oath—Misdemeanour, punishable with fine, imprisonment, and whipping at the discretion of the court (ib., s. 21). By drums, &c., promoting unlawful meeting—Misdemeanour, punishable with LL, as to which see p. 865 (ib., s. 23). Digging, erecting, &c., any grave, gallows, &c., in order to compel persons to enter into unlawful combinations or to prevent the giving of evidence or the collection of rates, &c. &c., or abetting such offence, or publishing, &c., notices, &c., tending to excite to unlawful meeting—Felony, punishment P, as to which see p. 863 (27 Geo. 3, c. 15 (Ir.), ss. 8, 9; 40 Geo. 3, c. 96 (Ir.), s. 5; Capital Punishment (Ir.) Act, 1842, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 28, ss. 7, 19). Taking or supplying, &c. &c., arms, ammunition, horses, for use in connection with offences under 27 Geo. 3, c. 15 (Ir.)—Felony, punishment C, as to which see p. 862, and the offender if a male may in addition to such punishment be not more than three times<sup>1</sup> whipped (27

<sup>1</sup> But see the Whipping Act, 1862, s. 2, noted p. 866.

Geo. 3, c. 15 (Ir.), s. 10; 40 Geo. 3, c. 96 (Ir.), s. 5; Capital Punishment (Ir.) Act, 1842, 5 & 6 Vict. c. 28, s. 8). Persons assembled in contravention of 27 Geo. 3, c. 15 (Ir.), unlawfully compelling, &c., others to leave their abodes or employment, or attacking houses or injuring property or unlawfully taking arms or other property—Misdemeanour, punishment penal servitude for life or for not less than three years, or imprisonment not exceeding three years, and the offender if a male may in addition to such punishment be not more than three times<sup>1</sup> whipped (Tumultuous Risings (Ir.) Act, 1831, 1 & 2 Wm. 4, c. 44, s. 2).

Publishing or sending inflammatory or threatening notices—Misdemeanour, punishment penal servitude not exceeding seven nor less than three years, or imprisonment with or without hard labour not exceeding three years, and the offender if a male may in addition to punishment be not more than three times<sup>1</sup> whipped (ib., s. 3).

See RESCUE; OATHS, UNLAWFUL; SOCIETIES, UNLAWFUL.

Under s. 6 of the 15 & 16 Geo. 3, c. 21 (Ir.), justices of the peace, sheriffs, under-sheriffs, mayor, bailiffs, and other peace officers within the limits of their respective jurisdictions are authorised to command the assistance of all of His Majesty's subjects of age and ability and with assistance necessary to disperse, resist, and oppose all persons concerned in any of the acts declared unlawful by ss. 2, 3, 4, and 5 of the Act, and the justices, sheriffs, or peace officers and their assistants are indemnified for the killing, maiming, or hurting of any person or persons in so apprehending, dispersing, resisting, or opposing such offenders. Under s. 22 of the Act 15 & 16 Geo. 3, c. 21 (Ir.), every justice of the peace is empowered to summon any person within his jurisdiction whom he shall have cause to suspect of being capable of giving material evidence concerning any offence or offences committed against the Act, and to examine on oath such person concerning any of the said offences, and to bind such person by recognisance to appear and prosecute at the next assizes; upon refusal of such person to submit to such examination, or be bound by such recognisance, he may be committed to prison till he submit to such examination or give such recognisance or is discharged by due course of law; and such examination shall not subject the person so examined to any penalty nor be used as evidence against him except on his indictment for wilful perjury in such examination.

If any justice of the peace of the county where any offence is committed happens to be in another county, he or any justice of the peace for such other county may upon proper information issue his or their warrant to arrest any person offending against this Act; and the person arrested shall be brought before such justice of the peace; who may commit the offender to prison or admit him to bail if the offence is bailable, or discharge him (15 & 16 Geo. 3, c. 21, s. 24).

Any two or more justices of the peace may summon any person reasonably suspected of Whiteboy offences and bind him to appear at the next assizes for the county of their residence to answer such matters as he shall be then charged with and to be of good behaviour in the meantime; and in case such person refuses to enter into security the justices are empowered to imprison him till he submits to appear and enter into such security or until he is discharged by due course of law (15 & 16 Geo. 3, c. 21, s. 28). The above powers and duties of justices are referred to in a Memorandum of 1st December, 1880, from Dublin Castle.

<sup>1</sup> But see the Whipping Act, 1862, s. 2, noted p. 866.

WITNESSES, TAMPERING WITH.

By any means, whether persuasion, intimidation, or actual violence, preventing or attempting to prevent a witness who is under a legal obligation to give evidence in a criminal prosecution from giving any evidence that he is under a legal obligation to give, is a misdemeanour at common law,<sup>1</sup> punishable with LL, as to which see p. 865.

As to procuring or attempting to procure the giving of false evidence, see PERJURY, ATTEMPT TO COMMIT A CRIME, and CONSPIRACY.

<sup>1</sup> 1 Hawk, c. 6, s. 15; Stephen, Dig. Cr. Law, 6th ed., p. 113; R. v. Lawley (1731), 2 Stra. 904; R. v. Loughran (1839), 1 Craw & D. 79; R. v. Silverman (1908), 12 Canada Cr. Cas. 79.

PART IV.

---

STATUTES.

TABLE OF STATUTES.

	PAGE
57 Geo. 3, c. 56 (Recognizances (Ir.) Act, 1817) . . . . .	941
9 Geo. 4, c. 54 (Criminal Law (Ir.) Act, 1828) . . . . .	942
4 & 5 Wm. 4, c. 51, s. 19 (Excise Management Act, 1834) . . . . .	942
5 & 6 Vict. c. 24 (Dublin Police Act, 1842) . . . . .	944
6 & 7 Vict. c. 91 (Charitable Loan Societies (Ir.) Act, 1843) . . . . .	961
11 & 12 Vict. c. 78 (Crown Cases Act, 1848) . . . . .	964
12 & 13 Vict. c. 16 (Justices Protection (Ir.) Act, 1849) . . . . .	966
13 & 14 Vict. c. 69, s. 84 (Registration (Ir.) Act, 1850) . . . . .	967
14 & 15 Vict. c. 68, s. 17 (Poor Relief (Ir.) Act, 1851) . . . . .	968
14 & 15 Vict. c. 90 (Fines Act (Ir.), 1851) . . . . .	969
14 & 15 Vict. c. 92 (Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1851) . . . . .	978
14 & 15 Vict. c. 93 (Petty Sessions (Ir.) Act, 1851) . . . . .	995
18 & 19 Vict. c. 126 (Criminal Justice Act, 1855) . . . . .	1033
19 & 20 Vict. c. 65 (Cottier Tenant (Ir.) Act, 1856) . . . . .	1036
20 & 21 Vict. c. 43 (Summary Jurisdiction Act, 1857) . . . . .	1039
21 & 22 Vict. c. 100 (Petty Sessions Clerk (Ir.) Act, 1858) . . . . .	1041
22 Vict. c. 14 (Manor Courts Abolition (Ir.) Act, 1859) . . . . .	1047
22 & 23 Vict. c. 17 (Vexatious Indictments Act, 1859) . . . . .	1050
25 & 26 Vict. c. 50 (Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1862) . . . . .	1051
27 & 28 Vict. c. 99 (Civil Bill Courts Procedure Amendment Act (Ir.), 1864) . . . . .	1052
30 & 31 Vict. c. 115 (Justices of the Peace Act, 1867) . . . . .	1053
31 & 32 Vict. c. 107 (Indictable Offences Act Amendment Act, 1868) . . . . .	1053
34 & 35 Vict. c. 76 (Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1871) . . . . .	1054
34 & 35 Vict. c. 96 (Pedlars Act, 1871) . . . . .	1055
36 & 37 Vict. c. 82 (Small Penalties (Ir.) Act, 1873) . . . . .	1060
37 & 38 Vict. c. 72 (Fines Act (Ir.), 1851, Amendment Act, 1874) . . . . .	1061
38 & 39 Vict. c. 90 (Employers and Workmen Act, 1875; and rules) . . . . .	1061
38 & 39 Vict. c. cxcv. (Dublin Traffic Act, 1875) . . . . .	1074
41 & 42 Vict. c. 69 (Petty Sessions Clerks and Fines (Ir.) Act, 1878) . . . . .	1079
44 & 45 Vict. c. 18 (Petty Sessions Clerks (Ir.) Act, 1881) . . . . .	1081
47 & 48 Vict. c. 19 (Summary Jurisdiction over Children (Ir.) Act, 1884) . . . . .	1082
50 & 51 Vict. c. 20 (Criminal Law and Procedure (Ir.) Act, 1887) . . . . .	1084
51 & 52 Vict. c. 33 (Hawkers Act, 1888) . . . . .	1091
56 & 57 Vict. c. 32 (Barbed Wire Act, 1893) . . . . .	1093
60 & 61 Vict. c. 30 (Police (Property) Act, 1897) . . . . .	1094
60 & 61 Vict. c. 60 (Chaff Cutting Machines (Accidents) Act, 1897) . . . . .	1095
63 & 64 Vict. c. 25 (Charitable Loan Societies (Ir.) Act, 1900) . . . . .	1095
1 Edw. 7, c. 22 (Factory and Workshop Act, 1901) . . . . .	1097
2 Edw. 7, c. 18 (Licensing (Ir.) Act, 1902) . . . . .	1157
2 Edw. 7, c. 21 (Shop Clubs Act, 1902) . . . . .	1158
4 Edw. 7, c. 9 (Registration of Clubs (Ir.) Act, 1904) . . . . .	1160
6 Edw. 7, c. 23 (Charitable Loan Societies (Ir.) Act, 1906) . . . . .	1166
6 Edw. 7, c. 27 (Fertilisers and Feeding Stuffs Act, 1906) . . . . .	1167

	PAGE
7 Edw. 7, c. 17 (Probation of Offenders Act, 1907) . . . .	1172
7 Edw. 7, c. 22 (Petty Sessions Clerk (Ir.) Amendment Act, 1907)	1175
7 Edw. 7, c. 39 (Factory and Workshop Act, 1907) . . . .	1175
7 Edw. 7, c. 45 (Lights on Vehicles Act, 1907) . . . .	1178
8 Edw. 7, c. 24 (Summary Jurisdiction (Ir.) Act, 1908) . . . .	1180
8 Edw. 7, c. 31 (Whale Fisheries (Ir.) Act, 1908) . . . .	1181
8 Edw. 7, c. 34 (Bee Pest Prevention (Ir.) Act, 1908; and rules)	1184
8 Edw. 7, c. 42 (White Phosphorus Matches Prohibition Act, 1908)	1190
8 Edw. 7, c. 67 (Children Act, 1908; and rules) . . . .	1191
9 Edw. 7, c. 12 (Marine Insurance (Gambling Policies) Act, 1909)	1267
9 Edw. 7, c. 22 (Trade Boards Act, 1909) . . . .	1268
9 Edw. 7, c. 30 (Cinematograph Act, 1909) . . . .	1273
9 Edw. 7, c. 31 (Weeds and Agricultural Seeds (Ir.) Act, 1909)	1275
10 Edw. 7, c. 81 (Finance (1909-10) Act, 1910, extract from) . .	1277

STATUTES.

RECOGNIZANCES (IRELAND) ACT, 1817.

[57 GEO. 3, CH. 56.]

2. Every recognizance taken in Ireland by or before His Majesty's Court of King's Bench there, or by or before His Majesty's chief justice of the said Court of King's Bench, or by or before any of the justices of the said Court of King's Bench, or by or before any justice or justices of oyer and terminer or gaol delivery, or by or before any justice or justices of the peace, either at their sessions of the peace or otherwise, or by any magistrate or other person lawfully authorised to take the same, shall contain the name and addition of the person or persons respectively thereby acknowledging himself, herself, or themselves respectively to be bound, and the name of the townland, parish, and barony or half barony, or town or city, and street therein (if in a county of a town or city), in which the usual or actual place or places of residence of such person or persons is or are respectively situated; and all and every persons or person who shall hereafter come before His Majesty's said Court of King's Bench, or before any of His Majesty's justices of the said court, or before any such justice or justices of oyer and terminer or gaol delivery, or before any justice or justices of the peace, either at their sessions of the peace or otherwise, or before any magistrate or other person lawfully authorised to admit to bail, in order to give bail or be bound for the appearance of any person or persons charged with any crime or crimes (which person so charged shall by law be entitled to bail), or for keeping the peace, shall respectively make oath in one of the forms here following, or in some other form of words to the like import and effect respectively; that is to say, if such person shall reside in a county at large, in this form; (to wit), Every recognizance shall specify the name, addition, and residence of the person bound.

Persons becoming bail for appearance of an accused person or for keeping the peace, shall make oath of their residence and sufficiency.

" I A. B. do swear, that I am a householder, and have a house wherein I usually reside, at _____ in the parish of _____ barony or half barony of _____ and county of _____ and that I support and maintain myself by _____ and that I am worth the sum of [here insert double the sum in which he or she is to be bound] over and above all my just debts.

" So help me GOD."

And if such person shall reside in a county of a city or town, the words "reside at" and from thence to "county of" shall be omitted; and instead thereof, these words shall be inserted; (to wit) "residing in [naming the Street, Square, Lane, or Place] in the parish of _____ and county of the city or town of _____;" and every such oath shall be annexed to or be written on the same piece of paper or parchment with the recognizance, and shall be signed by the person making the same, and attested by the proper jurat of the court, judge, justice, or other person taking the same as aforesaid, and shall be sufficient in lieu of all and every oaths and oath required by any law in force in Ireland to be taken by any such surety.

3. Provided always, and be it enacted, that nothing herein contained shall extend or be construed to extend to require the person or persons charged with any crime, and for whose appearance any recognizance shall be about to be entered into, or any person or persons who shall become personally bound to keep the peace, or any person or persons who shall or may hereafter become bound for the prosecution of any person or persons charged with any criminal offence, to take such part of the said oath as relates to such person or persons being a householder, or to his, her, or their being respectively worth the sum or sums of money for which he, she, or they is and are respectively about to be bound, over and above all their just debts; but every such last-mentioned person and persons shall, in like manner and form respectively, make oath as to the place, parish, barony, or half barony, and county, and the town or city and street therein (if in a county of a town or city), in which he, she, or they usually or actually reside.

Persons charged and bound to appear, or to keep the peace, or to prosecute offenders, shall be sworn only as to their residence.

Penalty on justices, &c., neglecting to return recognizances, or to insert names, &c., £50 in addition to any fine by the judges at assize.

4. All and every justice and justices of the peace, and all and every magistrate and other person lawfully authorised to take recognizances, who shall hereafter neglect or refuse to return the recognizances taken before him alone, or before him and any other magistrate or person or persons so authorised to take the same, in manner hereinafter mentioned, or shall neglect or refuse to insert in any recognizance taken before him, solely or with any other or others as aforesaid, the proper name and names and addition or additions of the person or persons entering into the same, according to the provisions of this Act, or shall neglect or refuse to administer the oaths respectively hereinbefore directed and appointed to be administered in manner so directed, shall for every such neglect or refusal (in addition to such sum as the judge or judges of assize may think fit at the respective assizes to impose upon any such justice and justices of the peace, or such magistrate or other person aforesaid, by way of fine for such neglect or refusal) forfeit the sum of fifty pounds, to be recovered against him by bill, plaint, or information in any of His Majesty's courts of record in Dublin, by any person or persons who will prosecute or sue for the same.

CRIMINAL LAW (IRELAND) ACT, 1828.

[9 GEO. 4, CH. 54.]

When persons charged with felony before two justices shall be committed.

1. Where any person shall be taken on a charge of felony, or suspicion of felony, before one or more justice or justices of the peace, and the charge shall be supported by positive and credible evidence of the fact, or by such evidence as if not explained or contradicted shall, in the opinion of the justice or justices, raise a strong presumption of the guilt of the person charged, such person shall be committed to prison by such justice or justices in the manner hereinafter mentioned; but if there shall be only one justice present, and the whole evidence given before him shall be such as neither to raise a strong presumption of guilt, nor to warrant the dismissal of the charge, such justice shall order the person charged to be detained in custody, and such person shall be taken before two justices at the least.<sup>1</sup>

Persons charged before one justice shall be taken before two.

EXCISE MANAGEMENT ACT, 1834.

[4 & 5 WM. 4, CH. 51.]

Notice of information to be given, and parties to be summoned.

19. Every information for the recovery of any penalty, or for the condemnation of any seizure, shall be exhibited before the commissioners of excise, or justice or justices of the peace respectively, within four calendar months next after the offence or offences alleged in such information shall have been committed, or the goods, commodities, chattels, or things therein alleged to have been forfeited shall have been seized; and a notice in writing

<sup>1</sup> The above section is the only section of the statute which it is deemed necessary to print. Some of the other sections, dealing with offences near the boundaries of counties, are dealt with in other parts of the work.

<sup>2</sup> Portion in brackets repealed by the Excise Act, 1848, 11 & 12 Vict. c. 118, s. 3, which substitutes for the repealed words the following enactment:—

“Every information exhibited by order of the commissioners of excise for the recovery of any penalty imposed or for the condemnation of any seizure made as forfeited under of such information having been so exhibited shall be given to the person against whom the same shall have been exhibited within one week next after the exhibiting of such information; and the commissioners of excise, or justice or justices of the peace, before whom any such information shall be exhibited, are hereby respectively authorised and required to summon every person against whom any such information shall have been exhibited to appear and plead to and to attend the hearing of such information at a time and place to be named in such summons, which summons shall be served upon every such person or persons ten days at the least before the time appointed in such summons, and which summons may be added to or may include such notice as aforesaid, or may be separate and apart therefrom, and be served at another and different time, subsequent to the delivery of such notice, at the option of the prosecutor: Provided always, that where such information shall be exhibited for the recovery of double the value of any duty or duties neglected to be paid or cleared off, it shall be sufficient if such summons be served twelve hours at the least before the time appointed in such summons: And provided also, that in all cases it shall be deemed and taken to be sufficient delivery and service of any such notice and summons as aforesaid if a copy of the same be left at or upon the place used or occupied by any such person or persons respectively for carrying on his or their trade or business, or at the building or place where any such offence shall have been committed or such seizure made, or at the place of residence, or with the wife or child or servant of any such person or persons, the same being directed to such person or persons by the right or assumed name or names of such person or persons; or where any such offence shall have been committed or discovered in transit, or any seizure made in transit, and the place of business or residence of the offender shall be unknown to the person discovering such offence or making such seizure, it shall be sufficient if such notice and summons, or a copy thereof, be affixed at or upon such conspicuous part of the office of excise next to where such offence shall have been committed or discovered, or seizure made, directed to such offender or offenders by his or their right or assumed name or names, if the same shall be known to the prosecutor, and if not known, without any name or names.

Service of notice and summons.

20. Nothing in the said recited Act, or in any other Act or Acts relating to the revenue of excise, shall be construed to authorise or empower any justices of the peace, on the hearing and determining of any information for the recovery of double the value of any duty or duties of excise neglected to be paid or cleared off, to mitigate the said penalty of the double value of such duties, but the said justices shall in all cases convict the defendant or defendants in the full penalty of double the value of the duties which shall be proved to have been neglected to be paid and cleared off, and shall give judgment accordingly; and no justice of the peace before whom any person having been arrested and detained under any Act or Acts relating to the revenue of excise, and liable to the payment of any penalty, and in default of the immediate payment thereof to be committed to prison for a limited period, shall have any power or authority to mitigate such penalty, except where a special power for the mitigation of such penalty shall be given; anything in the said recited Act, or any other Act or Acts relating to the revenue of excise, notwithstanding.

Commissioners of excise and justices not authorised to mitigate the penalty of double duty for non-payment of excise duties.

22. Where in any case any information for the recovery of any penalty incurred, or the condemnation of any goods, commodities, articles, or things forfeited, under any law or laws relating to the revenue of excise, shall by order of the commissioners of excise be exhibited before the commissioners of excise, or before any justice or justices of the peace, and the officer of excise by whom or in whose name such information shall be or

In case of the death, removal, or absence of any officer of excise in whose name any information may have been exhibited, the proceedings may be carried on by any other officer.

or by virtue of any Act or Acts relating to any duties under the collection and management of the commissioners of excise or the commissioners of customs, may be exhibited before the justice or justices of the peace at any time within six calendar months after the offence or offences alleged in such information have been committed, or the goods, commodities, chattels, or things therein alleged to have been forfeited have been seized, and all such proceedings shall be afterwards had thereupon as by law directed, anything in any other Act or Acts of Parliament to the contrary thereof notwithstanding."

shall have been exhibited shall die, or be removed or discharged, or at the time of hearing may be absent, such information shall not, by such death, removal, or discharge, or by the absence of such officer, abate or be diminished, but all the proceedings on such information shall be continued and may be proceeded on by any other officer of excise in the name of the officer by whom the same shall have been exhibited; and the said commissioners of excise and the justices shall, on the day named and appointed in the summons to be issued in that behalf, proceed to hear and determine the matter of such information, and shall examine all such witnesses as shall be tendered to them for examination by any officer of excise in support of such information, notwithstanding such death, removal, or discharge, or the absence of the officer of excise by whom or in whose name such information shall be or shall have been exhibited; and all the proceedings on such information, and all proceedings for recovery of any penalty awarded thereon, or for the arrest and imprisonment of any defendant for non-payment of such penalty, or for condemnation of any goods, commodities, articles, or things, shall be good, valid, and effectual.

If there shall not be twenty days between giving notice of appeal and the next quarter sessions, the appeal shall be to the following sessions.

23. If there shall not be twenty days between the time of any judgment being given by any justices of the peace on any information exhibited to them and the next general quarter sessions of the peace, and the party against whom such judgment shall be given shall appeal against the same, then such appeal may be to the quarter sessions next after the expiration of twenty days from the giving of such judgment; and any notice of appeal shall be given by any officer of excise who shall attend and conduct the proceedings on the part of the revenue of excise, notwithstanding such officer may not be the officer named in the information as informing or exhibiting the same; and it shall be lawful for any court of quarter sessions before whom any appeal shall be brought to adjourn the hearing thereof to the next quarter sessions, then to hear and finally to determine the same.

Offences under the customs laws may be sued for by order of commissioners of excise, and in the name of officers of excise.

28. Any penalty or forfeiture incurred under any Act or Acts of Parliament relating to the revenue of customs may be sued for and recovered by order of the commissioners of excise, and in the name of an officer of excise, as well as by order of the commissioners of customs, and in the name of an officer of customs; and where any election or option is or shall be given by any such Act or Acts to the commissioners of customs, which of two penalties shall be sued for, such election or option may be exercised by the commissioners of excise, and may be averred in the information to have been made by such last-mentioned commissioners, and such averment shall be deemed and taken to be sufficient proof of such order and of such election or option, without any further evidence thereof.

DUBLIN POLICE ACT, 1842.

[5 & 6 VICT. CH. 24.]

The several recited Acts to be construed together as one Act; and their enactments and provisions to apply and extend to this Act.

1. The said recited Acts<sup>1</sup> of the forty-eighth year of the reign of King George the Third, of the fifth year of the reign of King George the Fourth, of the session of Parliament holden in the sixth and seventh years of the reign of King William the Fourth, of the first year of her present Majesty's reign, and of the sessions of Parliament holden respectively in the . . . second and third, and third and fourth years of her present Majesty's reign, and this Act, shall be construed together as one Act; and that all and every the enactments and provisions therein contained shall apply and extend to this Act, and to all convictions, warrants, distresses, proceedings, and things made, taken, or done in execution of this Act, as fully to all intents and purposes as if herein repeated and re-enacted, save in so far as such enactments and provisions are inconsistent with or contrary to this Act, or as such enactments and provisions may be altered by this Act, or other enactments and provisions made in lieu thereof.

<sup>1</sup> The preamble recites the 48 Geo. 3, c. 140; the 5 Geo. 4, c. 102; the 6 & 7 Wm. 4, c. 29; the 7 Wm. 4, and 1 Vict. c. 25; the 2 & 3 Vict. c. 78, and the 3 & 4 Vict. c. 103.

2. No toll shall be demanded or taken on any . . . bridge for any horse or police van passing along such road or bridge in the service of the Dublin police, provided that the rider of such horse or driver of such van shall have his dress and accoutrements according to the regulations of the police at the time of claiming the exemption; and every person who shall fraudulently claim or take the benefit of the exemption from toll herein contained, not being lawfully entitled thereunto, shall for every such offence be liable to a penalty not more than five pounds; and in all such cases the proof of exemption shall be upon the person claiming the same.

Police vans, &c., exempted from turnpike tolls.

3. Every constable belonging to the Dublin police who shall be dismissed from or shall cease to hold and exercise his office, and who shall not forthwith deliver over all the clothing, accoutrements, appointments, and other necessities which may have been supplied to him for the execution of his duty to the commissioners of police, or to such person, and at such time and place, as shall be directed by them, shall be liable to imprisonment, with or without hard labour, for any time not exceeding one calendar month; and it shall be lawful for any justice of the peace to issue his warrant to search for and seize, to the use of Her Majesty, all the clothing, accoutrements, appointments, and other necessities which shall not be so delivered over, wherever the same may be found.

Constables dismissed to deliver up accoutrements.

4. Every person, not being a constable of the Dublin police, who shall have in his possession any article, being part of the clothing, accoutrements, or appointments supplied to any such constable, and who shall not be able satisfactorily to account for his possession thereof, or who shall put on the dress, or take the name, designation, or character of any person appointed as such constable, for the purpose of thereby obtaining admission into any house or other place, or of doing or procuring to be done any Act which such person would not be entitled to do or procure to be done of his own authority, or for any other unlawful purpose, shall, in addition to any other punishment to which he may be liable for such offence, be liable to a penalty not more than ten pounds.

Penalty for unlawful possession of accoutrements, or for assuming the dress of constables.

5. Every person who for the purpose of protecting or preventing anything whatsoever from being seized within the police district on suspicion of its being stolen or otherwise unlawfully obtained, or of preventing the same from being produced or used as evidence concerning any felony or misdemeanour committed or supposed to be committed within the police district, shall frame or cause to be framed any bill of parcels containing any false statement in regard to the name or abode of any alleged vendor, the quantity or quality of any such thing, the place whence or the conveyance by which the same was furnished, the price agreed upon or charged for the same, or any other particular, knowing such statement to be false, or who shall fraudulently produce such bill of parcels, knowing the same to have been fraudulently framed, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour.

Framing a false bill of parcels to escape detection,
a misdemeanour.

6. Every person licensed to deal in exciseable liquors within the said police district who shall knowingly supply any sort of distilled exciseable liquor to any boy or girl apparently under the age of sixteen years, to be drunk upon the premises, shall be liable to a penalty not more than twenty shillings, and upon conviction of a second offence shall be liable to a penalty not more than forty shillings, and upon conviction of a third offence shall be liable to a penalty not more than five pounds.

Publicans prohibited from supplying liquors to persons under sixteen years of age.

7. Every person who shall have or keep any house, shop, room, or place of public resort within the said police district wherein provisions, liquors, or refreshments of any kind shall be sold or consumed (whether the same shall be kept or retailed therein or procured elsewhere), and who shall wilfully or knowingly permit drunkenness or other disorderly conduct in such house, shop, room, or place, or knowingly suffer any unlawful games or any gaming whatsoever therein, or knowingly permit or suffer prostitutes or persons of notoriously bad character to meet together and remain therein, shall for every such offence be liable to a penalty of not Regulations respecting public houses to extend to other houses of public resort.

more than five pounds : Provided always, that if the offender be licensed to sell beer by retail to be drunk on the premises, this enactment shall not be construed to exempt him from the penalties or penal consequences to which he may be liable for committing an offence against the tenor of the licence to him granted.

For preventing the keeping of places for bear-baiting, cock-fighting, &c.

8. Every person who shall keep or use or act in the management of any house, room, pit, or other place within the said police district for the purpose of fighting or baiting lions, bears, badgers, cocks, dogs, or other animals, shall be liable to a penalty not more than five pounds, or, in the discretion of the magistrate, may be committed to the house of correction, with or without hard labour, for a time not more than one calendar month ; and it shall be lawful for the commissioners of police, by order in writing, to authorise any superintendent belonging to the Dublin police, with such constables as he shall think necessary, to enter any premises kept or used for any of the purposes aforesaid, and take into custody all persons who shall be found therein without lawful excuse, and every person so found shall be liable to a penalty not more than five shillings ; and a conviction under this Act of this offence shall not exempt the owner, keeper, or manager of any such house, room, pit, or place from any penalty or penal consequences to which he may be liable for the nuisance thereby occasioned.

Commissioners empowered to authorise superintendents of police to enter gaming houses.

9. If any superintendent belonging to the said Dublin police shall report in writing to the commissioners of police that there are good grounds for believing any house or room within the said police district to be kept or used as a common gaming house, and if two or more householders dwelling within the said district, and not belonging to the said police, shall make oath in writing, to be by them taken and subscribed before a divisional justice and annexed to the said report, which oath every divisional justice is hereby empowered to administer and receive, that the premises complained of by the superintendent are commonly reported and are believed by the deponents to be kept or used as a common gaming house, it shall be lawful for the said commissioners, by order in writing, to authorise the superintendent to enter any such house or room with such constables as shall be directed by the said commissioners to accompany him, and if necessary to use force for the purpose of effecting such entry, whether by breaking open doors or otherwise, and to take into custody all persons who shall be found therein, and to seize and destroy all tables and instruments of gaming found in such house or premises, and also to seize all monies and securities for money found therein ; and the owner or keeper of the said gaming house, or other person having the care and management thereof, and also every banker, croupier, and other persons who shall act in any manner in conducting the said gaming house, shall be liable to a penalty not more than one hundred pounds, or, in the discretion of the divisional justice before whom he shall be convicted of the offence, may be committed to the house of correction, with or without hard labour, for a time not more than six calendar months ; and upon conviction of any such offender all the monies and securities for monies which shall have been seized as aforesaid shall be paid to the receiver of the police district, to be by him applied towards defraying the charge of the Dublin police ; and every person found in such premises without lawful excuse shall be liable to a penalty not more than five pounds : Provided always, that nothing herein contained shall prevent any proceeding by indictment against the owner or keeper or other person having the care or management of any gaming house, but no person shall be proceeded against by indictment and also under this Act for the same offence.

Owners or keepers thereof liable to penalty.

Not to prevent proceeding by indictment.

Proof of gaming for money, &c., not necessary in support of information.

Prohibition of nuisances by persons in public thoroughfares.

10. It shall not be necessary, in support of any information for gaming in, or suffering any games or gaming in, or for keeping or issuing or being concerned in the management or conduct of a common gaming house under this Act, to prove that any person found playing at any game was playing for any money, wager, or stake.

14. Every person shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding forty shillings who, within the limits of the police district, shall in any thoroughfare or public place commit any of the following offences ; (that is to say) :—

1. Every person who shall, to the annoyance of the inhabitants or passengers, expose for show or sale (except in a market lawfully appointed for that purpose), or feed or fodder any horse or other animal, or show any caravan containing any animal or any other show or public entertainment; or shoe, bleed, or farry any horse or animal (except in cases of accident), or clean, dress, exercise, train, or break any horse or animal; or clean, make, or repair any part of any cart or carriage (except in cases of accident), where repair on the spot is necessary:

2. Every person who shall turn loose any horse or cattle, or suffer to be at large any unmuzzled ferocious dog, or set on or urge any dog or other animal to attack, worry, or put in fear any person, horse, or other animal:
3. Every person who by negligence or ill-usage in driving cattle shall cause any mischief to be done by such cattle, or who shall in anywise misbehave himself in the driving, care, or management of such cattle; and also every person, not being hired or employed to drive such cattle, who shall wantonly and unlawfully pelt, drive, or hunt any such cattle:
4. Every person having the care of any cart or carriage who shall ride on any part thereof, on the shafts, or on any horse or other animal drawing the same, without having and holding the reins, or who shall be at such a distance from such cart or carriage as not to have the complete control over every horse or other animal drawing the same:
5. Every person who shall ride or drive furiously, or so as to endanger the life or limb of any person, or to the common danger of the passengers in any thoroughfare:
6. Every person who shall cause any cart, public carriage, sledge, truck, or barrow, with or without horses, to stand longer than may be necessary for loading or unloading, or for taking up or setting down passengers, except hackney carriages standing for hire in any place not forbidden by law, or who by means of any cart, carriage, sledge, truck, or barrow, or any horse or other animal, shall wilfully interrupt any public crossing, or wilfully cause any obstruction in any thoroughfare:
7. Every person who shall lead or ride any horse or other animal, or draw or drive any cart or carriage, sledge, truck, or barrow, upon any footway or curbstone, or fasten any horse or other animal so that it can stand across or upon any footway:
8. Every person who shall roll or carry any cask, tub, hoop, or wheel, or any ladder, plank, pole, showboard, or placard, upon any footway, except for the purpose of loading or unloading any cart or carriage, or of crossing the footway:
9. Every person who, after being made acquainted with the regulations or directions which the said commissioners of police shall have made for regulating the route of horses, carts, carriages, and persons during the time of divine service, and for preventing obstructions during public processions, and on other occasions hereinbefore specified, shall wilfully disregard or not conform himself thereunto:
10. Every person who, without the consent of the owner or occupier, shall affix any posting bill or other paper against or upon any building, wall, fence, or pale, or write upon, scil, deface, or mark any such building, wall, fence, or pale with chalk or paint, or in any other way whatsoever, or wilfully break, destroy, or damage any part of any such building, wall, fence, or pale, or any fixture or appendage thereunto, or any tree, shrub, or seat, in any public walk, park, or garden:
11. Every common prostitute or night-walker loitering or being in any thoroughfare or public place for the purpose of prostitution or solicitation, to the annoyance of the inhabitants or passengers:
12. Every person who shall sell or distribute, or offer for sale or distribution, or exhibit to public view, any profane, indecent, or obscene book, paper, print, drawing, painting, or representation, or sing any profane, indecent, or obscene song or ballad, or write or draw any indecent or obscene word, figure, or representation, or use any profane, indecent, or obscene language, to the annoyance of the inhabitants or passengers :

13. Every person who shall use any threatening, abusive, or insulting words or behaviour, with intent to provoke a breach of the peace, or whereby a breach of the peace may be occasioned :
14. Every person, except the guards and postmen belonging to Her Majesty's Post Office in the performance of their duty, who shall blow any horn or use any other noisy instrument for the purpose of calling persons together or of announcing any show or entertainment, or for the purpose of hawking, selling, distributing, or collecting any article whatsoever, or of obtaining money or alms :
15. Every person who shall wantonly discharge any firearm, or throw or discharge any stone or other missile, to the damage or danger of any person, or make any bonfire, or throw or set fire to any firework :
16. Every person who shall wilfully and wantonly disturb any inhabitant by pulling or ringing any door bell or knocking at any door without lawful excuse, or who shall wilfully and unlawfully extinguish the light of any lamp :
17. Every person who shall fly any kite or play at any game, to the annoyance of the inhabitants or passengers, or who shall make or use any slide upon ice or snow in any street or other thoroughfare, to the common danger of the passengers :

And it shall be lawful for any constable belonging to the Dublin police to take into custody without warrant any person who shall commit any such offence within view of any such constable.

Drunkards guilty of riotous or indecent behaviour may be imprisoned.

15. Every person who shall be found drunk in any street or public thoroughfare within the police district, and who while drunk shall be guilty of any riotous or indecent behaviour, and also every person who shall be guilty of any violent or indecent behaviour in any police station house, shall be liable to a penalty of not more than forty shillings for every such offence, or may be committed, if the justice before whom he shall be convicted shall think fit, instead of inflicting on him any pecuniary penalty, to the house of correction for any time not more than seven days.

Persons using carriages
without driver's consent liable to a penalty.

16. Every person who shall ride upon or cause himself to be carried or drawn by any carriage within the police district, without the consent of the owner or driver thereof, shall be liable to a penalty not more than five shillings, or if a child apparently under the age of twelve years it shall be lawful for the justice to cause such child to be detained until his parent or guardian can attend for the purpose of having such child delivered into his care, and if such parent or guardian do not so attend before the closing of the police office for the day it shall be lawful for the justice to order such child to be discharged.

Prohibition of other nuisances.

17. Every person who in any street or public place within the limits of the police district shall be guilty of any of the following offences shall be liable to a penalty not more than forty shillings for every such offence; (that is to say) :—

1. Every person who in any thoroughfare shall burn, dress, or cleanse any cork, or hoop, cleanse, fire, wash, or scald any cask or tub, or hew, saw, bore, or cut any timber or stone, or slack, sift, or screen any lime :
2. Every person who shall throw or lay in any thoroughfare any coals, stones, slates, shells, lime, bricks, timber, iron, or other materials (except building materials, or rubbish thereby occasioned, which shall be placed or enclosed so as to prevent any mischief happening to passengers) :
3. Every person who in any thoroughfare shall beat or shake any carpet, rug, or mat (except door mats before the hour of eight in the morning), or throw or lay any dirt, litter, or ashes, or any carrion, fish, offal, or rubbish, or throw or cause any such thing to fall into any sewer, pipe, or drain, or into any well, stream or watercourse, pond or reservoir for water, or cause any offensive matter to run from any manufactory, brewery, slaughter-house, butcher's shop, or dunghill, into any thoroughfare, or any uncovered place, whether or not surrounded by a wall or fence ; but it shall not be deemed an offence to lay sand or other materials in any thoroughfare in time of frost to prevent accidents, or litter or other materials to prevent the freezing of water in pipes, or in case of sickness to prevent noise, if the party laying any such things shall cause them to be removed as soon as the occasion for them shall cease :

4. Every person who shall empty or begin to empty any privy between the hours of six in the morning and twelve at night, or remove along any thoroughfare any night soil, soap lees, ammoniacal liquor, or other such offensive matter, between the hours of six in the morning and eight in the evening, or who shall at any time use for any such purpose any cart or carriage not having a proper covering, or who shall wilfully or carelessly slop or spill any such offensive matter in the removal thereof, or who shall not carefully sweep and clean every place in which any such offensive matter shall have been placed, slopped, or spilled ; and, in default of the apprehension of the actual offender, the owner of the cart or carriage employed for any such purpose shall be deemed to be the offender : Provided always, that this enactment shall not be construed to prevent the commissioners for paving and lighting and cleansing the streets of Dublin, within the metropolitan police district aforesaid, or any person acting in their service or by their direction, from emptying or removing along any thoroughfare at any time the contents of any sewer which they are authorised to cleanse or empty :
5. Every person who shall keep any pigstye to the front of any street or road in any town within the said district, not being shut out from such street or road by a sufficient wall or fence, or who shall keep any swine in or near any street, or in any dwelling, so as to be a common nuisance :
6. Every occupier of a house or other tenement in any town within the said district who shall not keep sufficiently swept and cleansed all footways and watercourses adjoining the premises occupied by him ; and if any tenement be empty or unoccupied the owner thereof shall be deemed the occupier with reference to this enactment :
7. Every person who shall expose any thing for sale in any park or public garden, unless with the consent of the owner or other person authorised to give such consent, or upon or so as to hang over any carriageway or footway, or on the outside of any house or shop ; or who shall set up or continue any pole, blind, awning line, or any other projection from any window, parapet, or other part of any house, shop, or other building, so as to cause any annoyance or obstruction in any thoroughfare :
8. Every person who, to the danger of passengers in any thoroughfare, shall leave open any vault or cellar, or the entrance from any thoroughfare to any cellar or room under ground, without a sufficient fence or hand rail, or leave defective the door, window, or other covering of any vault or cellar, or who shall not sufficiently fence any area, pit, or sewer left open in or adjoining to any thoroughfare, or who shall leave such open area, pit, or sewer without a sufficient light after sunset, to warn and prevent persons from falling thereinto.
18. Every person who shall unlawfully cut, damage, or destroy any of the ropes, cables, cordage, tackle, headfasts, or other the furniture of or belonging to any ship, boat, or vessel lying in the River Liffey, harbour of Dublin, or harbour of Kingstown, or in any of the docks or creeks adjacent thereto respectively, with intent to steal or otherwise unlawfully obtain the same or any part thereof, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour.

Cutting ropes, cables, &c.

The police to have the power of constables upon the River Liffey, &c.; and may take into custody any person who, to prevent discovery, shall wilfully let fall any articles into the river or harbour of Kingstown.

19. Every officer and constable belonging to the Dublin police shall have all the powers and privileges of a constable upon the River Liffey within or adjoining to the said district, or the several counties of Dublin, Kildare, and Wicklow, and in and on the harbour of Dublin and harbour of Kingstown, and the docks or creeks adjacent thereto; and it shall be lawful for any such constable to take into custody every person who, for the purpose of preventing the seizure or discovery of any materials, furniture, stores, or merchandise belonging to or having been part of the cargo of any ship, boat, or vessel lying in the River Liffey, harbour of Dublin, or harbour of Kingstown, or the docks or creeks adjacent thereto respectively, or of any other articles unlawfully obtained from any such ship, boat, or vessel, shall wilfully let fall or throw into the said river, or any of the said docks or creeks, or in any other manner convey away from any ship, boat, or vessel, wharf, quay, or landing place, any such article, or who shall be accessory to any such offence, and also to seize and detain any boat in which such person shall be found, or out of which any article shall be so let fall, thrown, or conveyed away; and every such person shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour.

Possessing instruments for unlawfully procuring and carrying away wine, &c., a misdemeanour.

20. Every person who shall be found within the police district in or upon any canal, dock, warehouse, wharf, quay, or bank, or on board any ship or vessel, having in his or her possession any tube or other instrument for the purpose of unlawfully obtaining any wine, spirits, or other liquors, or having in his or her possession any skin, bladder, or other material or utensil for the purpose of unlawfully using, secreting, or carrying away any such wine, spirits, or other liquors, and any person who shall attempt unlawfully to obtain any such wine, spirits, or other liquor, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour.

Piercing casks, opening packages, &c., a misdemeanour.

21. Every person who shall within the police district bore, pierce, break, cut open, or otherwise injure any cask, box, or package containing wine, spirits, or other liquors on board any ship, boat, or vessel, or in or upon any warehouse, wharf, quay, or bank, with intent feloniously to steal or otherwise unlawfully obtain any part of the contents thereof, or who shall unlawfully drink or wilfully spill or allow to run to waste any part of the contents thereof, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour.

Breaking packages with intent to spill contents, a misdemeanour.

22. Every person who shall within the police district wilfully cause to be broken, pierced, started, cut, torn, or otherwise injured any cask, chest, bag, or other package containing or prepared for containing any goods while on board of any barge, lighter, or other craft lying in the said river or either of the said harbours, or any dock, creek, quay, wharf, or landing place adjacent to the same, or in the way to or from any warehouse, with intent that the contents of such package or any part thereof may be spilled or dropped from such package, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour.

Superintendents and inspectors may board vessels.

23. Any superintendent or inspector belonging to the Dublin police shall have power by virtue of his office to enter at all times with such constables as he shall think necessary, as well by night as by day, into and upon every ship, boat, or other vessel (not being then actually employed in Her Majesty's service) lying in the said river or any of the said harbours, docks, and creeks, and into every part of every such vessel, for the purpose of inspecting, and upon occasion directing the conduct of any police constable who may be stationed on board of any such vessel, and of inspecting and observing the conduct of all other persons who shall be employed on board of any such vessel in or about the lading or unlading thereof, as the case may be, and for the purpose of taking all such measures as may be necessary for providing against fire and other accidents, and preserving peace and good order on board of any such vessel, and for the effectual prevention or detection of any felonies or misdemeanours.

Superintendent, &c., having just cause to suspect felony, may enter on board vessels, &c., to take up suspected persons.

24. It shall be lawful for every superintendent, inspector, or serjeant belonging to the Dublin police, having just cause to suspect that any felony has been or is about to be committed in or on board of any ship, boat, or other vessel lying in the said river, or any of the said harbours, docks, and creeks, to enter at all times, as well by night as by day, into and upon every such ship, boat, or other vessel, and therein to take all necessary measures for the effectual prevention or detection of all felonies which he has just cause to suspect to have been or to be about to be committed in or upon the said river or harbours, docks or creeks, and to take into custody all persons suspected of being concerned in such felonies, and also to take charge of all property so suspected to be stolen.

25. Every person who by committing any offence herein forbidden within the police district shall have caused any hurt or damage to any person or property, may be apprehended, with or without any warrant, by any constable belonging to the Dublin police, and if he shall not, upon demand, make amends for such hurt or damage to the satisfaction of the persons aggrieved, he shall be detained by the constable in order to be taken before a divisional justice, and upon conviction shall pay such a sum, not exceeding ten pounds, as shall appear to the divisional justice before whom he shall be convicted to be reasonable amends to the person aggrieved, besides any penalty to which he may be liable for the offence, and the evidence of the person aggrieved shall be admitted in proof of the offence: Provided always, that if the person aggrieved shall have been the only witness examined in proof of the offence, the sum ordered as amends shall be paid and applied in the same manner as a penalty.

Divisional justices may award compensation for hurt or damage not exceeding £10.

26. It shall be lawful for any constable belonging to the Dublin police, and for all persons whom he shall call to his assistance, to take into custody without a warrant any persons who within view of any such constable shall offend in any manner against this Act, and whose name and residence shall be unknown to such constable, and cannot be ascertained by such constable.

Constables may apprehend person offending within their view whose name and residence are not known.

27. It shall be lawful for any constable belonging to the Dublin police to take into custody without a warrant all loose, idle, and disorderly persons whom he shall find disturbing the public peace, or whom he shall have good cause to suspect of having committed or being about to commit any felony, misdemeanour, or breach of the peace, and all persons whom he shall find between sunset and the hour of eight in the morning lying or loitering in any highway, yard, or other place, and not giving a satisfactory account of themselves.

Constables may apprehend without warrant disorderly persons, &c.

28. It shall be lawful for any constable belonging to the said Dublin police to take into custody without warrant any person who within the limits of the police district shall be charged by any other person with committing any aggravated assault, in every case in which such constable shall have good reason to believe that such assault has been committed, although not within view of such constable, and that by reason of the recent commission of the offence a warrant could not have been obtained for the apprehension of the offender.

Persons charged with recent assaults may be apprehended without warrant.

29. Any person found committing any offence punishable either upon indictment, or as a misdemeanour upon summary conviction, by virtue of this Act, may be taken into custody without a warrant by any constable belonging to the Dublin police, or may be apprehended by the owner of the property on or with respect to which the offence was committed, or by his servant or any person authorised by him, and may be detained until he can be delivered into the custody of a constable, to be dealt with according to law; and every such constable may also stop, search, and detain any vessel, boat, cart, or carriage in or upon which there shall be reason to suspect that anything stolen or unlawfully obtained may be found, and also any person who may be reasonably suspected of having or conveying in any manner any thing stolen or unlawfully obtained; and any person to whom any property shall be offered to be sold, pawned, or delivered, if he shall have reasonable cause to suspect that any such offence has been committed with respect to such property, or that the same or any part thereof has been stolen or otherwise unlawfully obtained, is hereby authorised, and, if in his power, is required to apprehend and detain, and as soon as may be to deliver such offender into the custody of a constable belonging to the Dublin police, together with such property, to be dealt with according to law.

Power to police constables and persons aggrieved to apprehend certain offenders, &c.

30. It shall be lawful for any constable belonging to the police force to stop and detain, until due inquiry can be made, all carts and carriages which he shall find employed in removing the furniture of any house or lodging between the hours of eight in the evening and six in the following morning, or whenever the constable shall have good grounds for believing that such removal is made for the purpose of evading the payment of rent.

Removing furniture to evade rent.

Horses, carriages, &c., of offenders may be detained.

31. Whenever any person having charge of any horse, cart, carriage, or boat, or any other animal or thing, shall be taken into the custody of any constable under the provisions of this Act, it shall be lawful for such constable to take charge of such horse, cart, carriage, or boat, or such other animal or thing, and to deposit the same in some place of safe custody as a security for payment of any penalty to which the person having had charge thereof may become liable, and for payment of any expenses which may have been necessarily incurred for taking charge of and keeping the same; and it shall be lawful for any divisional justice before whom the case shall have been heard to order such horse, cart, carriage, or boat, or such other animal or thing, to be sold for the purpose of satisfying such penalty and reasonable expenses, in default of payment thereof, in like manner as if the same had been subject to be distrained and had been distrained for the payment of such penalty and reasonable expenses.

Persons apprehended without warrant to be taken to the station house.

32. Every person taken into custody by any constable belonging to the Dublin police without warrant, except persons detained for the mere purpose of ascertaining their name or residence, shall be forthwith delivered into the custody of the constable in charge of the nearest station house, in order that such person may be secured until he can be brought before a divisional justice, to be dealt with according to law, or may give bail for his appearance before a divisional justice, if the constable in charge shall deem it prudent to take bail, in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

Power to take recognisances at station houses on petty charges.

33. Whenever any person charged with any offence of which he is liable to be summarily convicted before a magistrate, or with having carelessly done any hurt or damage, shall be, without the warrant of a magistrate, in the custody of any constable of the said Dublin police in charge of any station house during the time when the police offices shall be shut, it shall be lawful for such constable, if he shall deem it prudent, to take the recognisance of such person, with or without sureties, conditioned as hereinafter mentioned.

Power to bind over person making charges.

34. Whenever any person charged with any felony, or any misdemeanour, punishable by transportation, or other grave misdemeanour, shall be without warrant in the custody of any constable of the said Dublin police at any station house during the time when the police offices shall be shut, it shall be lawful for the constable in charge of the station house to require the persons making such charge to enter into a recognisance conditioned as hereinafter mentioned, and upon his or her refusal so to do it shall be lawful for such constable, if he shall deem it prudent, to discharge from custody the person so charged, upon his or her recognisance, with or without sureties, conditioned as hereinafter mentioned.

Condition of recognisances.

35. Every recognisance so taken shall be without fee or reward, and shall be conditioned for the appearance of the person thereby bound before a justice of the division in which such station house shall be situated, at his next sitting, and the time and place of appearance shall be specified in the recognisance; and the constable shall enter in a book, to be kept for that purpose at every such station house, the name, residence, and occupation of the party, and his surety or sureties (if any), entering into such recognisance, together with the condition thereof, and the sum thereby acknowledged, and shall return every such recognisance to the justice present, at the time and place when and where the party is bound to appear.

Offences for which no penalty is appointed.

36. For every misdemeanour or other offence against this Act for which no special penalty is appointed the offender shall, at the discretion of the justice before whom the conviction shall take place, either be liable to a penalty not more than five pounds, or be imprisoned for any time not more than one calendar month in any gaol or house of correction within the police district.

Not to repeal local Acts containing penalties.

37. Provided always that nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent any person from being indicted for any indictable offence made punishable on summary conviction by this Act, or to relieve any person from being liable under any other Act or Acts to any other or higher penalty or punishment than is provided for such offence by this Act, so (nevertheless) that no person be punished twice for the same offence.

38. Every such justice shall be empowered summarily to convict any person charged with any offence against this Act on the oath of one or more witnesses, or by his own confession, and to award the penalty or punishment herein provided for such offence; and the matter of every such complaint shall be heard and determined by one or more of the divisional justices at one of the divisional offices.

Offences: how to be tried.

39. In every case of the adjudication of a pecuniary penalty or amends under this Act, and non-payment thereof, it shall be lawful for the justice to commit the offender to any gaol or house of correction within his jurisdiction for a term not more than one calendar month where the sum to be paid should not exceed five pounds, the imprisonment to cease on payment of the sum due and the costs for the recovery thereof; and so much of every such pecuniary penalty as shall not be awarded to the informer, or other persons who have contributed to the conviction, shall be paid to the receiver of the Dublin police, for the purposes of this Act.

If penalty not paid, offender may be committed.

40. In all cases in which a constable, or other person holding office in the Dublin police, shall have contributed to the conviction, the whole of the pecuniary penalty shall be paid to the said receiver, for the purpose before mentioned.

Application of penalty when constable contributes to conviction.

46. All persons who may be hereafter appointed to supply vacancies among the divisional justices of the said district shall be barristers, each of whom shall have practised as a barrister during at least six years then last past.

Supply of vacancies among divisional justices.

47. None of the said justices shall be competent to act as a justice of the peace, either alone or with any other justice or justices, in any thing which is to be done at a special or petty sessions of all the justices acting in the division, or by justices in quarter sessions assembled.

Divisional justices not competent to act at sessions.

48. Every distress or levy warrant, or search warrant, or warrant to compel the appearance of any person, or warrant for the apprehension of any person charged with any offence, issued by any of the divisional justices, or by the commissioners of police, or either of them, in respect of any matter arising within the police district, may be served or executed out of the said district by any constable belonging to the Dublin police or constabulary force, or other peace officer to whom the same shall be directed, and shall have the same force and effect as if the same had been originally issued or subsequently endorsed by a justice or justices of the peace having jurisdiction in the place where the same shall be served or executed.

Warrant, &c., may be served out of district by any constable of the force.

49. Upon any information or complaint to be laid or made before any divisional justice of any matter which such justice is authorised to hear and determine summarily, he may summon the party charged, and if such party shall not appear according to the tenor of the summons, any one of the divisional justices, upon proof of the service of the summons, may proceed, in all cases which are not of a criminal nature, if no sufficient cause shall be shown for the non-appearance of the party, to hear and determine the case in the absence of the party, and in all criminal cases shall issue his warrant for apprehending and bringing such party before him or some other divisional justice, in order that the said information or complaint may be heard and determined.

Divisional justices may proceed by summons, and if party summoned does not appear may issue warrant.

50. Every such summons may be served by delivering a copy of the summons to the party, or by delivering at his usual place of abode a copy of the summons to the wife or servant or some inmate of the family of the party, such servant or inmate being of the age of sixteen years or upwards, and explaining the purport thereof to such wife, servant, or inmate.

How summons may be served.

51. Every such justice may, without issuing any summons, forthwith issue his warrant for the apprehension of any person charged with any offence cognisable before him, whenever good grounds for so doing shall be stated on oath before him.

Warrant for apprehension may be issued without summons, &c.

52. Any such justice may summon any witness to appear and give Justices may enforce attendance of witnesses.

evidence before him upon the matter of any offence cognisable before such justice with which any person shall be charged before him, at a time and place appointed for hearing the information or complaint, and by warrant under his hand and seal may require any person to be brought before him who shall neglect or refuse to appear to give evidence at the time and place appointed in such summons, proof upon oath being first given of personal service of the summons upon the person against whom such warrant shall be granted, and such justice may commit any person coming or brought before him who shall refuse to give evidence to any gaol or house of correction within the police district, there to remain without bail or mainprize for any time not exceeding fourteen days, or until such person shall sooner submit himself to be examined, and in case of such submission the order of any such justice shall be a sufficient warrant for the discharge of such person.

Persons convicted of having or conveying stolen goods liable to penalty or imprisonment.

53. Every person who shall be brought before any of the divisional justices charged with having in his possession, or on his premises with his knowledge, or conveying in any manner any thing which may be reasonably suspected of being stolen or unlawfully obtained, and who shall not give an account to the satisfaction of such justice how he came by the same, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour, and on conviction thereof before such justice or justices shall be liable to a penalty not more than five pounds, or, in the discretion of the justice, may be imprisoned in any gaol or house of correction within the police district, with or without hard labour, for any time not exceeding two calendar months.

On suspicion of goods being stolen or unlawfully obtained, divisional justices may grant search warrants.

54. If information shall be given on oath to any of the divisional justices that there is reasonable cause for suspecting that any thing stolen or unlawfully obtained is concealed or lodged in any dwelling house or any other place, it shall be lawful for such justice, by special warrant under his hand, directed to any constable, to cause every such dwelling house or other place to be entered and searched at any time of the day or by night, if power for that purpose be given by such warrant; and the said justice, if it shall appear to him necessary, may empower such constable, with such assistance as may be found necessary, such constable having previously made known such his authority, to use force for the effecting of such entry, whether by breaking open doors or otherwise, and if upon search thereupon made any such thing shall be found, then to convey the same before a justice, or to guard the same on the spot, until the offenders are taken before a justice, or otherwise dispose thereof in some place of safety, and moreover to take into custody and carry before the said justice every person found in such house or place who shall appear to have been privy to the deposit of any such thing, knowing or having reasonable cause to suspect the same to have been stolen or otherwise unlawfully obtained.

Party by whom stolen goods are received to be examined by the justices.

55. When any person shall be brought before any divisional justice charged with having or conveying any thing stolen or unlawfully obtained, and shall declare that he received the same from some other person, or that he was employed as a carrier, agent, or servant to convey the same for some other person, such justice is hereby authorised and required to cause every such person, and also, if necessary, every former or pretended purchaser, or other person through whose possession the same shall have passed, to be brought before him and examined, and to examine witnesses upon oath touching the same; and if it shall appear to such justice that any person shall have had possession of such thing, and had reasonable cause to believe the same to have been stolen or unlawfully obtained, every such person shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanour, and to have had possession of such thing at the time and place when and where the same shall have been found or seized, and the possession of a carrier, agent, or servant shall be deemed to be the possession of the person who shall have employed such other person to convey the same, and shall be liable to a penalty of not less than five pounds, or, in the discretion of the justice, may be imprisoned in any gaol or house of correction within the police district, with or without hard labour, for any time not exceeding three calendar months.

56. If any goods shall be stolen or unlawfully obtained from any

